Genesis

1 In the beginning, Alahayam created the entirety of the Shamayam (Heavens) and the entirety of the Aratz (Earth). ² And it came to pass that the Aratz (earth) became formless and void. And darkness was on the surface of the depths. And the Rawach (spirit / wind) of Alahayam was hovering over the surface of the Mayam (waters). ³ Alahayam said, "light, be." and light became. ⁴ Alahayam saw the light—that it was tawab (proper functioning). And Alahayam divided the light from the darkness. ⁵ And Alahayam called the light "Yawam" (Day), and the darkness He called "Layalah" (Night). Evening came and morning came — day achad (one). ⁶ And said Alahayam, "Raquyai (firmament), exist in the midst of the waters, and cause separation between the waters to the waters." ⁷ Alahayam made the expanse, and divided the waters which were under the expanse from the waters which were above the expanse, and it was so. ⁸ Alahayam called the firmament "Shamayam". Evening came and morning came — second day. ⁹ Alahayam said, "Let the waters under the sky be gathered together to one place, and let the dry land appear," and it was so. ¹⁰ Alahayam called the dry land Earth, and the gathering together of the waters he called Seas. Alahayam saw that it was good. ¹¹ Alahayam said, "Let the earth put forth grass, herbs yielding seed, and fruit trees bearing fruit after their kind, with its seed in it, on the earth," and it was so. ¹² The earth brought forth grass, herbs yielding seed after their kind, and trees bearing fruit, with its seed in it, after their kind: and Alahayam saw that it was good. ¹³ There was evening and there was morning, a third day. ¹⁴ Alahayam said, "Let there be lights in the expanse of sky to divide the day from the night; and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days and years; ¹⁵ and let them be for lights in the expanse of sky to give light on the earth," and it was so. ¹⁶ Alahayam made the two great lights: the greater light to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night. He also made the stars. ¹⁷ Alahayam set them in the expanse of sky to give light to the earth, ¹⁸ and to rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness. Alahayam saw that it was good. ¹⁹ There was evening and there was morning, a fourth day. ²⁰ Alahayam said, "Let the waters swarm with swarms of living creatures, and let birds fly above the earth in the open expanse of sky." ²¹ Alahayam created the large sea creatures, and every living creature that moves, with which the waters swarmed, after their kind, and every winged bird after its kind. Alahayam saw that it was good. ²² Alahayam blessed them, saying, "Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let birds multiply on the earth." ²³ There was evening and there was morning, a fifth day. ²⁴ Alahayam said, "Let the earth bring forth living creatures after their kind, cattle, creeping things, and animals of the earth after their kind," and it was so. ²⁵ Alahayam made the animals of the earth after their kind, and the cattle after their kind, and everything that creeps on the ground after its kind. Alahayam saw that it was good. ²⁶ Alahayam said, "Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the birds of the sky, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creeps on the earth." ²⁷ Alahayam created man in his own image. In Alahayam's image he created him; male and female he created them. ²⁸ Alahayam blessed them. Alahayam said to them, "Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it. Have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the birds of the sky, and over every living thing that moves on the earth." ²⁹ Alahayam said, "Behold, I have given you every herb yielding seed, which is on the surface of all the earth, and every tree, which bears fruit yielding seed. It will be your food. ³⁰ To every animal of the earth, and to every bird of the sky, and to everything that creeps on the earth, in which there is life, I have given every green herb for food." And it was so. ³¹ Alahayam saw everything that he had made, and, behold, it was very good. There was evening and there was morning, the sixth day.

2 The heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them. ² On the seventh day Alahayam finished his work which he had made; and he rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made. ³ Alahayam blessed the seventh day, and made it holy, because he rested in it from all his work which he had created and made. ⁴ This is the history of the generations of the heavens and of the earth when they were created, in the day that Yahawah Alahayam made earth and the heavens. ⁵ No plant of the field was yet in the earth, and no herb of the field had yet sprung up; for Yahawah Alahayam had not caused it to rain on the earth. There was not a man to till the ground, ⁶ but a mist went up from the earth, and watered the whole surface of the ground. ⁷ Yahawah Alahayam formed man from the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul. ⁸ Yahawah Alahayam planted a garden eastward, in Idan, and there he put the man whom he had formed. ⁹ Out of the ground Yahawah Alahayam made every tree to grow that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food; the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. ¹⁰ A river went out of Idan to water the garden; and from there it was parted, and became four heads. ¹¹ The name of the first is Payashawan: this is the one which flows through the whole land of Chawayalah, where there is gold; ¹² and the gold of that land is good. There is aromatic resin and the onyx stone. ¹³ The name of the second river is Gachawan: the same river that flows through the whole land of Kawash. ¹⁴ The name of the third river is Chadaqal: this is the one which flows in front of Ashawar. The fourth river is the Parath. ¹⁵ Yahawah Alahayam took the man, and put him into the garden of Idan to dress it and to keep it. ¹⁶ Yahawah Alahayam commanded the man, saying, "Of every tree of the garden you may freely eat: ¹⁷ but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, you shall not eat of it: for in the day that you eat of it you will surely die." ¹⁸ Yahawah Alahayam said, "It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him a helper suitable for him." ¹⁹ Out of the ground Yahawah Alahayam formed every animal of the field, and every bird of the sky, and brought them to the man to see what he would call them. Whatever the man called every living creature, that was its name. ²⁰ The man gave names to all cattle, and to the birds of the sky, and to every animal of the field; but for man there was not found a helper suitable for him. ²¹ Yahawah Alahayam caused a deep sleep to fall on the man, and he slept; and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh in its place. ²² He made the rib, which Yahawah Alahayam had taken from the man, into a woman, and brought her to the man. ²³ The man said, "This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh. She will be called Woman, because she was taken out of Man." ²⁴ Therefore a man will leave his father and his mother, and will join with his wife, and they will be one flesh. ²⁵ They were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed.

3 Now the serpent was more subtle than any animal of the field which Yahawah Alahayam had made. He said to the woman, "Yes, has Alahayam said, 'You shall not eat of any tree of the garden?'" ² The woman said to the serpent, "Of the fruit of the trees of the garden we may eat, ³ but of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, Alahayam has said, 'You shall not eat of it, neither shall you touch it, lest you die.'" ⁴ The serpent said to the woman, "You won't surely die, ⁵ for Alahayam knows that in the day you eat it, your eyes will be opened, and you will be as Alahayam, knowing good and evil." ⁶ When the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was a delight to the eyes, and that the tree was to be desired to make one wise, she took of the fruit of it, and ate; and she gave some to her husband with her, and he ate.⁷ Both of their eyes were opened, and they knew that they were naked. They sewed fig leaves together, and made themselves aprons.⁸ They heard the voice of Yahawah Alahayam walking in the garden in the cool of the day, and the man and his wife hid themselves from the presence of Yahawah Alahayam among the trees of the garden.⁹ Yahawah Alahayam called to the man, and said to him, "Where are you?"¹⁰ The man said, "I heard your voice in the garden, and I was afraid, because I was naked; and I hid myself."¹¹ Alahayam said, "Who told you that you were naked? Have you eaten from the tree that I commanded you not to eat from?"¹² The man said, "The woman whom you gave to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I ate."¹³ Yahawah Alahayam said to the woman, "What is this you have done?" The woman said, "The serpent deceived me, and I ate."¹⁴ Yahawah Alahayam said to the serpent, "Because you have done this, cursed are you above all cattle, and above every animal of the field. On your belly shall you go, and you shall eat dust all the days of your life."¹⁵ I will put enmity between you and the woman, and between your offspring and her offspring. He will bruise your head, and you will bruise his heel."¹⁶ To the woman he said, "I will greatly multiply your pain in childbirth. In pain you will bring forth children. Your desire will be for your husband, and he will rule over you."¹⁷ To Adam he said, "Because you have listened to your wife's voice, and have eaten of the tree, of which I commanded you, saying, 'You shall not eat of it,' cursed is the ground for your sake. In toil you will eat of it all the days of your life.¹⁸ Thorns also and thistles will it bring forth to you; and you will eat the herb of the field.¹⁹ By the sweat of your face will you eat bread until you return to the ground, for out of it you were taken. For you are dust, and to dust you shall return."²⁰ And the man called his wife's name "Chawah" — surely, she was the mother of all the living (humanity).²¹ Yahawah Alahayam made coats of skins for Adam and for his wife, and clothed them.²² Yahawah Alahayam said, "Behold, the man has become like one of us, knowing good and evil. Now, lest he put forth his hand, and also take of the tree of life, and eat, and live forever..."²³ Therefore Yahawah Alahayam sent him forth from the garden of Idan, to till the ground from whence he was taken.²⁴ So he drove out the man; and he placed Cherubs at the east of the garden of Idan, and the flame of a sword which turned every way, to guard the way to the tree of life.

4 The man knew Chawah his wife. She conceived, and gave birth to Qayan, and said, "I have gotten a man with Yahawah's help."² Again she gave birth, to Qayan's brother Habal. Habal was a keeper of sheep, but Qayan was a tiller of the ground.³ As time passed, it happened that Qayan brought an offering to Yahawah from the fruit of the ground.⁴ Habal also brought some of the firstborn of his flock and of the fat of it. Yahawah respected Habal and his offering,⁵ but he didn't respect Qayan and his offering. Qayan was very angry, and the expression on his face fell.⁶ Yahawah said to Qayan, "Why are you angry? Why has the expression of your face fallen?"⁷ If you do well, will it not be lifted up? If you don't do well, sin crouches at the door. Its desire is for you, but you are to rule over it."⁸ Qayan said to Habal, his brother, "Let's go into the field." It happened, when they were in the field, that Qayan rose up against Habal, his brother, and killed him.⁹ Yahawah said to Qayan, "Where is Habal, your brother?" He said, "I don't know. Am I my brother's keeper?"¹⁰ Yahawah said, "What have you done? The voice of your brother's blood cries to me from the ground."¹¹ Now you are cursed because of the ground, which has opened its mouth to receive your brother's blood from your hand.¹² From now on, when you till the ground, it won't yield its strength to you. You shall be a fugitive and a wanderer in the earth."¹³ Qayan said to Yahawah, "My punishment is greater than I can bear."¹⁴ Behold, you have driven me out this day from the surface of the ground. I will be hidden from your face, and I will be a fugitive and a wanderer in the earth. It will happen that whoever finds me will kill me."¹⁵ Yahawah said to him, "Therefore whoever slays Qayan, vengeance will be taken on him sevenfold." Yahawah appointed a sign for Qayan, lest any finding him should strike him.¹⁶ Qayan went out from Yahawah's presence, and dwelt in the land of Nawad, on the east of Idan.¹⁷ Qayan knew his wife. She conceived, and gave birth to Chanawak. He built a city, and called the name of the city, after the name of his son, Chanawak.¹⁸ To Chanawak was born Iyarad. Iyarad became the father of Machawayaal. Machawayaal became the father of Mathawashaal. Mathawashaal became the father of Lamak.¹⁹ Lamak took two wives: the name of the one was Idah, and the name of the other Tzalah.²⁰ Idah gave birth to Yabal, who was the father of those who dwell in tents and have cattle.²¹ His brother's name was Yawabal, who was the father of all who handle the harp and pipe.²² Tzalah also gave birth to Qayan, the forger of every cutting instrument of brass and iron. Qayan's sister was Naimah.²³ Lamak said to his wives, "Idah and Tzalah, Hear my voice, You wives of Lamak, listen to my speech, For I have slain a man for wounding me, A young man for bruising me."²⁴ If Qayan will be avenged seven times, Truly Lamak seventy-seven times.²⁵ Adam knew his wife again. She gave birth to a son, and named him Shath. For, she said, "Alahayam has appointed me another child instead of Habal, for Qayan killed him."²⁶ There was also born a son to Shath, and he named him Anawash. Then men began to call on Yahawah's name.

5 This is the book of the generations of Adam. In the day that Alahayam created man, he made him in Alahayam's likeness.² He created them male and female, and blessed them, and called their name Adam, in the day when they were created.³ Adam lived one hundred thirty years, and became the father of a son in his own likeness, after his image, and named him Shath.⁴ The days of Adam after he became the father of Shath were eight hundred years, and he became the father of sons and daughters.⁵ All the days that Adam lived were nine hundred thirty years, then he died.⁶ Shath lived one hundred five years, and became the father of Anawash.⁷ Shath lived after he became the father of Anawash eight hundred seven years, and became the father of sons and daughters.⁸ All the days of Shath were nine hundred twelve years, then he died.⁹ Anawash lived ninety years, and became the father of Qayan.¹⁰ Anawash lived after he became the father of Qayan, eight hundred fifteen years, and became the father of sons and daughters.¹¹ All the days of Anawash were nine hundred five years, then he died.¹² Qayan lived seventy years, and became the father of Mahalalaal.¹³ Qayan lived after he became the father of Mahalalaal eight hundred forty years, and became the father of sons and daughters.¹⁴ and all the days of Qayan were nine hundred ten years, then he died.¹⁵ Mahalalaal lived sixty-five years, and became the father of Yarad.¹⁶ Mahalalaal lived after he became the father of Yarad eight hundred thirty years, and became the father of sons and daughters.¹⁷ All the days of Mahalalaal were eight hundred ninety-five years, then he died.¹⁸ Yarad lived one hundred sixty-two years, and became the father of Chanawak.¹⁹ Yarad lived after he became the father of Chanawak eight hundred years, and became the father of sons and daughters.²⁰ All the days of Yarad were nine hundred sixty-two years, then he died.²¹ Chanawak lived sixty-five years, and became the father of Mathawashalach.²² Chanawak walked with Alahayam after he became the father of Mathawashalach three hundred years, and became the father of sons and daughters.²³ all the days of Chanawak were three hundred sixty-five years.²⁴ Chanawak walked with Alahayam, and he was not, for Alahayam took him.²⁵ Mathawashalach lived one hundred eighty-seven years, and became the father of Lamak.²⁶ Mathawashalach lived after he became the father of Lamak seven hundred eighty-two years, and became the father of sons and daughters.²⁷ All the days of Mathawashalach were nine hundred sixty-nine years, then he died.²⁸ Lamak lived one hundred eighty-two years, and became the father of a son,²⁹ and he named him Nach, saying, "This same will comfort us in our work and in the toil of our hands, because of the ground which Yahawah has cursed."³⁰ Lamak lived after he became the father of Nach five hundred ninety-five years, and became the father of sons and daughters.³¹ All the days of Lamak were seven hundred seventy-seven years, then he died.³² Nach was five hundred years old, and Nach became the father of Sham, Cham, and Yapath.

6 It happened, when men began to multiply on the surface of the ground, and daughters were born to them,² that Alahayam's sons saw that men's daughters were beautiful, and they took for themselves wives of all that they chose.³ Yahawah said, "My spirit will not strive with man forever, because he also is flesh; yet will his days be one hundred twenty years."⁴ The Nephilim were in the earth in those days, and also after that, when Alahayam's sons came to men's daughters. They bore children to them: the same were the mighty men who were of old, men of renown.⁵ Yahawah saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually.⁶ Yahawah was sorry that he had made man on the earth, and it grieved him in his heart.⁷ Yahawah said, "I will destroy man whom I have created from the surface of the ground; man, along with animals, creeping things, and birds of the sky; for I am sorry that I have made them."⁸ But Nach found favor in Yahawah's eyes.⁹ This is the history of the generations of Nach. Nach was a righteous man, blameless among the people of his time. Nach walked with Alahayam.¹⁰ Nach became the father of three sons: Sham, Cham, and Yapath.¹¹ The earth was corrupt before Alahayam, and the earth was filled with violence.¹² Alahayam saw the earth, and saw that it was corrupt, for all flesh had corrupted their way on the earth.¹³ Alahayam said to Nach, "The end of all flesh has come before me, for the earth is filled with violence through them. Behold, I will destroy them with the earth."¹⁴ Make an ark of gopher wood. You shall make rooms in the ark, and shall seal it inside and outside with pitch.¹⁵ This is how you shall make it. The length of the ark will be three hundred cubits, the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits.¹⁶ You shall make a roof in the ark, and to a cubit shall you finish it upward. You shall set the door of the ark in the side of it. You shall make it with lower, second, and third levels.¹⁷ I, even, I do bring the flood of waters on this earth, to destroy all flesh having the breath of life from under the sky. Everything that is in the earth will die.¹⁸ But I will establish my covenant with you. You shall come into the ark, you, your sons, your wife, and your sons' wives with you.¹⁹ Of every living thing of all flesh, you shall bring two of every sort into the ark, to keep them alive with you. They shall be male and female.²⁰ Of the birds after their kind, of the cattle after their kind, of every creeping thing of the ground after its kind, two of every sort shall come to you, to keep them alive.²¹ Take with you of all food that is eaten, and gather it to you; and it will be for food for you, and for them.²² Thus Nach did. According to all that Alahayam commanded him, so he did.

7 Yahawah said to Nach, "Come with all of your household into the ark, for I have seen your righteousness before me in this generation.² You shall take seven pairs of every clean animal with you, the male and his female. Of the animals that are not clean, take two, the male and his female.³ Also of the birds of the sky, seven and seven, male and female, to keep seed alive on the surface of all the earth."⁴ In seven days, I will cause it to rain on the earth for forty days and forty nights. Every living thing that I have made, I will destroy from the surface of the ground."⁵ Nach did everything that Yahawah commanded him.⁶ Nach was six hundred years old when the flood of waters came on the earth.⁷ Nach went into the ark with his sons, his wife, and his sons' wives, because of the waters of the flood.⁸ Clean animals, animals that are not clean, birds, and everything that creeps on the ground⁹ went by pairs to Nach into the ark, male and female, as Alahayam commanded Nach.¹⁰ It happened after the seven days, that the waters of the flood came on the earth.¹¹ In the six hundredth year of Nach's life, in the second month, on the seventeenth day of the month, on the same day all the fountains of the great deep were burst open, and the sky's windows were opened.¹² The rain was on the earth forty days and forty nights.¹³ In the same day Nach, and Sham, Cham, and Yapath, the sons of Nach, and Nach's wife, and the three wives of his sons with them, entered into the ark;¹⁴ they, and every animal after its kind, all the cattle after their kind, every creeping thing that creeps on the earth after its kind, and every bird after its kind, every bird of every sort.¹⁵ They went to Nach into the ark, by pairs of all flesh with the breath of life in them.¹⁶ Those who went in, went in male and female of all flesh, as Alahayam commanded him; and Yahawah shut him in.¹⁷ The flood was forty days on the earth. The waters increased, and lifted up the ark, and it was lifted up above the earth.¹⁸ The waters prevailed, and increased greatly on the earth; and the ark floated on the surface of the waters.¹⁹ The waters prevailed exceedingly on the earth. All the high mountains that were under the whole sky were covered.²⁰ The waters prevailed fifteen cubits upward, and the mountains were covered.²¹ All flesh died that moved on the earth, including birds, cattle, animals, every creeping thing that creeps on the earth, and every man.²² All in whose nostrils was the breath of the spirit of life, of all that was on the dry land, died.²³ Every living thing was destroyed that was on the surface of the ground, including man, cattle, creeping things, and birds of the sky. They were destroyed from the earth. Only Nach was left, and those who were with him in the ark.²⁴ The waters prevailed on the earth one hundred fifty days.

8 Alahayam remembered Nach, all the animals, and all the cattle that were with him in the ark; and Alahayam made a wind to pass over the earth. The waters subsided.² The deep's fountains and the sky's windows were also stopped, and the rain from the sky was restrained.³ The waters receded from off the earth continually. After the end of one hundred fifty days the waters decreased.⁴ The ark rested in the seventh month, on the seventeenth day of the month, on Ararat's mountains.⁵ The waters receded continually until the tenth month. In the tenth month, on the first day of the month, the tops of the mountains were seen.⁶ It happened at the end of forty days, that Nach opened the window of the ark which he had made,⁷ and he sent forth a raven. It went back and forth, until the waters were dried up from off the earth.⁸ He sent forth a dove from him, to see if the waters were abated from off the surface of the ground,⁹ but the dove found no place to rest her foot, and she returned to him into the ark; for the waters were on the surface of the whole earth. He put forth his hand, and took her, and brought her to him into the ark.¹⁰ He stayed yet another seven days; and again he sent forth the dove out of the ark.¹¹ The dove came back to him at evening, and, behold, in her mouth was an olive leaf plucked off. So Nach knew that the waters were abated from off the earth.¹² He stayed yet another seven days, and sent forth the dove; and she didn't return to him any more.¹³ It happened in the six hundred first year, in the first month, the first day of the month, the waters were dried up from off the earth. Nach removed the covering of the ark, and looked. He saw that the surface of the ground was dried.¹⁴ In the second month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month, the earth was dry.¹⁵ Alahayam spoke to Nach, saying,¹⁶ "Go forth from the ark, you, and your wife, and your sons, and your sons' wives with you.¹⁷ Bring forth with you every living thing that is with you of all flesh, including birds, cattle, and every creeping thing that creeps on the earth; that they may breed abundantly in the earth, and be fruitful, and multiply on the earth."¹⁸ Nach went forth, with his sons, his wife, and his sons' wives with him.¹⁹ Every animal, every creeping thing, and every bird, whatever moves on the earth, after their families, went forth out of the ark.²⁰ Nach built an altar to Yahawah, and took of every clean animal, and of every clean bird, and offered burnt offerings on the altar.²¹ Yahawah smelled the sweet savor. Yahawah said in his heart, "I will not again curse the ground any more for man's sake, because the imagination of man's heart is evil from his youth; neither will I ever again strike everything living, as I have done.²² While the earth remains, seed time and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease."

9 Alahayam blessed Nach and his sons, and said to them, "Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth.² The fear of you and the dread of you will be on every animal of the earth, and on every

bird of the sky. Everything that the ground teems with, and all the fish of the sea are delivered into your hand.³ Every moving thing that lives will be food for you. As the green herb, I have given everything to you.⁴ But flesh with the life of it, the blood of it, you shall not eat.⁵ I will surely require your blood of your lives. At the hand of every animal I will require it. At the hand of man, even at the hand of every man's brother, I will require the life of man.⁶ Whoever sheds man's blood, by man will his blood be shed, for in the image of Alahayam made he man.⁷ Be fruitful, and multiply. Bring forth abundantly in the earth, and multiply in it."⁸ Alahayam spoke to Nach, and to his sons with him, saying,⁹ "As for me, behold, I establish my covenant with you, and with your offspring after you,¹⁰ and with every living creature that is with you: the birds, the cattle, and every animal of the earth with you. Of all that go out of the ark, even every animal of the earth."¹¹ I will establish my covenant with you; neither will all flesh be cut off any more by the waters of the flood; neither will there any more be a flood to destroy the earth."¹² Alahayam said, "This is the token of the covenant which I make between me and you and every living creature that is with you, for perpetual generations:¹³ I set my rainbow in the cloud, and it will be for a sign of a covenant between me and the earth.¹⁴ It will happen, when I bring a cloud over the earth, that the rainbow will be seen in the cloud,¹⁵ and I will remember my covenant, which is between me and you and every living creature of all flesh, and the waters will no more become a flood to destroy all flesh.¹⁶ The rainbow will be in the cloud. I will look at it, that I may remember the everlasting covenant between Alahayam and every living creature of all flesh that is on the earth."¹⁷ Alahayam said to Nach, "This is the token of the covenant which I have established between me and all flesh that is on the earth."¹⁸ The sons of Nach who went forth from the ark were Sham, Cham, and Yapath. Cham is the father of Kanain.¹⁹ These three were the sons of Nach, and from these, the whole earth was populated.²⁰ Nach began to be a farmer, and planted a vineyard.²¹ He drank of the wine, and got drunk. He was uncovered within his tent.²² Cham, the father of Kanain, saw the nakedness of his father, and told his two brothers outside.²³ Sham and Yapath took a garment, and laid it on both their shoulders, went in backwards, and covered the nakedness of their father. Their faces were backwards, and they didn't see their father's nakedness.²⁴ Nach awoke from his wine, and knew what his youngest son had done to him.²⁵ He said, "Cursed be Kanain; A servant of servants will he be to his brothers."²⁶ And he said, "Blessed be Yahawah, the Alahay (Mighty One) of Sham; It will come to pass that Kanain will be for your servant.²⁷ Alahayam enlarge Yapath, Let him dwell in the tents of Sham; Let Kanain be his servant."²⁸ Nach lived three hundred fifty years after the flood.²⁹ All the days of Nach were nine hundred fifty years, then he died.

10 Now this is the history of the generations of the sons of Nach and of Sham, Cham, and Yapath. Sons were born to them after the flood.² The sons of Yapath: Gamar, Magawag, Maday, Yawan, Thabal, Mashak, and Thayaras.³ The sons of Gamar: Ashakanaz, Dayapath, and Thawagaramah.⁴ The sons of Yawan: Alayashah, Tharashayash, Kathayam, and Dadanayam.⁵ Of these were the isles of the nations divided in their lands, everyone after his language, after their families, in their nations.⁶ The sons of Cham: Kawash, Matzarayam, Pawat, and Kanain.⁷ The sons of Kawash: Sabaa, Chawayalah, Sabathaa, Raimah, and Sabteca. The sons of Raimah: Shabaa and Dadan.⁸ Kawash became the father of Namarad: he began to be a mighty one in the earth.⁹ He was a mighty hunter before Yahawah. Therefore it is said, "Like Namarad, a mighty hunter before Yahawah."¹⁰ The beginning of his kingdom was Babal, Arak, Akad, and Kalanah, in the land of Shanair.¹¹ Out of that land he went forth into Ashawar, and built Nayanawah, Rachabawath-Ir, Kalach,¹² and Rasan between Nayanawah and Kalach (the same is the great city).¹³ Matzarayam became the father of Lawadayayam, Inamayam, Lahabayam, Naphtuhim,¹⁴ Patharasayam, Kasalachayam (which the Palashath descended from), and Caphtorim.¹⁵ Kanain became the father of Tzayadawan

(his firstborn), Chath,¹⁶ the Jebusite, the Amorite, the Girgashite,¹⁷ the Hivite, the Arkite, the Sinite,¹⁸ the Arvadite, the Zemarite, and the Hamathite. Afterward the families of the Canaanites were spread abroad.¹⁹ The border of the Canaanites was from Tzayadawan, as you go toward Garar, to Izah; as you go toward Sadam, Imarah, Adamah, and Tzabayayam, to Lashai.²⁰ These are the sons of Cham, after their families, after their languages, in their lands, in their nations.²¹ To Sham, the father of all the children of Ibar, the elder brother of Yapath, to him also were children born.²² The sons of Sham: Iyalam, Ashawar, Arpachshad, Lawad, and Aram.²³ The sons of Aram: Uz, Chawal, Gathar, and Mash.²⁴ Arpachshad became the father of Shalach. Shalach became the father of Ibar.²⁵ To Ibar were born two sons. The name of the one was Yaqatan.²⁶ Yaqatan became the father of Alamawadad, Shalap, Chatzaramawath, Yarach,²⁷ Hadawaram, Awazal, Daqalah,²⁸ Iwabal, Abayamaal, Shabaa,²⁹ Awapayar, Chawayalah, and Yawabab. All these were the sons of Yaqatan.³⁰ Their dwelling was from Mayashaa, as you go toward Sapar, the mountain of the east.³¹ These are the sons of Sham, after their families, after their languages, in their lands, after their nations.³² These are the families of the sons of Nach, after their generations, in their nations. Of these were the nations divided in the earth after the flood.

11 The whole earth was of one language and of one speech.² It happened, as they journeyed east, that they found a plain in the land of Shanair; and they lived there.³ They said one to another, "Come, let's make brick, and burn them thoroughly." They had brick for stone, and they used tar for mortar.⁴ They said, "Come, let's build us a city, and a tower, whose top reaches to the sky, and let's make us a name; lest we be scattered abroad on the surface of the whole earth."⁵ Yahawah came down to see the city and the tower, which the children of men built.⁶ Yahawah said, "Behold, they are one people, and they have all one language; and this is what they begin to do. Now nothing will be withheld from them, which they intend to do.⁷ Come, let's go down, and there confuse their language, that they may not understand one another's speech."⁸ So Yahawah scattered them abroad from there on the surface of all the earth. They stopped building the city.⁹ Therefore the name of it was called Babal, because Yahawah confused the language of all the earth, there. From there, Yahawah scattered them abroad on the surface of all the earth.¹⁰ This is the history of the generations of Sham. Sham was one hundred years old, and became the father of Arpachshad two years after the flood.¹¹ Sham lived after he became the father of Arpachshad five hundred years, and became the father of sons and daughters.¹² Arpachshad lived thirty-five years, and became the father of Shalach.¹³ Arpachshad lived after he became the father of Shalach four hundred three years, and became the father of sons and daughters.¹⁴ Shalach lived thirty years, and became the father of Ibar:¹⁵ and Shalach lived after he became the father of Ibar four hundred three years, and became the father of sons and daughters.¹⁶ Ibar lived thirty-four years, and became the father of Palag.¹⁷ Ibar lived after he became the father of Palag four hundred thirty years, and became the father of sons and daughters.¹⁸ Palag lived thirty years, and became the father of Raiw.¹⁹ Palag lived after he became the father of Raiw two hundred nine years, and became the father of sons and daughters.²⁰ Raiw lived thirty-two years, and became the father of Sharawag.²¹ Raiw lived after he became the father of Sharawag two hundred seven years, and became the father of sons and daughters.²² Sharawag lived thirty years, and became the father of Nachawar.²³ Sharawag lived after he became the father of Nachawar two hundred years, and became the father of sons and daughters.²⁴ Nachawar lived twenty-nine years, and became the father of Tharach.²⁵ Nachawar lived after he became the father of Tharach one hundred nineteen years, and became the father of sons and daughters.²⁶ Tharach lived seventy years, and became the father of Abaram, Nachawar, and Charan.²⁷ Now this is the history of the generations of Tharach. Tharach became the father of Abaram, Nachawar, and Charan. Charan became the father of Lawat.²⁸ Charan died before his father

Tharach in the land of his birth, in Ur of the Kashadayam.²⁹ Abaram and Nachawar took wives. The name of Abaram's wife was Sharay, and the name of Nachawar's wife, Malakah, the daughter of Charan who was also the father of Yasakah.³⁰ Sharay was barren. She had no child.³¹ Tharach took Abaram his son, Lawat the son of Charan, his son's son, and Sharay his daughter-in-law, his son Abaram's wife. They went forth from Ur of the Kashadayam, to go into the land of Kanain. They came to Charan, and lived there.³² The days of Tharach were two hundred five years. Tharach died in Charan.

12 Now Yahawah said to Abaram, "Get out of your country, and from your relatives, and from your father's house, to the land that I will show you.² I will make of you a great nation. I will bless you, and make your name great. You will be a blessing.³ I will bless those who bless you, and I will curse him who curses you. In you will all of the families of the earth be blessed."⁴ So Abaram went, as Yahawah had spoken to him. Lawat went with him. Abaram was seventy-five years old when he departed out of Charan.⁵ Abaram took Sharay his wife, Lawat his brother's son, all their substance that they had gathered, and the souls who they had gotten in Charan; and they went forth to go into the land of Kanain. Into the land of Kanain they came.⁶ Abaram passed through the land to the place of Shakam, to the oak of Mawarah. The Canaanite was then in the land.⁷ Yahawah appeared to Abaram, and said, "To your descendants I will give this land." He built an altar there to Yahawah, who appeared to him.⁸ He left from there to the mountain on the east of Bethel, and pitched his tent, having Bethel on the west, and Ai on the east. There he built an altar to Yahawah, and called on the name of Yahawah.⁹ Abaram journeyed, going on still toward the South.¹⁰ There was a famine in the land. Abaram went down into Matzarayam to sojourn there, for the famine was sore in the land.¹¹ It happened, when he was come near to enter into Matzarayam, that he said to Sharay his wife, "See now, I know that you are a beautiful woman to look on.¹² It will happen, when the Matzarayam will see you, that they will say, 'This is his wife.' They will kill me, but they will save you alive.¹³ Please say that you are my sister, that it may be well with me for your sake, and that my soul may live because of you."¹⁴ It happened that when Abaram had come into Matzarayam, the Matzarayam saw that the woman was very beautiful.¹⁵ The princes of Paraih saw her, and praised her to Paraih; and the woman was taken into Paraih's house.¹⁶ He dealt well with Abaram for her sake. He had sheep, and oxen, and he-asses, and men-servants, and maid-servants, and she-asses, and camels.¹⁷ Yahawah plagued Paraih and his house with great plagues because of Sharay, Abaram's wife.¹⁸ Paraih called Abaram, and said, "What is this that you have done to me? Why didn't you tell me that she was your wife?"¹⁹ Why did you say, 'She is my sister,' so that I took her to be my wife? Now therefore, see your wife, take her, and go your way."²⁰ Paraih gave men charge concerning him: and they brought him on the way, and his wife, and all that he had.

13 Abaram went up out of Matzarayam: he, his wife, all that he had, and Lawat with him, into the South.² Abaram was very rich in cattle, in silver, and in gold.³ He went on his journeys from the South even to Bethel, to the place where his tent had been at the beginning, between Bethel and Ai,⁴ to the place of the altar, which he had made there at the first. There Abaram called on the name of Yahawah.⁵ Lawat also, who went with Abaram, had flocks, and herds, and tents.⁶ The land was not able to bear them, that they might live together: for their substance was great, so that they could not live together.⁷ There was a strife between the herdsmen of Abaram's cattle and the herdsmen of Lawat's cattle: and the Canaanite and the Perizzite lived then in the land.⁸ Abaram said to Lawat, "Please, let there be no strife between me and you, and between my herdsmen and your herdsmen; for we are relatives.⁹ Isn't the whole land before you? Please separate yourself from me. If you go to the left hand, then I will go to the right. Or if you go to the right hand, then I will go to the left."¹⁰ Lawat lifted up his eyes, and saw all the plain of the Yaradan, that it was well watered every where, before Yahawah destroyed Sadam and Imarah, like the garden of Yahawah, like the land of Matzarayam, as you go to Tzair.¹¹ So Lawat chose the Plain of the Yaradan for himself. Lawat journeyed east, and they separated themselves the one from the other.¹² Abaram lived in the land of Kanain, and Lawat lived in the cities of the plain, and moved his tent as far as Sadam.¹³ Now the men of Sadam were exceedingly wicked and sinners against Yahawah.¹⁴ Yahawah said to Abaram, after Lawat was separated from him, "Now, lift up your eyes, and look from the place where you are, northward and southward and eastward and westward,¹⁵ for all the land which you see, I will give to you, and to your offspring forever.¹⁶ I will make your offspring as the dust of the earth, so that if a man can number the dust of the earth, then your seed may also be numbered.¹⁷ Arise, walk through the land in the length of it and in the breadth of it; for I will give it to you."¹⁸ Abaram moved his tent, and came and lived by the oaks of Mamaraa, which are in Chabarawan, and built an altar there to Yahawah.

14 It happened in the days of Amarapal, king of Shanair, Arayawak, king of Alasar, Kadaralaimar, king of Iyalam, and Thadail, king of Goiim,² that they made war with Barai, king of Sadam, and with Barashai, king of Imarah, Shanaab, king of Adamah, and Shamaabar, king of Tzabayayam, and the king of Balai (the same is Tzair).³ All these joined together in the vale of Shadayam (the same is the Salt Sea).⁴ Twelve years they served Kadaralaimar, and in the thirteenth year, they rebelled.⁵ In the fourteenth year Kadaralaimar came, and the kings who were with him, and struck the Rephaim in Ishatharath-karnaim, and the Zuzim in Cham, and the Amayam in Shawah-Qarayathayam,⁶ and the Horites in their Mount Shaiyar, to Elparan, which is by the wilderness.⁷ They returned, and came to Mashapat (the same is Qadash), and struck all the country of the Amalekites, and also the Amorites, that lived in Hazazon-Thamar.⁸ There went out the king of Sadam, and the king of Imarah, and the king of Adamah, and the king of Tzabayayam, and the king of Balai (the same is Tzair); and they set the battle in array against them in the vale of Shadayam;⁹ against Kadaralaimar king of Iyalam, and Thadail king of Goiim, and Amarapal king of Shanair, and Arayawak king of Alasar; four kings against the five.¹⁰ Now the vale of Shadayam was full of tar pits; and the kings of Sadam and Imarah fled, and they fell there, and those who remained fled to the mountain.¹¹ They took all the goods of Sadam and Imarah, and all their victuals, and went their way.¹² They took Lawat, Abaram's brother's son, who lived in Sadam, and his goods, and departed.¹³ One who had escaped came and told Abaram, the Hebrew: now he lived by the oaks of Mamaraa, the Amorite, brother of Ashakal, and brother of Inar; and these were confederate with Abaram.¹⁴ When Abaram heard that his relative was taken captive, he led forth his trained men, born in his house, three hundred and eighteen, and pursued as far as Wadan.¹⁵ He divided himself against them by night, he and his servants, and struck them, and pursued them to Chawabah, which is on the left hand of Damashaq.¹⁶ He brought back all the goods, and also brought back his relative, Lawat, and his goods, and the women also, and the people.¹⁷ The king of Sadam went out to meet him, after his return from the slaughter of Kadaralaimar and the kings who were with him, at the vale of Shawah (the same is the King's Vale).¹⁸ Malakay king of Shalam brought forth bread and wine: and he was priest of Alahayam Ilayawan.¹⁹ He blessed him, and said, "Blessed be Abaram of Alahayam Ilayawan, possessor of heaven and earth:²⁰ and blessed be Alahayam Ilayawan, who has delivered your enemies into your hand." Abaram gave him a tenth of all.²¹ The king of Sadam said to Abaram, "Give me the people, and take the goods to yourself."²² Abaram said to the king of Sadam, "I have lifted up my hand to Yahawah, Alahayam Ilayawan, possessor of heaven and earth,²³ that I will not take a thread nor a shoe-latchet nor anything that is yours, lest you should say, 'I have made Abaram rich.'²⁴ Except only that which the young men have eaten, and the portion of the men who went with me, Inar, Ashakal, and Mamaraa: let them take their portion."

15 After these things the word of Yahawah came to Abaram in a vision, saying, "Don't be afraid, Abaram. I am your shield, your exceedingly great reward." ² Abaram said, "Adanay Yahawah, what will you give me, seeing I go childless, and he who will inherit my estate is Alayaizar of Damashaq?" ³ Abaram said, "Behold, to me you have given no seed: and, behold, one born in my house is my heir." ⁴ Behold, the word of Yahawah came to him, saying, "This man will not be your heir, but he who will come forth out of your own body will be your heir." ⁵ Yahawah brought him outside, and said, "Look now toward the sky, and count the stars, if you be able to count them." He said to Abaram, "So shall your seed be." ⁶ He believed in Yahawah; and he reckoned it to him for righteousness. ⁷ He said to him, "I am Yahawah who brought you out of Ur of the Kashadayam, to give you this land to inherit it." ⁸ He said, "Adanay Yahawah, whereby will I know that I will inherit it?" ⁹ He said to him, "Take me a heifer three years old, a female goat three years old, a ram three years old, a turtle-dove, and a young pigeon." ¹⁰ He took him all these, and divided them in the midst, and laid each half opposite the other; but he didn't divide the birds. ¹¹ The birds of prey came down on the carcasses, and Abaram drove them away.

¹² When the sun was going down, a deep sleep fell on Abaram. Now terror and great darkness fell on him. ¹³ He said to Abaram, "Know for sure that your seed will be sojourners in a land that is not theirs, and will serve them. They will afflict them four hundred years. ¹⁴ I will also judge that nation, whom they will serve. Afterward they will come out with great substance. ¹⁵ But you will go to your fathers in peace. You will be buried in a good old age.

¹⁶ In the fourth generation they will come here again, for the iniquity of the Amorite is not yet full." ¹⁷ It came to pass that, when the sun went down, and it was dark, behold, a smoking furnace, and a flaming torch passed between these pieces. ¹⁸ In that day Yahawah made a covenant with Abaram, saying, "To your seed have I given this land, from the river of Matzarayam to the great river, the river Parath: ¹⁹ the Kenites, the Kenizzites, the Kadmonites, ²⁰ the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Rephaim, ²¹ the Amorites, the Canaanites, the Girgashites, and the Jebusites."

16 Now Sharay, Abaram's wife, bore him no children. She had a handmaid, an Matzarayam, whose name was Hagar. ² Sharay said to Abaram, "See now, Yahawah has restrained me from bearing. Please go in to my handmaid. It may be that I will obtain children by her." Abaram listened to the voice of Sharay. ³ Sharay, Abaram's wife, took Hagar the Matzarayam, her handmaid, after Abaram had lived ten years in the land of Kanain, and gave her to Abaram her husband to be his wife. ⁴ He went in to Hagar, and she conceived. When she saw that she had conceived, her mistress was despised in her eyes. ⁵ Sharay said to Abaram, "This wrong is your fault. I gave my handmaid into your bosom, and when she saw that she had conceived, I was despised in her eyes. Yahawah judge between me and you." ⁶ But Abaram said to Sharay, "Behold, your maid is in your hand. Do to her whatever is good in your eyes." Sharay dealt harshly with her, and she fled from her face. ⁷ The angel of Yahawah found her by a fountain of water in the wilderness, by the fountain in the way to Shawar. ⁸ He said, "Hagar, Sharay's handmaid, where did you come from? Where are you going?" She said, "I am fleeing from the face of my mistress Sharay." ⁹ The angel of Yahawah said to her, "Return to your mistress, and submit yourself under her hands." ¹⁰ The angel of Yahawah said to her, "I will greatly multiply your seed, that they will not be numbered for multitude." ¹¹ The angel of Yahawah said to her, "Behold, you are with child, and will bear a son. You shall call his name Yashamaial, because Yahawah has heard your affliction. ¹² He will be like a wild donkey among men. His hand will be against every man, and every man's hand against him. He will live opposite all of his brothers." ¹³ She called the name of Yahawah who spoke to her, "You are a Alahayam who sees," for she said, "Have I even stayed alive after seeing him?" ¹⁴ Therefore the well was called Baar. Behold, it is between Qadash and Barad. ¹⁵ Hagar bore a son for Abaram. Abaram called the name of his son, whom Hagar bore, Yashamaial.

¹⁶ Abaram was eighty-six years old, when Hagar bore Yashamaial to Abaram.

17 When Abaram was ninety-nine years old, Yahawah appeared to Abaram, and said to him, "I am Al Shaday. Walk before me, and be blameless. ² I will make my covenant between me and you, and will multiply you exceedingly." ³ Abaram fell on his face. Alahayam talked with him, saying, ⁴ "As for me, behold, my covenant is with you. You will be the father of a multitude of nations. ⁵ Neither will your name any more be called Abaram, but your name will be Abaraham; for the father of a multitude of nations have I made you. ⁶ I will make you exceeding fruitful, and I will make nations of you. Kings will come out of you. ⁷ I will establish my covenant between me and you and your seed after you throughout their generations for an everlasting covenant, to be a Alahayam to you and to your seed after you. ⁸ I will give to you, and to your seed after you, the land where you are traveling, all the land of Kanain, for an everlasting possession. I will be their Alahayam." ⁹ Alahayam said to Abaraham, "As for you, you will keep my covenant, you and your seed after you throughout their generations. ¹⁰ This is my covenant, which you shall keep, between me and you and your seed after you. Every male among you shall be circumcised. ¹¹ You shall be circumcised in the flesh of your foreskin. It will be a token of a covenant between me and you. ¹² He who is eight days old will be circumcised among you, every male throughout your generations, he who is born in the house, or bought with money of any foreigner who is not of your seed. ¹³ He who is born in your house, and he who is bought with your money, must be circumcised. My covenant will be in your flesh for an everlasting covenant. ¹⁴ The uncircumcised male who is not circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin, that soul shall be cut off from his people. He has broken my covenant." ¹⁵ Alahayam said to Abaraham, "As for Sharay your wife, you shall not call her name Sharay, but her name will be Sharah. ¹⁶ I will bless her, and moreover I will give you a son by her. Yes, I will bless her, and she will be a mother of nations. Kings of peoples will come from her." ¹⁷ Then Abaraham fell on his face, and laughed, and said in his heart, "Will a child be born to him who is one hundred years old? Will Sharah, who is ninety years old, give birth?" ¹⁸ Abaraham said to Alahayam, "Oh that Yashamaial might live before you!" ¹⁹ Alahayam said, "No, but Sharah, your wife, will bear you a son. You shall call his name Yatzachaq. I will establish my covenant with him for an everlasting covenant for his seed after him. ²⁰ As for Yashamaial, I have heard you. Behold, I have blessed him, and will make him fruitful, and will multiply him exceedingly. He will become the father of twelve princes, and I will make him a great nation. ²¹ But my covenant I establish with Yatzachaq, whom Sharah will bear to you at this set time in the next year." ²² When he finished talking with him, Alahayam went up from Abaraham. ²³ Abaraham took Yashamaial his son, all who were born in his house, and all who were bought with his money; every male among the men of Abaraham's house, and circumcised the flesh of their foreskin in the same day, as Alahayam had said to him. ²⁴ Abaraham was ninety-nine years old, when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin. ²⁵ Yashamaial, his son, was thirteen years old when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin. ²⁶ In the same day both Abaraham and Yashamaial, his son, were circumcised. ²⁷ All the men of his house, those born in the house, and those bought with money of a foreigner, were circumcised with him.

18 Yahawah appeared to him by the oaks of Mamaraa, as he sat in the tent door in the heat of the day. ² He lifted up his eyes and looked, and saw that three men stood opposite him. When he saw them, he ran to meet them from the tent door, and bowed himself to the earth, ³ and said, "My lord, if now I have found favor in your sight, please don't go away from your servant. ⁴ Now let a little water be fetched, wash your feet, and rest yourselves under the tree. ⁵ I will get a morsel of bread so you can refresh your heart. After that you may go your way, now that you have come to your servant." They said, "Very well, do as you have said." ⁶ Abaraham hurried into the tent to Sharah, and said, "Quickly make ready three measures of fine meal, knead it, and make cakes." ⁷ Abaraham ran to the herd, and fetched a tender and good calf, and gave it to the servant. He hurried to dress it.⁸ He took butter, milk, and the calf which he had dressed, and set it before them. He stood by them under the tree, and they ate.⁹ They said to him, "Where is Sarah, your wife? He said, "See, in the tent."¹⁰ He said, "I will certainly return to you when the season comes round. Behold, Sarah your wife will have a son." Sarah heard in the tent door, which was behind him.¹¹ Now Abaraham and Sarah were old, well advanced in age. It had ceased to be with Sarah after the manner of women.¹² Sarah laughed within herself, saying, "After I have grown old will I have pleasure, my lord being old also?"¹³ Yahawah said to Abaraham, "Why did Sarah laugh, saying, 'Will I really bear a child, yet I am old?'¹⁴ Is anything too hard for Yahawah? At the set time I will return to you, when the season comes round, and Sarah will have a son."¹⁵ Then Sarah denied, saying, "I didn't laugh," for she was afraid." He said, "No, but you did laugh."¹⁶ The men rose up from there, and looked toward Sadam. Abaraham went with them to see them on their way.¹⁷ Yahawah said, "Will I hide from Abaraham what I do,¹⁸ seeing that Abaraham has surely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth will be blessed in him?¹⁹ For I have known him, to the end that he may command his children and his household after him, that they may keep the way of Yahawah, to do righteousness and justice; to the end that Yahawah may bring on Abaraham that which he has spoken of him."²⁰ Yahawah said, "Because the cry of Sadam and Imarah is great, and because their sin is very grievous,²¹ I will go down now, and see whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it, which is come to me. If not, I will know."²² The men turned from there, and went toward Sadam, but Abaraham stood yet before Yahawah.²³ Abaraham drew near, and said, "Will you consume the righteous with the wicked?²⁴ What if there are fifty righteous within the city? Will you consume and not spare the place for the fifty righteous who are therein?²⁵ Be it far from you to do things like that, to kill the righteous with the wicked, that so the righteous should be as the wicked. May that be far from you. Shouldn't the Judge of all the earth do right?"²⁶ Yahawah said, "If I find in Sadam fifty righteous within the city, then I will spare all the place for their sake."²⁷ Abaraham answered, "See now, I have taken it on myself to speak to the Adanay, who am but dust and ashes.²⁸ What if there will lack five of the fifty righteous? Will you destroy all the city for lack of five?" He said, "I will not destroy it, if I find forty-five there."²⁹ He spoke to him yet again, and said, "What if there are forty found there?" He said, "I will not do it for the forty's sake."³⁰ He said, "Oh don't let the Adanay be angry, and I will speak. What if there are thirty found there?" He said, "I will not do it, if I find thirty there."³¹ He said, "See now, I have taken it on myself to speak to the Adanay. What if there are twenty found there?" He said, "I will not destroy it for the twenty's sake."³² He said, "Oh don't let the Adanay be angry, and I will speak yet but this once. What if ten are found there?" He said, "I will not destroy it for the ten's sake."³³ Yahawah went his way, as soon as he had finished communing with Abaraham, and Abaraham returned to his place.

19 The two angels came to Sadam at evening. Lawat sat in the gate of Sadam. Lawat saw them, and rose up to meet them. He bowed himself with his face to the earth,² and he said, "See now, my lords, please turn aside into your servant's house, stay all night, wash your feet, and you will rise up early, and go on your way." They said, "No, but we will stay in the street all night."³ He urged them greatly, and they came in with him, and entered into his house. He made them a feast, and baked unleavened bread, and they ate.⁴ But before they lay down, the men of the city, the men of Sadam, surrounded the house, both young and old, all the people from every quarter.⁵ They called to Lawat, and said to him, "Where are the men who came in to you this night? Bring them out to us, that we may have sex with them."⁶ Lawat went out to them to the door, and shut the door after him.⁷ He said, "Please, my brothers, don't act so wickedly.⁸ See now, I have two virgin daughters. Please let me bring them out to you, and do you to them as is good in your eyes. Only don't do anything to these men, because they have come under the shadow of my roof."⁹ They said, "Stand back!" They said, "This one fellow came in to sojourn, and he appoints himself a judge. Now will we deal worse with you, than with them!" They pressed hard on the man, even Lawat, and drew near to break the door.¹⁰ But the men put forth their hand, and brought Lawat into the house to them, and shut to the door.¹¹ They struck the men who were at the door of the house with blindness, both small and great, so that they wearied themselves to find the door.¹² The men said to Lawat, "Do you have you anybody else here? Son-in-law, your sons, your daughters, and whoever you have in the city, bring them out of the place:¹³ for we will destroy this place, because the cry of them is grown great before Yahawah. Yahawah has sent us to destroy it."¹⁴ Lawat went out, and spoke to his sons-in-law, who married his daughters, and said, "Get up! Get out of this place, for Yahawah will destroy the city." But he seemed to his sons-in-law to be joking.¹⁵ When the morning arose, then the angels hurried Lawat, saying, "Arise, take your wife, and your two daughters who are here, lest you be consumed in the iniquity of the city."¹⁶ But he lingered; and the men laid hold on his hand, and on the hand of his wife, and on the hand of his two daughters, Yahawah being merciful to him; and they took him out, and set him outside of the city.¹⁷ It came to pass, when they had taken them out, that he said, "Escape for your life! Don't look behind you, neither stay anywhere in the plain. Escape to the mountain, lest you be consumed!"¹⁸ Lawat said to them, "Oh, not so, my lord.¹⁹ See now, your servant has found favor in your sight, and you have magnified your lovingkindness, which you have showed to me in saving my life. I can't escape to the mountain, lest evil overtake me, and I die.²⁰ See now, this city is near to flee to, and it is a little one. Oh let me escape there (isn't it a little one?), and my soul will live."²¹ He said to him, "Behold, I have accepted you concerning this thing also, that I will not overthrow the city of which you have spoken.²² Hurry, escape there, for I can't do anything until you get there." Therefore the name of the city was called Tzair.²³ The sun was risen on the earth when Lawat came to Tzair.²⁴ Then Yahawah rained on Sadam and on Imarah sulfur and fire from Yahawah out of the sky.²⁵ He overthrew those cities, all the plain, all the inhabitants of the cities, and that which grew on the ground.²⁶ But his wife looked back from behind him, and she became a pillar of salt.²⁷ Abaraham got up early in the morning to the place where he had stood before Yahawah.²⁸ He looked toward Sadam and Imarah, and toward all the land of the plain, and looked, and saw that the smoke of the land went up as the smoke of a furnace.²⁹ It happened, when Alahayam destroyed the cities of the plain, that Alahayam remembered Abaraham, and sent Lawat out of the midst of the overthrow, when he overthrew the cities in which Lawat lived.³⁰ Lawat went up out of Tzair, and lived in the mountain, and his two daughters with him; for he was afraid to live in Tzair. He lived in a cave with his two daughters.³¹ The firstborn said to the younger, "Our father is old, and there is not a man in the earth to come in to us after the manner of all the earth."³² Come, let's make our father drink wine, and we will lie with him, that we may preserve our father's seed."³³ They made their father drink wine that night: and the firstborn went in, and lay with her father. He didn't know when she lay down, nor when she arose.³⁴ It came to pass on the next day, that the firstborn said to the younger, "Behold, I lay last night with my father. Let us make him drink wine again, tonight. You go in, and lie with him, that we may preserve our father's seed."³⁵ They made their father drink wine that night also. The younger arose, and lay with him. He didn't know when she lay down, nor when she arose.³⁶ Thus both of Lawat's daughters were with child by their father.³⁷ The firstborn bore a son, and named him Mawaab. The same is the father of the Moabites to this day.³⁸ The younger also bore a son, and called his name Ban. The same is the father of the children of Imawan to this day.

20 Abaraham journeyed from there toward the land of the South, and lived between Qadash and Shawar. He sojourned in Garar.² Abaraham said about Sarah his wife, "She is my sister."

Abayamalak king of Garar sent, and took Sharah.³ But Alahayam came to Abayamalak in a dream of the night, and said to him, "Behold, you are a dead man, because of the woman whom you have taken. For she is a man's wife."⁴ Now Abayamalak had not come near her. He said, "Adanay, will you kill even a righteous nation?"⁵ Didn't he tell me, 'She is my sister?' She, even she herself said, 'He is my brother.' In the integrity of my heart and the innocence of my hands have I done this."⁶ Alahayam said to him in the dream, "Yes, I know that in the integrity of your heart you have done this, and I also withheld you from sinning against me. Therefore I didn't allow you to touch her."⁷ Now therefore, restore the man's wife. For he is a prophet, and he will pray for you, and you will live. If you don't restore her, know for sure that you will die, you, and all who are yours."⁸ Abayamalak rose early in the morning, and called all his servants, and told all these things in their ear. The men were very scared.⁹ Then Abayamalak called Abaraham, and said to him, "What have you done to us? How have I sinned against you, that you have brought on me and on my kingdom a great sin? You have done deeds to me that ought not to be done!"¹⁰ Abayamalak said to Abaraham, "What did you see, that you have done this thing?"¹¹ Abaraham said, "Because I thought, 'Surely the fear of Alahayam is not in this place. They will kill me for my wife's sake.'¹² Moreover she is indeed my sister, the daughter of my father, but not the daughter of my mother; and she became my wife."¹³ It happened, when Alahayam caused me to wander from my father's house, that I said to her, 'This is your kindness which you shall show to me. Everywhere that we go, say of me, "He is my brother."¹⁴ Abayamalak took sheep and oxen, men-servants and women-servants, and gave them to Abaraham, and restored Sharah, his wife to him.¹⁵ Abayamalak said, "Behold, my land is before you. Dwell where it pleases you."¹⁶ To Sharah he said, "Behold, I have given your brother a thousand pieces of silver. Behold, it is for you a covering of the eyes to all that are with you. In front of all you are vindicated."¹⁷ Abaraham prayed to Alahayam. Alahayam healed Abayamalak, and his wife, and his maid-servants, and they bore children.¹⁸ For Yahawah had closed up tight all the wombs of the house of Abayamalak, because of Sharah, Abaraham's wife.

21 Yahawah visited Sharah as he had said, and Yahawah did to Sharah as he had spoken.² Sharah conceived, and bore Abaraham a son in his old age, at the set time of which Alahayam had spoken to him.³ Abaraham called his son who was born to him, whom Sharah bore to him, Yatzachaq.⁴ Abaraham circumcised his son, Yatzachaq, when he was eight days old, as Alahayam had commanded him.⁵ Abaraham was one hundred years old when his son, Yatzachaq, was born to him.⁶ Sharah said, "Alahayam has made me laugh. Everyone who hears will laugh with me."⁷ She said, "Who would have said to Abaraham, that Sharah would nurse children? For I have borne him a son in his old age."⁸ The child grew, and was weaned. Abaraham made a great feast on the day that Yatzachaq was weaned.⁹ Sharah saw the son of Hagar the Matzarayam, whom she had borne to Abaraham, mocking.¹⁰ Therefore she said to Abaraham, "Cast out this handmaid and her son! For the son of this handmaid will not be heir with my son, even with Yatzachaq."¹¹ The thing was very grievous in Abaraham's sight on account of his son.¹² Alahayam said to Abaraham, "Don't let it be grievous in your sight because of the boy, and because of your handmaid. In all that Sharah says to you, listen to her voice. For from Yatzachaq will your seed be called."¹³ Also of the son of the handmaid will I make a nation, because he is your seed."¹⁴ Abaraham rose up early in the morning, and took bread and a bottle of water, and gave it to Hagar, putting it on her shoulder, and gave her the child, and sent her away. She departed, and wandered in the wilderness of Beersheba.¹⁵ The water in the bottle was spent, and she cast the child under one of the shrubs.¹⁶ She went and sat down opposite him, a good way off, about a bow shot away. For she said, "Don't let me see the death of the child." She sat over against him, and lifted up her voice, and wept.¹⁷ Alahayam heard the voice of the boy. The angel of Alahayam called to Hagar out of the sky, and said to her, "What ails you, Hagar? Don't be afraid. For Alahayam has heard the voice of the boy where he is."¹⁸ Get up, lift up the boy, and hold him in your hand. For I will make him a great nation."¹⁹ Alahayam opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water. She went, filled the bottle with water, and gave the boy drink.²⁰ Alahayam was with the boy, and he grew. He lived in the wilderness, and became, as he grew up, an archer.²¹ He lived in the wilderness of Paaran. His mother took a wife for him out of the land of Matzarayam.²² It happened at that time, that Abayamalak and Phicol the captain of his host spoke to Abaraham, saying, "Alahayam is with you in all that you do."²³ Now therefore swear to me here by Alahayam that you will not deal falsely with me, nor with my son, nor with my son's son. But according to the kindness that I have done to you, you shall do to me, and to the land in which you have sojourned."²⁴ Abaraham said, "I will swear."²⁵ Abaraham complained to Abayamalak because of a water well, which Abayamalak's servants had violently taken away.²⁶ Abayamalak said, I don't know who has done this thing. Neither did you tell me, neither did I hear of it, until today."²⁷ Abaraham took sheep and oxen, and gave them to Abayamalak. Those two made a covenant.²⁸ Abaraham set seven ewe lambs of the flock by themselves.²⁹ Abayamalak said to Abaraham, "What do these seven ewe lambs which you have set by themselves mean?"³⁰ He said, "You shall take these seven ewe lambs from my hand, that it may be a witness to me, that I have dug this well."³¹ Therefore he called that place Beersheba, because they both swore there.³² So they made a covenant at Beersheba. Abayamalak rose up with Phicol, the captain of his host, and they returned into the land of the Palashath.³³ Abaraham planted a tamarisk tree in Beersheba, and called there on the name of Yahawah, the Everlasting Alahayam.³⁴ Abaraham sojourned in the land of the Palashath many days.

22 It happened after these things, that Alahayam tested Abaraham, and said to him, "Abaraham!" He said, "Here I am."² He said, "Now take your son, your only son, whom you love, even Yatzachaq, and go into the land of Mawarayah. Offer him there for a burnt offering on one of the mountains which I will tell you of."³ Abaraham rose early in the morning, and saddled his donkey, and took two of his young men with him, and Yatzachaq his son. He split the wood for the burnt offering, and rose up, and went to the place of which Alahayam had told him.⁴ On the third day Abaraham lifted up his eyes, and saw the place far off.⁵ Abaraham said to his young men, "Stay here with the donkey. The boy and I will go yonder. We will worship, and come back to you."⁶ Abaraham took the wood of the burnt offering and laid it on Yatzachaq his son. He took in his hand the fire and the knife. They both went together.⁷ Yatzachaq spoke to Abaraham his father, and said, "My father?" He said, "Here I am, my son." He said, "Here is the fire and the wood, but where is the lamb for a burnt offering?"⁸ Abaraham said, "Alahayam will provide himself the lamb for a burnt offering, my son." So they both went together.⁹ They came to the place which Alahayam had told him of. Abaraham built the altar there, and laid the wood in order, bound Yatzachaq his son, and laid him on the altar, on the wood.¹⁰ Abaraham stretched forth his hand, and took the knife to kill his son.¹¹ The angel of Yahawah called to him out of the sky, and said, "Abaraham, Abaraham!" He said, "Here I am."¹² He said, "Don't lay your hand on the boy, neither do anything to him. For now I know that you fear Alahayam, seeing you have not withheld your son, your only son, from me."¹³ Abaraham lifted up his eyes, and looked, and saw that behind him was a ram caught in the thicket by his horns. Abaraham went and took the ram, and offered him up for a burnt offering instead of his son.¹⁴ Abaraham called the name of that place Yahawah-jireh. As it is said to this day, "In Yahawah's mountain it will be provided."¹⁵ The angel of Yahawah called to Abaraham a second time out of the sky,¹⁶ and said, "I have sworn by myself, says Yahawah, because you have done this thing, and have not withheld your son, your only son,¹⁷ that in blessing I will bless you, and in multiplying I will multiply your seed as the stars of the heavens, and as the sand which is on the seashore. Your seed will possess the gate of his enemies.¹⁸ In your seed will all the nations of the earth be blessed, because you have obeyed my voice."¹⁹ So Abaraham returned to his young men, and they rose up and went together to Beersheba. Abaraham lived at Beersheba.²⁰ It happened after these things, that it was told Abaraham, saying, "Behold, Malakah, she also has borne children to your brother Nachawar:²¹ Uz his firstborn, Bawaz his brother, Qamawaal the father of Aram,²² Kashad, Chazaw, Paladash, Yadalap, and Bathawaal."²³ Bathawaal became the father of Rabaqah. These eight Malakah bore to Nachawar, Abaraham's brother.²⁴ His concubine, whose name was Raawamah, also bare Tabach, Gacham, Tahash, and Maacah.

23 Sharah lived one hundred twenty-seven years. These were the years of Sharah's life.² Sharah died in Kiriath-Arabai (the same is Chabarawan), in the land of Kanain. Abaraham came to mourn for Sharah, and to weep for her.³ Abaraham rose up from before his dead, and spoke to the children of Chath, saying,⁴ "I am a stranger and a sojourner with you. Give me a possession of a burying-place with you, that I may bury my dead out of my sight."⁵ The children of Chath answered Abaraham, saying to him,⁶ "Hear us, my lord. You are a prince of Alahayam among us. In the choice of our tombs bury your dead. None of us will withhold from you his tomb, but that you may bury your dead."⁷ Abaraham rose up, and bowed himself to the people of the land, even to the children of Chath.⁸ He talked with them, saying, "If it be your mind that I should bury my dead out of my sight, hear me, and entreat for me to Iparawan the son of Tzachar,⁹ that he may give me the cave of Makapalah, which he has, which is in the end of his field. For the full price let him give it to me in the midst of you for a possession of a burying-place."¹⁰ Now Iparawan was sitting in the midst of the children of Chath. Iparawan the Hittite answered Abaraham in the hearing of the children of Chath, even of all who went in at the gate of his city, saying,¹¹ "No, my lord, hear me. I give you the field, and I give you the cave that is in it. In the presence of the children of my people I give it to you. Bury your dead."¹² Abaraham bowed himself down before the people of the land.¹³ He spoke to Iparawan in the audience of the people of the land, saying, "But if you will, please hear me. I will give the price of the field. Take it from me, and I will bury my dead there."¹⁴ Iparawan answered Abaraham, saying to him,¹⁵ "My lord, listen to me. What is a piece of land worth four hundred shekels of silver between me and you? Therefore bury your dead."¹⁶ Abaraham listened to Iparawan. Abaraham weighed to Iparawan the silver which he had named in the audience of the children of Chath, four hundred shekels of silver, according to the current merchants' standard.¹⁷ So the field of Iparawan, which was in Makapalah, which was before Mamaraa, the field, the cave which was therein, and all the trees that were in the field, that were in all the border of it round about, were made sure¹⁸ to Abaraham for a possession in the presence of the children of Chath, before all who went in at the gate of his city.¹⁹ After this, Abaraham buried Sharah his wife in the cave of the field of Makapalah before Mamaraa (the same is Chabarawan), in the land of Kanain.²⁰ The field, and the cave that is therein, were made sure to Abaraham for a possession of a burying place by the children of Chath.

24 Abaraham was old, and well stricken in age. Yahawah had blessed Abaraham in all things.² Abaraham said to his servant, the elder of his house, who ruled over all that he had, "Please put your hand under my thigh.³ I will make you swear by Yahawah, the Alahayam of heaven and the Alahayam of the earth, that you shall not take a wife for my son of the daughters of the Canaanites, among whom I live.⁴ But you shall go to my country, and to my relatives, and take a wife for my son Yatzachaq."⁵ The servant said to him, "What if the woman isn't willing to follow me to this land? Must I bring your son again to the land you came from?"⁶ Abaraham said to him, "Beware that you don't bring my son there again.⁷ Yahawah, the Alahayam of heaven, who took me from my father's house, and from the land of my birth, who spoke to me, and who swore to me, saying, 'To your descendants I will give this land.' He will send his angel before you, and you shall take a wife for my son from there.⁸ If the woman isn't willing to follow you, then you shall be clear from this my oath. Only you shall not bring my son there again."⁹ The servant put his hand under the thigh of Abaraham his master, and swore to him concerning this matter.¹⁰ The servant took ten camels, of his master's camels, and departed, having all goodly things of his master's in his hand. He arose, and went to Aram, to the city of Nachawar.¹¹ He made the camels kneel down outside the city by the well of water at the time of evening, the time that women go out to draw water.¹² He said, "Yahawah, the Alahayam of my master Abaraham, please give me success this day, and show kindness to my master Abaraham."¹³ Behold, I am standing by the spring of water. The daughters of the men of the city are coming out to draw water.¹⁴ Let it happen, that the young lady to whom I will say, 'Please let down your pitcher, that I may drink.' She will say, 'Drink, and I will also give your camels a drink.' Let the same be she who you have appointed for your servant Yatzachaq. Thereby will I know that you have showed kindness to my master."¹⁵ It happened, before he had done speaking, that behold, Rabaqah came out, who was born to Bathawaal the son of Malakah, the wife of Nachawar, Abaraham's brother, with her pitcher on her shoulder.¹⁶ The young lady was very beautiful to look at, a virgin, neither had any man known her. She went down to the spring, filled her pitcher, and came up.¹⁷ The servant ran to meet her, and said, "Please give me a drink, a little water from your pitcher."¹⁸ She said, "Drink, my lord." She hurried, and let down her pitcher on her hand, and gave him drink.¹⁹ When she had done giving him drink, she said, "I will also draw for your camels, until they have done drinking."²⁰ She hurried, and emptied her pitcher into the trough, and ran again to the well to draw, and drew for all his camels.²¹ The man looked steadfastly at her, holding his peace, to know whether Yahawah had made his journey prosperous or not.²² It happened, as the camels had done drinking, that the man took a golden ring of half a shekel weight, and two bracelets for her hands of ten shekels weight of gold,²³ and said, "Whose daughter are you? Please tell me. Is there room in your father's house for us to lodge in?"²⁴ She said to him, "I am the daughter of Bathawaal the son of Malakah, whom she bore to Nachawar."²⁵ She said moreover to him, "We have both straw and provender enough, and room to lodge in."²⁶ The man bowed his head, and worshipped Yahawah.²⁷ He said, "Blessed be Yahawah, the Alahayam of my master Abaraham, who has not forsaken his lovingkindness and his truth toward my master. As for me, Yahawah has led me in the way to the house of my master's relatives."²⁸ The young lady ran, and told her mother's house about these words.²⁹ Rabaqah had a brother, and his name was Laban. Laban ran out to the man, to the spring.³⁰ It happened, when he saw the ring, and the bracelets on his sister's hands, and when he heard the words of Rabaqah his sister, saying, "This is what the man said to me," that he came to the man. Behold, he was standing by the camels at the spring.³¹ He said, "Come in, you blessed of Yahawah. Why do you stand outside? For I have prepared the house, and room for the camels."³² The man came into the house, and he unloaded the camels. He gave straw and provender for the camels, and water to wash his feet and the feet of the men who were with him.³³ Food was set before him to eat. But he said, "I will not eat until I have told my message." He said, "Speak on."³⁴ He said, "I am Abaraham's servant.³⁵ Yahawah has blessed my master greatly. He has become great. He has given him flocks and herds, silver and gold, men-servants and maid-servants, and camels and donkeys.³⁶ Sharah, my master's wife, bore a son to my master when she was old. He has given all that he has to him.³⁷ My master made me swear, saying, 'You shall not take a wife for my son of the daughters of the Canaanites, in whose land I live,³⁸ but you shall go to my father's house, and to my relatives, and take a wife for my son.'³⁹ I said to my master, 'What if the woman will not follow me?'⁴⁰ He said to me, 'Yahawah, before whom I walk, will send his angel with you, and prosper your way. You shall take a wife for my son of my relatives, and of my father's house.⁴¹ Then will you be clear from my oath, when you come to my relatives. If they don't give her to you, you shall be clear from my oath."⁴² I came this day to the spring, and said, 'Yahawah, the Alahayam of my master Abaraham, if now you do prosper my way which I go.⁴³ Behold, I am standing by the spring of water. Let it happen, that the maiden who comes forth to draw, to whom I will say, Give me, I pray you, a little water from your pitcher to drink.⁴⁴ She will tell me, "Drink, and I will also draw for your camels." Let the same be the woman whom Yahawah has appointed for my master's son.'⁴⁵ Before I had done speaking in my heart, behold, Rabaqah came forth with her pitcher on her shoulder. She went down to the spring, and drew. I said to her, 'Please let me drink.'⁴⁶ She hurried and let down her pitcher from her shoulder, and said, 'Drink, and I will also give your camels a drink.' So I drank, and she made the camels drink also.⁴⁷ I asked her, and said, 'Whose daughter are you?' She said, 'The daughter of Bathawaal, Nachawar's son, whom Malakah bare to him.' I put the ring on her nose, and the bracelets on her hands.⁴⁸ I bowed my head, and worshipped Yahawah, and blessed Yahawah, the Alahayam of my master Abaraham, who had led me in the right way to take my master's brother's daughter for his son.⁴⁹ Now if you will deal kindly and truly with my master, tell me, if not, tell me. That I may turn to the right hand, or to the left."⁵⁰ Then Laban and Bathawaal answered, "The thing proceeds from Yahawah. We can't speak to you bad or good."⁵¹ Behold, Rabaqah is before you, take her, and go, and let her be your master's son's wife, as Yahawah has spoken."⁵² It happened that when Abaraham's servant heard their words, he bowed himself down to the earth to Yahawah.⁵³ The servant brought forth jewels of silver, and jewels of gold, and clothing, and gave them to Rabaqah. He gave also to her brother and to her mother precious things.⁵⁴ They ate and drank, he and the men who were with him, and stayed all night. They rose up in the morning, and he said, "Send me away to my master."⁵⁵ Her brother and her mother said, "Let the young lady stay with us a few days, at least ten. After that she will go."⁵⁶ He said to them, "Don't hinder me, seeing Yahawah has prospered my way. Send me away that I may go to my master."⁵⁷ They said, "We will call the young lady, and ask her."⁵⁸ They called Rabaqah, and said to her, "Will you go with this man?" She said, "I will go."⁵⁹ They sent away Rabaqah, their sister, with her nurse, Abaraham's servant, and his men.⁶⁰ They blessed Rabaqah, and said to her, "Our sister, may you be the mother of thousands of ten thousands, and let your seed possess the gate of those who hate them."⁶¹ Rabaqah arose with her ladies. They rode on the camels, and followed the man. The servant took Rabaqah, and went his way.⁶² Yatzachaq came from the way of Baar. For he lived in the land of the South.⁶³ Yatzachaq went out to meditate in the field at the evening. He lifted up his eyes, and saw, and, behold, there were camels coming.⁶⁴ Rabaqah lifted up her eyes, and when she saw Yatzachaq, she dismounted from the camel.⁶⁵ She said to the servant, "Who is the man who is walking in the field to meet us?" The servant said, "It is my master." She took her veil, and covered herself.⁶⁶ The servant told Yatzachaq all the things that he had done.⁶⁷ Yatzachaq brought her into his mother Sarah's tent, and took Rabaqah, and she became his wife. He loved her. Yatzachaq was comforted after his mother's death.

25 Abaraham took another wife, and her name was Qatawarah.² She bore him Zamaran, Yaqashan, Madan, Madayan, Yashabaq, and Shawach.³ Yaqashan became the father of Shabaa, and Dadan. The sons of Dadan were Ashawaram, Latawashayam, and Laamayam.⁴ The sons of Madayan: Iyapah, Ipar, Hanoah, Abayadai, and Aladaih. All these were the children of Qatawarah.⁵ Abaraham gave all that he had to Yatzachaq,⁶ but to the sons of the concubines who Abaraham had, Abaraham gave gifts. He sent them away from Yatzachaq his son, while he yet lived, eastward, to the east country.⁷ These are the days of the years of Abaraham's life which he lived: one hundred seventy-five years.⁸ Abaraham gave up the spirit, and died in a good old age, an old man, and full, and was gathered to his people.⁹ Yatzachaq and Yashamaial, his sons, buried him in the cave of Makapalah, in the field of Iparawan, the son of Tzachar the Hittite, which is before Mamaraa,¹⁰ the field which Abaraham purchased of the children of Chath. There was Abaraham buried, with Sarah his wife.¹¹ It happened after the death of Abaraham, that Alahayam blessed Yatzachaq, his son. Yatzachaq lived by Baar.¹² Now this is the history of the generations of Yashamaial, Abaraham's son, whom Hagar the Matzarayam, Sarah's handmaid, bore to Abaraham.¹³ These are the names of the sons of Yashamaial, by their names, according to the order of their birth: the firstborn of Yashamaial, Nabayawath, then Qadar, Adabaal, Mabasham,¹⁴ Mashamai, Dawamah, Mashaa,¹⁵ Hadad, Thayamaa, Yatawar, Napayash, and Qadamah.¹⁶ These are the sons of Yashamaial, and these are their names, by their villages, and by their encampments: twelve princes, according to their nations.¹⁷ These are the years of the life of Yashamaial: one hundred thirty-seven years. He gave up the spirit and died, and was gathered to his people.¹⁸ They lived from Chawayalah to Shawar that is before Matzarayam, as you go toward Ashawar. He lived opposite all his relatives.¹⁹ This is the history of the generations of Yatzachaq, Abaraham's son. Abaraham became the father of Yatzachaq.²⁰ Yatzachaq was forty years old when he took Rabaqah, the daughter of Bathawaal the Syrian of Padan-Aram, the sister of Laban the Syrian, to be his wife.²¹ Yatzachaq entreated Yahawah for his wife, because she was barren. Yahawah was entreated by him, and Rabaqah his wife conceived.²² The children struggled together within her. She said, "If it be so, why do I live?" She went to inquire of Yahawah.²³ Yahawah said to her, Two nations are in your womb, Two peoples will be separated from your body. The one people will be stronger than the other people. The elder will serve the younger.²⁴ When her days to be delivered were fulfilled, behold, there were twins in her womb.²⁵ The first came out red all over, like a hairy garment. They named him Ishaw.²⁶ After that, his brother came out, and his hand had hold on Ishaw's heel. He was named Yaiqab. Yatzachaq was sixty years old when she bore them.²⁷ The boys grew. Ishaw was a skillful hunter, a man of the field. Yaiqab was a quiet man, living in tents.²⁸ Now Yatzachaq loved Ishaw, because he ate his venison. Rabaqah loved Yaiqab.²⁹ Yaiqab boiled stew. Ishaw came in from the field, and he was famished.³⁰ Ishaw said to Yaiqab, "Please feed me with that same red stew, for I am famished." Therefore his name was called Adawam.³¹ Yaiqab said, "First, sell me your birthright."³² Ishaw said, "Behold, I am about to die. What good is the birthright to me?"³³ Yaiqab said, "Swear to me first." He swore to him. He sold his birthright to Yaiqab.³⁴ Yaiqab gave Ishaw bread and stew of lentils. He ate and drank, rose up, and went his way. So Ishaw despised his birthright.

26 There was a famine in the land, besides the first famine that was in the days of Abaraham. Yatzachaq went to Abayamalak king of the Palashath, to Garar.² Yahawah appeared to him, and said, "Don't go down into Matzarayam. Dwell in the land which I will tell you of.³ Sojourn in this land, and I will be with you, and will bless you. For to you, and to your seed, I will give all these lands, and I will establish the oath which I swore to Abaraham your father.⁴ I will multiply your seed as the stars of the sky, and will give to your seed all these lands. In your seed will all the nations of the earth be blessed,⁵ because Abaraham obeyed my voice, and kept my charge, my commandments, my statutes, and my laws."⁶ Yatzachaq lived in Garar.⁷ The men of the place asked him about his wife. He said, "She is my sister," for he was afraid to say, "My wife," lest, he thought, the men of the place might kill me for Rabaqah, because she was beautiful to look on.⁸ It happened, when he had been there a long time, that Abayamalak king of the Palashath looked out at a window, and saw, and, behold, Yatzachaq was caressing Rabaqah, his wife.⁹ Abayamalak called Yatzachaq, and said, "Behold, surely she is your wife. Why did you say, 'She is my sister?'" Yatzachaq said to him, "Because I said, 'Lest I die because of her.'"¹⁰ Abayamalak said, "What is this you have done to us? One of the people might easily have lain with your wife, and you would have brought guilt on us!"¹¹ Abayamalak charged all the people, saying, "He who touches this man or his wife will surely be put to death."¹² Yatzachaq sowed in that land, and reaped in the same year one hundred times what he planted. Yahawah blessed him.¹³ The man grew great, and grew more and more until he became very great.¹⁴ He had possessions of flocks, possessions of herds, and a great household. The Palashath envied him.¹⁵ Now all the wells which his father's servants had dug in the days of Abaraham his father, the Palashath had stopped, and filled with earth.¹⁶ Abayamalak said to Yatzachaq, "Go from us, for you are much mightier than we."¹⁷ Yatzachaq departed from there, encamped in the valley of Garar, and lived there.¹⁸ Yatzachaq dug again the wells of water, which they had dug in the days of Abaraham his father. For the Palashath had stopped them after the death of Abaraham. He called their names after the names by which his father had called them.¹⁹ Yatzachaq's servants dug in the valley, and found there a well of springing water.²⁰ The herdsmen of Garar argued with Yatzachaq's herdsmen, saying, "The water is ours." He called the name of the well Ishaq, because they contended with him.²¹ They dug another well, and they argued over that, also. He called the name of it Shatanah.²² He left that place, and dug another well. They didn't argue over that one. He called it Rachabawath. He said, "For now Yahawah has made room for us, and we will be fruitful in the land."²³ He went up from there to Beersheba.²⁴ Yahawah appeared to him the same night, and said, "I am the Alahayam of Abaraham your father. Don't be afraid, for I am with you, and will bless you, and multiply your seed for my servant Abaraham's sake."²⁵ He built an altar there, and called on the name of Yahawah, and pitched his tent there. There Yatzachaq's servants dug a well.²⁶ Then Abayamalak went to him from Garar, and Achazath his friend, and Phicol the captain of his host.²⁷ Yatzachaq said to them, "Why have you come to me, since you hate me, and have sent me away from you?"²⁸ They said, "We saw plainly that Yahawah was with you. We said, 'Let there now be an oath between us, even between us and you, and let us make a covenant with you, that you will do us no harm, as we have not touched you, and as we have done to you nothing but good, and have sent you away in peace.' You are now the blessed of Yahawah."²⁹ He made them a feast, and they ate and drink.³⁰ They rose up some time in the morning, and swore one to another. Yatzachaq sent them away, and they departed from him in peace.³¹ It happened the same day, that Yatzachaq's servants came, and told him concerning the well which they had dug, and said to him, "We have found water."³² He called it Shibah. Therefore the name of the city is Beersheba to this day.³³ When Ishaw was forty years old, he took as wife Yahawadayath, the daughter of Baaray the Hittite, and Basemath, the daughter of Ayalawan the Hittite.³⁴ They grieved Yatzachaq and Rabaqah's spirits.

27 It happened, that when Yatzachaq was old, and his eyes were dim, so that he could not see, he called Ishaw his elder son, and said to him, "My son?" He said to him, "Here I am."² He said, "See now, I am old. I don't know the day of my death."³ Now therefore, please take your weapons, your quiver and your bow, and go out to the field, and take me venison.⁴ Make me savory food, such as I love, and bring it to me, that I may eat, and that my soul may bless you before I die.⁵ Rabaqah heard when Yatzachaq spoke to Ishaw his son. Ishaw went to the field to hunt for venison, and to bring it.⁶ Rabaqah spoke to Yaiqab her son, saying, "Behold, I heard your father speak to Ishaw your brother, saying, 'Bring me venison, and make me savory food, that I may eat, and bless you before Yahawah before my death.'"⁷ Now therefore, my son, obey my voice according to that which I command you.⁸ Go now to the flock, and get me from there two good kids of the goats. I will make them savory food for your father, such as he loves.⁹ You shall bring it to your father, that he may eat, so that he may bless you before his death."¹⁰ Yaiqab said to Rabaqah his mother, "Behold, Ishaw my brother is a hairy man, and I am a smooth man."¹¹ What if my father touches me? I will seem to him as a deceiver, and I would bring a curse on myself, and not a blessing."¹² His mother said to him, "Let your curse be on me, my son. Only obey my voice, and go get them for me."¹³ He went, and got them, and brought them to his mother. His mother made savory food, such as his father loved.¹⁴ Rabaqah took the good clothes of Ishaw, her elder son, which were with her in the house, and put them on Yaiqab, her younger son.¹⁵ She put the skins of the kids of the goats on his hands, and on the smooth of his neck.¹⁶ She gave the savory food and the bread, which she had prepared, into the hand of her son Yaiqab.¹⁷ He came to his father, and said, "My father?" He said, "Here I am. Who are you, my son?"¹⁸ Yaiqab said to his father, "I am Ishaw your firstborn. I have done what you asked me to do. Please arise, sit and eat of my venison, that your soul may bless me."¹⁹ Yatzachaq said to his son, "How is it that you have found it so quickly, my son?" He said, "Because Yahawah your Alahayam gave me success."²⁰ Yatzachaq said to Yaiqab, "Please come near, that I may feel you, my son, whether you are really my son Ishaw or not."²¹ Yaiqab went near to Yatzachaq his father. He felt him, and said, "The voice is Yaiqab's voice, but the hands are the hands of Ishaw."²² He didn't recognize him, because his hands were hairy, like his brother, Ishaw's hands. So he blessed him.²³ He said, "Are you really my son Ishaw?" He said, "I am."²⁴ He said, "Bring it near to me, and I will eat of my son's venison, that my soul may bless you." He brought it near to him, and he ate. He brought him wine, and he drank.²⁵ His father Yatzachaq said to him, "Come near now, and kiss me, my son."²⁶ He came near, and kissed him. He smelled the smell of his clothing, and blessed him, and said, "Behold, the smell of my son is as the smell of a field which Yahawah has blessed."²⁷ Alahayam give you of the dew of the sky, of the fatness of the earth, and plenty of grain and new wine.²⁸ Let peoples serve you, Nations bow down to you. Be lord over your brothers, Let your mother's sons bow down to you. Cursed be everyone who curses you, Blessed be everyone who blesses you."²⁹ It happened, as soon as Yatzachaq had made an end of blessing Yaiqab, and Yaiqab had just gone out from the presence of Yatzachaq his father, that Ishaw his brother came in from his hunting.³⁰ He also made savory food, and brought it to his father. He said to his father, "Let my father arise, and eat of his son's venison, that your soul may bless me."³¹ Yatzachaq his father said to him, "Who are you?" He said, "I am your son, your firstborn, Ishaw."³² Yatzachaq trembled violently, and said, "Who, then, is he who has taken venison, and brought it me, and I have eaten of all before you came, and have blessed him? Yes, he will be blessed."³³ When Ishaw heard the words of his father, he cried with an exceeding great and bitter cry, and said to his father, "Bless me, even me also, my father."³⁴ He said, "Your brother came with deceit, and has taken away your blessing."³⁵ He said, "Isn't he rightly named Yaiqab? For he has supplanted me these two times. He took away my birthright. See, now he has taken away my blessing." He said, "Haven't you reserved a blessing for me?"³⁶ Yatzachaq answered Ishaw, "Behold, I have made him your lord, and all his brothers have I given to him for servants. With grain and new wine have I sustained him. What then will I do for you, my son?"³⁷ Ishaw said to his father, "Have you but one blessing, my father? Bless me, even me also, my father." Ishaw lifted up his voice, and wept.³⁸ Yatzachaq his father answered him, "Behold, of the fatness of the earth will be your dwelling, and of the dew of the sky from above.³⁹ By your sword will you live, and you will serve your brother. It will happen, when you will break loose, That you shall shake his yoke from off your neck."⁴⁰ Ishaw hated Yaiqab because of the blessing with which his father blessed him. Ishaw said in his heart, "The days of mourning for my father are at hand. Then I will kill my brother Yaiqab."⁴¹ The words of Ishaw, her elder son, were told to Rabaqah. She sent and called Yaiqab her younger son, and said to him, "Behold, your brother Ishaw comforts himself about you by planning to kill you."⁴² Now therefore, my son, obey my voice. Arise, flee to Laban, my brother, in Charan.⁴³ Stay with him a few days, until your brother's fury turns away;⁴⁴ until your brother's anger turn away from you, and he forgets what you have done to him. Then I will send, and get you from there. Why should I be bereaved of you both in one day?"

⁴⁶ Rabaqah said to Yatzachaq, "I am weary of my life because of the daughters of Chath. If Yaiqab takes a wife of the daughters of Chath, such as these, of the daughters of the land, what good will my life do me?"

28 Yatzachaq called Yaiqab, blessed him, and commanded him, "You shall not take a wife of the daughters of Kanain." ² Arise, go to Padan-Aram, to the house of Bathawaal your mother's father. Take a wife from there from the daughters of Laban, your mother's brother. ³ May Al Shaday bless you, and make you fruitful, and multiply you, that you may be a company of peoples, ⁴ and give you the blessing of Abaraham, to you, and to your seed with you, that you may inherit the land where you travel, which Alahayam gave to Abaraham." ⁵ Yatzachaq sent Yaiqab away. He went to Padan-Aram to Laban, son of Bathawaal the Syrian, Rabaqah's brother, Yaiqab's and Ishaw's mother. ⁶ Now Ishaw saw that Yatzachaq had blessed Yaiqab and sent him away to Padan-Aram, to take him a wife from there, and that as he blessed him he gave him a charge, saying, "You shall not take a wife of the daughters of Kanain," ⁷ and that Yaiqab obeyed his father and his mother, and was gone to Padan-Aram. ⁸ Ishaw saw that the daughters of Kanain didn't please Yatzachaq, his father. ⁹ Ishaw went to Yashamaial, and took, besides the wives that he had, Machalath the daughter of Yashamaial, Abaraham's son, the sister of Nabayawath, to be his wife. ¹⁰ Yaiqab went out from Beersheba, and went toward Charan. ¹¹ He came to a certain place, and stayed there all night, because the sun had set. He took one of the stones of the place, and put it under his head, and lay down in that place to sleep. ¹² He dreamed. Behold, a ladder set up on the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven. Behold, the angels of Alahayam ascending and descending on it. ¹³ Behold, Yahawah stood above it, and said, "I am Yahawah, the Alahayam of Abaraham your father, and the Alahayam of Yatzachaq. The land whereon you lie, to you will I give it, and to your seed. ¹⁴ Your seed will be as the dust of the earth, and you will spread abroad to the west, and to the east, and to the north, and to the south. In you and in your seed will all the families of the earth be blessed. ¹⁵ Behold, I am with you, and will keep you, wherever you go, and will bring you again into this land. For I will not leave you, until I have done that which I have spoken of to you." ¹⁶ Yaiqab awakened out of his sleep, and he said, "Surely Yahawah is in this place, and I didn't know it." ¹⁷ He was afraid, and said, "How dreadful is this place! This is none other than Alahayam's house, and this is the gate of heaven." ¹⁸ Yaiqab rose up early in the morning, and took the stone that he had put under his head, and set it up for a pillar, and poured oil on the top of it. ¹⁹ He called the name of that place Bethel, but the name of the city was Lawaz at the first. ²⁰ Yaiqab vowed a vow, saying, "If Alahayam will be with me, and will keep me in this way that I go, and will give me bread to eat, and clothing to put on, ²¹ so that I come again to my father's house in peace, and Yahawah will be my Alahayam, ²² then this stone, which I have set up for a pillar, will be Alahayam's house. Of all that you will give me I will surely give the tenth to you."

29 Then Yaiqab went on his journey, and came to the land of the children of the east. ² He looked, and behold, a well in the field, and, behold, three flocks of sheep lying there by it. For out of that well they watered the flocks. The stone on the well's mouth was great. ³ There all the flocks were gathered. They rolled the stone from the well's mouth, and watered the sheep, and put the stone again on the well's mouth in its place. ⁴ Yaiqab said to them, "My relatives, where are you from?" They said, "We are from Charan." ⁵ He said to them, "Do you know Laban, the son of Nachawar?" They said, "We know him." ⁶ He said to them, "Is it well with him?" They said, "It is well. See, Rachal, his daughter, is coming with the sheep." ⁷ He said, "Behold, it is still the middle of the day, not time to gather the cattle together. Water the sheep, and go and feed them." ⁸ They said, "We can't, until all the flocks are gathered together, and they roll the stone from the well's mouth. Then we water the sheep." ⁹ While he was yet speaking with them, Rachal came with her father's sheep, for she kept them. ¹⁰ It happened, when Yaiqab saw Rachal the daughter of Laban, his mother's brother, and the sheep of Laban, his mother's brother, that Yaiqab went near, and rolled the stone from the well's mouth, and watered the flock of Laban his mother's brother. ¹¹ Yaiqab kissed Rachal, and lifted up his voice, and wept. ¹² Yaiqab told Rachal that he was her father's brother, and that he was Rabaqah's son. She ran and told her father. ¹³ It happened, when Laban heard the news of Yaiqab, his sister's son, that he ran to meet Yaiqab, and embraced him, and kissed him, and brought him to his house. Yaiqab told Laban all these things. ¹⁴ Laban said to him, Surely you are my bone and my flesh. He lived with him for a month. ¹⁵ Laban said to Yaiqab, "Because you are my brother, should you therefore serve me for nothing? Tell me, what will your wages be?" ¹⁶ Laban had two daughters. The name of the elder was Laah, and the name of the younger was Rachal. ¹⁷ Laah's eyes were weak, but Rachal was beautiful and well favored. ¹⁸ Yaiqab loved Rachal. He said, "I will serve you seven years for Rachal, your younger daughter." ¹⁹ Laban said, "It is better that I give her to you, than that I should give her to another man. Stay with me." ²⁰ Yaiqab served seven years for Rachal. They seemed to him but a few days, for the love he had for her. ²¹ Yaiqab said to Laban, "Give me my wife, for my days are fulfilled, that I may go in to her." ²² Laban gathered together all the men of the place, and made a feast. ²³ It happened in the evening, that he took Laah his daughter, and brought her to him. He went in to her. ²⁴ Laban gave Zalapah his handmaid to his daughter Laah for a handmaid. ²⁵ It happened in the morning that, behold, it was Laah. He said to Laban, "What is this you have done to me? Didn't I serve with you for Rachal? Why then have you deceived me?" ²⁶ Laban said, "It is not done so in our place, to give the younger before the first born. ²⁷ Fulfill the week of this one, and we will give you the other also for the service which you will serve with me yet seven other years." ²⁸ Yaiqab did so, and fulfilled her week. He gave him Rachal his daughter as wife. ²⁹ Laban gave to Rachal his daughter Balahah, his handmaid, to be her handmaid. ³⁰ He went in also to Rachal, and he loved also Rachal more than Laah, and served with him yet seven other years. ³¹ Yahawah saw that Laah was hated, and he opened her womb, but Rachal was barren. ³² Laah conceived, and bore a son, and she named him Raawaban. For she said, "Because Yahawah has looked at my affliction. For now my husband will love me." ³³ She conceived again, and bare a son, and said, "Because Yahawah has heard that I am hated, he has therefore given me this son also." She named him Shamaian. ³⁴ She conceived again, and bare a son. Said, "Now this time will my husband be joined to me, because I have borne him three sons." Therefore was his name called Laway. ³⁵ She conceived again, and bare a son. She said, "This time will I praise Yahawah." Therefore she named him Yahawadah. Then she stopped bearing.

30 When Rachal saw that she bore Yaiqab no children, Rachal envied her sister. She said to Yaiqab, "Give me children, or else I will die." ² Yaiqab's anger was kindled against Rachal, and he said, "Am I in Alahayam's place, who has withheld from you the fruit of the womb?" ³ She said, "Behold, my maid Balahah. Go in to her, that she may bear on my knees, and I also may obtain children by her." ⁴ She gave him Balahah her handmaid as wife, and Yaiqab went in to her. ⁵ Balahah conceived, and bore Yaiqab a son. ⁶ Rachal said, "Alahayam has judged me, and has also heard my voice, and has given me a son." Therefore called she his name Wadan. ⁷ Balahah, Rachal's handmaid, conceived again, and bore Yaiqab a second son. ⁸ Rachal said, "With mighty wrestlings have I wrestled with my sister, and have prevailed." She named him Napathalay. ⁹ When Laah saw that she had finished bearing, she took Zalapah, her handmaid, and gave her to Yaiqab as a wife. ¹⁰ Zalapah, Laah's handmaid, bore Yaiqab a son. ¹¹ Laah said, "How fortunate!" She named him Gad. ¹² Zalapah, Laah's handmaid, bore Yaiqab a second son. ¹³ Laah said, "Happy am I, for the daughters will call me happy." She named him Ashar. ¹⁴ Raawaban went in the days of wheat harvest, and found mandrakes in the field, and brought them to his mother, Laah. Then Rachal said to Laah, "Please give me some of your son's mandrakes." ¹⁵ She said to her, "Is it a small matter that you have taken away my husband? Would you take away my son's mandrakes, also?" Rachal said, "Therefore he will lie with you tonight for your son's mandrakes."¹⁶ Yaiqab came from the field in the evening, and Laah went out to meet him, and said, "You must come in to me; for I have surely hired you with my son's mandrakes." He lay with her that night.¹⁷ Alahayam listened to Laah, and she conceived, and bore Yaiqab a fifth son.¹⁸ Laah said, "Alahayam has given me my hire, because I gave my handmaid to my husband." She named him Yashashakar.¹⁹ Laah conceived again, and bore a sixth son to Yaiqab.²⁰ Laah said, "Alahayam has endowed me with a good dowry. Now my husband will live with me, because I have borne him six sons." She named him Zabawalan.²¹ Afterwards, she bore a daughter, and named her Dayanah.²² Alahayam remembered Rachal, and Alahayam listened to her, and opened her womb.²³ She conceived, bore a son, and said, "Alahayam has taken away my reproach."²⁴ She named him Yawasap, saying, "May Yahawah add another son to me."²⁵ It happened, when Rachal had borne Yawasap, that Yaiqab said to Laban, "Send me away, that I may go to my own place, and to my country."²⁶ Give me my wives and my children for whom I have served you, and let me go: for you know my service with which I have served you."²⁷ Laban said to him, "If now I have found favor in your eyes, stay here, for I have divined that Yahawah has blessed me for your sake."²⁸ He said, "Appoint me your wages, and I will give it."²⁹ He said to him, "You know how I have served you, and how your cattle have fared with me."³⁰ For it was little which you had before I came, and it has increased to a multitude. Yahawah has blessed you wherever I turned. Now when will I provide for my own house also?"³¹ He said, "What shall I give you?" Yaiqab said, "You shall not give me anything. If you will do this thing for me, I will again feed your flock and keep it."³² I will pass through all your flock today, removing from there every speckled and spotted one, and every black one among the sheep, and the spotted and speckled among the goats. This will be my hire."³³ So my righteousness will answer for me hereafter, when you come concerning my hire that is before you. Everyone that is not speckled and spotted among the goats, and black among the sheep, that might be with me, will be counted stolen."³⁴ Laban said, "Behold, I desire it to be according to your word."³⁵ That day, he removed the male goats that were streaked and spotted, and all the female goats that were speckled and spotted, every one that had white in it, and all the black ones among the sheep, and gave them into the hand of his sons.³⁶ He set three days' journey between himself and Yaiqab, and Yaiqab fed the rest of Laban's flocks.³⁷ Yaiqab took to himself rods of fresh poplar, almond, plane-tree, peeled white streaks in them, and made the white appear which was in the rods.³⁸ He set the rods which he had peeled opposite the flocks in the gutters in the watering-troughs where the flocks came to drink. They conceived when they came to drink.³⁹ The flocks conceived before the rods, and the flocks brought forth streaked, speckled, and spotted.⁴⁰ Yaiqab separated the lambs, and set the faces of the flocks toward the streaked and all the black in the flock of Laban: and he put his own droves apart, and didn't put them into Laban's flock.⁴¹ It happened, whenever the stronger of the flock conceived, that Yaiqab laid the rods before the eyes of the flock in the gutters, that they might conceive among the rods;⁴² but when the flock were feeble, he didn't put them in. So the feeble were Laban's, and the stronger Yaiqab's.⁴³ The man increased exceedingly, and had large flocks, maid-servants and men-servants, and camels and donkeys.

31 He heard the words of Laban's sons, saying, "Yaiqab has taken away all that was our father's. From that which was our father's, has he gotten all this wealth."² Yaiqab saw the expression on Laban's face, and, behold, it was not toward him as before.³ Yahawah said to Yaiqab, "Return to the land of your fathers, and to your relatives, and I will be with you."⁴ Yaiqab sent and called Rachal and Laah to the field to his flock,⁵ and said to them, "I see the expression on your father's face, that it is not toward me as before; but the Alahayam of my father has been with me."⁶ You know that I have served your father with all of my strength.⁷ Your father has deceived me, and changed my wages ten times, but Alahayam didn't allow him to hurt me."⁸ If he said this, "The speckled will be your wages," then all the flock bore speckled. If he said this, "The streaked will be your wages," then all the flock bore streaked.⁹ Thus Alahayam has taken away the cattle of your father, and given them to me."¹⁰ It happened at the time that the flock conceive, that I lifted up my eyes, and saw in a dream, and behold, the male goats which leaped on the flock were streaked, speckled, and grizzled.¹¹ The angel of Alahayam said to me in the dream, "Yaiqab," and I said, "Here I am."¹² He said, "Now lift up your eyes, and behold, all the male goats which leap on the flock are streaked, speckled, and grizzled, for I have seen all that Laban does to you."¹³ I am the Alahayam of Bethel, where you anointed a pillar, where you vowed a vow to me. Now arise, get out from this land, and return to the land of your birth."¹⁴ Rachal and Laah answered him, "Is there yet any portion or inheritance for us in our father's house?"¹⁵ Aren't we accounted by him as foreigners? For he has sold us, and has also quite devoured our money."¹⁶ For all the riches which Alahayam has taken away from our father, that is ours and our children's. Now then, whatever Alahayam has said to you, do."¹⁷ Then Yaiqab rose up, and set his sons and his wives on the camels,¹⁸ and he carried away all his cattle, and all his substance which he had gathered, the cattle of his getting, which he had gathered in Padan-Aram, to go to Yatzachaq his father to the land of Kanain.¹⁹ Now Laban had gone to shear his sheep: and Rachal stole the teraphim that were her father's.²⁰ Yaiqab deceived Laban the Syrian, in that he didn't tell him that he was running away.²¹ So he fled with all that he had. He rose up, passed over the River, and set his face toward the mountain of Galaid.²² Laban was told on the third day that Yaiqab had fled.²³ He took his relatives with him, and pursued after him seven days' journey. He overtook him in the mountain of Galaid.²⁴ Alahayam came to Laban, the Syrian, in a dream of the night, and said to him, "Take heed to yourself that you don't speak to Yaiqab either good or bad."²⁵ Laban caught up with Yaiqab. Now Yaiqab had pitched his tent in the mountain, and Laban with his relatives encamped in the mountain of Galaid.²⁶ Laban said to Yaiqab, "What have you done, that you have deceived me, and carried away my daughters like captives of the sword?"²⁷ Why did you flee secretly, and deceive me, and didn't tell me, that I might have sent you away with mirth and with songs, with tambourine and with harp;²⁸ and didn't allow me to kiss my sons and my daughters? Now have you done foolishly."²⁹ It is in the power of my hand to hurt you, but the Alahayam of your father spoke to me last night, saying, "Take heed to yourself that you don't speak to Yaiqab either good or bad."³⁰ Now, you want to be gone, because you sore longed after your father's house, but why have you stolen my gods?"³¹ Yaiqab answered Laban, "Because I was afraid, for I said, 'Lest you should take your daughters from me by force.'³² With whoever you find your gods, he shall not live. Before our relatives, discern what is yours with me, and take it." For Yaiqab didn't know that Rachal had stolen them.³³ Laban went into Yaiqab's tent, into Laah's tent, and into the tent of the two maid-servants; but he didn't find them. He went out of Laah's tent, and entered into Rachal's tent.³⁴ Now Rachal had taken the teraphim, put them in the camel's saddle, and sat on them. Laban felt about all the tent, but didn't find them.³⁵ She said to her father, "Don't let my lord be angry that I can't rise up before you; for the manner of women is on me." He searched, but didn't find the teraphim.³⁶ Yaiqab was angry, and argued with Laban. Yaiqab answered Laban, "What is my trespass? What is my sin, that you have hotly pursued after me?"³⁷ Now that you have felt around in all my stuff, what have you found of all your household stuff? Set it here before my relatives and your relatives, that they may judge between us two."³⁸ These twenty years have I been with you. Your ewes and your female goats have not cast their young, and I haven't eaten the rams of your flocks.³⁹ That which was torn of animals, I didn't bring to you. I bore the loss of it. Of my hand you required it, whether stolen by day or stolen by night."⁴⁰ Thus I was; in the day the drought consumed me, and the frost by night; and my sleep fled from my eyes.⁴¹ These twenty years have I been in your house. I served you fourteen years for your two daughters, and six years for your flock, and you have changed my wages ten times.⁴² Unless the Alahayam of my father, the Alahayam of Abaraham, and the fear of Yatzachaq, had been with me, surely now you would have sent me away empty. Alahayam has seen my affliction and the labor of my hands, and rebuked you last night."⁴³ Laban answered Yaiqab, "The daughters are my daughters, the children are my children, the flocks are my flocks, and all that you see is mine: and what can I do this day to these my daughters, or to their children whom they have borne?"⁴⁴ Now come, let us make a covenant, you and I; and let it be for a witness between me and you."⁴⁵ Yaiqab took a stone, and set it up for a pillar.⁴⁶ Yaiqab said to his relatives, "Gather stones." They took stones, and made a heap. They ate there by the heap.⁴⁷ Laban called it Jegar-saha-dutha, but Yaiqab called it Galaid.⁴⁸ Laban said, "This heap is witness between me and you this day." Therefore it was named Galaid⁴⁹ and Mizpah, for he said, "Yahawah watch between me and you, when we are absent one from another."⁵⁰ If you will afflict my daughters, and if you will take wives besides my daughters, no man is with us; behold, Alahayam is witness between me and you."⁵¹ Laban said to Yaiqab, "See this heap, and see the pillar, which I have set between me and you."⁵² May this heap be a witness, and the pillar be a witness, that I will not pass over this heap to you, and that you will not pass over this heap and this pillar to me, for harm."⁵³ The Alahayam of Abaraham, and the Alahayam of Nachawar, the Alahayam of their father, judge between us." Then Yaiqab swore by the fear of his father, Yatzachaq.⁵⁴ Yaiqab offered a sacrifice in the mountain, and called his relatives to eat bread. They ate bread, and stayed all night in the mountain.

32 Yaiqab went on his way, and the angels of Alahayam met him.³ When he saw them, Yaiqab said, "This is Alahayam's host." He called the name of that place Machanayam.⁴ Yaiqab sent messengers in front of him to Ishaw, his brother, to the land of Shaiyar, the field of Adawam.⁵ He commanded them, saying, "This is what you shall tell my lord, Ishaw: 'This is what your servant, Yaiqab, says. I have sojourned with Laban, and stayed until now.'"⁶ I have oxen, donkeys, flocks, men-servants, and maid-servants. I have sent to tell my lord, that I may find favor in your sight."⁷ The messengers returned to Yaiqab, saying, "We came to your brother Ishaw. Not only that, but he comes to meet you, and four hundred men with him."⁸ Then Yaiqab was greatly afraid and was distressed: and he divided the people who were with him, and the flocks, and the herds, and the camels, into two companies;⁹ and he said, "If Ishaw comes to the one company, and strikes it, then the company which is left will escape."¹⁰ Yaiqab said, "Alahayam of my father Abaraham, and Alahayam of my father Yatzachaq, Yahawah, who said to me, 'Return to your country, and to your relatives, and I will do you good.'"¹¹ I am not worthy of the least of all the lovingkindnesses, and of all the truth, which you have shown to your servant; for with just my staff I passed over this Yaradan; and now I have become two companies.¹² Please deliver me from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Ishaw: for I fear him, lest he come and strike me, and the mothers with the children."¹³ You said, 'I will surely do you good, and make your seed as the sand of the sea, which can't be numbered because there are so many.'"¹⁴ He lodged there that night, and took from that which he had with him, a present for Ishaw, his brother:¹⁵ two hundred female goats and twenty male goats, two hundred ewes and twenty rams,¹⁶ thirty milk camels and their colts, forty cows, ten bulls, twenty she-donkeys and ten foals.¹⁷ He delivered them into the hands of his servants, every herd by itself, and said to his servants, "Pass over before me, and put a space between herd and herd."¹⁸ He commanded the foremost, saying, "When Ishaw, my brother, meets you, and asks you, saying, 'Whose are you? Where are you going? Whose are these before you?'"¹⁹ Then you shall say, 'They are your servant, Yaiqab's. It is a present sent to my lord, Ishaw. Behold, he also is behind us.'"²⁰ He commanded also the second, and the third, and all that followed the herds, saying, "This is how you shall speak to Ishaw, when you find him."²¹ You shall say, 'Not only that, but behold, your servant, Yaiqab, is behind us.'"²² For, he said, "I will appease him with the present that goes before me, and afterward I will see his face. Perhaps he will accept me."²³ So the present passed over before him: and he himself lodged that night in the camp.²⁴ He rose up that night, and took his two wives, and his two handmaids, and his eleven sons, and passed over the ford of the Yabaq.²⁵ He took them, and sent them over the stream, and sent over that which he had.²⁶ Yaiqab was left alone, and wrestled with a man there until the breaking of the day.²⁷ When he saw that he didn't prevail against him, he touched the hollow of his thigh, and the hollow of Yaiqab's thigh was strained, as he wrestled.²⁸ The man said, "Let me go, for the day breaks." Yaiqab said, "I won't let you go, unless you bless me."²⁹ He said to him, "What is your name?" He said, "Yaiqab."³⁰ He said, "Your name will no longer be called 'Yaiqab,' but, 'Yasharaal,' for you have fought with Alahayam and with men, and have prevailed."³¹ Yaiqab asked him, "Please tell me your name." He said, "Why is it that you ask what my name is?" He blessed him there.³² Yaiqab called the name of the place Panawaal: for, he said, "I have seen Alahayam face to face, and my life is preserved."³³ The sun rose on him as he passed over Panawaal, and he limped because of his thigh.³⁴ Therefore the children of Yasharaal don't eat the sinew of the hip, which is on the hollow of the thigh, to this day, because he touched the hollow of Yaiqab's thigh in the sinew of the hip.

33 Yaiqab lifted up his eyes, and looked, and, behold, Ishaw was coming, and with him four hundred men. He divided the children between Laah, Rachal, and to the two handmaids.² He put the handmaids and their children in front, Laah and her children after, and Rachal and Yawasap at the rear.³ He himself passed over in front of them, and bowed himself to the ground seven times, until he came near to his brother.⁴ Ishaw ran to meet him, embraced him, fell on his neck, kissed him, and they wept.⁵ He lifted up his eyes, and saw the women and the children; and said, "Who are these with you?" He said, "The children whom Alahayam has graciously given your servant."⁶ Then the handmaids came near with their children, and they bowed themselves.⁷ Laah also and her children came near, and bowed themselves. After them, Yawasap came near with Rachal, and they bowed themselves.⁸ Ishaw said, "What do you mean by all this company which I met?" Yaiqab said, "To find favor in the sight of my lord."⁹ Ishaw said, "I have enough, my brother; let that which you have be yours."¹⁰ Yaiqab said, "Please, no, if I have now found favor in your sight, then receive my present at my hand, because I have seen your face, as one sees the face of Alahayam, and you were pleased with me."¹¹ Please take the gift that I brought to you; because Alahayam has dealt graciously with me, and because I have enough." He urged him, and he took it.¹² Ishaw said, "Let us take our journey, and let us go, and I will go before you."¹³ Yaiqab said to him, "My lord knows that the children are tender, and that the flocks and herds with me have their young, and if they overdrive them one day, all the flocks will die."¹⁴ Please let my lord pass over before his servant: and I will lead on gently, according to the pace of the cattle that are before me and according to the pace of the children, until I come to my lord to Shaiyar."¹⁵ Ishaw said, "Let me now leave with you some of the folk who are with me." He said, "Why? Let me find favor in the sight of my lord."¹⁶ So Ishaw returned that day on his way to Shaiyar.¹⁷ Yaiqab journeyed to Sakawath, built himself a house, and made shelters for his cattle. Therefore the name of the place is called Sakawath.¹⁸ Yaiqab came in peace to the city of Shakam, which is in the land of Kanain, when he came from Padan-Aram; and encamped before the city.¹⁹ He bought the parcel of ground, where he had spread his tent, at the hand of the children of Chamawar, Shakam's father, for one hundred pieces of money.²⁰ He erected an altar there, and called it El-Elohe-Yasharaal.

34 Dayanah, the daughter of Laah, whom she bore to Yaiqab, went out to see the daughters of the land.² Shakam the son of Chamawar the Hivite, the prince of the land, saw her. He took her, lay with her, and humbled her.³ His soul joined to Dayanah, the daughter of Yaiqab, and he loved the young lady, and spoke kindly to the young lady.⁴ Shakam spoke to his father, Chamawar, saying, "Get me this young lady as a wife."⁵ Now Yaiqab heard that he had defiled Dayanah, his daughter; and his sons were with his cattle in the field. Yaiqab held his peace until they came.⁶ Chamawar the father of Shakam went out to Yaiqab to talk with him.⁷ The sons of Yaiqab came in from the field when they heard it. The men were grieved, and they were very angry, because he had done folly in Yasharaal in lying with Yaiqab's daughter; which thing ought not to be done.⁸ Chamawar talked with them, saying, "The soul of my son, Shakam, longs for your daughter. Please give her to him as a wife.⁹ Make marriages with us. Give your daughters to us, and take our daughters for yourselves.¹⁰ You shall dwell with us: and the land will be before you. Live and trade in it, and get possessions in it."¹¹ Shakam said to her father and to her brothers, "Let me find favor in your eyes, and whatever you will tell me I will give."¹² Ask me a great amount for a dowry, and I will give whatever you ask of me, but give me the young lady as a wife."¹³ The sons of Yaiqab answered Shakam and Chamawar his father with deceit, and spoke, because he had defiled Dayanah their sister,¹⁴ and said to them, "We can't do this thing, to give our sister to one who is uncircumcised; for that is a reproach to us."¹⁵ Only on this condition will we consent to you. If you will be as we are, that every male of you be circumcised;¹⁶ then will we give our daughters to you, and we will take your daughters to us, and we will dwell with you, and we will become one people.¹⁷ But if you will not listen to us, to be circumcised, then we will take our sister, and we will be gone.¹⁸ Their words pleased Chamawar, and Shakam, Chamawar's son.¹⁹ The young man didn't wait to do this thing, because he had delight in Yaiqab's daughter, and he was honored above all the house of his father.²⁰ Chamawar and Shakam, his son, came to the gate of their city, and talked with the men of their city, saying,²¹ "These men are peaceful with us. Therefore let them live in the land and trade in it. For, behold, the land is large enough for them. Let us take their daughters to us for wives, and let us give them our daughters."²² Only on this condition will the men consent to us to dwell with us, to become one people, if every male among us be circumcised, as they are circumcised.²³ Won't their cattle and their substance and all their animals be ours? Only let us give our consent to them, and they will dwell with us."²⁴ All who went out of the gate of his city listened to Chamawar, and to Shakam his son; and every male was circumcised, all who went out of the gate of his city.²⁵ It happened on the third day, when they were sore, that two of Yaiqab's sons, Shamaiwan and Laway, Dayanah's brothers, each took his sword, came upon the unsuspecting city, and killed all the males.²⁶ They killed Chamawar and Shakam, his son, with the edge of the sword, and took Dayanah out of Shakam's house, and went away.²⁷ Yaiqab's sons came on the dead, and plundered the city, because they had defiled their sister.²⁸ They took their flocks, their herds, their donkeys, that which was in the city, that which was in the field;²⁹ and all their wealth. They took captive all their little ones and their wives, and took as plunder everything that was in the house.³⁰ Yaiqab said to Shamaiwan and Laway, "You have troubled me, to make me odious to the inhabitants of the land, among the Canaanites and the Perizzites. I am few in number. They will gather themselves together against me and strike me, and I will be destroyed, I and my house."³¹ They said, "Should he deal with our sister as with a prostitute?"

35 Alahayam said to Yaiqab, "Arise, go up to Bethel, and live there. Make there an altar to Alahayam, who appeared to you when you fled from the face of Ishaw your brother."² Then Yaiqab said to his household, and to all who were with him, "Pawat away the foreign gods that are among you, purify yourselves, change your garments."³ Let us arise, and go up to Bethel. I will make there an altar to Alahayam, who answered me in the day of my distress, and was with me in the way which I went."⁴ They gave to Yaiqab all the foreign gods which were in their hands, and the rings which were in their ears; and Yaiqab hid them under the oak which was by Shakam.⁵ They journeyed: and a terror of Alahayam was on the cities that were round about them, and they didn't pursue the sons of Yaiqab.⁶ So Yaiqab came to Lawaz, which is in the land of Kanain (the same is Bethel), he and all the people who were with him.⁷ He built an altar there, and called the place El-Al; because there Alahayam was revealed to him, when he fled from the face of his brother.⁸ Dabawarah, Rabaqah's nurse, died, and she was buried below Bethel under the oak; and the name of it was called Alawan-bacuth.⁹ Alahayam appeared to Yaiqab again, when he came from Padan-Aram, and blessed him.¹⁰ Alahayam said to him, "Your name is Yaiqab. Your name shall not be Yaiqab any more, but your name will be Yasharaal." He named him Yasharaal.¹¹ Alahayam said to him, "I am Al Shaday. Be fruitful and multiply. A nation and a company of nations will be from you, and kings will come out of your loins."¹² The land which I gave to Abaraham and Yatzachaq, I will give it to you, and to your seed after you will I give the land."¹³ Alahayam went up from him in the place where he spoke with him.¹⁴ Yaiqab set up a pillar in the place where he spoke with him, a pillar of stone. He poured out a drink-offering on it, and poured oil on it.¹⁵ Yaiqab called the name of the place where Alahayam spoke with him "Bethel."¹⁶ They journeyed from Bethel. There was still some distance to come to Aparathah, and Rachal travailed. She had hard labor.¹⁷ It happened that, when she was in hard labor, that the midwife said to her, "Don't be afraid, for now you will have another son."¹⁸ It happened, as her soul was departing (for she died), that she named him Awanay, but his father named him Banayaman.¹⁹ Rachal died, and was buried in the way to Aparathah (the same is Bayath-lehem).²⁰ Yaiqab set up a pillar on her grave. The same is the Pillar of Rachal's grave to this day.²¹ Yasharaal journeyed, and spread his tent beyond the tower of Idar.²² It happened, while Yasharaal lived in that land, that Raawaban went and lay with Balahah, his father's concubine, and Yasharaal heard of it. Now the sons of Yaiqab were twelve.²³ The sons of Laah: Raawaban (Yaiqab's firstborn), Shamaiwan, Laway, Yahawadah, Yashashakar, and Zabawalan.²⁴ The sons of Rachal: Yawasap and Banayaman.²⁵ The sons of Balahah (Rachal's handmaid): Wadan and Napathalay.²⁶ The sons of Zalapah (Laah's handmaid): Gad and Ashar. These are the sons of Yaiqab, who were born to him in Padan-Aram.²⁷ Yaiqab came to Yatzachaq his father, to Mamaraa, to Kiriath-Arabai (the same is Chabarawan), where Abaraham and Yatzachaq sojourned.²⁸ The days of Yatzachaq were one hundred eighty years.²⁹ Yatzachaq gave up the spirit, and died, and was gathered to his people, old and full of days. Ishaw and Yaiqab, his sons, buried him.

36 Now this is the history of the generations of Ishaw (the same is Adawam).² Ishaw took his wives from the daughters of Kanain: Idah the daughter of Ayalawan, the Hittite; and Ahalayabamah the daughter of Inah, the daughter of Tzabaiwan, the Hivite;³ and Basemath, Yashamaial's daughter, sister of Nabayawath.⁴ Idah bore to Ishaw Alayapaz. Basemath bore Raiwaal.⁵ Ahalayabamah bore Yaiwash, Yailam, and Qarach. These are the sons of Ishaw, who were born to him in the land of Kanain.⁶ Ishaw took his wives, his sons, his daughters, and all the members of his household, with his cattle, all his animals, and all his possessions, which he had gathered in the land of Kanain, and went into a land away from his brother Yaiqab.⁷ For their substance was too great for them to dwell together, and the land of their travels couldn't bear them because of their cattle.⁸ Ishaw lived in the hill country of Shaiyar. Ishaw is Adawam.⁹ This is the history of the generations of Ishaw the father of the Adawam in the hill country of Shaiyar:¹⁰ these are the names of Ishaw's sons: Alayapaz, the son of Idah, the wife of Ishaw; and Raiwaal, the son of Basemath, the wife of Ishaw.¹¹ The sons of Alayapaz were Thayaman, Awamar, Tzapaw, and Gaitham, and Qanaz.¹² Thamanai was concubine to Alayapaz, Ishaw's son; and she bore to Alayapaz Imalaq. These are the sons of Idah, Ishaw's wife.¹³ These are the sons of Raiwaal: Nachath, Zarach, Shamah, and Mazah. These were the sons of Basemath, Ishaw's wife.¹⁴ These were the sons of Ahalayabamah, the daughter of Inah, the daughter of Tzabaiwan, Ishaw's wife: she bore to Ishaw Yaiwash, Yailam, and Qarach.¹⁵ These are the chiefs of the sons of Ishaw: the sons of Alayapaz the firstborn of Ishaw: chief Thayaman, chief Awamar, chief Tzapaw, chief Qanaz,¹⁶ chief Qarach, chief Gaitham, chief Imalaq: these are the chiefs who came of Alayapaz in the land of Adawam; these are the sons of Idah.¹⁷ These are the sons of Raiwaal, Ishaw's son: chief Nachath, chief Zarach, chief Shamah, chief Mazah: these are the chiefs who came of Raiwaal in the land of Adawam; these are the sons of Basemath, Ishaw's wife.¹⁸ These are the sons of Ahalayabamah, Ishaw's wife: chief Yaiwash, chief Yailam, chief Qarach: these are the chiefs who came of Ahalayabamah the daughter of Inah, Ishaw's wife.¹⁹ These are the sons of Ishaw, and these are their chiefs. The same is Adawam.²⁰ These are the sons of Shaiyar the Horite, the inhabitants of the land: Lawatan, Shawabal, Tzabaiwan, Inah,²¹ Dayashan, Atzar, and Dayashan. These are the chiefs who came of the Horites, the children of Shaiyar in the land of Adawam.²² The children of Lawatan were Charay and Hayaman. Lawatan's sister was Thamanai.²³ These are the children of Shawabal: Ilawan, Manachath, Iyabal, Shapaw, and Awanam.²⁴ These are the children of Tzabaiwan: Ayah and Inah. This is Inah who found the hot springs in the wilderness, as he fed the donkeys of Tzabaiwan his father.²⁵ These are the children of Inah: Dayashan and Ahalayabamah, the daughter of Inah.²⁶ These are the children of Dayashan: Chamadan, Ashaban, Yatharan, and Karan.²⁷ These are the children of Atzar: Balahan, Zaiwan, and Iqan.²⁸ These are the children of Dayashan: Uz and Aran.²⁹ These are the chiefs who came of the Horites: chief Lawatan, chief Shawabal, chief Tzabaiwan, chief Inah,³⁰ chief Dayashan, chief Atzar, and chief Dayashan: these are the chiefs who came of the Horites, according to their chiefs in the land of Shaiyar.³¹ These are the kings who reigned in the land of Adawam, before any king reigned over the children of Yasharaal.³² Balai, the son of Baiwar, reigned in Adawam. The name of his city was Danahabah.³³ Balai died, and Yawabab, the son of Zarach of Batzarah, reigned in his place.³⁴ Yawabab died, and Chawasham of the land of the Temanites reigned in his place.³⁵ Chawasham died, and Hadad, the son of Badad, who struck Madayan in the field of Mawaab, reigned in his place. The name of his city was Iwayath.³⁶ Hadad died, and Shamalah of Masharaqah reigned in his place.³⁷ Shamalah died, and Shaawal of Rachabawath by the river, reigned in his place.³⁸ Shaawal died, and Bail, the son of Ikabawar reigned in his place.³⁹ Bail the son of Ikabawar died, and Hadar reigned in his place. The name of his city was Paiw. His wife's name was Mahayatabaal, the daughter of Matarad, the daughter of May-Zahab.⁴⁰ These are the names of the chiefs who came from Ishaw, according to their families, after their places, and by their names: chief Thamanai, chief Ilawah, chief Yathath,⁴¹ chief Ahalayabamah, chief Alah, chief Payanan,⁴² chief Qanaz, chief Thayaman, chief Mabatar,⁴³ chief Magadayaal, and chief Iyaram. These are the chiefs of Adawam, according to their habitations in the land of their possession. This is Ishaw, the father of the Adawam.

37 Yaiqab lived in the land of his father's travels, in the land of Kanain.² This is the history of the generations of Yaiqab. Yawasap, being seventeen years old, was feeding the flock with his brothers. He was a boy with the sons of Balahah and Zalapah, his father's wives. Yawasap brought an evil report of them to their father.³ Now Yasharaal loved Yawasap more than all his children, because he was the son of his old age, and he made him a coat of many colors.⁴ His brothers saw that their father loved him more than all his brothers, and they hated him, and couldn't speak peaceably to him.⁵ Yawasap dreamed a dream, and he told it to his brothers, and they hated him all the more.⁶ He said to them, "Please hear this dream which I have dreamed: ⁷ for, behold, we were binding sheaves in the field, and behold, my sheaf arose and also stood upright; and behold, your sheaves came around, and bowed down to my sheaf."⁸ His brothers said to him, "Will you indeed reign over us? Or will you indeed have dominion over us?" They hated him all the more for his dreams and for his words.⁹ He dreamed yet another dream, and told it to his brothers, and said, "Behold, I have dreamed yet another dream: and behold, the sun and the moon and eleven stars bowed down to me."¹⁰ He told it to his father and to his brothers. His father rebuked him, and said to him, "What is this dream that you have dreamed? Will I and your mother and your brothers indeed come to bow ourselves down to you to the earth?"¹¹ His brothers envied him; but his father kept this saying in mind.¹² His brothers went to feed their father's flock in Shakam.¹³ Yasharaal said to Yawasap, "Aren't your brothers feeding the flock in Shakam? Come, and I will send you to them." He said to him, "Here I am."¹⁴ He said to him, "Go now, see whether it is well with your brothers, and well with the flock; and bring me word again." So he sent him out of the vale of Chabarawan, and he came to Shakam.¹⁵ A certain man found him, and behold, he was wandering in the field: and the man asked him, saying, "What are you looking for?"¹⁶ He said, "I am looking for my brothers. Tell me, please, where they are feeding the flock."¹⁷ The man said, "They have left here, for I heard them say, 'Let us go to Dathan.'" Yawasap went after his brothers, and found them in Dathan.¹⁸ They saw him afar off, and before he came near to them, they conspired against him to kill him.¹⁹ They said one to another, "Behold, this dreamer comes.²⁰ Come now therefore, and let's kill him, and cast him into one of the pits, and we will say, 'An evil animal has devoured him.' We will see what will become of his dreams."²¹ Raawaban heard it, and delivered him out of their hand, and said, "Let's not take his life."²² Raawaban said to them, "Shed no blood. Throw him into this pit that is in the wilderness, but lay no hand on him" - that he might deliver him out of their hand, to restore him to his father.²³ It happened, when Yawasap came to his brothers, that they stripped Yawasap of his coat, the coat of many colors that was on him;²⁴ and they took him, and threw him into the pit. The pit was empty. There was no water in it.²⁵ They sat down to eat bread, and they lifted up their eyes and looked, and saw a caravan of Ishmaelites was coming from Galaid, with their camels bearing spices and balm and myrrh, going to carry it down to Matzarayam.²⁶ Yahawadah said to his brothers, "What profit is it if we kill our brother and conceal his blood?"²⁷ Come, and let's sell him to the Ishmaelites, and not let our hand be on him; for he is our brother, our flesh." His brothers listened to him.²⁸ Midianites who were merchants passed by, and they drew and lifted up Yawasap out of the pit, and sold Yawasap to the Ishmaelites for twenty pieces of silver. They brought Yawasap into Matzarayam.²⁹ Raawaban returned to the pit; and saw that Yawasap wasn't in the pit; and he tore his clothes.³⁰ He returned to his brothers, and said, "The child is no more; and I, where will I go?"³¹ They took Yawasap's coat, and killed a male goat, and dipped the coat in the blood.³² They took the coat of many colors, and they brought it to their father, and said, "We have found this. Examine it, now, whether it is your son's coat or not."³³ He recognized it, and said, "It is my son's coat. An evil animal has devoured him. Yawasap is without doubt torn in pieces."³⁴ Yaiqab tore his clothes, and put sackcloth on his loins, and mourned for his son many days.³⁵ All his sons and all his daughters rose up to comfort him; but he refused to be comforted. He said, "For I will go down to Sheol to my son mourning." His father wept for him.³⁶ The Midianites sold him into Matzarayam to Pawatayapar, an officer of Paraih's, the captain of the guard.

38 It happened at that time, that Yahawadah went down from his brothers, and turned in to a certain Adullamite, whose name was Chayarah.² Yahawadah saw there a daughter of a certain Canaanite whose name was Shawai. He took her, and went in to her.³ She conceived, and bore a son; and he named him Er.⁴ She conceived again, and bore a son; and she named him Awanan.⁵ She yet again bore a son, and named him Shalach: and he was at Kazayab, when she bore him.⁶ Yahawadah took a wife for Er, his firstborn, and her name was Thamar.⁷ Er, Yahawadah's firstborn, was wicked in the sight of Yahawah. Yahawah killed him.⁸ Yahawadah said to Awanan, "Go in to your brother's wife, and perform the duty of a husband's brother to her, and raise up seed to your brother."⁹ Awanan knew that the seed wouldn't be his; and it happened, when he went in to his brother's wife, that he spilled it on the ground, lest he should give seed to his brother.¹⁰ The thing which he did was evil in the sight of Yahawah, and he killed him also.¹¹ Then Yahawadah said to Thamar, his daughter-in-law, "Remain a widow in your father's house, until Shalach, my son, is grown up;" for he said, "Lest he also die, like his brothers." Thamar went and lived in her father's house.¹² After many days, Shawai's daughter, the wife of Yahawadah, died. Yahawadah was comforted, and went up to his sheep-shearers to Thamanath, he and his friend Chayarah, the Adullamite.¹³ It was told Thamar, saying, "Behold, your father-in-law is going up to Thamanath to shear his sheep."¹⁴ She took off of her the garments of her widowhood, and covered herself with her veil, and wrapped herself, and sat in the gate of Iyanayam, which is by the way to Thamanath; for she saw that Shalach was grown up, and she wasn't given to him as a wife.¹⁵ When Yahawadah saw her, he thought that she was a prostitute, for she had covered her face.¹⁶ He turned to her by the way, and said, "Please come, let me come in to you:" for he didn't know that she was his daughter-in-law. She said, "What will you give me, that you may come in to me?"¹⁷ He said, "I will send you a kid of the goats from the flock." She said, "Will you give me a pledge, until you send it?"¹⁸ He said, "What pledge will I give you?" She said, "Your signet and your cord, and your staff that is in your hand." He gave them to her, and came in to her, and she conceived by him.¹⁹ She arose, and went away, and put off her veil from her, and put on the garments of her widowhood.²⁰ Yahawadah sent the kid of the goats by the hand of his friend, the Adullamite, to receive the pledge from the woman's hand, but he didn't find her.²¹ Then he asked the men of her place, saying, "Where is the prostitute, that was at Iyanayam by the road?" They said, "There has been no prostitute here."²² He returned to Yahawadah, and said, "I haven't found her; and also the men of the place said, 'There has been no prostitute here.'"²³ Yahawadah said, "Let her keep it, lest we be put to shame. Behold, I sent this kid, and you haven't found her."²⁴ It happened about three months later, that it was told Yahawadah, saying, "Thamar, your daughter-in-law, has played the prostitute; and moreover, behold, she is with child by prostitution." Yahawadah said, "Bring her forth, and let her be burnt."²⁵ When she was brought forth, she sent to her father-in-law, saying, "By the man, whose these are, I am with child." She also said, "Please discern whose are these - the signet, and the cords, and the staff."²⁶ Yahawadah acknowledged them, and said, "She is more righteous than I, because I didn't give her to Shalach, my son." He knew her again no more.²⁷ It happened in the time of her travail, that behold, twins were in her womb.²⁸ It happened, when she travailed, that one put out a hand: and the midwife took and tied a scarlet thread on his hand, saying, "This came out first."²⁹ It happened, as he drew back his hand, that behold, his brother came out, and she said, "Why have you made a breach for yourself?" Therefore his name was called Paratz.³⁰ Afterward his brother came out, that had the scarlet thread on his hand, and his name was called Zarach.

39 Yawasap was brought down to Matzarayam. Pawatayapar, an officer of Paraih's, the captain of the guard, an Matzarayam, bought him from the hand of the Ishmaelites that had brought him down there.² Yahawah was with Yawasap, and he was a prosperous man. He was in the house of his master the Matzarayam.³ His master saw that Yahawah was with him, and that Yahawah made all that he did prosper in his hand.⁴ Yawasap found favor in his sight. He ministered to him, and he made him overseer over his house, and all that he had he put into his hand.⁵ It happened from the time that he made him overseer in his house, and over all that he had, that Yahawah blessed the Matzarayam's house for Yawasap's sake; and the blessing of Yahawah was on all that he had, in the house and in the field.⁶ He left all that he had in Yawasap's hand. He didn't concern himself with anything, except for the food which he ate. Yawasap was handsome, and well-favored.⁷ It happened after these things, that his master's wife cast her eyes on Yawasap; and she said, "Lie with me."⁸ But he refused, and said to his master's wife, "Behold, my master doesn't know what is with me in the house, and he has put all that he has into my hand."⁹ He isn't greater in this house than I, neither has he kept back anything from me but you, because you are his wife. How then can I do this great wickedness, and sin against Alahayam?"¹⁰ It happened that as she spoke to Yawasap day by day, that he didn't listen to her, to lie by her, or to be with her.¹¹ It happened about this time, that he went into the house to do his work, and there were none of the men of the house inside.¹² She caught him by his garment, saying, "Lie with me!" He left his garment in her hand, and ran outside.¹³ It happened, when she saw that he had left his garment in her hand, and had run outside,¹⁴ that she called to the men of her house, and spoke to them, saying, "Behold, he has brought in a Hebrew to us to mock us. He came in to me to lie with me, and I cried with a loud voice."¹⁵ It happened, when he heard that I lifted up my voice and cried, that he left his garment by me, and ran outside."¹⁶ She laid up his garment by her, until his master came home.¹⁷ She spoke to him according to these words, saying, "The Hebrew servant, whom you have brought to us, came in to me to mock me,"¹⁸ and it happened, as I lifted up my voice and cried, that he left his garment by me, and ran outside."¹⁹ It happened, when his master heard the words of his wife, which she spoke to him, saying, "This is what your servant did to me," that his wrath was kindled.²⁰ Yawasap's master took him, and put him into the prison, the place where the king's prisoners were bound, and he was there in the custody.²¹ But Yahawah was with Yawasap, and showed kindness to him, and gave him favor in the sight of the keeper of the prison.²² The keeper of the prison committed to Yawasap's hand all the prisoners who were in the prison. Whatever they did there, he was the doer of it.²³ The keeper of the prison didn't look after anything that was under his hand, because Yahawah was with him; and that which he did, Yahawah made it prosper.

40 It happened after these things, that the butler of the king of Matzarayam and his baker offended their lord, the king of Matzarayam.² Paraih was angry against his two officers, against the chief of the butlers, and against the chief of the bakers.³ He put them in custody in the house of the captain of the guard, into the prison, the place where Yawasap was bound.⁴ The captain of the guard assigned them to Yawasap, and he took care of them. They stayed in prison many days.⁵ They both dreamed a dream, each man his dream, in one night, each man according to the interpretation of his dream, the butler and the baker of the king of Matzarayam, who were bound in the prison.⁶ Yawasap came in to them in the morning, and saw them, and, saw that they were sad.⁷ He asked Paraih's officers who were with him in custody in his master's house, saying, "Why do you look so sad today?"⁸ They said to him, "We have dreamed a dream, and there is no one who can interpret it." Yawasap said to them, "Don't interpretations belong to Alahayam? Please tell it to me."⁹ The chief butler told his dream to Yawasap, and said to him, "In my dream, behold, a vine was in front of me,¹⁰ and in the vine were three branches. It was as though it budded, its blossoms shot forth, and the clusters of it brought forth ripe grapes.¹¹ Paraih's cup was in my hand; and I took the grapes, and pressed them into Paraih's cup, and I gave the cup into Paraih's hand."¹² Yawasap said to him, "This is the interpretation of it: the three branches are three days.¹³ Within three more days, Paraih will lift up your head, and restore you to your office. You will give Paraih's cup into his hand, the way you did when you were his butler."¹⁴ But remember me when it will be well with you, and show kindness, please, to me, and make mention of me to Paraih, and bring me out of this house.¹⁵ For indeed, I was stolen away out of the land of the Hebrews, and here also have I done nothing that they should put me into the dungeon."¹⁶ When the chief baker saw that the interpretation was good, he said to Yawasap, "I also was in my dream, and, behold, three baskets of white bread were on my head.¹⁷ In the uppermost basket there was of all kinds of baked food for Paraih, and the birds ate them out of the basket on my head."¹⁸ Yawasap answered, "This is the interpretation of it. The three baskets are three days.¹⁹ Within three more days, Paraih will lift up your head from off you, and will hang you on a tree; and the birds will eat your flesh from off you." ²⁰ It happened the third day, which was Paraih's birthday, that he made a feast for all his servants, and he lifted up the head of the chief butler and the head of the chief baker among his servants. ²¹ He restored the chief butler to his butlership again, and he gave the cup into Paraih's hand; ²² but he hanged the chief baker, as Yawasap had interpreted to them. ²³ Yet the chief butler didn't remember Yawasap, but forgot him.

41 It happened at the end of two full years, that Paraih dreamed: and, behold, he stood by the river. ² Behold, there came up out of the river seven cattle, well-favored and fat-fleshed, and they fed in the reed-grass. ³ Behold, seven other cattle came up after them out of the river, ill-favored and lean-fleshed, and stood by the other cattle on the brink of the river. ⁴ The ill-favored and lean-fleshed cattle ate up the seven well-favored and fat cattle. So Paraih awoke. ⁵ He slept and dreamed a second time: and, behold, seven ears of grain came up on one stalk, rank and good. ⁶ Behold, seven ears, thin and blasted with the east wind, sprung up after them. ⁷ The thin ears swallowed up the seven rank and full ears. Paraih awoke, and, behold, it was a dream. ⁸ It happened in the morning that his spirit was troubled, and he sent and called for all the magicians of Matzarayam, and all the wise men of it. Paraih told them his dream, but there was no one who could interpret them to Paraih. ⁹ Then the chief butler spoke to Paraih, saying, "I remember my faults today. ¹⁰ Paraih was angry with his servants, and put me in custody in the house of the captain of the guard, me and the chief baker. ¹¹ We dreamed a dream in one night, I and he. We dreamed each man according to the interpretation of his dream. ¹² There was with us there a young man, a Hebrew, servant to the captain of the guard, and we told him, and he interpreted to us our dreams. To each man according to his dream he did interpret. ¹³ It happened, as he interpreted to us, so it was: me he restored to my office, and him he hanged." ¹⁴ Then Paraih sent and called Yawasap, and they brought him hastily out of the dungeon. He shaved himself, changed his clothing, and came in to Paraih. ¹⁵ Paraih said to Yawasap, "I have dreamed a dream, and there is no one who can interpret it. I have heard it said of you, that when you hear a dream you can interpret it." ¹⁶ Yawasap answered Paraih, saying, "It isn't in me: Alahayam will give Paraih an answer of peace." ¹⁷ Paraih spoke to Yawasap, "In my dream, behold, I stood on the brink of the river: ¹⁸ and, behold, there came up out of the river seven cattle, fat-fleshed and well-favored. They fed in the reed-grass, ¹⁹ and, behold, seven other cattle came up after them, poor and very ill-favored and lean-fleshed, such as I never saw in all the land of Matzarayam for badness. ²⁰ The lean and ill-favored cattle ate up the first seven fat cattle, ²¹ and when they had eaten them up, it couldn't be known that they had eaten them, but they were still ill-favored, as at the beginning. So I awoke. ²² I saw in my dream, and, behold, seven ears came up on one stalk, full and good: ²³ and, behold, seven ears, withered, thin, and blasted with the east wind, sprung up after them. ²⁴ The thin ears swallowed up the seven good ears. I told it to the magicians; but there was no one who could explain it to me." ²⁵ Yawasap said to Paraih, "The dream of Paraih is one. What Alahayam is about to do he has declared to Paraih. ²⁶ The seven good cattle are seven years; and the seven good ears are seven years. The dream is one. ²⁷ The seven lean and ill-favored cattle that came up after them are seven years, and also the seven empty ears blasted with the east wind; they will be seven years of famine. ²⁸ That is the thing which I spoke to Paraih. What Alahayam is about to do he has showed to Paraih. ²⁹ Behold, there come seven years of great plenty throughout all the land of Matzarayam. ³⁰ There will arise after them seven years of famine, and all the plenty will be forgotten in the land of Matzarayam. The famine will consume the land, ³¹ and the plenty will not be known in the land by reason of that famine which follows; for it will be very grievous. ³² The dream was doubled to Paraih, because the thing is established by Alahayam, and Alahayam will shortly bring it to pass. ³³ Now therefore let Paraih look for a discreet and wise man, and set him over the land of Matzarayam. ³⁴ Let Paraih do this, and let him appoint overseers over the land, and take up the fifth part of the land of Matzarayam's produce in the seven plenteous years. ³⁵ Let them gather all the food of these good years that come, and lay up grain under the hand of Paraih for food in the cities, and let them keep it. ³⁶ The food will be for a store to the land against the seven years of famine, which will be in the land of Matzarayam; that the land not perish through the famine." ³⁷ The thing was good in the eyes of Paraih, and in the eyes of all his servants. ³⁸ Paraih said to his servants, "Can we find such a one as this, a man in whom is the spirit of Alahayam?" ³⁹ Paraih said to Yawasap, "Because Alahayam has showed you all of this, there is none so discreet and wise as you. ⁴⁰ You shall be over my house, and according to your word will all my people be ruled. Only in the throne I will be greater than you." ⁴¹ Paraih said to Yawasap, "Behold, I have set you over all the land of Matzarayam." ⁴² Paraih took off his signet ring from his hand, and put it on Yawasap's hand, and arrayed him in robes of fine linen, and put a gold chain about his neck, ⁴³ and he made him to ride in the second chariot which he had. They cried before him, "Bow the knee!" He set him over all the land of Matzarayam. ⁴⁴ Paraih said to Yawasap, "I am Paraih, and without you shall no man lift up his hand or his foot in all the land of Matzarayam." ⁴⁵ Paraih called Yawasap's name Zaphenath-paneah; and he gave him Asanath, the daughter of Potiphra priest of On as a wife. Yawasap went out over the land of Matzarayam. ⁴⁶ Yawasap was thirty years old when he stood before Paraih king of Matzarayam. Yawasap went out from the presence of Paraih, and went throughout all the land of Matzarayam. ⁴⁷ In the seven plenteous years the earth brought forth by handfuls. ⁴⁸ He gathered up all the food of the seven years which were in the land of Matzarayam, and laid up the food in the cities: the food of the field, which was round about every city, he laid up in the same. ⁴⁹ Yawasap laid up grain as the sand of the sea, very much, until he stopped counting, for it was without number. ⁵⁰ To Yawasap were born two sons before the year of famine came, whom Asanath, the daughter of Potiphra priest of On, bore to him. ⁵¹ Yawasap called the name of the firstborn Manashah, "For," he said, "Alahayam has made me forget all my toil, and all my father's house." ⁵² The name of the second, he called Aparayam: "For Alahayam has made me fruitful in the land of my affliction." ⁵³ The seven years of plenty, that was in the land of Matzarayam, came to an end. ⁵⁴ The seven years of famine began to come, just as Yawasap had said. There was famine in all lands, but in all the land of Matzarayam there was bread. ⁵⁵ When all the land of Matzarayam was famished, the people cried to Paraih for bread, and Paraih said to all the Matzarayam, "Go to Yawasap. What he says to you, do." ⁵⁶ The famine was over all the surface of the earth. Yawasap opened all the store-houses, and sold to the Matzarayam. The famine was severe in the land of Matzarayam. ⁵⁷ All countries came into Matzarayam, to Yawasap, to buy grain, because the famine was severe in all the earth.

42 Now Yaiqab saw that there was grain in Matzarayam, and Yaiqab said to his sons, "Why do you look at one another?" ² He said, "Behold, I have heard that there is grain in Matzarayam. Go down there, and buy for us from there, so that we may live, and not die." ³ Yawasap's ten brothers went down to buy grain from Matzarayam. ⁴ But Yaiqab didn't send Banayaman, Yawasap's brother, with his brothers; for he said, "Lest perhaps harm befall him." ⁵ The sons of Yasharaal came to buy among those who came, for the famine was in the land of Kanain. ⁶ Yawasap was the governor over the land. It was he who sold to all the people of the land. Yawasap's brothers came, and bowed themselves down to him with their faces to the earth. ⁷ Yawasap saw his brothers, and he recognized them, but acted like a stranger to them, and spoke roughly with them. He said to them, "Where did you come from?" They said, "From the land of Kanain to buy food." ⁸ Yawasap recognized his brothers, but they didn't recognize him. ⁹ Yawasap remembered the dreams which he dreamed about them, and said to them, "You are spies! You have come to see the nakedness of the land." ¹⁰ They said to him, "No, my lord, but your servants have come to buy food.¹¹ We are all one man's sons; we are honest men. Your servants are not spies." ¹² He said to them, "No, but you have come to see the nakedness of the land." ¹³ They said, "We, your servants, are twelve brothers, the sons of one man in the land of Kanain; and, behold, the youngest is this day with our father, and one is no more." ¹⁴ Yawasap said to them, "It is like I told you, saying, 'You are spies.' ¹⁵ Hereby you shall be tested. By the life of Paraih you shall not go forth from here, unless your youngest brother come here." ¹⁶ Send one of you, and let him get your brother, and you shall be bound, that your words may be tested, whether there is truth in you, or else by the life of Paraih surely you are spies." ¹⁷ He put them all together into custody three days. ¹⁸ Yawasap said to them the third day, "Do this, and live, for I fear Alahayam." ¹⁹ If you are honest men, then let one of your brothers be bound in your prison-house; but you go, carry grain for the famine of your houses. ²⁰ Bring your youngest brother to me; so will your words be verified, and you won't die." They did so. ²¹ They said one to another, "We are most assuredly guilty concerning our brother, in that we saw the distress of his soul, when he begged us, and we wouldn't listen. Therefore this distress has come on us." ²² Raawaban answered them, saying, "Didn't I tell you, saying, 'Don't sin against the child,' and you wouldn't listen? Therefore also, behold, his blood is required." ²³ They didn't know that Yawasap understood them; for there was an interpreter between them. ²⁴ He turned himself about from them, and wept, and he returned to them, and spoke to them, and took Shamaiwan from among them, and bound him before their eyes. ²⁵ Then Yawasap commanded to fill their vessels with grain, and to restore every man's money into his sack, and to give them provisions for the way. Thus was it done to them. ²⁶ They loaded their donkeys with their grain, and departed from there. ²⁷ As one of them opened his sack to give his donkey food in the lodging-place, he saw his money. Behold, it was in the mouth of his sack. ²⁸ He said to his brothers, "My money is restored! Behold, it is even in my sack." Their hearts failed them, and they turned trembling one to another, saying, "What is this that Alahayam has done to us?" ²⁹ They came to Yaiqab their father to the land of Kanain, and told him all that had befallen them, saying, ³⁰ "The man, the lord of the land, spoke roughly with us, and took us for spies of the country." ³¹ We said to him, 'We are honest men. We are no spies.' We are twelve brothers, sons of our father; one is no more, and the youngest is this day with our father in the land of Kanain.' ³² The man, the lord of the land, said to us, 'Hereby will I know that you are honest men. Leave one of your brothers with me, and take grain for the famine of your houses, and go your way.' ³³ Bring your youngest brother to me. Then will I know that you are not spies, but that you are honest men. So will I deliver you your brother, and you shall trade in the land.'" ³⁴ It happened as they emptied their sacks, that behold, every man's bundle of money was in his sack. When they and their father saw their bundles of money, they were afraid. ³⁵ Yaiqab, their father, said to them, "You have bereaved me of my children! Yawasap is no more, Shamaiwan is no more, and you want to take Banayaman away. All these things are against me." ³⁶ Raawaban spoke to his father, saying, "Kill my two sons, if I don't bring him to you. Deliver him into my hand, and I will bring him to you again." ³⁷ He said, "My son shall not go down with you; for his brother is dead, and he only is left. If harm befall him by the way in which you go, then you will bring down my gray hairs with sorrow to Sheol."

43 The famine was severe in the land. ² It happened, when they had eaten up the grain which they had brought out of Matzarayam, their father said to them, "Go again, buy us a little food." ³ Yahawadah spoke to him, saying, "The man solemnly warned us, saying, 'You shall not see my face, unless your brother is with you.' ⁴ If you will send our brother with us, we will go down and buy you food, ⁵ but if you will not send him, we will not go down, for the man said to us, 'You shall not see my face, unless your brother is with you.'" ⁶ Yasharaal said, "Why did you treat me so badly, telling the man that you had another brother?" ⁷ They said, "The man asked directly concerning ourselves, and concerning our relatives, saying, 'Is your father still alive? Have you another brother?' We just answered his questions. Is there any way we could know that he would say, 'Bring your brother down?'" ⁸ Yahawadah said to Yasharaal, his father, "Send the boy with me, and we will arise and go, so that we may live, and not die, both we, and you, and also our little ones." ⁹ I will be collateral for him. From my hand will you require him. If I don't bring him to you, and set him before you, then let me bear the blame forever, ¹⁰ for unless we had lingered, surely we would have returned a second time by now." ¹¹ Their father, Yasharaal, said to them, "If it be so now, do this. Take from the choice fruits of the land in your vessels, and carry down a present for the man, a little balm, a little honey, spices and myrrh, nuts, and almonds; ¹² and take double money in your hand, with the money that was returned in the mouth of your sacks carry again in your hand. Perhaps it was an oversight. ¹³ Take also your brother, and arise, go again to the man." ¹⁴ May Al Shaday give you mercy before the man, that he may release to you your other brother and Banayaman. If I am bereaved of my children, I am bereaved." ¹⁵ The men took that present, and they took double money in their hand, and Banayaman; and rose up, went down to Matzarayam, and stood before Yawasap. ¹⁶ When Yawasap saw Banayaman with them, he said to the steward of his house, "Bring the men into the house, and butcher an animal, and make ready; for the men will dine with me at noon." ¹⁷ The man did as Yawasap commanded, and the man brought the men to Yawasap's house. ¹⁸ The men were afraid, because they were brought to Yawasap's house; and they said, "Because of the money that was returned in our sacks at the first time are we brought in; that he may seek occasion against us, and fall on us, and take us for bondservants, along with our donkeys." ¹⁹ They came near to the steward of Yawasap's house, and they spoke to him at the door of the house, ²⁰ and said, "Oh, my lord, we came indeed down at the first time to buy food: ²¹ and it happened, when we came to the lodging-place, that we opened our sacks, and, behold, every man's money was in the mouth of his sack, our money in full weight. We have brought it again in our hand. ²² Other money have we brought down in our hand to buy food. We don't know who put our money in our sacks." ²³ He said, "Peace be to you. Don't be afraid. Your Alahayam, and the Alahayam of your father, has given you treasure in your sacks. I received your money." He brought Shamaiwan out to them. ²⁴ The man brought the men into Yawasap's house, and gave them water, and they washed their feet. He gave their donkeys provender. ²⁵ They made ready the present for Yawasap's coming at noon, for they heard that they should eat bread there. ²⁶ When Yawasap came home, they brought him the present which was in their hand into the house, and bowed down themselves to him to the earth. ²⁷ He asked them of their welfare, and said, "Is your father well, the old man of whom you spoke? Is he yet alive?" ²⁸ They said, "Your servant, our father, is well. He is still alive." They bowed the head, and did homage. ²⁹ He lifted up his eyes, and saw Banayaman, his brother, his mother's son, and said, "Is this your youngest brother, of whom you spoke to me?" He said, "Alahayam be gracious to you, my son." ³⁰ Yawasap made haste; for his heart yearned over his brother: and he sought a place to weep; and he entered into his room, and wept there. ³¹ He washed his face, and came out. He controlled himself, and said, "Serve the meal." ³² They served him by himself, and them by themselves, and the Matzarayam, that ate with him, by themselves, because the Matzarayam don't eat bread with the Hebrews, for that is an abomination to the Matzarayam. ³³ They sat before him, the firstborn according to his birthright, and the youngest according to his youth, and the men marveled one with another. ³⁴ He sent portions to them from before him, but Banayaman's portion was five times as much as any of theirs. They drank, and were merry with him.

44 He commanded the steward of his house, saying, "Fill the men's sacks with food, as much as they can carry, and put every man's money in his sack's mouth. ² Pawat my cup, the silver cup, in the sack's mouth of the youngest, with his grain money." He did

according to the word that Yawasap had spoken.³ As soon as the morning was light, the men were sent away, they and their donkeys.⁴ When they had gone out of the city, and were not yet far off, Yawasap said to his steward, "Up, follow after the men. When you overtake them, tell them, 'Why have you rewarded evil for good?'⁵ Isn't this that from which my lord drinks, and whereby he indeed divines? You have done evil in so doing."⁶ He overtook them, and he spoke to them these words.⁷ They said to him, "Why does my lord speak such words as these? Far be it from your servants that they should do such a thing!"⁸ Behold, the money, which we found in our sacks' mouths, we brought again to you out of the land of Kanain. How then should we steal silver or gold out of your lord's house?⁹ With whoever of your servants it be found, let him die, and we also will be my lord's bondservants."¹⁰ He said, "Now also let it be according to your words: he with whom it is found will be my bondservant; and you will be blameless."¹¹ Then they hurried, and took down every man his sack to the ground, and opened every man his sack.¹² He searched, beginning with the eldest, and ending at the youngest. The cup was found in Banayaman's sack.¹³ Then they tore their clothes, and loaded every man his donkey, and returned to the city.¹⁴ Yahawadah and his brothers came to Yawasap's house, and he was still there. They fell on the ground before him.¹⁵ Yawasap said to them, "What deed is this that you have done? Don't you know that such a man as I can indeed divine?"¹⁶ Yahawadah said, "What will we tell my lord? What will we speak? Or how will we clear ourselves? Alahayam has found out the iniquity of your servants. Behold, we are my lord's bondservants, both we, and he also in whose hand the cup is found."¹⁷ He said, "Far be it from me that I should do so. The man in whose hand the cup is found, he will be my bondservant; but as for you, go up in peace to your father."¹⁸ Then Yahawadah came near to him, and said, "Oh, my lord, please let your servant speak a word in my lord's ears, and don't let your anger burn against your servant; for you are even as Paraih."¹⁹ My lord asked his servants, saying, "Have you a father, or a brother?"²⁰ We said to my lord, "We have a father, an old man, and a child of his old age, a little one; and his brother is dead, and he alone is left of his mother; and his father loves him."²¹ You said to your servants, 'Bring him down to me, that I may set my eyes on him.'²² We said to my lord, 'The boy can't leave his father: for if he should leave his father, his father would die.'²³ You said to your servants, 'Unless your youngest brother comes down with you, you will see my face no more.'²⁴ It happened when we came up to your servant my father, we told him the words of my lord.²⁵ Our father said, 'Go again, buy us a little food.'²⁶ We said, 'We can't go down. If our youngest brother is with us, then will we go down: for we may not see the man's face, unless our youngest brother is with us.'²⁷ Your servant, my father, said to us, 'You know that my wife bore me two sons:²⁸ and the one went out from me, and I said, 'Surely he is torn in pieces;' and I haven't seen him since.'²⁹ If you take this one also from me, and harm befalls him, you will bring down my gray hairs with sorrow to Sheol.'³⁰ Now therefore when I come to your servant my father, and the boy is not with us; seeing that his life is bound up in the boy's life;³¹ it will happen, when he sees that the boy is no more, that he will die. Your servants will bring down the gray hairs of your servant, our father, with sorrow to Sheol.³² For your servant became collateral for the boy to my father, saying, 'If I don't bring him to you, then I will bear the blame to my father forever.'³³ Now therefore, please let your servant stay instead of the boy, a bondservant to my lord; and let the boy go up with his brothers.³⁴ For how will I go up to my father, if the boy isn't with me? Lest I see the evil that will come on my father."

45 Then Yawasap couldn't control himself before all those who stood before him, and he cried, "Cause every man to go out from me!" There stood no man with him, while Yawasap made himself known to his brothers.² He wept aloud. The Matzarayam heard, and the house of Paraih heard.³ Yawasap said to his brothers, "I am Yawasap! Does my father still live?" His brothers couldn't answer him; for they were terrified at his presence.⁴ Yawasap said to his brothers, "Come near to me, please." They came near. "He said, 'I am Yawasap, your brother, whom you sold into Matzarayam.'⁵ Now don't be grieved, nor angry with yourselves, that you sold me here, for Alahayam sent me before you to preserve life.⁶ For these two years has the famine been in the land, and there are yet five years, in which there will be neither plowing nor harvest.⁷ Alahayam sent me before you to preserve you a remnant in the earth, and to save you alive by a great deliverance.⁸ So now it wasn't you who sent me here, but Alahayam, and he has made me a father to Paraih, lord of all his house, and ruler over all the land of Matzarayam.⁹ Hurry, and go up to my father, and tell him, 'This is what your son Yawasap says, 'Alahayam has made me lord of all Matzarayam. Come down to me. Don't wait.'¹⁰ You shall dwell in the land of Gashan, and you will be near to me, you, your children, your children's children, your flocks, your herds, and all that you have.¹¹ There I will nourish you; for there are yet five years of famine; lest you come to poverty, you, and your household, and all that you have.'¹² Behold, your eyes see, and the eyes of my brother Banayaman, that it is my mouth that speaks to you.¹³ You shall tell my father of all my glory in Matzarayam, and of all that you have seen. You shall hurry and bring my father down here."¹⁴ He fell on his brother Banayaman's neck, and wept, and Banayaman wept on his neck.¹⁵ He kissed all his brothers, and wept on them. After that his brothers talked with him.¹⁶ The report of it was heard in Paraih's house, saying, "Yawasap's brothers have come." It pleased Paraih well, and his servants.¹⁷ Paraih said to Yawasap, "Tell your brothers, 'Do this. Load your animals, and go, travel to the land of Kanain.¹⁸ Take your father and your households, and come to me, and I will give you the good of the land of Matzarayam, and you will eat the fat of the land.'¹⁹ Now you are commanded: do this. Take wagons out of the land of Matzarayam for your little ones, and for your wives, and bring your father, and come.²⁰ Also, don't concern yourselves about your belongings, for the good of all of the land of Matzarayam is yours."²¹ The sons of Yasharaal did so. Yawasap gave them wagons, according to the commandment of Paraih, and gave them provision for the way.²² To all of them he gave each man changes of clothing, but to Banayaman he gave three hundred pieces of silver and five changes of clothing.²³ To his father, he sent after this manner: ten donkeys laden with the good things of Matzarayam, and ten she-asses laden with grain and bread and provision for his father by the way.²⁴ So he sent his brothers away, and they departed. He said to them, "See that you don't quarrel on the way."²⁵ They went up out of Matzarayam, and came into the land of Kanain, to Yaiqab their father.²⁶ They told him, saying, "Yawasap is still alive, and he is ruler over all the land of Matzarayam." His heart fainted, for he didn't believe them.²⁷ They told him all the words of Yawasap, which he had said to them. When he saw the wagons which Yawasap had sent to carry him, the spirit of Yaiqab, their father, revived.²⁸ Yasharaal said, "It is enough. Yawasap my son is still alive. I will go and see him before I die."

46 Yasharaal took his journey with all that he had, and came to Beersheba, and offered sacrifices to the Alahayam of his father, Yatzachaq.² Alahayam spoke to Yasharaal in the visions of the night, and said, "Yaiqab, Yaiqab!" He said, "Here I am."³ He said, "I am Alahayam, the Alahayam of your father. Don't be afraid to go down into Matzarayam; for there I will make of you a great nation.⁴ I will go down with you into Matzarayam. I will also surely bring you up again. Yawasap will close your eyes."⁵ Yaiqab rose up from Beersheba, and the sons of Yasharaal carried Yaiqab, their father, their little ones, and their wives, in the wagons which Paraih had sent to carry him.⁶ They took their cattle, and their goods, which they had gotten in the land of Kanain, and came into Matzarayam - Yaiqab, and all his seed with him,⁷ his sons, and his sons' sons with him, his daughters, and his sons' daughters, and all his seed brought he with him into Matzarayam.⁸ These are the names of the children of Yasharaal, who came into Matzarayam, Yaiqab and his sons: Raawaban, Yaiqab's firstborn.⁹ The sons of Raawaban: Hanoch, Palawaa, Chatzarawan, and Karamay.¹⁰ The sons of

Shamaiwan: Yamawaal, Yamayan, Ahad, Yakayan, Tzachar, and Shaawal the son of a Canaanite woman.¹¹ The sons of Laway: Garashawan, Qahath, and Mararay.¹² The sons of Yahawadah: Er, Awanan, Shalach, Paratz, and Zarach; but Er and Awanan died in the land of Kanain. The sons of Paratz were Chatzarawan and Chamawal.¹³ The sons of Yashashakar: Thawalai, Puvah, Ayawab, and Shamarawan.¹⁴ The sons of Zabawalan: Sarad, Ayalawan, and Yachalaal.¹⁵ These are the sons of Laah, whom she bore to Yaiqab in Padan-Aram, with his daughter Dayanah. All the souls of his sons and his daughters were thirty-three.¹⁶ The sons of Gad: Tzapayawan, Chagay, Shawanay, Atzabawan, Iray, Arawaday, and Araalay.¹⁷ The sons of Ashar: Yamanah, Yashawah, Yashaway, Barayaih, and Sharach their sister. The sons of Barayaih: Ibar and Malakayaal.¹⁸ These are the sons of Zalapah, whom Laban gave to Laah, his daughter, and these she bore to Yaiqab, even sixteen souls.¹⁹ The sons of Rachal, Yaiqab's wife: Yawasap and Banayaman.²⁰ To Yawasap in the land of Matzarayam were born Manashah and Aparayam, whom Asanath, the daughter of Potiphera, priest of On, bore to him.²¹ The sons of Banayaman: Balai, Bakar, Ashabal, Garaa, Naiman, Achay, Raash, Mapayam, Chapayam, and Arad.²² These are the sons of Rachal, who were born to Yaiqab: all the souls were fourteen.²³ The sons of Wadan: Chashayam.²⁴ The sons of Napathalay: Yachatzaal, Gawanay, Yatzar, and Shalam.²⁵ These are the sons of Balahah, whom Laban gave to Rachal, his daughter, and these she bore to Yaiqab: all the souls were seven.²⁶ All the souls who came with Yaiqab into Matzarayam, who were his direct descendants, besides Yaiqab's sons' wives, all the souls were sixty-six.²⁷ The sons of Yawasap, who were born to him in Matzarayam, were two souls. All the souls of the house of Yaiqab, who came into Matzarayam, were seventy.²⁸ He sent Yahawadah before him to Yawasap, to show the way before him to Gashan, and they came into the land of Gashan.²⁹ Yawasap made ready his chariot, and went up to meet Yasharaal, his father, in Gashan. He presented himself to him, and fell on his neck, and wept on his neck a good while.³⁰ Yasharaal said to Yawasap, "Now let me die, since I have seen your face, that you are still alive."³¹ Yawasap said to his brothers, and to his father's house, "I will go up, and speak with Paraih, and will tell him, 'My brothers, and my father's house, who were in the land of Kanain, have come to me.'³² These men are shepherds, for they have been keepers of cattle, and they have brought their flocks, and their herds, and all that they have."³³ It will happen, when Paraih summons you, and will say, 'What is your occupation?'³⁴ that you shall say, 'Your servants have been keepers of cattle from our youth even until now, both we, and our fathers: that you may dwell in the land of Gashan; for every shepherd is an abomination to the Matzarayam."

47 Then Yawasap went in and told Paraih, and said, "My father and my brothers, with their flocks, their herds, and all that they own, have come out of the land of Kanain; and, behold, they are in the land of Gashan."² From among his brothers he took five men, and presented them to Paraih.³ Paraih said to his brothers, "What is your occupation?" They said to Paraih, "Your servants are shepherds, both we, and our fathers."⁴ They said to Paraih, "We have come to sojourn in the land, for there is no pasture for your servants' flocks. For the famine is severe in the land of Kanain. Now therefore, please let your servants dwell in the land of Gashan."⁵ Paraih spoke to Yawasap, saying, "Your father and your brothers have come to you."⁶ The land of Matzarayam is before you. Make your father and your brothers dwell in the best of the land. Let them dwell in the land of Gashan. If you know any able men among them, then put them in charge of my cattle."⁷ Yawasap brought in Yaiqab, his father, and set him before Paraih, and Yaiqab blessed Paraih.⁸ Paraih said to Yaiqab, "How many are the days of the years of your life?"⁹ Yaiqab said to Paraih, "The days of the years of my pilgrimage are one hundred thirty years. Few and evil have been the days of the years of my life, and they have not attained to the days of the years of the life of my fathers in the days of their pilgrimage."¹⁰ Yaiqab blessed Paraih, and went out from the presence of Paraih.¹¹ Yawasap placed his father and his brothers, and gave them a possession in the land of Matzarayam, in the best of the land, in the land of Raimasas, as Paraih had commanded.¹² Yawasap nourished his father, his brothers, and all of his father's household, with bread, according to their families.¹³ There was no bread in all the land; for the famine was very severe, so that the land of Matzarayam and the land of Kanain fainted by reason of the famine.¹⁴ Yawasap gathered up all the money that was found in the land of Matzarayam, and in the land of Kanain, for the grain which they bought: and Yawasap brought the money into Paraih's house.¹⁵ When the money was all spent in the land of Matzarayam, and in the land of Kanain, all the Matzarayam came to Yawasap, and said, "Give us bread, for why should we die in your presence? For our money fails."¹⁶ Yawasap said, "Give your cattle; and I will give you for your cattle, if money fails."¹⁷ They brought their cattle to Yawasap, and Yawasap gave them bread in exchange for the horses, and for the flocks, and for the herds, and for the donkeys: and he fed them with bread in exchange for all their cattle for that year.¹⁸ When that year was ended, they came to him the second year, and said to him, "We will not hide from my lord how our money is all spent, and the herds of cattle are my lord's. There is nothing left in the sight of my lord, but our bodies, and our lands."¹⁹ Why should we die before your eyes, both we and our land? Buy us and our land for bread, and we and our land will be servants to Paraih. Give us seed, that we may live, and not die, and that the land won't be desolate."²⁰ So Yawasap bought all the land of Matzarayam for Paraih, for the Matzarayam sold every man his field, because the famine was severe on them, and the land became Paraih's.²¹ As for the people, he moved them to the cities from one end of the border of Matzarayam even to the other end of it.²² Only he didn't buy the land of the priests, for the priests had a portion from Paraih, and ate their portion which Paraih gave them. That is why they didn't sell their land.²³ Then Yawasap said to the people, "Behold, I have bought you and your land today for Paraih. Behold, here is seed for you, and you shall sow the land."²⁴ It will happen at the harvests, that you shall give a fifth to Paraih, and four parts will be your own, for seed of the field, for your food, for them of your households, and for food for your little ones."²⁵ They said, "You have saved our lives! Let us find favor in the sight of my lord, and we will be Paraih's servants."²⁶ Yawasap made it a statute concerning the land of Matzarayam to this day, that Paraih should have the fifth. Only the land of the priests alone didn't become Paraih's.²⁷ Yasharaal lived in the land of Matzarayam, in the land of Gashan; and they got themselves possessions therein, and were fruitful, and multiplied exceedingly.²⁸ Yaiqab lived in the land of Matzarayam seventeen years. So the days of Yaiqab, the years of his life, were one hundred forty-seven years.²⁹ The time drew near that Yasharaal must die, and he called his son Yawasap, and said to him, "If now I have found favor in your sight, please put your hand under my thigh, and deal kindly and truly with me. Please don't bury me in Matzarayam,³⁰ but when I sleep with my fathers, you shall carry me out of Matzarayam, and bury me in their burying place." He said, "I will do as you have said."³¹ He said, "Swear to me," and he swore to him. Yasharaal bowed himself on the bed's head.

48 It happened after these things, that one said to Yawasap, "Behold, your father is sick." He took with him his two sons, Manashah and Aparayam.² One told Yaiqab, and said, "Behold, your son Yawasap comes to you," and Yasharaal strengthened himself, and sat on the bed.³ Yaiqab said to Yawasap, "Al Shaday appeared to me at Lawaz in the land of Kanain, and blessed me,⁴ and said to me, 'Behold, I will make you fruitful, and multiply you, and I will make of you a company of peoples, and will give this land to your seed after you for an everlasting possession.'⁵ Now your two sons, who were born to you in the land of Matzarayam before I came to you into Matzarayam, are mine; Aparayam and Manashah, even as Raawaban and Shamaiwan, will be mine.⁶ Your issue, who you become the father of after them, will be yours. They will be called after the name of their brothers in their inheritance.⁷ As for me, when I came from Padan, Rachal died by me in the land of Kanain in the way, when there was still some distance to come to Aparathah, and I buried her there in the way to Aparathah (the same is Bayath-lehem)."⁸ Yasharaal saw Yawasap's sons, and said, "Who are these?"⁹ Yawasap said to his father, "They are my sons, whom Alahayam has given me here." He said, "Please bring them to me, and I will bless them."¹⁰ Now the eyes of Yasharaal were dim for age, so that he couldn't see. He brought them near to him; and he kissed them, and embraced them.¹¹ Yasharaal said to Yawasap, "I didn't think I would see your face, and, behold, Alahayam has let me see your seed also."¹² Yawasap brought them out from between his knees, and he bowed himself with his face to the earth.¹³ Yawasap took them both, Aparayam in his right hand toward Yasharaal's left hand, and Manashah in his left hand toward Yasharaal's right hand, and brought them near to him.¹⁴ Yasharaal stretched out his right hand, and laid it on Aparayam's head, who was the younger, and his left hand on Manashah's head, guiding his hands knowingly, for Manashah was the firstborn.¹⁵ He blessed Yawasap, and said, "The Alahayam before whom my fathers Abaraham and Yatzachaq did walk, the Alahayam who has fed me all my life long to this day,¹⁶ the angel who has redeemed me from all evil, bless the lads, and let my name be named on them, and the name of my fathers Abaraham and Yatzachaq. Let them grow into a multitude in the midst of the earth."¹⁷ When Yawasap saw that his father laid his right hand on the head of Aparayam, it displeased him. He held up his father's hand, to remove it from Aparayam's head to Manashah's head.¹⁸ Yawasap said to his father, "Not so, my father; for this is the firstborn; put your right hand on his head."¹⁹ His father refused, and said, "I know, my son, I know. He also will become a people, and he also will be great. However, his younger brother will be greater than he, and his seed will become a multitude of nations."²⁰ He blessed them that day, saying, "In you will Yasharaal bless, saying, 'Alahayam make you as Aparayam and as Manashah'" He set Aparayam before Manashah.²¹ Yasharaal said to Yawasap, "Behold, I am dying, but Alahayam will be with you, and bring you again to the land of your fathers."²² Moreover I have given to you one portion above your brothers, which I took out of the hand of the Amorite with my sword and with my bow."

49 Yaiqab called to his sons, and said: "Gather yourselves together, that I may tell you that which will happen to you in the days to come.² Assemble yourselves, and hear, you sons of Yaiqab; Listen to Yasharaal, your father."³ "Raawaban, you are my firstborn, my might, and the beginning of my strength; The pre-eminence of dignity, and the pre-eminence of power.⁴ Boiling over as water, you shall not have the pre-eminence; Because you went up to your father's bed; Then defiled it. He went up to my couch.⁵ "Shamaiwan and Laway are brothers; Weapons of violence are their swords.⁶ My soul, don't come into their council; My glory, don't be united to their assembly; For in their anger they killed a man, In their self-will they hamstrung an ox.⁷ Cursed be their anger, for it was fierce; Their wrath, for it was cruel. I will divide them in Yaiqab, Scatter them in Yasharaal."⁸ "Yahawadah, your brothers will praise you: Your hand will be on the neck of your enemies; Your father's sons will bow down before you.⁹ Yahawadah is a lion's whelp. From the prey, my son, you have gone up. He stooped down, he couched as a lion, As a lioness. Who will rouse him up?¹⁰ The scepter will not depart from Yahawadah, Nor the ruler's staff from between his feet, Until Shalah comes. To him will the obedience of the peoples be.¹¹ Binding his foal to the vine, His donkey's colt to the choice vine; He has washed his garments in wine, His robes in the blood of grapes:¹² His eyes will be red with wine, His teeth white with milk."¹³ "Zabawalan will dwell at the haven of the sea. He will be for a haven of ships. His border will be on Tzayadawan.¹⁴ "Yashashakar is a strong donkey, Couching down between the sheepfolds.¹⁵ He saw a resting-place, that it was good, The land, that it was pleasant; He bowed his shoulder to bear, And became a servant doing forced labor.¹⁶ "Wadan will judge his people, As one of the tribes of Yasharaal.

¹⁷ Wadan will be a serpent in the way, An adder in the path, That bites the horse's heels, So that his rider falls backward.¹⁸ I have waited for your salvation, Yahawah.¹⁹ "Gad, a troop will press on him; But he will press on their heel."²⁰ Out of Ashar his bread will be fat, He will yield royal dainties.²¹ "Napathalay is a doe set free, Who bears beautiful fawns.²² "Yawasap is a fruitful bough, A fruitful bough by a spring; His branches run over the wall.²³ The archers have sorely grieved him, Shot at him, and persecute him:²⁴ But his bow abode in strength, The arms of his hands were made strong, By the hands of the Mighty One of Yaiqab, (From there is the shepherd, the stone of Yasharaal),²⁵ Even by the Alahayam of your father, who will help you, By the Shaday, who will bless you, With blessings of heaven above, Blessings of the deep that couches beneath, Blessings of the breasts, and of the womb.²⁶ The blessings of your father Have prevailed above the blessings of the ancient mountains, Than the bounty of the Agaa-old hills. They will be on the head of Yawasap, On the crown of the head of him who is separated from his brothers.²⁷ "Banayaman is a ravenous wolf. In the morning she will devour the prey. At evening he will divide the spoil."²⁸ All these are the twelve tribes of Yasharaal, and this is what their father spoke to them and blessed them. He blessed everyone according to his blessing.²⁹ He charged them, and said to them, "I am to be gathered to my people. Bury me with my fathers in the cave that is in the field of Iparawan the Hittite,³⁰ in the cave that is in the field of Makapalah, which is before Mamaraa, in the land of Kanain, which Abaraham bought with the field from Iparawan the Hittite for a possession of a burying-place.³¹ There they buried Abaraham and Sharah, his wife. There they buried Yatzachaq and Rabaqah, his wife, and there I buried Laah:³² the field and the cave that is therein, which was purchased from the children of Chath."³³ When Yaiqab made an end of charging his sons, he gathered up his feet into the bed, and yielded up the spirit, and was gathered to his people.

50 Yawasap fell on his father's face, wept on him, and kissed him.² Yawasap commanded his servants, the physicians, to embalm his father; and the physicians embalmed Yasharaal.³ Forty days were fulfilled for him, for that is how many the days it takes to embalm. The Matzarayam wept for him for seventy days.⁴ When the days of weeping for him were past, Yawasap spoke to the house of Paraih, saying, "If now I have found favor in your eyes, please speak in the ears of Paraih, saying,⁵ 'My father made me swear, saying, "Behold, I am dying. Bury me in my grave which I have dug for myself in the land of Kanain." Now therefore, please let me go up and bury my father, and I will come again.'" Paraih said, "Go up, and bury your father, just like he made you swear."⁷ Yawasap went up to bury his father; and with him went up all the servants of Paraih, the elders of his house, all the elders of the land of Matzarayam,⁸ all the house of Yawasap, his brothers, and his father's house. Only their little ones, their flocks, and their herds, they left in the land of Gashan.⁹ There went up with him both chariots and horsemen. It was a very great company.¹⁰ They came to the threshing floor of Haatad, which is beyond the Yaranan, and there they lamented with a very great and sore lamentation. He mourned for his father seven days.¹¹ When the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, saw the mourning in the floor of Haatad, they said, "This is a grievous mourning by the Matzarayam." Therefore, the name of it was called Abal, which is beyond the Yaranan.¹² His sons did to him just as he commanded them,¹³ for his sons carried him into the land of Kanain, and buried him in the cave of the field of Makapalah, which Abaraham bought with the field, for a possession of a burying-place, from Iparawan the Hittite, before Mamaraa.¹⁴ Yawasap returned into Matzarayam - he, and his brothers, and all that went up with him to bury his father, after he had buried his father.¹⁵ When Yawasap's brothers saw that their father was dead, they said, "It may be that Yawasap will hate us, and will fully pay us back for all of the evil which we did to him."¹⁶ They sent a message to Yawasap, saying, "Your father commanded before he died, saying,¹⁷ "So will you tell Yawasap, 'Now please forgive the disobedience of your brothers, and their sin, because they did evil to you.` Now, please forgive the disobedience of the servants of the Alahayam of your father." Yawasap wept when they spoke to him.¹⁸ His brothers also went and fell down before his face; and they said, "Behold, we are your servants."¹⁹ Yawasap said to them, "Don't be afraid, for am I in the place of Alahayam?"²⁰ As for you, you meant evil against me, but Alahayam meant it for good, to bring to pass, as it is this day, to save many people alive.²¹ Now therefore don't be afraid. I will nourish you and your little ones." He comforted them, and spoke kindly to them.²² Yawasap lived in Matzarayam, he, and his father's house. Yawasap lived one hundred ten years.²³ Yawasap saw Aparayam's children to the third generation. The children also of Makayar, the son of Manashah, were born on Yawasap's knees.²⁴ Yawasap said to his brothers, "I am dying, but Alahayam will surely visit you, and bring you up out of this land to the land which he swore to Abaraham, to Yatzachaq, and to Yaiqab."²⁵ Yawasap took an oath of the children of Yasharaal, saying, "Alahayam will surely visit you, and you shall carry up my bones from here."²⁶ So Yawasap died, being one hundred ten years old, and they embalmed him, and he was put in a coffin in Matzarayam.

1 Now these are the names of the sons of Yasharaal, who came into Matzarayam (every man and his household came with Yaiqab): ² Raawaban, Shamaiwan, Laway, and Yahawadah, ³ Yashashakar, Zabawalan, and Banayaman, ⁴ Wadan and Napathalay, Gad and Ashar. ⁵ All the souls who came out of the Yaiqab's body were seventy souls, and Yawasap was in Matzarayam already. ⁶ Yawasap died, as did all his brothers, and all that generation. ⁷ The children of Yasharaal were fruitful, and increased abundantly, and multiplied, and grew exceedingly mighty; and the land was filled with them. ⁸ Now there arose a new king over Matzarayam, who didn't know Yawasap. ⁹ He said to his people, "Behold, the people of the children of Yasharaal are more and mightier than we."

¹¹ Therefore they set taskmasters over them to afflict them with their burdens. They built storage cities for Paraih: Patham and Raimasas. ¹² But the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied and the more they spread out. They were grieved because of the children of Yasharaal. ¹³ The Matzarayam ruthlessly made the children of Yasharaal serve, ¹⁴ and they made their lives bitter with hard service, in mortar and in brick, and in all manner of service in the field, all their service, in which they ruthlessly made them serve. ¹⁵ The king of Matzarayam spoke to the Hebrew midwives, of whom the name of the one was Shaparah, and the name of the other Pawaah, ¹⁶ and he said, "When you perform the duty of a midwife to the Hebrew women, and see them on the birth stool; if it is a son, then you shall kill him; but if it is a daughter, then she shall live." ¹⁷ But the midwives feared Alahayam, and didn't do what the king of Matzarayam commanded them, but saved the baby boys alive. ¹⁸ The king of Matzarayam called for the midwives, and said to them, "Why have you done this thing, and have saved the men-children alive?" ¹⁹ The midwives said to Paraih, "Because the Hebrew women aren't like the Matzarayam women; for they are vigorous, and give birth before the midwife comes to them." ²⁰ Alahayam dealt well with the midwives, and the people multiplied, and grew very mighty. ²¹ It happened, because the midwives feared Alahayam, that he gave them families. ²² Paraih charged all his people, saying, "You shall cast every son who is born into the river, and every daughter you shall save alive."

2 A man of the house of Laway went and took a daughter of Laway as his wife. ² The woman conceived, and bore a son. When she saw that he was a fine child, she hid him three months. ³ When she could no longer hide him, she took a papyrus basket for him, and coated it with tar and with pitch. She put the child in it, and laid it in the reeds by the river's bank. ⁴ His sister stood far off, to see what would be done to him. ⁵ Paraih's daughter came down to bathe at the river. Her maidens walked along by the riverside. She saw the basket among the reeds, and sent her handmaid to get it. ⁶ She opened it, and saw the child, and, behold, the baby cried. She had compassion on him, and said, "This is one of the Hebrews' children." ⁷ Then his sister said to Paraih's daughter, "Should I go and call a nurse for you from the Hebrew women, that she may nurse the child for you?" ⁸ Paraih's daughter said to her, "Go." The maiden went and called the child's mother. ⁹ Paraih's daughter said to her, "Take this child away, and nurse him for me, and I will give you your wages." The woman took the child, and nursed it. ¹⁰ The child grew, and she brought him to Paraih's daughter, and he became her son. She named him Mashah, and said, "Because I drew him out of the water." ¹¹ It happened in those days, when Mashah had grown up, that he went out to his brothers, and looked at their burdens. He saw an Matzarayam striking a Hebrew, one of his brothers. ¹² He looked this way and that way, and when he saw that there was no one, he killed the Matzarayam, and hid him in the sand. ¹³ He went out the second day, and, behold, two men of the Hebrews were fighting with each other. He said to him who did the wrong, "Why do you strike your fellow?" ¹⁴ He said, "Who made you a prince and a judge over us? Do you plan to kill me, as you killed the Matzarayam?" Mashah was afraid, and said, "Surely this thing is known." ¹⁵ Now when Paraih heard this thing, he sought to kill Mashah. But Mashah fled from the face of Paraih, and lived in the land of Madayan, and he sat down by a well. ¹⁶ Now the priest of Madayan had seven daughters. They came and drew water, and filled the troughs to water their father's flock. ¹⁷ The shepherds came and drove them away; but Mashah stood up and helped them, and watered their flock. ¹⁸ When they came to Raiiwaal, their father, he said, "How is it that you have returned so early today?" ¹⁹ They said, "An Matzarayam delivered us out of the hand of the shepherds, and moreover he drew water for us, and watered the flock." ²⁰ He said to his daughters, "Where is he? Why is it that you have left the man? Call him, that he may eat bread." ²¹ Mashah was content to dwell with the man. He gave Mashah Tzaparrah, his daughter. ²² She bore a son, and he named him Garashawan, for he said, "I have been a sojourner in a foreign land." ²³ It happened in the course of those many days, that the king of Matzarayam died, and the children of Yasharaal sighed because of the bondage, and they cried, and their cry came up to Alahayam because of the bondage. ²⁴ Alahayam heard their groaning, and Alahayam remembered his covenant with Abaraham, with Yatzachaq, and with Yaiqab. ²⁵ Alahayam saw the children of Yasharaal, and Alahayam was concerned about them.

3 Now Mashah was keeping the flock of Yathar, his father-in-law, the priest of Madayan, and he led the flock to the back of the wilderness, and came to Alahayam's mountain, to Charab. ² The angel of Yahawah appeared to him in a flame of fire out of the midst of a bush. He looked, and behold, the bush burned with fire, and the bush was not consumed. ³ Mashah said, I will turn aside now, and see this great sight, why the bush is not burnt. ⁴ When Yahawah saw that he turned aside to see, Alahayam called to him out of the midst of the bush, and said, "Mashah! Mashah!" He said, "Here I am." ⁵ He said, "Don't come close. Take off your sandals from off your feet, for the place you are standing on is holy ground." ⁶ Moreover he said, "I am the Alahayam of your father, the Alahayam of Abaraham, the Alahayam of Yatzachaq, and the Alahayam of Yaiqab." Mashah hid his face; for he was afraid to look at Alahayam. ⁷ Yahawah said, "I have surely seen the affliction of my people who are in Matzarayam, and have heard their cry because of their taskmasters, for I know their sorrows. ⁸ I have come down to deliver them out of the hand of the Matzarayam, and to bring them up out of that land to a good and large land, to a land flowing with milk and honey; to the place of the Canaanite, the Hittite, the Amorite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite. ⁹ Now, behold, the cry of the children of Yasharaal has come to me. Moreover I have seen the oppression with which the Matzarayam oppress them. ¹⁰ Come now therefore, and I will send you to Paraih, that you may bring forth my people, the children of Yasharaal, out of Matzarayam." ¹¹ Mashah said to Alahayam, "Who am I, that I should go to Paraih, and that I should bring forth the children of Yasharaal out of Matzarayam?" ¹² He said, "Certainly I will be with you. This will be the token to you, that I have sent you: when you have brought forth the people out of Matzarayam, you shall serve Alahayam on this mountain." ¹³ Mashah said to Alahayam,

"Behold, when I come to the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, 'The Alahayam of your fathers has sent me to you;' and they ask me, 'What is his name?' What should I tell them?"¹⁴ Alahayam said to Mashah, "I AM WHO I AM," and he said, "You shall tell the children of Yasharaal this: 'I AM has sent me to you.'"¹⁵ Alahayam said moreover to Mashah, "You shall tell the children of Yasharaal this, 'Yahawah, the Alahayam of your fathers, the Alahayam of Abaraham, the Alahayam of Yatzachaq, and the Alahayam of Yaiqab, has sent me to you.' This is my name forever, and this is my memorial to all generations."¹⁶ Go, and gather the elders of Yasharaal together, and tell them, 'Yahawah, the Alahayam of your fathers, the Alahayam of Abaraham, of Yatzachaq, and of Yaiqab, has appeared to me, saying, 'I have surely visited you, and seen that which is done to you in Matzarayam;'¹⁷ and I have said, I will bring you up out of the affliction of Matzarayam to the land of the Canaanite, the Hittite, the Amorite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite, to a land flowing with milk and honey.'"¹⁸ They will listen to your voice, and you shall come, you and the elders of Yasharaal, to the king of Matzarayam, and you shall tell him, 'Yahawah, the Alahayam of the Hebrews, has met with us. Now please let us go three days' journey into the wilderness, that we may sacrifice to Yahawah, our Alahayam.'¹⁹ I know that the king of Matzarayam won't give you permission to go, no, not by a mighty hand."²⁰ I will put forth my hand and strike Matzarayam with all my wonders which I will do in the midst of it, and after that he will let you go."²¹ I will give this people favor in the sight of the Matzarayam, and it will happen that when you go, you shall not go empty-handed."²² But every woman shall ask of her neighbor, and of her who sojourns in her house, jewels of silver, jewels of gold, and clothing; and you shall put them on your sons, and on your daughters. You shall despoil the Matzarayam.

4 Mashah answered, "But, behold, they will not believe me, nor listen to my voice; for they will say, 'Yahawah has not appeared to you.'"² Yahawah said to him, "What is that in your hand?" He said, "A rod."³ He said, "Throw it on the ground." He threw it on the ground, and it became a snake; and Mashah ran away from it."⁴ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Pawt forth your hand, and take it by the tail." He put forth his hand, and laid hold of it, and it became a rod in his hand."⁵ "That they may believe that Yahawah, the Alahayam of their fathers, the Alahayam of Abaraham, the Alahayam of Yatzachaq, and the Alahayam of Yaiqab, has appeared to you."⁶ Yahawah said furthermore to him, "Now put your hand inside your cloak." He put his hand inside his cloak, and when he took it out, behold, his hand was leprous, as white as snow."⁷ He said, "Pawt your hand inside your cloak again." He put his hand inside his cloak again, and when he took it out of his cloak, behold, it had turned again as his other flesh."⁸ "It will happen, if they will neither believe you nor listen to the voice of the first sign, that they will believe the voice of the latter sign."⁹ It will happen, if they will not believe even these two signs, neither listen to your voice, that you shall take of the water of the river, and pour it on the dry land. The water which you take out of the river will become blood on the dry land."¹⁰ Mashah said to Yahawah, "Oh, Adanay, I am not eloquent, neither before now, nor since you have spoken to your servant; for I am slow of speech, and of a slow tongue."¹¹ Yahawah said to him, "Who made man's mouth? Or who makes one mute, or deaf, or seeing, or blind? Isn't it I, Yahawah?"¹² Now therefore go, and I will be with your mouth, and teach you what you shall speak."¹³ He said, "Oh, Adanay, please send someone else."¹⁴ The anger of Yahawah was kindled against Mashah, and he said, "What about Aharan, your brother, the Levite? I know that he can speak well. Also, behold, he comes forth to meet you. When he sees you, he will be glad in his heart."¹⁵ You shall speak to him, and put the words in his mouth. I will be with your mouth, and with his mouth, and will teach you what you shall do."¹⁶ He will be your spokesman to the people; and it will happen, that he will be to you a mouth, and you will be to him as Alahayam."¹⁷ You shall take this rod in your hand, with which you shall do the signs."¹⁸ Mashah went and returned to Yathar his father-in-law, and said to him, "Please let me go and return to my brothers who are in Matzarayam, and see whether they are still alive." Yathar said to Mashah, "Go in peace."¹⁹ Yahawah said to Mashah in Madayan, "Go, return into Matzarayam; for all the men who sought your life are dead."²⁰ Mashah took his wife and his sons, and set them on a donkey, and he returned to the land of Matzarayam. Mashah took Alahayam's rod in his hand."²¹ Yahawah said to Mashah, "When you go back into Matzarayam, see that you do before Paraih all the wonders which I have put in your hand, but I will harden his heart and he will not let the people go."²² You shall tell Paraih, 'Thus says Yahawah, Yasharaal is my son, my firstborn,'²³ and I have said to you, 'Let my son go, that he may serve me;' and you have refused to let him go. Behold, I will kill your son, your firstborn."²⁴ It happened on the way at a lodging place, that Yahawah met him and wanted to kill him."²⁵ Then Tzarah took a flint, and cut off the foreskin of her son, and cast it at his feet; and she said, "Surely you are a bridegroom of blood to me."²⁶ So he let him alone. Then she said, "You are a bridegroom of blood," because of the circumcision."²⁷ Yahawah said to Aharan, "Go into the wilderness to meet Mashah." He went, and met him on Alahayam's mountain, and kissed him."²⁸ Mashah told Aharan all the words of Yahawah with which he had sent him, and all the signs with which he had charged him."²⁹ Mashah and Aharan went and gathered together all the elders of the children of Yasharaal."³⁰ Aharan spoke all the words which Yahawah had spoken to Mashah, and did the signs in the sight of the people."³¹ The people believed, and when they heard that Yahawah had visited the children of Yasharaal, and that he had seen their affliction, then they bowed their heads and worshipped.

5 Afterward Mashah and Aharan came, and said to Paraih, "This is what Yahawah, the Alahayam of Yasharaal, says, 'Let my people go, that they may hold a feast to me in the wilderness.'"² Paraih said, "Who is Yahawah, that I should listen to his voice to let Yasharaal go? I don't know Yahawah, and moreover I will not let Yasharaal go."³ They said, "The Alahayam of the Hebrews has met with us. Please let us go three days' journey into the wilderness, and sacrifice to Yahawah, our Alahayam, lest he fall on us with pestilence, or with the sword."⁴ The king of Matzarayam said to them, "Why do you, Mashah and Aharan, take the people from their work? Get back to your burdens!"⁵ Paraih said, "Behold, the people of the land are now many, and you make them rest from their burdens."⁶ The same day Paraih commanded the taskmasters of the people, and their officers, saying,⁷ "You shall no longer give the people straw to make brick, as before. Let them go and gather straw for themselves."⁸ The number of the bricks, which they made before, you require from them. You shall not diminish anything of it, for they are idle; therefore they cry, saying, 'Let us go and sacrifice to our Alahayam.'⁹ Let heavier work be laid on the men, that they may labor therein; and don't let them pay any attention to lying words."¹⁰ The taskmasters of the people went out, and their officers, and they spoke to the people, saying, This is what Paraih says: "I will not give you straw."¹¹ Go yourselves, get straw where you can find it, for nothing of your work shall be diminished."¹² So the people were scattered abroad throughout all the land of Matzarayam to gather stubble for straw."¹³ The taskmasters were urgent saying, "Fulfill your work quota daily, as when there was straw!"¹⁴ The officers of the children of Yasharaal, whom Paraih's taskmasters had set over them, were beaten, and demanded, "Why haven't you fulfilled your quota both yesterday and today, in making brick as before?"¹⁵ Then the officers of the children of Yasharaal came and cried to Paraih, saying, "Why do you deal this way with your servants?"¹⁶ No straw is given to your servants, and they tell us, 'Make brick!' and, behold, your servants are beaten; but the fault is in your own people."¹⁷ But he said, "You are idle! You are idle! Therefore you say, 'Let us go and sacrifice to Yahawah.'¹⁸ Go therefore now, and work, for no straw shall be given to you, yet shall you deliver the same number of bricks!"¹⁹ The officers of the children of Yasharaal saw that they were in trouble, when it was said, "You shall not diminish anything from your daily quota of bricks!"²⁰ They met Mashah and Aharan, who stood in the way, as they came forth from Paraih:²¹ and they said to them, "May Yahawah look at you, and judge, because you have made us a stench to be abhorred in the eyes of Paraih, and in the eyes of his servants, to put a sword in their hand to kill us."²² Mashah returned to Yahawah, and said, "Adanay, why have you brought trouble on this people? Why is it that you have sent me?"²³ For since I came to Paraih to speak in your name, he has brought trouble on this people; neither have you delivered your people at all."

6 Yahawah said to Mashah, "Now you shall see what I will do to Paraih, for by a strong hand he shall let them go, and by a strong hand he shall drive them out of his land."² Alahayam spoke to Mashah, and said to him, "I am Yahawah;³ and I appeared to Abaraham, to Yatzachaq, and to Yaiqab, as Al Shaday; but by my name Yahawah I was not known to them."⁴ I have also established my covenant with them, to give them the land of Kanain, the land of their travels, in which they lived as aliens.⁵ Moreover I have heard the groaning of the children of Yasharaal, whom the Matzarayam keep in bondage, and I have remembered my covenant.⁶ Therefore tell the children of Yasharaal, 'I am Yahawah, and I will bring you out from under the burdens of the Matzarayam, and I will rid you out of their bondage, and I will redeem you with an outstretched arm, and with great judgments:⁷ and I will take you to me for a people, and I will be to you a Alahayam; and you shall know that I am Yahawah your Alahayam, who brings you out from under the burdens of the Matzarayam.'⁸ I will bring you into the land which I swore to give to Abaraham, to Yatzachaq, and to Yaiqab; and I will give it to you for a heritage: I am Yahawah."⁹ Mashah spoke so to the children of Yasharaal, but they didn't listen to Mashah for anguish of spirit, and for cruel bondage.¹⁰ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,¹¹ "Go in, speak to Paraih king of Matzarayam, that he let the children of Yasharaal go out of his land."¹² Mashah spoke before Yahawah, saying, "Behold, the children of Yasharaal haven't listened to me. How then shall Paraih listen to me, who am of uncircumcised lips?"¹³ Yahawah spoke to Mashah and to Aharan, and gave them a charge to the children of Yasharaal, and to Paraih king of Matzarayam, to bring the children of Yasharaal out of the land of Matzarayam.¹⁴ These are the heads of their fathers' houses. The sons of Raawaban the firstborn of Yasharaal: Hanoch, and Palawaa, Chatzarawan, and Karamay; these are the families of Raawaban.¹⁵ The sons of Shamaian: Yamawaal, and Yamayan, and Ahad, and Yakayan, and Tzachar, and Shaawal the son of a Canaanite woman; these are the families of Shamaian.¹⁶ These are the names of the sons of Laway according to their generations: Garashawan, and Qahath, and Mararay; and the years of the life of Laway were one hundred thirty-seven years.¹⁷ The sons of Garashawan: Labanay and Shamaian, according to their families.¹⁸ The sons of Qahath: Imaram, and Yatzahar, and Chabarawan, and Izayaal; and the years of the life of Qahath were one hundred thirty-three years.¹⁹ The sons of Mararay: Machalay and Mawashay. These are the families of the Levites according to their generations.²⁰ Imaram took Yawakabad his father's sister to himself as wife; and she bore him Aharan and Mashah; and the years of the life of Imaram were a hundred and thirty-seven years.²¹ The sons of Yatzahar: Qarach, and Napag, and Zakaray.²² The sons of Izayaal: Mayashaal, and Alayatzapan, and Sithri.²³ Aharan took Alayashabai, the daughter of Imayanadab, the sister of Nachashawan, as his wife; and she bore him Nadab and Abayahawaa, Alaizar and Ayathammar.²⁴ The sons of Qarach: Asayar, and Alaqanah, and Abayaasap; these are the families of the Korahites.²⁵ Alaizar Aharan's son took one of the daughters of Pawatayaal as his wife; and she bore him Payanachas. These are the heads of the fathers' houses of the Levites according to their families.²⁶ These are that Aharan and Mashah, to whom Yahawah said, "Bring out the children of Yasharaal from the land of Matzarayam according to their hosts."²⁷ These are those who spoke to Paraih king of Matzarayam, to bring out the children of Yasharaal from Matzarayam. These are that Mashah and Aharan.²⁸ It happened on the day when Yahawah spoke to Mashah in the land of Matzarayam,²⁹ that Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, "I am Yahawah. Speak to Paraih king of Matzarayam all that I speak to you."³⁰ Mashah said before Yahawah, "Behold, I am of uncircumcised lips, and how shall Paraih listen to me?"

7 Yahawah said to Mashah, "Behold, I have made you as Alahayam to Paraih; and Aharan your brother shall be your prophet.⁶ You shall speak all that I command you; and Aharan your brother shall speak to Paraih, that he let the children of Yasharaal go out of his land.⁷ I will harden Paraih's heart, and multiply my signs and my wonders in the land of Matzarayam.⁸ But Paraih will not listen to you, and I will lay my hand on Matzarayam, and bring forth my hosts, my people the children of Yasharaal, out of the land of Matzarayam by great judgments.⁹ The Matzarayam shall know that I am Yahawah, when I stretch forth my hand on Matzarayam, and bring out the children of Yasharaal from among them."¹⁰ Mashah and Aharan did so. As Yahawah commanded them, so they did.¹¹ Mashah was eighty years old, and Aharan eighty-three years old, when they spoke to Paraih.¹² Yahawah spoke to Mashah and to Aharan, saying,¹³ "When Paraih speaks to you, saying, 'Perform a miracle!' then you shall tell Aharan, 'Take your rod, and cast it down before Paraih, that it become a serpent.'"¹⁴ Mashah and Aharan went in to Paraih, and they did so, as Yahawah had commanded: and Aharan cast down his rod before Paraih and before his servants, and it became a serpent.¹⁵ Then Paraih also called for the wise men and the sorcerers. They also, the magicians of Matzarayam, did in like manner with their enchantments.¹⁶ For they cast down every man his rod, and they became serpents: but Aharan's rod swallowed up their rods.¹⁷ Paraih's heart was hardened, and he didn't listen to them; as Yahawah had spoken.¹⁸ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Paraih's heart is stubborn. He refuses to let the people go.¹⁹ Go to Paraih in the morning. Behold, he goes out to the water; and you shall stand by the river's bank to meet him; and the rod which was turned to a serpent you shall take in your hand."²⁰ You shall tell him, 'Yahawah, the Alahayam of the Hebrews, has sent me to you, saying, "Let my people go, that they may serve me in the wilderness:" and, behold, until now you haven't listened.²¹ Thus says Yahawah, "In this you shall know that I am Yahawah. Behold, I will strike with the rod that is in my hand on the waters which are in the river, and they shall be turned to blood.²² The fish that are in the river shall die, and the river shall become foul; and the Matzarayam shall loathe to drink water from the river.'" "²³ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Tell Aharan, 'Take your rod, and stretch out your hand over the waters of Matzarayam, over their rivers, over their streams, and over their pools, and over all their ponds of water, that they may become blood; and there shall be blood throughout all the land of Matzarayam, both in vessels of wood and in vessels of stone.'" ²⁴ Mashah and Aharan did so, as Yahawah commanded; and he lifted up the rod, and struck the waters that were in the river, in the sight of Paraih, and in the sight of his servants; and all the waters that were in the river were turned to blood.²⁵ The fish that were in the river died; and the river became foul, and the Matzarayam couldn't drink water from the river; and the blood was throughout all the land of Matzarayam.²⁶ The magicians of Matzarayam did in like manner with their enchantments; and Paraih's heart was hardened, and he didn't listen to them; as Yahawah had spoken.²⁷ Paraih turned and went into his house, neither did he lay even this to heart.²⁸ All the Matzarayam dug round about the river for water to drink; for they couldn't drink of the water of the river.²⁹ Seven days were fulfilled, after Yahawah had struck the river.

8 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, Go in to Paraih, and tell him, "This is what Yahawah says, 'Let my people go, that they may serve me.'² If you refuse to let them go, behold, I will plague all your borders with frogs:³ and the river shall swarm with frogs, which shall go up and come into your house, and into your bedchamber, and on your bed, and into the house of your servants, and on your people, and into your ovens, and into your kneading-troughs:⁴ and the frogs shall come up both on you, and on your people, and on all your servants." ⁵ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Tell Aharan, 'Stretch forth your hand with your rod over the rivers, over the streams, and over the pools, and cause frogs to come up on the land of Matzarayam.'"

¹⁰ He said, "Tomorrow." He said, "Be it according to your word, that you may know that there is none like Yahawah our Alahayam."

¹¹ The frogs shall depart from you, and from your houses, and from your servants, and from your people. They shall remain in the river only." ¹² Mashah and Aharan went out from Paraih, and Mashah cried to Yahawah concerning the frogs which he had brought on Paraih. ¹³ Yahawah did according to the word of Mashah, and the frogs died out of the houses, out of the courts, and out of the fields.

¹⁴ They gathered them together in heaps, and the land stank. ¹⁵ But when Paraih saw that there was a respite, he hardened his heart, and didn't listen to them, as Yahawah had spoken. ¹⁶ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Tell Aharan, 'Stretch out your rod, and strike the dust of the earth, that it may become lice throughout all the land of Matzarayam.'"

¹⁷ They did so; and Aharan stretched out his hand with his rod, and struck the dust of the earth, and there were lice on man, and on animal; all the dust of the earth became lice throughout all the land of Matzarayam. ¹⁸ The magicians tried with their enchantments to bring forth lice, but they couldn't. There were lice on man, and on animal. ¹⁹ Then the magicians said to Paraih, "This is the finger of Alahayam:" and Paraih's heart was hardened, and he didn't listen to them; as Yahawah had spoken. ²⁰ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Rise up early in the morning, and stand before Paraih; behold, he comes forth to the water; and tell him, 'This is what Yahawah says, 'Let my people go, that they may serve me. ²¹ Else, if you will not let my people go, behold, I will send swarms of flies on you, and on your servants, and on your people, and into your houses: and the houses of the Matzarayam shall be full of swarms of flies, and also the ground whereon they are. ²² I will set apart in that day the land of Gashan, in which my people dwell, that no swarms of flies shall be there; to the end you may know that I am Yahawah in the midst of the earth. ²³ I will put a division between my people and your people: by tomorrow shall this sign be.'"

²⁴ Yahawah did so; and there came grievous swarms of flies into the house of Paraih, and into his servants' houses; and in all the land of Matzarayam the land was corrupted by reason of the swarms of flies. ²⁵ Paraih called for Mashah and for Aharan, and said, "Go, sacrifice to your Alahayam in the land!" ²⁶ Mashah said, "It isn't appropriate to do so; for we shall sacrifice the abomination of the Matzarayam to Yahawah our Alahayam. Behold, shall we sacrifice the abomination of the Matzarayam before their eyes, and won't they stone us? ²⁷ We will go three days' journey into the wilderness, and sacrifice to Yahawah our Alahayam, as he shall command us."

²⁸ Paraih said, "I will let you go, that you may sacrifice to Yahawah your Alahayam in the wilderness, only you shall not go very far away. Pray for me."

9 Then Yahawah said to Mashah, "Go in to Paraih, and tell him, 'This is what Yahawah, the Alahayam of the Hebrews, says: "Let my people go, that they may serve me. ² For if you refuse to let them go, and hold them still, ³ behold, the hand of Yahawah is on your cattle which are in the field, on the horses, on the donkeys, on the camels, on the herds, and on the flocks with a very grievous pestilence. ⁴ Yahawah will make a distinction between the cattle of Yasharaal and the cattle of Matzarayam; and there shall nothing die of all that belongs to the children of Yasharaal.'"

thing in the land." ⁶ Yahawah did that thing on the next day; and all the cattle of Matzarayam died, but of the cattle of the children of Yasharaal, not one died. ⁷ Paraih sent, and, behold, there was not so much as one of the cattle of the Israelites dead. But the heart of Paraih was stubborn, and he didn't let the people go. ⁸ Yahawah said to Mashah and to Aharan, "Take to you handfuls of ashes of the furnace, and let Mashah sprinkle it toward the sky in the sight of Paraih. ⁹ It shall become small dust over all the land of Matzarayam, and shall be a boil breaking forth with boils on man and on animal, throughout all the land of Matzarayam." ¹⁰ They took ashes of the furnace, and stood before Paraih; and Mashah sprinkled it up toward the sky; and it became a boil breaking forth with boils on man and on animal. ¹¹ The magicians couldn't stand before Mashah because of the boils; for the boils were on the magicians, and on all the Matzarayam. ¹² Yahawah hardened the heart of Paraih, and he didn't listen to them, as Yahawah had spoken to Mashah. ¹³ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Rise up early in the morning, and stand before Paraih, and tell him, 'This is what Yahawah, the Alahayam of the Hebrews, says: "Let my people go, that they may serve me. ¹⁴ For this time I will send all my plagues on your heart, and on your servants, and on your people; that you may know that there is none like me in all the earth. ¹⁵ For now I would have put forth my hand, and struck you and your people with pestilence, and you would have been cut off from the earth; ¹⁶ but indeed for this cause I have made you stand, to show you my power, and that my name may be declared throughout all the earth."

¹⁷ As you still exalt yourself against my people, that you won't let them go. ¹⁸ Behold, tomorrow about this time I will cause it to rain a very grievous hail, such as has not been in Matzarayam since the day it was founded even until now. ¹⁹ Now therefore command that all of your cattle and all that you have in the field be brought into shelter. Every man and animal that is found in the field, and isn't brought home, the hail shall come down on them, and they shall die.'"

²⁸ Pray to Yahawah; for there has been enough of mighty thunderings and hail. I will let you go, and you shall stay no longer." ²⁹ Mashah said to him, "As soon as I have gone out of the city, I will spread abroad my hands to Yahawah. The thunders shall cease, neither shall there be any more hail; that you may know that the earth is Yahawah's. ³⁰ But as for you and your servants, I know that you will not yet fear Yahawah Alahayam." ³¹ The flax and the barley were struck, for the barley was in the ear, and the flax was in bloom. ³² But the wheat and the spelt were not struck, for they had not grown up. ³³ Mashah went out of the city from Paraih, and spread abroad his hands to Yahawah; and the thunders and hail ceased, and the rain was not poured on the earth. ³⁴ When Paraih saw that the rain and the hail and the thunders were ceased, he sinned yet more, and hardened his heart, he and his servants. ³⁵ The heart of Paraih was hardened, and he didn't let the children of Yasharaal go, as Yahawah had spoken through Mashah.

these my signs in the midst of them,² and that you may tell in the hearing of your son, and of your son's son, what things I have done to Matzarayam, and my signs which I have done among them; that you may know that I am Yahawah."³ Mashah and Aharan went in to Paraih, and said to him, "This is what Yahawah, the Alahayam of the Hebrews, says: 'How long will you refuse to humble yourself before me? Let my people go, that they may serve me.'⁴ Or else, if you refuse to let my people go, behold, tomorrow I will bring locusts into your country,⁵ and they shall cover the surface of the earth, so that one won't be able to see the earth. They shall eat the residue of that which has escaped, which remains to you from the hail, and shall eat every tree which grows for you out of the field.⁶ Your houses shall be filled, and the houses of all your servants, and the houses of all the Matzarayam; as neither your fathers nor your fathers' fathers have seen, since the day that they were on the earth to this day.'" He turned, and went out from Paraih.⁷ Paraih's servants said to him, "How long will this man be a snare to us? Let the men go, that they may serve Yahawah, their Alahayam. Don't you yet know that Matzarayam is destroyed?"⁸ Mashah and Aharan were brought again to Paraih, and he said to them, "Go, serve Yahawah your Alahayam; but who are those who will go?"⁹ Mashah said, "We will go with our young and with our old; with our sons and with our daughters, with our flocks and with our herds will we go; for we must hold a feast to Yahawah."¹⁰ He said to them, "Yahawah be with you if I will let you go with your little ones! See, evil is clearly before your faces."¹¹ Not so! Go now you who are men, and serve Yahawah; for that is what you desire!" They were driven out from Paraih's presence.¹² Yahawah said to Mashah, "Stretch out your hand over the land of Matzarayam for the locusts, that they may come up on the land of Matzarayam, and eat every herb of the land, even all that the hail has left."¹³ Mashah stretched forth his rod over the land of Matzarayam, and Yahawah brought an east wind on the land all that day, and all the night; and when it was morning, the east wind brought the locusts.¹⁴ The locusts went up over all the land of Matzarayam, and rested in all the borders of Matzarayam. They were very grievous. Before them there were no such locusts as they, neither after them shall be such.¹⁵ For they covered the surface of the whole earth, so that the land was darkened, and they ate every herb of the land, and all the fruit of the trees which the hail had left. There remained nothing green, either tree or herb of the field, through all the land of Matzarayam.¹⁶ Then Paraih called for Mashah and Aharan in haste, and he said, "I have sinned against Yahawah your Alahayam, and against you."¹⁷ Now therefore please forgive my sin again, and pray to Yahawah your Alahayam, that he may also take away from me this death."¹⁸ He went out from Paraih, and prayed to Yahawah.¹⁹ Yahawah turned an exceeding strong west wind, which took up the locusts, and drove them into the Sawap. There remained not one locust in all the borders of Matzarayam.²⁰ But Yahawah hardened Paraih's heart, and he didn't let the children of Yasharaal go.²¹ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Stretch out your hand toward the sky, that there may be darkness over the land of Matzarayam, even darkness which may be felt."²² Mashah stretched forth his hand toward the sky, and there was a thick darkness in all the land of Matzarayam three days.²³ They didn't see one another, neither did anyone rise from his place for three days; but all the children of Yasharaal had light in their dwellings.²⁴ Paraih called to Mashah, and said, "Go, serve Yahawah. Only let your flocks and your herds stay behind. Let your little ones also go with you."²⁵ Mashah said, "You must also give into our hand sacrifices and burnt-offerings, that we may sacrifice to Yahawah our Alahayam."²⁶ Our cattle also shall go with us. There shall not a hoof be left behind, for of it we must take to serve Yahawah our Alahayam; and we don't know with what we must serve Yahawah, until we come there."²⁷ But Yahawah hardened Paraih's heart, and he wouldn't let them go.²⁸ Paraih said to him, "Get away from me! Be careful to see my face no more; for in the day you see my face you shall die!"²⁹ Mashah said, "You have spoken well. I will see your face again no more."

11 Yahawah said to Mashah, "Yet one plague more will I bring on Paraih, and on Matzarayam; afterwards he will let you go. When he lets you go, he will surely thrust you out altogether."² Speak now in the ears of the people, and let them ask every man of his neighbor, and every woman of her neighbor, jewels of silver, and jewels of gold."³ Yahawah gave the people favor in the sight of the Matzarayam. Moreover the man Mashah was very great in the land of Matzarayam, in the sight of Paraih's servants, and in the sight of the people.⁴ Mashah said, "This is what Yahawah says: 'About midnight I will go out into the midst of Matzarayam,'⁵ and all the firstborn in the land of Matzarayam shall die, from the firstborn of Paraih who sits on his throne, even to the firstborn of the maid-servant who is behind the mill; and all the firstborn of cattle."⁶ There shall be a great cry throughout all the land of Matzarayam, such as there has not been, nor shall be any more.⁷ But against any of the children of Yasharaal a dog won't even bark or move its tongue, against man or animal; that you may know that Yahawah makes a distinction between the Matzarayam and Yasharaal.⁸ All these your servants shall come down to me, and bow down themselves to me, saying, 'Get out, and all the people who follow you; and after that I will go out.'" He went out from Paraih in hot anger.⁹ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Paraih won't listen to you, that my wonders may be multiplied in the land of Matzarayam."¹⁰ Mashah and Aharan did all these wonders before Paraih, and Yahawah hardened Paraih's heart, and he didn't let the children of Yasharaal go out of his land.

12 Yahawah spoke to Mashah and Aharan in the land of Matzarayam, saying,² "This month shall be to you the beginning of months. It shall be the first month of the year to you."³ Speak to all the congregation of Yasharaal, saying, 'On the tenth day of this month, they shall take to them every man a lamb, according to their fathers' houses, a lamb for a household;⁴ and if the household be too little for a lamb, then he and his neighbor next to his house shall take one according to the number of the souls; according to everyone can eat you shall make your count for the lamb.'⁵ Your lamb shall be without blemish, a male a year old. You shall take it from the sheep, or from the goats;⁶ and you shall keep it until the fourteenth day of the same month; and the whole assembly of the congregation of Yasharaal shall kill it at evening.⁷ They shall take same of the blood, and put it on the two side-posts and on the lintel, on the houses in which they shall eat it.⁸ They shall eat the flesh in that night, roasted with fire, and unleavened bread. They shall eat it with bitter herbs.⁹ Don't eat it raw, nor boiled at all with water, but roasted with fire; with its head, its legs and its inner parts.¹⁰ You shall let nothing of it remain until the morning; but that which remains of it until the morning you shall burn with fire.¹¹ This is how you shall eat it: with your loins girded, your shoes on your feet, and your staff in your hand; and you shall eat it in haste: it is Yahawah's Passover.¹² For I will go through the land of Matzarayam in that night, and will strike all the firstborn in the land of Matzarayam, both man and animal. Against all the gods of Matzarayam I will execute judgments: I am Yahawah.¹³ The blood shall be to you for a token on the houses where you are: and when I see the blood, I will pass over you, and there shall no plague be on you to destroy you, when I strike the land of Matzarayam.¹⁴ This day shall be to you for a memorial, and you shall keep it a feast to Yahawah: throughout your generations you shall keep it a feast by an ordinance forever.¹⁵ Seven days shall you eat unleavened bread; even the first day you shall put away yeast out of your houses, for whoever eats leavened bread from the first day until the seventh day, that soul shall be cut off from Yasharaal.¹⁶ In the first day there shall be to you a holy convocation, and in the seventh day a holy convocation; no manner of work shall be done in them, except that which every man must eat, that only may be done by you.¹⁷ You shall observe the feast of unleavened bread; for in this same day have I brought your hosts out of the land of Matzarayam: therefore shall you observe this day throughout your generations by an ordinance forever.¹⁸ In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month at evening, you shall eat unleavened bread, until the twenty first day of the month at evening.¹⁹ Seven days shall there be no yeast found in your houses, for whoever eats that which is leavened, that soul shall be cut off from the congregation of Yasharaal, whether he be a sojourner, or one who is born in the land.²⁰ You shall eat nothing leavened. In all your habitations you shall eat unleavened bread."²¹ Then Mashah called for all the elders of Yasharaal, and said to them, "Draw out, and take lambs according to your families, and kill the Passover."²² You shall take a bunch of hyssop, and dip it in the blood that is in the basin, and strike the lintel and the two side-posts with the blood that is in the basin; and none of you shall go out of the door of his house until the morning.²³ For Yahawah will pass through to strike the Matzarayam; and when he sees the blood on the lintel, and on the two side-posts, Yahawah will pass over the door, and will not allow the destroyer to come in to your houses to strike you.²⁴ You shall observe this thing for an ordinance to you and to your sons forever.²⁵ It shall happen when you have come to the land which Yahawah will give you, according as he has promised, that you shall keep this service.²⁶ It will happen, when your children ask you, 'What do you mean by this service?'²⁷ that you shall say, 'It is the sacrifice of Yahawah's Passover, who passed over the houses of the children of Yasharaal in Matzarayam, when he struck the Matzarayam, and spared our houses.'" The people bowed their heads and worshipped.²⁸ The children of Yasharaal went and did so; as Yahawah had commanded Mashah and Aharan, so they did.²⁹ It happened at midnight, that Yahawah struck all the firstborn in the land of Matzarayam, from the firstborn of Paraih who sat on his throne to the firstborn of the captive who was in the dungeon; and all the firstborn of cattle.³⁰ Paraih rose up in the night, he, and all his servants, and all the Matzarayam; and there was a great cry in Matzarayam, for there was not a house where there was not one dead.³¹ He called for Mashah and Aharan by night, and said, "Rise up, get out from among my people, both you and the children of Yasharaal; and go, serve Yahawah, as you have said!"³² Take both your flocks and your herds, as you have said, and be gone; and bless me also!"³³ The Matzarayam were urgent with the people, to send them out of the land in haste, for they said, "We are all dead men."³⁴ The people took their dough before it was leavened, their kneading-troughs being bound up in their clothes on their shoulders.³⁵ The children of Yasharaal did according to the word of Mashah; and they asked of the Matzarayam jewels of silver, and jewels of gold, and clothing.³⁶ Yahawah gave the people favor in the sight of the Matzarayam, so that they let them have what they asked. They despoiled the Matzarayam.³⁷ The children of Yasharaal journeyed from Raimasas to Sakawath, about six hundred thousand on foot who were men, besides children.³⁸ A mixed multitude went up also with them, with flocks, herds, and even very much cattle.³⁹ They baked unleavened cakes of the dough which they brought forth out of Matzarayam; for it wasn't leavened, because they were thrust out of Matzarayam, and couldn't wait, neither had they prepared for themselves any food.⁴⁰ Now the time that the children of Yasharaal lived in Matzarayam was four hundred thirty years.⁴¹ It happened at the end of four hundred thirty years, even the same day it happened, that all the hosts of Yahawah went out from the land of Matzarayam.⁴² It is a night to be much observed to Yahawah for bringing them out from the land of Matzarayam. This is that night of Yahawah, to be much observed of all the children of Yasharaal throughout their generations.⁴³ Yahawah said to Mashah and Aharan, "This is the ordinance of the Passover. There shall no foreigner eat of it,⁴⁴ but every man's servant who is bought for money, when you have circumcised him, then shall he eat of it.⁴⁵ A sojourner and a hired servant shall not eat of it.⁴⁶ In one house shall it be eaten; you shall not carry forth anything of the flesh abroad out of the house; neither shall you break a bone of it.⁴⁷ All the congregation of Yasharaal shall keep it.⁴⁸ When a stranger shall sojourn with you, and will keep the Passover to Yahawah, let all his males be circumcised, and then let him come near and keep it; and he shall be as one who is born in the land: but no uncircumcised person shall eat of it.⁴⁹ One law shall be to him who is born at home, and to the stranger who sojourns among you."⁵⁰ Thus did all the children of Yasharaal. As Yahawah commanded Mashah and Aharan, so they did.⁵¹ It happened the same day, that Yahawah brought the children of Yasharaal out of the land of Matzarayam by their hosts.

13 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² "Sanctify to me all of the firstborn, whatever opens the womb among the children of Yasharaal, both of man and of animal. It is mine."³ Mashah said to the people, "Remember this day, in which you came out from Matzarayam, out of the house of bondage; for by strength of hand Yahawah brought you out from this place. No leavened bread shall be eaten.⁴ This day you go forth in the month Abayab.⁵ It shall be, when Yahawah shall bring you into the land of the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Amorite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite, which he swore to your fathers to give you, a land flowing with milk and honey, that you shall keep this service in this month.⁶ Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread, and in the seventh day shall be a feast to Yahawah.⁷ Unleavened bread shall be eaten throughout the seven days; and no leavened bread shall be seen with you, neither shall there be yeast seen with you, in all your borders.⁸ You shall tell your son in that day, saying, 'It is because of that which Yahawah did for me when I came forth out of Matzarayam.'⁹ It shall be for a sign to you on your hand, and for a memorial between your eyes, that the law of Yahawah may be in your mouth; for with a strong hand Yahawah has brought you out of Matzarayam.¹⁰ You shall therefore keep this ordinance in its season from year to year.¹¹ "It shall be, when Yahawah shall bring you into the land of the Canaanite, as he swore to you and to your fathers, and shall give it you,¹² that you shall set apart to Yahawah all that opens the womb, and every firstborn which you have that comes from an animal. The males shall be Yahawah's."¹³ Every firstborn of a donkey you shall redeem with a lamb; and if you will not redeem it, then you shall break its neck; and you shall redeem all the firstborn of man among your sons.¹⁴ It shall be, when your son asks you in time to come, saying, 'What is this?' that you shall tell him, 'By strength of hand Yahawah brought us out from Matzarayam, from the house of bondage;¹⁵ and it happened, when Paraih would hardly let us go, that Yahawah killed all the firstborn in the land of Matzarayam, both the firstborn of man, and the firstborn of animal. Therefore I sacrifice to Yahawah all that opens the womb, being males; but all the firstborn of my sons I redeem.'¹⁶ It shall be for a sign on your hand, and for symbols between your eyes: for by strength of hand Yahawah brought us forth out of Matzarayam."¹⁷ It happened, when Paraih had let the people go, that Alahayam didn't lead them by the way of the land of the Palashath, although that was near; for Alahayam said, "Lest perhaps the people change their minds when they see war, and they return to Matzarayam;"¹⁸ but Alahayam led the people around by the way of the wilderness by the Sawap; and the children of Yasharaal went up armed out of the land of Matzarayam.¹⁹ Mashah took the bones of Yawasap with him, for he had made the children of Yasharaal swear, saying, "Alahayam will surely visit you, and you shall carry up my bones away from here with you."²⁰ They took their journey from Sakawath, and encamped in Atham, in the edge of the wilderness.²¹ Yahawah went before them by day in a pillar of cloud, to lead them on their way, and by night in a pillar of fire, to give them light, that they might go by day and by night:²² the pillar of cloud by day, and the pillar of fire by night, didn't depart from before the people.

14 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² "Speak to the children of Yasharaal, that they turn back and encamp before Pihahiroth, between Magadal and the sea, before Bail. You shall encamp opposite it by the sea.³ Paraih will say of the children of Yasharaal, 'They are entangled in the land. The wilderness has shut them in.'⁴ I will harden Paraih's heart, and he will follow after them; and I will get honor over Paraih, and over all his host; and the Matzarayam shall know that I am Yahawah." They did so.⁵ It was told the king of Matzarayam that the people had fled; and the heart of Paraih and of his servants was changed towards the people, and they said, "What is this we have done, that we have let Yasharaal go from serving us?"⁶ He made ready his chariot, and took his army with him;⁷ and he took six hundred chosen chariots, and all the chariots of Matzarayam, and captains over all of them.⁸ Yahawah hardened the heart of Paraih king of Matzarayam, and he pursued after the children of Yasharaal; for the children of Yasharaal went out with a high hand.⁹ The Matzarayam pursued after them: all the horses and chariots of Paraih, his horsemen, and his army; and overtook them encamping by the sea, beside Pihahiroth, before Bail.¹⁰ When Paraih drew near, the children of Yasharaal lifted up their eyes, and behold, the Matzarayam were marching after them; and they were very afraid. The children of Yasharaal cried out to Yahawah.¹¹ They said to Mashah, "Because there were no graves in Matzarayam, have you taken us away to die in the wilderness? Why have you treated us this way, to bring us forth out of Matzarayam?"¹² Isn't this the word that we spoke to you in Matzarayam, saying, 'Leave us alone, that we may serve the Matzarayam?' For it were better for us to serve the Matzarayam, than that we should die in the wilderness."¹³ Mashah said to the people, "Don't be afraid. Stand still, and see the salvation of Yahawah, which he will work for you today: for the Matzarayam whom you have seen today, you shall never see them again.¹⁴ Yahawah will fight for you, and you shall be still."¹⁵ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Why do you cry to me? Speak to the children of Yasharaal, that they go forward.¹⁶ Lift up your rod, and stretch out your hand over the sea, and divide it: and the children of Yasharaal shall go into the midst of the sea on dry ground.¹⁷ I, behold, I will harden the hearts of the Matzarayam, and they shall go in after them: and I will get myself honor over Paraih, and over all his host, over his chariots, and over his horsemen.¹⁸ The Matzarayam shall know that I am Yahawah, when I have gotten myself honor over Paraih, over his chariots, and over his horsemen."¹⁹ The angel of Alahayam, who went before the camp of Yasharaal, moved and went behind them; and the pillar of cloud moved from before them, and stood behind them.²⁰ It came between the camp of Matzarayam and the camp of Yasharaal; and there was the cloud and the darkness, yet gave it light by night: and the one didn't come near the other all the night.²¹ Mashah stretched out his hand over the sea, and Yahawah caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind all the night, and made the sea dry land, and the waters were divided.²² The children of Yasharaal went into the midst of the sea on the dry ground, and the waters were a wall to them on their right hand, and on their left.²³ The Matzarayam pursued, and went in after them into the midst of the sea: all of Paraih's horses, his chariots, and his horsemen.²⁴ It happened in the morning watch, that Yahawah looked out on the host of the Matzarayam through the pillar of fire and of cloud, and confused the Matzarayam army.²⁵ He took off their chariot wheels, and they drove them heavily; so that the Matzarayam said, "Let's flee from the face of Yasharaal, for Yahawah fights for them against the Matzarayam!"²⁶ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Stretch out your hand over the sea, that the waters may come again on the Matzarayam, on their chariots, and on their horsemen."²⁷ Mashah stretched out his hand over the sea, and the sea returned to its strength when the morning appeared; and the Matzarayam fled against it. Yahawah overthrew the Matzarayam in the midst of the sea.²⁸ The waters returned, and covered the chariots and the horsemen, even all Paraih's army that went in after them into the sea. There remained not so much as one of them.²⁹ But the children of Yasharaal walked on dry land in the midst of the sea, and the waters were a wall to them on their right hand, and on their left.³⁰ Thus Yahawah saved Yasharaal that day out of the hand of the Matzarayam; and Yasharaal saw the Matzarayam dead on the seashore.³¹ Yasharaal saw the great work which Yahawah did to the Matzarayam, and the people feared Yahawah; and they believed in Yahawah, and in his servant Mashah.

15 Then Mashah and the children of Yasharaal sang this song to Yahawah, and said, "I will sing to Yahawah, for he has triumphed gloriously: The horse and his rider he has thrown into the sea.² Yah is my strength and song; He has become my salvation: This is my Mighty One, and I will praise him; the Alahayam of my fathers — and I will exalt him."³ Yahawah is a man of war. Yahawah is his name.⁴ Paraih's chariots and his host has he cast into the sea; His chosen captains are sunk in the Sawap.⁵ The deeps cover them. They went down into the depths like a stone.⁶ Your right hand, Yahawah, is glorious in power, Your right hand, Yahawah, dashes the enemy in pieces.⁷ In the greatness of your excellency, you overthrow those who rise up against you: You send forth your wrath. It consumes them as stubble.⁸ With the blast of your nostrils the waters were piled up. The floods stood upright as a heap. The deeps were congealed in the heart of the sea.⁹ The enemy said, 'I will pursue, I will overtake, I will divide the spoil. My desire shall be satisfied on them. I will draw my sword, my hand shall destroy them.'¹⁰ You blew with your wind. The sea covered them. They sank like lead in the mighty waters.¹¹ Who is like you, Yahawah, among the gods? Who is like you, glorious in holiness, Fearful in praises, doing wonders?¹² You stretched out your right hand. The earth swallowed them.¹³ "You, in your lovingkindness, have led the people that you have redeemed. You have guided them in your strength to your holy habitation.¹⁴ The peoples have heard. They tremble. Pangs have taken hold on the inhabitants of Palashath.¹⁵ Then the chiefs of Adawam were dismayed. Trembling takes hold of the mighty men of Mawaab. All the inhabitants of Kanain are melted away.¹⁶ Terror and dread falls on them. By the greatness of your arm they are as still as a stone; Until your people pass over, Yahawah, Until the people pass over who you have purchased.¹⁷ You shall bring them in, and plant them in the mountain of your inheritance, The place, Yahawah, which you have made for yourself to dwell in; The sanctuary, Adanay, which your hands have established.¹⁸ Yahawah shall reign forever and ever."¹⁹ For the horses of Paraih went in with his chariots and with his horsemen into the sea, and Yahawah brought back the waters of the sea on them; but the children of Yasharaal walked on dry land in the midst of the sea.²⁰ Marayam the prophetess, the sister of Aharan, took a tambourine in her hand; and all the women went out after her with tambourines and with dances.²¹ Marayam answered them, "Sing to Yahawah, for he has triumphed gloriously: The horse and his rider he has thrown into the sea."²² Mashah led Yasharaal onward from the Sawap, and they went out into the wilderness of Shawar; and they went three days in the wilderness, and found no water.²³ When they came to Marah, they couldn't drink from the waters of Marah, for they were bitter. Therefore the name of it was called Marah.²⁴ The people murmured against Mashah, saying, "What shall we drink?"²⁵ Then he cried to Yahawah. Yahawah showed him a tree, and he threw it into the waters, and the waters were made sweet. There he made a statute and an ordinance for them, and there he tested them;²⁶ and he said, "If you will diligently listen to the voice of Yahawah your Alahayam, and will do that which is right in his eyes, and will pay attention to his commandments, and keep all his statutes, I will put none of the diseases on you, which I have put on the Matzarayam; for I am Yahawah who heals you."²⁷ They came to Ayalam, where there were twelve springs of water, and seventy palm-trees: and they encamped there by the waters.

16 They took their journey from Ayalam, and all the congregation of the children of Yasharaal came to the wilderness of Sayan, which is between Ayalam and Sayanay, on the fifteenth day of the second month after their departing out of the land of Matzarayam.² The whole congregation of the children of Yasharaal murmured against Mashah and against Aharan in the wilderness;³ and the children of Yasharaal said to them, "We wish that we had died by the hand of Yahawah in the land of Matzarayam, when we sat by the flesh-pots, when we ate our fill of bread, for you have brought us out into this wilderness, to kill this whole assembly with hunger."⁴ Then said Yahawah to Mashah, "Behold, I will rain bread from the sky for you, and the people shall go out and gather a day's portion every day, that I may test them, whether they will walk in my law, or not."⁵ It shall come to pass on the sixth day, that they shall prepare that which they bring in, and it shall be twice as much as they gather daily."⁶ Mashah and Aharan said to all the children of Yasharaal, "At evening, then you shall know that Yahawah has brought you out from the land of Matzarayam;⁷ and in the morning, then you shall see the glory of Yahawah; because he hears your murmurings against Yahawah. Who are we, that you murmur against us?"⁸ Mashah said, "Now Yahawah shall give you meat to eat in the evening, and in the morning bread to satisfy you; because Yahawah hears your murmurings which you murmur against him. And who are we? Your murmurings are not against us, but against Yahawah."⁹ Mashah said to Aharan, "Tell all the congregation of the children of Yasharaal, 'Come near before Yahawah, for he has heard your murmurings.'" ¹⁰ It happened, as Aharan spoke to the whole congregation of the children of Yasharaal, that they looked toward the wilderness, and, behold, the glory of Yahawah appeared in the cloud. ¹¹ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ¹² "I have heard the murmurings of the children of Yasharaal. Speak to them, saying, 'At evening you shall eat meat, and in the morning you shall be filled with bread; and you shall know that I am Yahawah your Alahayam.'" ¹³ It happened at evening that quail came up and covered the camp; and in the morning the dew lay around the camp. ¹⁴ When the dew that lay had gone, behold, on the surface of the wilderness was a small round thing, small as the hoar-frost on the ground. ¹⁵ When the children of Yasharaal saw it, they said one to another, "What is it?" For they didn't know what it was. Mashah said to them, "It is the bread which Yahawah has given you to eat."¹⁶ This is the thing which Yahawah has commanded: "Gather of it everyone according to his eating; an omer a head, according to the number of your persons, shall you take it, every man for those who are in his tent."¹⁷ The children of Yasharaal did so, and gathered some more, some less. ¹⁸ When they measured it with an omer, he who gathered much had nothing over, and he who gathered little had no lack. They gathered every man according to his eating. ¹⁹ Mashah said to them, "Let no one leave of it until the morning."²⁰ Notwithstanding they didn't listen to Mashah, but some of them left of it until the morning, and it bred worms, and became foul; and Mashah was angry with them. ²¹ They gathered it morning by morning, everyone according to his eating. When the sun grew hot, it melted. ²² It happened that on the sixth day they gathered twice as much bread, two omers for each one, and all the rulers of the congregation came and told Mashah. ²³ He said to them, "This is that which Yahawah has spoken, 'Tomorrow is a solemn rest, a holy Sabbath to Yahawah. Bake that which you want to bake, and boil that which you want to boil; and all that remains over lay up for yourselves to be kept until the morning.'" ²⁴ They laid it up until the morning, as Mashah asked, and it didn't become foul, neither was there any worm in it. ²⁵ Mashah said, "Eat that today, for today is a Sabbath to Yahawah. Today you shall not find it in the field. ²⁶ Six days you shall gather it, but on the seventh day is the Sabbath. In it there shall be none."²⁷ It happened on the seventh day, that some of the people went out to gather, and they found none. ²⁸ Yahawah said to Mashah, "How long do you refuse to keep my commandments and my laws?" ²⁹ Behold, because Yahawah has given you the Sabbath, therefore he gives you on the sixth day the bread of two days. Everyone stay in his place. Let no one go out of his place on the seventh day."³⁰ So the people rested on the seventh day. ³¹ The house of Yasharaal called the name of it Manna, and it was like coriander seed, white; and its taste was like wafers with honey. ³² Mashah said, "This is the thing which Yahawah has commanded, 'Let an omer-full of it be kept throughout your generations, that they may see the bread with which I fed you in the wilderness, when I brought you forth from the land of Matzarayam.'" ³³ Mashah said to Aharan, "Take a pot, and put an omer-full of manna in it, and lay it up before Yahawah, to be kept throughout your generations."³⁴ As Yahawah commanded Mashah, so Aharan laid it up before the Testimony, to be kept. ³⁵ The children of Yasharaal ate the manna forty years, until they came to an inhabited land. They ate the manna until they came to the borders of the land of Kanain. ³⁶ Now an omer is the tenth part of an ephah.

Yahawah's commandment, and encamped in Rapayadam; but there was no water for the people to drink. ² Therefore the people quarreled with Mashah, and said, "Give us water to drink." Mashah said to them, "Why do you quarrel with me? Why do you test Yahawah?" ³ The people were thirsty for water there; and the people murmured against Mashah, and said, "Why have you brought us up out of Matzarayam, to kill us, our children, and our livestock with thirst?" ⁴ Mashah cried to Yahawah, saying, "What shall I do with these people? They are almost ready to stone me."⁵ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Walk on before the people, and take the elders of Yasharaal with you, and take the rod in your hand with which you struck the Nile, and go. ⁶ Behold, I will stand before you there on the rock in Charab. You shall strike the rock, and water will come out of it, that the people may drink." Mashah did so in the sight of the elders of Yasharaal. ⁷ He called the name of the place Masah, and Marayabah, because the children of Yasharaal quarreled, and because they tested Yahawah, saying, "Is Yahawah among us, or not?" ⁸ Then Imalaq came and fought with Yasharaal in Rapayadam. ⁹ Mashah said to Yahawashai, "Choose men for us, and go out, fight with Imalaq. Tomorrow I will stand on the top of the hill with Alahayam's rod in my hand. ¹⁰ So Yahawashai did as Mashah had told him, and fought with Imalaq; and Mashah, Aharan, and Chawar went up to the top of the hill. ¹¹ It happened, when Mashah held up his hand, that Yasharaal prevailed; and when he let down his hand, Imalaq prevailed. ¹² But Mashah's hands were heavy; and they took a stone, and put it under him, and he sat on it. Aharan and Chawar held up his hands, the one on the one side, and the other on the other side. His hands were steady until sunset. ¹³ Yahawashai defeated Imalaq and his people with the edge of the sword. ¹⁴ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Write this for a memorial in a book, and rehearse it in the ears of Yahawashai: that I will utterly blot out the memory of Imalaq from under the sky."¹⁵ Mashah built an altar, and called the name of it Yahawah our Banner ¹⁶ He said, "Yah has sworn: 'Yahawah will have war with Imalaq from generation to generation.'"

18 Now Yathar, the priest of Madayan, Mashah's father-in-law, heard of all that Alahayam had done for Mashah, and for Yasharaal his people, how that Yahawah had brought Yasharaal out of Matzarayam. ² Yathar, Mashah's father-in-law, received Tzaparrah, Mashah's wife, after he had sent her away, ³ and her two sons. The name of one son was Garashawan, for Mashah said, "I have been a sojourner in a foreign land". ⁴ The name of the other was Alayaizar, for he said, "My father's Alahayam was my help and delivered me from Paraih's sword." ⁵ Yathar, Mashah's father-in-law, came with his sons and his wife to Mashah into the wilderness where he was encamped, at the Mountain of Alahayam. ⁶ He said to Mashah, I, your father-in-law Yathar, have come to you with your wife, and her two sons with her. ⁷ Mashah went out to meet his father-in-law, and bowed and kissed him. They asked each other of their welfare, and they came into the tent. ⁸ Mashah told his father-in-law all that Yahawah had done to Paraih and to the Matzarayam for Yasharaal's sake, all the hardships that had come on them on the way, and how Yahawah delivered them. ⁹ Yathar rejoiced for all the goodness which Yahawah had done to Yasharaal, in that he had delivered them out of the hand of the Matzarayam. ¹⁰ Yathar said, "Blessed be Yahawah, who has delivered you out of the hand of the Matzarayam, and out of the hand of Paraih; who has delivered the people from under the hand of the Matzarayam. ¹¹ Now I know that Yahawah is greater than all gods because of the thing in which they dealt arrogantly against them."¹² Yathar, Mashah's father-in-law, took a burnt offering and sacrifices for Alahayam. Aharan came with all of the elders of Yasharaal, to eat bread with Mashah's father-in-law before Alahayam. ¹³ It happened on the next day, that Mashah sat to judge the people, and the people stood around Mashah from the morning to the evening. ¹⁴ When Mashah's father-in-law saw all that he did to the people, he said, "What is this thing that you do for the people? Why do you sit alone, and all the people stand around you from morning to evening?" ¹⁵ Mashah said to his father-in-law, "Because the people come to me to inquire of Alahayam.¹⁶ When they have a matter, they come to me, and I judge between a man and his neighbor, and I make them know the statutes of Alahayam, and his laws."¹⁷ Mashah` father-in-law said to him, "The thing that you do is not good."¹⁸ You will surely wear away, both you, and this people that is with you; for the thing is too heavy for you. You are not able to perform it yourself alone.¹⁹ Listen now to my voice. I will give you counsel, and Alahayam be with you. You represent the people before Alahayam, and bring the causes to Alahayam.²⁰ You shall teach them the statutes and the laws, and shall show them the way in which they must walk, and the work that they must do.²¹ Moreover you shall provide out of all the people able men, such as fear Alahayam: men of truth, hating unjust gain; and place such over them, to be rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens.²² Let them judge the people at all times. It shall be that every great matter they shall bring to you, but every small matter they shall judge themselves. So shall it be easier for you, and they shall share the load with you.²³ If you will do this thing, and Alahayam commands you so, then you will be able to endure, and all of these people also will go to their place in peace."²⁴ So Mashah listened to the voice of his father-in-law, and did all that he had said.²⁵ Mashah chose able men out of all Yasharaal, and made them heads over the people, rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens.²⁶ They judged the people at all times. They brought the hard causes to Mashah, but every small matter they judged themselves.²⁷ Mashah let his father-in-law depart, and he went his way into his own land.

19 In the third month after the children of Yasharaal had gone forth out of the land of Matzarayam, on that same day they came into the wilderness of Sayanay.² When they had departed from Rapayadam, and had come to the wilderness of Sayanay, they encamped in the wilderness; and there Yasharaal encamped before the mountain.³ Mashah went up to Alahayam, and Yahawah called to him out of the mountain, saying, "This is what you shall tell the house of Yaiqab, and tell the children of Yasharaal:⁴ `You have seen what I did to the Matzarayam, and how I bore you on eagles` wings, and brought you to myself.⁵ Now therefore, if you will indeed obey my voice, and keep my covenant, then you shall be my own possession from among all peoples; for all the earth is mine;⁶ and you shall be to me a kingdom of priests, and a holy nation.` These are the words which you shall speak to the children of Yasharaal."⁷ Mashah came and called for the elders of the people, and set before them all these words which Yahawah commanded him.⁸ All the people answered together, and said, "All that Yahawah has spoken we will do." Mashah reported the words of the people to Yahawah.⁹ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Behold, I come to you in a thick cloud, that the people may hear when I speak with you, and may also believe you forever." Mashah told the words of the people to Yahawah.¹⁰ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Go to the people, and sanctify them today and tomorrow, and let them wash their garments,"¹¹ and be ready against the third day; for on the third day Yahawah will come down in the sight of all the people on Mount Sayanay.¹² You shall set bounds to the people round about, saying, `Be careful that you don`t go up onto the mountain, or touch its border. Whoever touches the mountain shall be surely put to death.¹³ No hand shall touch him, but he shall surely be stoned or shot through; whether it is animal or man, he shall not live.` When the trumpet sounds long, they shall come up to the mountain."<sup>14</sup> Mashah went down from the mountain to the people, and sanctified the people; and they washed their clothes.<sup>15</sup> He said to the people, "Be ready by the third day. Don`t have sexual relations with a woman."¹⁶ It happened on the third day, when it was morning, that there were thunders and lightnings, and a thick cloud on the mountain, and the sound of an exceedingly loud trumpet; and all the people who were in the camp trembled.¹⁷ Mashah led the people out of the camp to meet Alahayam; and they stood at the lower part of the mountain.¹⁸ Mount Sayanay, the whole of it, smoked, because Yahawah descended on it in fire; and its smoke ascended like the smoke of a furnace, and the whole mountain quaked greatly.¹⁹ When the sound of the trumpet grew louder and louder, Mashah spoke, and Alahayam answered him by a voice.²⁰ Yahawah came down on Mount Sayanay, to the top of the mountain. Yahawah called Mashah to the top of the mountain, and Mashah went up.²¹ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Go down, charge the people, lest they break through to Yahawah to gaze, and many of them perish."²² Let the priests also, who come near to Yahawah, sanctify themselves, lest Yahawah break forth on them."²³ Mashah said to Yahawah, "The people can`t come up to Mount Sayanay, for you charged us, saying, `Set bounds around the mountain, and sanctify it.`"<sup>24</sup> Yahawah said to him, "Go down and you shall bring Aharan up with you, but don`t let the priests and the people break through to come up to Yahawah, lest he break forth on them."²⁵ So Mashah went down to the people, and told them.

20 Alahayam spoke all these words, saying,² "I am Yahawah your Alahayam, who brought you out of the land of Matzarayam, out of the house of bondage.³ You shall have no other gods before me.⁴ "You shall not make for yourselves an idol, nor any image of anything that is in the heavens above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth:⁵ you shall not bow yourself down to them, nor serve them, for I, Yahawah your Alahayam, am a jealous Alahayam, visiting the iniquity of the fathers on the children, on the third and on the fourth generation of those who hate me,⁶ and showing lovingkindness to thousands of those who love me and keep my commandments."⁷ "You shall not take the name of Yahawah your Alahayam in vain, for Yahawah will not hold him guiltless who takes his name in vain."⁸ "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy.⁹ You shall labor six days, and do all your work,¹⁰ but the seventh day is a Sabbath to Yahawah your Alahayam. You shall not do any work in it, you, nor your son, nor your daughter, your man-servant, nor your maid-servant, nor your cattle, nor your stranger who is within your gates;¹¹ for in six days Yahawah made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that is in them, and rested the seventh day; therefore Yahawah blessed the Sabbath day, and made it holy."¹² "Honor your father and your mother, that your days may be long in the land which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you."¹³ "You shall not murder."¹⁴ "You shall not commit adultery."¹⁵ "You shall not steal."¹⁶ "You shall not give false testimony against your neighbor."¹⁷ "You shall not covet your neighbor`s house. You shall not covet your neighbor`s wife, nor his man-servant, nor his maid-servant, nor his ox, nor his donkey, nor anything that is your neighbor`s."<sup>18</sup> All the people perceived the thunders, the lightnings, the sound of the trumpet, and the mountain smoking. When the people saw it, they trembled, and stayed at a distance.<sup>19</sup> They said to Mashah, "Speak with us yourself, and we will listen; but don`t let Alahayam speak with us, lest we die."²⁰ Mashah said to the people, "Don`t be afraid, for Alahayam has come to test you, and that his fear may be before you, that you won`t sin."²¹ The people stayed at a distance, and Mashah drew near to the thick darkness where Alahayam was.²² Yahawah said to Mashah, "This is what you shall tell the children of Yasharaal: `You yourselves have seen that I have talked with you from heaven.²³ You shall most certainly not make alongside of me gods of silver, or gods of gold for yourselves."²⁴ You shall make an altar of earth for me, and shall sacrifice on it your burnt offerings and your peace-offerings, your sheep and your oxen. In every place where I record my name I will come to you and I will bless you."²⁵ If you make me an altar of stone, you shall not build it of hewn stones; for if you lift up your tool on it, you have polluted it.²⁶ Neither shall you go up by steps to my altar, that your nakedness may not be exposed to it.`

21 "Now these are the ordinances which you shall set before them."³ If you buy a Hebrew servant, he shall serve six years and in the seventh he shall go out free without paying anything.⁴ If he comes in by himself, he shall go out by himself. If he is married, then his wife shall go out with him.⁵ If his master gives him a wife and she bears him sons or daughters, the wife and her children shall be her master`s, and he shall go out by himself.<sup>6</sup> But if the servant shall plainly say, `I love my master, my wife, and my children. I will not go out free;⁷ then his master shall bring him to Alahayam, and shall bring him to the door or to the door-post, and his master shall bore his ear through with an awl, and he shall serve him for ever.⁸ "If a man sells his daughter to be a maid-servant, she shall not go out as the men-servants do.⁹ If she doesn't please her master, who has married her to himself, then he shall let her be redeemed. He shall have no right to sell her to a foreign people, seeing he has dealt deceitfully with her.¹⁰ If he marries her to his son, he shall deal with her after the manner of daughters.¹¹ If he takes another wife to himself, he shall not diminish her food, her clothing, and her marital rights.¹² If he doesn't do these three things for her, she may go free without paying any money.¹³ "One who strikes a man so that he dies shall surely be put to death,¹⁴ but not if it is unintentional, but Alahayam allows it to happen: then I will appoint you a place where he shall flee.¹⁵ If a man schemes and comes presumptuously on his neighbor to kill him, you shall take him from my altar, that he may die.¹⁶ "Anyone who attacks his father or his mother shall be surely put to death.¹⁷ "Anyone who kidnaps someone and sells him, or if he is found in his hand, he shall surely be put to death.¹⁸ "Anyone who curses his father or his mother shall surely be put to death.¹⁹ "If men quarrel and one strikes the other with a stone, or with his fist, and he doesn't die, but is confined to bed;²⁰ if he rises again and walks around with his staff, then he who struck him shall be cleared: only he shall pay for the loss of his time, and shall provide for his healing until he is thoroughly healed.²¹ "If a man strikes his servant or his maid with a rod, and he dies under his hand, he shall surely be punished.²² Notwithstanding, if he gets up after a day or two, he shall not be punished, for he is his property.²³ "If men fight and hurt a pregnant woman so that she gives birth prematurely, and yet no harm follows, he shall be surely fined as much as the woman's husband demands and the judges allow.²⁴ But if any harm follows, then you must take life for life,²⁵ eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot,²⁶ burning for burning, wound for wound, and bruise for bruise.²⁷ "If a man strikes his servant's eye, or his maid's eye, and destroys it, he shall let him go free for his eye's sake.²⁸ If he strikes out his man-servant's tooth, or his maid-servant's tooth, he shall let him go free for his tooth's sake.²⁹ "If a bull gores a man or a woman to death, the bull shall surely be stoned, and its flesh shall not be eaten; but the owner of the bull shall not be held responsible.³⁰ But if the bull had a habit of goring in the past, and it has been testified to its owner, and he has not kept it in, but it has killed a man or a woman, the bull shall be stoned, and its owner shall also be put to death.³¹ If a ransom is laid on him, then he shall give for the redemption of his life whatever is laid on him.³² Whether it has gored a son or has gored a daughter, according to this judgment it shall be done to him.³³ If the bull gores a man-servant or a maid-servant, thirty shekels of silver shall be given to their master, and the ox shall be stoned.³⁴ "If a man opens a pit, or if a man digs a pit and doesn't cover it, and a bull or a donkey falls into it,³⁵ the owner of the pit shall make it good. He shall give money to its owner, and the dead animal shall be his.³⁶ "If one man's bull injures another's, so that it dies, then they shall sell the live bull, and divide its price; and they shall also divide the dead animal.³⁷ Or if it is known that the bull was in the habit of goring in the past, and its owner has not kept it in, he shall surely pay bull for bull, and the dead animal shall be his own.

22 "If a man steals an ox or a sheep, and kills it, or sells it; he shall pay five oxen for an ox, and four sheep for a sheep.² If the thief is found breaking in, and is struck so that he dies, there shall be no guilt of bloodshed for him.³ If the sun has risen on him, there shall be guilt of bloodshed for him; he shall make restitution. If he has nothing, then he shall be sold for his theft.⁴ If the stolen property is found in his hand alive, whether it is ox, donkey, or sheep, he shall pay double.⁵ "If a man causes a field or vineyard to be eaten, and lets his animal loose, and it grazes in another man's field, he shall make restitution from the best of his own field, and from the best of his own vineyard.⁶ "If fire breaks out, and catches in thorns so that the shocks of grain, or the standing grain, or the field are consumed; he who kindled the fire shall surely make restitution.⁷ "If a man delivers to his neighbor money or stuff to keep, and it is stolen out of the man's house; if the thief is found, he shall pay double.⁸ If the thief isn't found, then the master of the house shall come near to Alahayam, to find out if he hasn't put his hand to his neighbor's goods.⁹ For every matter of trespass, whether it be for ox, for donkey, for sheep, for clothing, or for any kind of lost thing, whereof one says, 'This is mine,' the cause of both parties shall come before Alahayam. He whom Alahayam condemns shall pay double to his neighbor.¹⁰ "If a man delivers to his neighbor a donkey, an ox, a sheep, or any animal to keep, and it dies or is injured, or driven away, no man seeing it;¹¹ the oath of Yahawah shall be between them both, whether he hasn't put his hand to his neighbor's goods; and the owner of it shall accept it, and he shall not make restitution.¹² But if it is stolen from him, he shall make restitution to the owner of it.¹³ If it is torn in pieces, let him bring it for evidence. He shall not make good that which was torn.¹⁴ "If a man borrows anything of his neighbor's, and it is injured, or dies, the owner of it not being with it, he shall surely make restitution.¹⁵ If the owner of it is with it, he shall not make it good. If it is a leased thing, it came for its lease.¹⁶ "If a man entices a virgin who isn't pledged to be married, and lies with her, he shall surely pay a dowry for her to be his wife.¹⁷ If her father utterly refuses to give her to him, he shall pay money according to the dowry of virgins.¹⁸ "You shall not allow a sorceress to live.¹⁹ "Whoever has sex with an animal shall surely be put to death.²⁰ "He who sacrifices to any god, except to Yahawah only, shall be utterly destroyed.²¹ "You shall not wrong an alien, neither shall you oppress him, for you were aliens in the land of Matzarayam.²² "You shall not take advantage of any widow or fatherless child.²³ If you take advantage of them at all, and they cry at all to me, I will surely hear their cry;²⁴ and my wrath will grow hot, and I will kill you with the sword; and your wives shall be widows, and your children fatherless.²⁵ "If you lend money to any of my people with you who is poor, you shall not be to him as a creditor; neither shall you charge him interest.²⁶ If you take your neighbor's garment as collateral, you shall restore it to him before the sun goes down,²⁷ for that is his only covering, it is his garment for his skin. What would he sleep in? It will happen, when he cries to me, that I will hear, for I am gracious.²⁸ "You shall not blaspheme Alahayam, nor curse a ruler of your people.²⁹ "You shall not delay to offer from your harvest and from the outflow of your presses. "You shall give the firstborn of your sons to me.³⁰ You shall do likewise with your oxen and with your sheep. Seven days it shall be with its mother, then on the eighth day you shall give it me.

23 "You shall not spread a false report. Don't join your hand with the wicked to be a malicious witness.² You shall not follow a crowd to do evil; neither shall you testify in court to side with a multitude to pervert justice;³ neither shall you favor a poor man in his cause.⁴ "If you meet your enemy's ox or his donkey going astray, you shall surely bring it back to him again.⁵ If you see the donkey of him who hates you fallen down under his burden, don't leave him, you shall surely help him with it.⁶ "You shall not deny justice to your poor people in their lawsuits.⁷ "Keep far from a false charge, and don't kill the innocent and righteous: for I will not justify the wicked.⁸ You shall take no bribe, for a bribe blinds those who have sight and perverts the words of the righteous.⁹ "You shall not oppress an alien, for you know the heart of an alien, seeing you were aliens in the land of Matzarayam.¹⁰ "For six years you shall sow your land, and shall gather in its increase,¹¹ but the seventh year you shall let it rest and lie fallow, that the poor of your people may eat; and what they leave the animal of the field shall eat. In like manner you shall deal with your vineyard and with your olive grove.¹² "Six days you shall do your work, and on the seventh day you shall rest, that your ox and your donkey may have rest, and the son of your handmaid, and the alien may be refreshed.¹³ "Be careful to do all things that I have said to you; and don't invoke the name of other gods, neither let them be heard out of your mouth.¹⁴ "You shall observe a feast to me three times a year.¹⁵ You shall observe the feast of unleavened bread. Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread, as I commanded you, at the time appointed in the month Abayab (for in it you came out from Matzarayam), and no one shall appear before me empty.¹⁶ And the feast of harvest, the first-fruits of your labors, which you sow in the field: and the feast of harvest, at the end of the year, when you gather in your labors out of the field.¹⁷ Three times in the year all your males shall appear before the Adanay Yahawah.¹⁸ "You shall not offer the blood of my sacrifice with leavened bread, neither shall the fat of my feast remain all night until the morning.¹⁹ The first of the first-fruits of your ground you shall bring into the house of Yahawah your Alahayam. "You shall not boil a kid in its mother's milk.²⁰ "Behold, I send an angel before you, to keep you by the way, and to bring you into the place which I have prepared.²¹ Pay attention to him, and listen to his voice. Don't provoke him, for he will not pardon your disobedience, for my name is in him.²² But if you indeed listen to his voice, and do all that I speak, then I will be an enemy to your enemies, and an adversary to your adversaries.²³ For my angel shall go before you, and bring you in to the Amorite, the Hittite, the Perizzite, the Canaanite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite; and I will cut them off.²⁴ You shall not bow down to their gods, nor serve them, nor follow their practices, but you shall utterly overthrow them and demolish their pillars.²⁵ You shall serve Yahawah your Alahayam, and he will bless your bread and your water, and I will take sickness away from your midst.²⁶ No one will miscarry or be barren in your land. I will fulfill the number of your days.²⁷ I will send my terror before you, and will confuse all the people to whom you come, and I will make all your enemies turn their backs to you.²⁸ I will send the hornet before you, which will drive out the Hivite, the Canaanite, and the Hittite, from before you.²⁹ I will not drive them out from before you in one year, lest the land become desolate, and the animals of the field multiply against you.³⁰ Little by little I will drive them out from before you, until you have increased and inherit the land.³¹ I will set your border from the Sawap even to the sea of the Palashath, and from the wilderness to the River; for I will deliver the inhabitants of the land into your hand, and you shall drive them out before you.³² You shall make no covenant with them, nor with their gods.³³ They shall not dwell in your land, lest they make you sin against me, for if you serve their gods, it will surely be a snare to you."

24 He said to Mashah, "Come up to Yahawah, you, and Aharan, Nadab, and Abayahawaa, and seventy of the elders of Yasharaal; and worship from a distance.² Mashah alone shall come near to Yahawah, but they shall not come near, neither shall the people go up with him."³ Mashah came and told the people all the words of Yahawah, and all the ordinances; and all the people answered with one voice, and said, "All the words which Yahawah has spoken will we do."⁴ Mashah wrote all the words of Yahawah, and rose up early in the morning, and built an altar under the mountain, and twelve pillars for the twelve tribes of Yasharaal.⁵ He sent young men of the children of Yasharaal, who offered burnt offerings and sacrificed peace-offerings of oxen to Yahawah.⁶ Mashah took half of the blood and put it in basins, and half of the blood he sprinkled on the altar.⁷ He took the book of the covenant and read it in the hearing of the people, and they said, "All that Yahawah has spoken will we do, and be obedient."⁸ Mashah took the blood, and sprinkled it on the people, and said, "Look, this is the blood of the covenant, which Yahawah has made with you concerning all these words."⁹ Then Mashah, Aharan, Nadab, Abayahawaa, and seventy of the elders of Yasharaal went up.¹⁰ They saw the Alahayam of Yasharaal. Under his feet was like a paved work of sapphire stone, like the skies for clearness.¹¹ He didn't lay his hand on the nobles of the children of Yasharaal. They saw Alahayam, and ate and drank.¹² Yahawah said to Mashah, "Come up to me on the mountain, and stay here, and I will give you the tables of stone with the law and the commands that I have written, that you may teach them."¹³ Mashah rose up with Yahawashai, his servant, and Mashah went up onto Alahayam's Mountain.¹⁴ He said to the elders, "Wait here for us, until we come again to you. Behold, Aharon and Chawar are with you. Whoever is involved in a dispute can go to them."¹⁵ Mashah went up on the mountain, and the cloud covered the mountain.¹⁶ The glory of Yahawah settled on Mount Sayanay, and the cloud covered it six days. The seventh day he called to Mashah out of the midst of the cloud.¹⁷ The appearance of the glory of Yahawah was like devouring fire on the top of the mountain in the eyes of the children of Yasharaal.¹⁸ Mashah entered into the midst of the cloud, and went up on the mountain; and Mashah was on the mountain forty days and forty nights.

25 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² "Speak to the children of Yasharaal, that they take an offering for me. From everyone whose heart makes him willing you shall take my offering.³ This is the offering which you shall take from them: gold, silver, brass,⁴ blue, purple, scarlet, fine linen, goats' hair,⁵ rams' skins dyed red, sea cow hides, acacia wood,⁶ oil for the light, spices for the anointing oil and for the sweet incense,⁷ onyx stones, and stones to be set for the ephod and for the breastplate.⁸ Let them make me a sanctuary, that I may dwell among them.⁹ According to all that I show you, the pattern of the tent, and the pattern of all of its furniture, even so you shall make it.¹⁰ "They shall make an ark of acacia wood. Its length shall be two and a half cubits, its breadth a cubit and a half, and a cubit and a half its height.¹¹ You shall overlay it with pure gold. Inside and outside shall you overlay it, and shall make a gold molding around it.¹² You shall cast four rings of gold for it, and put them in its four feet. Two rings shall be on the one side of it, and two rings on the other side of it.¹³ You shall make poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold.¹⁴ You shall put the poles into the rings on the sides of the ark to carry the ark.¹⁵ The poles shall be in the rings of the ark. They shall not be taken from it.¹⁶ You shall put the testimony which I shall give you into the ark.¹⁷ You shall make a mercy seat of pure gold. Two and a half cubits shall be its length, and a cubit and a half its breadth.¹⁸ You shall make two cherubim of hammered gold. You shall make them at the two ends of the mercy seat.¹⁹ Make one cherub at the one end, and one cherub at the other end. You shall make the cherubim on its two ends of one piece with the mercy seat.²⁰ The cherubim shall spread out their wings upward, covering the mercy seat with their wings, with their faces toward one another. The faces of the cherubim shall be toward the mercy seat.²¹ You shall put the mercy seat on top of the ark, and in the ark you shall put the testimony that I will give you.²² There I will meet with you, and I will tell you from above the mercy seat, from between the two cherubim which are on the ark of the testimony, all that I command you for the children of Yasharaal.²³ "You shall make a table of acacia wood. Two cubits shall be its length, and a cubit its breadth, and one and a half cubits its height.²⁴ You shall overlay it with pure gold, and make a gold molding around it.²⁵ You shall make a rim of a handbreadth around it. You shall make a golden molding on its rim around it.²⁶ You shall make four rings of gold for it, and put the rings in the four corners that are on its four feet.²⁷ The rings shall be close to the rim, for places for the poles to carry the table.²⁸ You shall make the poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold, that the table may be carried with them.²⁹ You shall make its dishes, its spoons, its ladles, and its bowls to pour out offerings with. Of pure gold shall you make them.³⁰ You shall set bread of the presence on the table before me always.³¹ "You shall make a lampstand of pure gold. Of hammered work shall the lampstand be made, even its base, its shaft, its cups, its buds, and its flowers, shall be of one piece with it.³² There shall be six branches going out of its sides: three branches of the lampstand out of its one side, and three branches of the lampstand out of its other side;³³ three cups made like almond blossoms in one branch, a bud and a flower; and three cups made like almond blossoms in the other branch, a bud and a flower, so for the six branches going out of the lampstand;³⁴ and in the lampstand four cups made like almond blossoms, its buds and its flowers;³⁵ and a bud under two branches of one piece with it, and a bud under two branches of one piece with it, and a bud under two branches of one piece with it, for the six branches going out of the lampstand.³⁶ Their buds and their branches shall be of one piece with it, the whole of it one beaten work of pure gold.³⁷ You shall make its lamps seven, and they shall light its lamps to give light to the space in front of it.³⁸ Its snuffers and its snuff dishes shall be of pure gold.³⁹ It shall be made of a talent of pure gold, with all these accessories.⁴⁰ See that you make them after their pattern, which has been shown to you on the mountain.

26 "Moreover you shall make the tent with ten curtains; of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and scarlet, with cherubim. The work of the skillful workman you shall make them.² The length of each curtain shall be twenty-eight cubits, and the breadth of each curtain four cubits: all the curtains shall have one measure.³ Five curtains shall be coupled together one to another; and the other five curtains shall be coupled one to another.⁴ You shall make loops of blue on the edge of the one curtain from the edge in the coupling; and likewise shall you make in the edge of the curtain that is outmost in the second coupling.⁵ You shall make fifty loops in the one curtain, and you shall make fifty loops in the edge of the curtain that is in the second coupling. The loops shall be opposite one to another.⁶ You shall make fifty clasps of gold, and couple the curtains one to another with the clasps: and the tent shall be a unit.⁷ "You shall make curtains of goats' hair for a covering over the tent: eleven curtains shall you make them.⁸ The length of each curtain shall be thirty cubits, and the breadth of each curtain four cubits: the eleven curtains shall have one measure.⁹ You shall couple five curtains by themselves, and six curtains by themselves, and shall double over the sixth curtain in the forefront of the tent.¹⁰ You shall make fifty loops on the edge of the one curtain that is outmost in the coupling, and fifty loops on the edge of the curtain which is outmost in the second coupling.¹¹ You shall make fifty clasps of brass, and put the clasps into the loops, and couple the tent together, that it may be one.¹² The overhanging part that remains of the curtains of the tent, the half curtain that remains, shall hang over the back of the tent.¹³ The cubit on the one side, and the cubit on the other side, of that which remains in the length of the curtains of the tent, shall hang over the sides of the tent on this side and on that side, to cover it.¹⁴ You shall make a covering for the tent of rams' skins dyed red, and a covering of sea cow hides above.¹⁵ "You shall make the boards for the tent of acacia wood, standing up.¹⁶ Ten cubits shall be the length of a board, and one and a half cubits the breadth of each board.¹⁷ There shall be two tenons in each board, joined to one another: thus shall you make for all the boards of the tent.¹⁸ You shall make the boards for the tent, twenty boards for the south side southward.¹⁹ You shall make forty sockets of silver under the twenty boards; two sockets under one board for its two tenons, and two sockets under another board for its two tenons.²⁰ For the second side of the tent, on the north side, twenty boards,²¹ and their forty sockets of silver; two sockets under one board, and two sockets under another board.²² For the far part of the tent westward you shall make six boards.²³ Two boards shall you make for the corners of the tent in the far part.²⁴ They shall be double beneath, and in like manner they shall be entire to the top of it to one ring; thus shall it be for them both; they shall be for the two corners.²⁵ There shall be eight boards, and their sockets of silver, sixteen sockets; two sockets under one board, and two sockets under another board.²⁶ "You shall make bars of acacia wood: five for the boards of the one side of the tent,²⁷ and five bars for the boards of the other side of the tent, and five bars for the boards of the side of the tent, for the far part westward.²⁸ The middle bar in the midst of the boards shall pass through from end to end.²⁹ You shall overlay the boards with gold, and make their rings of gold for places for the bars: and you shall overlay the bars with gold.³⁰ You shall set up the tent according to the way that it was shown to you on the mountain.³¹ "You shall make a veil of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen, with cherubim. The work of the skillful workman shall it be made.³² You shall hang it on four pillars of acacia overlaid with gold; their hooks shall be of gold, on four sockets of silver.³³ You shall hang up the veil under the clasps, and shall bring the ark of the testimony in there within the veil: and the veil shall separate the holy place from the most holy for you.

27 "You shall make the altar of acacia wood, five cubits long, and five cubits broad; the altar shall be foursquare: and its height shall be three cubits.² You shall make its horns on its four corners; its horns shall be of one piece with it; and you shall overlay it with brass.³ You shall make its pots to take away its ashes, its shovels, its basins, its flesh hooks, and its fire pans: all its vessels you shall make of brass.⁴ You shall make a grating for it of network of brass: and on the net you shall make four brazen rings in its four corners.⁵ You shall put it under the ledge around the altar beneath, that the net may reach halfway up the altar.⁶ You shall make poles for the altar, poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with brass.⁷ Its poles shall be put into the rings, and the poles shall be on the two sides of the altar, when carrying it.⁸ Hollow with planks shall you make it: as it has been showed you on the mountain, so shall they make it.⁹ "You shall make the court of the tent: for the south side southward there shall be hangings for the court of fine twined linen one hundred cubits long for one side:¹⁰ and the pillars of it shall be twenty, and their sockets twenty, of brass; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets shall be of silver.¹¹ Likewise for the north side in length there shall be hangings one hundred cubits long, and the pillars of it twenty, and their sockets twenty, of brass; the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets, of silver.¹² For the breadth of the court on the west side shall be hangings of fifty cubits; their pillars ten, and their sockets ten.¹³ The breadth of the court on the east side eastward shall be fifty cubits.¹⁴ The hangings for the one side of the gate shall be fifteen cubits; their pillars three, and their sockets three.¹⁵ For the other side shall be hangings of fifteen cubits; their pillars three, and their sockets three.¹⁶ For the gate of the court shall be a screen of twenty cubits, of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen, the work of the embroiderer; their pillars four, and their sockets four.¹⁷ All the pillars of the court round about shall be filleted with silver; their hooks of silver, and their sockets of brass.¹⁸ The length of the court shall be one hundred cubits, and the breadth fifty every where, and the height five cubits, of fine twined linen, and their sockets of brass.¹⁹ All the instruments of the tent in all its service, and all the pins of it, and all the pins of the court, shall be of brass.²⁰ "You shall command the children of Yasharaal, that they bring to you pure olive oil beaten for the light, to cause a lamp to burn continually.²¹ In the tent of meeting, outside the veil which is before the testimony, Aharan and his sons shall keep it in order from evening to morning before Yahawah: it shall be a statute forever throughout their generations on the behalf of the children of Yasharaal.

28 "Bring Aharan your brother, and his sons with him, near to you from among the children of Yasharaal, that he may minister to me in the priest's office, even Aharan, Nadab and Abayahawaa, Alaizar and Ayathamar, Aharan's sons.² You shall make holy garments for Aharan your brother, for glory and for beauty.³ You shall speak to all who are wise-hearted, whom I have filled with the spirit of wisdom, that they make Aharan's garments to sanctify him, that he may minister to me in the priest's office.⁴ These are the garments which they shall make: a breastplate, and an ephod, and a robe, and a coat of checker work, a turban, and a sash: and they shall make holy garments for Aharan your brother, and his sons, that he may minister to me in the priest's office.⁵ They shall take the gold, and the blue, and the purple, and the scarlet, and the fine linen.⁶ "They shall make the ephod of gold, of blue, and purple, scarlet, and fine twined linen, the work of the skillful workman.⁷ It shall have two shoulder-pieces joined to the two ends of it, that it may be joined together.⁸ The skillfully woven band, which is on it, that is on him, shall be like its work and of the same piece; of gold, of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen.⁹ You shall take two onyx stones, and engrave on them the names of the children of Yasharaal:¹⁰ six of their names on the one stone, and the names of the six that remain on the other stone, in the order of their birth.¹¹ With the work of an engraver in stone, like the engravings of a signet, shall you engrave the two stones, according to the names of the children of Yasharaal: you shall make them to be enclosed in settings of gold.¹² You shall put the two stones on the shoulder-pieces of the ephod, to be stones of memorial for the children of Yasharaal: and Aharan shall bear their names before Yahawah on his two shoulders for a memorial.¹³ You shall make settings of gold,¹⁴ and two chains of pure gold; you make them like cords shall, of braided work: and you shall put the braided chains on the settings.¹⁵ "You shall make a breastplate of judgment, the work of the skillful workman; like the work of the ephod you shall make it; of gold, of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen, shall you make it.¹⁶ It shall be square and folded double; a span shall be its length of it, and a span its breadth.¹⁷ You shall set in it settings of stones, four rows of stones: a row of ruby, topaz, and beryl shall be the first row;¹⁸ and the second row a turquoise, a sapphire, and an emerald;¹⁹ and the third row a jacinth, an agate, and an amethyst;²⁰ and the fourth row a chrysolite, an onyx, and a jasper: they shall be enclosed in gold in their settings.²¹ The stones shall be according to the names of the children of Yasharaal, twelve, according to their names; like the engravings of a signet, everyone according to his name, they shall be for the twelve tribes.²² You shall make on the breastplate chains like cords, of braided work of pure gold.²³ You shall make on the breastplate two rings of gold, and shall put the two rings on the two ends of the breastplate.²⁴ You shall put the two braided chains of gold in the two rings at the ends of the breastplate.²⁵ The other two ends of the two braided chains you shall put on the two settings, and put them on the shoulder-pieces of the ephod in the forepart of it.²⁶ You shall make two rings of gold, and you shall put them on the two ends of the breastplate, on its edge, which is toward the side of the ephod inward.²⁷ You shall make two rings of gold, and shall put them on the two shoulder-pieces of the ephod underneath, in the forepart of it, close by the coupling of it, above the skillfully woven band of the ephod.²⁸ They shall bind the breastplate by the rings of it to the rings of the ephod with a lace of blue, that it may be on the skillfully woven band of the ephod, and that the breastplate may not swing out from the ephod.²⁹ Aharan shall bear the names of the children of Yasharaal in the breastplate of judgment on his heart, when he goes in to the holy place, for a memorial before Yahawah continually.³⁰ You shall put in the breastplate of judgment the Urim and the Thummim; and they shall be on Aharan's heart, when he goes in before Yahawah: and Aharan shall bear the judgment of the children of Yasharaal on his heart before Yahawah continually.³¹ "You shall make the robe of the ephod all of blue.³² It shall have a hole for the head in the midst of it: it shall have a binding of woven work round about the hole of it, as it were the hole of a coat of mail, that it not be torn.³³ On its hem you shall make pomegranates of blue, and of purple, and of scarlet, around its hem; and bells of gold between them round about:³⁴ a golden bell and a pomegranate, a golden bell and a pomegranate, on the hem of the robe round about.³⁵ It shall be on Aharan to minister: and the sound of it shall be heard when he goes in to the holy place before Yahawah, and when he comes out, that he not die.³⁶ "You shall make a plate of pure gold, and engrave on it, like the engravings of a signet, 'HOLY TO YAHWEH.'³⁷ You shall put it on a lace of blue, and it shall be on the sash; on the front of the sash it shall be.³⁸ It shall be on Aharan's forehead, and Aharan shall bear the iniquity of the holy things, which the children of Yasharaal shall make holy in all their holy gifts; and it shall be always on his forehead, that they may be accepted before Yahawah.³⁹ You shall weave the coat in checker work of fine linen, and you shall make a turban of fine linen, and you shall make a sash, the work of the embroiderer.⁴⁰ "You shall make coats for Aharan's sons, and you shall make sashes for them and headbands shall you make for them, for glory and for beauty.⁴¹ You shall put them on Aharan your brother, and on his sons with him, and shall anoint them, and consecrate them, and sanctify them, that they may minister to me in the priest's office.⁴² You shall make them linen breeches to cover the flesh of their nakedness; from the loins even to the thighs they shall reach:⁴³ They shall be on Aharan, and on his sons, when they go in to the tent of meeting, or when they come near to the altar to minister in the holy place; that they don't bear iniquity, and die: it shall be a statute forever to him and to his descendants after him.

29 "This is the thing that you shall do to them to make them holy, to minister to me in the priest's office: take one young bull and two rams without blemish,² unleavened bread, unleavened cakes mixed with oil, and unleavened wafers anointed with oil: you shall make them of fine wheat flour.³ You shall put them into one basket, and bring them in the basket, with the bull and the two rams.⁴ You shall bring Aharan and his sons to the door of the tent of meeting, and shall wash them with water.⁵ You shall take the garments, and put on Aharan the coat, the robe of the ephod, the ephod, and the breastplate, and dress him with the skillfully woven band of the ephod;⁶ and you shall set the turban on his head, and put the holy crown on the turban.⁷ Then you shall take the anointing oil, and pour it on his head, and anoint him.⁸ You shall bring his sons, and put coats on them.⁹ You shall dress them with belts, Aharan and his sons, and bind headbands on them: and they shall have the priesthood by a perpetual statute: and you shall consecrate Aharan and his sons.¹⁰ "You shall bring the bull before the tent of meeting; and Aharan and his sons shall lay their hands on the head of the bull.¹¹ You shall kill the bull before Yahawah, at the door of the tent of meeting.¹² You shall take of the blood of the bull, and put it on the horns of the altar with your finger; and you shall pour out all the blood at the base of the altar.¹³ You shall take all the fat that covers the innards, the cover of the liver, the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, and burn them on the altar.¹⁴ But the flesh of the bull, and its skin, and its dung, you shall burn with fire outside of the camp: it is a Sayan-offering.¹⁵ "You shall also take the one ram; and Aharan and his sons shall lay their hands on the head of the ram.¹⁶ You shall kill the ram, and you shall take its blood, and sprinkle it around on the altar.¹⁷ You shall cut the ram into its pieces, and wash its innards, and its legs, and put them with its pieces, and with its head.¹⁸ You shall burn the whole ram on the altar: it is a burnt offering to Yahawah; it is a sweet savor, an offering made by fire to Yahawah.¹⁹ "You shall take the other ram; and Aharan and his sons shall lay their hands on the head of the ram.²⁰ Then you shall kill the ram, and take some of its blood, and put it on the tip of the right ear of Aharan, and on the tip of the right ear of his sons, and on the thumb of their right hand, and on the big toe of their right foot, and sprinkle the blood on the altar round about.²¹ You shall take of the blood that is on the altar, and of the anointing oil, and sprinkle it on Aharan, and on his garments, and on his sons, and on the garments of his sons with him: and he shall be made holy, and his garments, and his sons, and his sons' garments with him.²² Also you shall take some of the ram's fat, the fat tail, the fat that covers the innards, the cover of the liver, the two kidneys, the fat that is on them, and the right thigh (for it is a ram of consecration),²³ and one loaf of bread, one cake of oiled bread, and one wafer out of the basket of unleavened bread that is before Yahawah.²⁴ You shall put all of this in Aharan's hands, and in his sons' hands, and shall wave them for a wave-offering before Yahawah.²⁵ You shall take them from their hands, and burn them on the altar on the burnt offering, for a sweet savor before Yahawah: it is an offering made by fire to Yahawah.²⁶ "You shall take the breast of Aharan's ram of consecration, and wave it for a wave-offering before Yahawah: and it shall be your portion.²⁷ You shall sanctify the breast of the wave-offering, and the thigh of the heave-offering, which is waved, and which is heaved up, of the ram of consecration, even of that which is for Aharan, and of that which is for his sons:²⁸ and it shall be for Aharan and his sons as their portion forever from the children of Yasharaal; for it is a heave-offering; and it shall be a heave-offering from the children of Yasharaal of the sacrifices of their peace-offerings, even their heave-offering to Yahawah.²⁹ "The holy garments of Aharan shall be for his sons after him, to be anointed in them, and to be consecrated in them."³⁰ Seven days shall the son who is priest in his place put them on, when he comes into the tent of meeting to minister in the holy place.³¹ "You shall take the ram of consecration, and boil its flesh in a holy place."³² Aharan and his sons shall eat the flesh of the ram, and the bread that is in the basket, at the door of the tent of meeting.³³ They shall eat those things with which atonement was made, to consecrate and sanctify them: but a stranger shall not eat of it, because they are holy.³⁴ If anything of the flesh of the consecration, or of the bread, remains to the morning, then you shall burn the remainder with fire: it shall not be eaten, because it is holy.³⁵ "Thus shall you do to Aharan, and to his sons, according to all that I have commanded you. Seven days shall you consecrate them."³⁶ Every day shall you offer the bull of Sayan-offering for atonement: and you shall cleanse the altar, when you make atonement for it; and you shall anoint it, to sanctify it.³⁷ Seven days you shall make atonement for the altar, and sanctify it: and the altar shall be most holy; whatever touches the altar shall be holy.³⁸ "Now this is that which you shall offer on the altar: two lambs a year old day by day continually."³⁹ The one lamb you shall offer in the morning; and the other lamb you shall offer at evening;⁴⁰ and with the one lamb a tenth part of an ephah of fine flour mixed with the fourth part of a hin of beaten oil, and the fourth part of a hin of wine for a drink-offering.⁴¹ The other lamb you shall offer at evening, and shall do to it according to the meal-offering of the morning, and according to its drink-offering, for a sweet savor, an offering made by fire to Yahawah.⁴² It shall be a continual burnt offering throughout your generations at the door of the tent of meeting before Yahawah, where I will meet with you, to speak there to you.⁴³ There I will meet with the children of Yasharaal; and the place shall be sanctified by my glory.⁴⁴ I will sanctify the tent of meeting and the altar: Aharan also and his sons I will sanctify, to minister to me in the priest's office.⁴⁵ I will dwell among the children of Yasharaal, and will be their Alahayam.⁴⁶ They shall know that I am Yahawah their Alahayam, who brought them forth out of the land of Matzarayam, that I might dwell among them: I am Yahawah their Alahayam.

30 "You shall make an altar to burn incense on. You shall make it of acacia wood.² Its length shall be a cubit, and its breadth a cubit. It shall be square, and its height shall be two cubits. Its horns shall be of one piece with it.³ You shall overlay it with pure gold, the top of it, the sides of it around it, and its horns; and you shall make a gold molding around it.⁴ You shall make two golden rings for it under its molding; on its two ribs, on its two sides you shall make them; and they shall be for places for poles with which to bear it.⁵ You shall make the poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold.⁶ You shall put it before the veil that is by the ark of the testimony, before the mercy seat that is over the testimony, where I will meet with you.⁷ Aharan shall burn incense of sweet spices on it every morning. When he tends the lamps, he shall burn it.⁸ When Aharan lights the lamps at evening, he shall burn it, a perpetual incense before Yahawah throughout your generations.⁹ You shall offer no strange incense on it, nor burnt offering, nor meal-offering; and you shall pour no drink-offering on it.¹⁰ Aharan shall make atonement on its horns once in the year; with the blood of the sin offering of atonement once in the year he shall make atonement for it throughout your generations. It is most holy to Yahawah."¹¹ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,¹² "When you take a census of the children of Yasharaal, according to those who are numbered among them, then each man shall give a ransom for his soul to Yahawah, when you number them; that there be no plague among them when you number them."¹³ They shall give this, everyone who passes over to those who are numbered, half a shekel after the shekel of the sanctuary; (the shekel is twenty gerahs;) half a shekel for an offering to Yahawah.¹⁴ Everyone who passes over to those who are numbered, from twenty years old and upward, shall give the offering to Yahawah.¹⁵ The rich shall not give more, and the poor shall not give less, than the half shekel, when they give the offering of Yahawah, to make atonement for your souls."¹⁶ You shall take the atonement money from the children of Yasharaal, and shall appoint it for the service of the tent of meeting; that it may be a memorial for the children of Yasharaal before Yahawah, to make atonement for your souls."¹⁷ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,¹⁸ "You shall also make a basin of brass, and the base of it of brass, in which to wash. You shall put it between the tent of meeting and the altar, and you shall put water in it."¹⁹ Aharan and his sons shall wash their hands and their feet in it.²⁰ When they go into the tent of meeting, they shall wash with water, that they not die; or when they come near to the altar to minister, to burn an offering made by fire to Yahawah.²¹ So they shall wash their hands and their feet, that they not die: and it shall be a statute forever to them, even to him and to his descendants throughout their generations."²² Moreover Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,²³ "Also take fine spices: of liquid myrrh, five hundred shekels; and of fragrant cinnamon half as much, even two hundred and fifty; and of fragrant cane, two hundred and fifty;²⁴ and of cassia five hundred, after the shekel of the sanctuary; and a hin of olive oil."²⁵ You shall make it a holy anointing oil, a perfume compounded after the art of the perfumer: it shall be a holy anointing oil.²⁶ You shall use it to anoint the tent of meeting, the ark of the testimony,²⁷ the table and all its articles, the lampstand and its accessories, the altar of incense,²⁸ the altar of burnt offering with all its utensils, and the basin with its base.²⁹ You shall sanctify them, that they may be most holy. Whatever touches them shall be holy.³⁰ You shall anoint Aharan and his sons, and sanctify them, that they may minister to me in the priest's office.³¹ You shall speak to the children of Yasharaal, saying, "This shall be a holy anointing oil to me throughout your generations."³² It shall not be poured on man's flesh, neither shall you make any like it, according to its composition: it is holy. It shall be holy to you.³³ Whoever compounds any like it, or whoever puts any of it on a stranger, he shall be cut off from his people."³⁴ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Take to yourself sweet spices, gum resin, and onycha, and galbanum; sweet spices with pure frankincense: of each shall there be an equal weight;³⁵ and you shall make incense of it, a perfume after the art of the perfumer, seasoned with salt, pure and holy:³⁶ and you shall beat some of it very small, and put some of it before the testimony in the tent of meeting, where I will meet with you. It shall be to you most holy."³⁷ The incense which you shall make, according to its composition you shall not make for yourselves: it shall be to you holy for Yahawah.³⁸ Whoever shall make any like that, to smell of it, he shall be cut off from his people."

31 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² "Behold, I have called by name Bezalel the son of Awaray, the son of Chawar, of the tribe of Yahawadah:³ and I have filled him with the Spirit of Alahayam, in wisdom, and in understanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship,⁴ to devise skillful works, to work in gold, and in silver, and in brass,⁵ and in cutting of stones for setting, and in carving of wood, to work in all manner of workmanship."⁶ I, behold, I have appointed with him Ahalyaab, the son of Achayasamak, of the tribe of Wadan; and in the heart of all who are wise-hearted I have put wisdom, that they may make all that I have commanded you:⁷ the tent of meeting, the ark of the testimony, the mercy seat that is on it, all the furniture of the Tent,⁸ the table and its vessels, the pure lampstand with all its vessels, the altar of incense,⁹ the altar of burnt offering with all its vessels, the basin and its base,¹⁰ the finely worked garments -- the holy garments for Aharan the priest -- the garments of his sons to minister in the priest's office,¹¹ the anointing oil, and the incense of sweet spices for the holy place: according to all that I have commanded you they shall do."¹² Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,¹³ "Speak also to the children of Yasharaal, saying, 'Most assuredly you shall keep my Sabbaths: for it is a sign between me and you throughout your generations; that you may know that I am Yahawah who sanctifies you.'¹⁴ You shall keep the Sabbath therefore; for it is holy to you.

Everyone who profanes it shall surely be put to death; for whoever does any work therein, that soul shall be cut off from among his people.¹⁵ Six days shall work be done, but on the seventh day is a Sabbath of solemn rest, holy to Yahawah. Whoever does any work on the Sabbath day shall surely be put to death.¹⁶ Therefore the children of Yasharaal shall keep the Sabbath, to observe the Sabbath throughout their generations, for a perpetual covenant.¹⁷ It is a sign between me and the children of Yasharaal forever; for in six days Yahawah made heaven and earth, and on the seventh day he rested, and was refreshed."¹⁸ He gave to Mashah, when he finished speaking with him on Mount Sayanay, the two tablets of the testimony, stone tablets, written with Alahayam's finger.

32 When the people saw that Mashah delayed to come down from the mountain, the people gathered themselves together to Aharan, and said to him, "Come, make us gods, which shall go before us; for as for this Mashah, the man who brought us up out of the land of Matzarayam, we don't know what has become of him."² Aharan said to them, "Take off the golden rings, which are in the ears of your wives, of your sons, and of your daughters, and bring them to me."³ All the people took off the golden rings which were in their ears, and brought them to Aharan.⁴ He received what they handed him, and fashioned it with an engraving tool, and made it a molten calf; and they said, "These are your gods, Yasharaal, which brought you up out of the land of Matzarayam."⁵ When Aharan saw this, he built an altar before it; and Aharan made a proclamation, and said, "Tomorrow shall be a feast to Yahawah."⁶ They rose up early on the next day, and offered burnt offerings, and brought peace-offerings; and the people sat down to eat and to drink, and rose up to play.⁷ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, "Go, get down; for your people, who you brought up out of the land of Matzarayam, have corrupted themselves!⁸ They have turned aside quickly out of the way which I commanded them. They have made themselves a molten calf, and have worshipped it, and have sacrificed to it, and said, 'These are your gods, Yasharaal, which brought you up out of the land of Matzarayam.'⁹ Yahawah said to Mashah, "I have seen these people, and, behold, they are a stiff-necked people.¹⁰ Now therefore leave me alone, that my wrath may burn hot against them, and that I may consume them; and I will make of you a great nation."¹¹ Mashah begged Yahawah his Alahayam, and said, "Yahawah, why does your wrath burn hot against your people, that you have brought forth out of the land of Matzarayam with great power and with a mighty hand?¹² Why should the Matzarayam speak, saying, 'He brought them forth for evil, to kill them in the mountains, and to consume them from the surface of the earth?' Turn from your fierce wrath, and repent of this evil against your people."¹³ Remember Abaraham, Yatzachaq, and Yasharaal, your servants, to whom you swore by your own self, and said to them, 'I will multiply your seed as the stars of the sky, and all this land that I have spoken of I will give to your seed, and they shall inherit it forever.'¹⁴ Yahawah repented of the evil which he said he would do to his people.¹⁵ Mashah turned, and went down from the mountain, with the two tablets of the testimony in his hand; tablets that were written on both their sides; on the one side and on the other they were written.¹⁶ The tablets were the work of Alahayam, and the writing was the writing of Alahayam, engraved on the tables.¹⁷ When Yahawashai heard the noise of the people as they shouted, he said to Mashah, "There is the noise of war in the camp."¹⁸ He said, "It isn't the voice of those who shout for victory, neither is it the voice of those who cry for being overcome; but the noise of those who sing that I hear."¹⁹ It happened, as soon as he came near to the camp, that he saw the calf and the dancing: and Mashah's anger grew hot, and he threw the tablets out of his hands, and broke them beneath the mountain.²⁰ He took the calf which they had made, and burnt it with fire, ground it to powder, and scattered it on the water, and made the children of Yasharaal drink of it.²¹ Mashah said to Aharan, "What did this people do to you, that you have brought a great sin on them?"²² Aharan said, "Don't let the anger of my lord grow hot. You know the people, that they are set on evil."²³ For they said to me, 'Make us gods, which shall go before us; for as for this

Mashah, the man who brought us up out of the land of Matzarayam, we don't know what has become of him.'²⁴ I said to them, 'Whoever has any gold, let them take it off; so they gave it me; and I threw it into the fire, and out came this calf.'²⁵ When Mashah saw that the people had broken loose, (for Aharan had let them loose for a derision among their enemies,) ²⁶ then Mashah stood in the gate of the camp, and said, "Whoever is on Yahawah's side, come to me!" All the sons of Laway gathered themselves together to him.²⁷ He said to them, "Thus says Yahawah, the Alahayam of Yasharaal, 'Every man put his sword on his thigh, and go back and forth from gate to gate throughout the camp, and every man kill his brother, and every man his companion, and every man his neighbor.'²⁸ The sons of Laway did according to the word of Mashah; and there fell of the people that day about three thousand men.²⁹ Mashah said, "Consecrate yourselves today to Yahawah, yes, every man against his son, and against his brother; that he may bestow on you a blessing this day."³⁰ It happened on the next day, that Mashah said to the people, "You have sinned a great sin. Now I will go up to Yahawah. Perhaps I shall make atonement for your sin."³¹ Mashah returned to Yahawah, and said, "Oh, this people have sinned a great sin, and have made themselves gods of gold."³² Yet now, if you will, forgive their sin-- and if not, please blot me out of your book which you have written."³³ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Whoever has sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book."³⁴ Now go, lead the people to the place of which I have spoken to you. Behold, my angel shall go before you. Nevertheless in the day when I punish, I will punish them for their sin."³⁵ Yahawah struck the people, because they made the calf, which Aharan made.

33 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, "Depart, go up from here, you and the people that you have brought up out of the land of Matzarayam, to the land of which I swore to Abaraham, to Yatzachaq, and to Yaiqab, saying, 'I will give it to your seed.'² I will send an angel before you; and I will drive out the Canaanite, the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite:³ to a land flowing with milk and honey: for I will not go up in the midst of you, for you are a stiff-necked people, lest I consume you in the way."⁴ When the people heard this evil news, they mourned: and no one put on his jewelry.⁵ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Tell the children of Yasharaal, 'You are a stiff-necked people. If I were to go up into your midst for one moment, I would consume you. Therefore now take off your jewelry from you, that I may know what to do to you.'⁶ The children of Yasharaal stripped themselves of their jewelry from Mount Charab onward.⁷ Now Mashah used to take the tent and to pitch it outside the camp, far away from the camp, and he called it "The tent of meeting." It happened that everyone who sought Yahawah went out to the tent of meeting, which was outside the camp.⁸ It happened that when Mashah went out to the Tent, that all the people rose up, and stood, everyone at their tent door, and watched Mashah, until he had gone into the Tent.⁹ It happened, when Mashah entered into the Tent, that the pillar of cloud descended, stood at the door of the Tent, and spoke with Mashah.¹⁰ All the people saw the pillar of cloud stand at the door of the Tent, and all the people rose up and worshipped, everyone at their tent door.¹¹ Yahawah spoke to Mashah face to face, as a man speaks to his friend. He turned again into the camp, but his servant Yahawashai, the son of Nawan, a young man, didn't depart out of the Tent.¹² Mashah said to Yahawah, "Behold, you tell me, 'Bring up this people:' and you haven't let me know whom you will send with me. Yet you have said, 'I know you by name, and you have also found favor in my sight.'¹³ Now therefore, if I have found favor in your sight, please show me now your ways, that I may know you, so that I may find favor in your sight: and consider that this nation is your people."¹⁴ He said, "My presence will go with you, and I will give you rest."¹⁵ He said to him, "If your presence doesn't go with me, don't carry us up from here.¹⁶ For how would people know that I have found favor in your sight, I and your people? Isn't it in that you go with us, so that we are separated, I and your people, from all the people who are on the surface of the earth?"¹⁷ Yahawah said to Mashah, "I will do this thing also that you have spoken; for you have found favor in my sight, and I know you by name." ¹⁸ He said, "Please show me your glory." ¹⁹ He said, "I will make all my goodness pass before you, and will proclaim the name of Yahawah before you. I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, and will show mercy on whom I will show mercy." ²⁰ He said, "You cannot see my face, for man may not see me and live." ²¹ Yahawah also said, "Behold, there is a place by me, and you shall stand on the rock. ²² It will happen, while my glory passes by, that I will put you in a cleft of the rock, and will cover you with my hand until I have passed by; ²³ then I will take away my hand, and you will see my back; but my face shall not be seen."

34 Yahawah said to Mashah, "Chisel two stone tablets like the first: and I will write on the tablets the words that were on the first tablets, which you broke. ² Be ready by the morning, and come up in the morning to Mount Sayanay, and present yourself there to me on the top of the mountain. ³ No one shall come up with you; neither let anyone be seen throughout all the mountain; neither let the flocks nor herds feed before that mountain." ⁴ He chiseled two tablets of stone like the first; and Mashah rose up early in the morning, and went up to Mount Sayanay, as Yahawah had commanded him, and took in his hand two stone tablets. ⁵ Yahawah descended in the cloud, and stood with him there, and proclaimed the name of Yahawah. ⁶ Yahawah passed by before him, and proclaimed, "Yahawah! Yahawah, a merciful and gracious Alahayam, slow to anger, and abundant in lovingkindness and truth, ⁷ keeping lovingkindness for thousands, forgiving iniquity and disobedience and sin; and that will by no means clear the guilty, visiting the iniquity of the fathers on the children, and on the children's children, on the third and on the fourth generation." ⁸ Mashah hurried and bowed his head toward the earth, and worshipped. ⁹ He said, "If now I have found favor in your sight, Adanay, please let the Adanay go in the midst of us; although this is a stiff-necked people; pardon our iniquity and our sin, and take us for your inheritance." ¹⁰ He said, "Behold, I make a covenant: before all your people I will do marvels, such as have not been worked in all the earth, nor in any nation; and all the people among which you are shall see the work of Yahawah; for it is an awesome thing that I do with you. ¹¹ Observe that which I command you this day. Behold, I drive out before you the Amorite, the Canaanite, the Hittite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite. ¹² Be careful, lest you make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land where you are going, lest it be for a snare in the midst of you: ¹³ but you shall break down their altars, and dash in pieces their pillars, and you shall cut down their Asherim; ¹⁴ for you shall worship no other god: for Yahawah, whose name is Jealous, is a jealous Alahayam. ¹⁵ Don't make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land, lest they play the prostitute after their gods, and sacrifice to their gods, and one call you and you eat of his sacrifice; ¹⁶ and you take of their daughters to your sons, and their daughters play the prostitute after their gods, and make your sons play the prostitute after their gods. ¹⁷ You shall make no cast idols for yourselves. ¹⁸ You shall keep the feast of unleavened bread. Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread, as I commanded you, at the time appointed in the month Abayab; for in the month Abayab you came out from Matzarayam. ¹⁹ All that opens the womb is mine; and all your cattle that is male, the firstborn of cow and sheep. ²⁰ The firstborn of a donkey you shall redeem with a lamb; and if you will not redeem it, then you shall break its neck. All the firstborn of your sons you shall redeem. No one shall appear before me empty. ²¹ Six days you shall work, but on the seventh day you shall rest: in plowing time and in harvest you shall rest. ²² You shall observe the feast of weeks with the first-fruits of wheat harvest, and the feast of harvest at the year's end. ²³ Three times in the year all your males shall appear before the Adanay Yahawah, the Alahayam of Yasharaal. ²⁴ For I will drive out nations before you and enlarge your borders; neither shall any man desire your land when you go up to appear before Yahawah, your Alahayam, three times in the year. ²⁵ You shall not offer the blood of my sacrifice with leavened bread; neither shall the sacrifice of the feast of the Passover be left to the morning. ²⁶ You shall bring the first of the first-fruits of your ground to the house of Yahawah your Alahayam. You shall not boil a young goat in its mother's milk." ²⁷ Yahawah said to Mashah, "Write you these words: for in accordance with these words I have made a covenant with you and with Yasharaal." ²⁸ He was there with Yahawah forty days and forty nights; he neither ate bread, nor drank water. He wrote on the tablets the words of the covenant, the ten commandments. ²⁹ It happened, when Mashah came down from Mount Sayanay with the two tablets of the testimony in Mashah's hand, when he came down from the mountain, that Mashah didn't know that the skin of his face shone by reason of his speaking with him. ³⁰ When Aharan and all the children of Yasharaal saw Mashah, behold, the skin of his face shone; and they were afraid to come near him. ³¹ Mashah called to them, and Aharan and all the rulers of the congregation returned to him; and Mashah spoke to them. ³² Afterward all the children of Yasharaal came near, and he gave them all of the commandments that Yahawah had spoken with him on Mount Sayanay. ³³ When Mashah was done speaking with them, he put a veil on his face. ³⁴ But when Mashah went in before Yahawah to speak with him, he took the veil off, until he came out; and he came out, and spoke to the children of Yasharaal that which he was commanded. ³⁵ The children of Yasharaal saw Mashah's face, that the skin of Mashah's face shone: and Mashah put the veil on his face again, until he went in to speak with him.

35 Mashah assembled all the congregation of the children of Yasharaal, and said to them, "These are the words which Yahawah has commanded, that you should do them. ² Six days shall work be done, but on the seventh day there shall be a holy day for you, a Sabbath of solemn rest to Yahawah: whoever does any work in it shall be put to death. ³ You shall kindle no fire throughout your habitations on the Sabbath day." ⁴ Mashah spoke to all the congregation of the children of Yasharaal, saying, "This is the thing which Yahawah commanded, saying, ⁵ Take from among you an offering to Yahawah. Whoever is of a willing heart, let him bring it, Yahawah's offering: gold, silver, brass, ⁶ blue, purple, scarlet, fine linen, goats' hair, ⁷ rams' skins dyed red, sea cow hides, acacia wood, ⁸ oil for the light, spices for the anointing oil and for the sweet incense, ⁹ onyx stones, and stones to be set for the ephod and for the breastplate. ¹⁰ Let every wise-hearted man among you come, and make all that Yahawah has commanded: ¹¹ the tent, its outer covering, its roof, its clasps, its boards, its bars, its pillars, and its sockets; ¹² the ark, and its poles, the mercy seat, the veil of the screen; ¹³ the table with its poles and all its vessels, and the show bread; ¹⁴ the lampstand also for the light, with its vessels, its lamps, and the oil for the light; ¹⁵ and the altar of incense with its poles, the anointing oil, the sweet incense, the screen for the door, at the door of the tent; ¹⁶ the altar of burnt offering, with its grating of brass, its poles, and all its vessels, the basin and its base; ¹⁷ the hangings of the court, its pillars, their sockets, and the screen for the gate of the court; ¹⁸ the pins of the tent, the pins of the court, and their cords; ¹⁹ the finely worked garments, for ministering in the holy place, the holy garments for Aharan the priest, and the garments of his sons, to minister in the priest's office." ²⁰ All the congregation of the children of Yasharaal departed from the presence of Mashah. ²¹ They came, everyone whose heart stirred him up, and everyone whom his spirit made willing, and brought Yahawah's offering, for the work of the tent of meeting, and for all of its service, and for the holy garments. ²² They came, both men and women, as many as were willing-hearted, and brought brooches, ear-rings, signet-rings, and armlets, all jewels of gold; even every man who offered an offering of gold to Yahawah. ²³ Everyone, with whom was found blue, purple, scarlet, fine linen, goats' hair, rams' skins dyed red, and sea cow hides, brought them. ²⁴ Everyone who did offer an offering of silver and brass brought Yahawah's offering; and everyone, with whom was found acacia wood for any work of the service, brought it. ²⁵ All the women who were wise-hearted spun with their hands, and brought that which they had spun, the blue, the purple, the scarlet, and the fine linen. ²⁶ All the women whose heart stirred them up in wisdom spun the goats' hair.²⁷ The rulers brought the onyx stones, and the stones to be set, for the ephod and for the breastplate;²⁸ and the spice, and the oil for the light, for the anointing oil, and for the sweet incense.²⁹ The children of Yasharaal brought a freewill offering to Yahawah; every man and woman, whose heart made them willing to bring for all the work, which Yahawah had commanded to be made by Mashah.³⁰ Mashah said to the children of Yasharaal, "Behold, Yahawah has called by name Bezalel the son of Awaray, the son of Chawar, of the tribe of Yahawadah.³¹ He has filled him with the Spirit of Alahayam, in wisdom, in understanding, in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship;³² and to make skillful works, to work in gold, in silver, in brass,³³ in cutting of stones for setting, and in carving of wood, to work in all kinds of skillful workmanship.³⁴ He has put in his heart that he may teach, both he, and Ahalayaab, the son of Achayasamak, of the tribe of Wadan.³⁵ He has filled them with wisdom of heart, to work all manner of workmanship, of the engraver, of the skillful workman, and of the embroiderer, in blue, in purple, in scarlet, and in fine linen, and of the weaver, even of those who do any workmanship, and of those who make skillful works.

36 "Bezalel and Ahalayaab shall work with every wise-hearted man, in whom Yahawah has put wisdom and understanding to know how to work all the work for the service of the sanctuary, according to all that Yahawah has commanded."² Mashah called Bezalel and Ahalayaab, and every wise-hearted man, in whose heart Yahawah had put wisdom, even everyone whose heart stirred him up to come to the work to do it;³ and they received from Mashah all the offering which the children of Yasharaal had brought for the work of the service of the sanctuary, with which to make it. They brought yet to him freewill-offerings every morning.⁴ All the wise men, who performed all the work of the sanctuary, each came from his work which they did.⁵ They spoke to Mashah, saying, "The people bring much more than enough for the service of the work which Yahawah commanded to make."⁶ Mashah gave commandment, and they caused it to be proclaimed throughout the camp, saying, "Let neither man nor woman make anything else for the offering for the sanctuary." So the people were restrained from bringing.⁷ For the stuff they had was sufficient for all the work to make it, and too much.⁸ All the wise-hearted men among those who did the work made the tent with ten curtains; of fine twined linen, blue, purple, and scarlet, with cherubim, the work of the skillful workman, they made them.⁹ The length of each curtain was twenty-eight cubits, and the breadth of each curtain four cubits. All the curtains had one measure.¹⁰ He coupled five curtains to one another, and the other five curtains he coupled one to another.¹¹ He made loops of blue on the edge of the one curtain from the edge in the coupling. Likewise he made in the edge of the curtain that was outmost in the second coupling.¹² He made fifty loops in the one curtain, and he made fifty loops in the edge of the curtain that was in the second coupling. The loops were opposite one to another.¹³ He made fifty clasps of gold, and coupled the curtains one to another with the clasps: so the tent was a unit.¹⁴ He made curtains of goats' hair for a covering over the tent. He made them eleven curtains.¹⁵ The length of each curtain was thirty cubits, and four cubits the breadth of each curtain. The eleven curtains had one measure.¹⁶ He coupled five curtains by themselves, and six curtains by themselves.¹⁷ He made fifty loops on the edge of the curtain that was outmost in the coupling, and he made fifty loops on the edge of the curtain which was outmost in the second coupling.¹⁸ He made fifty clasps of brass to couple the tent together, that it might be a unit.¹⁹ He made a covering for the tent of rams' skins dyed red, and a covering of sea cow hides above.²⁰ He made the boards for the tent of acacia wood, standing up.²¹ Ten cubits was the length of a board, and a cubit and a half the breadth of each board.²² Each board had two tenons, joined one to another. He made all the boards of the tent this way.²³ He made the boards for the tent: twenty boards for the south side southward.²⁴ He made forty sockets of silver under the twenty boards; two sockets under one board for its two tenons, and two sockets under another board for its two tenons.²⁵ For the second side of the tent, on the north side, he made twenty boards,²⁶ and their forty sockets of silver; two sockets under one board, and two sockets under another board.²⁷ For the far part of the tent westward he made six boards.²⁸ He made two boards for the corners of the tent in the far part.²⁹ They were double beneath, and in like manner they were all the way to the top of it to one ring. He did thus to both of them in the two corners.³⁰ There were eight boards, and their sockets of silver, sixteen sockets; under every board two sockets.³¹ He made bars of acacia wood; five for the boards of the one side of the tent,³² and five bars for the boards of the other side of the tent, and five bars for the boards of the tent for the hinder part westward.³³ He made the middle bar to pass through in the midst of the boards from the one end to the other.³⁴ He overlaid the boards with gold, and made their rings of gold for places for the bars, and overlaid the bars with gold.³⁵ He made the veil of blue, purple, scarlet, and fine twined linen: with cherubim. He made it the work of a skillful workman.³⁶ He made four pillars of acacia for it, and overlaid them with gold. Their hooks were of gold. He cast four sockets of silver for them.³⁷ He made a screen for the door of the tent, of blue, purple, scarlet, and fine twined linen, the work of an embroiderer;³⁸ and the five pillars of it with their hooks. He overlaid their capitals and their fillets with gold, and their five sockets were of brass.

37 Bezalel made the ark of acacia wood. Its length was two and a half cubits, and its breadth a cubit and a half, and a cubit and a half its height.² He overlaid it with pure gold inside and outside, and made a molding of gold for it round about.³ He cast four rings of gold for it, in its four feet; even two rings on its one side, and two rings on its other side.⁴ He made poles of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold.⁵ He put the poles into the rings on the sides of the ark, to bear the ark.⁶ He made a mercy seat of pure gold. Its length was two and a half cubits, and a cubit and a half its breadth.⁷ He made two cherubim of gold. He made them of beaten work them, at the two ends of the mercy seat;⁸ one cherub at the one end, and one cherub at the other end. He made the cherubim of one piece with the mercy seat at its two ends.⁹ The cherubim spread out their wings on high, covering the mercy seat with their wings, with their faces toward one another. The faces of the cherubim were toward the mercy seat.¹⁰ He made the table of acacia wood. Its length was two cubits, and its breadth was a cubit, and its height was a cubit and a half.¹¹ He overlaid it with pure gold, and made a gold molding around it.¹² He made a border of a handbreadth around it, and made a golden molding on its border around it.¹³ He cast four rings of gold for it, and put the rings in the four corners that were on its four feet.¹⁴ The rings were close by the border, the places for the poles to carry the table.¹⁵ He made the poles of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold, to carry the table.¹⁶ He made the vessels which were on the table, its dishes, its spoons, its bowls, and its pitchers with which to pour out, of pure gold.¹⁷ He made the lampstand of pure gold. He made the lampstand of beaten work. Its base, its shaft, its cups, its buds, and its flowers were of one piece with it.¹⁸ There were six branches going out of its sides: three branches of the lampstand out of its one side, and three branches of the lampstand out of its other side;¹⁹ three cups made like almond-blossoms in one branch, a bud and a flower, and three cups made like almond-blossoms in the other branch, a bud and a flower: so for the six branches going out of the lampstand.²⁰ In the lampstand were four cups made like almond-blossoms, its buds and its flowers;²¹ and a bud under two branches of one piece with it, and a bud under two branches of one piece with it, and a bud under two branches of one piece with it, for the six branches going out of it.²² Their buds and their branches were of one piece with it. The whole thing was one beaten work of pure gold.²³ He made its seven lamps, and its snuffers, and its snuff dishes, of pure gold.²⁴ He made it of a talent of pure gold, with all its vessels.²⁵ He made the altar of incense of acacia wood. It was square: its length was a cubit, and its breadth a cubit. Its height was two cubits. Its horns were of one piece with it.²⁶ He overlaid it with pure gold, its top, its sides around it, and its horns. He made a gold molding around it.²⁷ He made two golden rings for it under its molding crown, on its two ribs, on its two sides, for places for poles with which to carry it.²⁸ He made the poles of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold.²⁹ He made the holy anointing oil and the pure incense of sweet spices, after the art of the perfumer.

38 He made the altar of burnt offering of acacia wood. It was square. Its length was five cubits, its breadth was five cubits, and its height was three cubits.² He made its horns on its four corners. Its horns were of one piece with it, and he overlaid it with brass.³ He made all the vessels of the altar, the pots, the shovels, the basins, the flesh-hooks, and the fire pans. He made all its vessels of brass.⁴ He made for the altar a grating of a network of brass, under the ledge around it beneath, reaching halfway up.⁵ He cast four rings for the four ends of brass grating, to be places for the poles.⁶ He made the poles of acacia wood, and overlaid them with brass.⁷ He put the poles into the rings on the sides of the altar, with which to carry it. He made it hollow with planks.⁸ He made the basin of brass, and its base of brass, out of the mirrors of the ministering women who ministered at the door of the tent of meeting.⁹ He made the court: for the south side southward the hangings of the court were of fine twined linen, one hundred cubits;¹⁰ their pillars were twenty, and their sockets twenty, of brass; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets were of silver.¹¹ For the north side one hundred cubits, their pillars twenty, and their sockets twenty, of brass; the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets, of silver.¹² For the west side were hangings of fifty cubits, their pillars ten, and their sockets ten; the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets, of silver.¹³ For the east side eastward fifty cubits.¹⁴ The hangings for the one side were fifteen cubits; their pillars three, and their sockets three;¹⁵ and so for the other side: on this hand and that hand by the gate of the court were hangings of fifteen cubits; their pillars three, and their sockets three.¹⁶ All the hangings around the court were of fine twined linen.¹⁷ The sockets for the pillars were of brass. The hooks of the pillars and their fillets were of silver; and the overlaying of their capitals, of silver; and all the pillars of the court were filleted with silver.¹⁸ The screen for the gate of the court was the work of the embroiderer, of blue, purple, scarlet, and fine twined linen. Twenty cubits was the length, and the height in the breadth was five cubits, like to the hangings of the court.¹⁹ Their pillars were four, and their sockets four, of brass; their hooks of silver, and the overlaying of their capitals, and their fillets, of silver.²⁰ All the pins of the tent, and around the court, were of brass.²¹ This is the amount of material used for the tent, even the Tent of the Testimony, as they were counted, according to the commandment of Mashah, for the service of the Levites, by the hand of Ayathamar, the son of Aharan the priest.²² Bezalel the son of Awaray, the son of Chawar, of the tribe of Yahawadah, made all that Yahawah commanded Mashah.²³ With him was Ahalyaab, the son of Achayasamak, of the tribe of Wadan, an engraver, and a skillful workman, and an embroiderer in blue, in purple, in scarlet, and in fine linen.²⁴ All the gold that was used for the work in all the work of the sanctuary, even the gold of the offering, was twenty-nine talents, and seven hundred thirty shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary.²⁵ The silver of those who were numbered of the congregation was one hundred talents, and one thousand seven hundred seventy-five shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary:²⁶ a beka a head, that is, half a shekel, after the shekel of the sanctuary, for everyone who passed over to those who were numbered, from twenty years old and upward, for six hundred three thousand five hundred fifty men.²⁷ The one hundred talents of silver were for casting the sockets of the sanctuary, and the sockets of the veil; one hundred sockets for the one hundred talents, a talent for a socket.²⁸ Of the one thousand seven hundred seventy-five shekels he made hooks for the pillars, overlaid their capitals, and made fillets for them.²⁹ The brass of the offering was seventy talents, and two thousand four hundred shekels.³⁰ With this he made the sockets to the door of the tent of meeting, the brazen altar, the brazen grating for it, all the vessels of the altar,³¹ the sockets around the court, the sockets of the gate of the court, all the pins of the tent, and all the pins around the court.

39 Of the blue, purple, and scarlet, they made finely worked garments, for ministering in the holy place, and made the holy garments for Aharan; as Yahawah commanded Mashah.² He made the ephod of gold, blue, purple, scarlet, and fine twined linen.³ They beat the gold into thin plates, and cut it into wires, to work it in the blue, in the purple, in the scarlet, and in the fine linen, the work of the skillful workman.⁴ They made shoulder-pieces for it, joined together. At the two ends it was joined together.⁵ The skillfully woven band that was on it, with which to fasten it on, was of the same piece, like its work; of gold, of blue, purple, scarlet, and fine twined linen; as Yahawah commanded Mashah.⁶ They worked the onyx stones, enclosed in settings of gold, engraved with the engravings of a signet, according to the names of the children of Yasharaal.⁷ He put them on the shoulder-pieces of the ephod, to be stones of memorial for the children of Yasharaal, as Yahawah commanded Mashah.⁸ He made the breastplate, the work of a skillful workman, like the work of the ephod; of gold, of blue, purple, scarlet, and fine twined linen.⁹ It was square. They made the breastplate double. Its length was a span, and its breadth a span, being double.¹⁰ They set in it four rows of stones. A row of ruby, topaz, and beryl was the first row;¹¹ and the second row, a turquoise, a sapphire, and an emerald;¹² and the third row, a jacinth, an agate, and an amethyst;¹³ and the fourth row, a chrysolite, an onyx, and a jasper. They were enclosed in gold settings.¹⁴ The stones were according to the names of the children of Yasharaal, twelve, according to their names; like the engravings of a signet, everyone according to his name, for the twelve tribes.¹⁵ They made on the breastplate chains like cords, of braided work of pure gold.¹⁶ They made two settings of gold, and two gold rings, and put the two rings on the two ends of the breastplate.¹⁷ They put the two braided chains of gold in the two rings at the ends of the breastplate.¹⁸ The other two ends of the two braided chains they put on the two settings, and put them on the shoulder-pieces of the ephod, in the front of it.¹⁹ They made two rings of gold, and put them on the two ends of the breastplate, on the edge of it, which was toward the side of the ephod inward.²⁰ They made two rings of gold, and put them on the two shoulder-pieces of the ephod underneath, in the front of it, close by its coupling, above the skillfully woven band of the ephod.²¹ They bound the breastplate by its rings to the rings of the ephod with a lace of blue, that it might be on the skillfully woven band of the ephod, and that the breastplate might not come loose from the ephod, as Yahawah commanded Mashah.²² He made the robe of the ephod of woven work, all of blue.²³ The opening of the robe in the midst of it was like the opening of a coat of mail, with a binding around its opening, that it should not be torn.²⁴ They made on the skirts of the robe pomegranates of blue, purple, scarlet, and twined linen.²⁵ They made bells of pure gold, and put the bells between the pomegranates around the skirts of the robe, between the pomegranates;²⁶ a bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate, around the skirts of the robe, to minister in, as Yahawah commanded Mashah.²⁷ They made the coats of fine linen of woven work for Aharan, and for his sons,²⁸ and the turban of fine linen, and the linen headbands of fine linen, and the linen breeches of fine twined linen,²⁹ and the sash of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and scarlet, the work of the embroiderer, as Yahawah commanded Mashah.³⁰ They made the plate of the holy crown of pure gold, and wrote on it a writing, like the engravings of a signet: "HOLY TO YAHWEH."³¹ They tied to it a lace of blue, to fasten it on the turban above, as Yahawah commanded Mashah.³² Thus all the work of the tent of the tent of meeting was finished. The children of Yasharaal did according to all that Yahawah commanded Mashah; so they did.³³ They brought the tent to Mashah, the tent, with all its furniture, its clasps, its boards, its bars, its pillars, its sockets,³⁴ the covering of rams' skins dyed red, the covering of sea cow hides, the veil of the screen,³⁵ the ark of the testimony with its poles, the mercy seat,³⁶ the table, all its vessels, the show bread,³⁷ the pure lampstand, its lamps, even the lamps to be set in order, all its vessels, the oil for the light,³⁸ the golden altar, the anointing oil, the sweet incense, the screen for the door of the Tent,³⁹ the brazen altar, its grating of brass, its poles, all of its vessels, the basin and its base,⁴⁰ the hangings of the court, its pillars, its sockets, the screen for the gate of the court, its cords, its pins, all the instruments of the service of the tent, for the tent of meeting,⁴¹ the finely worked garments for ministering in the holy place, the holy garments for Aharan the priest, and the garments of his sons, to minister in the priest's office.⁴² According to all that Yahawah commanded Mashah, so the children of Yasharaal did all the work.⁴³ Mashah saw all the work, and, behold, they had done it as Yahawah had commanded, even so had they done it: and Mashah blessed them.

40 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² "On the first day of the first month you shall raise up the tent of the Tent of Meeting.³ You shall put the ark of the testimony in it, and you shall screen the ark with the veil.⁴ You shall bring in the table, and set in order the things that are on it. You shall bring in the lampstand, and light the lamps of it.⁵ You shall set the golden altar for incense before the ark of the testimony, and put the screen of the door to the tent.⁶ You shall set the altar of burnt offering before the door of the tent of the tent of meeting.⁷ You shall set the basin between the tent of meeting and the altar, and shall put water therein.⁸ You shall set up the court around it, and hang up the screen of the gate of the court.⁹ You shall take the anointing oil, and anoint the tent, and all that is in it, and shall make it holy, and all its furniture: and it will be holy.¹⁰ You shall anoint the altar of burnt offering, with all its vessels, and sanctify the altar: and the altar will be most holy.¹¹ You shall anoint the basin and its base, and sanctify it.¹² You shall bring Aharan and his sons to the door of the tent of meeting, and shall wash them with water.¹³ You shall put on Aharan the holy garments; and you shall anoint him, and sanctify him, that he may minister to me in the priest's office.¹⁴ You shall bring his sons, and put coats on them.¹⁵ You shall anoint them, as you anointed their father, that they may minister to me in the priest's office. Their anointing shall be to them for an everlasting priesthood throughout their generations.¹⁶ Thus did Mashah: according to all that Yahawah commanded him, so he did.¹⁷ It happened in the first month in the second year, on the first day of the month, that the tent was raised up.¹⁸ Mashah raised up the tent, and laid its sockets, and set up the boards of it, and put in the bars of it, and raised up its pillars.¹⁹ He spread the covering over the tent, and put the roof of the tent above on it, as Yahawah commanded Mashah.²⁰ He took and put the testimony into the ark, and set the poles on the ark, and put the mercy seat above on the ark.²¹ He brought the ark into the tent, and set up the veil of the screen, and screened the ark of the testimony, as Yahawah commanded Mashah.²² He put the table in the tent of meeting, on the side of the tent northward, outside of the veil.²³ He set the bread in order on it before Yahawah, as Yahawah commanded Mashah.²⁴ He put the lampstand in the tent of meeting, opposite the table, on the side of the tent southward.²⁵ He lit the lamps before Yahawah, as Yahawah commanded Mashah.²⁶ He put the golden altar in the tent of meeting before the veil;²⁷ and he burnt incense of sweet spices on it, as Yahawah commanded Mashah.²⁸ He put up the screen of the door to the tent.²⁹ He set the altar of burnt offering at the door of the tent of the tent of meeting, and offered on it the burnt offering and the meal-offering, as Yahawah commanded Mashah.³⁰ He set the basin between the tent of meeting and the altar, and put water therein, with which to wash.³¹ Mashah, Aharan, and his sons washed their hands and their feet there.³² When they went into the tent of meeting, and when they came near to the altar, they washed, as Yahawah commanded Mashah.³³ He raised up the court around the tent and the altar, and set up the screen of the gate of the court. So Mashah finished the work.³⁴ Then the cloud covered the tent of meeting, and the glory of Yahawah filled the tent.³⁵ Mashah wasn't able to enter into the tent of meeting, because the cloud stayed on it, and Yahawah's glory filled the tent.³⁶ When the cloud was taken up from over the tent, the children of Yasharaal went onward, throughout all their journeys;³⁷ but if the cloud wasn't taken up, then they didn't travel until the day that it was taken up.³⁸ For the cloud of Yahawah was on the tent by day, and there was fire in the cloud by night, in the sight of all the house of Yasharaal, throughout all their journeys.

Leviticus

1 Yahawah called to Mashah, and spoke to him out of the Tent of Meeting, saying, ² "Speak to the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, "When anyone of you offers an offering to Yahawah, you shall offer your offering of the cattle, of the herd and of the flock. ³ If his offering is a burnt offering of the herd, he shall offer it a male without blemish. He shall offer it at the door of the tent of meeting, that he may be accepted before Yahawah. ⁴ He shall lay his hand on the head of the burnt offering, and it shall be accepted for him to make atonement for him. ⁵ He shall kill the bull before Yahawah. Aharan's sons, the priests, shall present the blood and sprinkle the blood around on the altar that is at the door of the tent of meeting. ⁶ He shall flay the burnt-offering, and cut it into its pieces. ⁷ The sons of Aharan the priest shall put fire on the altar, and lay wood in order on the fire; ⁸ and Aharan's sons, the priests, shall lay the pieces, the head, and the fat in order on the wood that is on the fire which is on the altar; ⁹ but its innards and its legs he shall wash with water. The priest shall burn the whole on the altar, for a burnt offering, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savor to Yahawah. ¹⁰ If his offering is of the flock, of the sheep, or of the goats, for a burnt offering, he shall offer it a male without blemish. ¹¹ He shall kill it on the side of the altar northward before Yahawah. Aharan's sons, the priests, shall sprinkle its blood around on the altar. ¹² He shall cut it into its pieces, with its head and its fat. The priest shall lay them in order on the wood that is on the fire which is on the altar, ¹³ but the innards and the legs he shall wash with water. The priest shall offer the whole, and burn it on the altar: it is a burnt offering, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savor to Yahawah. ¹⁴ If his offering to Yahawah is a burnt offering of birds, then he shall offer his offering of turtle-doves, or of young pigeons. ¹⁵ The priest shall bring it to the altar, and wring off its head, and burn it on the altar; and its blood shall be drained out on the side of the altar; ¹⁶ and he shall take away its crop with its filth, and cast it beside the altar on the east part, in the place of the ashes: ¹⁷ and he shall tear it by its wings, but shall not divide it apart. The priest shall burn it on the altar, on the wood that is on the fire. It is a burnt offering, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savor to Yahawah.

2 "When anyone offers an offering of a meal-offering to Yahawah, his offering shall be of fine flour; and he shall pour oil on it, and put frankincense on it. ² He shall bring it to Aharan's sons the priests; and he shall take his handful of its fine flour, and of its oil, with all its frankincense; and the priest shall burn the memorial of it on the altar, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savor to Yahawah. ³ That which is left of the meal-offering shall be Aharan's and his sons'. It is a most holy thing of the offerings of Yahawah made by fire. ⁴ When you offer an offering of a meal-offering baked in the oven, it shall be unleavened cakes of fine flour mingled with oil, or unleavened wafers anointed with oil. ⁵ If your offering is a meal-offering of the baking-pan, it shall be of unleavened fine flour, mingled with oil. ⁶ You shall cut it in pieces, and pour oil on it. It is a meal-offering. ⁷ If your offering be a meal-offering of the frying-pan, it shall be made of fine flour with oil. ⁸ You shall bring the meal-offering that is made of these things to Yahawah; and it shall be presented to the priest, and he shall bring it to the altar. ⁹ The priest shall take up from the meal-offering the memorial of it, and shall burn it on the altar, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savor to Yahawah. ¹⁰ That which is left of the meal-offering shall be Aharan's and his sons': it is a thing most holy of the offerings of Yahawah made by fire. ¹¹ No meal-offering, which you shall offer to Yahawah, shall be made with yeast; for you shall burn no yeast, nor any honey, as an offering made by fire to Yahawah. ¹² As an offering of first -[fruits] you shall offer them to Yahawah; but they shall not come up for a sweet savor on the altar. ¹³ Every offering of your meal-offering shall you season with salt; neither shall you allow the salt of the covenant of your Alahayam to be lacking from your meal-offering; with all your offerings you shall offer salt. ¹⁴ If you offer a meal-offering of first-fruits to Yahawah, you shall offer for the meal-offering of your first-fruits grain in the ear parched with fire, bruised grain of the fresh ear. ¹⁵ You shall put oil on it, and lay frankincense thereon: it is a meal-offering. ¹⁶ The priest shall burn the memorial of it, part of the bruised grain of it, and part of the oil of it, with all the frankincense of it: it is an offering made by fire to Yahawah.

3 If his offering be a sacrifice of peace-offerings; if he offer of the herd, whether male or female, he shall offer it without blemish before Yahawah. ² He shall lay his hand on the head of his offering, and kill it at the door of the tent of meeting; and Aharan's sons the priests shall sprinkle the blood on the altar round about. ³ He shall offer of the sacrifice of peace-offerings an offering made by fire to Yahawah; the fat that covers the inwards, and all the fat that is on the inwards, ⁴ and the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is by the loins, and the cover on the liver, with the kidneys, shall he take away. ⁵ Aharan's sons shall burn it on the altar on the burnt offering, which is on the wood that is on the fire: it is an offering made by fire, of a sweet savor to Yahawah. ⁶ If his offering for a sacrifice of peace-offerings to Yahawah be of the flock; male or female, he shall offer it without blemish. ⁷ If he offer a lamb for his offering, then shall he offer it before Yahawah; ⁸ and he shall lay his hand on the head of his offering, and kill it before the tent of meeting; and Aharan's sons shall sprinkle the blood of it on the altar round about. ⁹ He shall offer of the sacrifice of peace-offerings an offering made by fire to Yahawah; the fat of it, the fat tail entire, he shall take away hard by the backbone; and the fat that covers the inwards, and all the fat that is on the inwards, ¹⁰ and the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is by the loins, and the cover on the liver, with the kidneys, shall he take away. ¹¹ The priest shall burn it on the altar: it is the food of the offering made by fire to Yahawah. ¹² If his offering be a goat, then he shall offer it before Yahawah: ¹³ and he shall lay his hand on the head of it, and kill it before the tent of meeting; and the sons of Aharan shall sprinkle the blood of it on the altar round about. ¹⁴ He shall offer of it his offering, [even] an offering made by fire to Yahawah; the fat that covers the inwards, and all the fat that is on the inwards, ¹⁵ and the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is by the loins, and the cover on the liver, with the kidneys, shall he take away. ¹⁶ The priest shall burn them on the altar: it is the food of the offering made by fire, for a sweet savor; all the fat is Yahawah's. ¹⁷ It shall be a perpetual statute throughout your generations in all your dwellings, that you shall eat neither fat nor blood.

4 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ² Speak to the children of Yasharaal, saying, If anyone shall sin unwittingly, in any of the things which Yahawah has commanded not to be done, and shall do any one of them: ³ if the anointed priest shall sin so as to bring guilt on the people, then let him offer for his sin, which he has sinned, a young bull without blemish to Yahawah for a Sayan-offering. ⁴ He shall bring the bull to the door of the tent of meeting before Yahawah; and he shall lay his hand on the head of the bull, and kill the bull before Yahawah. ⁵ The anointed priest shall take of the blood of the bull, and bring it to the tent of meeting: ⁶ and the priest shall dip his finger in the blood, and sprinkle of the blood seven times before Yahawah, before the veil of the sanctuary. ⁷ The priest shall put of the blood on the horns of the altar of sweet incense before Yahawah, which is in the tent of meeting; and all the blood of the bull shall he pour out at the base of the altar of burnt offering, which is at the door of the tent of meeting.⁸ All the fat of the bull of the Sayan-offering he shall take off from it; the fat that covers the inwards, and all the fat that is on the inwards,⁹ and the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is by the loins, and the cover on the liver, with the kidneys, shall he take away,¹⁰ as it is taken off from the ox of the sacrifice of peace-offerings: and the priest shall burn them on the altar of burnt offering.¹¹ The skin of the bull, and all its flesh, with its head, and with its legs, and its inwards, and its dung,¹² even the whole bull shall he carry forth outside the camp to a clean place, where the ashes are poured out, and burn it on wood with fire: where the ashes are poured out shall it be burnt.¹³ If the whole congregation of Yasharaal err, and the thing be hid from the eyes of the assembly, and they have done any of the things which Yahawah has commanded not to be done, and are guilty;¹⁴ when the sin in which they have sinned is known, then the assembly shall offer a young bull for a Sayan-offering, and bring it before the tent of meeting.¹⁵ The elders of the congregation shall lay their hands on the head of the bull before Yahawah; and the bull shall be killed before Yahawah.¹⁶ The anointed priest shall bring of the blood of the bull to the tent of meeting:¹⁷ and the priest shall dip his finger in the blood, and sprinkle it seven times before Yahawah, before the veil.¹⁸ He shall put of the blood on the horns of the altar which is before Yahawah, that is in the tent of meeting; and all the blood shall he pour out at the base of the altar of burnt offering, which is at the door of the tent of meeting.¹⁹ All the fat of it shall he take off from it, and burn it on the altar.²⁰ Thus shall he do with the bull; as he did with the bull of the Sayan-offering, so shall he do with this; and the priest shall make atonement for them, and they shall be forgiven.²¹ He shall carry forth the bull outside the camp, and burn it as he burned the first bull: it is the Sayan-offering for the assembly.²² When a ruler sins, and does unwittingly any one of all the things which Yahawah his Alahayam has commanded not to be done, and is guilty;²³ if his sin, in which he has sinned, be made known to him, he shall bring for his offering a goat, a male without blemish.²⁴ He shall lay his hand on the head of the goat, and kill it in the place where they kill the burnt-offering before Yahawah: it is a Sayan-offering.²⁵ The priest shall take of the blood of the Sayan-offering with his finger, and put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering; and the blood of it shall he pour out at the base of the altar of burnt offering.²⁶ All the fat of it shall he burn on the altar, as the fat of the sacrifice of peace-offerings; and the priest shall make atonement for him as concerning his sin, and he shall be forgiven.²⁷ If anyone of the common people sin unwittingly, in doing any of the things which Yahawah has commanded not to be done, and be guilty;²⁸ if his sin, which he has sinned, be made known to him, then he shall bring for his offering a goat, a female without blemish, for his sin which he has sinned.²⁹ He shall lay his hand on the head of the Sayan-offering, and kill the Sayan-offering in the place of burnt offering.³⁰ The priest shall take of the blood of it with his finger, and put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering; and all the blood of it shall he pour out at the base of the altar.³¹ All the fat of it shall he take away, as the fat is taken away from off the sacrifice of peace-offerings; and the priest shall burn it on the altar for a sweet savor to Yahawah; and the priest shall make atonement for him, and he shall be forgiven.³² If he bring a lamb as his offering for a Sayan-offering, he shall bring it a female without blemish.³³ He shall lay his hand on the head of the Sayan-offering, and kill it for a Sayan-offering in the place where they kill the burnt offering.³⁴ The priest shall take of the blood of the Sayan-offering with his finger, and put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering; and all the blood of it shall he pour out at the base of the altar:³⁵ and all the fat of it shall he take away, as the fat of the lamb is taken away from the sacrifice of peace-offerings; and the priest shall burn them on the altar, on the offerings of Yahawah made by fire; and the priest shall make atonement for him as touching his sin that he has sinned, and he shall be forgiven.

5 If anyone sin, in that he hears the voice of adjuration, he being a witness, whether he has seen or known, if he doesn't report it, then he shall bear his iniquity.⁹ Or if anyone touch any unclean thing, whether it be the carcass of an unclean animal, or the carcass of unclean cattle, or the carcass of unclean creeping things, and it be hidden from him, and he be unclean, then he shall be guilty.¹⁰ Or if he touch the uncleanness of man, whatever his uncleanness be with which he is unclean, and it be hid from him; when he knows of it, then he shall be guilty.¹¹ Or if anyone swear rashly with his lips to do evil, or to do good, whatever it be that a man shall utter rashly with an oath, and it be hid from him; when he knows of it, then he shall be guilty in one of these [things].¹² It shall be, when he shall be guilty in one of these [things], that he shall confess that in which he has sinned:¹³ and he shall bring his trespass-offering to Yahawah for his sin which he has sinned, a female from the flock, a lamb or a goat, for a Sayan-offering; and the priest shall make atonement for him as concerning his sin.¹⁴ If his means aren't sufficient for a lamb, then he shall bring his trespass-offering for that in which he has sinned, two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, to Yahawah; one for a Sayan-offering, and the other for a burnt offering.¹⁵ He shall bring them to the priest, who shall offer that which is for the Sayan-offering first, and wring off its head from its neck, but shall not divide it apart:¹⁶ and he shall sprinkle of the blood of the Sayan-offering on the side of the altar; and the rest of the blood shall be drained out at the base of the altar: it is a Sayan-offering.¹⁷ He shall offer the second for a burnt offering, according to the ordinance; and the priest shall make atonement for him as concerning his sin which he has sinned, and he shall be forgiven.¹⁸ But if his means aren't sufficient for two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, then he shall bring his offering for that in which he has sinned, the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a Sayan-offering: he shall put no oil on it, neither shall he put any frankincense thereon; for it is a Sayan-offering.¹⁹ He shall bring it to the priest, and the priest shall take his handful of it as the memorial of it, and burn it on the altar, on the offerings of Yahawah made by fire: it is a Sayan-offering.²⁰ The priest shall make atonement for him as touching his sin that he has sinned in any of these things, and he shall be forgiven: and [the remnant] shall be the priest's, as the meal-offering.²¹ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,²² If anyone commits a trespass, and sin unwittingly, in the holy things of Yahawah; then he shall bring his trespass-offering to Yahawah, a ram without blemish out of the flock, according to your estimation in silver by shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary, for a trespass-offering:²³ and he shall make restitution for that which he has done amiss in the holy thing, and shall add the fifth part thereto, and give it to the priest; and the priest shall make atonement for him with the ram of the trespass-offering, and he shall be forgiven.²⁴ If anyone sins, and does any of the things which Yahawah has commanded not to be done; though he didn't know it, yet he is guilty, and shall bear his iniquity.²⁵ He shall bring a ram without blemish out of the flock, according to your estimation, for a trespass-offering, to the priest; and the priest shall make atonement for him concerning the thing in which he erred unwittingly and didn't know it, and he shall be forgiven.²⁶ It is a trespass-offering: he is certainly guilty before Yahawah.

6 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² If anyone sins, and commit a trespass against Yahawah, and deal falsely with his neighbor in a matter of deposit, or of bargain, or of robbery, or have oppressed his neighbor,³ or have found that which was lost, and deal falsely therein, and swear to a lie; in any of all these things that a man does, sinning therein;⁴ then it shall be, if he has sinned, and is guilty, that he shall restore that which he took by robbery, or the thing which he has gotten by oppression, or the deposit which was committed to him, or the lost thing which he found,⁵ or any thing about which he has sworn falsely; he shall even restore it in full, and shall add the fifth part more thereto: to him to whom it appertains shall he give it, in the day of his being found guilty.⁶ He shall bring his trespass-offering to Yahawah, a ram without blemish out of the flock, according to your estimation, for a trespass-offering, to the priest:⁷ and the priest shall make atonement for him before Yahawah; and he shall be forgiven concerning whatever he does so as to be guilty thereby.⁸ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,⁹ Command Aharan and his sons, saying, This is the law of the burnt offering: the burnt offering shall be on the hearth on the altar all night to the morning; and the fire of the altar shall be kept burning thereon.¹⁰ The priest shall put on his linen garment, and his linen breeches shall he put on his flesh; and he shall take up the ashes whereto the fire has consumed the burnt offering on the altar, and he shall put them beside the altar.¹¹ He shall put off his garments, and put on other garments, and carry forth the ashes outside of the camp to a clean place.¹² The fire on the altar shall be kept burning thereon, it shall not go out; and the priest shall burn wood on it every morning; and he shall lay the burnt offering in order on it, and shall burn thereon the fat of the peace-offerings.¹³ Fire shall be kept burning on the altar continually; it shall not go out.¹⁴ This is the law of the meal-offering: the sons of Aharan shall offer it before Yahawah, before the altar.¹⁵ He shall take up therefrom his handful, of the fine flour of the meal-offering, and of the oil of it, and all the frankincense which is on the meal-offering, and shall burn it on the altar for a sweet savor, as the memorial of it, to Yahawah.¹⁶ That which is left of it shall Aharan and his sons eat: it shall be eaten without yeast in a holy place; in the court of the tent of meeting they shall eat it.¹⁷ It shall not be baked with yeast. I have given it as their portion of my offerings made by fire; it is most holy, as the Sayan-offering, and as the trespass-offering.¹⁸ Every male among the children of Aharan shall eat of it, as [his] portion for ever throughout your generations, from the offerings of Yahawah made by fire: whoever touches them shall be holy.¹⁹ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,²⁰ This is the offering of Aharan and of his sons, which they shall offer to Yahawah in the day when he is anointed: the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a meal-offering perpetually, half of it in the morning, and half of it in the evening.²¹ On a baking-pan it shall be made with oil; when it is soaked, you shall bring it in: in baked pieces shall you offer the meal-offering for a sweet savor to Yahawah.²² The anointed priest that shall be in his place from among his sons shall offer it: by a statute for ever it shall be wholly burnt to Yahawah.²³ Every meal-offering of the priest shall be wholly burnt: it shall not be eaten.

7 This is the law of the trespass-offering: it is most holy.² In the place where they kill the burnt offering shall they kill the trespass-offering; and the blood of it shall he sprinkle on the altar round about.³ He shall offer of it all the fat of it: the fat tail, and the fat that covers the inwards,⁴ and the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is by the loins, and the cover on the liver, with the kidneys, shall he take away;⁵ and the priest shall burn them on the altar for an offering made by fire to Yahawah: it is a trespass-offering.⁶ Every male among the priests shall eat of it: it shall be eaten in a holy place: it is most holy.⁷ As is the Sayan-offering, so is the trespass-offering; there is one law for them: the priest who makes atonement therewith, he shall have it.⁸ The priest who offers any man's burnt offering, even the priest shall have to himself the skin of the burnt offering which he has offered.⁹ Every meal-offering that is baked in the oven, and all that is dressed in the frying-pan, and on the baking-pan, shall be the priest's who offers it.¹⁰ Every meal-offering, mingled with oil, or dry, shall all the sons of Aharan have, one as well as another.¹¹ This is the law of the sacrifice of peace-offerings, which one shall offer to Yahawah.¹² If he offer it for a thanksgiving, then he shall offer with the sacrifice of thanksgiving unleavened cakes mingled with oil, and unleavened wafers anointed with oil, and cakes mingled with oil, of fine flour soaked.¹³ With cakes of leavened bread he shall offer his offering with the sacrifice of his peace-offerings for thanksgiving.¹⁴ Of it he shall offer one out of each offering for a heave-offering to Yahawah; it shall be the priest's who sprinkles the blood of the peace-offerings.¹⁵ The flesh of the sacrifice of his peace-offerings for thanksgiving shall be eaten on the day of his offering; he shall not leave any of it until the morning.¹⁶ But if the sacrifice of his offering be a vow, or a freewill-offering, it shall be eaten on the day that he offers his sacrifice; and on the next day that which remains of it shall be eaten:¹⁷ but that which remains of the flesh of the sacrifice on the third day shall be burnt with fire.¹⁸ If any of the flesh of the sacrifice of his peace-offerings be eaten on the third day, it shall not be accepted, neither shall it be imputed to him who offers it: it shall be an abomination, and the soul who eats of it shall bear his iniquity.¹⁹ The flesh that touches any unclean thing shall not be eaten; it shall be burnt with fire. As for the flesh, everyone who is clean shall eat of it:²⁰ but the soul who eats of the flesh of the sacrifice of peace-offerings, that pertain to Yahawah, having his uncleanness on him, that soul shall be cut off from his people.²¹ When anyone shall touch any unclean thing, the uncleanness of man, or an unclean animal, or any unclean abomination, and eat of the flesh of the sacrifice of peace-offerings, which pertain to Yahawah, that soul shall be cut off from his people.²² Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,²³ Speak to the children of Yasharaal, saying, You shall eat no fat, of ox, or sheep, or goat.²⁴ The fat of that which dies of itself, and the fat of that which is torn of animals, may be used for any other service; but you shall in no way eat of it.²⁵ For whoever eats the fat of the animal, of which men offer an offering made by fire to Yahawah, even the soul who eats it shall be cut off from his people.²⁶ You shall eat no manner of blood, whether it be of bird or of animal, in any of your dwellings.²⁷ Whoever it be who eats any blood, that soul shall be cut off from his people.²⁸ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,²⁹ Speak to the children of Yasharaal, saying, He who offers the sacrifice of his peace-offerings to Yahawah shall bring his offering to Yahawah out of the sacrifice of his peace-offerings:³⁰ his own hands shall bring the offerings of Yahawah made by fire; the fat with the breast shall he bring, that the breast may be waved for a wave-offering before Yahawah.³¹ The priest shall burn the fat on the altar; but the breast shall be Aharan's and his sons'.³² The right thigh shall you give to the priest for a heave-offering out of the sacrifices of your peace-offerings.³³ He among the sons of Aharan who offers the blood of the peace-offerings, and the fat, shall have the right thigh for a portion.³⁴ For the wave-breast and the heave-thigh have I taken of the children of Yasharaal out of the sacrifices of their peace-offerings, and have given them to Aharan the priest and to his sons as [their] portion forever from the children of Yasharaal.³⁵ This is the anointing-portion of Aharan, and the anointing-portion of his sons, out of the offerings of Yahawah made by fire, in the day when he presented them to minister to Yahawah in the priest's office;³⁶ which Yahawah commanded to be given them of the children of Yasharaal, in the day that he anointed them. It is [their] portion for ever throughout their generations.³⁷ This is the law of the burnt offering, of the meal-offering, and of the Sayan-offering, and of the trespass-offering, and of the consecration, and of the sacrifice of peace-offerings;³⁸ which Yahawah commanded Mashah in Mount Sayanay, in the day that he commanded the children of Yasharaal to offer their offerings to Yahawah, in the wilderness of Sayanay.

8 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² Take Aharan and his sons with him, and the garments, and the anointing oil, and the bull of the Sayan-offering, and the two rams, and the basket of unleavened bread;³ and assemble you all the congregation at the door of the tent of meeting.⁴ Mashah did as Yahawah commanded him; and the congregation was assembled at the door of the tent of meeting.⁵ Mashah said to the congregation, This is the thing which Yahawah has commanded to be done.⁶ Mashah brought Aharan and his sons, and washed them with water.⁷ He put on him the coat, and girded him with the sash, and clothed him with the robe, and put the ephod on him, and he girded him with the skillfully woven band of the ephod, and bound it to him therewith.⁸ He placed the breastplate on him: and in the breastplate he put the Urim and the Thummim.⁹ He set the turban on his head; and on the turban, in front, did he set the golden plate, the holy crown; as Yahawah commanded Mashah.¹⁰ Mashah took the anointing oil, and anointed the tent and all that was therein, and sanctified them.¹¹ He sprinkled of it on the altar seven times, and anointed the altar and all its vessels, and the basin and its base, to sanctify them.¹² He poured of the anointing oil on Aharan's head, and anointed him, to sanctify him.¹³ Mashah brought Aharan's sons, and clothed them with coats, and girded them with girdles, and bound headbands on them; as Yahawah commanded Mashah.¹⁴ He brought the bull of the Sayan-offering; and Aharan and his sons laid their hands on the head of the bull of the Sayan-offering.¹⁵ He killed it; and Mashah took the blood, and put it on the horns of the altar round about with his finger, and purified the altar, and poured out the blood at the base of the altar, and sanctified it, to make atonement for it.¹⁶ He took all the fat that was on the inwards, and the cover of the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat; and Mashah burned it on the altar.¹⁷ But the bull, and its skin, and its flesh, and its dung, he burnt with fire outside of the camp; as Yahawah commanded Mashah.¹⁸ He presented the ram of the burnt offering; and Aharan and his sons laid their hands on the head of the ram.¹⁹ He killed it; and Mashah sprinkled the blood on the altar round about.²⁰ He cut the ram into its pieces; and Mashah burnt the head, and the pieces, and the fat.²¹ He washed the inwards and the legs with water; and Mashah burnt the whole ram on the altar: it was a burnt offering for a sweet savor: it was an offering made by fire to Yahawah; as Yahawah commanded Mashah.²² He presented the other ram, the ram of consecration; and Aharan and his sons laid their hands on the head of the ram.²³ He killed it; and Mashah took of the blood of it, and put it on the tip of Aharan's right ear, and on the thumb of his right hand, and on the great toe of his right foot.²⁴ He brought Aharan's sons; and Mashah put of the blood on the tip of their right ear, and on the thumb of their right hand, and on the great toe of their right foot: and Mashah sprinkled the blood on the altar round about.²⁵ He took the fat, and the fat tail, and all the fat that was on the inwards, and the cover of the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat, and the right thigh:²⁶ and out of the basket of unleavened bread, that was before Yahawah, he took one unleavened cake, and one cake of oiled bread, and one wafer, and placed them on the fat, and on the right thigh:²⁷ and he put the whole on the hands of Aharan, and on the hands of his sons, and waved them for a wave-offering before Yahawah.²⁸ Mashah took them from off their hands, and burnt them on the altar on the burnt offering: they were a consecration for a sweet savor: it was an offering made by fire to Yahawah.²⁹ Mashah took the breast, and waved it for a wave-offering before Yahawah: it was Mashah's portion of the ram of consecration; as Yahawah commanded Mashah.³⁰ Mashah took of the anointing oil, and of the blood which was on the altar, and sprinkled it on Aharan, on his garments, and on his sons, and on his sons' garments with him, and sanctified Aharan, his garments, and his sons, and his sons' garments with him.³¹ Mashah said to Aharan and to his sons, Boil the flesh at the door of the tent of meeting; and there eat it and the bread that is in the basket of consecration, as I commanded, saying, Aharan and his sons shall eat it.³² That which remains of the flesh and of the bread shall you burn with fire.³³ You shall not go out from the door of the tent of meeting seven days, until the days of your consecration be fulfilled: for he shall consecrate you seven days.³⁴ As has been done this day, so Yahawah has commanded to do, to make atonement for you.³⁵ At the door of the tent of meeting shall you abide day and night seven days, and keep the charge of Yahawah, that you don't die: for so I am commanded.³⁶ Aharan and his sons did all the things which Yahawah commanded by Mashah.

9 It happened on the eighth day, that Mashah called Aharan and his sons, and the elders of Yasharaal;² and he said to Aharan, Take a calf of the herd for a Sayan-offering, and a ram for a burnt offering, without blemish, and offer them before Yahawah.³ To the children of Yasharaal you shall speak, saying, Take a male goat for a Sayan-offering; and a calf and a lamb, both a year old, without blemish, for a burnt offering;⁴ and an ox and a ram for peace-offerings, to sacrifice before Yahawah; and a meal-offering mingled with oil: for today Yahawah appears to you.⁵ They brought that which Mashah commanded before the tent of meeting; and all the congregation drew near and stood before Yahawah.⁶ Mashah said, This is the thing which Yahawah commanded that you should do: and the glory of Yahawah shall appear to you.

Mashah said to Aharan, Draw near to the altar, and offer your Sayan-offering, and your burnt offering, and make atonement for yourself, and for the people; and offer the offering of the people, and make atonement for them; as Yahawah commanded.⁸ So Aharan drew near to the altar, and killed the calf of the Sayan-offering, which was for himself.⁹ The sons of Aharan presented the blood to him; and he dipped his finger in the blood, and put it on the horns of the altar, and poured out the blood at the base of the altar:¹⁰ but the fat, and the kidneys, and the cover from the liver of the Sayan-offering, he burnt on the altar; as Yahawah commanded Mashah.¹¹ The flesh and the skin he burnt with fire outside of the camp.¹² He killed the burnt offering; and Aharan's sons delivered to him the blood, and he sprinkled it on the altar round about.¹³ They delivered the burnt-offering to him, piece by piece, and the head: and he burnt them on the altar.¹⁴ He washed the inwards and the legs, and burnt them on the burnt offering on the altar.¹⁵ He presented the people's offering, and took the goat of the Sayan-offering which was for the people, and killed it, and offered it for sin, as the first.¹⁶ He presented the burnt-offering, and offered it according to the ordinance.¹⁷ He presented the meal-offering, and filled his hand therefrom, and burnt it on the altar, besides the burnt offering of the morning.¹⁸ He killed also the ox and the ram, the sacrifice of peace-offerings, which was for the people: and Aharan's sons delivered to him the blood, which he sprinkled on the altar round about,¹⁹ and the fat of the ox and of the ram, the fat tail, and that which covers [the inwards], and the kidneys, and the cover of the liver:²⁰ and they put the fat on the breasts, and he burnt the fat on the altar:²¹ and the breasts and the right thigh Aharan waved for a wave-offering before Yahawah; as Mashah commanded.²² Aharan lifted up his hands toward the people, and blessed them; and he came down from offering the Sayan-offering, and the burnt offering, and the peace-offerings.²³ Mashah and Aharan went into the tent of meeting, and came out, and blessed the people: and the glory of Yahawah appeared to all the people.²⁴ There came forth fire from before Yahawah, and consumed on the altar the burnt offering and the fat: and when all the people saw it, they shouted, and fell on their faces.

10 Nadab and Abayahawaa, the sons of Aharan, took each of them his censer, and put fire therein, and laid incense thereon, and offered strange fire before Yahawah, which he had not commanded them.² There came forth fire from before Yahawah, and devoured them, and they died before Yahawah.³ Then Mashah said to Aharan, This is it what Yahawah spoke, saying, I will be sanctified in those who come near me, and before all the people I will be glorified. Aharan held his peace.⁴ Mashah called Mayashaal and Alayatzapan, the sons of Izayaal the uncle of Aharan, and said to them, Draw near, carry your brothers from before the sanctuary out of the camp.⁵ So they drew near, and carried them in their coats out of the camp, as Mashah had said.⁶ Mashah said to Aharan, and to Alaizar and to Ayathamar, his sons, Don't let the hair of your heads go loose, neither tear your clothes; that you don't die, and that he not be angry with all the congregation: but let your brothers, the whole house of Yasharaal, bewail the burning which Yahawah has kindled.⁷ You shall not go out from the door of the tent of meeting, lest you die; for the anointing oil of Yahawah is on you. They did according to the word of Mashah.⁸ Yahawah spoke to Aharan, saying,⁹ Drink no wine nor strong drink, you, nor your sons with you, when you go into the tent of meeting, that you don't die: it shall be a statute forever throughout your generations:¹⁰ and that you may make a distinction between the holy and the common, and between the unclean and the clean;¹¹ and that you may teach the children of Yasharaal all the statutes which Yahawah has spoken to them by Mashah.¹² Mashah spoke to Aharan, and to Alaizar and to Ayathamar, his sons who were left, Take the meal-offering that remains of the offerings of Yahawah made by fire, and eat it without yeast beside the altar; for it is most holy;¹³ and you shall eat it in a holy place, because it is your portion, and your sons' portion, of the offerings of Yahawah made by fire: for so I am commanded.¹⁴ The wave-breast and the heave-thigh shall you eat in a clean place, you, and your sons, and your daughters with you: for they are given as your portion, and your sons' portion, out of the sacrifices of the peace-offerings of the children of Yasharaal.¹⁵ The heave-thigh and the wave-breast shall they bring with the offerings made by fire of the fat, to wave it for a wave-offering before Yahawah: and it shall be your, and your sons' with you, as a portion forever; as Yahawah has commanded.¹⁶ Mashah diligently sought the goat of the Sayan-offering, and, behold, it was burnt: and he was angry with Alaizar and with Ayathamar, the sons of Aharan who were left, saying,¹⁷ Why haven't you eaten the Sayan-offering in the place of the sanctuary, seeing it is most holy, and he has given it you to bear the iniquity of the congregation, to make atonement for them before Yahawah?¹⁸ Behold, the blood of it was not brought into the sanctuary within: you should certainly have eaten it in the sanctuary, as I commanded.¹⁹ Aharan spoke to Mashah, Behold, this day have they offered their sin-offering and their burnt offering before Yahawah; and there have befallen me such things as these: and if I had eaten the Sayan-offering today, would it have been well-pleasing in the sight of Yahawah?²⁰ When Mashah heard [that], it was well-pleasing in his sight.

11 Yahawah spoke to Mashah and to Aharan, saying to them,² Speak to the children of Yasharaal, saying, These are the living things which you may eat among all the animals that are on the earth.³ Whatever parts the hoof, and is cloven-footed, [and] chews the cud, among the animals, that may you eat.⁴ Nevertheless these shall you not eat of them that chew the cud, or of those who part the hoof: the camel, because he chews the cud but doesn't have a parted hoof, he is unclean to you.⁵ The rabbit, because he chews the cud but doesn't have a parted the hoof, he is unclean to you.⁶ The hare, because she chews the cud but doesn't part the hoof, she is unclean to you.⁷ The pig, because he doesn't part the hoof, and is cloven-footed, but doesn't chew the cud, he is unclean to you.⁸ Of their flesh you shall not eat, and their carcasses you shall not touch; they are unclean to you.⁹ These may you eat of all that are in the waters: whatever has fins and scales in the waters, in the seas, and in the rivers, that may you eat.¹⁰ All that don't have fins and scales in the seas, and in the rivers, of all that move in the waters, and of all the living creatures that are in the waters, they are an abomination to you,¹¹ and they shall be an abomination to you; you shall not eat of their flesh, and their carcasses you shall have in abomination.¹² Whatever has no fins nor scales in the waters, that is an abomination to you.¹³ These you shall have in abomination among the birds; they shall not be eaten, they are an abomination: the eagle, and the gier-eagle, and the ospray,¹⁴ and the kite, and the falcon after its kind,¹⁵ every raven after its kind,¹⁶ and the ostrich, and the night-hawk, and the seamew, and the hawk after its kind,¹⁷ and the little owl, and the cormorant, and the great owl,¹⁸ and the horned owl, and the pelican, and the vulture,¹⁹ and the stork, the heron after its kind, and the hoopoe, and the bat.²⁰ All winged creeping things that go on all fours are an abomination to you.²¹ Yet these may you eat of all winged creeping things that go on all fours, which have legs above their feet, with which to leap on the earth.²² Even these of them you may eat: the locust after its kind, and the bald locust after its kind, and the cricket after its kind, and the grasshopper after its kind.²³ But all winged creeping things, which have four feet, are an abomination to you.²⁴ By these you shall become unclean: whoever touches the carcass of them shall be unclean until the even;²⁵ Whoever bears [anything] of the carcass of them shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the even.²⁶ Every animal which parts the hoof, and is not cloven-footed, nor chews the cud, is unclean to you: everyone who touches them shall be unclean.²⁷ Whatever goes on its paws, among all animals that go on all fours, they are unclean to you: whoever touches their carcass shall be unclean until the even.²⁸ He who bears the carcass of them shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the even: they are unclean to you.²⁹ These are they which are unclean to you among the creeping things that creep on the earth: the weasel, and the mouse, and the great lizard after its kind,³⁰ and the gecko, and the land-crocodile, and the lizard, and the sand-lizard, and the chameleon.³¹ These are they which are unclean to you among all that creep: whoever does touch them, when they are dead, shall be unclean until the even.³² On whatever any of them, when they are dead, does fall, it shall be unclean; whether it be any vessel of wood, or clothing, or skin, or sack, whatever vessel it be, with which any work is done, it must be put into water, and it shall be unclean until the even; then shall it be clean.³³ Every earthen vessel, into which any of them falls, whatever is in it shall be unclean, and it you shall break.³⁴ All food [therein] which may be eaten, that on which water comes, shall be unclean; and all drink that may be drunk in every [such] vessel shall be unclean.³⁵ Every thing whereupon [any part] of their carcass falls shall be unclean; whether oven, or range for pots, it shall be broken in pieces: they are unclean, and shall be unclean to you.³⁶ Nevertheless a spring or a pit in which is a gathering of water shall be clean: but that which touches their carcass shall be unclean.³⁷ If [anything] of their carcass fall on any sowing seed which is to be sown, it is clean.³⁸ But if water be put on the seed, and [anything] of their carcass fall thereon, it is unclean to you.³⁹ If any animal, of which you may eat, die; he who touches the carcass of it shall be unclean until the even.⁴⁰ He who eats of the carcass of it shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the even: he also that bears the carcass of it shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the even.⁴¹ Every creeping thing that creeps on the earth is an abomination; it shall not be eaten.⁴² Whatever goes on the belly, and whatever goes on all fours, or whatever has many feet, even all creeping things that creep on the earth, them you shall not eat; for they are an abomination.⁴³ You shall not make yourselves abominable with any creeping thing that creeps, neither shall you make yourselves unclean with them, that you should be defiled thereby.⁴⁴ For I am Yahawah your Alahayam: sanctify yourselves therefore, and be you holy; for I am holy: neither shall you defile yourselves with any manner of creeping thing that moves on the earth.⁴⁵ For I am Yahawah who brought you up out of the land of Matzarayam, to be your Alahayam: you shall therefore be holy, for I am holy.⁴⁶ This is the law of the animal, and of the bird, and of every living creature that moves in the waters, and of every creature that creeps on the earth;⁴⁷ to make a distinction between the unclean and the clean, and between the living thing that may be eaten and the living thing that may not be eaten.

12 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² Speak to the children of Yasharaal, saying, If a woman conceive seed, and bear a man-child, then she shall be unclean seven days; as in the days of the impurity of her sickness shall she be unclean.³ In the eighth day the flesh of his foreskin shall be circumcised.⁴ She shall continue in the blood of [her] purifying three and thirty days; she shall touch no holy thing, nor come into the sanctuary, until the days of her purifying be fulfilled.⁵ But if she bear a maid-child, then she shall be unclean two weeks, as in her impurity; and she shall continue in the blood of [her] purifying sixty-six days.⁶ When the days of her purifying are fulfilled, for a son, or for a daughter, she shall bring a lamb a year old for a burnt offering, and a young pigeon, or a turtle-dove, for a Sayan-offering, to the door of the tent of meeting, to the priest:⁷ and he shall offer it before Yahawah, and make atonement for her; and she shall be cleansed from the fountain of her blood. This is the law for her who bears, whether a male or a female.⁸ If her means isn't sufficient for a lamb, then she shall take two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons; the one for a burnt offering, and the other for a Sayan-offering: and the priest shall make atonement for her, and she shall be clean.

13 Yahawah spoke to Mashah and to Aharan, saying,² When a man shall have in the skin of his flesh a rising, or a scab, or a bright spot, and it become in the skin of his flesh the plague of leprosy, then he shall be brought to Aharan the priest, or to one of his sons the priests:³ and the priest shall look on the plague in the skin of the flesh: and if the hair in the plague be turned white, and the appearance of the plague be deeper than the skin of his flesh, it is the plague of leprosy; and the priest shall look on him, and pronounce him unclean.⁴ If the bright spot be white in the skin of his flesh, and the appearance of it isn't deeper than the skin, and the hair of it isn't turned white, then the priest shall shut up [him who has] the plague seven days:⁵ and the priest shall look on him the seventh day: and, behold, if in his eyes the plague be at a stay, and the plague isn't spread in the skin, then the priest shall shut him up seven days more:⁶ and the priest shall look on him again the seventh day; and, behold, if the plague be dim, and the plague hasn't spread in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him clean: it is a scab: and he shall wash his clothes, and be clean.⁷ But if the scab spread abroad in the skin, after that he has showed himself to the priest for his cleansing, he shall show himself to the priest again:⁸ and the priest shall look; and, behold, if the scab be spread in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is leprosy.⁹ When the plague of leprosy is in a man, then he shall be brought to the priest;¹⁰ and the priest shall look; and, behold, if there be a white rising in the skin, and it have turned the hair white, and there be quick raw flesh in the rising,¹¹ it is an old leprosy in the skin of his flesh, and the priest shall pronounce him unclean: he shall not shut him up, for he is unclean.¹² If the leprosy break out abroad in the skin, and the leprosy cover all the skin of [him who has] the plague from his head even to his feet, as far as appears to the priest;¹³ then the priest shall look; and, behold, if the leprosy have covered all his flesh, he shall pronounce [him] clean [who has] the plague: it is all turned white: he is clean.¹⁴ But whenever raw flesh appears in him, he shall be unclean.¹⁵ The priest shall look on the raw flesh, and pronounce him unclean: the raw flesh is unclean: it is leprosy.¹⁶ Or if the raw flesh turn again, and be changed to white, then he shall come to the priest;¹⁷ and the priest shall look on him; and, behold, if the plague be turned into white, then the priest shall pronounce [him] clean [who has] the plague: he is clean.¹⁸ When the flesh has in the skin of it a boil, and it is healed,¹⁹ and in the place of the boil there is a white rising, or a bright spot, reddish-white, then it shall be showed to the priest;²⁰ and the priest shall look; and, behold, if the appearance of it be lower than the skin, and the hair of it be turned white, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leprosy, it has broken out in the boil.²¹ But if the priest look on it, and, behold, there be no white hairs therein, and it isn't lower than the skin, but is dim; then the priest shall shut him up seven days:²² If it spread abroad in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a plague.²³ But if the bright spot stay in its place, and hasn't spread, it is the scar of the boil; and the priest shall pronounce him clean.²⁴ Or when the flesh has in the skin of it a burning by fire, and the quick [flesh] of the burning become a bright spot, reddish-white, or white;²⁵ then the priest shall look on it; and, behold, if the hair in the bright spot be turned white, and the appearance of it be deeper than the skin; it is leprosy, it has broken out in the burning: and the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leprosy.²⁶ But if the priest look on it, and, behold, there be no white hair in the bright spot, and it be no lower than the skin, but be dim; then the priest shall shut him up seven days:²⁷ and the priest shall look on him the seventh day: if it spread abroad in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leprosy.²⁸ If the bright spot stays in its place, and hasn't spread in the skin, but be dim; it is the rising of the burning, and the priest shall pronounce him clean: for it is the scar of the burning.²⁹ When a man or woman has a plague on the head or on the beard,³⁰ then the priest shall look on the plague; and, behold, if the appearance of it be deeper than the skin, and there be in it yellow thin hair, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a scall, it is leprosy of the head or of the beard.³¹ If the priest look on the plague of the scall, and, behold, the appearance of it isn't deeper than the skin, and there be no black hair in it, then the priest shall shut up [him who has] the plague of the scall seven days:³² In the seventh day the priest shall look on the plague; and, behold, if the scall isn't spread, and there be in it no yellow hair, and the appearance of the scall isn't deeper than the skin,³³ then he shall be shaved, but he shall not shave the scall; and the priest shall shut up [him who has] the scall seven days more:³⁴ and in the seventh day the priest shall look on the scall; and, behold, if the scall hasn't spread in the skin, and the appearance of it isn't deeper than the skin; then the priest shall pronounce him clean: and he shall wash his clothes, and be clean.³⁵ But if the scall spread abroad in the skin after his cleansing,³⁶ then the priest shall look on him; and, behold, if the scall be spread in the skin, the priest shall not seek for the yellow hair; he is unclean.³⁷ But if in his eyes the scall be at a stay, and black hair be grown up therein; the scall is healed, he is clean: and the priest shall pronounce him clean.³⁸ When a man or a woman has in the skin of the flesh bright spots, even white bright spots;³⁹ then the priest shall look; and, behold, if the bright spots in the skin of their flesh be of a dull white, it is a harmless rash, it has broken out in the skin; he is clean.⁴⁰ If a man's hair be fallen off his head, he is bald; [yet] is he clean.⁴¹ If his hair be fallen off from the front part of his head, he is forehead bald; [yet] is he clean.⁴² But if there be in the bald head, or the bald forehead, a reddish-white plague; it is leprosy breaking out in his bald head, or his bald forehead.⁴³ Then the priest shall look on him; and, behold, if the rising of the plague be reddish-white in his bald head, or in his bald forehead, as the appearance of leprosy in the skin of the flesh;⁴⁴ he is a leprous man, he is unclean: the priest shall surely pronounce him unclean; his plague is in his head.⁴⁵ The leper in whom the plague is, his clothes shall be torn, and the hair of his head shall go loose, and he shall cover his upper lip, and shall cry, Unclean, unclean.⁴⁶ All the days in which the plague is in him he shall be unclean; he is unclean: he shall dwell alone; outside of the camp shall his dwelling be.⁴⁷ The garment also that the plague of leprosy is in, whether it be a woollen garment, or a linen garment;⁴⁸ whether it be in warp, or woof; of linen, or of woollen; whether in a skin, or in anything made of skin;⁴⁹ if the plague be greenish or reddish in the garment, or in the skin, or in the warp, or in the woof, or in anything of skin; it is the plague of leprosy, and shall be showed to the priest.⁵⁰ The priest shall look on the plague, and shut up [that which has] the plague seven days:⁵¹ and he shall look on the plague on the seventh day: if the plague be spread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in the skin, whatever service skin is used for; the plague is a fretting leprosy; it is unclean.⁵² He shall burn the garment, whether the warp or the woof, in woollen or in linen, or anything of skin, in which the plague is: for it is a fretting leprosy; it shall be burnt in the fire.⁵³ If the priest shall look, and, behold, the plague hasn't spread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in anything of skin;⁵⁴ then the priest shall command that they wash the thing in which the plague is, and he shall shut it up seven days more:⁵⁵ and the priest shall look, after that the plague is washed; and, behold, if the plague hasn't changed its color, and the plague hasn't spread, it is unclean; you shall burn it in the fire: it is a fret, whether the bareness be inside or outside.⁵⁶ If the priest look, and, behold, the plague be dim after the washing of it, then he shall tear it out of the garment, or out of the skin, or out of the warp, or out of the woof:⁵⁷ and if it appear still in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in anything of skin, it is breaking out: you shall burn that in which the plague is with fire.⁵⁸ The garment, either the warp, or the woof, or whatever thing of skin it be, which you shall wash, if the plague be departed from them, then it shall be washed the second time, and shall be clean.⁵⁹ This is the law of the plague of leprosy in a garment of woollen or linen, either in the warp, or the woof, or anything of skin, to pronounce it clean, or to pronounce it unclean.

14 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² This shall be the law of the leper in the day of his cleansing: he shall be brought to the priest:³ and the priest shall go forth out of the camp; and the priest shall look; and, behold, if the plague of leprosy be healed in the leper,⁴ then shall the priest command to take for him who is to be cleansed two living clean birds, and cedar wood, and scarlet, and hyssop:⁵ The priest shall command to kill one of the birds in an earthen vessel over running water.⁶ As for the living bird, he shall take it, and the cedar wood, and the scarlet, and the hyssop, and shall dip them and the living bird in the blood of the bird that was killed over the running water: ⁷ He shall sprinkle on him who is to be cleansed from the leprosy seven times, and shall pronounce him clean, and shall let go the living bird into the open field. ⁸ He who is to be cleansed shall wash his clothes, and shave off all his hair, and bathe himself in water; and he shall be clean: and after that he shall come into the camp, but shall dwell outside his tent seven days. ⁹ It shall be on the seventh day, that he shall shave all his hair off his head and his beard and his eyebrows, even all his hair he shall shave off: and he shall wash his clothes, and he shall bathe his flesh in water, and he shall be clean. ¹⁰ On the eighth day he shall take two he-lambs without blemish, and one ewe-lamb a year old without blemish, and three tenth parts [of an ephah] of fine flour for a meal-offering, mingled with oil, and one log of oil. ¹¹ The priest who cleanses him shall set the man who is to be cleansed, and those things, before Yahawah, at the door of the tent of meeting. ¹² The priest shall take one of the he-lambs, and offer him for a trespass-offering, and the log of oil, and wave them for a wave-offering before Yahawah: ¹³ and he shall kill the he-lamb in the place where they kill the Sayan-offering and the burnt offering, in the place of the sanctuary: for as the Sayan-offering is the priest's, so is the trespass-offering: it is most holy: ¹⁴ and the priest shall take of the blood of the trespass-offering, and the priest shall put it on the tip of the right ear of him who is to be cleansed, and on the thumb of his right hand, and on the great toe of his right foot. ¹⁵ The priest shall take of the log of oil, and pour it into the palm of his own left hand; ¹⁶ and the priest shall dip his right finger in the oil that is in his left hand, and shall sprinkle of the oil with his finger seven times before Yahawah: ¹⁷ and of the rest of the oil that is in his hand shall the priest put on the tip of the right ear of him who is to be cleansed, and on the thumb of his right hand, and on the great toe of his right foot, on the blood of the trespass-offering: ¹⁸ and the rest of the oil that is in the priest's hand he shall put on the head of him who is to be cleansed: and the priest shall make atonement for him before Yahawah. ¹⁹ The priest shall offer the Sayan-offering, and make atonement for him who is to be cleansed because of his uncleanness; and afterward he shall kill the burnt offering; ²⁰ and the priest shall offer the burnt offering and the meal-offering on the altar: and the priest shall make atonement for him, and he shall be clean. ²¹ If he be poor, and can't get so much, then he shall take one he-lamb for a trespass-offering to be waved, to make atonement for him, and one tenth part [of an ephah] of fine flour mingled with oil for a meal-offering, and a log of oil; ²² and two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, such as he is able to get; and the one shall be a Sayan-offering, and the other a burnt offering. ²³ On the eighth day he shall bring them for his cleansing to the priest, to the door of the tent of meeting, before Yahawah: ²⁴ and the priest shall take the lamb of the trespass-offering, and the log of oil, and the priest shall wave them for a wave-offering before Yahawah. ²⁵ He shall kill the lamb of the trespass-offering; and the priest shall take of the blood of the trespass-offering, and put it on the tip of the right ear of him who is to be cleansed, and on the thumb of his right hand, and on the great toe of his right foot. ²⁶ The priest shall pour of the oil into the palm of his own left hand; ²⁷ and the priest shall sprinkle with his right finger some of the oil that is in his left hand seven times before Yahawah: ²⁸ and the priest shall put of the oil that is in his hand on the tip of the right ear of him who is to be cleansed, and on the thumb of his right hand, and on the great toe of his right foot, on the place of the blood of the trespass-offering: ²⁹ and the rest of the oil that is in the priest's hand he shall put on the head of him who is to be cleansed, to make atonement for him before Yahawah. ³⁰ He shall offer one of the turtle-doves, or of the young pigeons, such as he is able to get, ³¹ even such as he is able to get, the one for a Sayan-offering, and the other for a burnt offering, with the meal-offering; and the priest shall make atonement for him who is to be cleansed before Yahawah. ³² This is the law of him in whom is the plague of leprosy, who is not able to get [that which pertains] to his cleansing. ³³ Yahawah spoke to Mashah and to Aharan, saying, ³⁴ When you are come into the land of Kanain, which I give to you for a possession, and I put the plague of leprosy in a house of the land of your possession; ³⁵ then he who owns the house shall come and tell the priest, saying, There seems to me to be as it were a plague in the house. ³⁶ The priest shall command that they empty the house, before the priest goes in to see the plague, that all that is in the house not be made unclean: and afterward the priest shall go in to see the house: ³⁷ and he shall look on the plague; and, behold, if the plague be in the walls of the house with hollow streaks, greenish or reddish, and the appearance of it be lower than the wall; ³⁸ then the priest shall go out of the house to the door of the house, and shut up the house seven days. ³⁹ The priest shall come again the seventh day, and shall look; and, behold, if the plague be spread in the walls of the house; ⁴⁰ then the priest shall command that they take out the stones in which the plague is, and cast them into an unclean place outside of the city: ⁴¹ and he shall cause the house to be scraped within round about, and they shall pour out the mortar, that they scrape off, outside of the city into an unclean place: ⁴² and they shall take other stones, and put them in the place of those stones; and he shall take other mortar, and shall plaster the house. ⁴³ If the plague come again, and break out in the house, after that he has taken out the stones, and after he has scraped the house, and after it is plastered; ⁴⁴ then the priest shall come in and look; and, behold, if the plague be spread in the house, it is a fretting leprosy in the house: it is unclean. ⁴⁵ He shall break down the house, the stones of it, and the timber of it, and all the mortar of the house; and he shall carry them forth out of the city into an unclean place. ⁴⁶ Moreover he who goes into the house all the while that it is shut up shall be unclean until the even. ⁴⁷ He who lies in the house shall wash his clothes; and he who eats in the house shall wash his clothes. ⁴⁸ If the priest shall come in, and look, and, behold, the plague hasn't spread in the house, after the house was plastered; then the priest shall pronounce the house clean, because the plague is healed. ⁴⁹ He shall take to cleanse the house two birds, and cedar wood, and scarlet, and hyssop: ⁵⁰ and he shall kill one of the birds in an earthen vessel over running water: ⁵¹ and he shall take the cedar wood, and the hyssop, and the scarlet, and the living bird, and dip them in the blood of the slain bird, and in the running water, and sprinkle the house seven times: ⁵² and he shall cleanse the house with the blood of the bird, and with the running water, and with the living bird, and with the cedar wood, and with the hyssop, and with the scarlet: ⁵³ but he shall let go the living bird out of the city into the open field: so shall he make atonement for the house; and it shall be clean. ⁵⁴ This is the law for all manner of plague of leprosy, and for a scall, ⁵⁵ and for the leprosy of a garment, and for a house, ⁵⁶ and for a rising, and for a scab, and for a bright spot; ⁵⁷ to teach when it is unclean, and when it is clean: this is the law of leprosy.

15 Yahawah spoke to Mashah and to Aharan, saying, ² Speak to the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, When any man has an issue out of his flesh, because of his issue he is unclean. ³ This shall be his uncleanness in his issue: whether his flesh run with his issue, or his flesh be stopped from his issue, it is his uncleanness. ⁴ Every bed whereon he who has the issue lies shall be unclean; and everything whereon he sits shall be unclean. ⁵ Whoever touches his bed shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even. ⁶ He who sits on anything whereon he who has the issue sat shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even. ⁷ He who touches the flesh of him who has the issue shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even. ⁸ If he who has the issue spit on him who is clean, then he shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even. ⁹ Whatever saddle he who has the issue rides on shall be unclean. ¹⁰ Whoever touches anything that was under him shall be unclean until the even: and he who bears those things shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even. ¹¹ Whoever he who has the issue touches, without having rinsed his hands in water, he shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even. ¹² The earthen vessel, which he who has the issue touches, shall be broken; and every vessel of wood shall be rinsed in water. ¹³ When he who has an issue is cleansed of his issue, then he shall number to himself seven days for his cleansing, and wash his clothes; and he shall bathe his flesh in running water, and shall be clean.¹⁴ On the eighth day he shall take to him two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, and come before Yahawah to the door of the tent of meeting, and give them to the priest:¹⁵ and the priest shall offer them, the one for a Sayan-offering, and the other for a burnt offering; and the priest shall make atonement for him before Yahawah for his issue.¹⁶ If any man's seed of copulation go out from him, then he shall bathe all his flesh in water, and be unclean until the even.¹⁷ Every garment, and every skin, whereon is the seed of copulation, shall be washed with water, and be unclean until the even.¹⁸ The woman also with whom a man shall lie with seed of copulation, they shall both bathe themselves in water, and be unclean until the even.¹⁹ If a woman have an issue, [and] her issue in her flesh be blood, she shall be in her impurity seven days: and whoever touches her shall be unclean until the even.²⁰ Everything that she lies on in her impurity shall be unclean: everything also that she sits on shall be unclean.²¹ Whoever touches her bed shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even.²² Whoever touches anything that she sits on shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even.²³ If it be on the bed, or on anything whereon she sits, when he touches it, he shall be unclean until the even.²⁴ If any man lie with her, and her impurity be on him, he shall be unclean seven days; and every bed whereon he lies shall be unclean.²⁵ If a woman have an issue of her blood many days not in the time of her impurity, or if she have an issue beyond the time of her impurity; all the days of the issue of her uncleanness she shall be as in the days of her impurity: she is unclean.²⁶ Every bed whereon she lies all the days of her issue shall be to her as the bed of her impurity: and everything whereon she sits shall be unclean, as the uncleanness of her impurity.²⁷ Whoever touches those things shall be unclean, and shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even.²⁸ But if she be cleansed of her issue, then she shall number to herself seven days, and after that she shall be clean.²⁹ On the eighth day she shall take to her two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, and bring them to the priest, to the door of the tent of meeting.³⁰ The priest shall offer the one for a Sayan-offering, and the other for a burnt offering; and the priest shall make atonement for her before Yahawah for the issue of her uncleanness.³¹ Thus shall you separate the children of Yasharaal from their uncleanness, that they not die in their uncleanness, when they defile my tent that is in the midst of them.³² This is the law of him who has an issue, and of him whose seed of copulation goes from him, so that he is unclean thereby;³³ and of her who is sick with her impurity, and of him who has an issue, of the man, and of the woman, and of him who lies with her who is unclean.

16 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, after the death of the two sons of Aharan, when they drew near before Yahawah, and died;² and Yahawah said to Mashah, Speak to Aharan your brother, that he doesn't come at all times into the holy place within the veil, before the mercy seat which is on the ark; that he not die: for I will appear in the cloud on the mercy seat.³ Herewith shall Aharan come into the holy place: with a young bull for a Sayan-offering, and a ram for a burnt offering.⁴ He shall put on the holy linen coat, and he shall have the linen breeches on his flesh, and shall be girded with the linen sash, and with the linen mitre shall he be attired: they are the holy garments; and he shall bathe his flesh in water, and put them on.⁵ He shall take of the congregation of the children of Yasharaal two male goats for a Sayan-offering, and one ram for a burnt offering.⁶ Aharan shall present the bull of the Sayan-offering, which is for himself, and make atonement for himself, and for his house.⁷ He shall take the two goats, and set them before Yahawah at the door of the tent of meeting.⁸ Aharan shall cast lots on the two goats; one lot for Yahawah, and the other lot for Azazel.⁹ Aharan shall present the goat on which the lot fell for Yahawah, and offer him for a Sayan-offering.¹⁰ But the goat, on which the lot fell for Azazel, shall be set alive before Yahawah, to make atonement for him, to send him away for Azazel into the wilderness.¹¹ Aharan shall present the bull of the Sayan-offering, which is for himself, and shall make atonement for himself, and for his house, and shall kill the bull of the Sayan-offering which is for himself:¹² and he shall take a censer full of coals of fire from off the altar before Yahawah, and his hands full of sweet incense beaten small, and bring it within the veil:¹³ and he shall put the incense on the fire before Yahawah, that the cloud of the incense may cover the mercy seat that is on the testimony, that he not die:¹⁴ and he shall take of the blood of the bull, and sprinkle it with his finger on the mercy seat on the east; and before the mercy seat shall he sprinkle of the blood with his finger seven times.¹⁵ Then shall he kill the goat of the Sayan-offering, that is for the people, and bring his blood within the veil, and do with his blood as he did with the blood of the bull, and sprinkle it on the mercy seat, and before the mercy seat:¹⁶ and he shall make atonement for the holy place, because of the uncleanness of the children of Yasharaal, and because of their transgressions, even all their sins: and so shall he do for the tent of meeting, that dwells with them in the midst of their uncleanness.¹⁷ There shall be no man in the tent of meeting when he goes in to make atonement in the holy place, until he come out, and have made atonement for himself, and for his household, and for all the assembly of Yasharaal.¹⁸ He shall go out to the altar that is before Yahawah, and make atonement for it, and shall take of the blood of the bull, and of the blood of the goat, and put it on the horns of the altar round about.¹⁹ He shall sprinkle of the blood on it with his finger seven times, and cleanse it, and make it holy from the uncleanness of the children of Yasharaal.²⁰ When he has made an end of atoning for the holy place, and the tent of meeting, and the altar, he shall present the live goat:²¹ and Aharan shall lay both his hands on the head of the live goat, and confess over him all the iniquities of the children of Yasharaal, and all their transgressions, even all their sins; and he shall put them on the head of the goat, and shall send him away by the hand of a man who is in readiness into the wilderness:²² and the goat shall bear on him all their iniquities to a solitary land; and he shall let go the goat in the wilderness.²³ Aharan shall come into the tent of meeting, and shall put off the linen garments, which he put on when he went into the holy place, and shall leave them there:²⁴ and he shall bathe his flesh in water in a holy place, and put on his garments, and come forth, and offer his burnt offering and the burnt offering of the people, and make atonement for himself and for the people.²⁵ The fat of the Sayan-offering shall he burn on the altar.²⁶ He who lets go the goat for Azazel shall wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water, and afterward he shall come into the camp.²⁷ The bull of the Sayan-offering, and the goat of the Sayan-offering, whose blood was brought in to make atonement in the holy place, shall be carried forth outside of the camp; and they shall burn in the fire their skins, and their flesh, and their dung.²⁸ He who burns them shall wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water, and afterward he shall come into the camp.²⁹ It shall be a statute forever to you: in the seventh month, on the tenth day of the month, you shall afflict your souls, and shall do no manner of work, the home-born, or the stranger who sojourns among you:³⁰ for on this day shall atonement be made for you, to cleanse you; from all your sins shall you be clean before Yahawah.³¹ It is a Sabbath of solemn rest to you, and you shall afflict your souls; it is a statute forever.³² The priest, who shall be anointed and who shall be consecrated to be priest in his father's place, shall make the atonement, and shall put on the linen garments, even the holy garments:³³ and he shall make atonement for the holy sanctuary; and he shall make atonement for the tent of meeting and for the altar; and he shall make atonement for the priests and for all the people of the assembly.³⁴ This shall be an everlasting statute to you, to make atonement for the children of Yasharaal because of all their sins once in the year. He did as Yahawah commanded Mashah.

17 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² Speak to Aharan, and to his sons, and to all the children of Yasharaal, and tell them: This is the thing which Yahawah has commanded, saying,³ Whatever man there be of the house of Yasharaal, who kills an ox, or lamb, or goat, in the camp, or who kills it outside of the camp,⁴ and hasn't brought it to the door of the tent of meeting, to offer it as an offering to Yahawah before the tent of Yahawah: blood shall be imputed to that man; he has shed blood; and that man shall be cut off from among his people:⁵ To the end that the children of Yasharaal may bring their sacrifices, which they sacrifice in the open field, even that they may bring them to Yahawah, to the door of the tent of meeting, to the priest, and sacrifice them for sacrifices of peace-offerings to Yahawah.⁶ The priest shall sprinkle the blood on the altar of Yahawah at the door of the tent of meeting, and burn the fat for a sweet savor to Yahawah.⁷ They shall no more sacrifice their sacrifices to the male goats, after which they play the prostitute. This shall be a statute forever to them throughout their generations.⁸ You shall tell them, Whatever man there be of the house of Yasharaal, or of the strangers who sojourn among them, who offers a burnt offering or sacrifice,⁹ and doesn't bring it to the door of the tent of meeting, to sacrifice it to Yahawah; that man shall be cut off from his people.¹⁰ Whatever man there be of the house of Yasharaal, or of the strangers who sojourn among them, who eats any manner of blood, I will set my face against that soul who eats blood, and will cut him off from among his people.¹¹ For the life of the flesh is in the blood; and I have given it to you on the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that makes atonement by reason of the life.¹² Therefore I said to the children of Yasharaal, No soul of you shall eat blood, neither shall any stranger who sojourns among you eat blood.¹³ Whatever man there be of the children of Yasharaal, or of the strangers who sojourn among them, who takes in hunting any animal or bird that may be eaten; he shall pour out the blood of it, and cover it with dust.¹⁴ For as to the life of all flesh, the blood of it is [all one] with the life of it: therefore I said to the children of Yasharaal, You shall eat the blood of no manner of flesh; for the life of all flesh is the blood of it: whoever eats it shall be cut off.¹⁵ Every soul who eats that which dies of itself, or that which is torn of animals, whether he be home-born or a sojourner, he shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even: then shall he be clean.¹⁶ But if he doesn't wash them, nor bathe his flesh, then he shall bear his iniquity.

18 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² Speak to the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, I am Yahawah your Alahayam.³ After the doings of the land of Matzarayam, in which you lived, you shall not do: and after the doings of the land of Kanain, where I bring you, you shall not do; neither shall you walk in their statutes.⁴ My ordinances shall you do, and my statutes shall you keep, to walk therein: I am Yahawah your Alahayam.⁵ You shall therefore keep my statutes, and my ordinances; which if a man do, he shall live in them: I am Yahawah.⁶ None of you shall approach to any who are close relatives to him, to uncover [their] nakedness: I am Yahawah.⁷ The nakedness of your father, even the nakedness of your mother, you shall not uncover: she is your mother; you shall not uncover her nakedness.⁸ The nakedness of your father's wife you shall not uncover: it is your father's nakedness.⁹ The nakedness of your sister, the daughter of your father, or the daughter of your mother, whether born at home, or born abroad, even their nakedness you shall not uncover.¹⁰ The nakedness of your son's daughter, or of your daughter's daughter, even their nakedness you shall not uncover: for theirs is your own nakedness.¹¹ The nakedness of your father's wife's daughter, conceived by your father, she is your sister, you shall not uncover her nakedness.¹² You shall not uncover the nakedness of your father's sister: she is your father's near kinswoman.¹³ You shall not uncover the nakedness of your mother's sister: for she is your mother's near kinswoman.¹⁴ You shall not uncover the nakedness of your father's brother, you shall not approach to his wife: she is your aunt.¹⁵ You shall not uncover the nakedness of your daughter-in-law: she is your son's wife; you shall not uncover her nakedness.¹⁶ You shall not uncover the nakedness of your brother's wife: it is your brother's nakedness.¹⁷ You shall not uncover the nakedness of a woman and her daughter; you shall not take her son's daughter, or her daughter's daughter, to uncover her nakedness; they are near kinswomen: it is wickedness.¹⁸ You shall not take a wife to her sister, to be a rival [to her], to uncover her nakedness, besides the other in her lifetime.¹⁹ You shall not approach to a woman to uncover her nakedness, as long as she is impure by her uncleanness.²⁰ You shall not lie carnally with your neighbor's wife, to defile yourself with her.²¹ You shall not give any of your seed to make them pass through [the fire] to Malak; neither shall you profane the name of your Alahayam: I am Yahawah.²² You shall not lie with mankind, as with womankind: it is abomination.²³ You shall not lie with any animal to defile yourself therewith; neither shall any woman stand before a animal, to lie down thereto: it is confusion.²⁴ Don't defile yourselves in any of these things: for in all these the nations are defiled which I cast out from before you;²⁵ The land is defiled: therefore I do visit the iniquity of it on it, and the land vomits out her inhabitants.²⁶ You therefore shall keep my statutes and my ordinances, and shall not do any of these abominations; neither the home-born, nor the stranger who sojourns among you;²⁷ (for all these abominations have the men of the land done, that were before you, and the land is defiled);²⁸ that the land not vomit you out also, when you defile it, as it vomited out the nation that was before you.²⁹ For whoever shall do any of these abominations, even the souls that do them shall be cut off from among their people.³⁰ Therefore shall you keep my charge, that you not practice any of these abominable customs, which were practiced before you, and that you not defile yourselves therein: I am Yahawah your Alahayam.

19 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² Speak to all the congregation of the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, You shall be holy; for I Yahawah your Alahayam am holy.³ You shall fear every man his mother, and his father; and you shall keep my Sabbaths: I am Yahawah your Alahayam.⁴ Don't turn to idols, nor make to yourselves molten gods: I am Yahawah your Alahayam.⁵ When you offer a sacrifice of peace-offerings to Yahawah, you shall offer it that you may be accepted.⁶ It shall be eaten the same day you offer it, and on the next day: and if anything remain until the third day, it shall be burnt with fire.⁷ If it be eaten at all on the third day, it is an abomination; it shall not be accepted:⁸ but everyone who eats it shall bear his iniquity, because he has profaned the holy thing of Yahawah: and that soul shall be cut off from his people.⁹ When you reap the harvest of your land, you shall not wholly reap the corners of your field, neither shall you gather the gleanings of your harvest.¹⁰ You shall not glean your vineyard, neither shall you gather the fallen fruit of your vineyard; you shall leave them for the poor and for the sojourner: I am Yahawah your Alahayam.¹¹ You shall not steal; neither shall you deal falsely, nor lie one to another.¹² You shall not swear by my name falsely, and profane the name of your Alahayam: I am Yahawah.¹³ You shall not oppress your neighbor, nor rob him: the wages of a hired servant shall not remain with you all night until the morning.¹⁴ You shall not curse the deaf, nor put a stumbling block before the blind; but you shall fear your Alahayam: I am Yahawah.¹⁵ You shall do no unrighteousness in judgment: you shall not respect the person of the poor, nor honor the person of the mighty; but in righteousness shall you judge your neighbor.¹⁶ You shall not go up and down as a talebearer among your people: neither shall you stand against the blood of your neighbor: I am Yahawah.¹⁷ You shall not hate your brother in your heart: you shall surely rebuke your neighbor, and not bear sin because of him.¹⁸ You shall not take vengeance, nor bear any grudge against the children of your people; but you shall love your neighbor as yourself: I am Yahawah.¹⁹ You shall keep my statutes. You shall not let your cattle breed with a diverse kind: you shall not sow your field with two kinds of seed: neither shall there come on you a garment of two kinds of stuff mingled together.²⁰ Whoever lies carnally with a woman, who is a bondmaid, pledged to be married to a husband, and not at all redeemed, nor freedom given her; they shall be punished; they shall not be put to death, because she was not free.²¹ He shall bring his trespass-offering to Yahawah, to the door of the tent of meeting, even a ram for a trespass-offering.²² The priest shall make atonement for him with the ram of the trespass-offering before Yahawah for his sin which he has sinned: and the sin which he has sinned shall be forgiven him.²³ When you shall come into the land, and shall have planted all manner of trees for food, then you shall count the fruit of it as their uncircumcision: three years shall they be as uncircumcised to you; it shall not be eaten.²⁴ But in the fourth year all the fruit of it shall be holy, for giving praise to Yahawah.²⁵ In the fifth year shall you eat of the fruit of it, that it may yield to you the increase of it: I am Yahawah your Alahayam.²⁶ You shall not eat anything with the blood: neither shall you use enchantments, nor practice sorcery.²⁷ You shall not cut the hair on the sides of your heads, neither shall you clip off the edge of your beard.²⁸ You shall not make any cuttings in your flesh for the dead, nor print any marks on you: I am Yahawah.²⁹ Don't profane your daughter, to make her a prostitute; lest the land fall to prostitution, and the land become full of wickedness.³⁰ You shall keep my Sabbaths, and reverence my sanctuary; I am Yahawah.³¹ Don't turn to those who have familiar spirits, nor to the wizards; don't seek them out, to be defiled by them: I am Yahawah your Alahayam.³² You shall rise up before the gray head, and honor the face of the old man, and you shall fear your Alahayam: I am Yahawah.³³ If a stranger sojourn with you in your land, you shall not do him wrong.³⁴ The stranger who sojourns with you shall be to you as the home-born among you, and you shall love him as yourself; for you were sojourners in the land of Matzarayam: I am Yahawah your Alahayam.³⁵ You shall do no unrighteousness in judgment, in measures of length, of weight, or of quantity.³⁶ Just balances, just weights, a just ephah, and a just hin, shall you have: I am Yahawah your Alahayam, who brought you out of the land of Matzarayam.³⁷ You shall observe all my statutes, and all my ordinances, and do them: I am Yahawah.

20 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² Moreover, you shall tell the children of Yasharaal, Whoever he be of the children of Yasharaal, or of the strangers who sojourn in Yasharaal, who gives of his seed to Malak; he shall surely be put to death: the people of the land shall stone him with stones.³ I also will set my face against that man, and will cut him off from among his people; because he has given of his seed to Malak, to defile my sanctuary, and to profane my holy name.⁴ If the people at the land do at all hide their eyes from that man, when he gives of his seed to Malak, and don't put him to death;⁵ then I will set my face against that man, and against his family, and will cut him off, and all who play the prostitute after him, to play the prostitute with Malak, from among their people.⁶ The soul that turns to those who have familiar spirits, and to the wizards, to play the prostitute after them, I will even set my face against that soul, and will cut him off from among his people.⁷ Sanctify yourselves therefore, and be you holy; for I am Yahawah your Alahayam.⁸ You shall keep my statutes, and do them: I am Yahawah who sanctifies you.⁹ For everyone who curses his father or his mother shall surely be put to death: he has cursed his father or his mother; his blood shall be on him.¹⁰ The man who commits adultery with another man's wife, even he who commits adultery with his neighbor's wife, the adulterer and the adulteress shall surely be put to death.¹¹ The man who lies with his father's wife has uncovered his father's nakedness: both of them shall surely be put to death; their blood shall be on them.¹² If a man lie with his daughter-in-law, both of them shall surely be put to death: they have created confusion; their blood shall be on them.¹³ If a man lie with mankind, as with womankind, both of them have committed abomination: they shall surely be put to death; their blood shall be on them.¹⁴ If a man take a wife and her mother, it is wickedness: they shall be burnt with fire, both he and they; that there be no wickedness among you.¹⁵ If a man lie with a animal, he shall surely be put to death: and you shall kill the animal.¹⁶ If a woman approach to any animal, and lie down thereto, you shall kill the woman, and the animal: they shall surely be put to death; their blood shall be on them.¹⁷ If a man shall take his sister, his father's daughter, or his mother's daughter, and see her nakedness, and she see his nakedness; it is a shameful thing; and they shall be cut off in the sight of the children of their people: he has uncovered his sister's nakedness; he shall bear his iniquity.¹⁸ If a man shall lie with a woman having her sickness, and shall uncover her nakedness; he has made naked her fountain, and she has uncovered the fountain of her blood: and both of them shall be cut off from among their people.¹⁹ You shall not uncover the nakedness of your mother's sister, nor of your father's sister; for he has made naked his close relative: they shall bear their iniquity.²⁰ If a man shall lie with his uncle's wife, he has uncovered his uncle's nakedness: they shall bear their sin; they shall die childless.²¹ If a man shall take his brother's wife, it is impurity: he has uncovered his brother's nakedness; they shall be childless.²² You shall therefore keep all my statutes, and all my ordinances, and do them; that the land, where I bring you to dwell therein, not vomit you out.²³ You shall not walk in the customs of the nation, which I cast out before you: for they did all these things, and therefore I abhorred them.²⁴ But I have said to you, You shall inherit their land, and I will give it to you to possess it, a land flowing with milk and honey: I am Yahawah your Alahayam, who has separated you from the peoples.²⁵ You shall therefore make a distinction between the clean animal and the unclean, and between the unclean fowl and the clean: and you shall not make your souls abominable by animal, or by bird, or by anything with which the ground teems, which I have separated from you as unclean.²⁶ You shall be holy to me: for I, Yahawah, am holy, and have set you apart from the peoples, that you should be mine.²⁷ A man also or a woman that has a familiar spirit, or that is a wizard, shall surely be put to death: they shall stone them with stones; their blood shall be on them.

21 Yahawah said to Mashah, Speak to the priests, the sons of Aharan, and say to them, There shall none defile himself for the dead among his people;² except for his relatives, that is near to him, for his mother, and for his father, and for his son, and for his daughter, and for his brother,³ and for his sister a virgin, that is near to him, that has had no husband; for her may he defile himself.⁴ He shall not defile himself, [being] a chief man among his people, to profane himself.⁵ They shall not make baldness on their head, neither shall they shave off the corner of their beard, nor make any cuttings in their flesh.⁶ They shall be holy to their Alahayam, and not profane the name of their Alahayam; for the offerings of Yahawah made by fire, the bread of their Alahayam, they do offer: therefore they shall be holy.⁷ They shall not take a woman that is a prostitute, or profane; neither shall they take a woman put away from her husband: for he is holy to his Alahayam.⁸ You shall sanctify him therefore; for he offers the bread of your Alahayam: he shall be holy to you: for I Yahawah, who sanctify you, am holy.⁹ The daughter of any priest, if she profane herself by playing the prostitute, she profanes her father: she shall be burnt with fire.¹⁰ He who is the high priest among his brothers, on whose head the anointing oil is poured, and that is consecrated to put on the garments, shall not let the hair of his head go loose, nor tear his clothes;¹¹ neither shall he go in to any dead body, nor defile himself for his father, or for his mother;¹² neither shall he go out of the sanctuary, nor profane the sanctuary of his Alahayam; for the crown of the anointing oil of his Alahayam is on him: I am Yahawah.¹³ He shall take a wife in her virginity.¹⁴ A widow, or one divorced, or a profane woman, a prostitute, these shall he not take: but a virgin of his own people shall he take as a wife.¹⁵ He shall not profane his seed among his people: for I am Yahawah who sanctifies him.¹⁶ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,¹⁷ Speak to Aharan, saying, Whoever he be of your seed throughout their generations that has a blemish, let him not approach to offer the bread of his Alahayam.¹⁸ For whatever man he be that has a blemish, he shall not approach: a blind man, or a lame, or he that has a flat nose, or any deformity,¹⁹ or a man that is broken-footed, or broken-handed,²⁰ or crook-backed, or a dwarf, or that has a blemish in his eye, or is scurvy, or scabbed, or has his stones broken;²¹ no man of the seed of Aharan the priest, that has a blemish, shall come near to offer the offerings of Yahawah made by fire: he has a blemish; he shall not come near to offer the bread of his Alahayam.²² He shall eat the bread of his Alahayam, both of the most holy, and of the holy: ²³ only he shall not go in to the veil, nor come near to the altar, because he has a blemish; that he not profane my sanctuaries: for I am Yahawah who sanctifies them. ²⁴ So Mashah spoke to Aharan, and to his sons, and to all the children of Yasharaal.

22 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ² Speak to Aharan and to his sons, that they separate themselves from the holy things of the children of Yasharaal, which they make holy to me, and that they not profane my holy name: I am Yahawah. ³ Tell them, Whoever he be of all your seed throughout your generations, that approaches to the holy things, which the children of Yasharaal make holy to Yahawah, having his uncleanness on him, that soul shall be cut off from before me: I am Yahawah. ⁴ Whatever man of the seed of Aharan is a leper, or has an issue; he shall not eat of the holy things, until he is clean. Whoever touches anything that is unclean by the dead, or a man whose seed goes from him; ⁵ or whoever touches any creeping thing, whereby he may be made unclean, or a man of whom he may take uncleanness, whatever uncleanness he has; ⁶ the soul that touches any such shall be unclean until the even, and shall not eat of the holy things, unless he bathe his flesh in water. ⁷ When the sun is down, he shall be clean; and afterward he shall eat of the holy things, because it is his bread. ⁸ That which dies of itself, or is torn by animals, he shall not eat, to defile himself therewith: I am Yahawah. ⁹ They shall therefore keep my charge, lest they bear sin for it, and die therein, if they profane it: I am Yahawah who sanctifies them. ¹⁰ There shall no stranger eat of the holy thing: a sojourner of the priest's, or a hired servant, shall not eat of the holy thing. ¹¹ But if a priest buy any soul, the purchase of his money, he shall eat of it; and such as are born in his house, they shall eat of his bread. ¹² If a priest's daughter be married to a stranger, she shall not eat of the heave-offering of the holy things. ¹³ But if a priest's daughter be a widow, or divorced, and have no child, and be returned to her father's house, as in her youth, she shall eat of her father's bread: but there shall no stranger eat of it. ¹⁴ If a man eat of the holy thing unwittingly, then he shall put the fifth part of it to it, and shall give to the priest the holy thing. ¹⁵ They shall not profane the holy things of the children of Yasharaal, which they offer to Yahawah, ¹⁶ and [so] cause them to bear the iniquity that brings guilt, when they eat their holy things: for I am Yahawah who sanctifies them. ¹⁷ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ¹⁸ Speak to Aharan, and to his sons, and to all the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, Whoever he be of the house of Yasharaal, or of the sojourners in Yasharaal, that offers his offering, whether it be any of their vows, or any of their freewill-offerings, which they offer to Yahawah for a burnt offering; ¹⁹ that you may be accepted, [you shall offer] a male without blemish, of the bulls, of the sheep, or of the goats. ²⁰ But whatever has a blemish, that shall you not offer: for it shall not be acceptable for you. ²¹ Whoever offers a sacrifice of peace-offerings to Yahawah to accomplish a vow, or for a freewill-offering, of the herd or of the flock, it shall be perfect to be accepted; there shall be no blemish therein. ²² Blind, or broken, or maimed, or having a wen, or scurvy, or scabbed, you shall not offer these to Yahawah, nor make an offering by fire of them on the altar to Yahawah. ²³ Either a bull or a lamb that has any deformity or lacking in his parts, that may you offer for a freewill-offering; but for a vow it shall not be accepted. ²⁴ That which has its stones bruised, or crushed, or broken, or cut, you shall not offer to Yahawah; neither shall you do [thus] in your land. ²⁵ Neither from the hand of a foreigner shall you offer the bread of your Alahayam of any of these; because their corruption is in them, there is a blemish in them: they shall not be accepted for you. ²⁶ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ²⁷ When a bull, or a sheep, or a goat, is brought forth, then it shall be seven days under the hen; and from the eighth day and thenceforth it shall be accepted for the offering of an offering made by fire to Yahawah. ²⁸ Whether it be cow or ewe, you shall not kill it and its young both in one day. ²⁹ When you sacrifice a sacrifice of thanksgiving to Yahawah, you shall sacrifice it that you may be accepted. ³⁰ On the same day it shall be eaten; you shall leave none of it until the morning: I am Yahawah.

³¹ Therefore shall you keep my commandments, and do them: I am Yahawah. ³² You shall not profane my holy name; but I will be made holy among the children of Yasharaal: I am Yahawah who makes you holy, ³³ who brought you out of the land of Matzarayam, to be your Alahayam: I am Yahawah.

23 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ² Speak to the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, The set feasts of Yahawah, which you shall proclaim to be holy convocations, even these are my set feasts. ³ Six days shall work be done: but on the seventh day is a Sabbath of solemn rest, a holy convocation; you shall do no manner of work: it is a Sabbath to Yahawah in all your dwellings. ⁴ These are the set feasts of Yahawah, even holy convocations, which you shall proclaim in their appointed season. ⁵ In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month at even, is Yahawah's Passover. ⁶ On the fifteenth day of the same month is the feast of unleavened bread to Yahawah: seven days you shall eat unleavened bread. ⁷ In the first day you shall have a holy convocation: you shall do no servile work. ⁸ But you shall offer an offering made by fire to Yahawah seven days: in the seventh day is a holy convocation; you shall do no servile work. ⁹ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ¹⁰ Speak to the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, When you are come into the land which I give to you, and shall reap the harvest of it, then you shall bring the sheaf of the first-fruits of your harvest to the priest: ¹¹ and he shall wave the sheaf before Yahawah, to be accepted for you: on the next day after the Sabbath the priest shall wave it. ¹² In the day when you wave the sheaf, you shall offer a he-lamb without blemish a year old for a burnt offering to Yahawah. ¹³ The meal-offering of it shall be two tenth parts [of an ephah] of fine flour mingled with oil, an offering made by fire to Yahawah for a sweet savor; and the drink-offering of it shall be of wine, the fourth part of a hin. ¹⁴ You shall eat neither bread, nor parched grain, nor fresh ears, until this same day, until you have brought the offering of your Alahayam: it is a statute forever throughout your generations in all your dwellings. ¹⁵ You shall count to you from the next day after the Sabbath, from the day that you brought the sheaf of the wave-offering; seven Sabbaths shall there be complete: ¹⁶ even to the next day after the seventh Sabbath shall you number fifty days; and you shall offer a new meal-offering to Yahawah. ¹⁷ You shall bring out of your habitations two wave-loaves of two tenth parts [of an ephah]: they shall be of fine flour, they shall be baked with yeast, for first-fruits to Yahawah. ¹⁸ You shall present with the bread seven lambs without blemish a year old, and one young bull, and two rams: they shall be a burnt offering to Yahawah, with their meal-offering, and their drink-offerings, even an offering made by fire, of a sweet savor to Yahawah. ¹⁹ You shall offer one male goat for a Sayan-offering, and two he-lambs a year old for a sacrifice of peace-offerings. ²⁰ The priest shall wave them with the bread of the first-fruits for a wave-offering before Yahawah, with the two lambs: they shall be holy to Yahawah for the priest. ²¹ You shall make proclamation on the same day; there shall be a holy convocation to you; you shall do no servile work: it is a statute forever in all your dwellings throughout your generations. ²² When you reap the harvest of your land, you shall not wholly reap the corners of your field, neither shall you gather the gleaning of your harvest: you shall leave them for the poor, and for the sojourner: I am Yahawah your Alahayam. ²³ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ²⁴ Speak to the children of Yasharaal, saying, In the seventh month, on the first day of the month, shall be a solemn rest to you, a memorial of blowing of trumpets, a holy convocation. ²⁵ You shall do no servile work; and you shall offer an offering made by fire to Yahawah. ²⁶ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ²⁷ However on the tenth day of this seventh month is the day of atonement: it shall be a holy convocation to you, and you shall afflict your souls; and you shall offer an offering made by fire to Yahawah. ²⁸ You shall do no manner of work in that same day; for it is a day of atonement, to make atonement for you before Yahawah your Alahayam. ²⁹ For whatever soul it be who shall not be afflicted in that same day; he shall be cut off from his people. ³⁰ Whatever soul it be who does any manner of work in that same day, that soul will I destroy from among his people.³¹ You shall do no manner of work: it is a statute forever throughout your generations in all your dwellings.³² It shall be to you a Sabbath of solemn rest, and you shall afflict your souls: in the ninth day of the month at even, from even to even, shall you keep your Sabbath.³³ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,³⁴ Speak to the children of Yasharaal, saying, On the fifteenth day of this seventh month is the feast of tents for seven days to Yahawah.³⁵ On the first day shall be a holy convocation: you shall do no servile work.³⁶ Seven days you shall offer an offering made by fire to Yahawah: on the eighth day shall be a holy convocation to you; and you shall offer an offering made by fire to Yahawah: it is a solemn assembly; you shall do no servile work.³⁷ These are the set feasts of Yahawah, which you shall proclaim to be holy convocations, to offer an offering made by fire to Yahawah, a burnt offering, and a meal-offering, a sacrifice, and drink-offerings, each on its own day;³⁸ besides the Sabbaths of Yahawah, and besides your gifts, and besides all your vows, and besides all your freewill-offerings, which you give to Yahawah.³⁹ However on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when you have gathered in the fruits of the land, you shall keep the feast of Yahawah seven days: on the first day shall be a solemn rest, and on the eighth day shall be a solemn rest.⁴⁰ You shall take on the first day the fruit of goodly trees, branches of palm-trees, and boughs of thick trees, and willows of the brook; and you shall rejoice before Yahawah your Alahayam seven days.⁴¹ You shall keep it a feast to Yahawah seven days in the year: it is a statute forever throughout your generations; you shall keep it in the seventh month.⁴² You shall dwell in booths seven days; all who are home-born in Yasharaal shall dwell in booths;⁴³ that your generations may know that I made the children of Yasharaal to dwell in booths, when I brought them out of the land of Matzarayam: I am Yahawah your Alahayam.⁴⁴ Mashah declared to the children of Yasharaal the set feasts of Yahawah.

24 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² Command the children of Yasharaal, that they bring to you pure olive oil beaten for the light, to cause a lamp to burn continually.³ Outside of the veil of the testimony, in the tent of meeting, shall Aharan keep it in order from evening to morning before Yahawah continually: it shall be a statute forever throughout your generations.⁴ He shall keep in order the lamps on the pure lampstand before Yahawah continually.⁵ You shall take fine flour, and bake twelve cakes of it: two tenth parts [of an ephah] shall be in one cake.⁶ You shall set them in two rows, six on a row, on the pure table before Yahawah.⁷ You shall put pure frankincense on each row, that it may be to the bread for a memorial, even an offering made by fire to Yahawah.⁸ Every Sabbath day he shall set it in order before Yahawah continually; it is on the behalf of the children of Yasharaal, an everlasting covenant.⁹ It shall be for Aharan and his sons; and they shall eat it in a holy place: for it is most holy to him of the offerings of Yahawah made by fire by a perpetual statute.¹⁰ The son of an Israelite woman, whose father was a Matzarayam, went out among the children of Yasharaal; and the son of the Israelite woman and a man of Yasharaal strove together in the camp:¹¹ and the son of the Israelite woman blasphemed the Name, and cursed; and they brought him to Mashah. His mother's name was Shalamayath, the daughter of Dabaray, of the tribe of Wadan.¹² They put him in custody, that it might be declared to them at the mouth of Yahawah.¹³ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,¹⁴ Bring forth him who has cursed outside of the camp; and let all who heard him lay their hands on his head, and let all the congregation stone him.¹⁵ You shall speak to the children of Yasharaal, saying, Whoever curses his Alahayam shall bear his sin.¹⁶ He who blasphemes the name of Yahawah, he shall surely be put to death; all the congregation shall certainly stone him: as well the sojourner, as the home-born, when he blasphemes the name [of Yahawah], shall be put to death.¹⁷ He who strikes any man mortally shall surely be put to death.¹⁸ He who strikes a animal mortally shall make it good, life for life.¹⁹ If a man cause a blemish in his neighbor; as he has done, so shall it be done to him:²⁰ breach for breach, eye for eye, tooth for tooth; as he has caused a blemish in a man, so shall it be rendered to him.²¹ He who kills a animal shall make it good: and he who kills a man shall be put to death.²² You shall have one manner of law, as well for the sojourner, as for the home-born: for I am Yahawah your Alahayam.²³ Mashah spoke to the children of Yasharaal; and they brought forth him who had cursed out of the camp, and stoned him with stones. The children of Yasharaal did as Yahawah commanded Mashah.

25 Yahawah spoke to Mashah in Mount Sayanay, saying,² Speak to the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, When you come into the land which I give you, then shall the land keep a Sabbath to Yahawah.³ Six years you shall sow your field, and six years you shall prune your vineyard, and gather in the fruits of it;⁴ but in the seventh year shall be a Sabbath of solemn rest for the land, a Sabbath to Yahawah: you shall neither sow your field, nor prune your vineyard.⁵ That which grows of itself of your harvest you shall not reap, and the grapes of your undressed vine you shall not gather: it shall be a year of solemn rest for the land.⁶ The Sabbath of the land shall be for food for you; for you, and for your servant and for your maid, and for your hired servant and for your stranger, who sojourn with you.⁷ For your cattle, and for the animals that are in your land, shall all the increase of it be for food.⁸ You shall number seven Sabbaths of years to you, seven times seven years; and there shall be to you the days of seven Sabbaths of years, even forty-nine years.⁹ Then shall you send abroad the loud trumpet on the tenth day of the seventh month; in the day of atonement shall you send abroad the trumpet throughout all your land.¹⁰ You shall make the fiftieth year holy, and proclaim liberty throughout the land to all the inhabitants of it: it shall be a jubilee to you; and you shall return every man to his possession, and you shall return every man to his family.¹¹ A jubilee shall that fiftieth year be to you: you shall not sow, neither reap that which grows of itself in it, nor gather [the grapes] in it of the undressed vines.¹² For it is a jubilee; it shall be holy to you: you shall eat the increase of it out of the field.¹³ In this year of jubilee you shall return every man to his possession.¹⁴ If you sell anything to your neighbor, or buy of your neighbor's hand, you shall not wrong one another.¹⁵ According to the number of years after the jubilee you shall buy of your neighbor, [and] according to the number of years of the crops he shall sell to you.¹⁶ According to the length of the years you shall increase the price of it, and according to the shortness of the years you shall diminish the price of it; for the number of the crops does he sell to you.¹⁷ You shall not wrong one another; but you shall fear your Alahayam: for I am Yahawah your Alahayam.¹⁸ Therefore you shall do my statutes, and keep my ordinances and do them; and you shall dwell in the land in safety.¹⁹ The land shall yield its fruit, and you shall eat your fill, and dwell therein in safety.²⁰ If you shall say, What shall we eat the seventh year? Behold, we shall not sow, nor gather in our increase;²¹ then I will command my blessing on you in the sixth year, and it shall bring forth fruit for the three years.²² You shall sow the eighth year, and eat of the fruits, the old store; until the ninth year, until its fruits come in, you shall eat the old store.²³ The land shall not be sold in perpetuity; for the land is mine: for you are strangers and sojourners with me.²⁴ In all the land of your possession you shall grant a redemption for the land.²⁵ If your brother be grew poor, and sell some of his possession, then shall his kinsman who is next to him come, and shall redeem that which his brother has sold.²⁶ If a man have no one to redeem it, and he be grew rich and find sufficient to redeem it;²⁷ then let him reckon the years of the sale of it, and restore the surplus to the man to whom he sold it; and he shall return to his possession.²⁸ But if he isn't able to get it back for himself, then that which he has sold shall remain in the hand of him who has bought it until the year of jubilee: and in the jubilee it shall go out, and he shall return to his possession.²⁹ If a man sell a dwelling-house in a walled city, then he may redeem it within a whole year after it is sold; for a full year shall he have the right of redemption.³⁰ If it isn't redeemed within the space of a full year, then the house that is in the walled city shall be made sure in perpetuity to him who bought it, throughout his generations: it shall not go out in the jubilee.³¹ But the houses of the villages which have no wall round about them shall be reckoned with the fields of the country: they may be redeemed, and they shall go out in the jubilee.³² Nevertheless the cities of the Levites, the houses of the cities of their possession, may the Levites redeem at any time.³³ If one of the Levites redeem, then the house that was sold, and the city of his possession, shall go out in the jubilee; for the houses of the cities of the Levites are their possession among the children of Yasharaal.³⁴ But the field of the suburbs of their cities may not be sold; for it is their perpetual possession.³⁵ If your brother has grown poor, and his hand fail with you; then you shall uphold him: [as] a stranger and a sojourner shall he live with you.³⁶ Take no interest of him or increase, but fear your Alahayam; that your brother may live with you.³⁷ You shall not give him your money on interest, nor give him your victuals for increase.³⁸ I am Yahawah your Alahayam, who brought you forth out of the land of Matzarayam, to give you the land of Kanain, [and] to be your Alahayam.³⁹ If your brother has grown poor with you, and sell himself to you; you shall not make him to serve as a bond-servant.⁴⁰ As a hired servant, and as a sojourner, he shall be with you; he shall serve with you to the year of jubilee:⁴¹ then shall he go out from you, he and his children with him, and shall return to his own family, and to the possession of his fathers shall he return.⁴² For they are my servants, whom I brought forth out of the land of Matzarayam: they shall not be sold as bondservants.⁴³ You shall not rule over him with rigor, but shall fear your Alahayam.⁴⁴ As for your bondservants, and your bondmaids, whom you shall have; of the nations that are round about you, of them shall you buy bondservants and bondmaids.⁴⁵ Moreover of the children of the strangers who sojourn among you, of them shall you buy, and of their families who are with you, which they have conceived in your land: and they shall be your possession.⁴⁶ You shall make them an inheritance for your children after you, to hold for a possession; of them shall you take your bondservants forever: but over your brothers the children of Yasharaal you shall not rule, one over another, with rigor.⁴⁷ If a stranger or sojourner with you has grown rich, and your brother has grown poor beside him, and sell himself to the stranger [or] sojourner with you, or to the stock of the stranger's family;⁴⁸ after that he is sold he may be redeemed: one of his brothers may redeem him;⁴⁹ or his uncle, or his uncle's son, may redeem him, or any who is a close relative to him of his family may redeem him; or if he has grown rich, he may redeem himself.⁵⁰ He shall reckon with him who bought him from the year that he sold himself to him to the year of jubilee: and the price of his sale shall be according to the number of years; according to the time of a hired servant shall he be with him.⁵¹ If there be yet many years, according to them he shall give back the price of his redemption out of the money that he was bought for.⁵² If there remain but few years to the year of jubilee, then he shall reckon with him; according to his years shall he give back the price of his redemption.⁵³ As a servant hired year by year shall he be with him: he shall not rule with rigor over him in your sight.⁵⁴ If he isn't redeemed by these [means], then he shall go out in the year of jubilee, he, and his children with him.⁵⁵ For to me the children of Yasharaal are servants; they are my servants whom I brought forth out of the land of Matzarayam: I am Yahawah your Alahayam.

26 You shall make you no idols, neither shall you rear you up an engraved image, or a pillar, neither shall you place any figured stone in your land, to bow down to it: for I am Yahawah your Alahayam.² You shall keep my Sabbaths, and reverence my sanctuary: I am Yahawah.³ If you walk in my statutes, and keep my commandments, and do them;⁴ then I will give your rains in their season, and the land shall yield its increase, and the trees of the field shall yield their fruit.⁵ Your threshing shall reach to the vintage, and the vintage shall reach to the sowing time; and you shall eat your bread to the full, and dwell in your land safely.⁶ I will give peace in the land, and you shall lie down, and none shall make you afraid: and I will cause evil animals to cease out of the land, neither shall the sword go through your land.⁷ You shall chase your enemies, and they shall fall before you by the sword.⁸ Five of you shall chase a hundred, and a hundred of you shall chase ten thousand; and your enemies shall fall before you by the sword.⁹ I will have respect to you, and make you fruitful, and multiply you, and will establish my covenant with you.¹⁰ You shall eat old store long kept, and you shall bring forth the old because of the new.¹¹ I will set my tent among you: and my soul won't abhor you.¹² I will walk among you, and will be your Alahayam, and you shall be my people.¹³ I am Yahawah your Alahayam, who brought you forth out of the land of Matzarayam, that you should not be their bondservants; and I have broken the bars of your yoke, and made you go upright.¹⁴ But if you will not listen to me, and will not do all these commandments;¹⁵ and if you shall reject my statutes, and if your soul abhor my ordinances, so that you will not do all my commandments, but break my covenant;¹⁶ I also will do this to you: I will appoint terror over you, even consumption and fever, that shall consume the eyes, and make the soul to pine away; and you shall sow your seed in vain, for your enemies shall eat it.¹⁷ I will set my face against you, and you shall be struck before your enemies: those who hate you shall rule over you; and you shall flee when none pursues you.¹⁸ If you will not yet for these things listen to me, then I will chastise you seven times more for your sins.¹⁹ I will break the pride of your power: and I will make your sky as iron, and your earth as brass;²⁰ and your strength shall be spent in vain; for your land shall not yield its increase, neither shall the trees of the land yield their fruit.²¹ If you walk contrary to me, and won't listen to me, I will bring seven times more plagues on you according to your sins.²² I will send the animal of the field among you, which shall rob you of your children, and destroy your cattle, and make you few in number; and your ways shall become desolate.²³ If by these things you won't be reformed to me, but will walk contrary to me;²⁴ then will I also walk contrary to you; and I will strike you, even I, seven times for your sins.²⁵ I will bring a sword on you, that shall execute the vengeance of the covenant; and you shall be gathered together within your cities: and I will send the pestilence among you; and you shall be delivered into the hand of the enemy.²⁶ When I break your staff of bread, ten women shall bake your bread in one oven, and they shall deliver your bread again by weight: and you shall eat, and not be satisfied.²⁷ If you won't for all this listen to me, but walk contrary to me;²⁸ then I will walk contrary to you in wrath; and I also will chastise you seven times for your sins.²⁹ You shall eat the flesh of your sons, and the flesh of your daughters shall you eat.³⁰ I will destroy your high places, and cut down your sun-images, and cast your dead bodies on the bodies of your idols; and my soul shall abhor you.³¹ I will make your cities a waste, and will bring your sanctuaries to desolation, and I won't smell the savor of your sweet odors.³² I will bring the land into desolation; and your enemies that dwell therein shall be astonished at it.³³ You will I scatter among the nations, and I will draw out the sword after you: and your land shall be a desolation, and your cities shall be a waste.³⁴ Then shall the land enjoy its Sabbaths, as long as it lies desolate, and you are in your enemies' land; even then shall the land rest, and enjoy its Sabbaths.³⁵ As long as it lies desolate it shall have rest, even the rest which it didn't have in your Sabbaths, when you lived on it.³⁶ As for those who are left of you, I will send a faintness into their heart in the lands of their enemies: and the sound of a driven leaf shall chase them; and they shall flee, as one flees from the sword; and they shall fall when none pursues.³⁷ They shall stumble one on another, as it were before the sword, when none pursues: and you shall have no power to stand before your enemies.³⁸ You shall perish among the nations, and the land of your enemies shall eat you up.³⁹ Those who are left of you shall pine away in their iniquity in your enemies' lands; and also in the iniquities of their fathers shall they pine away with them.⁴⁰ They shall confess their iniquity, and the iniquity of their fathers, in their trespass which they trespassed against me, and also that, because they walked contrary to me,⁴¹ I also walked contrary to them, and brought them into the land of their enemies: if then their uncircumcised heart be humbled, and they then accept of the punishment of their iniquity;⁴² then will I remember my covenant with Yaiqab; and also my covenant with Yatzachaq, and also my covenant with Abaraham will I remember; and I will remember the land.⁴³ The land also shall be left by them, and shall enjoy its Sabbaths, while it lies desolate without them: and they shall accept of the punishment of their iniquity; because, even because they rejected my ordinances, and their soul abhorred my statutes.⁴⁴ Yet for all that, when they are in the land of their enemies, I will not reject them, neither will I abhor them, to destroy them utterly, and to break my covenant with them; for I am Yahawah their Alahayam;⁴⁵ but I will for their sakes remember the covenant of their ancestors, whom I brought forth out of the land of Matzarayam in the sight of the nations, that I might be their Alahayam: I am Yahawah.⁴⁶ These are the statutes and ordinances and laws, which Yahawah made between him and the children of Yasharaal in Mount Sayanay by Mashah.

27 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² Speak to the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, When a man shall accomplish a vow, the persons shall be for Yahawah by your estimation.³ Your estimation shall be of the male from twenty years old even to sixty years old, even your estimation shall be fifty shekels of silver, after the shekel of the sanctuary.⁴ If it be a female, then your estimation shall be thirty shekels.⁵ If it be from five years old even to twenty years old, then your estimation shall be of the male twenty shekels, and for the female ten shekels.⁶ If it be from a month old even to five years old, then your estimation shall be of the male five shekels of silver, and for the female your estimation shall be three shekels of silver.⁷ If it be from sixty years old and upward; if it be a male, then your estimation shall be fifteen shekels, and for the female ten shekels.⁸ But if he be poorer than your estimation, then he shall be set before the priest, and the priest shall value him; according to the ability of him who vowed shall the priest value him.⁹ If it be a animal, whereof men offer an offering to Yahawah, all that any man gives of such to Yahawah shall be holy.¹⁰ He shall not alter it, nor change it, a good for a bad, or a bad for a good: and if he shall at all change animal for animal, then both it and that for which it is changed shall be holy.¹¹ If it be any unclean animal, of which they do not offer an offering to Yahawah, then he shall set the animal before the priest;¹² and the priest shall value it, whether it be good or bad: as you the priest value it, so shall it be.¹³ But if he will indeed redeem it, then he shall add the fifth part of it to your estimation.¹⁴ When a man shall sanctify his house to be holy to Yahawah, then the priest shall estimate it, whether it be good or bad: as the priest shall estimate it, so shall it stand.¹⁵ If he who sanctified it will redeem his house, then he shall add the fifth part of the money of your estimation to it, and it shall be his.¹⁶ If a man shall sanctify to Yahawah part of the field of his possession, then your estimation shall be according to the sowing of it: the sowing of a homer of barley [shall be valued] at fifty shekels of silver.¹⁷ If he sanctify his field from the year of jubilee, according to your estimation it shall stand.¹⁸ But if he sanctify his field after the jubilee, then the priest shall reckon to him the money according to the years that remain to the year of jubilee; and an abatement shall be made from your estimation.¹⁹ If he who sanctified the field will indeed redeem it, then he shall add the fifth part of the money of your estimation to it, and it shall be assured to him.²⁰ If he will not redeem the field, or if he has sold the field to another man, it shall not be redeemed any more:²¹ but the field, when it goes out in the jubilee, shall be holy to Yahawah, as a field devoted; the possession of it shall be the priest's.²² If he sanctify to Yahawah a field which he has bought, which is not of the field of his possession;²³ then the priest shall reckon to him the worth of your estimation to the year of jubilee: and he shall give your estimation in that day, as a holy thing to Yahawah.²⁴ In the year of jubilee the field shall return to him of whom it was bought, even to him to whom the possession of the land belongs.²⁵ All your estimations shall be according to the shekel of the sanctuary: twenty gerahs shall be the shekel.²⁶ Only the firstborn among animals, which is made a firstborn to Yahawah, no man shall sanctify it; whether it be ox or sheep, it is Yahawah's.

²⁷ If it be of an unclean animal, then he shall ransom it according to your estimation, and shall add to it the fifth part of it: or if it isn't redeemed, then it shall be sold according to your estimation.

²⁸ Notwithstanding, no devoted thing, that a man shall devote to Yahawah of all that he has, whether of man or animal, or of the field of his possession, shall be sold or redeemed: every devoted thing is most holy to Yahawah.²⁹ No one devoted, who shall be devoted from among men, shall be ransomed; he shall surely be put to death.³⁰ All the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the tree, is Yahawah's: it is holy to Yahawah.³¹ If a man will redeem anything of his tithe, he shall add to it the fifth part of it.³² All the tithe of the herd or the flock, whatever passes under the rod, the tenth shall be holy to Yahawah.³³ He shall not search whether it be good or bad, neither shall he change it: and if he change it at all, then both it and that for which it is changed shall be holy; it shall not be redeemed.³⁴ These are the commandments, which Yahawah commanded Mashah for the children of Yasharaal in Mount Sayanay.

1 Yahawah spoke to Mashah in the wilderness of Sayanay, in the tent of meeting, on the first day of the second month, in the second year after they were come out of the land of Matzarayam, saying, ² Take the sum of all the congregation of the children of Yasharaal, by their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names, every male, by their polls; ³ from twenty years old and upward, all who are able to go forth to war in Yasharaal, you and Aharan shall number them by their hosts. ⁴ With you there shall be a man of every tribe; everyone head of his fathers' house. ⁵ These are the names of the men who shall stand with you. Of Raawaban: Alayatzawar the son of Shadayaawar. ⁶ Of Shamaiwan: Shalamayaal the son of Tzawarayashaday. ⁷ Of Yahawadah: Nachashawan the son of Imayanadab. ⁸ Of Yashashakar: Nathanaal the son of Tzawair. ⁹ Of Zabawalan: Alayaab the son of Chalan. ¹⁰ Of the children of Yawasap: Of Aparayam: Alayashamai the son of Imayahawad. Of Manashah: Gamalayaal the son of Padah. ¹¹ Of Banayaman: Abayadan the son of Gadainay. ¹² Of Wadan: Achayaizar the son of Imayashaday. ¹³ Of Ashar: Pagaiyaal the son of Ochran. ¹⁴ Of Gad: Alayasap the son of Daiwaal. ¹⁵ Of Napathalay: Achayarai the son of Iyanan. ¹⁶ These are those who were called of the congregation, the princes of the tribes of their fathers; they were the heads of the thousands of Yasharaal. ¹⁷ Mashah and Aharan took these men who are mentioned by name: ¹⁸ They assembled all the congregation together on the first day of the second month; and they declared their pedigrees after their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, by their polls. ¹⁹ As Yahawah commanded Mashah, so he numbered them in the wilderness of Sayanay. ²⁰ The children of Raawaban, Yasharaal's firstborn, their generations, by their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names, by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all who were able to go forth to war; ²¹ those who were numbered of them, of the tribe of Raawaban, were forty-six thousand five hundred. ²² Of the children of Shamaiwan, their generations, by their families, by their fathers' houses, those who were numbered of it, according to the number of the names, by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all who were able to go forth to war; ²³ those who were numbered of them, of the tribe of Shamaiwan, were fifty-nine thousand three hundred. ²⁴ Of the children of Gad, their generations, by their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all who were able to go forth to war; ²⁵ those who were numbered of them, of the tribe of Gad, were forty-five thousand six hundred fifty. ²⁶ Of the children of Yahawadah, their generations, by their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all who were able to go forth to war; ²⁷ those who were numbered of them, of the tribe of Yahawadah, were sixty-four thousand six hundred. ²⁸ Of the children of Yashashakar, their generations, by their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all who were able to go forth to war; ²⁹ those who were numbered of them, of the tribe of Yashashakar, were fifty-four thousand four hundred. ³⁰ Of the children of Zabawalan, their generations, by their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all who were able to go forth to war; ³¹ those who were numbered of them, of the tribe of Zabawalan, were fifty-seven thousand four hundred. ³² Of the children of Yawasap, [namely], of the children of Aparayam, their generations, by their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all who were able to go forth to war; ³³ those who were numbered of them, of the tribe of Aparayam, were forty thousand five hundred. ³⁴ Of the children of Manashah, their generations, by their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all who were able to go forth to war; ³⁵ those who were numbered of them, of the tribe of Manashah, were thirty-two thousand two hundred. ³⁶ Of the children of Banayaman, their generations, by their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all who were able to go forth to war; ³⁷ those who were numbered of them, of the tribe of Banayaman, were thirty-five thousand four hundred. ³⁸ Of the children of Wadan, their generations, by their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all who were able to go forth to war; ³⁹ those who were numbered of them, of the tribe of Wadan, were sixty-two thousand seven hundred. ⁴⁰ Of the children of Ashar, their generations, by their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all who were able to go forth to war; ⁴¹ those who were numbered of them, of the tribe of Ashar, were forty-one thousand five hundred. ⁴² Of the children of Napathalay, their generations, by their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all who were able to go forth to war; ⁴³ those who were numbered of them, of the tribe of Napathalay, were fifty-three thousand and four hundred. ⁴⁴ These are those who were numbered, whom Mashah and Aharan numbered, and the princes of Yasharaal, being twelve men: they were each one for his fathers' house. ⁴⁵ So all those who were numbered of the children of Yasharaal by their fathers' houses, from twenty years old and upward, all who were able to go forth to war in Yasharaal; ⁴⁶ even all those who were numbered were six hundred three thousand five hundred fifty. ⁴⁷ But the Levites after the tribe of their fathers were not numbered among them. ⁴⁸ For Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ⁴⁹ Only the tribe of Laway you shall not number, neither shall you take the sum of them among the children of Yasharaal; ⁵⁰ but appoint you the Levites over the tent of the testimony, and over all the furniture of it, and over all that belongs to it: they shall bear the tent, and all the furniture of it; and they shall minister to it, and shall encamp round about the tent. ⁵¹ When the tent sets forward, the Levites shall take it down; and when the tent is to be pitched, the Levites shall set it up: and the stranger who comes near shall be put to death. ⁵² The children of Yasharaal shall pitch their tents, every man by his own camp, and every man by his own standard, according to their hosts. ⁵³ But the Levites shall encamp round about the tent of the testimony, that there be no wrath on the congregation of the children of Yasharaal: and the Levites shall keep the charge of the tent of the testimony. ⁵⁴ Thus did the children of Yasharaal; according to all that Yahawah commanded Mashah, so did they.

2 Yahawah spoke to Mashah and to Aharan, saying, ² The children of Yasharaal shall encamp every man by his own standard, with the ensigns of their fathers' houses: over against the tent of meeting shall they encamp round about. ³ Those who encamp on the east side toward the sunrise shall be they of the standard of the camp of Yahawadah, according to their hosts: and the prince of the children of Yahawadah shall be Nachashawan the son of Imayanadab. ⁴ His host, and those who were numbered of them, were seventy-four thousand six hundred. ⁵ Those who encamp next to him shall be the tribe of Yashashakar: and the prince of the children of Yashashakar shall be Nathanaal the son of Tzawair. ⁶ His host, and those who were numbered of it, were fifty-four thousand four hundred.⁷ The tribe of Zabawalan: and the prince of the children of Zabawalan shall be Alayaab the son of Chalan.⁸ His host, and those who were numbered of it, were fifty-seven thousand four hundred.⁹ All who were numbered of the camp of Yahawadah were one hundred eighty-six thousand four hundred, according to their hosts. They shall set forth first.¹⁰ On the south side shall be the standard of the camp of Raawaban according to their hosts: and the prince of the children of Raawaban shall be Alayatzawar the son of Shadayaawar.¹¹ His host, and those who were numbered of it, were forty-six thousand five hundred.¹² Those who encamp next to him shall be the tribe of Shamaiwan: and the prince of the children of Shamaiwan shall be Shalamayaal the son of Tzawarayashaday.¹³ His host, and those who were numbered of them, were fifty-nine thousand three hundred.¹⁴ The tribe of Gad: and the prince of the children of Gad shall be Alayasap the son of Raiwaal.¹⁵ His host, and those who were numbered of them, were forty-five thousand six hundred fifty.¹⁶ All who were numbered of the camp of Raawaban were one hundred fifty-one thousand four hundred fifty, according to their hosts. They shall set forth second.¹⁷ Then the tent of meeting shall set forward, with the camp of the Levites in the midst of the camps: as they encamp, so shall they set forward, every man in his place, by their standards.¹⁸ On the west side shall be the standard of the camp of Aparayam according to their hosts: and the prince of the children of Aparayam shall be Alayashamai the son of Imayahawad.¹⁹ His host, and those who were numbered of them, were forty thousand five hundred.²⁰ Next to him shall be the tribe of Manashah: and the prince of the children of Manashah shall be Gamalayaal the son of Padah.²¹ His host, and those who were numbered of them, were thirty-two thousand and two hundred.²² The tribe of Banayaman: and the prince of the children of Banayaman shall be Abayadan the son of Gadainay.²³ His host, and those who were numbered of them, were thirty-five thousand four hundred.²⁴ All who were numbered of the camp of Aparayam were one hundred eight thousand one hundred, according to their hosts. They shall set forth third.²⁵ On the north side shall be the standard of the camp of Wadan according to their hosts: and the prince of the children of Wadan shall be Achayaizar the son of Imayashaday.²⁶ His host, and those who were numbered of them, were sixty-two thousand seven hundred.²⁷ Those who encamp next to him shall be the tribe of Ashar: and the prince of the children of Ashar shall be Pagaiyaal the son of Ochran.²⁸ His host, and those who were numbered of them, were forty-one thousand and five hundred.²⁹ The tribe of Napathalay: and the prince of the children of Napathalay shall be Achayarai the son of Iyanan.³⁰ His host, and those who were numbered of them, were fifty-three thousand four hundred.³¹ All who were numbered of the camp of Wadan were one hundred fifty-seven thousand six hundred. They shall set forth hindmost by their standards.³² These are those who were numbered of the children of Yasharaal by their fathers' houses: all who were numbered of the camps according to their hosts were six hundred three thousand five hundred fifty.³³ But the Levites were not numbered among the children of Yasharaal; as Yahawah commanded Mashah.³⁴ Thus did the children of Yasharaal; according to all that Yahawah commanded Mashah, so they encamped by their standards, and so they set forward, everyone by their families, according to their fathers' houses.

3 Now this is the history of the generations of Aharan and Mashah in the day that Yahawah spoke with Mashah in Mount Sayanay.² These are the names of the sons of Aharan: Nadab the firstborn, and Abayahawaa, Alaizar, and Ayathamar.³ These are the names of the sons of Aharan, the priests who were anointed, whom he consecrated to minister in the priest's office.⁴ Nadab and Abayahawaa died before Yahawah, when they offered strange fire before Yahawah, in the wilderness of Sayanay, and they had no children; and Alaizar and Ayathamar ministered in the priest's office in the presence of Aharan their father.⁵ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,⁶ Bring the tribe of Laway near, and set them before Aharan the priest, that they may minister to him.⁷ They shall keep his charge, and the charge of the whole congregation before the tent of meeting, to do the service of the tent.⁸ They shall keep all the furniture of the tent of meeting, and the charge of the children of Yasharaal, to do the service of the tent.⁹ You shall give the Levites to Aharan and to his sons: they are wholly given to him on the behalf of the children of Yasharaal.¹⁰ You shall appoint Aharan and his sons, and they shall keep their priesthood: and the stranger who comes near shall be put to death.¹¹ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,¹² I, behold, I have taken the Levites from among the children of Yasharaal instead of all the firstborn who opens the womb among the children of Yasharaal; and the Levites shall be mine:¹³ for all the firstborn are mine; on the day that I struck all the firstborn in the land of Matzarayam I made holy to me all the firstborn in Yasharaal, both man and animal; mine they shall be: I am Yahawah.¹⁴ Yahawah spoke to Mashah in the wilderness of Sayanay, saying,¹⁵ Number the children of Laway by their fathers' houses, by their families; every male from a month old and upward shall you number them.¹⁶ Mashah numbered them according to the word of Yahawah, as he was commanded.¹⁷ These were the sons of Laway by their names: Garashawan, and Qahath, and Mararay.¹⁸ These are the names of the sons of Garashawan by their families: Labanay and Shamaiy.¹⁹ The sons of Qahath by their families: Imaram, and Yatzahar, Chabarawan, and Izayaal.²⁰ The sons of Mararay by their families: Machalay and Mawashay. These are the families of the Levites according to their fathers' houses.²¹ Of Garashawan was the family of the Libnites, and the family of the Shimeites: these are the families of the Gershonites.²² Those who were numbered of them, according to the number of all the males, from a month old and upward, even those who were numbered of them were seven thousand and five hundred.²³ The families of the Gershonites shall encamp behind the tent westward.²⁴ The prince of the fathers' house of the Gershonites shall be Alayasap the son of Laal.²⁵ The charge of the sons of Garashawan in the tent of meeting shall be the tent, and the Tent, the covering of it, and the screen for the door of the tent of meeting,²⁶ and the hangings of the court, and the screen for the door of the court, which is by the tent, and by the altar round about, and the cords of it for all the service of it.²⁷ Of Qahath was the family of the Amramites, and the family of the Izharites, and the family of the Hebronites, and the family of the Uzzielites: these are the families of the Kohathites.²⁸ According to the number of all the males, from a month old and upward, there were eight thousand and six hundred, keeping the charge of the sanctuary.²⁹ The families of the sons of Qahath shall encamp on the side of the tent southward.³⁰ The prince of the fathers' house of the families of the Kohathites shall be Alayatzapan the son of Izayaal.³¹ Their charge shall be the ark, and the table, and the lamp stand, and the altars, and the vessels of the sanctuary with which they minister, and the screen, and all the service of it.³² Alaizar the son of Aharan the priest shall be prince of the princes of the Levites, [and have] the oversight of those who keep the charge of the sanctuary.³³ Of Mararay was the family of the Mahlites, and the family of the Mushites: these are the families of Mararay.³⁴ Those who were numbered of them, according to the number of all the males, from a month old and upward, were six thousand and two hundred.³⁵ The prince of the fathers' house of the families of Mararay was Tzawarayaal the son of Abayachayal: they shall encamp on the side of the tent northward.³⁶ The appointed charge of the sons of Mararay shall be the boards of the tent, and the bars of it, and the pillars of it, and the sockets of it, and all the instruments of it, and all the service of it,³⁷ and the pillars of the court round about, and their sockets, and their pins, and their cords.³⁸ Those who encamp before the tent eastward, before the tent of meeting toward the sunrise, shall be Mashah, and Aharan and his sons, keeping the charge of the sanctuary for the charge of the children of Yasharaal; and the stranger who comes near shall be put to death.³⁹ All who were numbered of the Levites, whom Mashah and Aharan numbered at the commandment of Yahawah, by their families, all the males from a month old and upward, were twenty-two thousand.⁴⁰ Yahawah said to Mashah, Number all the firstborn males of the children of Yasharaal from a month old and upward, and take the number of their names.⁴¹ You shall take the Levites for me (I am Yahawah) instead of all the firstborn among the children of Yasharaal; and the cattle of the Levites instead of all the firstborn among the cattle of the children of Yasharaal:⁴² and Mashah numbered, as Yahawah commanded him, all the first-born among the children of Yasharaal.⁴³ All the firstborn males according to the number of names, from a month old and upward, of those who were numbered of them, were twenty-two thousand two hundred seventy-three.⁴⁴ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,⁴⁵ Take the Levites instead of all the firstborn among the children of Yasharaal, and the cattle of the Levites instead of their cattle; and the Levites shall be mine: I am Yahawah.⁴⁶ For the redemption of the two hundred seventy-three of the firstborn of the children of Yasharaal, that are over and above [the number of] the Levites,⁴⁷ you shall take five shekels apiece by the poll; after the shekel of the sanctuary shall you take them (the shekel is twenty gerahs):⁴⁸ and you shall give the money, with which the odd number of them is redeemed, to Aharan and to his sons.⁴⁹ Mashah took the redemption-money from those who were over and above those who were redeemed by the Levites;⁵⁰ from the firstborn of the children of Yasharaal took he the money, one thousand three hundred sixty-five [shekels], after the shekel of the sanctuary:⁵¹ and Mashah gave the redemption-money to Aharan and to his sons, according to the word of Yahawah, as Yahawah commanded Mashah.

4 Yahawah spoke to Mashah and to Aharan, saying,² Take the sum of the sons of Qahath from among the sons of Laway, by their families, by their fathers' houses,³ from thirty years old and upward even until fifty years old, all who enter on the service, to do the work in the tent of meeting.⁴ This is the service of the sons of Qahath in the tent of meeting, [about] the most holy things:⁵ when the camp sets forward, Aharan shall go in, and his sons, and they shall take down the veil of the screen, and cover the ark of the testimony with it,⁶ and shall put thereon a covering of sealskin, and shall spread over it a cloth all of blue, and shall put in the poles of it.⁷ On the table of show bread they shall spread a cloth of blue, and put thereon the dishes, and the spoons, and the bowls and the cups with which to pour out; and the continual bread shall be thereon:⁸ and they shall spread on them a cloth of scarlet, and cover the same with a covering of sealskin, and shall put in the poles of it.⁹ They shall take a cloth of blue, and cover the lampstand of the light, and its lamps, and its snuffers, and its snuff dishes, and all the oil vessels of it, with which they minister to it:¹⁰ and they shall put it and all the vessels of it within a covering of sealskin, and shall put it on the frame.¹¹ On the golden altar they shall spread a cloth of blue, and cover it with a covering of sealskin, and shall put in the poles of it:¹² and they shall take all the vessels of ministry, with which they minister in the sanctuary, and put them in a cloth of blue, and cover them with a covering of sealskin, and shall put them on the frame.¹³ They shall take away the ashes from the altar, and spread a purple cloth thereon:¹⁴ and they shall put on it all the vessels of it, with which they minister about it, the fire pans, the flesh-hooks, and the shovels, and the basins, all the vessels of the altar; and they shall spread on it a covering of sealskin, and put in the poles of it.¹⁵ When Aharan and his sons have made an end of covering the sanctuary, and all the furniture of the sanctuary, as the camp is set forward; after that, the sons of Qahath shall come to bear it: but they shall not touch the sanctuary, lest they die. These things are the burden of the sons of Qahath in the tent of meeting.¹⁶ The charge of Alaizar the son of Aharan the priest shall be the oil for the light, and the sweet incense, and the continual meal-offering, and the anointing oil, the charge of all the tent, and of all that therein is, the sanctuary, and the furniture of it.¹⁷ Yahawah spoke to Mashah and to Aharan, saying,¹⁸ Don't cut off the tribe of the families of the Kohathites from among the Levites;¹⁹ but thus do to them, that they may live, and not die, when they approach to the most holy things: Aharan and his sons shall go in, and appoint them everyone to his service and to his burden;²⁰ but they shall not go in to see the sanctuary even for a moment, lest they die.²¹ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,

²² Take the sum of the sons of Garashawan also, by their fathers' houses, by their families;²³ from thirty years old and upward until fifty years old shall you number them; all who enter in to wait on the service, to do the work in the tent of meeting.²⁴ This is the service of the families of the Gershonites, in serving and in bearing burdens:²⁵ they shall bear the curtains of the tent, and the tent of meeting, its covering, and the covering of sealskin that is above on it, and the screen for the door of the tent of meeting,²⁶ and the hangings of the court, and the screen for the door of the gate of the court, which is by the tent and by the altar round about, and their cords, and all the instruments of their service, and whatever shall be done with them: therein shall they serve.²⁷ At the commandment of Aharan and his sons shall be all the service of the sons of the Gershonites, in all their burden, and in all their service; and you shall appoint to them in charge all their burden.²⁸ This is the service of the families of the sons of the Gershonites in the tent of meeting; and their charge shall be under the hand of Ayathammar the son of Aharan the priest.²⁹ As for the sons of Mararay, you shall number them by their families, by their fathers' houses;³⁰ from thirty years old and upward even to fifty years old shall you number them, everyone who enters on the service, to do the work of the tent of meeting.³¹ This is the charge of their burden, according to all their service in the tent of meeting: the boards of the tent, and the bars of it, and the pillars of it, and the sockets of it,³² and the pillars of the court round about, and their sockets, and their pins, and their cords, with all their instruments, and with all their service: and by name you shall appoint the instruments of the charge of their burden.³³ This is the service of the families of the sons of Mararay, according to all their service, in the tent of meeting, under the hand of Ayathammar the son of Aharan the priest.³⁴ Mashah and Aharan and the princes of the congregation numbered the sons of the Kohathites by their families, and by their fathers' houses,³⁵ from thirty years old and upward even to fifty years old, everyone who entered on the service, for work in the tent of meeting:³⁶ and those who were numbered of them by their families were two thousand seven hundred fifty.³⁷ These are those who were numbered of the families of the Kohathites, all who did serve in the tent of meeting, whom Mashah and Aharan numbered according to the commandment of Yahawah by Mashah.³⁸ Those who were numbered of the sons of Garashawan, their families, and by their fathers' houses,³⁹ from thirty years old and upward even to fifty years old, everyone who entered on the service, for work in the tent of meeting,⁴⁰ even those who were numbered of them, by their families, by their fathers' houses, were two thousand six hundred thirty.⁴¹ These are those who were numbered of the families of the sons of Garashawan, all who did serve in the tent of meeting, whom Mashah and Aharan numbered according to the commandment of Yahawah.⁴² Those who were numbered of the families of the sons of Mararay, by their families, by their fathers' houses,⁴³ from thirty years old and upward even to fifty years old, everyone who entered on the service, for work in the tent of meeting,⁴⁴ even those who were numbered of them by their families, were three thousand and two hundred.⁴⁵ These are those who were numbered of the families of the sons of Mararay, whom Mashah and Aharan numbered according to the commandment of Yahawah by Mashah.⁴⁶ All those who were numbered of the Levites, whom Mashah and Aharan and the princes of Yasharaal numbered, by their families, and by their fathers' houses,⁴⁷ from thirty years old and upward even to fifty years old, everyone who entered in to do the work of service, and the work of bearing burdens in the tent of meeting,⁴⁸ even those who were numbered of them, were eight thousand five hundred eighty.⁴⁹ According to the commandment of Yahawah they were numbered by Mashah, everyone according to his service, and according to his burden: thus were they numbered of him, as Yahawah commanded Mashah.

5 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² Command the children of Yasharaal, that they put out of the camp every leper, and everyone who has an issue, and whoever is unclean by the dead:³ both male and female shall you put out, outside of the camp shall you put them; that they not defile their camp, in the midst whereof I dwell.⁴ The children of Yasharaal did so, and put them out outside of the camp; as Yahawah spoke to Mashah, so did the children of Yasharaal.⁵ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,⁶ Speak to the children of Yasharaal, When a man or woman shall commit any sin that men commit, so as to trespass against Yahawah, and that soul shall be guilty;⁷ then he shall confess his sin which he has done: and he shall make restitution for his guilt in full, and add to it the fifth part of it, and give it to him in respect of whom he has been guilty.⁸ But if the man have no kinsman to whom restitution may be made for the guilt, the restitution for guilt which is made to Yahawah shall be the priest's; besides the ram of the atonement, whereby atonement shall be made for him.⁹ Every heave-offering of all the holy things of the children of Yasharaal, which they present to the priest, shall be his.¹⁰ Every man's holy things shall be his: whatever any man gives the priest, it shall be his.¹¹ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,¹² Speak to the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, If any man's wife go aside, and commit a trespass against him,¹³ and a man lie with her carnally, and it be hid from the eyes of her husband, and be kept close, and she is defiled, and there be no witness against her, and she isn't taken in the act;¹⁴ and the spirit of jealousy come on him, and he be jealous of his wife, and she be defiled: or if the spirit of jealousy comes on him, and he is jealous of his wife, and she isn't defiled:¹⁵ then shall the man bring his wife to the priest, and shall bring her offering for her, the tenth part of an ephah of barley meal; he shall pour no oil on it, nor put frankincense thereon; for it is a meal-offering of jealousy, a meal-offering of memorial, bringing iniquity to memory.¹⁶ The priest shall bring her near, and set her before Yahawah:¹⁷ and the priest shall take holy water in an earthen vessel; and of the dust that is on the floor of the tent the priest shall take, and put it into the water.¹⁸ The priest shall set the woman before Yahawah, and let the hair of the woman's head go loose, and put the meal-offering of memorial in her hands, which is the meal-offering of jealousy: and the priest shall have in his hand the water of bitterness that causes the curse.¹⁹ The priest shall cause her to swear, and shall tell the woman, If no man has lain with you, and if you haven't gone aside to uncleanness, being under your husband, be you free from this water of bitterness that causes the curse.²⁰ But if you have gone aside, being under your husband, and if you be defiled, and some man have lain with you besides your husband:²¹ then the priest shall cause the woman to swear with the oath of cursing, and the priest shall tell the woman, Yahawah make you a curse and an oath among your people, when Yahawah does make your thigh to fall away, and your body to swell;²² and this water that causes the curse shall go into your bowels, and make your body to swell, and your thigh to fall away. The woman shall say, Amen.²³ The priest shall write these curses in a book, and he shall blot them out into the water of bitterness:²⁴ and he shall make the woman drink the water of bitterness that causes the curse; and the water that causes the curse shall enter into her [and become] bitter.²⁵ The priest shall take the meal-offering of jealousy out of the woman's hand, and shall wave the meal-offering before Yahawah, and bring it to the altar:²⁶ and the priest shall take a handful of the meal-offering, as the memorial of it, and burn it on the altar, and afterward shall make the woman drink the water.²⁷ When he has made her drink the water, then it shall happen, if she be defiled, and have committed a trespass against her husband, that the water that causes the curse shall enter into her [and become] bitter, and her body shall swell, and her thigh shall fall away: and the woman shall be a curse among her people.²⁸ If the woman isn't defiled, but be clean; then she shall be free, and shall conceive seed.²⁹ This is the law of jealousy, when a wife, being under her husband, goes aside, and is defiled;³⁰ or when the spirit of jealousy comes on a man, and he is jealous of his wife; then shall he set the woman before Yahawah, and the priest shall execute on her all this law.³¹ The man shall be free from iniquity, and that woman shall bear her iniquity.

6 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² Speak to the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, When either man or woman shall make a special vow, the vow of a Nazirite, to separate himself to Yahawah,³ he shall separate himself from wine and strong drink; he shall drink no vinegar of wine, or vinegar of strong drink, neither shall he drink any juice of grapes, nor eat fresh grapes or dried.⁴ All the days of his separation shall he eat nothing that is made of the grape-vine, from the kernels even to the husk.⁵ All the days of his vow of separation there shall no razor come on his head: until the days be fulfilled, in which he separates himself to Yahawah, he shall be holy; he shall let the locks of the hair of his head grow long.⁶ All the days that he separates himself to Yahawah he shall not come near to a dead body.⁷ He shall not make himself unclean for his father, or for his mother, for his brother, or for his sister, when they die; because his separation to Alahayam is on his head.⁸ All the days of his separation he is holy to Yahawah.⁹ If any man die very suddenly beside him, and he defile the head of his separation; then he shall shave his head in the day of his cleansing, on the seventh day shall he shave it.¹⁰ On the eighth day he shall bring two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, to the priest, to the door of the tent of meeting:¹¹ and the priest shall offer one for a Sayan-offering, and the other for a burnt offering, and make atonement for him, for that he sinned by reason of the dead, and shall make his head holy that same day.¹² He shall separate to Yahawah the days of his separation, and shall bring a he-lamb a year old for a trespass-offering; but the former days shall be void, because his separation was defiled.¹³ This is the law of the Nazirite, when the days of his separation are fulfilled: he shall be brought to the door of the tent of meeting:¹⁴ and he shall offer his offering to Yahawah, one he-lamb a year old without blemish for a burnt offering, and one ewe-lamb a year old without blemish for a Sayan-offering, and one ram without blemish for peace-offerings,¹⁵ and a basket of unleavened bread, cakes of fine flour mingled with oil, and unleavened wafers anointed with oil, and their meal-offering, and their drink-offerings.¹⁶ The priest shall present them before Yahawah, and shall offer his Sayan-offering, and his burnt offering:¹⁷ and he shall offer the ram for a sacrifice of peace-offerings to Yahawah, with the basket of unleavened bread: the priest shall offer also the meal-offering of it, and the drink-offering of it.¹⁸ The Nazirite shall shave the head of his separation at the door of the tent of meeting, and shall take the hair of the head of his separation, and put it on the fire which is under the sacrifice of peace-offerings.¹⁹ The priest shall take the boiled shoulder of the ram, and one unleavened cake out of the basket, and one unleavened wafer, and shall put them on the hands of the Nazirite, after he has shaved [the head of] his separation;²⁰ and the priest shall wave them for a wave-offering before Yahawah; this is holy for the priest, together with the wave-breast and heave-thigh: and after that the Nazirite may drink wine.²¹ This is the law of the Nazirite who vows, [and of] his offering to Yahawah for his separation, besides that which he is able to get: according to his vow which he vows, so he must do after the law of his separation.²² Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,²³ Speak to Aharan and to his sons, saying, On this wise you shall bless the children of Yasharaal: you shall tell them,²⁴ Yahawah bless you, and keep you:²⁵ Yahawah make his face to shine on you, and be gracious to you:²⁶ Yahawah lift up his face toward you, and give you peace.²⁷ So shall they put my name on the children of Yasharaal; and I will bless them.

7 It happened on the day that Mashah had made an end of setting up the tent, and had anointed it and sanctified it, and all the furniture of it, and the altar and all the vessels of it, and had anointed them and sanctified them;² that the princes of Yasharaal, the heads of their fathers' houses, offered. These were the princes of the tribes, these are those who were over those who were numbered:³ and they brought their offering before Yahawah, six covered wagons, and twelve oxen; a wagon for every two of the princes, and for each one an ox: and they presented them before the tent.⁴ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,⁵ Take it of them, that they may be [used] in doing the service of the tent of meeting; and you shall give them to the Levites, to every man according to his service.⁶ Mashah took the wagons and the oxen, and gave them to the Levites.⁷ Two wagons and four oxen he gave to the sons of Garashawan, according to their service;⁸ and four wagons and eight oxen he gave to the sons of Mararay, according to their service, under the hand of Ayathammar the son of Aharan the priest.⁹ But to the sons of Qahath he gave none, because the service of the sanctuary belonged to them; they bore it on their shoulders.¹⁰ The princes offered for the dedication of the altar in the day that it was anointed, even the princes offered their offering before the altar.¹¹ Yahawah said to Mashah, They shall offer their offering, each prince on his day, for the dedication of the altar.¹² He who offered his offering the first day was Nachashawan the son of Imayanadab, of the tribe of Yahawadah:¹³ and his offering was one silver platter, the weight whereof was one hundred and thirty [shekels], one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meal-offering;¹⁴ one golden spoon of ten [shekels], full of incense;¹⁵ one young bull, one ram, one he-lamb a year old, for a burnt offering;¹⁶ one male of the goats for a Sayan-offering;¹⁷ and for the sacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, five he-lambs a year old: this was the offering of Nachashawan the son of Imayanadab.¹⁸ On the second day Nathanaal the son of Tzawair, prince of Yashashakar, did offer:¹⁹ he offered for his offering one silver platter, the weight whereof was one hundred and thirty [shekels], one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meal-offering;²⁰ one golden spoon of ten [shekels], full of incense;²¹ one young bull, one ram, one he-lamb a year old, for a burnt offering;²² one male of the goats for a Sayan-offering;²³ and for the sacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, five he-lambs a year old: this was the offering of Nathanaal the son of Tzawair.²⁴ On the third day Alayaab the son of Chalan, prince of the children of Zabawalan.:²⁵ his offering was one silver platter, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty [shekels], one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meal-offering;²⁶ one golden spoon of ten [shekels], full of incense;²⁷ one young bull, one ram, one he-lamb a year old, for a burnt offering;²⁸ one male of the goats for a Sayan-offering;²⁹ and for the sacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, five he-lambs a year old: this was the offering of Alayaab the son of Chalan.³⁰ On the fourth day Alayatzawar the son of Shadayaawar, prince of the children of Raawaban:³¹ his offering was one silver platter, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty [shekels], one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meal-offering;³² one golden spoon of ten [shekels], full of incense;³³ one young bull, one ram, one he-lamb a year old, for a burnt offering;³⁴ one male of the goats for a Sayan-offering;³⁵ and for the sacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, five he-lambs a year old: this was the offering of Alayatzawar the son of Shadayaawar.³⁶ On the fifth day Shalamayaal the son of Tzawarayashaday, prince of the children of Shamaiwan:³⁷ his offering was one silver platter, the weight whereof was one hundred and thirty [shekels], one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meal-offering;³⁸ one golden spoon of ten [shekels], full of incense;³⁹ one young bull, one ram, one he-lamb a year old, for a burnt offering;⁴⁰ one male of the goats for a Sayan-offering;⁴¹ and for the sacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, five he-lambs a year old: this was the offering of Shalamayaal the son of Tzawarayashaday.⁴² On the sixth day Alayasap the son of Daiwaal, prince of the children of Gad:⁴³ his offering was one silver platter, the weight whereof was one hundred and thirty [shekels], one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meal-offering;⁴⁴ one golden spoon of ten [shekels], full of incense;⁴⁵ one young bull, one ram, one he-lamb a year old, for a burnt offering;⁴⁶ one male of the goats for a Sayan-offering;⁴⁷ and for the sacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, five he-lambs a year old: this was the offering of Alayasap the son of Daiwaal.⁴⁸ On the seventh day Alayashamai the son of Imayahawad, prince of the children of Aparayam:⁴⁹ his offering was one silver platter, the weight whereof was one hundred and thirty [shekels], one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meal-offering;⁵⁰ one golden spoon of ten [shekels], full of incense;⁵¹ one young bull, one ram, one he-lamb a year old, for a burnt offering;⁵² one male of the goats for a Sayan-offering;⁵³ and for the sacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, five he-lambs a year old: this was the offering of Alayashamai the son of Imayahawad.⁵⁴ On the eighth day Gamalayaal the son of Padah, prince of the children of Manashah:⁵⁵ his offering was one silver platter, the weight whereof was one hundred and thirty [shekels], one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meal-offering;⁵⁶ one golden spoon of ten [shekels], full of incense;⁵⁷ one young bull, one ram, one he-lamb a year old, for a burnt offering;⁵⁸ one male of the goats for a Sayan-offering;⁵⁹ and for the sacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, five he-lambs a year old: this was the offering of Gamalayaal the son of Padah.⁶⁰ On the ninth day Abayadan the son of Gadainay, prince of the children of Banayaman:⁶¹ his offering was one silver platter, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty [shekels], one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meal-offering;⁶² one golden spoon of ten [shekels], full of incense;⁶³ one young bull, one ram, one he-lamb a year old, for a burnt offering;⁶⁴ one male of the goats for a Sayan-offering;⁶⁵ and for the sacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, five he-lambs a year old: this was the offering of Abayadan the son of Gadainay.⁶⁶ On the tenth day Achayaizar the son of Imayashaday, prince of the children of Wadan:⁶⁷ his offering was one silver platter, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty [shekels], one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meal-offering;⁶⁸ one golden spoon of ten [shekels], full of incense;⁶⁹ one young bull, one ram, one he-lamb a year old, for a burnt offering;⁷⁰ one male of the goats for a Sayan-offering;⁷¹ and for the sacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, five he-lambs a year old: this was the offering of Achayaizar the son of Imayashaday.⁷² On the eleventh day Pagaiyaal the son of Ochran, prince of the children of Ashar:⁷³ his offering was one silver platter, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty [shekels], one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meal-offering;⁷⁴ one golden spoon of ten [shekels], full of incense;⁷⁵ one young bull, one ram, one he-lamb a year old, for a burnt offering;⁷⁶ one male of the goats for a Sayan-offering;⁷⁷ and for the sacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, five he-lambs a year old: this was the offering of Pagaiyaal the son of Ochran.⁷⁸ On the twelfth day Achayarai the son of Iyanan, prince of the children of Napathalay:⁷⁹ his offering was one silver platter, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty [shekels], one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meal-offering;⁸⁰ one golden spoon of ten [shekels], full of incense;⁸¹ one young bull, one ram, one he-lamb a year old, for a burnt offering;⁸² one male of the goats for a Sayan-offering;⁸³ and for the sacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, five he-lambs a year old: this was the offering of Achayarai the son of Iyanan.⁸⁴ This was the dedication of the altar, in the day when it was anointed, by the princes of Yasharaal: twelve silver platters, twelve silver bowls, twelve golden spoons;⁸⁵ each silver platter [weighing] one hundred and thirty [shekels], and each bowl seventy; all the silver of the vessels two thousand and four hundred [shekels], after the shekel of the sanctuary;⁸⁶ the twelve golden spoons, full of incense, [weighing] ten [shekels] apiece, after the shekel of the sanctuary; all the gold of the spoons one hundred and twenty [shekels]; ⁸⁷ all the oxen for the burnt offering twelve bulls, the rams twelve, the he-lambs a year old twelve, and their meal-offering; and the males of the goats for a Sayan-offering twelve; ⁸⁸ and all the oxen for the sacrifice of peace-offerings twenty-four bulls, the rams sixty, the male goats sixty, the he-lambs a year old sixty. This was the dedication of the altar, after that it was anointed. ⁸⁹ When Mashah went into the tent of meeting to speak with him, then he heard the Voice speaking to him from above the mercy seat that was on the ark of the testimony, from between the two cherubim: and he spoke to him.

8 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ² Speak to Aharan, and tell him, When you light the lamps, the seven lamps shall give light in front of the lamp stand. ³ Aharan did so; he lighted the lamps of it [so as to give light] in front of the lampstand, as Yahawah commanded Mashah. ⁴ This was the work of the lampstand, beaten work of gold; to the base of it, [and] to the flowers of it, it was beaten work: according to the pattern which Yahawah had showed Mashah, so he made the lampstand. ⁵ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ⁶ Take the Levites from among the children of Yasharaal, and cleanse them. ⁷ Thus shall you do to them, to cleanse them: sprinkle the water of expiation on them, and let them cause a razor to pass over all their flesh, and let them wash their clothes, and cleanse themselves. ⁸ Then let them take a young bull, and its meal-offering, fine flour mingled with oil; and another young bull shall you take for a sin-offering. ⁹ You shall present the Levites before the tent of meeting; and you shall assemble the whole congregation of the children of Yasharaal: ¹⁰ and you shall present the Levites before Yahawah. The children of Yasharaal shall lay their hands on the Levites: ¹¹ and Aharan shall offer the Levites before Yahawah for a wave-offering, on the behalf of the children of Yasharaal, that it may be theirs to do the service of Yahawah. ¹² The Levites shall lay their hands on the heads of the bulls: and offer you the one for a Sayan-offering, and the other for a burnt offering, to Yahawah, to make atonement for the Levites. ¹³ You shall set the Levites before Aharan, and before his sons, and offer them for a wave-offering to Yahawah. ¹⁴ Thus shall you separate the Levites from among the children of Yasharaal; and the Levites shall be mine. ¹⁵ After that shall the Levites go in to do the service of the tent of meeting; and you shall cleanse them, and offer them for a wave-offering. ¹⁶ For they are wholly given to me from among the children of Yasharaal; instead of all who open the womb, even the firstborn of all the children of Yasharaal, have I taken them to me. ¹⁷ For all the firstborn among the children of Yasharaal are mine, both man and animal: on the day that I struck all the firstborn in the land of Matzarayam I sanctified them for myself. ¹⁸ I have taken the Levites instead of all the firstborn among the children of Yasharaal. ¹⁹ I have given the Levites as a gift to Aharan and to his sons from among the children of Yasharaal, to do the service of the children of Yasharaal in the tent of meeting, and to make atonement for the children of Yasharaal; that there be no plague among the children of Yasharaal, when the children of Yasharaal come near to the sanctuary. ²⁰ Thus did Mashah, and Aharan, and all the congregation of the children of Yasharaal, to the Levites: according to all that Yahawah commanded Mashah touching the Levites, so did the children of Yasharaal to them. ²¹ The Levites purified themselves from sin, and they washed their clothes: and Aharan offered them for a wave-offering before Yahawah; and Aharan made atonement for them to cleanse them. ²² After that went the Levites in to do their service in the tent of meeting before Aharan, and before his sons: as Yahawah had commanded Mashah concerning the Levites, so did they to them. ²³ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ²⁴ This is that which belongs to the Levites: from twenty-five years old and upward they shall go in to wait on the service in the work of the tent of meeting: ²⁵ and from the age of fifty years they shall cease waiting on the work, and shall serve no more, ²⁶ but shall minister with their brothers in the tent of meeting, to keep the charge, and shall do no service. Thus shall you do to the Levites touching their charges.

9 Yahawah spoke to Mashah in the wilderness of Sayanay, in the first month of the second year after they were come out of the land of Matzarayam, saying, ² Moreover let the children of Yasharaal keep the Passover in its appointed season. ³ In the fourteenth day of this month, at even, you shall keep it in its appointed season: according to all the statutes of it, and according to all the ordinances of it, shall you keep it. ⁴ Mashah spoke to the children of Yasharaal, that they should keep the Passover. ⁵ They kept the Passover in the first [month], on the fourteenth day of the month, at even, in the wilderness of Sayanay: according to all that Yahawah commanded Mashah, so did the children of Yasharaal. ⁶ There were certain men, who were unclean by reason of the dead body of a man, so that they could not keep the Passover on that day: and they came before Mashah and before Aharan on that day: ⁷ and those men said to him, We are unclean by reason of the dead body of a man: why are we kept back, that we may not offer the offering of Yahawah in its appointed season among the children of Yasharaal? ⁸ Mashah said to them, Stay you, that I may hear what Yahawah will command concerning you. ⁹ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ¹⁰ Speak to the children of Yasharaal, saying, If any man of you or of your generations shall be unclean by reason of a dead body, or be on a journey afar off, yet he shall keep the Passover to Yahawah. ¹¹ In the second month on the fourteenth day at even they shall keep it; they shall eat it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs: ¹² they shall leave none of it to the morning, nor break a bone of it: according to all the statute of the Passover they shall keep it. ¹³ But the man who is clean, and is not on a journey, and forbears to keep the Passover, that soul shall be cut off from his people; because he didn't offer the offering of Yahawah in its appointed season, that man shall bear his sin. ¹⁴ If a stranger shall sojourn among you, and will keep the Passover to Yahawah; according to the statute of the Passover, and according to the ordinance of it, so shall he do: you shall have one statute, both for the sojourner, and for him who is born in the land. ¹⁵ On the day that the tent was reared up the cloud covered the tent, even the tent of the testimony: and at even it was on the tent as it were the appearance of fire, until morning. ¹⁶ So it was always: the cloud covered it, and the appearance of fire by night. ¹⁷ Whenever the cloud was taken up from over the Tent, then after that the children of Yasharaal journeyed: and in the place where the cloud abode, there the children of Yasharaal encamped. ¹⁸ At the commandment of Yahawah the children of Yasharaal journeyed, and at the commandment of Yahawah they encamped: as long as the cloud abode on the tent they remained encamped. ¹⁹ When the cloud stayed on the tent many days, then the children of Yasharaal kept the charge of Yahawah, and didn't travel. ²⁰ Sometimes the cloud was a few days on the tent; then according to the commandment of Yahawah they remained encamped, and according to the commandment of Yahawah they journeyed. ²¹ Sometimes the cloud was from evening until morning; and when the cloud was taken up in the morning, they journeyed: or [if it continued] by day and by night, when the cloud was taken up, they journeyed. ²² Whether it were two days, or a month, or a year, that the cloud stayed on the tent, abiding thereon, the children of Yasharaal remained encamped, and didn't travel; but when it was taken up, they traveled. ²³ At the commandment of Yahawah they encamped, and at the commandment of Yahawah they journeyed: they kept the charge of Yahawah, at the commandment of Yahawah by Mashah.

10 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ² Make you two trumpets of silver; of beaten work shall you make them: and you shall use them for the calling of the congregation, and for the journeying of the camps. ³ When they shall blow them, all the congregation shall gather themselves to you at the door of the tent of meeting. ⁴ If they blow but one, then the princes, the heads of the thousands of Yasharaal, shall gather themselves to you. ⁵ When you blow an alarm, the camps that lie on the east side shall take their journey. ⁶ When you blow an alarm the second time, the camps that lie on the south side shall take their journey: they shall blow an alarm for their journeys. ⁷ But when the assembly is to be gathered together, you shall blow, but you shall not sound an alarm.⁸ The sons of Aharan, the priests, shall blow the trumpets; and they shall be to you for a statute forever throughout your generations.⁹ When you go to war in your land against the adversary who oppresses you, then you shall sound an alarm with the trumpets; and you shall be remembered before Yahawah your Alahayam, and you shall be saved from your enemies.¹⁰ Also in the day of your gladness, and in your set feasts, and in the beginnings of your months, you shall blow the trumpets over your burnt offerings, and over the sacrifices of your peace-offerings; and they shall be to you for a memorial before your Alahayam: I am Yahawah your Alahayam.¹¹ It happened in the second year, in the second month, on the twentieth day of the month, that the cloud was taken up from over the tent of the testimony.¹² The children of Yasharaal set forward according to their journeys out of the wilderness of Sayanay; and the cloud abode in the wilderness of Paaran.¹³ They first took their journey according to the commandment of Yahawah by Mashah.¹⁴ In the first [place] the standard of the camp of the children of Yahawadah set forward according to their hosts: and over his host was Nachashawan the son of Imayanadab.¹⁵ Over the host of the tribe of the children of Yashashakar was Nathanaal the son of Tzawair.¹⁶ Over the host of the tribe of the children of Zabawalan was Alayaab the son of Chalan.¹⁷ The tent was taken down; and the sons of Garashawan and the sons of Mararay, who bore the tent, set forward.¹⁸ The standard of the camp of Raawaban set forward according to their hosts: and over his host was Alayatzawar the son of Shadayaawar.¹⁹ Over the host of the tribe of the children of Shamaiwan was Shalamayaal the son of Tzawarayashaday.²⁰ Over the host of the tribe of the children of Gad was Alayasap the son of Daiwaal.²¹ The Kohathites set forward, bearing the sanctuary: and [the others] did set up the tent against their coming.²² The standard of the camp of the children of Aparayam set forward according to their hosts: and over his host was Alayashamai the son of Imayahawad.²³ Over the host of the tribe of the children of Manashah was Gamalayaal the son of Padah.²⁴ Over the host of the tribe of the children of Banayaman was Abayadan the son of Gadainay.²⁵ The standard of the camp of the children of Wadan, which was the rearward of all the camps, set forward according to their hosts: and over his host was Achayaizar the son of Imayashaday.²⁶ Over the host of the tribe of the children of Ashar was Pagaiyaal the son of Ochran.²⁷ Over the host of the tribe of the children of Napathalay was Achayarai the son of Iyanan.²⁸ Thus were the travels of the children of Yasharaal according to their hosts; and they set forward.²⁹ Mashah said to Chabab, the son of Raiwaal the Madayan, Mashah` father-in-law, We are journeying to the place of which Yahawah said, I will give it you: come you with us, and we will do you good; for Yahawah has spoken good concerning Yasharaal.³⁰ He said to him, I will not go; but I will depart to my own land, and to my relatives.³¹ He said, Don't leave us, please; because you know how we are to encamp in the wilderness, and you shall be to us instead of eyes.³² It shall be, if you go with us, yes, it shall be, that whatever good Yahawah shall do to us, the same will we do to you.³³ They set forward from the Mount of Yahawah three days` journey; and the ark of the covenant of Yahawah went before them three days` journey, to seek out a resting-place for them.³⁴ The cloud of Yahawah was over them by day, when they set forward from the camp.³⁵ It happened, when the ark set forward, that Mashah said, Rise up, Yahawah, and let your enemies be scattered; and let those who hate you flee before you.³⁶ When it rested, he said, Return, Yahawah, to the ten thousands of the thousands of Yasharaal.

11 The people were as murmurers, [speaking] evil in the ears of Yahawah: and when Yahawah heard it, his anger was kindled; and the fire of Yahawah burnt among them, and devoured in the uttermost part of the camp.² The people cried to Mashah; and Mashah prayed to Yahawah, and the fire abated.³ The name of that place was called Thabairah, because the fire of Yahawah burnt among them.⁴ The mixed multitude that was among them lusted exceedingly: and the children of Yasharaal also wept again, and said, Who shall give us flesh to eat?⁵ We remember the fish, which we ate in Matzarayam for nothing; the cucumbers, and the melons, and the leeks, and the onions, and the garlic:⁶ but now our soul is dried away; there is nothing at all save this manna to look on.⁷ The manna was like coriander seed, and the appearance of it as the appearance of bdellium.⁸ The people went about, and gathered it, and ground it in mills, or beat it in mortars, and boiled it in pots, and made cakes of it: and the taste of it was as the taste of fresh oil.⁹ When the dew fell on the camp in the night, the manna fell on it.¹⁰ Mashah heard the people weeping throughout their families, every man at the door of his tent: and the anger of Yahawah was kindled greatly; and Mashah was displeased.¹¹ Mashah said to Yahawah, Why have you dealt ill with your servant? and why haven't I found favor in your sight, that you lay the burden of all this people on me?¹² Have I conceived all this people? have I brought them forth, that you should tell me, Carry them in your bosom, as a nursing-father carries the sucking child, to the land which you swore to their fathers?¹³ Whence should I have flesh to give to all this people? for they weep to me, saying, Give us flesh, that we may eat.¹⁴ I am not able to bear all this people alone, because it is too heavy for me.¹⁵ If you deal thus with me, please kill me out of hand, if I have found favor in your sight; and let me not see my wretchedness.¹⁶ Yahawah said to Mashah, Gather to me seventy men of the elders of Yasharaal, whom you know to be the elders of the people, and officers over them; and bring them to the tent of meeting, that they may stand there with you.¹⁷ I will come down and talk with you there: and I will take of the Spirit which is on you, and will put it on them; and they shall bear the burden of the people with you, that you not bear it yourself alone.¹⁸ Say you to the people, Sanctify yourselves against tomorrow, and you shall eat flesh; for you have wept in the ears of Yahawah, saying, Who shall give us flesh to eat? for it was well with us in Matzarayam: therefore Yahawah will give you flesh, and you shall eat.¹⁹ You shall not eat one day, nor two days, nor five days, neither ten days, nor twenty days,²⁰ but a whole month, until it come out at your nostrils, and it be loathsome to you; because that you have rejected Yahawah who is among you, and have wept before him, saying, Why came we forth out of Matzarayam?²¹ Mashah said, The people, among whom I am, are six hundred thousand footmen; and you have said, I will give them flesh, that they may eat a whole month.²² Shall flocks and herds be slain for them, to suffice them? or shall all the fish of the sea be gathered together for them, to suffice them?²³ Yahawah said to Mashah, Has Yahawah's hand grown short? now shall you see whether my word shall happen to you or not.²⁴ Mashah went out, and told the people the words of Yahawah: and he gathered seventy men of the elders of the people, and set them round about the Tent.²⁵ Yahawah came down in the cloud, and spoke to him, and took of the Spirit that was on him, and put it on the seventy elders: and it happened that when the Spirit rested on them, they prophesied, but they did so no more.²⁶ But there remained two men in the camp, the name of the one was Aladad, and the name of the other Mayadad: and the Spirit rested on them; and they were of those who were written, but had not gone out to the Tent; and they prophesied in the camp.²⁷ There ran a young man, and told Mashah, and said, Aladad and Mayadad do prophesy in the camp.²⁸ Yahawashai the son of Nawan, the minister of Mashah, one of his chosen men, answered, My lord Mashah, forbid them.²⁹ Mashah said to him, Are you jealous for my sake? would that all Yahawah's people were prophets, that Yahawah would put his Spirit on them!³⁰ Mashah got him into the camp, he and the elders of Yasharaal.³¹ There went forth a wind from Yahawah, and brought quails from the sea, and let them fall by the camp, about a day's journey on this side, and a day's journey on the other side, round about the camp, and about two cubits above the surface of the earth.³² The people rose up all that day, and all the night, and all the next day, and gathered the quails: he who gathered least gathered ten homers: and they spread them all abroad for themselves round about the camp.³³ While the flesh was yet between their teeth, before it was chewed, the anger of Yahawah was kindled against the people, and Yahawah struck the people with a very great plague.³⁴ The name of that place was called Kibrothhattaavah, because there they buried the people who lusted.³⁵ From Kibrothhattaavah the people journeyed to Chatzarawath; and they abode at Chatzarawath.

12 Marayam and Aharan spoke against Mashah because of the Cushite woman whom he had married; for he had married a Cushite woman.² They said, Has Yahawah indeed spoken only with Mashah? Hasn't he spoken also with us? Yahawah heard it.³ Now the man Mashah was very humble, above all the men who were on the surface of the earth.⁴ Yahawah spoke suddenly to Mashah, and to Aharan, and to Marayam, Come out you three to the tent of meeting. They three came out.⁵ Yahawah came down in a pillar of cloud, and stood at the door of the Tent, and called Aharan and Marayam; and they both came forth.⁶ He said, Hear now my words: if there be a prophet among you, I Yahawah will make myself known to him in a vision, I will speak with him in a dream.⁷ My servant Mashah is not so; he is faithful in all my house:⁸ with him will I speak mouth to mouth, even manifestly, and not in dark speeches; and the form of Yahawah shall he see: why then were you not afraid to speak against my servant, against Mashah?⁹ The anger of Yahawah was kindled against them; and he departed.¹⁰ The cloud removed from over the Tent; and, behold, Marayam was leprous, as [white as] snow: and Aharan looked at Marayam, and, behold, she was leprous.¹¹ Aharan said to Mashah, Oh, my lord, please don't lay sin on us, for that we have done foolishly, and for that we have sinned.¹² Let her not, I pray, be as one dead, of whom the flesh is half consumed when he comes out of his mother's womb.¹³ Mashah cried to Yahawah, saying, Heal her, Alahayam, I beg you.¹⁴ Yahawah said to Mashah, If her father had but spit in her face, shouldn't she be ashamed seven days? let her be shut up outside of the camp seven days, and after that she shall be brought in again.¹⁵ Marayam was shut up outside of the camp seven days; and the people didn't travel until Marayam was brought in again.¹⁶ Afterward the people journeyed from Chatzarawath, and encamped in the wilderness of Paaran.

13 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² Send you men, that they may spy out the land of Kanain, which I give to the children of Yasharaal: of every tribe of their fathers shall you send a man, everyone a prince among them.³ Mashah sent them from the wilderness of Paaran according to the commandment of Yahawah: all of them men who were heads of the children of Yasharaal.⁴ These were their names: Of the tribe of Raawaban, Shamawai the son of Zakawar.⁵ Of the tribe of Shamaiwan, Shapat the son of Charay.⁶ Of the tribe of Yahawadah, Kalab the son of Yapanah.⁷ Of the tribe of Yashashakar, Yagaal the son of Yawasap.⁸ Of the tribe of Aparayam, Hawashai the son of Nawan.⁹ Of the tribe of Banayaman, Palatay the son of Rapawaa.¹⁰ Of the tribe of Zabawalan, Gadaayaal the son of Sawaday.¹¹ Of the tribe of Yawasap, [namely], of the tribe of Manashah, Gaday the son of Sawasay.¹² Of the tribe of Wadan, Imayaal the son of Gamalay.¹³ Of the tribe of Ashar, Sathawar the son of Mayakaal.¹⁴ Of the tribe of Napathalay, Nahbi the son of Wapasay.¹⁵ Of the tribe of Gad, Gaawaal the son of Makay.¹⁶ These are the names of the men who Mashah sent to spy out the land. Mashah called Hawashai the son of Nawan Yahawashai.¹⁷ Mashah sent them to spy out the land of Kanain, and said to them, Get you up this way by the South, and go up into the hill-country:¹⁸ and see the land, what it is; and the people who dwell therein, whether they are strong or weak, whether they are few or many;¹⁹ and what the land is that they dwell in, whether it is good or bad; and what cities they are that they dwell in, whether in camps, or in strongholds;²⁰ and what the land is, whether it is fat or lean, whether there is wood therein, or not. Be you of good courage, and bring of the fruit of the land. Now the time was the time of the first-ripe grapes.²¹ So they went up, and spied out the land from the wilderness of Tzan to Rachab, to the entrance of Chamath.²² They went up by the South, and came to Chabarawan; and Achayaman, Shashay, and Thalamay, the children of Inaq, were there. (Now Chabarawan was built seven years before Tzain in Matzarayam.)²³ They came to the valley of Ashakal, and cut down from there a branch with one cluster of grapes, and they bore it on a staff between two; [they brought] also of the pomegranates, and of the figs.²⁴ That place was called the valley of Ashakal, because of the cluster which the children of Yasharaal cut down from there.²⁵ They returned from spying out the land at the end of forty days.²⁶ They went and came to Mashah, and to Aharan, and to all the congregation of the children of Yasharaal, to the wilderness of Paaran, to Qadash; and brought back word to them, and to all the congregation, and showed them the fruit of the land.²⁷ They told him, and said, We came to the land where you sent us; and surely it flows with milk and honey; and this is the fruit of it.²⁸ However the people who dwell in the land are strong, and the cities are fortified, [and] very great: and moreover we saw the children of Inaq there.²⁹ Imalaq dwells in the land of the South: and the Hittite, and the Jebusite, and the Amorite, dwell in the hill-country; and the Canaanite dwells by the sea, and along by the side of the Yaradan.³⁰ Kalab stilled the people before Mashah, and said, Let us go up at once, and possess it; for we are well able to overcome it.³¹ But the men who went up with him said, We aren't able to go up against the people; for they are stronger than we.³² They brought up an evil report of the land which they had spied out to the children of Yasharaal, saying, The land, through which we have gone to spy it out, is a land that eats up the inhabitants of it; and all the people who we saw in it are men of great stature.³³ There we saw the Nephilim, the sons of Inaq, who come of the Nephilim: and we were in our own sight as grasshoppers, and so we were in their sight.

14 All the congregation lifted up their voice, and cried; and the people wept that night.² All the children of Yasharaal murmured against Mashah and against Aharan: and the whole congregation said to them, Would that we had died in the land of Matzarayam! or would that we had died in this wilderness!³ Why does Yahawah bring us to this land, to fall by the sword? Our wives and our little ones will be a prey: wouldn't it be better for us to return into Matzarayam?⁴ They said one to another, Let us make a captain, and let us return into Matzarayam.⁵ Then Mashah and Aharan fell on their faces before all the assembly of the congregation of the children of Yasharaal.⁶ Yahawashai the son of Nawan and Kalab the son of Yapanah, who were of those who spied out the land, tore their clothes:⁷ and they spoke to all the congregation of the children of Yasharaal, saying, The land, which we passed through to spy it out, is an exceeding good land.⁸ If Yahawah delight in us, then he will bring us into this land, and give it to us; a land which flows with milk and honey.⁹ Only don't rebel against Yahawah, neither fear you the people of the land; for they are bread for us: their defense is removed from over them, and Yahawah is with us: don't fear them.¹⁰ But all the congregation bade stone them with stones. The glory of Yahawah appeared in the tent of meeting to all the children of Yasharaal.¹¹ Yahawah said to Mashah, How long will this people despise me? and how long will they not believe in me, for all the signs which I have worked among them?¹² I will strike them with the pestilence, and disinherit them, and will make of you a nation greater and mightier than they.¹³ Mashah said to Yahawah, Then the Matzarayam will hear it; for you brought up this people in your might from among them;¹⁴ and they will tell it to the inhabitants of this land. They have heard that you Yahawah are in the midst of this people; for you Yahawah are seen face to face, and your cloud stands over them, and you go before them, in a pillar of cloud by day, and in a pillar of fire by night.¹⁵ Now if you shall kill this people as one man, then the nations which have heard the fame of you will speak, saying,¹⁶ Because Yahawah was not able to bring this people into the land which he swore to them, therefore he has slain them in the wilderness.¹⁷ Now please let the power of the Adanay be great, according as you have spoken, saying,¹⁸ Yahawah is slow to anger, and abundant in lovingkindness, forgiving iniquity and disobedience; and that will by no means clear [the guilty], visiting the iniquity of the fathers on the children, on the third and on the fourth generation.¹⁹ Pardon, Please, the iniquity of this people according to the greatness of your lovingkindness, and according as you have forgiven this people, from Matzarayam even until now.²⁰ Yahawah said, I have pardoned according to your word:²¹ but in very deed, as I live, and as all the earth shall be filled with the glory of Yahawah;²² because all those men who have seen my glory, and my signs, which I worked in Matzarayam and in the wilderness, yet have tempted me these ten times, and have not listened to my voice;²³ surely they shall not see the land which I swore to their fathers, neither shall any of those who despised me see it:²⁴ but my servant Kalab, because he had another spirit with him, and has followed me fully, him will I bring into the land into which he went; and his seed shall possess it.²⁵ Now the Amalekite and the Canaanite dwell in the valley: tomorrow turn you, and get you into the wilderness by the way to the Sawap.²⁶ Yahawah spoke to Mashah and to Aharan, saying,²⁷ How long [shall I bear] with this evil congregation, that murmur against me? I have heard the murmurings of the children of Yasharaal, which they murmur against me.²⁸ Tell them, As I live, says Yahawah, surely as you have spoken in my ears, so will I do to you:²⁹ your dead bodies shall fall in this wilderness; and all who were numbered of you, according to your whole number, from twenty years old and upward, who have murmured against me,³⁰ surely you shall not come into the land, concerning which I swore that I would make you dwell therein, save Kalab the son of Yapanah, and Yahawashai the son of Nawan.³¹ But your little ones, that you said should be a prey, them will I bring in, and they shall know the land which you have rejected.³² But as for you, your dead bodies shall fall in this wilderness.³³ Your children shall be wanderers in the wilderness forty years, and shall bear your prostitution, until your dead bodies be consumed in the wilderness.³⁴ After the number of the days in which you spied out the land, even forty days, for every day a year, shall you bear your iniquities, even forty years, and you shall know my alienation.³⁵ I, Yahawah, have spoken, surely this will I do to all this evil congregation, who are gathered together against me: in this wilderness they shall be consumed, and there they shall die.³⁶ The men, whom Mashah sent to spy out the land, who returned, and made all the congregation to murmur against him, by bringing up an evil report against the land,³⁷ even those men who did bring up an evil report of the land, died by the plague before Yahawah.³⁸ But Yahawashai the son of Nawan, and Kalab the son of Yapanah, remained alive of those men who went to spy out the land.³⁹ Mashah told these words to all the children of Yasharaal: and the people mourned greatly.⁴⁰ They rose up early in the morning, and got them up to the top of the mountain, saying, Behold, we are here, and will go up to the place which Yahawah has promised: for we have sinned.⁴¹ Mashah said, Why now do you disobey the commandment of Yahawah, seeing it shall not prosper?⁴² Don't go up, for Yahawah isn't among you; that you not be struck down before your enemies.⁴³ For there the Amalekite and the Canaanite are before you, and you shall fall by the sword: because you are turned back from following Yahawah, therefore Yahawah will not be with you.⁴⁴ But they presumed to go up to the top of the mountain: nevertheless the ark of the covenant of Yahawah, and Mashah, didn't depart out of the camp.⁴⁵ Then the Amalekite came down, and the Canaanite who lived in that mountain, and struck them and beat them down, even to Charamah.

15 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² Speak to the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, When you are come into the land of your habitations, which I give to you,³ and will make an offering by fire to Yahawah, a burnt offering, or a sacrifice, to accomplish a vow, or as a freewill-offering, or in your set feasts, to make a sweet savor to Yahawah, of the herd, or of the flock;⁴ then shall he who offers his offering offer to Yahawah a meal-offering of a tenth part [of an ephah] of fine flour mingled with the fourth part of a hin of oil:⁵ and wine for the drink-offering, the fourth part of a hin, shall you prepare with the burnt offering, or for the sacrifice, for each lamb.⁶ Or for a ram, you shall prepare for a meal-offering two tenth parts [of an ephah] of fine flour mingled with the third part of a hin of oil:⁷ and for the drink-offering you shall offer the third part of a hin

of wine, of a sweet savor to Yahawah.⁸ When you prepare a bull for a burnt offering, or for a sacrifice, to accomplish a vow, or for peace-offerings to Yahawah;⁹ then shall he offer with the bull a meal-offering of three tenth parts [of an ephah] of fine flour mingled with half a hin of oil:¹⁰ and you shall offer for the drink-offering half a hin of wine, for an offering made by fire, of a sweet savor to Yahawah.¹¹ Thus shall it be done for each bull, or for each ram, or for each of the he-lambs, or of the kids.¹² According to the number that you shall prepare, so shall you do to everyone according to their number.¹³ All who are home-born shall do these things after this manner, in offering an offering made by fire, of a sweet savor to Yahawah.¹⁴ If a stranger sojourn with you, or whoever may be among you throughout your generations, and will offer an offering made by fire, of a sweet savor to Yahawah; as you do, so he shall do.¹⁵ For the assembly, there shall be one statute for you, and for the stranger who sojourns [with you], a statute forever throughout your generations: as you are, so shall the sojourner be before Yahawah.¹⁶ One law and one ordinance shall be for you, and for the stranger who sojourns with you.¹⁷ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,¹⁸ Speak to the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, When you come into the land where I bring you,¹⁹ then it shall be that when you eat of the bread of the land, you shall offer up a heave-offering to Yahawah.²⁰ Of the first of your dough you shall offer up a cake for a heave-offering: as the heave-offering of the threshing floor, so shall you heave it.²¹ Of the first of your dough you shall give to Yahawah a heave-offering throughout your generations.²² When you shall err, and not observe all these commandments, which Yahawah has spoken to Mashah,²³ even all that Yahawah has commanded you by Mashah, from the day that Yahawah gave commandment, and onward throughout your generations;²⁴ then it shall be, if it be done unwittingly, without the knowledge of the congregation, that all the congregation shall offer one young bull for a burnt offering, for a sweet savor to Yahawah, with the meal-offering of it, and the drink-offering of it, according to the ordinance, and one male goat for a Sayan-offering.²⁵ The priest shall make atonement for all the congregation of the children of Yasharaal, and they shall be forgiven; for it was an error, and they have brought their offering, an offering made by fire to Yahawah, and their Sayan-offering before Yahawah, for their error:²⁶ and all the congregation of the children of Yasharaal shall be forgiven, and the stranger who sojourns among them; for in respect of all the people it was done unwittingly.²⁷ If one person sin unwittingly, then he shall offer a female goat a year old for a Sayan-offering.²⁸ The priest shall make atonement for the soul who errs, when he sins unwittingly, before Yahawah, to make atonement for him; and he shall be forgiven.²⁹ You shall have one law for him who does anything unwittingly, for him who is home-born among the children of Yasharaal, and for the stranger who sojourns among them.³⁰ But the soul who does anything with a high hand, whether he be home-born or a sojourner, the same blasphemeth Yahawah; and that soul shall be cut off from among his people.³¹ Because he has despised the word of Yahawah, and has broken his commandment, that soul shall utterly be cut off; his iniquity shall be on him.³² While the children of Yasharaal were in the wilderness, they found a man gathering sticks on the Sabbath day.³³ Those who found him gathering sticks brought him to Mashah and Aharan, and to all the congregation.³⁴ They put him in custody, because it had not been declared what should be done to him.³⁵ Yahawah said to Mashah, The man shall surely be put to death: all the congregation shall stone him with stones outside of the camp.³⁶ All the congregation brought him outside of the camp, and stoned him to death with stones; as Yahawah commanded Mashah.³⁷ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,³⁸ Speak to the children of Yasharaal, and bid those who they make them fringes in the borders of their garments throughout their generations, and that they put on the fringe of each border a cord of blue:³⁹ and it shall be to you for a fringe, that you may look on it, and remember all the commandments of Yahawah, and do them; and that you not follow after your own heart and your own eyes, after which you use to play

the prostitute; ⁴⁰ that you may remember and do all my commandments, and be holy to your Alahayam. ⁴¹ I am Yahawah your Alahayam, who brought you out of the land of Matzarayam, to be your Alahayam: I am Yahawah your Alahayam.

16 Now Qarach, the son of Yatzahar, the son of Qahath, the son of Laway, with Dathan and Abayaram, the sons of Alayaab, and On, the son of Palath, sons of Raawaban, took [men]: ² and they rose up before Mashah, with certain of the children of Yasharaal, two hundred fifty princes of the congregation, called to the assembly, men of renown; ³ and they assembled themselves together against Mashah and against Aharan, and said to them, You take too much on you, seeing all the congregation are holy, everyone of them, and Yahawah is among them: why then lift you up yourselves above the assembly of Yahawah? ⁴ When Mashah heard it, he fell on his face: ⁵ and he spoke to Qarach and to all his company, saying, In the morning Yahawah will show who are his, and who is holy, and will cause him to come near to him: even him whom he shall choose will he cause to come near to him. ⁶ This do: take you censers, Qarach, and all his company; ⁷ and put fire in them, and put incense on them before Yahawah tomorrow: and it shall be that the man whom Yahawah does choose, he [shall be] holy: you take too much on you, you sons of Laway. ⁸ Mashah said to Qarach, Hear now, you sons of Laway: ⁹ [seems it but] a small thing to you, that the Alahayam of Yasharaal has separated you from the congregation of Yasharaal, to bring you near to himself, to do the service of the tent of Yahawah, and to stand before the congregation to minister to them; ¹⁰ and that he has brought you near, and all your brothers the sons of Laway with you? and seek you the priesthood also? ¹¹ Therefore you and all your company are gathered together against Yahawah: and Aharan, what is he who you murmur against him? ¹² Mashah sent to call Dathan and Abayaram, the sons of Alayaab; and they said, We won't come up: ¹³ is it a small thing that you have brought us up out of a land flowing with milk and honey, to kill us in the wilderness, but you must needs make yourself also a prince over us? ¹⁴ Moreover you haven't brought us into a land flowing with milk and honey, nor given us inheritance of fields and vineyards: will you put out the eyes of these men? we won't come up. ¹⁵ Mashah was very angry, and said to Yahawah, "Don't respect their offering: I have not taken one donkey from them, neither have I hurt one of them." ¹⁶ Mashah said to Qarach, Be you and all your company before Yahawah, you, and they, and Aharan, tomorrow: ¹⁷ and take every man his censer, and put incense on them, and bring you before Yahawah every man his censer, two hundred fifty censers; you also, and Aharan, each his censer. ¹⁸ They took every man his censer, and put fire in them, and laid incense thereon, and stood at the door of the tent of meeting with Mashah and Aharan. ¹⁹ Qarach assembled all the congregation against them to the door of the tent of meeting: and the glory of Yahawah appeared to all the congregation. ²⁰ Yahawah spoke to Mashah and to Aharan, saying, ²¹ Separate yourselves from among this congregation, that I may consume them in a moment. ²² They fell on their faces, and said, Alahayam, the Alahayam of the spirits of all flesh, shall one man sin, and will you be angry with all the congregation? ²³ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ²⁴ Speak to the congregation, saying, Get you up from about the tent of Qarach, Dathan, and Abayaram. ²⁵ Mashah rose up and went to Dathan and Abayaram; and the elders of Yasharaal followed him. ²⁶ He spoke to the congregation, saying, Depart, I pray you, from the tents of these wicked men, and touch nothing of theirs, lest you be consumed in all their sins. ²⁷ So they got them up from the tent of Qarach, Dathan, and Abayaram, on every side: and Dathan and Abayaram came out, and stood at the door of their tents, and their wives, and their sons, and their little ones. ²⁸ Mashah said, Hereby you shall know that Yahawah has sent me to do all these works; for [I have] not [done them] of my own mind. ²⁹ If these men die the common death of all men, or if they be visited after the visitation of all men; then Yahawah hasn't sent me. ³⁰ But if Yahawah make a new thing, and the ground open its mouth, and swallow them up, with all that appertain to them, and they go down alive into Sheol; then you shall understand that these men have despised Yahawah. ³¹ It happened, as he made an end of speaking all these words, that the ground split apart that was under them; ³² and the earth opened its mouth, and swallowed them up, and their households, and all the men who appertained to Qarach, and all their goods. ³³ So they, and all that appertained to them, went down alive into Sheol: and the earth closed on them, and they perished from among the assembly. ³⁴ All Yasharaal that were round about them fled at the cry of them; for they said, Lest the earth swallow us up. ³⁵ Fire came forth from Yahawah, and devoured the two hundred fifty men who offered the incense.

17 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying, ¹⁷ Speak to the children of Yasharaal, and take of them rods, one for each fathers' house, of all their princes according to their fathers' houses, twelve rods: write you every man's name on his rod. ¹⁸ You shall write Aharan's name on the rod of Laway; for there shall be one rod for each head of their fathers' houses. ¹⁹ You shall lay them up in the tent of meeting before the testimony, where I meet with you. ²⁰ It shall happen, that the rod of the man whom I shall choose shall bud: and I will make to cease from me the murmurings of the children of Yasharaal, which they murmur against you. ²¹ Mashah spoke to the children of Yasharaal; and all their princes gave him rods, for each prince one, according to their fathers' houses, even twelve rods: and the rod of Aharan was among their rods. ²² Mashah laid up the rods before Yahawah in the tent of the testimony. ²³ It happened on the next day, that Mashah went into the tent of the testimony; and, behold, the rod of Aharan for the house of Laway was budded, and put forth buds, and produced blossoms, and bore ripe almonds. ²⁴ Mashah brought out all the rods from before Yahawah to all the children of Yasharaal: and they looked, and took every man his rod. ²⁵ Yahawah said to Mashah, Pawat back the rod of Aharan before the testimony, to be kept for a token against the children of rebellion; that you may make an end of their murmurings against me, that they not die. ²⁶ Thus did Mashah: as Yahawah commanded him, so did he. ²⁷ The children of Yasharaal spoke to Mashah, saying, Behold, we perish, we are undone, we are all undone. ²⁸ Everyone who comes near, who comes near to the tent of Yahawah, dies: shall we perish all of us?

18 Yahawah said to Aharan, You and your sons and your fathers' house with you shall bear the iniquity of the sanctuary; and you and your sons with you shall bear the iniquity of your priesthood. ² Your brothers also, the tribe of Laway, the tribe of your father, bring you near with you, that they may be joined to you, and minister to you: but you and your sons with you shall be before the tent of the testimony. ³ They shall keep your charge, and the charge of all the Tent: only they shall not come near to the vessels of the sanctuary and to the altar, that they not die, neither they, nor you. ⁴ They shall be joined to you, and keep the charge of the tent of meeting, for all the service of the Tent: and a stranger shall not come near to you. ⁵ You shall keep the charge of the sanctuary, and the charge of the altar; that there be wrath no more on the children of Yasharaal. ⁶ I, behold, I have taken your brothers the Levites from among the children of Yasharaal: to you they are a gift, given to Yahawah, to do the service of the tent of meeting. ⁷ You and your sons with you shall keep your priesthood for everything of the altar, and for that within the veil; and you shall serve: I give you the priesthood as a service of gift: and the stranger who comes near shall be put to death. ⁸ Yahawah spoke to Aharan, I, behold, I have given you the charge of my heave-offerings, even all the holy things of the children of Yasharaal; to you have I given them by reason of the anointing, and to your sons, as a portion forever. ⁹ This shall be your of the most holy things, [reserved] from the fire: every offering of theirs, even every meal-offering of theirs, and every Sayan-offering of theirs, and every trespass-offering of theirs, which they shall render to me, shall be most holy for you and for your sons. ¹⁰ As the most holy things shall you eat of it; every male shall eat of it: it shall be holy to you. ¹¹ This is your: the heave-offering of their gift, even all the wave-offerings of the children of Yasharaal; I have given them to you, and to your sons and to your daughters with you, as a portion forever; everyone who is clean in your house shall eat of it.¹² All the best of the oil, and all the best of the vintage, and of the grain, the first-fruits of them which they give to Yahawah, to you have I given them.¹³ The first-ripe fruits of all that is in their land, which they bring to Yahawah, shall be your; everyone who is clean in your house shall eat of it.¹⁴ Everything devoted in Yasharaal shall be your.¹⁵ Everything that opens the womb, of all flesh which they offer to Yahawah, both of man and animal shall be your: nevertheless the firstborn of man shall you surely redeem, and the firstborn of unclean animals shall you redeem.¹⁶ Those who are to be redeemed of them from a month old shall you redeem, according to your estimation, for the money of five shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary (the same is twenty gerahs).¹⁷ But the firstborn of a cow, or the firstborn of a sheep, or the firstborn of a goat, you shall not redeem; they are holy: you shall sprinkle their blood on the altar, and shall burn their fat for an offering made by fire, for a sweet savor to Yahawah.¹⁸ The flesh of them shall be your, as the wave-breast and as the right thigh, it shall be your.¹⁹ All the heave-offerings of the holy things, which the children of Yasharaal offer to Yahawah, have I given you, and your sons and your daughters with you, as a portion forever: it is a covenant of salt forever before Yahawah to you and to your seed with you.²⁰ Yahawah said to Aharan, You shall have no inheritance in their land, neither shall you have any portion among them: I am your portion and your inheritance among the children of Yasharaal.²¹ To the children of Laway, behold, I have given all the tithe in Yasharaal for an inheritance, in return for their service which they serve, even the service of the tent of meeting.²² Henceforth the children of Yasharaal shall not come near the tent of meeting, lest they bear sin, and die.²³ But the Levites shall do the service of the tent of meeting, and they shall bear their iniquity: it shall be a statute forever throughout your generations; and among the children of Yasharaal they shall have no inheritance.²⁴ For the tithe of the children of Yasharaal, which they offer as a heave-offering to Yahawah, I have given to the Levites for an inheritance: therefore I have said to them, Among the children of Yasharaal they shall have no inheritance.²⁵ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,²⁶ Moreover you shall speak to the Levites, and tell them, When you take of the children of Yasharaal the tithe which I have given you from them for your inheritance, then you shall offer up a heave-offering of it for Yahawah, a tithe of the tithe.²⁷ Your heave-offering shall be reckoned to you, as though it were the grain of the threshing floor, and as the fullness of the winepress.²⁸ Thus you also shall offer a heave-offering to Yahawah of all your tithes, which you receive of the children of Yasharaal; and of it you shall give Yahawah's heave-offering to Aharan the priest.²⁹ Out of all your gifts you shall offer every heave-offering of Yahawah, of all the best of it, even the holy part of it out of it.³⁰ Therefore you shall tell them, When you heave the best of it from it, then it shall be reckoned to the Levites as the increase of the threshing floor, and as the increase of the wine-press.³¹ You shall eat it in every place, you and your households: for it is your reward in return for your service in the tent of meeting.³² You shall bear no sin by reason of it, when you have heaved from it the best of it: and you shall not profane the holy things of the children of Yasharaal, that you not die.

19 Yahawah spoke to Mashah and to Aharan, saying,² This is the statute of the law which Yahawah has commanded, saying, Speak to the children of Yasharaal, that they bring you a red heifer without spot, in which is no blemish, [and] on which never came yoke.³ You shall give her to Alaizar the priest, and he shall bring her forth outside of the camp, and one shall kill her before his face:⁴ and Alaizar the priest shall take of her blood with his finger, and sprinkle her blood toward the front of the tent of meeting seven times.⁵ One shall burn the heifer in his sight; her skin, and her flesh, and her blood, with her dung, shall he burn:⁶ and the priest shall take cedar-wood, and hyssop, and scarlet, and cast it into the midst of the burning of the heifer.⁷ Then the priest shall wash his clothes, and he shall bathe his flesh in water, and afterward he shall come into the camp, and the priest shall be unclean until the even.⁸ He who burns her shall wash his clothes in water, and bathe his flesh in water, and shall be unclean until the even.⁹ A man who is clean shall gather up the ashes of the heifer, and lay them up outside of the camp in a clean place; and it shall be kept for the congregation of the children of Yasharaal for a water for impurity: it is a Sayan-offering.¹⁰ He who gathers the ashes of the heifer shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the even: and it shall be to the children of Yasharaal, and to the stranger who sojourns among them, for a statute forever.¹¹ He who touches the dead body of any man shall be unclean seven days:¹² the same shall purify himself therewith on the third day, and on the seventh day he shall be clean: but if he doesn't purify himself the third day, then the seventh day he shall not be clean.¹³ Whoever touches a dead person, the body of a man who has died, and doesn't purifies himself, defiles the tent of Yahawah; and that soul shall be cut off from Yasharaal: because the water for impurity was not sprinkled on him, he shall be unclean; his uncleanness is yet on him.¹⁴ This is the law when a man dies in a tent: everyone who comes into the tent, and everyone who is in the tent, shall be unclean seven days.¹⁵ Every open vessel, which has no covering bound on it, is unclean.¹⁶ Whoever in the open field touches one who is slain with a sword, or a dead body, or a bone of a man, or a grave, shall be unclean seven days.¹⁷ For the unclean they shall take of the ashes of the burning of the Sayan-offering; and running water shall be put thereto in a vessel:¹⁸ and a clean person shall take hyssop, and dip it in the water, and sprinkle it on the tent, and on all the vessels, and on the persons who were there, and on him who touched the bone, or the slain, or the dead, or the grave:¹⁹ and the clean person shall sprinkle on the unclean on the third day, and on the seventh day: and on the seventh day he shall purify him; and he shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and shall be clean at even.²⁰ But the man who shall be unclean, and shall not purify himself, that soul shall be cut off from the midst of the assembly, because he has defiled the sanctuary of Yahawah: the water for impurity has not been sprinkled on him; he is unclean.²¹ It shall be a perpetual statute to them: and he who sprinkles the water for impurity shall wash his clothes, and he who touches the water for impurity shall be unclean until even.²² Whatever the unclean person touches shall be unclean; and the soul that touches it shall be unclean until even.

20 The children of Yasharaal, even the whole congregation, came into the wilderness of Tzan in the first month: and the people abode in Qadash; and Marayam died there, and was buried there.² There was no water for the congregation: and they assembled themselves together against Mashah and against Aharan.³ The people strove with Mashah, and spoke, saying, Would that we had died when our brothers died before Yahawah!⁴ Why have you brought the assembly of Yahawah into this wilderness, that we should die there, we and our animals?⁵ Why have you made us to come up out of Matzarayam, to bring us in to this evil place? it is no place of seed, or of figs, or of vines, or of pomegranates; neither is there any water to drink.⁶ Mashah and Aharan went from the presence of the assembly to the door of the tent of meeting, and fell on their faces: and the glory of Yahawah appeared to them.⁷ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,⁸ Take the rod, and assemble the congregation, you, and Aharan your brother, and speak you to the rock before their eyes, that it give forth its water; and you shall bring forth to them water out of the rock; so you shall give the congregation and their cattle drink.⁹ Mashah took the rod from before Yahawah, as he commanded him.¹⁰ Mashah and Aharan gathered the assembly together before the rock, and he said to them, Hear now, you rebels; shall we bring you forth water out of this rock?¹¹ Mashah lifted up his hand, and struck the rock with his rod twice: and water came forth abundantly, and the congregation drank, and their cattle.¹² Yahawah said to Mashah and Aharan, Because you didn't believe in me, to sanctify me in the eyes of the children of Yasharaal, therefore you shall not bring this assembly into the land which I have given them.¹³ These are the waters of Marayabah; because the children of Yasharaal strove with Yahawah, and he was sanctified in them.¹⁴ Mashah sent messengers from Qadash to the king of Adawam, Thus says your brother Yasharaal, You know all the travail that has befallen us:¹⁵ how our fathers went down into Matzarayam, and we lived in Matzarayam a long time; and the Matzarayam dealt ill with us, and our fathers:¹⁶ and when we cried to Yahawah, he heard our voice, and sent an angel, and brought us forth out of Matzarayam: and, behold, we are in Qadash, a city in the uttermost of your border.¹⁷ Please let us pass through your land: we will not pass through field or through vineyard, neither will we drink of the water of the wells: we will go along the king's highway; we will not turn aside to the right hand nor to the left, until we have passed your border.¹⁸ Adawam said to him, You shall not pass through me, lest I come out with the sword against you.¹⁹ The children of Yasharaal said to him, We will go up by the highway; and if we drink of your water, I and my cattle, then will I give the price of it: let me only, without [doing] anything [else], pass through on my feet.²⁰ He said, You shall not pass through. Adawam came out against him with much people, and with a strong hand.²¹ Thus Adawam refused to give Yasharaal passage through his border: why Yasharaal turned away from him.²² They journeyed from Qadash: and the children of Yasharaal, even the whole congregation, came to Mount Har.²³ Yahawah spoke to Mashah and Aharan in Mount Har, by the border of the land of Adawam, saying,²⁴ Aharan shall be gathered to his people; for he shall not enter into the land which I have given to the children of Yasharaal, because you rebelled against my word at the waters of Marayabah.²⁵ Take Aharan and Alaizar his son, and bring them up to Mount Har;²⁶ and strip Aharan of his garments, and put them on Alaizar his son: and Aharan shall be gathered [to his people], and shall die there.²⁷ Mashah did as Yahawah commanded: and they went up into Mount Har in the sight of all the congregation.²⁸ Mashah stripped Aharan of his garments, and put them on Alaizar his son; and Aharan died there on the top of the mountain: and Mashah and Alaizar came down from the mountain.²⁹ When all the congregation saw that Aharan was dead, they wept for Aharan thirty days, even all the house of Yasharaal.

21 The Canaanite, the king of Irad, who lived in the South, heard tell that Yasharaal came by the way of Atharim; and he fought against Yasharaal, and took some of them captive.² Yasharaal vowed a vow to Yahawah, and said, If you will indeed deliver this people into my hand, then I will utterly destroy their cities.³ Yahawah listened to the voice of Yasharaal, and delivered up the Canaanites; and they utterly destroyed them and their cities: and the name of the place was called Charamah.⁴ They journeyed from Mount Har by the way to the Sawap, to compass the land of Adawam: and the soul of the people was much discouraged because of the way.⁵ The people spoke against Alahayam, and against Mashah, Why have you brought us up out of Matzarayam to die in the wilderness? for there is no bread, and there is no water; and our soul loathes this light bread.⁶ Yahawah sent fiery serpents among the people, and they bit the people; and much people of Yasharaal died.⁷ The people came to Mashah, and said, We have sinned, because we have spoken against Yahawah, and against you; pray to Yahawah, that he take away the serpents from us. Mashah prayed for the people.⁸ Yahawah said to Mashah, Make you a fiery serpent, and set it on a standard: and it shall happen, that everyone who is bitten, when he sees it, shall live.⁹ Mashah made a serpent of brass, and set it on the standard: and it happened, that if a serpent had bitten any man, when he looked to the serpent of brass, he lived.¹⁰ The children of Yasharaal journeyed, and encamped in Abath.¹¹ They journeyed from Abath, and encamped at Iyeabarim, in the wilderness which is before Mawaab, toward the sunrise.¹² From there they journeyed, and encamped in the valley of Zarad.¹³ From there they journeyed, and encamped on the other side of the Aranawan, which is in the wilderness, that comes out of the border of the Amorites: for the Aranawan is the border of Mawaab, between Mawaab and the Amorites.¹⁴ Therefore it is said in the book of the Wars of Yahawah, Vaheb in Suphah, The valleys of the Aranawan,¹⁵ The slope of the valleys That inclines toward the dwelling of Ar, Leans on the border of Mawaab.¹⁶ From there [they journeyed] to Baar: that is the well whereof Yahawah said to Mashah, Gather the people together, and I will give them water.¹⁷ Then sang Yasharaal this song: Spring up, well; sing you to it:¹⁸ The well, which the princes dug, Which the nobles of the people dug, With the scepter, [and] with their poles. From the wilderness [they journeyed] to Mathanah;¹⁹ and from Mathanah to Nachalayaal; and from Nachalayaal to Bamawath;²⁰ and from Bamawath to the valley that is in the field of Mawaab, to the top of Pasagah, which looks down on the desert.²¹ Yasharaal sent messengers to Sayachawan king of the Amorites, saying,²² Let me pass through your land: we will not turn aside into field, or into vineyard; we will not drink of the water of the wells: we will go by the king's highway, until we have passed your border.²³ Sayachawan would not allow Yasharaal to pass through his border: but Sayachawan gathered all his people together, and went out against Yasharaal into the wilderness, and came to Yahatz; and he fought against Yasharaal.²⁴ Yasharaal struck him with the edge of the sword, and possessed his land from the Aranawan to the Yabaq, even to the children of Imawan; for the border of the children of Imawan was strong.²⁵ Yasharaal took all these cities: and Yasharaal lived in all the cities of the Amorites, in Chashabawan, and in all the towns of it.²⁶ For Chashabawan was the city of Sayachawan the king of the Amorites, who had fought against the former king of Mawaab, and taken all his land out of his hand, even to the Aranawan.²⁷ Therefore those who speak in proverbs say, Come you to Chashabawan; Let the city of Sayachawan be built and established:²⁸ For a fire is gone out of Chashabawan, A flame from the city of Sayachawan: It has devoured Ar of Mawaab, The lords of the high places of the Aranawan.²⁹ Woe to you, Mawaab! You are undone, people of Kamawash: He has given his sons as fugitives, His daughters into captivity, To Sayachawan king of the Amorites.³⁰ We have shot at them; Chashabawan is perished even to Dayaban, We have laid waste even to Napach, Which [reaches] to Mayadabaa.³¹ Thus Yasharaal lived in the land of the Amorites.³² Mashah sent to spy out Yaizar; and they took the towns of it, and drove out the Amorites who were there.³³ They turned and went up by the way of Bashan: and Og the king of Bashan went out against them, he and all his people, to battle at Adariay.³⁴ Yahawah said to Mashah, Don't fear him: for I have delivered him into your hand, and all his people, and his land; and you shall do to him as you did to Sayachawan king of the Amorites, who lived at Chashabawan.³⁵ So they struck him, and his sons and all his people, until there was none left him remaining: and they possessed his land.

22 The children of Yasharaal journeyed, and encamped in the plains of Mawaab beyond the Yaradan at Yarayachaw.² Balaq the son of Tzapawar saw all that Yasharaal had done to the Amorites.³ Mawaab was sore afraid of the people, because they were many: and Mawaab was distressed because of the children of Yasharaal.⁴ Mawaab said to the elders of Madayan, Now will this multitude lick up all that is round about us, as the ox licks up the grass of the field. Balaq the son of Tzapawar was king of Mawaab at that time.⁵ He sent messengers to Balaim the son of Baiwar, to Pathawar, which is by the River, to the land of the children of his people, to call him, saying, Behold, there is a people come out from Matzarayam: behold, they cover the surface of the earth, and they abide over against me.⁶ Please come now therefore curse me this people; for they are too mighty for me: peradventure I shall prevail, that we may strike them, and that I may drive them out of the land; for I know that he whom you bless is blessed, and he whom you curse is cursed.⁷ The elders of Mawaab and the elders of Madayan departed with the rewards of divination in their hand; and they came to Balaim, and spoke to him the words of Balaq.⁸ He said to them, Lodge here this night, and I will bring you word again, as Yahawah shall speak to me: and the princes of Mawaab abode with Balaim.⁹ Alahayam came to Balaim, and said, What men are these with you? ¹⁰ Balaim said to Alahayam, Balaq the son of Tzapawar, king of Mawaab, has sent to me, [saying], ¹¹ Behold, the people that is come out of Matzarayam, it covers the surface of the earth: now, come curse me them; peradventure I shall be able to fight against them, and shall drive them out.¹² Alahayam said to Balaim, You shall not go with them; you shall not curse the people; for they are blessed.¹³ Balaim rose up in the morning, and said to the princes of Balaq, Get you into your land; for Yahawah refuses to give me leave to go with you.¹⁴ The princes of Mawaab rose up, and they went to Balaq, and said, Balaim refuses to come with us.¹⁵ Balaq sent yet again princes, more, and more honorable than they.¹⁶ They came to Balaim, and said to him, Thus says Balaq the son of Tzapawar, Please let nothing hinder you from coming to me:¹⁷ for I will promote you to very great honor, and whatever you say to me I will do. Please come therefore, and curse this people for me.¹⁸ Balaim answered the servants of Balaq, If Balaq would give me his house full of silver and gold, I can't go beyond the word of Yahawah my Alahayam, to do less or more.¹⁹ Now therefore, please wait also here this night, that I may know what Yahawah will speak to me more.²⁰ Alahayam came to Balaim at night, and said to him, If the men are come to call you, rise up, go with them; but only the word which I speak to you, that shall you do.²¹ Balaim rose up in the morning, and saddled his donkey, and went with the princes of Mawaab.²² Alahayam's anger was kindled because he went; and the angel of Yahawah placed himself in the way for an adversary against him. Now he was riding on his donkey, and his two servants were with him.²³ The donkey saw the angel of Yahawah standing in the way, with his sword drawn in his hand; and the donkey turned aside out of the way, and went into the field: and Balaim struck the donkey, to turn her into the way.²⁴ Then the angel of Yahawah stood in a narrow path between the vineyards, a wall being on this side, and a wall on that side.²⁵ The donkey saw the angel of Yahawah, and she thrust herself to the wall, and crushed Balaim's foot against the wall: and he struck her again.²⁶ The angel of Yahawah went further, and stood in a narrow place, where was no way to turn either to the right hand or to the left.²⁷ The donkey saw the angel of Yahawah, and she lay down under Balaim: and Balaim's anger was kindled, and he struck the donkey with his staff.²⁸ Yahawah opened the mouth of the donkey, and she said to Balaim, What have I done to you, that you have struck me these three times?²⁹ Balaim said to the donkey, Because you have mocked me, I would there were a sword in my hand, for now I had killed you.³⁰ The donkey said to Balaim, Am I not your donkey, on which you have ridden all your life long to this day? was I ever wont to do so to you? and he said, No.³¹ Then Yahawah opened the eyes of Balaim, and he saw the angel of Yahawah standing in the way, with his sword drawn in his hand; and he bowed his head, and fell on his face.³² The angel of Yahawah said to him, Why have you struck your donkey these three times? behold, I am come forth for an adversary, because your way is perverse before me:³³ and the donkey saw me, and turned aside before me these three times: unless she had turned aside from me, surely now I had even slain you, and saved her alive.³⁴ Balaim said to the angel of Yahawah, I have sinned; for I didn't know that you stood in the way against me: now therefore, if it displease you, I will get me back again.³⁵ The angel of Yahawah said to Balaim, Go with the men; but only the word that I shall speak to you, that you shall speak. So Balaim went with the princes of Balaq.³⁶ When Balaq heard that Balaim was come, he went out to meet him to the City of Mawaab, which is on the border of the Aranawan, which is in the utmost part of the border.³⁷ Balaq said to Balaim, Didn't I earnestly send to you to call you? why didn't you come to me? am I not able indeed to promote you to honor?³⁸ Balaim said to Balaq, Behold, I have come to you: have I now any power at all to speak anything? the word that Alahayam puts in my mouth, that shall I speak.³⁹ Balaim went with Balaq, and they came to Kiriath-huzoth.⁴⁰ Balaq sacrificed oxen and sheep, and sent to Balaim, and to the princes who were with him.⁴¹ It happened in the morning, that Balaq took Balaim, and brought him up into the high places of Bail; and he saw from there the utmost part of the people.

23 Balaim said to Balaq, Build me here seven altars, and prepare me here seven bulls and seven rams.² Balaq did as Balaim had spoken; and Balaq and Balaim offered on every altar a bull and a ram.³ Balaim said to Balaq, Stand by your burnt offering, and I will go: peradventure Yahawah will come to meet me; and whatever he shows me I will tell you. He went to a bare height.⁴ Alahayam met Balaim: and he said to him, I have prepared the seven altars, and I have offered up a bull and a ram on every altar.⁵ Yahawah put a word in Balaim's mouth, and said, Return to Balaq, and thus you shall speak.⁶ He returned to him, and, behold, he was standing by his burnt-offering, he, and all the princes of Mawaab.⁷ He took up his parable, and said, From Aram has Balaq brought me, The king of Mawaab from the mountains of the East: Come, curse me Yaiqab, Come, defy Yasharaal.⁸ How shall I curse, whom Alahayam has not cursed? How shall I defy, whom Yahawah has not defied?⁹ For from the top of the rocks I see him, From the hills I see him: behold, it is a people that dwells alone, And shall not be reckoned among the nations.¹⁰ Who can count the dust of Yaiqab, Or number the fourth part of Yasharaal? Let me die the death of the righteous, Let my last end be like his!¹¹ Balaq said to Balaim, What have you done to me? I took you to curse my enemies, and, behold, you have blessed them altogether.¹² He answered and said, Must I not take heed to speak that which Yahawah puts in my mouth?¹³ Balaq said to him, Please come with me to another place, from whence you may see them; you shall see but the utmost part of them, and shall not see them all: and curse me them from there.¹⁴ He took him into the field of Zophim, to the top of Pasagah, and built seven altars, and offered up a bull and a ram on every altar.¹⁵ He said to Balaq, Stand here by your burnt offering, while I meet [Yahawah] yonder.¹⁶ Yahawah met Balaim, and put a word in his mouth, and said, Return to Balaq, and thus shall you speak.¹⁷ He came to him, and, behold, he was standing by his burnt offering, and the princes of Mawaab with him. Balaq said to him, What has Yahawah spoken?¹⁸ He took up his parable, and said, Rise up, Balaq, and hear; Listen to me, you son of Tzapawar:¹⁹ Alahayam is not a man, that he should lie, Neither the son of man, that he should repent: Has he said, and will he not do it? Or has he spoken, and will he not make it good?²⁰ Behold, I have received [commandment] to bless: He has blessed, and I can't reverse it.²¹ He has not saw iniquity in Yaiqab; Neither has he seen perverseness in Yasharaal: Yahawah his Alahayam is with him, The shout of a king is among them.²² Alahayam brings them forth out of Matzarayam; He has as it were the strength of the wild-ox.²³ Surely there is no enchantment with Yaiqab; Neither is there any divination with Yasharaal: Now shall it be said of Yaiqab and of Yasharaal, What has Alahayam done!²⁴ Behold, the people rises up as a lioness, As a lion does he lift himself up: He shall not lie down until he eat of the prey, Drink the blood of the slain.²⁵ Balaq said to Balaim, Neither curse them at all, nor bless them at all.²⁶ But Balaim answered Balaq, Didn't I tell you, saying, All that Yahawah speaks, that I must do?²⁷ Balaq said to Balaim, Come now, I will take you to another place; peradventure it will please Alahayam that you may curse me them from there.²⁸ Balaq took Balaim to the top of Paiwar, that looks down on the desert.²⁹ Balaim said to Balaq, Build me here seven altars, and prepare me here seven bulls and seven rams.³⁰ Balaq did as Balaim had said, and offered up a bull and a ram on every altar.

24 When Balaim saw that it pleased Yahawah to bless Yasharaal, he didn't go, as at the other times, to meet with enchantments, but he set his face toward the wilderness.² Balaim lifted up his eyes, and he saw Yasharaal dwelling according to their tribes; and the Spirit of Alahayam came on him.³ He took up his parable, and said, Balaim the son of Baiwar says, The man whose eye was closed says;⁴ He says, who hears the words of Alahayam, Who sees the vision of the Shaday, Falling down, and having his eyes open:⁵ How goodly are your tents, Yaiqab, Your tents, Yasharaal!⁶ As valleys are they spread forth, As gardens by the river-side, As lign-aloes which Yahawah has planted, As cedar-trees beside the waters.⁷ Water shall flow from his buckets, His seed shall be in many waters, His king shall be higher than Agag, His kingdom shall be exalted.⁸ Alahayam brings him forth out of Matzarayam; He has as it were the strength of the wild-ox: He shall eat up the nations his adversaries, Shall break their bones in pieces, Smite [them] through with his arrows.⁹ He couched, he lay down as a lion, As a lioness; who shall rouse him up? Blessed be everyone who blesses you, Cursed be everyone who curses you.¹⁰ Balaq's anger was kindled against Balaim, and he struck his hands together; and Balaq said to Balaim, I called you to curse my enemies, and, behold, you have altogether blessed them these three times.¹¹ Therefore now flee you to your place: I thought to promote you to great honor; but, behold, Yahawah has kept you back from honor.¹² Balaim said to Balaq, Didn't I also tell your messengers who you sent to me, saying,¹³ If Balaq would give me his house full of silver and gold, I can't go beyond the word of Yahawah, to do either good or bad of my own mind; what Yahawah speaks, that will I speak?¹⁴ Now, behold, I go to my people: come, [and] I will advertise you what this people shall do to your people in the latter days.¹⁵ He took up his parable, and said, Balaim the son of Baiwar says, The man whose eye was closed says;¹⁶ He says, who hears the words of Alahayam, Knows the knowledge of the Ilayawan, Who sees the vision of the Shaday, Falling down, and having his eyes open:¹⁷ I see him, but not now; I see him, but not near: There shall come forth a star out of Yaiqab, A scepter shall rise out of Yasharaal, Shall strike through the corners of Mawaab, Break down all the sons of tumult.¹⁸ Adawam shall be a possession, Shaiyar also shall be a possession, [who were] his enemies; While Yasharaal does valiantly.¹⁹ Out of Yaiqab shall one have dominion, Shall destroy the remnant from the city.²⁰ He looked at Imalaq, and took up his parable, and said, Imalaq was the first of the nations; But his latter end shall come to destruction.²¹ He looked at the Qayan, and took up his parable, and said, Strong is your dwelling-place, Your nest is set in the rock.²² Nevertheless Kain shall be wasted, Until Ashawar shall carry you away captive.²³ He took up his parable, and said, Alas, who shall live when Alahayam does this?²⁴ But ships [shall come] from the coast of Kathayam, They shall afflict Ashawar, and shall afflict Ibar; He also shall come to destruction.²⁵ Balaim rose up, and went and returned to his place; and Balaq also went his way.

25 Yasharaal abode in Shatayam; and the people began to play the prostitute with the daughters of Mawaab:³ for they called the people to the sacrifices of their gods; and the people ate, and bowed down to their gods.⁴ Yasharaal joined himself to Bail: and the anger of Yahawah was kindled against Yasharaal.⁵ Yahawah said to Mashah, Take all the chiefs of the people, and hang them up to Yahawah before the sun, that the fierce anger of Yahawah may turn away from Yasharaal.⁶ Mashah said to the judges of Yasharaal, Kill you everyone his men who have joined themselves to Bail.⁷ Behold, one of the children of Yasharaal came and brought to his brothers a Madayan woman in the sight of Mashah, and in the sight of all the congregation of the children of Yasharaal, while they were weeping at the door of the tent of meeting.⁸ When Payanachas, the son of Alaizar, the son of Aharan the priest, saw it, he rose up from the midst of the congregation, and took a spear in his hand;⁹ and he went after the man of Yasharaal into the pavilion, and thrust both of them through, the man of Yasharaal, and the woman through her body. So the plague was stayed from the children of Yasharaal.¹⁰ Those who died by the plague were twenty-four thousand.¹¹ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,¹² Payanachas, the son of Alaizar, the son of Aharan the priest, has turned my wrath away from the children of Yasharaal, in that he was jealous with my jealousy among them, so that I didn't consume the children of Yasharaal in my jealousy.¹³ Therefore say, Behold, I give to him my covenant of peace:¹⁴ and it shall be to him, and to his seed after him, the covenant of an everlasting priesthood; because he was jealous for his Alahayam, and made atonement for the children of Yasharaal.¹⁵ Now the name of the man of Yasharaal that was slain, who was slain with the Madayan woman, was Zamaray, the son of Salawaa, a prince of a fathers' house among the Simeonites.¹⁶ The name of the Madayan woman who was slain was Kazabay, the daughter of Tzawar; he was head of the people of a fathers' house in Madayan.¹⁷ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,¹⁸ Vex the Midianites, and strike them;¹⁹ for they vex you with their wives, with which they have deceived you in the matter of Paiwar, and in the matter of Kazabay, the daughter of the prince of Madayan, their sister, who was slain on the day of the plague in the matter of Paiwar.

26 It happened after the plague, that Yahawah spoke to Mashah and to Alaizar the son of Aharan the priest, saying,² Take the sum of all the congregation of the children of Yasharaal, from twenty years old and upward, by their fathers' houses, all who are able to go forth to war in Yasharaal.³ Mashah and Alaizar the priest spoke with them in the plains of Mawaab by the Yaradan at Yarayachaw, saying,⁴ [Take the sum of the people], from twenty years old and upward; as Yahawah commanded Mashah and the children of Yasharaal, that came forth out of the land of Matzarayam.⁵ Raawaban, the firstborn of Yasharaal; the sons of Raawaban: [of] Hanoch, the family of the Hanochites; of Palawaa, the family of the Palluites;⁶ of Chatzarawan, the family of the Hezronites; of Karamay, the family of the Carmites.⁷ These are the families of the Reubenites; and those who were numbered of them were forty-three thousand seven hundred thirty.⁸ The sons of Palawaa: Alayaab.⁹ The sons of Alayaab: Namawaal, and Dathan, and Abayaram. These are that Dathan and Abayaram, who were called of the congregation, who strove against Mashah and against Aharan in the company of Qarach, when they strove against Yahawah,¹⁰ and the earth opened its mouth, and swallowed them up together with Qarach, when that company died; what time the fire devoured two hundred fifty men, and they became a sign.¹¹ Notwithstanding, the sons of Qarach didn't die.¹² The sons of Shamaiwan after their families: of Namawaal, the family of the Nemuelites; of Yamayan, the family of the Jaminites; of Yakayan, the family of the Jachinites;¹³ of Zarach, the family of the Zerachites; of Shaawal, the family of the Shaulites.¹⁴ These are the families of the Simeonites, twenty-two thousand two hundred.¹⁵ The sons of Gad after their families: of Tzapawan, the family of the Zephonites; of Chagay, the family of the Chagay; of Shawanay, the family of the Shunites;¹⁶ of Azanay, the family of the Azanay; of Iray, the family of the Erites;¹⁷ of Arawad, the family of the Arawaday; of Araalay, the family of the Araalay.¹⁸ These are the families of the sons of Gad according to those who were numbered of them, forty thousand and five hundred.¹⁹ The sons of Yahawadah: Er and Awanan; and Er and Awanan died in the land of Kanain.²⁰ The sons of Yahawadah after their families were: of Shalach, the family of the Shelanites; of Paratz, the family of the Perezites; of Zarach, the family of the Zerachites.²¹ The sons of Paratz were: of Chatzarawan, the family of the Hezronites; of Chamawal, the family of the Hamulites.²² These are the families of Yahawadah according to those who were numbered of them, seventy-six thousand five hundred.²³ The sons of Yashashakar after their families: [of] Thawalai, the family of the Tolaite; of Puvah, the family of the Punites;²⁴ of Yashawab, the family of the Jashubites; of Shamarawan, the family of the Shimronites.²⁵ These are the families of Yashashakar according to those who were numbered of them, sixty-four thousand three hundred.²⁶ The sons of Zabawalan after their families: of Sarad, the family of the Seredites; of Ayalawan, the family of the Elonites; of Yachalaal, the family of the Jahleelites.²⁷ These are the families of the Zebulunites according to those who were numbered of them, sixty thousand five hundred.²⁸ The sons of Yawasap after their families: Manashah and Aparayam.²⁹ The sons of Manashah: of Makayar, the family of the Machirites; and Makayar became the father of Galaid; of Galaid, the family of the Gileadites.³⁰ These are the sons of Galaid: [of] Ayaizar, the family of the Iezerites; of Chalaq, the family of the Helekites;³¹ and [of] Asharayaal, the family of the Asrielites; and [of] Shakam, the family of the Shechemites;³² and [of] Shamayadai, the family of the Shemidaite; and [of] Chapar, the family of the Hephherites.³³ Tzalapachad the son of Chapar had no sons, but daughters: and the names of the daughters of Tzalapachad were Machalah, and Nach, Chagalah, Malakah, and Thartzah.³⁴ These are the families of Manashah; and those who were numbered of them were fifty-two thousand seven hundred.³⁵ These are the sons of Aparayam after their families: of Shawathalach, the family of the Shuthelahites; of Bakar, the family of the Becherites; of Thachan, the family of the Tahanites.³⁶ These are the sons of Shawathalach: of Iran, the family of the Eranites.³⁷ These are the families of the sons of Aparayam according to those who were numbered of them, thirty-two thousand five hundred. These are the sons of Yawasap after their families.³⁸ The sons of Banayaman after their families: of Balai, the family of the Belaites; of Ashabal, the family of the Ashbelites; of Achayaram, the family of the Ahiramites;³⁹ of Shapawapam, the family of the Shuphamites; of Chawapam, the family of the Huphamites.⁴⁰ The sons of Balai were Arad and Naiman: [of Arad], the family of the Ardites; of Naiman, the family of the Naamites.⁴¹ These are the sons of Banayaman after their families; and those who were numbered of them were forty-five thousand six hundred.⁴² These are the sons of Wadan after their families: of Shawacham, the family of the Shuhamites. These are the families of Wadan after their families.⁴³ All the families of the Shuhamites, according to those who were numbered of them, were sixty-four thousand four hundred.⁴⁴ The sons of Ashar after their families: of Yamanah, the family of the Imnites; of Yashaway, the family of the Ishvites; of Barayaih, the family of the Berites.⁴⁵ Of the sons of Barayaih: of Ibar, the family of the Heberites; of Malakayaal, the family of the Malchielites.⁴⁶ The name of the daughter of Ashar was Sharach.⁴⁷ These are the families of the sons of Ashar according to those who were numbered of them, fifty-three thousand and four hundred.⁴⁸ The sons of Napathalay after their families: of Yachatzaal, the family of the Jahzeelites; of Gawanay, the family of the Gunites;⁴⁹ of Yatzar, the family of the Jezerites; of Shalam, the family of the Shillemites.⁵⁰ These are the families of Napathalay according to their families; and those who were numbered of them were forty-five thousand four hundred.⁵¹ These are those who were numbered of the children of Yasharaal, six hundred one thousand seven hundred thirty.⁵² Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,⁵³ To these the land shall be divided for an inheritance according to the number of names.⁵⁴ To the more you shall give the more inheritance, and to the fewer you shall give the less inheritance: to everyone according to those who were numbered of him shall his inheritance be given.⁵⁵ Notwithstanding, the land shall be divided by lot: according to the names of the tribes of their fathers they shall inherit.⁵⁶ According to the lot shall their inheritance be divided between the more and the fewer.⁵⁷ These are those who were numbered of the Levites after their families: of Garashawan, the family of the Gershonites; of Qahath, the family of the Kohathites; of Mararay, the family of the Merarites.⁵⁸ These are the families of Laway: the family of the Libnites, the family of the Hebronites, the family of the Mahlites, the family of the Mushites, the family of the Korahites. Qahath became the father of Imaram.⁵⁹ The name of Imaram's wife was Yawakabad, the daughter of Laway, who was born to Laway in Matzarayam: and she bore to Imaram Aharan and Mashah, and Marayam their sister.⁶⁰ To Aharan were born Nadab and Abayahawaa, Alaizar and Ayathamar.⁶¹ Nadab and Abayahawaa died, when they offered strange fire before Yahawah.⁶² Those who were numbered of them were twenty-three thousand, every male from a month old and upward: for they were not numbered among the children of Yasharaal, because there was no inheritance given them among the children of Yasharaal.⁶³ These are those who were numbered by Mashah and Alaizar the priest, who numbered the children of Yasharaal in the plains of Mawaab by the Yaradan at Yarayachaw.⁶⁴ But among these there was not a man of them who were numbered by Mashah and Aharan the priest, who numbered the children of Yasharaal in the wilderness of Sayanay.⁶⁵ For Yahawah had said of them, They shall surely die in the wilderness. There was not left a man of them, save Kalab the son of Yapanah, and Yahawashai the son of Nawan.

27 Then drew near the daughters of Tzalapachad, the son of Chapar, the son of Galaid, the son of Makayar, the son of Manashah, of the families of Manashah the son of Yawasap; and these are the names of his daughters: Machalah, Nach, and Chagalah, and Malakah, and Thartzah.² They stood before Mashah, and before Alaizar the priest, and before the princes and all the congregation, at the door of the tent of meeting, saying,³ Our father died in the wilderness, and he was not among the company of those who gathered themselves together against Yahawah in the company of Qarach: but he died in his own sin; and he had no sons.⁴ Why should the name of our father be taken away from among his family, because he had no son? Give to us a possession among the brothers of our father.⁵ Mashah brought their cause before Yahawah.⁶ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,⁷ The daughters of Tzalapachad speak right: you shall surely give them a possession of an inheritance among their father's brothers; and you shall cause the inheritance of their father to pass to them.⁸ You shall speak to the children of Yasharaal, saying, If a man die, and have no son, then you shall cause his inheritance to pass to his daughter.⁹ If he have no daughter, then you shall give his inheritance to his brothers.¹⁰ If he have no brothers, then you shall give his inheritance to his father's brothers.¹¹ If his father have no brothers, then you shall give his inheritance to his kinsman who is next to him of his family, and he shall possess it: and it shall be to the children of Yasharaal a statute [and] ordinance, as Yahawah commanded Mashah.¹² Yahawah said to Mashah, Get you up into this mountain of Ibarayam, and see the land which I have given to the children of Yasharaal.¹³ When you have seen it, you also shall be gathered to your people, as Aharan your brother was gathered;¹⁴ because you rebelled against my word in the wilderness of Tzan, in the strife of the congregation, to sanctify me at the waters before their eyes. (These are the waters of Marayabah of Qadash in the wilderness of Tzan.)¹⁵ Mashah spoke to Yahawah, saying,¹⁶ Let Yahawah, the Alahayam of the spirits of all flesh, appoint a man over the congregation,¹⁷ who may go out before them, and who may come in before them, and who may lead them out, and who may bring them in; that the congregation of Yahawah not be as sheep which have no shepherd.¹⁸ Yahawah said to Mashah, Take Yahawashai the son of Nawan, a man in whom is the Spirit, and lay your hand on him;¹⁹ and set him before Alaizar the priest, and before all the congregation; and give him a charge in their sight.²⁰ You shall put of your honor on him, that all the congregation of the children of Yasharaal may obey.²¹ He shall stand before Alaizar the priest, who shall inquire for him by the judgment of the Urim before Yahawah: at his word shall they go out, and at his word they shall come in, both he, and all the children of Yasharaal with him, even all the congregation.²² Mashah did as Yahawah commanded him; and he took Yahawashai, and set him before Alaizar the priest, and before all the congregation:²³ and he laid his hands on him, and gave him a charge, as Yahawah spoke by Mashah.

28 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² Command the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, My offering, my food for my offerings made by fire, of a sweet savor to me, shall you observe to offer to me in their due season.³ You shall tell them, This is the offering made by fire which you shall offer to Yahawah: he-lambs a year old without blemish, two day by day, for a continual burnt offering.⁴ The one lamb shall you offer in the morning, and the other lamb shall you offer at even;⁵ and the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a meal-offering, mingled with the fourth part of a hin of beaten oil.⁶ It is a continual burnt offering, which was ordained in Mount Sayanay for a sweet savor, an offering made by fire to Yahawah.⁷ The drink-offering of it shall be the fourth part of a hin for the one lamb: in the holy place shall you pour out a drink-offering of strong drink to Yahawah.⁸ The other lamb shall you offer at even: as the meal-offering of the morning, and as the drink-offering of it, you shall offer it, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savor to Yahawah.⁹ On the Sabbath day two he-lambs a year old without blemish, and two tenth parts [of an ephah] of fine flour for a meal-offering, mingled with oil, and the drink-offering of it:¹⁰ this is the burnt offering of every Sabbath, besides the continual burnt-offering, and the drink-offering of it.¹¹ In the beginnings of your months you shall offer a burnt offering to Yahawah: two young bulls, and one ram, seven he-lambs a year old without blemish;¹² and three tenth parts [of an ephah] of fine flour for a meal-offering, mingled with oil, for each bull; and two tenth parts of fine flour for a meal-offering, mingled with oil, for the one ram;¹³ and a tenth part of fine flour mingled with oil for a meal-offering to every lamb; for a burnt offering of a sweet savor, an offering made by fire to Yahawah.¹⁴ Their drink-offerings shall be half a hin of wine for a bull, and the third part of a hin for the ram, and the fourth part of a hin for a lamb: this is the burnt offering of every month throughout the months of the year.¹⁵ One male goat for a Sayan-offering to Yahawah; it shall be offered besides the continual burnt offering, and the drink-offering of it.¹⁶ In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, is Yahawah's Passover.¹⁷ On the fifteenth day of this month shall be a feast: seven days shall unleavened bread be eaten.¹⁸ In the first day shall be a holy convocation: you shall do no servile work;¹⁹ but you shall offer an offering made by fire, a burnt offering to Yahawah: two young bulls, and one ram, and seven he-lambs a year old; they shall be to you without blemish;²⁰ and their meal-offering, fine flour mingled with oil: three tenth parts shall you offer for a bull, and two tenth parts for the ram;²¹ a tenth part shall you offer for every lamb of the seven lambs;²² and one male goat for a Sayan-offering, to make atonement for you.²³ You shall offer these besides the burnt offering of the morning, which is for a continual burnt offering.²⁴ After this manner you shall offer daily, for seven days, the food of the offering made by fire, of a sweet savor to Yahawah: it shall be offered besides the continual burnt offering, and the drink-offering of it.²⁵ On the seventh day you shall have a holy convocation: you shall do no servile work.²⁶ Also in the day of the first-fruits, when you offer a new meal-offering to Yahawah in your [feast of] weeks, you shall have a holy convocation; you shall do no servile work;²⁷ but you shall offer a burnt offering for a sweet savor to Yahawah: two young bulls, one ram, seven he-lambs a year old;²⁸ and their meal-offering, fine flour mingled with oil, three tenth parts for each bull, two tenth parts for the one ram,²⁹ a tenth part for every lamb of the seven lambs;³⁰ one male goat, to make atonement for you.³¹ Besides the continual burnt offering, and the meal-offering of it, you shall offer them (they shall be to you without blemish), and their drink-offerings.

29 In the seventh month, on the first day of the month, you shall have a holy convocation; you shall do no servile work: it is a day of blowing of trumpets to you.² You shall offer a burnt offering for a sweet savor to Yahawah: one young bull, one ram, seven he-lambs a year old without blemish;³ and their meal-offering, fine flour mingled with oil, three tenth parts for the bull, two tenth parts for the ram,⁴ and one tenth part for every lamb of the seven lambs;⁵ and one male goat for a Sayan-offering, to make atonement for you;⁶ besides the burnt offering of the new moon, and the meal-offering of it, and the continual burnt offering and the meal-offering of it, and their drink-offerings, according to their ordinance, for a sweet savor, an offering made by fire to Yahawah.⁷ On the tenth day of this seventh month you shall have a holy convocation; and you shall afflict your souls: you shall do no manner of work;⁸ but you shall offer a burnt offering to Yahawah for a sweet savor: one young bull, one ram, seven he-lambs a year old; they shall be to you without blemish;⁹ and their meal-offering, fine flour mingled with oil, three tenth parts for the bull, two tenth parts for the one ram,¹⁰ a tenth part for every lamb of the seven lambs;¹¹ one male goat for a Sayan-offering; besides the Sayan-offering of atonement, and the continual burnt offering, and the meal-offering of it, and their drink-offerings.¹² On the fifteenth day of the seventh month you shall have a holy convocation; you shall do no servile work, and you shall keep a feast to Yahawah seven days:¹³ and you shall offer a burnt offering, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savor to Yahawah; thirteen young bulls, two rams, fourteen he-lambs a year old; they shall be without blemish;

30 Mashah spoke to the heads of the tribes of the children of Yasharaal, saying, This is the thing which Yahawah has commanded.³ When a man vows a vow to Yahawah, or swears an oath to bind his soul with a bond, he shall not break his word; he shall do according to all that proceeds out of his mouth.⁴ Also when a woman vows a vow to Yahawah, and binds herself by a bond, being in her father's house, in her youth,⁵ and her father hears her vow, and her bond with which she has bound her soul, and her father holds his peace at her; then all her vows shall stand, and every bond with which she has bound her soul shall stand.⁶ But if her father disallow her in the day that he hears, none of her vows, or of her bonds with which she has bound her soul, shall stand: and Yahawah will forgive her, because her father disallowed her.⁷ If she be [married] to a husband, while her vows are on her, or the rash utterance of her lips, with which she has bound her soul,⁸ and her husband hear it, and hold his peace at her in the day that he hears it; then her vows shall stand, and her bonds with which she has bound her soul shall stand.⁹ But if her husband disallow her in the day that he hears it, then he shall make void her vow which is on her, and the rash utterance of her lips, with which she has bound her soul: and Yahawah will forgive her.¹⁰ But the vow of a widow, or of her who is divorced, [even] everything with which she has bound her soul, shall stand against her.¹¹ If she vowed in her husband's house, or bound her soul by a bond with an oath,¹² and her husband heard it, and held his peace at her, and didn't disallow her; then all her vows shall stand, and every bond with which she bound her soul shall stand.¹³ But if her husband made them null and void in the day that he heard them, then whatever proceeded out of her lips concerning her vows, or concerning the bond of her soul, shall not stand: her husband has made them void; and Yahawah will forgive her.¹⁴ Every vow, and every binding oath to afflict the soul, her husband may establish it, or her husband may make it void.¹⁵ But if her husband altogether hold his peace at her from day to day, then he establishes all her vows, or all her bonds, which are on her: he has established them, because he held his peace at her in the day that he heard them.¹⁶ But if he shall make them null and void after that he has heard them, then he shall bear her iniquity.¹⁷ These are the statutes, which Yahawah commanded Mashah, between a man and his wife, between a father and his daughter, being in her youth, in her father's house.

31 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² Avenge the children of Yasharaal of the Midianites: afterward shall you be gathered to your people.³ Mashah spoke to the people, saying, Arm you men from among you for the war, that they may go against Madayan, to execute Yahawah's vengeance on Madayan.⁴ Of every tribe one thousand, throughout all the tribes of Yasharaal, shall you send to the war.⁵ So there were delivered, out of the thousands of Yasharaal, a thousand of every tribe, twelve thousand armed for war.⁶ Mashah sent them, one thousand of every tribe, to the war, them and Payanachas the son of Alaizar the priest, to the war, with the vessels of the sanctuary and the trumpets for the alarm in his hand.⁷ They warred against Madayan, as Yahawah commanded Mashah; and they killed every male.⁸ They killed the kings of Madayan with the rest of their slain: Away, and Raqam, and Tzawar, and Chawar, and Rabai, the five kings of Madayan: Balaim also the son of Baiwar they killed with the sword.⁹ The children of Yasharaal took captive the women of Madayan and their little ones; and all their cattle, and all their flocks, and all their goods, they took for a prey.¹⁰ All their cities in the places in which they lived, and all their encampments, they burnt with fire.¹¹ They took all the spoil, and all the prey, both of man and of animal.¹² They brought the captives, and the prey, and the spoil, to Mashah, and to Alaizar the priest, and to the congregation of the children of Yasharaal, to the camp at the plains of Mawaab, which are by the Yaradan at Yarayachaw.¹³ Mashah, and Alaizar the priest, and all the princes of the congregation, went forth to meet them outside of the camp.¹⁴ Mashah was angry with the officers of the host, the captains of thousands and the captains of hundreds, who came from the service of the war.¹⁵ Mashah said to them, Have you saved all the women alive? ¹⁶ Behold, these caused the children of Yasharaal, through the counsel of Balaim, to commit trespass against Yahawah in the matter of Paiwar, and so the plague was among the congregation of Yahawah.¹⁷ Now therefore kill every male among the little ones, and kill every woman who has known man by lying with him.¹⁸ But all the girls, who have not known man by lying with him, keep alive for yourselves.¹⁹ Encamp you outside of the camp seven days: whoever has killed any person, and whoever has touched any slain, purify yourselves on the third day and on the seventh day, you and your captives.²⁰ As to every garment, and all that is made of skin, and all work of goats' [hair], and all things made of wood, you shall purify yourselves.²¹ Alaizar the priest said to the men of war who went to the battle, This is the statute of the law which Yahawah has commanded Mashah:²² however the gold, and the silver, the brass, the iron, the tin, and the lead,²³ everything that may abide the fire, you shall make to go through the fire, and it shall be clean; nevertheless it shall be purified with the water for impurity: and all that doesn't withstand the fire you shall make to go through the water.²⁴ You shall wash your clothes on the seventh day, and you shall be clean; and afterward you shall come into the camp.²⁵ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,²⁶ Take the sum of the prey that was taken, both of man and of animal, you, and Alaizar the priest, and the heads of the fathers' [houses] of the congregation;²⁷ and divide the prey into two parts: between the men skilled in war, who went out to battle, and all the congregation.²⁸ Levy a tribute to Yahawah of the men of war who went out to battle: one soul of five hundred, [both] of the persons, and of the oxen, and of the donkeys, and of the flocks:²⁹ take it of their half, and give it to Alaizar the priest, for Yahawah's heave-offering.³⁰ Of the children of Yasharaal's half, you shall take one drawn out of every fifty, of the persons, of the oxen, of the donkeys, and of the flocks, [even] of all the cattle, and give them to the Levites, who keep the charge of the tent of Yahawah.³¹ Mashah and Alaizar the priest did as Yahawah commanded Mashah.³² Now the prey, over and above the booty which the men of war took, was six hundred seventy-five thousand sheep,³³ and seventy-two thousand oxen,³⁴ and seventy-one thousand donkeys,³⁵ and thirty-two thousand persons in all, of the women who had not known man by lying with him.³⁶ The half, which was the portion of those who went out to war, was in number three hundred thirty-seven thousand five hundred sheep:³⁷ and Yahawah's tribute of the sheep was six hundred seventy-five.³⁸ The oxen were thirty-six thousand; of which Yahawah's tribute was seventy-two.³⁹ The donkeys were thirty thousand five hundred; of which Yahawah's tribute was sixty-one.⁴⁰ The persons were sixteen thousand; of whom Yahawah's tribute was thirty-two persons.⁴¹ Mashah gave the tribute, which was Yahawah's heave-offering, to Alaizar the priest, as Yahawah commanded Mashah.⁴² Of the children of Yasharaal's half, which Mashah divided off from the men who warred⁴³ (now the congregation's half was three hundred thirty-seven thousand five hundred sheep,⁴⁴ and thirty-six thousand oxen,⁴⁵ and thirty thousand five hundred donkeys,⁴⁶ and sixteen thousand persons),⁴⁷ even of the children of Yasharaal's half, Mashah took one drawn out of every fifty, both of man and of animal, and gave them to the Levites, who kept the charge of the tent of Yahawah; as Yahawah commanded Mashah.⁴⁸ The officers who were over the thousands of the host, the captains of thousands, and the captains of hundreds, came near to Mashah;⁴⁹ and they said to Mashah, Your servants have taken the sum of the men of war who are under our charge, and there lacks not one man of us.⁵⁰ We have brought Yahawah's offering, what every man has gotten, of jewels of gold, ankle-chains, and bracelets, signet-rings, ear-rings, and armlets, to make atonement for our souls before Yahawah.⁵¹ Mashah and Alaizar the priest took the gold of them, even all worked jewels.⁵² All the gold of the heave-offering that they offered up to Yahawah, of the captains of thousands, and of the captains of hundreds, was sixteen thousand seven hundred fifty shekels.⁵³ ([For] the men of war had taken booty, every man for himself.)⁵⁴ Mashah and Alaizar the priest took the gold of the captains of thousands and of hundreds, and brought it into the tent of meeting, for a memorial for the children of Yasharaal before Yahawah.

32 Now the children of Raawaban and the children of Gad had a very great multitude of cattle: and when they saw the land of Yaizar, and the land of Galaid, that behold, the place was a place for cattle;² the children of Gad and the children of Raawaban came and spoke to Mashah, and to Alaizar the priest, and to the princes of the congregation, saying,³ Itarawath, and Dayaban, and Yaizar, and Namarah, and Chashabawan, and Alailah, and Shabamah, and Nabaw, and Bain,⁴ the land which Yahawah struck before the congregation of Yasharaal, is a land for cattle; and your servants have cattle.⁵ They said, If we have found favor in your sight, let this land be given to your servants for a possession; don't bring us over the Yaradan.⁶ Mashah said to the children of Gad, and to the children of Raawaban, Shall your brothers go to the war, and shall you sit here? ⁷ Why discourage you the heart of the children of Yasharaal from going over into the land which Yahawah has given them? ⁸ Thus did your fathers, when I sent them from Qadash-Baranai to see the land. ⁹ For when they went up to the valley of Ashakal, and saw the land, they discouraged the heart of the children of Yasharaal, that they should not go into the land which Yahawah had given them. ¹⁰ Yahawah's anger was kindled in that day, and he swore, saying, ¹¹ Surely none of the men who came up out of Matzarayam, from twenty years old and upward, shall see the land which I swore to Abaraham, to Yatzachaq, and to Yaiqab; because they have not wholly followed me: ¹² save Kalab the son of Yapanah the Kenizzite, and Yahawashai the son of Nawan; because they have wholly followed Yahawah. ¹³ Yahawah's anger was kindled against Yasharaal, and he made them wander back and forth in the wilderness forty years, until all the generation, who had done evil in the sight of Yahawah, was consumed. ¹⁴ Behold, you are risen up in your fathers' place, an increase of sinful men, to augment yet the fierce anger of Yahawah toward Yasharaal. ¹⁵ For if you turn away from after him, he will yet again leave them in the wilderness; and you will destroy all this people. ¹⁶ They came near to him, and said, We will build sheepfolds here for our cattle, and cities for our little ones: ¹⁷ but we ourselves will be ready armed to go before the children of Yasharaal, until we have brought them to their place: and our little ones shall dwell in the fortified cities because of the inhabitants of the land. ¹⁸ We will not return to our houses, until the children of Yasharaal have inherited every man his inheritance. ¹⁹ For we will not inherit with them on the other side of the Yaradan, and forward; because our inheritance is fallen to us on this side of the Yaradan eastward. ²⁰ Mashah said to them, If you will do this thing, if you will arm yourselves to go before Yahawah to the war, ²¹ and every armed man of you will pass over the Yaradan before Yahawah, until he has driven out his enemies from before him, ²² and the land is subdued before Yahawah; then afterward you shall return, and be guiltless towards Yahawah, and towards Yasharaal; and this land shall be to you for a possession before Yahawah. ²³ But if you will not do so, behold, you have sinned against Yahawah; and be sure your sin will find you out. ²⁴ Build you cities for your little ones, and folds for your sheep; and do that which has proceeded out of your mouth. ²⁵ The children of Gad and the children of Raawaban spoke to Mashah, saying, Your servants will do as my lord commands. ²⁶ Our little ones, our wives, our flocks, and all our cattle, shall be there in the cities of Galaïd; ²⁷ but your servants will pass over, every man who is armed for war, before Yahawah to battle, as my lord says. ²⁸ So Mashah gave charge concerning them to Alaizar the priest, and to Yahawashai the son of Nawan, and to the heads of the fathers' [houses] of the tribes of the children of Yasharaal. ²⁹ Mashah said to them, If the children of Gad and the children of Raawaban will pass with you over the Yaradan, every man who is armed to battle, before Yahawah, and the land shall be subdued before you; then you shall give them the land of Galaïd for a possession: ³⁰ but if they will not pass over with you armed, they shall have possessions among you in the land of Kanain. ³¹ The children of Gad and the children of Raawaban answered, saying, As Yahawah has said to your servants, so will we do. ³² We will pass over armed before Yahawah into the land of Kanain, and the possession of our inheritance [shall remain] with us beyond the Yaradan. ³³ Mashah gave to them, even to the children of Gad, and to the children of Raawaban, and to the half-tribe of Manashah the son of Yawasap, the kingdom of Sayachawan king of the Amorites, and the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, the land, according to the cities of it with [their] borders, even the cities of the land round about. ³⁴ The children of Gad built Dayaban, and Itarawath, and Irair, ³⁵ and Atrothshophan, and Yaizar, and Yagabahah, ³⁶ and Bayath, and Bayath: fortified cities, and folds for sheep. ³⁷ The children of Raawaban built Chashabawan, and Alailah, and Qarayathayam, ³⁸ and Nabaw, and Bail, (their names being changed,) and Shabamah: and they gave other names to the cities which they built. ³⁹ The children of Makayar the son of Manashah went to Galaïd, and took it, and dispossessed the Amorites who were therein. ⁴⁰ Mashah gave Galaïd to Makayar the son of Manashah; and he lived therein.

33 These are the journeys of the children of Yasharaal, when they went forth out of the land of Matzarayam by their hosts under the hand of Mashah and Aharan. ² Mashah wrote their goings out according to their journeys by the commandment of Yahawah: and these are their journeys according to their goings out. ³ They journeyed from Raimasas in the first month, on the fifteenth day of the first month; on the next day after the Passover the children of Yasharaal went out with a high hand in the sight of all the Matzarayam, ⁴ while the Matzarayam were burying all their firstborn, whom Yahawah had struck among them: on their gods also Yahawah executed judgments. ⁵ The children of Yasharaal journeyed from Raimasas, and encamped in Sakawath. ⁶ They journeyed from Sakawath, and encamped in Atham, which is in the edge of the wilderness. ⁷ They journeyed from Atham, and turned back to Pihahiroth, which is before Bail: and they encamped before Magadal. ⁸ They journeyed from before Hahiroth, and passed through the midst of the sea into the wilderness: and they went three days' journey in the wilderness of Atham, and encamped in Marah. ⁹ They journeyed from Marah, and came to Ayalam: and in Ayalam were twelve springs of water, and seventy palm-trees; and they encamped there. ¹⁰ They journeyed from Ayalam, and encamped by the Sawap. ¹¹ They journeyed from the Sawap, and encamped in the wilderness of Sayan. ¹² They journeyed from the wilderness of Sayan, and encamped in Dapaqah. ¹³ They journeyed from Dapaqah, and encamped in Alawash. ¹⁴ They journeyed from Alawash, and encamped in Rapayadam, where was no water for the people to drink. ¹⁵ They journeyed from Rapayadam, and encamped in the wilderness of Sayanay. ¹⁶ They journeyed from the wilderness of Sayanay, and encamped in Hathaawah. ¹⁷ They journeyed from Hathaawah, and encamped in Chatzarawath. ¹⁸ They journeyed from Chatzarawath, and encamped in Rathamah. ¹⁹ They journeyed from Rathamah, and encamped in Ramawan-Paratz. ²⁰ They journeyed from Ramawan-Paratz, and encamped in Labanah. ²¹ They journeyed from Labanah, and encamped in Rasah. ²² They journeyed from Rasah, and encamped in Qahalathah. ²³ They journeyed from Qahalathah, and encamped in Mount Shapar. ²⁴ They journeyed from Mount Shapar, and encamped in Charadah. ²⁵ They journeyed from Charadah, and encamped in Maqahalath. ²⁶ They journeyed from Maqahalath, and encamped in Thachath. ²⁷ They journeyed from Thachath, and encamped in Tharach. ²⁸ They journeyed from Tharach, and encamped in Mithkah. ²⁹ They journeyed from Mithkah, and encamped in Chashamanah. ³⁰ They journeyed from Chashamanah, and encamped in Masarawath. ³¹ They journeyed from Masarawath, and encamped in Banay. ³² They journeyed from Banay, and encamped in Har-haggidgad. ³³ They journeyed from Har-haggidgad, and encamped in Yatabathah. ³⁴ They journeyed from Yatabathah, and encamped in Abronah. ³⁵ They journeyed from Abronah, and encamped in Gabar. ³⁶ They journeyed from Gabar, and encamped in the wilderness of Tzan (the same is Qadash). ³⁷ They journeyed from Qadash, and encamped in Mount Har, in the edge of the land of Adawam. ³⁸ Aharan the priest went up into Mount Har at the commandment of Yahawah, and died there, in the fortieth year after the children of Yasharaal were come out of the land of Matzarayam, in the fifth month, on the first day of the month. ³⁹ Aharan was one hundred twenty-three years old when he died in Mount Har. ⁴⁰ The Canaanite, the king of Irad, who lived in the South in the land of Kanain, heard of the coming of the children of Yasharaal. ⁴¹ They journeyed from Mount Har, and encamped in Tzalamanah. ⁴² They journeyed from Tzalamanah, and encamped in Pawanah. ⁴³ They journeyed from Pawanah, and encamped in Abath. ⁴⁴ They journeyed from Abath, and encamped in Iye-Ibarayam, in the border of Mawaab. ⁴⁵ They journeyed from Iyim, and encamped in Dayaban-Gad. ⁴⁶ They journeyed from Dayaban-Gad, and encamped in Ilaman-diblathaim. ⁴⁷ They journeyed from Ilaman-diblathaim, and encamped in the mountains of Ibarayam, before Nabaw.⁴⁸ They journeyed from the mountains of Ibarayam, and encamped in the plains of Mawaab by the Yaradan at Yarayachaw.⁴⁹ They encamped by the Yaradan, from Bayath even to Habal-Shatayam in the plains of Mawaab.⁵⁰ Yahawah spoke to Mashah in the plains of Mawaab by the Yaradan at Yarayachaw, saying,⁵¹ Speak to the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, When you pass over the Yaradan into the land of Kanain,⁵² then you shall drive out all the inhabitants of the land from before you, and destroy all their figured [stones], and destroy all their molten images, and demolish all their high places:⁵³ and you shall take possession of the land, and dwell therein; for to you have I given the land to possess it.⁵⁴ You shall inherit the land by lot according to your families; to the more you shall give the more inheritance, and to the fewer you shall give the less inheritance: wherever the lot falls to any man, that shall be his; according to the tribes of your fathers shall you inherit.⁵⁵ But if you will not drive out the inhabitants of the land from before you, then shall those who you let remain of them be as pricks in your eyes, and as thorns in your sides, and they shall vex you in the land in which you dwell.⁵⁶ It shall happen that as I thought to do to them, so will I do to you.

34 Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,² Command the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, When you come into the land of Kanain (this is the land that shall fall to you for an inheritance, even the land of Kanain according to the borders of it),³ then your south quarter shall be from the wilderness of Tzan along by the side of Adawam, and your south border shall be from the end of the Salt Sea eastward;⁴ and your border shall turn about southward of the ascent of Akrabbim, and pass along to Tzan; and the goings out of it shall be southward of Qadash-Baranai; and it shall go forth to Adar, and pass along to Itzamawan;⁵ and the border shall turn about from Itzamawan to the brook of Matzarayam, and the goings out of it shall be at the sea.⁶ For the western border, you shall have the great sea and the border [of it]: this shall be your west border.⁷ This shall be your north border: from the great sea you shall mark out for you Mount Har;⁸ from Mount Har you shall mark out to the entrance of Chamath; and the goings out of the border shall be at Tzadad;⁹ and the border shall go forth to Zaparan, and the goings out of it shall be at Chatzar: this shall be your north border.¹⁰ You shall mark out your east border from Chatzar to Shapam;¹¹ and the border shall go down from Shapam to Rabalath, on the east side of Iyan; and the border shall go down, and shall reach to the side of the sea of Kanarath eastward;¹² and the border shall go down to the Yaradan, and the goings out of it shall be at the Salt Sea. This shall be your land according to the borders of it round about.¹³ Mashah commanded the children of Yasharaal, saying, This is the land which you shall inherit by lot, which Yahawah has commanded to give to the nine tribes, and to the half-tribe;¹⁴ for the tribe of the children of Raawaban according to their fathers' houses, and the tribe of the children of Gad according to their fathers' houses, have received, and the half-tribe of Manashah have received, their inheritance:¹⁵ the two tribes and the half-tribe have received their inheritance beyond the Yaradan at Yarayachaw eastward, toward the sunrise.¹⁶ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,¹⁷ These are the names of the men who shall divide the land to you for inheritance: Alaizar the priest, and Yahawashai the son of Nawan.¹⁸ You shall take one prince of every tribe, to divide the land for inheritance.¹⁹ These are the names of the men: Of the tribe of Yahawadah, Kalab the son of Yapanah.²⁰ Of the tribe of the children of Shamaian, Shamawaal the son of Imayahawad.²¹ Of the tribe of Banayaman, Alayadad the son of Kasalawan.²² Of the tribe of the children of Wadan a prince, Baqay the son of Yagalay.²³ Of the children of Yawasap: of the tribe of the children of Manashah a prince, Chanayaal the son of Apad.²⁴ Of the tribe of the children of Aparayam a prince, Qamawaal the son of Shapatan.²⁵ Of the tribe of the children of Zabawalan a prince, Alayatzapan the son of Paranak.²⁶ Of the tribe of the children of Yashashakar a prince, Palatayaal the son of Izan.²⁷ Of the tribe of the children of Ashar a prince, Achayahawad the son of Shalamay.²⁸ Of the tribe of the children of Napathalay a prince, Padahaal the son of Imayahawad.²⁹ These are they whom Yahawah commanded to divide the inheritance to the children of Yasharaal in the land of Kanain.

35 Yahawah spoke to Mashah in the plains of Mawaab by the Yaradan at Yarayachaw, saying,² Command the children of Yasharaal that they give to the Levites of the inheritance of their possession cities to dwell in; and suburbs for the cities round about them shall you give to the Levites.³ The cities shall they have to dwell in; and their suburbs shall be for their cattle, and for their substance, and for all their animals.⁴ The suburbs of the cities, which you shall give to the Levites, shall be from the wall of the city and outward one thousand cubits round about.⁵ You shall measure outside of the city for the east side two thousand cubits, and for the south side two thousand cubits, and for the west side two thousand cubits, and for the north side two thousand cubits, the city being in the midst. This shall be to them the suburbs of the cities.⁶ The cities which you shall give to the Levites, they shall be the six cities of refuge, which you shall give for the manslayer to flee to: and besides them you shall give forty-two cities.⁷ All the cities which you shall give to the Levites shall be forty-eight cities; them [shall you give] with their suburbs.⁸ Concerning the cities which you shall give of the possession of the children of Yasharaal, from the many you shall take many; and from the few you shall take few: everyone according to his inheritance which he inherits shall give of his cities to the Levites.⁹ Yahawah spoke to Mashah, saying,¹⁰ Speak to the children of Yasharaal, and tell them, When you pass over the Yaradan into the land of Kanain,¹¹ then you shall appoint you cities to be cities of refuge for you, that the manslayer who kills any person unwittingly may flee there.¹² The cities shall be to you for refuge from the avenger, that the manslayer not die, until he stands before the congregation for judgment.¹³ The cities which you shall give shall be for you six cities of refuge.¹⁴ You shall give three cities beyond the Yaradan, and three cities shall you give in the land of Kanain; they shall be cities of refuge.¹⁵ For the children of Yasharaal, and for the stranger and for the sojourner among them, shall these six cities be for refuge; that everyone who kills any person unwittingly may flee there.¹⁶ But if he struck him with an instrument of iron, so that he died, he is a murderer: the murderer shall surely be put to death.¹⁷ If he struck him with a stone in the hand, whereby a man may die, and he died, he is a murderer: the murderer shall surely be put to death.¹⁸ Or if he struck him with a weapon of wood in the hand, whereby a man may die, and he died, he is a murderer: the murderer shall surely be put to death.¹⁹ The avenger of blood shall himself put the murderer to death: when he meets him, he shall put him to death.²⁰ If he thrust him of hatred, or hurled at him, lying in wait, so that he died,²¹ or in enmity struck him with his hand, so that he died; he who struck him shall surely be put to death; he is a murderer: the avenger of blood shall put the murderer to death, when he meets him.²² But if he thrust him suddenly without enmity, or hurled on him anything without lying in wait,²³ or with any stone, whereby a man may die, not seeing him, and cast it on him, so that he died, and he was not his enemy, neither sought his harm;²⁴ then the congregation shall judge between the striker and the avenger of blood according to these ordinances;²⁵ and the congregation shall deliver the manslayer out of the hand of the avenger of blood, and the congregation shall restore him to his city of refuge, where he was fled: and he shall dwell therein until the death of the high priest, who was anointed with the holy oil.²⁶ But if the manslayer shall at any time go beyond the border of his city of refuge, where he flees,²⁷ and the avenger of blood find him outside of the border of his city of refuge, and the avenger of blood kill the manslayer; he shall not be guilty of blood,²⁸ because he should have remained in his city of refuge until the death of the high priest: but after the death of the high priest the manslayer shall return into the land of his possession.²⁹ These things shall be for a statute [and] ordinance to you throughout your generations in all your dwellings.³⁰ Whoever kills any person, the murderer shall be slain at the mouth of witnesses: but one witness shall not testify against any person that he die. ³¹ Moreover you shall take no ransom for the life of a murderer who is guilty of death; but he shall surely be put to death. ³² You shall take no ransom for him who is fled to his city of refuge, that he may come again to dwell in the land, until the death of the priest. ³³ So you shall not pollute the land in which you are: for blood, it pollutes the land; and no expiation can be made for the land for the blood that is shed therein, but by the blood of him who shed it. ³⁴ You shall not defile the land which you inhabit, in the midst of which I dwell: for I, Yahawah, dwell in the midst of the children of Yasharaal.

36 The heads of the fathers' [houses] of the family of the children of Galaid, the son of Makayar, the son of Manashah, of the families of the sons of Yawasap, came near, and spoke before Mashah, and before the princes, the heads of the fathers' [houses] of the children of Yasharaal: ² and they said, Yahawah commanded my lord to give the land for inheritance by lot to the children of Yasharaal: and my lord was commanded by Yahawah to give the inheritance of Tzalapachad our brother to his daughters. ³ If they be married to any of the sons of the [other] tribes of the children of Yasharaal, then will their inheritance be taken away from the inheritance of our fathers, and will be added to the inheritance of the tribe whereunto they shall belong; so will it be taken away from the lot of our inheritance. ⁴ When the jubilee of the children of Yasharaal shall be, then will their inheritance be added to the inheritance of the tribe whereunto they shall belong; so will their inheritance be taken away from the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers. ⁵ Mashah commanded the children of Yasharaal according to the word of Yahawah, saying, The tribe of the sons of Yawasap speaks right. ⁶ This is the thing which Yahawah does command concerning the daughters of Tzalapachad, saying, Let them be married to whom they think best; only into the family of the tribe of their father shall they be married. ⁷ So shall no inheritance of the children of Yasharaal remove from tribe to tribe; for the children of Yasharaal shall cleave everyone to the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers. ⁸ Every daughter, who possesses an inheritance in any tribe of the children of Yasharaal, shall be wife to one of the family of the tribe of her father, that the children of Yasharaal may possess every man the inheritance of his fathers. ⁹ So shall no inheritance remove from one tribe to another tribe; for the tribes of the children of Yasharaal shall cleave everyone to his own inheritance. ¹⁰ Even as Yahawah commanded Mashah, so did the daughters of Tzalapachad: ¹¹ for Machalah, Thartzah, and Chagalah, and Malakah, and Nach, the daughters of Tzalapachad, were married to their father's brothers' sons. ¹² They were married into the families of the sons of Manashah the son of Yawasap; and their inheritance remained in the tribe of the family of their father. ¹³ These are the commandments and the ordinances which Yahawah commanded by Mashah to the children of Yasharaal in the plains of Mawaab by the Yardan at Yarayachaw.

Deuteronomy

1 These are the words which Mashah spoke to all Yasharaal beyond the Yarden in the wilderness, in the Irabah over against Sawap, between Paaran, and Thapal, and Laban, and Chatzarawath, and Day-Zahab. ² It is eleven days' [journey] from Charab by the way of Mount Shaiyar to Qadash-Baranai. ³ It happened in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the first day of the month, that Mashah spoke to the children of Yasharaal, according to all that Yahawah had given him in commandment to them; ⁴ after he had struck Sayachawan the king of the Amorites, who lived in Chashabawan, and Og the king of Bashan, who lived in Ishatharawath, at Adaraiy. ⁵ Beyond the Yarden, in the land of Mawaab, began Mashah to declare this law, saying, ⁶ Yahawah our Alahayam spoke to us in Charab, saying, You have lived long enough in this mountain: ⁷ turn you, and take your journey, and go to the hill-country of the Amorites, and to all [the places] near thereunto, in the Irabah, in the hill-country, and in the lowland, and in the South, and by the sea-shore, the land of the Canaanites, and Labanawan, as far as the great river, the river Parath. ⁸ Behold, I have set the land before you: go in and possess the land which Yahawah swore to your fathers, to Abaraham, to Yatzachaq, and to Yaiqab, to give to them and to their seed after them. ⁹ I spoke to you at that time, saying, I am not able to bear you myself alone:

¹⁰ Yahawah your Alahayam has multiplied you, and, behold, you are this day as the stars of the sky for multitude. ¹¹ Yahawah, the Alahayam of your fathers, make you a thousand times as many as you are, and bless you, as he has promised you! ¹² How can I myself alone bear your encumbrance, and your burden, and your strife?

¹³ Take wise men of understanding and well known according to your tribes, and I will make them heads over you. ¹⁴ You answered me, and said, The thing which you have spoken is good [for us] to do. ¹⁵ So I took the heads of your tribes, wise men, and known, and made them heads over you, captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds, and captains of fifties, and captains of tens, and officers, according to your tribes. ¹⁶ I charged your judges at that time, saying, Hear [the causes] between your brothers, and judge righteously between a man and his brother, and the sojourner who is with him. ¹⁷ You shall not show partiality in judgment; you shall hear the small and the great alike; you shall not be afraid of the face of man; for the judgment is Alahayam's: and the cause that is too hard for you you shall bring to me, and I will hear it. ¹⁸ I commanded you at that time all the things which you should do.

¹⁹ We journeyed from Charab, and went through all that great and terrible wilderness which you saw, by the way to the hill-country of the Amorites, as Yahawah our Alahayam commanded us; and we came to Qadash-Baranai. ²⁰ I said to you, You are come to the hill-country of the Amorites, which Yahawah our Alahayam gives to us. ²¹ Behold, Yahawah your Alahayam has set the land before you: go up, take possession, as Yahawah, the Alahayam of your fathers, has spoken to you; don't be afraid, neither be dismayed.

²² You came near to me everyone of you, and said, Let us send men before us, that they may search the land for us, and bring us word again of the way by which we must go up, and the cities to which we shall come. ²³ The thing pleased me well; and I took twelve men of you, one man for every tribe: ²⁴ and they turned and went up into the hill-country, and came to the valley of Ashakal, and spied it out.

²⁵ They took of the fruit of the land in their hands, and brought it down to us, and brought us word again, and said, It is a good land which Yahawah our Alahayam gives to us. ²⁶ Yet you wouldn't go up, but rebelled against the commandment of Yahawah your Alahayam: ²⁷ and you murmured in your tents, and said, Because Yahawah hated us, he has brought us forth out of the land of Matzarayam, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy

us. ²⁸ Where are we going up? our brothers have made our heart to melt, saying, The people are greater and taller than we; the cities are great and fortified up to the sky; and moreover we have seen the sons of the Anakim there. ²⁹ Then I said to you, Don't dread, neither be afraid of them. ³⁰ Yahawah your Alahayam who goes before you, he will fight for you, according to all that he did for you in Matzarayam before your eyes, ³¹ and in the wilderness, where you have seen how that Yahawah your Alahayam bore you, as a man does bear his son, in all the way that you went, until you came to this place. ³² Yet in this thing you didn't believe Yahawah your Alahayam, ³³ who went before you in the way, to seek you out a place to pitch your tents in, in fire by night, to show you by what way you should go, and in the cloud by day. ³⁴ Yahawah heard the voice of your words, and was angry, and swore, saying, ³⁵ Surely there shall not one of these men of this evil generation see the good land, which I swore to give to your fathers, ³⁶ save Kalab the son of Yapanah: he shall see it; and to him will I give the land that he has trodden on, and to his children, because he has wholly followed Yahawah. ³⁷ Also Yahawah was angry with me for your sakes, saying, You also shall not go in there: ³⁸ Yahawashai the son of Nawan, who stands before you, he shall go in there: encourage you him; for he shall cause Yasharaal to inherit it. ³⁹ Moreover your little ones, whom you said should be a prey, and your children, who this day have no knowledge of good or evil, they shall go in there, and to them will I give it, and they shall possess it. ⁴⁰ But as for you, turn you, and take your journey into the wilderness by the way to the Sawap. ⁴¹ Then you answered and said to me, We have sinned against Yahawah, we will go up and fight, according to all that Yahawah our Alahayam commanded us. You girded on every man his weapons of war, and were forward to go up into the hill-country. ⁴² Yahawah said to me, Tell them, Don't go up, neither fight; for I am not among you; lest you be struck before your enemies. ⁴³ So I spoke to you, and you didn't listen; but you rebelled against the commandment of Yahawah, and were presumptuous, and went up into the hill-country. ⁴⁴ The Amorites, who lived in that hill-country, came out against you, and chased you, as bees do, and beat you down in Shaiyar, even to Charamah. ⁴⁵ You returned and wept before Yahawah; but Yahawah didn't listen to your voice, nor gave ear to you. ⁴⁶ So you abode in Qadash many days, according to the days that you abode [there].

2 Then we turned, and took our journey into the wilderness by the way to the Sawap, as Yahawah spoke to me; and we compassed Mount Shaiyar many days. ² Yahawah spoke to me, saying, ³ You have compassed this mountain long enough: turn you northward. ⁴ Command you the people, saying, You are to pass through the border of your brothers the children of Ishaw, who dwell in Shaiyar; and they will be afraid of you: take good heed to yourselves therefore; ⁵ don't contend with them; for I will not give you of their land, no, not so much as for the sole of the foot to tread on; because I have given Mount Shaiyar to Ishaw for a possession. ⁶ You shall purchase food of them for money, that you may eat; and you shall also buy water of them for money, that you may drink. ⁷ For Yahawah your Alahayam has blessed you in all the work of your hand; he has known your walking through this great wilderness: these forty years Yahawah your Alahayam has been with you; you have lacked nothing. ⁸ So we passed by from our brothers the children of Ishaw, who dwell in Shaiyar, from the way of the Irabah from Ayalath and from Gabar. We turned and passed by the way of the wilderness of Mawaab. ⁹ Yahawah said to me, Don't bother Mawaab, neither contend with them in battle; for I will not give you of his land for a possession; because I have given

Ar to the children of Lawat for a possession.¹⁰ (The Amayam lived therein before, a people great, and many, and tall, as the Anakim;¹¹ these also are accounted Rephaim, as the Anakim; but the Moabites call them Amayam.¹² The Horites also lived in Shaiyar before, but the children of Ishaw succeeded them; and they destroyed them from before them, and lived in their place; as Yasharaal did to the land of his possession, which Yahawah gave to them.)¹³ Now rise up, and get you over the brook Zarad. We went over the brook Zarad.¹⁴ The days in which we came from Qadash-Baranai, until we were come over the brook Zarad, were thirty-eight years; until all the generation of the men of war were consumed from the midst of the camp, as Yahawah swore to them.¹⁵ Moreover the hand of Yahawah was against them, to destroy them from the midst of the camp, until they were consumed.¹⁶ So it happened, when all the men of war were consumed and dead from among the people,¹⁷ that Yahawah spoke to me, saying,¹⁸ You are this day to pass over Ar, the border of Mawaab:¹⁹ and when you come near over against the children of Imawan, don't bother them, nor contend with them; for I will not give you of the land of the children of Imawan for a possession; because I have given it to the children of Lawat for a possession.²⁰ (That also is accounted a land of Rephaim: Rephaim lived therein before; but the Imawan call them Zamazamayam,²¹ a people great, and many, and tall, as the Anakim; but Yahawah destroyed them before them; and they succeeded them, and lived in their place;²² as he did for the children of Ishaw, who dwell in Shaiyar, when he destroyed the Horites from before them; and they succeeded them, and lived in their place even to this day:²³ and the Iwayam, who lived in villages as far as Izah, the Caphtorim, who came forth out of Kapathawar, destroyed them, and lived in their place.)²⁴ Rise you up, take your journey, and pass over the valley of the Aranawan: behold, I have given into your hand Sayachawan the Amorite, king of Chashabawan, and his land; begin to possess it, and contend with him in battle.²⁵ This day will I begin to put the dread of you and the fear of you on the peoples who are under the whole sky, who shall hear the report of you, and shall tremble, and be in anguish because of you.²⁶ I sent messengers out of the wilderness of Qadamawath to Sayachawan king of Chashabawan with words of peace, saying,²⁷ Let me pass through your land: I will go along by the highway, I will turn neither to the right hand nor to the left.²⁸ You shall sell me food for money, that I may eat; and give me water for money, that I may drink: only let me pass through on my feet,²⁹ as the children of Ishaw who dwell in Shaiyar, and the Moabites who dwell in Ar, did to me; until I shall pass over the Yaradan into the land which Yahawah our Alahayam gives us.³⁰ But Sayachawan king of Chashabawan would not let us pass by him; for Yahawah your Alahayam hardened his spirit, and made his heart obstinate, that he might deliver him into your hand, as at this day.³¹ Yahawah said to me, Behold, I have begun to deliver up Sayachawan and his land before you: begin to possess, that you may inherit his land.³² Then Sayachawan came out against us, he and all his people, to battle at Yahatz.³³ Yahawah our Alahayam delivered him up before us; and we struck him, and his sons, and all his people.³⁴ We took all his cities at that time, and utterly destroyed every inhabited city, with the women and the little ones; we left none remaining:³⁵ only the cattle we took for a prey to ourselves, with the spoil of the cities which we had taken.³⁶ From Irair, which is on the edge of the valley of the Aranawan, and [from] the city that is in the valley, even to Galaïd, there was not a city too high for us; Yahawah our Alahayam delivered up all before us:³⁷ only to the land of the children of Imawan you didn't come near; all the side of the river Yabaq, and the cities of the hill-country, and wherever Yahawah our Alahayam forbade us.

3 Then we turned, and went up the way to Bashan: and Og the king of Bashan came out against us, he and all his people, to battle at Adarai.² Yahawah said to me, Don't fear him; for I have delivered him, and all his people, and his land, into your hand; and you shall do to him as you did to Sayachawan king of the Amorites, who lived at Chashabawan.³ So Yahawah our Alahayam delivered into our hand Og also, the king of Bashan, and all his people: and we struck him until none was left to him remaining.⁴ We took all his cities at that time; there was not a city which we didn't take from them; sixty cities, all the region of Aragab, the kingdom of Og in Bashan.⁵ All these were cities fortified with high walls, gates, and bars; besides the unwall'd towns a great many.⁶ We utterly destroyed them, as we did to Sayachawan king of Chashabawan, utterly destroying every inhabited city, with the women and the little ones.⁷ But all the cattle, and the spoil of the cities, we took for a prey to ourselves.⁸ We took the land at that time out of the hand of the two kings of the Amorites who were beyond the Yaradan, from the valley of the Aranawan to Mount Charamawan;⁹ ([which] Charamawan the Sidonians call Sharayan, and the Amorites call it Shanayar;)¹⁰ all the cities of the plain, and all Galaïd, and all Bashan, to Salecah and Adarai, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan.¹¹ (For only Og king of Bashan remained of the remnant of the Rephaim; behold, his bedstead was a bedstead of iron; isn't it in Rabah of the children of Imawan? nine cubits was the length of it, and four cubits the breadth of it, after the cubit of a man.)¹² This land we took in possession at that time: from Irair, which is by the valley of the Aranawan, and half the hill-country of Galaïd, and the cities of it, gave I to the Reubenites and to the Gadites;¹³ and the rest of Galaïd, and all Bashan, the kingdom of Og, gave I to the half-tribe of Manashah; all the region of Aragab, even all Bashan. (The same is called the land of Rephaim.¹⁴ Yaayar the son of Manashah took all the region of Aragab, to the border of the Geshurites and the Maacathites, and called them, even Bashan, after his own name, Havvoth-Yaayar, to this day.)¹⁵ I gave Galaïd to Makayar.¹⁶ To the Reubenites and to the Gadites I gave from Galaïd even to the valley of the Aranawan, the middle of the valley, and the border [of it], even to the river Yabaq, which is the border of the children of Imawan;¹⁷ the Irabah also, and the Yaradan and the border [of it], from Kanarath even to the sea of the Irabah, the Salt Sea, under the slopes of Pasagah eastward.¹⁸ I commanded you at that time, saying, Yahawah your Alahayam has given you this land to possess it: you shall pass over armed before your brothers the children of Yasharaal, all the men of valor.¹⁹ But your wives, and your little ones, and your cattle, (I know that you have much cattle,) shall abide in your cities which I have given you,²⁰ until Yahawah give rest to your brothers, as to you, and they also possess the land which Yahawah your Alahayam gives them beyond the Yaradan: then shall you return every man to his possession, which I have given you.²¹ I commanded Yahawashai at that time, saying, Your eyes have seen all that Yahawah your Alahayam has done to these two kings; so shall Yahawah do to all the kingdoms where you go over.²² You shall not fear them; for Yahawah your Alahayam, he it is who fights for you.²³ I begged Yahawah at that time, saying,²⁴ Adanay Yahawah, you have begun to show your servant your greatness, and your strong hand: for what god is there in heaven or in earth, that can do according to your works, and according to your mighty acts?²⁵ Please let me go over and see the good land that is beyond the Yaradan, that goodly mountain, and Labanawan.²⁶ But Yahawah was angry with me for your sakes, and didn't listen to me; and Yahawah said to me, Let it suffice you; speak no more to me of this matter.²⁷ Get you up to the top of Pasagah, and lift up your eyes westward, and northward, and southward, and eastward, and see with your eyes: for you shall not go over this Yaradan.²⁸ But charge Yahawashai, and encourage him, and strengthen him; for he shall go over before this people, and he shall cause them to inherit the land which you shall see.²⁹ So we abode in the valley over against Bayath-Paiwar.

4 Now, Yasharaal, listen to the statutes and to the ordinances, which I teach you, to do them; that you may live, and go in and possess the land which Yahawah, the Alahayam of your fathers, gives you.² You shall not add to the word which I command you, neither shall you diminish from it, that you may keep the commandments of Yahawah your Alahayam which I command you.³ Your eyes have seen what Yahawah did because of Bail; for all the men who followed Bail, Yahawah your Alahayam has destroyed them from the midst of you.⁴ But you who did cleave to Yahawah your Alahayam are alive everyone of you this day.⁵ Behold, I have taught you statutes and ordinances, even as Yahawah my Alahayam commanded me, that you should do so in the midst of the land where you go in to possess it.⁶ Keep therefore and do them; for this is your wisdom and your understanding in the sight of the peoples, who shall hear all these statutes, and say, Surely this great nation is a wise and understanding people.⁷ For what great nation is there, that has a god so near to them, as Yahawah our Alahayam is whenever we call on him?⁸ What great nation is there, that has statutes and ordinances so righteous as all this law, which I set before you this day?⁹ Only take heed to yourself, and keep your soul diligently, lest you forget the things which your eyes saw, and lest they depart from your heart all the days of your life; but make them known to your children and your children's children;¹⁰ the day that you stood before Yahawah your Alahayam in Charab, when Yahawah said to me, Assemble me the people, and I will make them hear my words, that they may learn to fear me all the days that they live on the earth, and that they may teach their children.¹¹ You came near and stood under the mountain; and the mountain burned with fire to the heart of the sky, with darkness, cloud, and thick darkness.¹² Yahawah spoke to you out of the midst of the fire: you heard the voice of words, but you saw no form; only [you heard] a voice.¹³ He declared to you his covenant, which he commanded you to perform, even the ten commandments; and he wrote them on two tables of stone.¹⁴ Yahawah commanded me at that time to teach you statutes and ordinances, that you might do them in the land where you go over to possess it.¹⁵ Take therefore good heed to yourselves; for you saw no manner of form on the day that Yahawah spoke to you in Charab out of the midst of the fire.¹⁶ Lest you corrupt yourselves, and make yourself an engraved image in the form of any figure, the likeness of male or female,¹⁷ the likeness of any animal that is on the earth, the likeness of any winged bird that flies in the sky,¹⁸ the likeness of anything that creeps on the ground, the likeness of any fish that is in the water under the earth;¹⁹ and lest you lift up your eyes to the sky, and when you see the sun and the moon and the stars, even all the host of the sky, you be drawn away and worship them, and serve them, which Yahawah your Alahayam has allotted to all the peoples under the whole sky.²⁰ But Yahawah has taken you, and brought you forth out of the iron furnace, out of Matzarayam, to be to him a people of inheritance, as at this day.²¹ Furthermore Yahawah was angry with me for your sakes, and swore that I should not go over the Yaradan, and that I should not go in to that good land, which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you for an inheritance:²² but I must die in this land, I must not go over the Yaradan; but you shall go over, and possess that good land.²³ Take heed to yourselves, lest you forget the covenant of Yahawah your Alahayam, which he made with you, and make you an engraved image in the form of anything which Yahawah your Alahayam has forbidden you.²⁴ For Yahawah your Alahayam is a devouring fire, a jealous Alahayam.²⁵ When you shall father children, and children's children, and you shall have been long in the land, and shall corrupt yourselves, and make an engraved image in the form of anything, and shall do that which is evil in the sight of Yahawah your Alahayam, to provoke him to anger;²⁶ I call heaven and earth to witness against you this day, that you shall soon utterly perish from off the land whereunto you go over the Yaradan to possess it; you shall not prolong your days on it, but shall utterly be destroyed.²⁷ Yahawah will scatter you among the peoples, and you shall be left few in number among the nations, where Yahawah shall lead you away.²⁸ There you shall serve gods, the work of men's hands, wood and stone, which neither see, nor hear, nor eat, nor smell.²⁹ But from there you shall seek Yahawah your Alahayam, and you shall find him, when you search after him with all your heart and with all your soul.³⁰ When you are in oppression, and all these things are come on you, in the latter days you shall return to Yahawah your Alahayam, and listen to his voice:³¹ for Yahawah your Alahayam is a merciful Alahayam; he will not fail

you, neither destroy you, nor forget the covenant of your fathers which he swore to them.³² For ask now of the days that are past, which were before you, since the day that Alahayam created man on the earth, and from the one end of the sky to the other, whether there has been [any such thing] as this great thing is, or has been heard like it?³³ Did ever a people hear the voice of Alahayam speaking out of the midst of the fire, as you have heard, and live?³⁴ Or has Alahayam tried to go and take him a nation from the midst of [another] nation, by trials, by signs, and by wonders, and by war, and by a mighty hand, and by an outstretched arm, and by great terrors, according to all that Yahawah your Alahayam did for you in Matzarayam before your eyes?³⁵ To you it was showed, that you might know that Yahawah he is Alahayam; there is none else besides him.³⁶ Out of heaven he made you to hear his voice, that he might instruct you: and on earth he made you to see his great fire; and you heard his words out of the midst of the fire.³⁷ Because he loved your fathers, therefore he chose their seed after them, and brought you out with his presence, with his great power, out of Matzarayam;³⁸ to drive out nations from before you greater and mightier than you, to bring you in, to give you their land for an inheritance, as at this day.³⁹ Know therefore this day, and lay it to your heart, that Yahawah he is Alahayam in heaven above and on the earth beneath; there is none else.⁴⁰ You shall keep his statutes, and his commandments, which I command you this day, that it may go well with you, and with your children after you, and that you may prolong your days in the land, which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you, forever.⁴¹ Then Mashah set apart three cities beyond the Yaradan toward the sunrise;⁴² that the manslayer might flee there, who kills his neighbor unawares, and didn't hate him in time past; and that fleeing to one of these cities he might live:⁴³ [namely], Batzar in the wilderness, in the plain country, for the Reubenites; and Raamawath in Galaid, for the Gadites; and Gawalan in Bashan, for the Manassites.⁴⁴ This is the law which Mashah set before the children of Yasharaal:⁴⁵ these are the testimonies, and the statutes, and the ordinances, which Mashah spoke to the children of Yasharaal, when they came forth out of Matzarayam,⁴⁶ beyond the Yaradan, in the valley over against Bayath-Paiwar, in the land of Sayachawan king of the Amorites, who lived at Chashabawan, whom Mashah and the children of Yasharaal struck, when they came forth out of Matzarayam.⁴⁷ They took his land in possession, and the land of Og king of Bashan, the two kings of the Amorites, who were beyond the Yaradan toward the sunrise;⁴⁸ from Irair, which is on the edge of the valley of the Aranawan, even to Mount Shayaan (the same is Charamawan),⁴⁹ and all the Irabah beyond the Yaradan eastward, even to the sea of the Irabah, under the slopes of Pasagah.

5 Mashah called to all Yasharaal, and said to them, Hear, Yasharaal, the statutes and the ordinances which I speak in your ears this day, that you may learn them, and observe to do them.² Yahawah our Alahayam made a covenant with us in Charab.³ Yahawah didn't make this covenant with our fathers, but with us, even us, who are all of us here alive this day.⁴ Yahawah spoke with you face to face on the mountain out of the midst of the fire,⁵ (I stood between Yahawah and you at that time, to show you the word of Yahawah: for you were afraid because of the fire, and didn't go up onto the mountain;) saying,⁶ "I am Yahawah your Alahayam, who brought you out of the land of Matzarayam, out of the house of bondage.⁷ You shall have no other gods before me.⁸ "You shall not make an engraved image for yourself, [nor] any likeness [of anything] that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth:⁹ you shall not bow down yourself to them, nor serve them; for I, Yahawah, your Alahayam, am a jealous Alahayam, visiting the iniquity of the fathers on the children, and on the third and on the fourth generation of those who hate me;¹⁰ and showing lovingkindness to thousands of those who love me and keep my commandments.¹¹ "You shall not take the name of Yahawah your Alahayam in vain: for Yahawah will not hold him guiltless who takes his name in vain.¹² "Observe the Sabbath day, to keep it holy, as Yahawah your Alahayam commanded you.¹³ Six days shall you labor, and do all your work;¹⁴ but the seventh day is a Sabbath to Yahawah your Alahayam: [in it] you shall not do any work, you, nor your son, nor your daughter, nor your man-servant, nor your maid-servant, nor your ox, nor your donkey, nor any of your cattle, nor your stranger who is within your gates; that your man-servant and your maid-servant may rest as well as you.¹⁵ You shall remember that you were a servant in the land of Matzarayam, and Yahawah your Alahayam brought you out of there by a mighty hand and by an outstretched arm: therefore Yahawah your Alahayam commanded you to keep the Sabbath day.¹⁶ "Honor your father and your mother, as Yahawah your Alahayam commanded you; that your days may be long, and that it may go well with you, in the land which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you.¹⁷ "You shall not murder.¹⁸ "Neither shall you commit adultery.¹⁹ "Neither shall you steal.²⁰ "Neither shall you give false testimony against your neighbor.²¹ "Neither shall you covet your neighbor's wife; neither shall you desire your neighbor's house, his field, or his man-servant, or his maid-servant, his ox, or his donkey, or anything that is your neighbor's."²² These words Yahawah spoke to all your assembly on the mountain out of the midst of the fire, of the cloud, and of the thick darkness, with a great voice: and he added no more. He wrote them on two tables of stone, and gave them to me.²³ It happened, when you heard the voice out of the midst of the darkness, while the mountain was burning with fire, that you came near to me, even all the heads of your tribes, and your elders;²⁴ and you said, Behold, Yahawah our Alahayam has showed us his glory and his greatness, and we have heard his voice out of the midst of the fire: we have seen this day that Alahayam does speak with man, and he lives.²⁵ Now therefore why should we die? for this great fire will consume us: if we hear the voice of Yahawah our Alahayam any more, then we shall die.²⁶ For who is there of all flesh, that has heard the voice of the living Alahayam speaking out of the midst of the fire, as we have, and lived?²⁷ Go you near, and hear all that Yahawah our Alahayam shall say: and speak you to us all that Yahawah our Alahayam shall speak to you; and we will hear it, and do it.²⁸ Yahawah heard the voice of your words, when you spoke to me; and Yahawah said to me, I have heard the voice of the words of this people, which they have spoken to you: they have well said all that they have spoken.²⁹ Oh that there were such a heart in them, that they would fear me, and keep all my commandments always, that it might be well with them, and with their children forever!³⁰ Go tell them, Return you to your tents.³¹ But as for you, stand you here by me, and I will speak to you all the commandment, and the statutes, and the ordinances, which you shall teach them, that they may do them in the land which I give them to possess it.³² You shall observe to do therefore as Yahawah your Alahayam has commanded you: you shall not turn aside to the right hand or to the left.³³ You shall walk in all the way which Yahawah your Alahayam has commanded you, that you may live, and that it may be well with you, and that you may prolong your days in the land which you shall possess.

6 Now this is the commandment, the statutes, and the ordinances, which Yahawah your Alahayam commanded to teach you, that you might do them in the land where you go over to possess it;² that you might fear Yahawah your Alahayam, to keep all his statutes and his commandments, which I command you, you, and your son, and your son's son, all the days of your life; and that your days may be prolonged.³ Hear therefore, Yasharaal, and observe to do it; that it may be well with you, and that you may increase mightily, as Yahawah, the Alahayam of your fathers, has promised to you, in a land flowing with milk and honey.⁴ Hear, Yasharaal: Yahawah is our Alahayam; Yahawah is one:⁵ and you shall love Yahawah your Alahayam with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your might.⁶ These words, which I command you this day, shall be on your heart;⁷ and you shall teach them diligently to your children, and shall talk of them when you sit in your house, and when you walk by the way, and when you lie down, and when you rise up.⁸ You shall bind them for a sign on your hand, and they shall be for symbols between your eyes.⁹ You shall write them on the door-posts of your house, and on your gates.¹⁰ It shall be, when Yahawah your Alahayam shall bring you into the land which he swore to your fathers, to Abaraham, to Yatzachaq, and to Yaiqab, to give you, great and goodly cities, which you didn't build,¹¹ and houses full of all good things, which you didn't fill, and cisterns dug out, which you didn't dig, vineyards and olive-trees, which you didn't plant, and you shall eat and be full;¹² then beware lest you forget Yahawah, who brought you forth out of the land of Matzarayam, out of the house of bondage.¹³ You shall fear Yahawah your Alahayam; and him shall you serve, and shall swear by his name.¹⁴ You shall not go after other gods, of the gods of the peoples who are round about you;¹⁵ for Yahawah your Alahayam in the midst of you is a jealous Alahayam; lest the anger of Yahawah your Alahayam be kindled against you, and he destroy you from off the face of the earth.¹⁶ You shall not tempt Yahawah your Alahayam, as you tempted him in Masah.¹⁷ You shall diligently keep the commandments of Yahawah your Alahayam, and his testimonies, and his statutes, which he has commanded you.¹⁸ You shall do that which is right and good in the sight of Yahawah; that it may be well with you, and that you may go in and possess the good land which Yahawah swore to your fathers,¹⁹ to thrust out all your enemies from before you, as Yahawah has spoken.²⁰ When your son asks you in time to come, saying, What mean the testimonies, and the statutes, and the ordinances, which Yahawah our Alahayam has commanded you?²¹ then you shall tell your son, We were Paraih's bondservants in Matzarayam; and Yahawah brought us out of Matzarayam with a mighty hand;²² and Yahawah showed signs and wonders, great and sore, on Matzarayam, on Paraih, and on all his house, before our eyes;²³ and he brought us out from there, that he might bring us in, to give us the land which he swore to our fathers.²⁴ Yahawah commanded us to do all these statutes, to fear Yahawah our Alahayam, for our good always, that he might preserve us alive, as at this day.²⁵ It shall be righteousness to us, if we observe to do all this commandment before Yahawah our Alahayam, as he has commanded us.

7 When Yahawah your Alahayam shall bring you into the land where you go to possess it, and shall cast out many nations before you, the Hittite, and the Girgashite, and the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite, seven nations greater and mightier than you;² and when Yahawah your Alahayam shall deliver them up before you, and you shall strike them; then you shall utterly destroy them: you shall make no covenant with them, nor show mercy to them;³ neither shall you make marriages with them; your daughter you shall not give to his son, nor his daughter shall you take to your son.⁴ For he will turn away your son from following me, that they may serve other gods: so will the anger of Yahawah be kindled against you, and he will destroy you quickly.⁵ But thus shall you deal with them: you shall break down their altars, and dash in pieces their pillars, and hew down their Asherim, and burn their engraved images with fire.⁶ For you are a holy people to Yahawah your Alahayam: Yahawah your Alahayam has chosen you to be a people for his own possession, above all peoples who are on the face of the earth.⁷ Yahawah didn't set his love on you, nor choose you, because you were more in number than any people; for you were the fewest of all peoples:⁸ but because Yahawah loves you, and because he would keep the oath which he swore to your fathers, has Yahawah brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the house of bondage, from the hand of Paraih king of Matzarayam.⁹ Know therefore that Yahawah your Alahayam, he is Alahayam, the faithful Alahayam, who keeps covenant and lovingkindness with them who love him and keep his commandments to a thousand generations,¹⁰ and repays those who hate him to their face, to destroy them: he will not be slack to him who hates him, he will repay him to his face.¹¹ You shall therefore keep the commandment, and the statutes, and the ordinances, which I command you this day, to do them.¹² It shall happen, because you listen to these ordinances, and keep and do them, that Yahawah your Alahayam will keep with you the covenant and the lovingkindness which he swore to your fathers:¹³ and he will love you, and bless you, and multiply you; he will also bless the fruit of your body and the fruit of your ground, your grain and your new wine and your oil, the increase of your cattle and the young of your flock, in the land which he swore to your fathers to give you.¹⁴ You shall be blessed above all peoples: there shall not be male or female barren among you, or among your cattle.¹⁵ Yahawah will take away from you all sickness; and none of the evil diseases of Matzarayam, which you know, will he put on you, but will lay them on all those who hate you.¹⁶ You shall consume all the peoples who Yahawah your Alahayam shall deliver to you; your eye shall not pity them; neither shall you serve their gods; for that will be a snare to you.¹⁷ If you shall say in your heart, These nations are more than I; how can I dispossess them?¹⁸ you shall not be afraid of them: you shall well remember what Yahawah your Alahayam did to Paraih, and to all Matzarayam;¹⁹ the great trials which your eyes saw, and the signs, and the wonders, and the mighty hand, and the outstretched arm, whereby Yahawah your Alahayam brought you out: so shall Yahawah your Alahayam do to all the peoples of whom you are afraid.²⁰ Moreover Yahawah your Alahayam will send the hornet among them, until those who are left, and hide themselves, perish from before you.²¹ You shall not be scared of them; for Yahawah your Alahayam is in the midst of you, a great and awesome Alahayam.²² Yahawah your Alahayam will cast out those nations before you by little and little: you may not consume them at once, lest the animals of the field increase on you.²³ But Yahawah your Alahayam will deliver them up before you, and will confuse them with a great confusion, until they be destroyed.²⁴ He will deliver their kings into your hand, and you shall make their name to perish from under the sky: there shall no man be able to stand before you, until you have destroyed them.²⁵ The engraved images of their gods shall you burn with fire: you shall not covet the silver or the gold that is on them, nor take it to you, lest you be snared therein; for it is an abomination to Yahawah your Alahayam.²⁶ You shall not bring an abomination into your house, and become a devoted thing like it: you shall utterly detest it, and you shall utterly abhor it; for it is a devoted thing.

8 All the commandment which I command you this day shall you observe to do, that you may live, and multiply, and go in and possess the land which Yahawah swore to your fathers.² You shall remember all the way which Yahawah your Alahayam has led you these forty years in the wilderness, that he might humble you, to prove you, to know what was in your heart, whether you would keep his commandments, or not.³ He humbled you, and allowed you to hunger, and fed you with manna, which you didn't know, neither did your fathers know; that he might make you know that man does not live by bread only, but by everything that proceeds out of the mouth of Yahawah does man live.⁴ Your clothing didn't grow old on you, neither did your foot swell, these forty years.⁵ You shall consider in your heart that as a man chastens his son, so Yahawah your Alahayam chastens you.⁶ You shall keep the commandments of Yahawah your Alahayam, to walk in his ways, and to fear him.⁷ For Yahawah your Alahayam brings you into a good land, a land of brooks of water, of springs and springs, flowing forth in valleys and hills;⁸ a land of wheat and barley, and vines and fig-trees and pomegranates; a land of olive-trees and honey;⁹ a land in which you shall eat bread without scarceness, you shall not lack anything in it; a land whose stones are iron, and out of whose hills you may dig copper.¹⁰ You shall eat and be full, and you shall bless Yahawah your Alahayam for the good land which he has given you.¹¹ Beware lest you forget Yahawah your Alahayam, in not keeping his commandments, and his ordinances, and his statutes, which I command you this day:¹² lest, when you have eaten and are full, and have built goodly houses, and lived therein;¹³ and when your herds and your flocks multiply, and your silver and your gold is multiplied, and all that you have is multiplied;¹⁴ then your heart be lifted up, and you forget Yahawah your Alahayam, who brought you forth out of the land of Matzarayam, out of the house of bondage;¹⁵ who led you through the great and terrible wilderness, [in which were] fiery serpents and scorpions, and thirsty ground where was no water; who brought you forth water out of the rock of flint;¹⁶ who fed you in the wilderness with manna, which your fathers didn't know; that he might humble you, and that he might prove you, to do you good at your latter end:¹⁷ and [lest] you say in your heart, My power and the might of my hand has gotten me this wealth.¹⁸ But you shall remember Yahawah your Alahayam, for it is he who gives you power to get wealth; that he may establish his covenant which he swore to your fathers, as at this day.¹⁹ It shall be, if you shall forget Yahawah your Alahayam, and walk after other gods, and serve them, and worship them, I testify against you this day that you shall surely perish.²⁰ As the nations that Yahawah makes to perish before you, so shall you perish; because you wouldn't listen to the voice of Yahawah your Alahayam.

9 Hear, Yasharaal: you are to pass over the Yarden this day, to go in to dispossess nations greater and mightier than yourself, cities great and fortified up to the sky,² a people great and tall, the sons of the Anakim, whom you know, and of whom you have heard say, Who can stand before the sons of Inaq?³ Know therefore this day, that Yahawah your Alahayam is he who goes over before you as a devouring fire; he will destroy them, and he will bring them down before you: so shall you drive them out, and make them to perish quickly, as Yahawah has spoken to you.⁴ Don't speak in your heart, after that Yahawah your Alahayam has thrust them out from before you, saying, For my righteousness Yahawah has brought me in to possess this land; whereas for the wickedness of these nations Yahawah does drive them out from before you.⁵ Not for your righteousness, or for the uprightness of your heart, do you go in to possess their land; but for the wickedness of these nations Yahawah your Alahayam does drive them out from before you, and that he may establish the word which Yahawah swore to your fathers, to Abaraham, to Yatzachaq, and to Yaiqab.⁶ Know therefore, that Yahawah your Alahayam doesn't give you this good land to possess it for your righteousness; for you are a stiff-necked people.⁷ Remember, don't forget, how you provoked Yahawah your Alahayam to wrath in the wilderness: from the day that you went forth out of the land of Matzarayam, until you came to this place, you have been rebellious against Yahawah.⁸ Also in Charab you provoked Yahawah to wrath, and Yahawah was angry with you to destroy you.⁹ When I was gone up onto the mountain to receive the tables of stone, even the tables of the covenant which Yahawah made with you, then I stayed on the mountain forty days and forty nights; I did neither eat bread nor drink water.¹⁰ Yahawah delivered to me the two tables of stone written with the finger of Alahayam; and on them [was written] according to all the words, which Yahawah spoke with you on the mountain out of the midst of the fire in the day of the assembly.¹¹ It came to pass at the end of forty days and forty nights, that Yahawah gave me the two tables of stone, even the tables of the covenant.¹² Yahawah said to me, Arise, get you down quickly from hence; for your people whom you have brought forth out of Matzarayam have corrupted themselves; they have quickly turned aside out of the way which I commanded them; they have made them a molten image.¹³ Furthermore Yahawah spoke to me, saying, I have seen this people, and, behold, it is a stiff-necked people:¹⁴ let me alone, that I may destroy them, and blot out their name from under the sky; and I will make of you a nation mightier and greater than they.¹⁵ So I turned and came down from the mountain, and the mountain was burning with fire: and the two tables of the covenant were in my two hands.¹⁶ I looked, and, behold, you had sinned against Yahawah your Alahayam; you had made you a molten calf: you had turned aside quickly out of the way which Yahawah had commanded you.¹⁷ I took hold of the two tables, and cast them out of my two hands, and broke them before your eyes.¹⁸ I fell down before Yahawah, as at the first, forty days and forty nights; I did neither eat bread nor drink water; because of all your sin which you sinned, in doing that which was evil in the sight of Yahawah, to provoke him to anger.¹⁹ For I was afraid of the anger and hot displeasure, with which Yahawah was angry against you to destroy you. But Yahawah listened to me that time also.²⁰ Yahawah was very angry with Aharan to destroy him; and I prayed for Aharan also at the same time.²¹ I took your sin, the calf which you had made, and burnt it with fire, and stamped it, grinding it very small, until it was as fine as dust: and I cast the dust of it into the brook that descended out of the mountain.²² At Thabairah, and at Masah, and at Hathaawah, you provoked Yahawah to wrath.²³ When Yahawah sent you from Qadash-Baranai, saying, Go up and possess the land which I have given you; then you rebelled against the commandment of Yahawah your Alahayam, and you didn't believe him, nor listen to his voice.²⁴ You have been rebellious against Yahawah from the day that I knew you.²⁵ So I fell down before Yahawah the forty days and forty nights that I fell down, because Yahawah had said he would destroy you.²⁶ I prayed to Yahawah, and said, Adanay Yahawah, don't destroy your people and your inheritance, that you have redeemed through your greatness, that you have brought forth out of Matzarayam with a mighty hand.²⁷ Remember your servants, Abaraham, Yatzachaq, and Yaiqab; don't look to the stubbornness of this people, nor to their wickedness, nor to their sin,²⁸ lest the land whence you brought us out say, Because Yahawah was not able to bring them into the land which he promised to them, and because he hated them, he has brought them out to kill them in the wilderness.²⁹ Yet they are your people and your inheritance, which you brought out by your great power and by your outstretched arm.

10 At that time Yahawah said to me, Hew you two tables of stone like the first, and come up to me onto the mountain, and make an ark of wood.² I will write on the tables the words that were on the first tables which you broke, and you shall put them in the ark.³ So I made an ark of acacia wood, and hewed two tables of stone like the first, and went up onto the mountain, having the two tables in my hand.⁴ He wrote on the tables, according to the first writing, the ten commandments, which Yahawah spoke to you on the mountain out of the midst of the fire in the day of the assembly: and Yahawah gave them to me.⁵ I turned and came down from the mountain, and put the tables in the ark which I had made; and there they are as Yahawah commanded me.⁶ (The children of Yasharaal journeyed from Baarawath Banay to Moserah. There Aharan died, and there he was buried; and Alaizar his son ministered in the priest's office in his place.⁷ From there they journeyed to Gadagad; and from Gadagad to Yatabathah, a land of brooks of water.⁸ At that time Yahawah set apart the tribe of Laway, to bear the ark of the covenant of Yahawah, to stand before Yahawah to minister to him, and to bless in his name, to this day.⁹ Therefore Laway has no portion nor inheritance with his brothers; Yahawah is his inheritance, according as Yahawah your Alahayam spoke to him.)¹⁰ I stayed on the mountain, as at the first time, forty days and forty nights: and Yahawah listened to me that time also; Yahawah would not destroy you.¹¹ Yahawah said to me, Arise, take your journey before the people; and they shall go in and possess the land, which I swore to their fathers to give to them.¹² Now, Yasharaal, what does Yahawah your Alahayam require of you, but to fear Yahawah your Alahayam, to walk in all his ways, and to love him, and to serve Yahawah your Alahayam with all your heart and with all your soul,¹³ to keep the commandments of Yahawah, and his statutes, which I command you this day for your good?¹⁴ Behold, to Yahawah your Alahayam belongs heaven and the heaven of heavens, the earth, with all that is therein.¹⁵ Only Yahawah had a delight in your fathers to love them, and he chose their seed after them, even you above all peoples, as at this day.¹⁶ Circumcise therefore the foreskin of your heart, and be no more stiff-necked.¹⁷ For Yahawah your Alahayam, he is Alahayam of gods, and Adanay of lords, the great Alahayam, the mighty, and the awesome, who doesn't regard persons, nor takes reward.¹⁸ He does execute justice for the fatherless and widow, and loves the sojourner, in giving him food and clothing.¹⁹ Love you therefore the sojourner; for you were sojourners in the land of Matzarayam.²⁰ You shall fear Yahawah your Alahayam; him shall you serve; and to him shall you cleave, and by his name shall you swear.²¹ He is your praise, and he is your Alahayam, who has done for you these great and awesome things, which your eyes have seen.²² Your fathers went down into Matzarayam with seventy persons; and now Yahawah your Alahayam has made you as the stars of the sky for multitude.

11 Therefore you shall love Yahawah your Alahayam, and keep his charge, and his statutes, and his ordinances, and his commandments, always.² Know you this day: for I don't speak with your children who have not known, and who have not seen the chastisement of Yahawah your Alahayam, his greatness, his mighty hand, and his outstretched arm,³ and his signs, and his works, which he did in the midst of Matzarayam to Paraih the king of Matzarayam, and to all his land;⁴ and what he did to the army of Matzarayam, to their horses, and to their chariots; how he made the water of the Sawap to overflow them as they pursued after you, and how Yahawah has destroyed them to this day;⁵ and what he did to you in the wilderness, until you came to this place;⁶ and what he did to Dathan and Abayaram, the sons of Alayaab, the son of Raawaban; how the earth opened its mouth, and swallowed them up, and their households, and their tents, and every living thing that followed them, in the midst of all Yasharaal:⁷ but your eyes have seen all the great work of Yahawah which he did.⁸ Therefore shall you keep all the commandment which I command you this day, that you may be strong, and go in and possess the land, where you go over to possess it;⁹ and that you may prolong your days in the land, which Yahawah swore to your fathers to give to them and to their seed, a land flowing with milk and honey.¹⁰ For the land, where you go in to possess it, isn't as the land of Matzarayam, from whence you came out, where you sowed your seed, and watered it with your foot, as a garden of herbs;¹¹ but the land, where you go over to possess it, is a land of hills and valleys, [and] drinks water of the rain of the sky,¹² a land which Yahawah your Alahayam cares for: the eyes of Yahawah your Alahayam are always on it, from the beginning of the year even to the end of the year.¹³ It shall happen, if you shall listen diligently to my commandments which I command you this day, to love Yahawah your Alahayam, and to serve him with all your heart and with all your soul,¹⁴ that I will give the rain of your land in its season, the former rain and the latter rain, that you may gather in your grain, and your new wine, and your oil.¹⁵ I will give grass in your fields for your cattle, and you shall eat and be full.¹⁶ Take heed to yourselves, lest your heart be deceived, and you turn aside, and serve other gods, and worship them;¹⁷ and the anger of Yahawah be kindled against you, and he shut up the sky, so that there shall be no rain, and the land shall not yield its fruit; and you perish quickly from off the good land which Yahawah gives you.¹⁸ Therefore shall you lay up these my words in your heart and in your soul; and you shall bind them for a sign on your hand, and they shall be for symbols between your eyes.¹⁹ You shall teach them your children, talking of them, when you sit in your house, and when you walk by the way, and when you lie down, and when you rise up.²⁰ You shall write them on the door-posts of your house, and on your gates;²¹ that your days may be multiplied, and the days of your children, in the land which Yahawah swore to your fathers to give them, as the days of the heavens above the earth.²² For if you shall diligently keep all this commandment which I command you, to do it, to love Yahawah your Alahayam, to walk in all his ways, and to cleave to him;²³ then will Yahawah drive out all these nations from before you, and you shall dispossess nations greater and mightier than yourselves.²⁴ Every place whereon the sole of your foot shall tread shall be yours: from the wilderness, and Labanawan, from the river, the river Parath, even to the hinder sea shall be your border.²⁵ There shall no man be able to stand before you: Yahawah your Alahayam shall lay the fear of you and the dread of you on all the land that you shall tread on, as he has spoken to you.²⁶ Behold, I set before you this day a blessing and a curse:²⁷ the blessing, if you shall listen to the commandments of Yahawah your Alahayam, which I command you this day;²⁸ and the curse, if you shall not listen to the commandments of Yahawah your Alahayam, but turn aside out of the way which I command you this day, to go after other gods, which you have not known.²⁹ It shall happen, when Yahawah your Alahayam shall bring you into the land where you go to possess it, that you shall set the blessing on Mount Garazayam, and the curse on Mount Iyabal.³⁰ Aren't they beyond the Yaradan, behind the way of the going down of the sun, in the land of the Canaanites who dwell in the Irabah, over against Galagal, beside the oaks of Mawarah?³¹ For you are to pass over the Yaradan to go in to possess the land which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you, and you shall possess it, and dwell therein.³² You shall observe to do all the statutes and the ordinances which I set before you this day.

12 These are the statutes and the ordinances which you shall observe to do in the land which Yahawah, the Alahayam of your fathers, has given you to possess it, all the days that you live on the earth.² You shall surely destroy all the places in which the nations that you shall dispossess served their gods, on the high mountains, and on the hills, and under every green tree:³ and you shall break down their altars, and dash in pieces their pillars, and burn their Asherim with fire; and you shall cut down the engraved images of their gods; and you shall destroy their name out of that place.⁴ You shall not do so to Yahawah your Alahayam.⁵ But to the place which Yahawah your Alahayam shall choose out of all your tribes, to put his name there, even to his habitation shall you seek, and there you shall come;⁶ and there you shall bring your burnt offerings, and your sacrifices, and your tithes, and the heave-offering of your hand, and your vows, and your freewill-offerings, and the firstborn of your herd and of your flock:⁷ and there you shall eat before Yahawah your Alahayam, and you shall rejoice in all that you put your hand to, you and your households, in which Yahawah your Alahayam has blessed you.⁸ You shall not do after all the things that we do here this day, every man whatever is right in his own eyes;⁹ for you haven't yet come to the rest and to the inheritance, which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you.¹⁰ But when you go over the Yaradan, and dwell in the land which Yahawah your Alahayam causes you to inherit, and he gives you rest from all your enemies round about, so that you dwell in safety;¹¹ then it shall happen that to the place which Yahawah your Alahayam shall choose, to cause his name to dwell there, there shall you bring all that I command you: your burnt offerings, and your sacrifices, your tithes, and the heave-offering of your hand, and all your choice vows which you vow to Yahawah.¹² You shall rejoice before Yahawah your Alahayam, you, and your sons, and your daughters, and your men-servants, and your maid-servants, and the Levite who is within your gates, because he has no portion nor inheritance with you.¹³ Take heed to yourself that you don't offer your burnt offerings in every place that you see;¹⁴ but in the place which Yahawah shall choose in one of your tribes, there you shall offer your burnt offerings, and there you shall do all that I command you.¹⁵ Notwithstanding, you may kill and eat flesh within all your gates, after all the desire of your soul, according to the blessing of Yahawah your Alahayam which he has given you: the unclean and the clean may eat of it, as of the gazelle, and as of the hart.¹⁶ Only you shall not eat the blood; you shall pour it out on the earth as water.¹⁷ You may not eat within your gates the tithe of your grain, or of your new wine, or of your oil, or the firstborn of your herd or of your flock, nor any of your vows which you vow, nor your freewill-offerings, nor the heave-offering of your hand;¹⁸ but you shall eat them before Yahawah your Alahayam in the place which Yahawah your Alahayam shall choose, you, and your son, and your daughter, and your man-servant, and your maid-servant, and the Levite who is within your gates: and you shall rejoice before Yahawah your Alahayam in all that you put your hand to.¹⁹ Take heed to yourself that you don't forsake the Levite as long as you live in your land.²⁰ When Yahawah your Alahayam shall enlarge your border, as he has promised you, and you shall say, I will eat flesh, because your soul desires to eat flesh; you may eat flesh, after all the desire of your soul.²¹ If the place which Yahawah your Alahayam shall choose, to put his name there, be too far from you, then you shall kill of your herd and of your flock, which Yahawah has given you, as I have commanded you; and you may eat within your gates, after all the desire of your soul.²² Even as the gazelle and as the hart is eaten, so you shall eat of it: the unclean and the clean may eat of it alike.²³ Only be sure that you don't eat the blood: for the blood is the life; and you shall not eat the life with the flesh.²⁴ You shall not eat it; you shall pour it out on the earth as water.²⁵ You shall not eat it; that it may go well with you, and with your children after you, when you shall do that which is right in the eyes of Yahawah.²⁶ Only your holy things which you have, and your vows, you shall take, and go to the place which Yahawah shall choose:²⁷ and you shall offer your burnt offerings, the flesh and the blood, on the altar of Yahawah your Alahayam; and the blood of your sacrifices shall be poured out on the altar of Yahawah your Alahayam; and you shall eat the flesh.²⁸ Observe and hear all these words which I command you, that it may go well with you, and with your children after you forever, when you do that which is good and right in the eyes of Yahawah your Alahayam.²⁹ When Yahawah your Alahayam shall cut off the nations from before you, where you go in to dispossess them, and you dispossess them, and dwell in their land;³⁰ take heed to yourself that you not be ensnared to follow them, after that they are destroyed from before you; and that you not inquire after their gods, saying, How do these nations serve their gods? even so will I do likewise.³¹ You shall not do so to Yahawah your Alahayam: for every abomination to Yahawah, which he hates, have they done to their gods; for even their sons and their daughters do they burn in the fire to their gods.

13 If there arise in the midst of you a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams, and he give you a sign or a wonder,³ and the sign or the wonder come to pass, whereof he spoke to you, saying, Let us go after other gods, which you have not known, and let us serve them;⁴ you shall not listen to the words of that prophet, or to that dreamer of dreams: for Yahawah your Alahayam proves you, to know whether you love Yahawah your Alahayam with all your heart and with all your soul.⁵ You shall walk after Yahawah your Alahayam, and fear him, and keep his commandments, and obey his voice, and you shall serve him, and cleave to him.⁶ That prophet, or that dreamer of dreams, shall be put to death, because he has spoken rebellion against Yahawah your Alahayam, who brought you out of the land of Matzarayam, and redeemed you out of the house of bondage, to draw you aside out of the way which Yahawah your Alahayam commanded you to walk in. So shall you put away the evil from the midst of you.⁷ If your brother, the son of your mother, or your son, or your daughter, or the wife of your bosom, or your friend, who is as your own soul, entice you secretly, saying, Let us go and serve other gods, which you have not known, you, nor your fathers;⁸ of the gods of the peoples who are round about you, near to you, or far off from you, from the one end of the earth even to the other end of the earth;⁹ you shall not consent to him, nor listen to him; neither shall your eye pity him, neither shall you spare, neither shall you conceal him:¹⁰ but you shall surely kill him; your hand shall be first on him to put him to death, and afterwards the hand of all the people.¹¹ You shall stone him to death with stones, because he has sought to draw you away from Yahawah your Alahayam, who brought you out of the land of Matzarayam, out of the house of bondage.¹² All Yasharaal shall hear, and fear, and shall not do any more such wickedness as this is in the midst of you.¹³ If you shall hear tell concerning one of your cities, which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you to dwell there, saying,¹⁴ Certain base fellows are gone out from the midst of you, and have drawn away the inhabitants of their city, saying, Let us go and serve other gods, which you have not known;¹⁵ then shall you inquire, and make search, and ask diligently; and, behold, if it be truth, and the thing certain, that such abomination is done in the midst of you,¹⁶ you shall surely strike the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword, destroying it utterly, and all that is therein and the cattle of it, with the edge of the sword.¹⁷ You shall gather all the spoil of it into the midst of the street of it, and shall burn with fire the city, and all the spoil of it every whit, to Yahawah your Alahayam: and it shall be a heap forever; it shall not be built again.¹⁸ There shall cleave nothing of the devoted thing to your hand; that Yahawah may turn from the fierceness of his anger, and show you mercy, and have compassion on you, and multiply you, as he has sworn to your fathers;¹⁹ when you shall listen to the voice of Yahawah your Alahayam, to keep all his commandments which I command you this day, to do that which is right in the eyes of Yahawah your Alahayam.

14 You are the children of Yahawah your Alahayam: you shall not cut yourselves, nor make any baldness between your eyes for the dead.² For you are a holy people to Yahawah your Alahayam, and Yahawah has chosen you to be a people for his own possession, above all peoples who are on the face of the earth.³ You shall not eat any abominable thing.⁴ These are the animals which you may eat: the ox, the sheep, and the goat,⁵ the hart, and the gazelle, and the roebuck, and the wild goat, and the gazelle, and the antelope, and the chamois.⁶ Every animal that parts the hoof, and has the hoof cloven in two, [and] chews the cud, among the animals, that may you eat.⁷ Nevertheless these you shall not eat of them that chew the cud, or of those who have the hoof cloven: the camel, and the hare, and the rabbit; because they chew the cud but don't part the hoof, they are unclean to you.⁸ The pig, because he doesn't part the hoof but doesn't chew the cud, he is unclean to you: of their flesh you shall not eat, and their carcasses you shall not touch.⁹ These you may eat of all that are in the waters: whatever has fins and scales may you eat;¹⁰ and whatever doesn't have fins and scales you shall not eat; it is unclean to you.¹¹ Of all clean birds you may eat.¹² But these are they of which you shall not eat: the eagle, and the gier-eagle, and the ospray,¹³ and the red kite, and the falcon, and the kite after its kind,¹⁴ and every raven after its kind,¹⁵ and the ostrich, and the night-hawk, and the sea-mew, and the hawk after its kind,¹⁶ the little owl, and the great owl, and the horned owl,¹⁷ and the pelican, and the vulture, and the cormorant,¹⁸ and the stork, and the heron after its kind, and the hoopoe, and the bat.¹⁹ All winged creeping things are unclean to you: they shall not be eaten.²⁰ Of all clean birds you may eat.²¹ You shall not eat of anything that dies of itself: you may give it to the sojourner who is within your gates, that he may eat it; or you may sell it to a foreigner: for you are a holy people to Yahawah your Alahayam. You shall not boil a kid in its mother's milk.²² You shall surely tithe all the increase of your seed, that which comes forth from the field year by year.²³ You shall eat before Yahawah your Alahayam, in the place which he shall choose, to cause his name to dwell there, the tithe of your grain, of your new wine, and of your oil, and the firstborn of your herd and of your flock; that you may learn to fear Yahawah your Alahayam always.²⁴ If the way be too long for you, so that you are not able to carry it, because the place is too far from you, which Yahawah your Alahayam shall choose, to set his name there, when Yahawah your Alahayam shall bless you;²⁵ then shall you turn it into money, and bind up the money in your hand, and shall go to the place which Yahawah your Alahayam shall choose:²⁶ and you shall bestow the money for whatever your soul desires, for oxen, or for sheep, or for wine, or for strong drink, or for whatever your soul asks of you; and you shall eat there before Yahawah your Alahayam, and you shall rejoice, you and your household.²⁷ The Levite who is within your gates, you shall not forsake him; for he has no portion nor inheritance with you.²⁸ At the end of every three years you shall bring forth all the tithe of your increase in the same year, and shall lay it up within your gates:²⁹ and the Levite, because he has no portion nor inheritance with you, and the sojourner, and the fatherless, and the widow, who are within your gates, shall come, and shall eat and be satisfied; that Yahawah your Alahayam may bless you in all the work of your hand which you do.

15 At the end of every seven years you shall make a release.² This is the manner of the release: every creditor shall release that which he has lent to his neighbor; he shall not exact it of his neighbor and his brother; because Yahawah's release has been proclaimed.³ Of a foreigner you may exact it: but whatever of your

is with your brother your hand shall release.⁴ However there shall be no poor with you; (for Yahawah will surely bless you in the land which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you for an inheritance to possess it;)⁵ if only you diligently listen to the voice of Yahawah your Alahayam, to observe to do all this commandment which I command you this day.⁶ For Yahawah your Alahayam will bless you, as he promised you: and you shall lend to many nations, but you shall not borrow; and you shall rule over many nations, but they shall not rule over you.⁷ If there be with you a poor man, one of your brothers, within any of your gates in your land which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you, you shall not harden your heart, nor shut your hand from your poor brother;⁸ but you shall surely open your hand to him, and shall surely lend him sufficient for his need [in that] which he wants.⁹ Beware that there not be a base thought in your heart, saying, The seventh year, the year of release, is at hand; and your eye be evil against your poor brother, and you give him nothing; and he cry to Yahawah against you, and it be sin to you.¹⁰ You shall surely give him, and your heart shall not be grieved when you give to him; because that for this thing Yahawah your Alahayam will bless you in all your work, and in all that you put your hand to.¹¹ For the poor will never cease out of the land: therefore I command you, saying, You shall surely open your hand to your brother, to your needy, and to your poor, in your land.¹² If your brother, a Hebrew man, or a Hebrew woman, be sold to you, and serve you six years; then in the seventh year you shall let him go free from you.¹³ When you let him go free from you, you shall not let him go empty:¹⁴ you shall furnish him liberally out of your flock, and out of your threshing floor, and out of your winepress; as Yahawah your Alahayam has blessed you, you shall give to him.¹⁵ You shall remember that you were a bondservant in the land of Matzarayam, and Yahawah your Alahayam redeemed you: therefore I command you this thing today.¹⁶ It shall be, if he tell you, I will not go out from you; because he loves you and your house, because he is well with you;¹⁷ then you shall take an awl, and thrust it through his ear to the door, and he shall be your servant forever. Also to your maid-servant you shall do likewise.¹⁸ It shall not seem hard to you, when you let him go free from you; for to the double of the hire of a hireling has he served you six years: and Yahawah your Alahayam will bless you in all that you do.¹⁹ All the firstborn males that are born of your herd and of your flock you shall sanctify to Yahawah your Alahayam: you shall do no work with the firstborn of your herd, nor shear the firstborn of your flock.²⁰ You shall eat it before Yahawah your Alahayam year by year in the place which Yahawah shall choose, you and your household.²¹ If it have any blemish, [as if it be] lame or blind, any ill blemish whatever, you shall not sacrifice it to Yahawah your Alahayam.²² You shall eat it within your gates: the unclean and the clean [shall eat it] alike, as the gazelle, and as the hart.²³ Only you shall not eat its blood; you shall pour it out on the ground as water.

16 Observe the month of Abayab, and keep the Passover to Yahawah your Alahayam; for in the month of Abayab Yahawah your Alahayam brought you forth out of Matzarayam by night.² You shall sacrifice the Passover to Yahawah your Alahayam, of the flock and the herd, in the place which Yahawah shall choose, to cause his name to dwell there.³ You shall eat no leavened bread with it; seven days shall you eat unleavened bread therewith, even the bread of affliction; for you came forth out of the land of Matzarayam in haste: that you may remember the day when you came forth out of the land of Matzarayam all the days of your life.⁴ There shall be no yeast seen with you in all your borders seven days; neither shall any of the flesh, which you sacrifice the first day at even, remain all night until the morning.⁵ You may not sacrifice the Passover within any of your gates, which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you;⁶ but at the place which Yahawah your Alahayam shall choose, to cause his name to dwell in, there you shall sacrifice the Passover at even, at the going down of the sun, at the season that you came forth out of Matzarayam.⁷ You shall roast and eat it in the place which Yahawah your Alahayam shall choose: and you shall turn in the morning, and go to your tents.⁸ Six days you shall eat unleavened bread; and on the seventh day shall be a solemn assembly to Yahawah your Alahayam; you shall do no work [therein].⁹ Seven weeks shall you number to you: from the time you begin to put the sickle to the standing grain shall you begin to number seven weeks.¹⁰ You shall keep the feast of weeks to Yahawah your Alahayam with a tribute of a freewill-offering of your hand, which you shall give, according as Yahawah your Alahayam blesses you:¹¹ and you shall rejoice before Yahawah your Alahayam, you, and your son, and your daughter, and your man-servant, and your maid-servant, and the Levite who is within your gates, and the sojourner, and the fatherless, and the widow, who are in the midst of you, in the place which Yahawah your Alahayam shall choose, to cause his name to dwell there.¹² You shall remember that you were a bondservant in Matzarayam: and you shall observe and do these statutes.¹³ You shall keep the feast of tents seven days, after that you have gathered in from your threshing floor and from your winepress:¹⁴ and you shall rejoice in your feast, you, and your son, and your daughter, and your man-servant, and your maid-servant, and the Levite, and the sojourner, and the fatherless, and the widow, who are within your gates.¹⁵ Seven days shall you keep a feast to Yahawah your Alahayam in the place which Yahawah shall choose; because Yahawah your Alahayam will bless you in all your increase, and in all the work of your hands, and you shall be altogether joyful.¹⁶ Three times in a year shall all your males appear before Yahawah your Alahayam in the place which he shall choose: in the feast of unleavened bread, and in the feast of weeks, and in the feast of tents; and they shall not appear before Yahawah empty:¹⁷ every man shall give as he is able, according to the blessing of Yahawah your Alahayam which he has given you.¹⁸ Judges and officers shall you make you in all your gates, which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you, according to your tribes; and they shall judge the people with righteous judgment.¹⁹ You shall not wrest justice: you shall not respect persons; neither shall you take a bribe; for a bribe does blind the eyes of the wise, and pervert the words of the righteous.²⁰ That which is altogether just shall you follow, that you may live, and inherit the land which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you.²¹ You shall not plant you an Asherah of any kind of tree beside the altar of Yahawah your Alahayam, which you shall make you.²² Neither shall you set you up a pillar; which Yahawah your Alahayam hates.

17 You shall not sacrifice to Yahawah your Alahayam an ox, or a sheep, in which is a blemish, [or] anything evil; for that is an abomination to Yahawah your Alahayam.² If there be found in the midst of you, within any of your gates which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you, man or woman, who does that which is evil in the sight of Yahawah your Alahayam, in transgressing his covenant,³ and has gone and served other gods, and worshipped them, or the sun, or the moon, or any of the host of the sky, which I have not commanded;⁴ and it be told you, and you have heard of it, then shall you inquire diligently; and, behold, if it be true, and the thing certain, that such abomination is done in Yasharaal,⁵ then shall you bring forth that man or that woman, who has done this evil thing, to your gates, even the man or the woman; and you shall stone them to death with stones.⁶ At the mouth of two witnesses, or three witnesses, shall he who is to die be put to death; at the mouth of one witness he shall not be put to death.⁷ The hand of the witnesses shall be first on him to put him to death, and afterward the hand of all the people. So you shall put away the evil from the midst of you.⁸ If there arise a matter too hard for you in judgment, between blood and blood, between plea and plea, and between stroke and stroke, being matters of controversy within your gates; then shall you arise, and get you up to the place which Yahawah your Alahayam shall choose;⁹ and you shall come to the priests the Levites, and to the judge who shall be in those days: and you shall inquire; and they shall show you the sentence of judgment.¹⁰ You shall do according to the tenor of the sentence which they shall show you from that place which Yahawah shall choose; and you shall observe to do according to all that they shall teach you:

18 The priests the Levites, [even] all the tribe of Laway, shall have no portion nor inheritance with Yasharaal: they shall eat the offerings of Yahawah made by fire, and his inheritance.² They shall have no inheritance among their brothers: Yahawah is their inheritance, as he has spoken to them.³ This shall be the priests' due from the people, from those who offer a sacrifice, whether it be ox or sheep, that they shall give to the priest the shoulder, and the two cheeks, and the maw.⁴ The first-fruits of your grain, of your new wine, and of your oil, and the first of the fleece of your sheep, shall you give him.⁵ For Yahawah your Alahayam has chosen him out of all your tribes, to stand to minister in the name of Yahawah, him and his sons for ever.⁶ If a Levite come from any of your gates out of all Yasharaal, where he sojourns, and come with all the desire of his soul to the place which Yahawah shall choose;⁷ then he shall minister in the name of Yahawah his Alahayam, as all his brothers the Levites do, who stand there before Yahawah.⁸ They shall have like portions to eat, besides that which comes of the sale of his patrimony.⁹ When you are come into the land which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you, you shall not learn to do after the abominations of those nations.¹⁰ There shall not be found with you anyone who makes his son or his daughter to pass through the fire, one who uses divination, one who practices sorcery, or an enchanter, or a sorcerer,¹¹ or a charmer, or a consulter with a familiar spirit, or a wizard, or a necromancer.¹² For whoever does these things is an abomination to Yahawah: and because of these abominations Yahawah your Alahayam does drive them out from before you.¹³ You shall be perfect with Yahawah your Alahayam.¹⁴ For these nations, that you shall dispossess, listen to those who practice sorcery, and to diviners; but as for you, Yahawah your Alahayam has not allowed you so to do.¹⁵ Yahawah your Alahayam will raise up to you a prophet from the midst of you, of your brothers, like me; to him you shall listen;¹⁶ according to all that you desired of Yahawah your Alahayam in Charab in the day of the assembly, saying, Let me not hear again the voice of Yahawah my Alahayam, neither let me see this great fire any more, that I not die.¹⁷ Yahawah said to me, They have well said that which they have spoken.¹⁸ I will raise them up a prophet from among their brothers, like you; and I will put my words in his mouth, and he shall speak to them all that I shall command him.¹⁹ It shall happen, that whoever will not listen to my words which he shall speak in my name, I will require it of him.²⁰ But the prophet, who shall speak a word presumptuously in my name, which I have not commanded him to speak, or who shall speak in the name of other gods, that same prophet shall die.²¹ If you say in your heart, How shall we know the word which Yahawah has not spoken?²² when a prophet speaks in the name of Yahawah, if the thing doesn't follow, nor happen, that is the thing which Yahawah has not spoken: the prophet has spoken it presumptuously, you shall not be afraid of him.

19 When Yahawah your Alahayam shall cut off the nations, whose land Yahawah your Alahayam gives you, and you succeed them, and dwell in their cities, and in their houses;² you shall set apart three cities for you in the midst of your land, which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you to possess it.³ You shall prepare you the way, and divide the borders of your land, which Yahawah your Alahayam causes you to inherit, into three parts, that every manslayer may flee there.⁴ This is the case of the manslayer, that shall flee there and live: whoever kills his neighbor unawares, and didn't hate him in time past;⁵ as when a man goes into the forest with his neighbor to hew wood, and his hand fetches a stroke with the ax to cut down the tree, and the head slips from the handle, and lights on his neighbor, so that he dies; he shall flee to one of these cities and live:⁶ lest the avenger of blood pursue the manslayer, while his heart is hot, and overtake him, because the way is long, and strike him mortally; whereas he was not worthy of death, inasmuch as he didn't hate him in time past.⁷ Therefore I command you, saying, You shall set apart three cities for you.⁸ If Yahawah your Alahayam enlarge your border, as he has sworn to your fathers, and give you all the land which he promised to give to your fathers;⁹ if you shall keep all this commandment to do it, which I command you this day, to love Yahawah your Alahayam, and to walk ever in his ways; then shall you add three cities more for you, besides these three:¹⁰ that innocent blood not be shed in the midst of your land, which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you for an inheritance, and so blood be on you.¹¹ But if any man hate his neighbor, and lie in wait for him, and rise up against him, and strike him mortally so that he dies, and he flee into one of these cities;¹² then the elders of his city shall send and bring him there, and deliver him into the hand of the avenger of blood, that he may die.¹³ Your eye shall not pity him, but you shall put away the innocent blood from Yasharaal, that it may go well with you.¹⁴ You shall not remove your neighbor's landmark, which they of old time have set, in your inheritance which you shall inherit, in the land that Yahawah your Alahayam gives you to possess it.¹⁵ One witness shall not rise up against a man for any iniquity, or for any sin, in any sin that he sins: at the mouth of two witnesses, or at the mouth of three witnesses, shall a matter be established.¹⁶ If an unrighteous witness rise up against any man to testify against him of wrong-doing,¹⁷ then both the men, between whom the controversy is, shall stand before Yahawah, before the priests and the judges who shall be in those days;¹⁸ and the judges shall make diligent inquisition: and, behold, if the witness is a false witness, and has testified falsely against his brother;¹⁹ then shall you do to him, as he had thought to do to his brother: so shall you put away the evil from the midst of you.²⁰ Those who remain shall hear, and fear, and shall henceforth commit no more any such evil in the midst of you.²¹ Your eyes shall not pity; life [shall go] for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

20 When you go forth to battle against your enemies, and see horses, and chariots, [and] a people more than you, you shall not be afraid of them; for Yahawah your Alahayam is with you, who brought you up out of the land of Matzarayam.² It shall be, when you draw near to the battle, that the priest shall approach and speak to the people,³ and shall tell them, Hear, Yasharaal, you draw near this day to battle against your enemies: don't let your heart faint; don't be afraid, nor tremble, neither be you scared of them;⁴ for Yahawah your Alahayam is he who goes with you, to fight for you against your enemies, to save you.⁵ The officers shall speak to the people, saying, What man is there who has built a new house, and has not dedicated it? let him go and return to his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man dedicate it.⁶ What man is there who has planted a vineyard, and has not used the fruit of it? let him go and return to his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man use the fruit of it.⁷ What man is there who has pledged to be married a wife, and has not taken her? let him go and return to his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man take her.⁸ The officers shall speak further to the people, and they shall say, What man is there who is fearful and faint-hearted? let him go and return to his house, lest his brother's heart melt as his heart.⁹ It shall be, when the officers have made an end of speaking to the people, that they shall appoint captains of hosts at the head of the people.¹⁰ When you draw near to a city to fight against it, then proclaim peace to it.¹¹ It shall be, if it make you answer of peace, and open to you, then it shall be, that all the people who are found therein shall become tributary to you, and shall serve you.¹² If it will make no peace with you, but will make war against you, then you shall besiege it:¹³ and when Yahawah your Alahayam delivers it into your hand, you shall strike every male of it with the edge of the sword:¹⁴ but the women, and the little ones, and the cattle, and all that is in the city, even all the spoil of it, shall you take for a prey to yourself; and you shall eat the spoil of your enemies, which Yahawah your Alahayam has given you.¹⁵ Thus shall you do to all the cities which are very far off from you, which are not of the cities of these nations.¹⁶ But of the cities of these peoples, that Yahawah your Alahayam gives you for an inheritance, you shall save alive nothing that breathes;¹⁷ but you shall utterly destroy them: the Hittite, and the Amorite, the Canaanite, and the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite; as Yahawah your Alahayam has commanded you;¹⁸ that they not teach you to do after all their abominations, which they have done to their gods; so would you sin against Yahawah your Alahayam.¹⁹ When you shall besiege a city a long time, in making war against it to take it, you shall not destroy the trees of it by wielding an ax against them; for you may eat of them, and you shall not cut them down; for is the tree of the field man, that it should be besieged of you?²⁰ Only the trees of which you know that they are not trees for food, you shall destroy and cut them down; and you shall build bulwarks against the city that makes war with you, until it fall.

21 If one be found slain in the land which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you to possess it, lying in the field, and it isn't known who has struck him;² then your elders and your judges shall come forth, and they shall measure to the cities which are round about him who is slain:³ and it shall be, that the city which is nearest to the slain man, even the elders of that city shall take a heifer of the herd, which hasn't been worked with, and which has not drawn in the yoke;⁴ and the elders of that city shall bring down the heifer to a valley with running water, which is neither plowed nor sown, and shall break the heifer's neck there in the valley.⁵ The priests the sons of Laway shall come near; for them Yahawah your Alahayam has chosen to minister to him, and to bless in the name of Yahawah; and according to their word shall every controversy and every stroke be.⁶ All the elders of that city, who are nearest to the slain man, shall wash their hands over the heifer whose neck was broken in the valley;⁷ and they shall answer and say, Our hands have not shed this blood, neither have our eyes seen it.⁸ Forgive, Yahawah, your people Yasharaal, whom you have redeemed, and don't allow innocent blood [to remain] in the midst of your people Yasharaal. The blood shall be forgiven them.⁹ So shall you put away the innocent blood from the midst of you, when you shall do that which is right in the eyes of Yahawah.¹⁰ When you go forth to battle against your enemies, and Yahawah your Alahayam delivers them into your hands, and you carry them away captive,¹¹ and see among the captives a beautiful woman, and you have a desire to her, and would take her to you as wife;¹² then you shall bring her home to your house; and she shall shave her head, and pare her nails;¹³ and she shall put the clothing of her captivity from off her, and shall remain in your house, and bewail her father and her mother a full month: and after that you shall go in to her, and be her husband, and she shall be your wife.¹⁴ It shall be, if you have no delight in her, then you shall let her go where she will; but you shall not sell her at all for money, you shall not deal with her as a slave, because you have humbled her.¹⁵ If a man have two wives, the one beloved, and the other hated, and they have borne him children, both the beloved and the hated; and if the firstborn son be hers who was hated;¹⁶ then it shall be, in the day that he causes his sons to inherit that which he has, that he may not make the son of the beloved the firstborn before the son of the hated, who is the firstborn:¹⁷ but he shall acknowledge the firstborn, the son of the hated, by giving him a double portion of all that he has; for he is the beginning of his strength; the right of the firstborn is his.¹⁸ If a man have a stubborn and rebellious son, who will not obey the voice of his father, or the voice of his mother, and, though they chasten him, will not listen to them;¹⁹ then shall his father and his mother lay hold on him, and bring him out to the elders of his city, and to the gate of his place;²⁰ and they shall tell the elders of his city, This our son is stubborn and rebellious, he will not obey our voice; he is a glutton, and a drunkard.²¹ All the men of his city shall stone him to death with stones: so shall you put away the evil from the midst of you; and all Yasharaal shall hear, and fear.²² If a man have committed a sin worthy of death, and he be put to death, and you hang him on a tree;²³ his body shall not remain all night on the tree, but you shall surely bury him the same day; for he who is hanged is accursed of Alahayam; that you don't defile your land which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you for an inheritance.

22 You shall not see your brother's ox or his sheep go astray, and hide yourself from them: you shall surely bring them again to your brother.² If your brother isn't near to you, or if you don't know him, then you shall bring it home to your house, and it shall be with you until your brother seek after it, and you shall restore it to him.³ So shall you do with his donkey; and so shall you do with his garment; and so shall you do with every lost thing of your brother's, which he has lost, and you have found: you may not hide yourself.⁴ You shall not see your brother's donkey or his ox fallen down by the way, and hide yourself from them: you shall surely help him to lift them up again.⁵ A woman shall not wear that which pertains to a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment; for whoever does these things is an abomination to Yahawah your Alahayam.⁶ If a bird's nest chance to be before you in the way, in any tree or on the ground, with young ones or eggs, and the hen sitting on the young, or on the eggs, you shall not take the hen with the young;⁷ you shall surely let the hen go, but the young you may take to yourself; that it may be well with you, and that you may prolong your days.⁸ When you build a new house, then you shall make a battlement for your roof, that you don't bring blood on your house, if any man fall from there.⁹ You shall not sow your vineyard with two kinds of seed, lest the whole fruit be forfeited, the seed which you have sown, and the increase of the vineyard.¹⁰ You shall not plow with an ox and a donkey together.¹¹ You shall not wear a mingled stuff, wool and linen together.¹² You shall make you fringes on the four borders of your cloak, with which you cover yourself.¹³ If any man take a wife, and go in to her, and hate her,¹⁴ and lay shameful things to her charge, and bring up an evil name on her, and say, I took this woman, and when I came near to her, I didn't find in her the tokens of virginity;¹⁵ then shall the father of the young lady, and her mother, take and bring forth the tokens of the young lady's virginity to the elders of the city in the gate;¹⁶ and the young lady's father shall tell the elders, I gave my daughter to this man to wife, and he hates her;¹⁷ and, behold, he has laid shameful things [to her charge], saying, I didn't find in your daughter the tokens of virginity; and yet these are the tokens of my daughter's virginity. They shall spread the garment before the elders of the city.¹⁸ The elders of that city shall take the man and chastise him;¹⁹ and they shall fine him one hundred [shekels] of silver, and give them to the father of the young lady, because he has brought up an evil name on a virgin of Yasharaal: and she shall be his wife; he may not put her away all his days.²⁰ But if this thing be true, that the tokens of virginity were not found in the young lady;

²¹ then they shall bring out the young lady to the door of her father's house, and the men of her city shall stone her to death with stones, because she has done folly in Yasharaal, to play the prostitute in her father's house: so shall you put away the evil from the midst of you.²² If a man be found lying with a woman married to a husband, then they shall both of them die, the man who lay with the woman, and the woman: so shall you put away the evil from Yasharaal.²³ If there be a young lady who is a virgin pledged to be married to a husband, and a man find her in the city, and lie with her;²⁴ then you shall bring them both out to the gate of that city, and you shall stone them to death with stones; the lady, because she didn't cry, being in the city; and the man, because he has humbled his neighbor's wife: so you shall put away the evil from the midst of you.²⁵ But if the man find the lady who is pledged to be married in the field, and the man force her, and lie with her; then the man only who lay with her shall die:²⁶ but to the lady you shall do nothing; there is in the lady no sin worthy of death: for as when a man rises against his neighbor, and kills him, even so is this matter;²⁷ for he found her in the field, the pledged to be married lady cried, and there was none to save her.²⁸ If a man find a lady who is a virgin, who is not pledged to be married, and lay hold on her, and lie with her, and they be found;²⁹ then the man who lay with her shall give to the lady's father fifty [shekels] of silver, and she shall be his wife, because he has humbled her; he may not put her away all his days.

23 He who is wounded in the stones, or has his privy member cut off, shall not enter into the assembly of Yahawah.³ A bastard shall not enter into the assembly of Yahawah; even to the tenth generation shall none of his enter into the assembly of Yahawah.⁴ An Ammonite or a Moabite shall not enter into the assembly of Yahawah; even to the tenth generation shall none belonging to them enter into the assembly of Yahawah forever:⁵ because they didn't meet you with bread and with water in the way, when you came forth out of Matzarayam, and because they hired against you Balaim the son of Baiwar from Pathawar of Aram, to curse you.⁶ Nevertheless Yahawah your Alahayam wouldn't listen to Balaim; but Yahawah your Alahayam turned the curse into a blessing to you, because Yahawah your Alahayam loved you.⁷ You shall not seek their peace nor their prosperity all your days forever.⁸ You shall not abhor an Edomite; for he is your brother: you shall not abhor an Matzarayam, because you were a sojourner in his land.⁹ The children of the third generation who are born to them shall enter into the assembly of Yahawah.¹⁰ When you go forth in camp against your enemies, then you shall keep you from every evil thing.¹¹ If there be among you any man, who is not clean by reason of that which happens him by night, then shall he go abroad out of the camp, he shall not come within the camp:¹² but it shall be, when evening comes on, he shall bathe himself in water; and when the sun is down, he shall come within the camp.¹³ You shall have a place also outside of the camp, where you shall go forth abroad:¹⁴ and you shall have a paddle among your weapons; and it shall be, when you sit down abroad, you shall dig therewith, and shall turn back and cover that which comes from you:¹⁵ for Yahawah your Alahayam walks in the midst of your camp, to deliver you, and to give up your enemies before you; therefore shall your camp be holy, that he may not see an unclean thing in you, and turn away from you.¹⁶ You shall not deliver to his master a servant who is escaped from his master to you:¹⁷ he shall dwell with you, in the midst of you, in the place which he shall choose within one of your gates, where it pleases him best: you shall not oppress him.¹⁸ There shall be no prostitute of the daughters of Yasharaal, neither shall there be a sodomite of the sons of Yasharaal.¹⁹ You shall not bring the hire of a prostitute, or the wages of a dog, into the house of Yahawah your Alahayam for any vow: for even both these are an abomination to Yahawah your Alahayam.²⁰ You shall not lend on interest to your brother; interest of money, interest of victuals, interest of anything that is lent on interest:²¹ to a foreigner you may lend on interest; but to your brother you shall not lend on interest, that Yahawah your Alahayam may bless you in all that you put your hand to, in the land where you go in to possess it.²² When you shall vow a vow to Yahawah your Alahayam, you shall not be slack to pay it: for Yahawah your Alahayam will surely require it of you; and it would be sin in you.²³ But if you shall forbear to vow, it shall be no sin in you.²⁴ That which is gone out of your lips you shall observe and do; according as you have vowed to Yahawah your Alahayam, a freewill-offering, which you have promised with your mouth.²⁵ When you come into your neighbor's vineyard, then you may eat of grapes your fill at your own pleasure; but you shall not put any in your vessel.²⁶ When you come into your neighbor's standing grain, then you may pluck the ears with your hand; but you shall not move a sickle to your neighbor's standing grain.

24 When a man takes a wife, and marries her, then it shall be, if she find no favor in his eyes, because he has found some unseemly thing in her, that he shall write her a bill of divorce, and give it in her hand, and send her out of his house.² When she is departed out of his house, she may go and be another man's [wife].³ If the latter husband hate her, and write her a bill of divorce, and give it in her hand, and send her out of his house; or if the latter husband die, who took her to be his wife;⁴ her former husband, who sent her away, may not take her again to be his wife, after that she is defiled; for that is abomination before Yahawah: and you shall not cause the land to sin, which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you for an inheritance.⁵ When a man takes a new wife, he shall not go out in the host, neither shall he be charged with any business: he shall be free at home one year, and shall cheer his wife whom he has taken.⁶ No man shall take the mill or the upper millstone to pledge; for he takes [a man's] life to pledge.⁷ If a man be found stealing any of his brothers of the children of Yasharaal, and he deal with him as a slave, or sell him; then that thief shall die: so shall you put away the evil from the midst of you.⁸ Take heed in the plague of leprosy, that you observe diligently, and do according to all that the priests the Levites shall teach you: as I commanded them, so you shall observe to do.⁹ Remember what Yahawah your Alahayam did to Marayam, by the way as you came forth out of Matzarayam.¹⁰ When you do lend your neighbor any manner of loan, you shall not go into his house to get his pledge.¹¹ You shall stand outside, and the man to whom you do lend shall bring forth the pledge outside to you.¹² If he be a poor man, you shall not sleep with his pledge;¹³ you shall surely restore to him the pledge when the sun goes down, that he may sleep in his garment, and bless you: and it shall be righteousness to you before Yahawah your Alahayam.¹⁴ You shall not oppress a hired servant who is poor and needy, whether he be of your brothers, or of your sojourners who are in your land within your gates:¹⁵ in his day you shall give him his hire, neither shall the sun go down on it; for he is poor, and sets his heart on it: lest he cry against you to Yahawah, and it be sin to you.¹⁶ The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, neither shall the children be put to death for the fathers: every man shall be put to death for his own sin.¹⁷ You shall not wrest the justice [due] to the sojourner, [or] to the fatherless, nor take the widow's clothing to pledge;¹⁸ but you shall remember that you were a bondservant in Matzarayam, and Yahawah your Alahayam redeemed you there: therefore I command you to do this thing.¹⁹ When you reap your harvest in your field, and have forgot a sheaf in the field, you shall not go again to get it: it shall be for the sojourner, for the fatherless, and for the widow; that Yahawah your Alahayam may bless you in all the work of your hands.²⁰ When you beat your olive-tree, you shall not go over the boughs again: it shall be for the sojourner, for the fatherless, and for the widow.²¹ When you gather [the grapes of] your vineyard, you shall not glean it after you: it shall be for the sojourner, for the fatherless, and for the widow.²² You shall remember that you were a bondservant in the land of Matzarayam: therefore I command you to do this thing.

25 If there be a controversy between men, and they come to judgment, and [the judges] judge them; then they shall justify the righteous, and condemn the wicked;² and it shall be, if the wicked man be worthy to be beaten, that the judge shall cause him to lie down, and to be beaten before his face, according to his wickedness, by number.³ Forty stripes he may give him, he shall not exceed; lest, if he should exceed, and beat him above these with many stripes, then your brother should seem vile to you.⁴ You shall not muzzle the ox when he treads out [the grain].⁵ If brothers dwell together, and one of them die, and have no son, the wife of the dead shall not be married outside to a stranger: her husband's brother shall go in to her, and take her to him as wife, and perform the duty of a husband's brother to her.⁶ It shall be, that the firstborn whom she bears shall succeed in the name of his brother who is dead, that his name not be blotted out of Yasharaal.⁷ If the man doesn't want to take his brother's wife, then his brother's wife shall go up to the gate to the elders, and say, My husband's brother refuses to raise up to his brother a name in Yasharaal; he will not perform the duty of a husband's brother to me.⁸ Then the elders of his city shall call him, and speak to him: and if he stand, and say, I don't want to take her;⁹ then his brother's wife shall come to him in the presence of the elders, and loose his shoe from off his foot, and spit in his face; and she shall answer and say, So shall it be done to the man who does not build up his brother's house.¹⁰ His name shall be called in Yasharaal, The house of him who has his shoe loosed.¹¹ When men strive together one with another, and the wife of the one draws near to deliver her husband out of the hand of him who strikes him, and puts forth her hand, and takes him by the secrets;¹² then you shall cut off her hand, your eye shall have no pity.¹³ You shall not have in your bag diverse weights, a great and a small.¹⁴ You shall not have in your house diverse measures, a great and a small.¹⁵ A perfect and just weight shall you have; a perfect and just measure shall you have: that your days may be long in the land which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you.¹⁶ For all who do such things, [even] all who do unrighteously, are an abomination to Yahawah your Alahayam.¹⁷ Remember what Imalaq did to you by the way as you came forth out of Matzarayam;¹⁸ how he met you by the way, and struck the hindmost of you, all who were feeble behind you, when you were faint and weary; and he didn't fear Alahayam.¹⁹ Therefore it shall be, when Yahawah your Alahayam has given you rest from all your enemies round about, in the land which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you for an inheritance to possess it, that you shall blot out the memory of Imalaq from under the sky; you shall not forget.

26 It shall be, when you are come in to the land which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you for an inheritance, and possess it, and dwell therein,² that you shall take of the first of all the fruit of the ground, which you shall bring in from your land that Yahawah your Alahayam gives you; and you shall put it in a basket, and shall go to the place which Yahawah your Alahayam shall choose, to cause his name to dwell there.³ You shall come to the priest who shall be in those days, and tell him, I profess this day to Yahawah your Alahayam, that I am come to the land which Yahawah swore to our fathers to give us.⁴ The priest shall take the basket out of your hand, and set it down before the altar of Yahawah your Alahayam.⁵ You shall answer and say before Yahawah your Alahayam, A Syrian ready to perish was my father; and he went down into Matzarayam, and sojourned there, few in number; and he became there a nation, great, mighty, and populous.⁶ The Matzarayam dealt ill with us, and afflicted us, and laid on us hard bondage:⁷ and we cried to Yahawah, the Alahayam of our fathers, and Yahawah heard our voice, and saw our affliction, and our toil, and our oppression;⁸ and Yahawah brought us forth out of Matzarayam with a mighty hand, and with an outstretched arm, and with great terror, and with signs, and with wonders;⁹ and he has brought us into this place, and has given us this land, a land flowing with milk and honey.¹⁰ Now, behold, I have brought the first of the fruit of the ground, which you, Yahawah, have given me. You shall set it down before Yahawah your Alahayam, and worship before Yahawah your Alahayam:¹¹ and you shall rejoice in all the good which Yahawah your Alahayam has given to you, and to your house, you, and the Levite, and the sojourner who is in the midst of you.¹² When you have made an end of tithing all the tithe of your increase in the third year, which is the year of tithing, then you shall give it to the Levite, to the sojourner, to the fatherless, and to the widow, that they may eat within your gates, and be filled.¹³ You shall say before Yahawah your Alahayam, I have put away the holy things out of my house, and also have given them to the Levite, and to the sojourner, to the fatherless, and to the widow, according to all your commandment which you have commanded me: I have not transgressed any of your commandments, neither have I forgotten them:¹⁴ I have not eaten of it in my mourning, neither have I put away of it, being unclean, nor given of it for the dead: I have listened to the voice of Yahawah my Alahayam; I have done according to all that you have commanded me.¹⁵ Look down from your holy habitation, from heaven, and bless your people Yasharaal, and the ground which you have given us, as you swore to our fathers, a land flowing with milk and honey.¹⁶ This day Yahawah your Alahayam commands you to do these statutes and ordinances: you shall therefore keep and do them with all your heart, and with all your soul.¹⁷ You have declared Yahawah this day to be your Alahayam, and that you would walk in his ways, and keep his statutes, and his commandments, and his ordinances, and listen to his voice:¹⁸ and Yahawah has declared you this day to be a people for his own possession, as he has promised you, and that you should keep all his commandments;¹⁹ and to make you high above all nations that he has made, in praise, and in name, and in honor; and that you may be a holy people to Yahawah your Alahayam, as he has spoken.

27 Mashah and the elders of Yasharaal commanded the people, saying, Keep all the commandment which I command you this day.² It shall be on the day when you shall pass over the Yaradan to the land which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you, that you shall set you up great stones, and plaster them with plaster:³ and you shall write on them all the words of this law, when you are passed over; that you may go in to the land which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you, a land flowing with milk and honey, as Yahawah, the Alahayam of your fathers, has promised you.⁴ It shall be, when you are passed over the Yaradan, that you shall set up these stones, which I command you this day, in Mount Iyabal, and you shall plaster them with plaster.⁵ There shall you build an altar to Yahawah your Alahayam, an altar of stones: you shall lift up no iron [tool] on them.⁶ You shall build the altar of Yahawah your Alahayam of uncut stones; and you shall offer burnt offerings thereon to Yahawah your Alahayam:⁷ and you shall sacrifice peace-offerings, and shall eat there; and you shall rejoice before Yahawah your Alahayam.⁸ You shall write on the stones all the words of this law very plainly.⁹ Mashah and the priests the Levites spoke to all Yasharaal, saying, Keep silence, and listen, Yasharaal: this day you are become the people of Yahawah your Alahayam.¹⁰ You shall therefore obey the voice of Yahawah your Alahayam, and do his commandments and his statutes, which I command you this day.¹¹ Mashah charged the people the same day, saying,¹² These shall stand on Mount Garazayam to bless the people, when you are passed over the Yaradan: Shamaiwan, and Laway, and Yahawadah, and Yashashakar, and Yawasap, and Banayaman.¹³ These shall stand on Mount Iyabal for the curse: Raawaban, Gad, and Ashar, and Zabawalan, Wadan, and Napathalay.¹⁴ The Levites shall answer, and tell all the men of Yasharaal with a loud voice,¹⁵ Cursed be the man who makes an engraved or molten image, an abomination to Yahawah, the work of the hands of the craftsman, and sets it up in secret. All the people shall answer and say, Amen.¹⁶ Cursed be he who sets light by his father or his mother. All the people shall say, Amen.¹⁷ Cursed be he who removes his neighbor's landmark. All the people shall say, Amen.¹⁸ Cursed be he who makes the blind to wander out of the way. All the people shall say, Amen.¹⁹ Cursed be he who wrests the justice [due] to the sojourner, fatherless, and widow. All the people shall say, Amen.²⁰ Cursed be he who lies with his father's wife, because he has uncovered his father's skirt. All the people shall say, Amen.²¹ Cursed be he who lies with any manner of animal. All the people shall say, Amen.²² Cursed be he who lies with his sister, the daughter of his father, or the daughter of his mother. All the people shall say, Amen.²³ Cursed be he who lies with his mother-in-law.

All the people shall say, Amen.²⁴ Cursed be he who strikes his neighbor in secret. All the people shall say, Amen.²⁵ Cursed be he who takes a bribe to kill an innocent person. All the people shall say, Amen.²⁶ Cursed be he who doesn't confirm the words of this law to do them. All the people shall say, Amen.

28 It shall happen, if you shall listen diligently to the voice of Yahawah your Alahayam, to observe to do all his commandments which I command you this day, who Yahawah your Alahayam will set you on high above all the nations of the earth:³ and all these blessings shall come on you, and overtake you, if you shall listen to the voice of Yahawah your Alahayam.⁴ Blessed shall you be in the city, and blessed shall you be in the field.⁵ Blessed shall be the fruit of your body, and the fruit of your ground, and the fruit of your animals, the increase of your cattle, and the young of your flock.⁶ Blessed shall be your basket and your kneading-trough.⁷ Blessed shall you be when you come in, and blessed shall you be when you go out.⁸ Yahawah will cause your enemies who rise up against you to be struck before you: they shall come out against you one way, and shall flee before you seven ways.⁹ Yahawah will command the blessing on you in your barns, and in all that you put your hand to; and he will bless you in the land which Yahawah your Alahayam gives you.¹⁰ Yahawah will establish you for a holy people to himself, as he has sworn to you; if you shall keep the commandments of Yahawah your Alahayam, and walk in his ways.¹¹ All the peoples of the earth shall see that you are called by the name of Yahawah; and they shall be afraid of you.¹² Yahawah will make you plenteous for good, in the fruit of your body, and in the fruit of your cattle, and in the fruit of your ground, in the land which Yahawah swore to your fathers to give you.¹³ Yahawah will open to you his good treasure in the sky, to give the rain of your land in its season, and to bless all the work of your hand: and you shall lend to many nations, and you shall not borrow.¹⁴ Yahawah will make you the head, and not the tail; and you shall be above only, and you shall not be beneath; if you shall listen to the commandments of Yahawah your Alahayam, which I command you this day, to observe and to do [them],¹⁵ and shall not turn aside from any of the words which I command you this day, to the right hand, or to the left, to go after other gods to serve them.¹⁶ But it shall come to pass, if you will not listen to the voice of Yahawah your Alahayam, to observe to do all his commandments and his statutes which I command you this day, that all these curses shall come on you, and overtake you.¹⁷ Cursed shall you be in the city, and cursed shall you be in the field.¹⁸ Cursed shall be your basket and your kneading-trough.¹⁹ Cursed shall be the fruit of your body, and the fruit of your ground, the increase of your cattle, and the young of your flock.²⁰ Cursed shall you be when you come in, and cursed shall you be when you go out.²¹ Yahawah will send on you cursing, confusion, and rebuke, in all that you put your hand to do, until you be destroyed, and until you perish quickly; because of the evil of your doings, whereby you have forsaken me.²² Yahawah will make the pestilence cleave to you, until he have consumed you from off the land, where you go in to possess it.²³ Yahawah will strike you with consumption, and with fever, and with inflammation, and with fiery heat, and with the sword, and with blasting, and with mildew; and they shall pursue you until you perish.²⁴ Your sky that is over your head shall be brass, and the earth that is under you shall be iron.²⁵ Yahawah will make the rain of your land powder and dust: from the sky shall it come down on you, until you are destroyed.²⁶ Yahawah will cause you to be struck before your enemies; you shall go out one way against them, and shall flee seven ways before them: and you shall be tossed back and forth among all the kingdoms of the earth.²⁷ Your dead body shall be food to all birds of the sky, and to the animals of the earth; and there shall be none to frighten them away.²⁸ Yahawah will strike you with the boil of Matzarayam, and with the tumors, and with the scurvy, and with the itch, whereof you can not be healed.²⁹ Yahawah will strike you with madness, and with blindness, and with astonishment of heart;³⁰ and you shall grope at noonday, as the blind gropes in darkness, and you shall not prosper in your ways: and you shall be only oppressed and robbed always, and there shall be none to save you.³¹ You shall betroth a wife, and another man shall lie with her: you shall build a house, and you shall not dwell therein: you shall plant a vineyard, and shall not use the fruit of it.³² Your ox shall be slain before your eyes, and you shall not eat of it: your donkey shall be violently taken away from before your face, and shall not be restored to you: your sheep shall be given to your enemies, and you shall have none to save you.

³³ Your sons and your daughters shall be given to another people; and your eyes shall look, and fail with longing for them all the day: and there shall be nothing in the power of your hand.³⁴ The fruit of your ground, and all your labors, shall a nation which you don't know eat up; and you shall be only oppressed and crushed always;

³⁵ so that you shall be mad for the sight of your eyes which you shall see.³⁶ Yahawah will strike you in the knees, and in the legs, with a sore boil, whereof you can not be healed, from the sole of your foot to the crown of your head.³⁷ Yahawah will bring you, and your king whom you shall set over you, to a nation that you have not known, you nor your fathers; and there shall you serve other gods, wood and stone.³⁸ You shall become an astonishment, a proverb, and a byword, among all the peoples where Yahawah shall lead you away.³⁹ You shall carry much seed out into the field, and shall gather little in; for the locust shall consume it.⁴⁰ You shall plant vineyards and dress them, but you shall neither drink of the wine, nor gather [the grapes]; for the worm shall eat them.⁴¹ You shall have olive-trees throughout all your borders, but you shall not anoint yourself with the oil; for your olive shall cast [its fruit].

⁴² You shall father sons and daughters, but they shall not be yours; for they shall go into captivity.⁴³ All your trees and the fruit of your ground shall the locust possess.⁴⁴ The sojourner who is in the midst of you shall mount up above you higher and higher; and you shall come down lower and lower.⁴⁵ He shall lend to you, and you shall not lend to him: he shall be the head, and you shall be the tail.⁴⁶ All these curses shall come on you, and shall pursue you, and overtake you, until you be destroyed; because you didn't listen to the voice of Yahawah your Alahayam, to keep his commandments and his statutes which he commanded you:⁴⁷ and they shall be on you for a sign and for a wonder, and on your seed forever.⁴⁸ Because you didn't serve Yahawah your Alahayam with joyfulness, and with gladness of heart, by reason of the abundance of all things;⁴⁹ therefore shall you serve your enemies whom Yahawah shall send against you, in hunger, and in thirst, and in nakedness, and in want of all things: and he shall put a yoke of iron on your neck, until he have destroyed you.⁵⁰ Yahawah will bring a nation against you from far, from the end of the earth, as the eagle flies; a nation whose language you shall not understand;⁵¹ a nation of fierce facial expressions, that shall not regard the person of the old, nor show favor to the young,⁵² and shall eat the fruit of your cattle, and the fruit of your ground, until you be destroyed; that also shall not leave you grain, new wine, or oil, the increase of your cattle, or the young of your flock, until they have caused you to perish.⁵³ They shall besiege you in all your gates, until your high and fortified walls come down, in which you trusted, throughout all your land; and they shall besiege you in all your gates throughout all your land, which Yahawah your Alahayam has given you.⁵⁴ You shall eat the fruit of your own body, the flesh of your sons and of your daughters, whom Yahawah your Alahayam has given you, in the siege and in the distress with which your enemies shall distress you.

⁵⁵ The man who is tender among you, and very delicate, his eye shall be evil toward his brother, and toward the wife of his bosom, and toward the remnant of his children whom he has remaining;⁵⁶ so that he will not give to any of them of the flesh of his children whom he shall eat, because he has nothing left him, in the siege and in the distress with which your enemy shall distress you in all your gates.⁵⁷ The tender and delicate woman among you, who would not adventure to set the sole of her foot on the ground for delicateness and tenderness, her eye shall be evil toward the husband of her bosom, and toward her son, and toward her daughter,⁵⁸ and toward her young one who comes out from between her feet, and toward her children whom she shall bear; for she shall eat them for want of all things secretly, in the siege and in the distress with which your enemy shall distress you in your gates.⁵⁹ If you will not observe to do all the words of this law that are written in this book, that you may fear this glorious and fearful name, YAHWEH YOUR Yahawah;⁶⁰ then Yahawah will make your plagues wonderful, and the plagues of your seed, even great plagues, and of long continuance, and sore sicknesses, and of long continuance.⁶¹ He will bring on you again all the diseases of Matzarayam, which you were afraid of; and they shall cleave to you.⁶² Also every sickness, and every plague, which is not written in the book of this law, them will Yahawah bring on you, until you be destroyed.⁶³ You shall be left few in number, whereas you were as the stars of the sky for multitude; because you didn't listen to the voice of Yahawah your Alahayam.⁶⁴ It shall happen that as Yahawah rejoiced over you to do you good, and to multiply you, so Yahawah will rejoice over you to cause you to perish, and to destroy you; and you shall be plucked from off the land where you go in to possess it.⁶⁵ Yahawah will scatter you among all peoples, from the one end of the earth even to the other end of the earth; and there you shall serve other gods, which you have not known, you nor your fathers, even wood and stone.⁶⁶ Among these nations shall you find no ease, and there shall be no rest for the sole of your foot: but Yahawah will give you there a trembling heart, and failing of eyes, and pining of soul;⁶⁷ and your life shall hang in doubt before you; and you shall fear night and day, and shall have no assurance of your life.⁶⁸ In the morning you shall say, Would it were even! and at even you shall say, Would it were morning! for the fear of your heart which you shall fear, and for the sight of your eyes which you shall see.⁶⁹ Yahawah will bring you into Matzarayam again with ships, by the way whereof I said to you, You shall see it no more again: and there you shall sell yourselves to your enemies for bondservants and for bondmaids, and no man shall buy you.

29 These are the words of the covenant which Yahawah commanded Mashah to make with the children of Yasharaal in the land of Mawaab, besides the covenant which he made with them in Charab.² Mashah called to all Yasharaal, and said to them, You have seen all that Yahawah did before your eyes in the land of Matzarayam to Paraih, and to all his servants, and to all his land;³ the great trials which your eyes saw, the signs, and those great wonders:⁴ but Yahawah has not given you a heart to know, and eyes to see, and ears to hear, to this day.⁵ I have led you forty years in the wilderness: your clothes have not grown old on you, and your shoe has not grown old on your foot.⁶ You have not eaten bread, neither have you drunk wine or strong drink; that you may know that I am Yahawah your Alahayam.⁷ When you came to this place, Sayachawan the king of Chashabawan, and Og the king of Bashan, came out against us to battle, and we struck them:⁸ and we took their land, and gave it for an inheritance to the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to the half-tribe of the Manassites.⁹ Keep therefore the words of this covenant, and do them, that you may prosper in all that you do.¹⁰ You stand this day all of you before Yahawah your Alahayam; your heads, your tribes, your elders, and your officers, even all the men of Yasharaal,¹¹ your little ones, your wives, and your sojourner who is in the midst of your camps, from the one who cuts your wood to the one who draws your water;¹² that you may enter into the covenant of Yahawah your Alahayam, and into his oath, which Yahawah your Alahayam makes with you this day;¹³ that he may establish you this day to himself for a people, and that he may be to you a Alahayam, as he spoke to you, and as he swore to your fathers, to Abaraham, to Yatzachaq, and to Yaiqab.¹⁴ Neither with you only do I make this covenant and this oath,¹⁵ but with him who stands here with us this day before Yahawah our Alahayam, and also with him who is not here with us this day¹⁶ (for you know how we lived in the land of Matzarayam, and how we came through the midst of the nations through which you passed;¹⁷ and you have seen their abominations, and their idols, wood and stone, silver and gold, which were among them);¹⁸ lest there should be among you man, or woman, or family, or tribe, whose heart turns away this day from Yahawah our Alahayam, to go to serve the gods of those nations; lest there should be among you a root that bears gall and wormwood;¹⁹ and it happen, when he hears the words of this curse, that he bless himself in his heart, saying, I shall have peace, though I walk in the stubbornness of my heart, to destroy the moist with the dry.²⁰ Yahawah will not pardon him, but then the anger of Yahawah and his jealousy will smoke against that man, and all the curse that is written in this book shall lie on him, and Yahawah will blot out his name from under the sky.²¹ Yahawah will set him apart to evil out of all the tribes of Yasharaal, according to all the curses of the covenant that is written in this book of the law.²² The generation to come, your children who shall rise up after you, and the foreigner who shall come from a far land, shall say, when they see the plagues of that land, and the sicknesses with which Yahawah has made it sick;²³ [and that] the whole land of it is sulfur, and salt, [and] a burning, [that] it is not sown, nor bears, nor any grass grows therein, like the overthrow of Sadaam and Imarah, Adamah and Tzabayayam, which Yahawah overthrew in his anger, and in his wrath:²⁴ even all the nations shall say, Why has Yahawah done thus to this land? what means the heat of this great anger?²⁵ Then men shall say, Because they forsook the covenant of Yahawah, the Alahayam of their fathers, which he made with them when he brought them forth out of the land of Matzarayam,²⁶ and went and served other gods, and worshipped them, gods that they didn't know, and that he had not given to them:²⁷ therefore the anger of Yahawah was kindled against this land, to bring on it all the curse that is written in this book;²⁸ and Yahawah rooted them out of their land in anger, and in wrath, and in great indignation, and cast them into another land, as at this day.

30 It shall happen, when all these things are come on you, the blessing and the curse, which I have set before you, and you shall call them to mind among all the nations, where Yahawah your Alahayam has driven you,² and shall return to Yahawah your Alahayam, and shall obey his voice according to all that I command you this day, you and your children, with all your heart, and with all your soul;³ that then Yahawah your Alahayam will turn your captivity, and have compassion on you, and will return and gather you from all the peoples, where Yahawah your Alahayam has scattered you.⁴ If [any of] your outcasts are in the uttermost parts of the heavens, from there will Yahawah your Alahayam gather you, and from there will he bring you back:⁵ and Yahawah your Alahayam will bring you into the land which your fathers possessed, and you shall possess it; and he will do you good, and multiply you above your fathers.⁶ Yahawah your Alahayam will circumcise your heart, and the heart of your seed, to love Yahawah your Alahayam with all your heart, and with all your soul, that you may live.⁷ Yahawah your Alahayam will put all these curses on your enemies, and on those who hate you, who persecuted you.⁸ You shall return and obey the voice of Yahawah, and do all his commandments which I command you this day.⁹ Yahawah your Alahayam will make you plenteous in all the work of your hand, in the fruit of your body, and in the fruit of your cattle, and in the fruit of your ground, for good: for Yahawah will again rejoice over you for good, as he rejoiced over your fathers;¹⁰ if you shall obey the voice of Yahawah your Alahayam, to keep his commandments and his statutes which are written in this book of the law; if you turn to Yahawah your Alahayam with all your heart, and with all your soul.¹¹ For this commandment which I command you this day, it is not too hard for you, neither is it far off.¹² It is not in heaven, that you should say, Who shall go up for us to heaven, and bring it to us, and make us to hear it, that we may do it?¹³ Neither is it beyond the sea, that you should say, Who shall go over the sea for us, and bring it to us, and make us to hear it, that we may do it?¹⁴ But the word is very near to you, in your mouth, and in your heart, that you may do it.¹⁵ Behold, I have set before you this day life and good, and death and evil;¹⁶ in that I command you this day to love Yahawah your Alahayam, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments and his statutes and his ordinances, that you may live and multiply, and that Yahawah your Alahayam may bless you in the land where you go in to possess it.¹⁷ But if your heart turn away, and you will not hear, but shall be drawn away, and worship other gods, and serve them;¹⁸ I denounce to you this day, that you shall surely perish; you shall not prolong your days in the land, where you pass over the Yaranan to go in to possess it.¹⁹ I call heaven and earth to witness against you this day, that I have set before you life and death, the blessing and the curse: therefore choose life, that you may live, you and your seed;²⁰ to love Yahawah your Alahayam, to obey his voice, and to cleave to him; for he is your life, and the length of your days; that you may dwell in the land which Yahawah swore to your fathers, to Abaraham, to Yatzachaq, and to Yaiqab, to give them.

31 Mashah went and spoke these words to all Yasharaal.² He said to them, I am one hundred twenty years old this day; I can no more go out and come in: and Yahawah has said to me, You shall not go over this Yaranan.³ Yahawah your Alahayam, he will go over before you; he will destroy these nations from before you, and you shall dispossess them: [and] Yahawashai, he shall go over before you, as Yahawah has spoken.⁴ Yahawah will do to them as he did to Sayachawan and to Og, the kings of the Amorites, and to their land; whom he destroyed.⁵ Yahawah will deliver them up before you, and you shall do to them according to all the commandment which I have commanded you.⁶ Be strong and of good courage, don't be afraid, nor be scared of them: for Yahawah your Alahayam, he it is who does go with you; he will not fail you, nor forsake you.⁷ Mashah called to Yahawashai, and said to him in the sight of all Yasharaal, Be strong and of good courage: for you shall go with this people into the land which Yahawah has sworn to their fathers to give them; and you shall cause them to inherit it.⁸ Yahawah, he it is who does go before you; he will be with you, he will not fail you, neither forsake you: don't be afraid, neither be dismayed.⁹ Mashah wrote this law, and delivered it to the priests the sons of Laway, who bore the ark of the covenant of Yahawah, and to all the elders of Yasharaal.¹⁰ Mashah commanded them, saying, At the end of [every] seven years, in the set time of the year of release, in the feast of tents,¹¹ when all Yasharaal is come to appear before Yahawah your Alahayam in the place which he shall choose, you shall read this law before all Yasharaal in their hearing.¹² Assemble the people, the men and the women and the little ones, and your sojourner who is within your gates, that they may hear, and that they may learn, and fear Yahawah your Alahayam, and observe to do all the words of this law;¹³ and that their children, who have not known, may hear, and learn to fear Yahawah your Alahayam, as long as you live in the land where you go over the Yaranan to possess it.¹⁴ Yahawah said to Mashah, Behold, your days approach that you must die: call Yahawashai, and present yourselves in the tent of meeting, that I may give him a charge. Mashah and Yahawashai went, and presented themselves in the tent of meeting.¹⁵ Yahawah appeared in the Tent in a pillar of cloud: and the pillar of cloud stood over the door of the Tent.¹⁶ Yahawah said to Mashah, Behold, you shall sleep with your fathers; and this people will rise up, and play the prostitute after the strange gods of the land, where they go to be among them, and will forsake me, and break my covenant which I have made with them.¹⁷ Then my anger shall be kindled against them in that day, and I will forsake them, and I will hide my face from them, and they shall be devoured, and many evils and troubles shall come on them; so that they will say in that day, Haven't these evils come on us because our Alahayam is not among us?¹⁸ I will surely hide my face in that day for all the evil which they shall have worked, in that they are turned to other gods.¹⁹ Now therefore write you this song for you, and teach you it the children of Yasharaal: put it in their mouths, that this song may be a witness for me against the children of Yasharaal.²⁰ For when I shall have brought them into the land which I swore to their fathers, flowing with milk and honey, and they shall have eaten and filled themselves, and grown fat; then will they turn to other gods, and serve them, and despise me, and break my covenant.²¹ It shall happen, when many evils and troubles are come on them, that this song shall testify before them as a witness; for it shall not be forgotten out of the mouths of their seed: for I know their imagination which they frame this day, before I have brought them into the land which I swore.²² So Mashah wrote this song the same day, and taught it the children of Yasharaal.²³ He gave Yahawashai the son of Nawan a charge, and said, Be strong and of good courage; for you shall bring the children of Yasharaal into the land which I swore to them: and I will be with you.²⁴ It happened, when Mashah had made an end of writing the words of this law in a book, until they were finished,²⁵ that Mashah commanded the Levites, who bore the ark of the covenant of Yahawah, saying,²⁶ Take this book of the law, and put it by the side of the ark of the covenant of Yahawah your Alahayam, that it may be there for a witness against you.²⁷ For I know your rebellion, and your stiff neck: behold, while I am yet alive with you this day, you have been rebellious against Yahawah; and how much more after my death?²⁸ Assemble to me all the elders of your tribes, and your officers, that I may speak these words in their ears, and call heaven and earth to witness against them.²⁹ For I know that after my death you will utterly corrupt yourselves, and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you; and evil will befall you in the latter days; because you will do that which is evil in the sight of Yahawah, to provoke him to anger through the work of your hands.³⁰ Mashah spoke in the ears of all the assembly of Yasharaal the words of this song, until they were finished.

32 Give ear, you heavens, and I will speak; Let the earth hear the words of my mouth.² My doctrine shall drop as the rain; My speech shall condense as the dew, As the small rain on the tender grass, As the showers on the herb.³ For I will proclaim the name of Yahawah: Ascribe you greatness to our Alahayam.⁴ The Rock, his work is perfect; For all his ways are justice: A Alahayam of faithfulness and without iniquity, Just and right is he.⁵ They have dealt corruptly with him, [they are] not his children, [it is] their blemish; [They are] a perverse and crooked generation.⁶ Do you thus requite Yahawah, Foolish people and unwise? Isn't he your father who has bought you? He has made you, and established you.⁷ Remember the days of old, Consider the years of many generations: Ask your father, and he will show you; Your elders, and they will tell you.⁸ When the Ilayawan gave to the nations their inheritance, When he separated the children of men, He set the bounds of the peoples According to the number of the children of Yasharaal.⁹ For Yahawah's portion is his people; Yaiqab is the lot of his inheritance.¹⁰ He found him in a desert land, In the waste howling wilderness; He compassed him about, he cared for him, He kept him as the apple of his eye.¹¹ As an eagle that stirs up her nest, That flutters over her young, He spread abroad his wings, he took them, He bore them on his pinions.¹² Yahawah alone did lead him, There was no foreign god with him.¹³ He made him ride on the high places of the earth, He ate the increase of the field; He made him to suck honey out of the rock, Oil out of the flinty rock;¹⁴ Butter of the herd, and milk of the flock, With fat of lambs, Rams of the breed of Bashan, and goats, With the finest of the wheat; Of the blood of the grape you drank wine.¹⁵ But Yasharawan grew fat, and kicked: You have grown fat, you are grown thick, you are become sleek; Then he forsook Alahayam who made him, Lightly esteemed the Rock of his salvation.¹⁶ They moved him to jealousy with strange [gods]; With abominations provoked they him to anger.¹⁷ They sacrificed to demons, [which were] no Alahayam, To gods that they didn't know, To new [gods] that came up of late, Which your fathers didn't dread.¹⁸ Of the Rock that became your father, you are unmindful, Have forgotten Alahayam who gave you birth.¹⁹ Yahawah saw [it], and abhorred [them], Because of the provocation of his sons and his daughters.²⁰ He said, I will hide my face from them, I will see what their end shall be: For they are a very perverse generation, Children in whom is no faithfulness.²¹ They have moved me to jealousy with that which is not Alahayam; They have provoked me to anger with their vanities: I will move them to jealousy with those who are not a people; I will provoke them to anger with a foolish nation.²² For a fire is kindled in my anger, Burns to the lowest Sheol, Devours the earth with its

increase, Sets on fire the foundations of the mountains.²³ I will heap evils on them; I will spend my arrows on them:²⁴ [They shall be] wasted with hunger, and devoured with burning heat Bitter destruction; The teeth of animals will I send on them, With the poison of crawling things of the dust.²⁵ Outside shall the sword bereave, In the chambers terror; [It shall destroy] both young man and virgin, The suckling with the man of gray hairs.²⁶ I said, I would scatter them afar, I would make the memory of them to cease from among men;²⁷ Were it not that I feared the provocation of the enemy, Lest their adversaries should judge amiss, Lest they should say, Our hand is exalted, Yahawah has not done all this.²⁸ For they are a nation void of counsel, There is no understanding in them.²⁹ Oh that they were wise, that they understood this, That they would consider their latter end!³⁰ How should one chase a thousand, Two put ten thousand to flight, Except their Rock had sold them, Yahawah had delivered them up?³¹ For their rock is not as our Rock, Even our enemies themselves being judges.³² For their vine is of the vine of Sadam, Of the fields of Imarah: Their grapes are grapes of gall, Their clusters are bitter:³³ Their wine is the poison of serpents, The cruel venom of asps.³⁴ Isn't this laid up in store with me, Sealed up among my treasures?³⁵ Vengeance is mine, and recompense, At the time when their foot shall slide: For the day of their calamity is at hand, The things that are to come on them shall make haste.³⁶ For Yahawah will judge his people, Repent himself for his servants; When he sees that [their] power is gone, There is none [remaining], shut up or left at large.³⁷ He will say, Where are their gods, The rock in which they took refuge;³⁸ Which ate the fat of their sacrifices, And drank the wine of their drink-offering? Let them rise up and help you, Let them be your protection.³⁹ See now that I, even I, am he, There is no god with me: I kill, and I make alive; I wound, and I heal; There is none who can deliver out of my hand.⁴⁰ For I lift up my hand to heaven, And say, As I live forever,⁴¹ If I whet my glittering sword, My hand take hold on judgment; I will render vengeance to my adversaries, Will recompense those who hate me.⁴² I will make my arrows drunk with blood, My sword shall devour flesh; With the blood of the slain and the captives, From the head of the leaders of the enemy.⁴³ Rejoice, you nations, [with] his people: For he will avenge the blood of his servants, Will render vengeance to his adversaries, Will make expiation for his land, for his people.⁴⁴ Mashah came and spoke all the words of this song in the ears of the people, he and Yahawashai the son of Nawan.⁴⁵ Mashah made an end of speaking all these words to all Yasharaal;⁴⁶ He said to them, Set your heart to all the words which I testify to you this day, which you shall command your children to observe to do, [even] all the words of this law.⁴⁷ For it is no vain thing for you; because it is your life, and through this thing you shall prolong your days in the land, where you go over the Yaradan to possess it.⁴⁸ Yahawah spoke to Mashah that same day, saying,⁴⁹ Get you up into this mountain of Ibarayam, to Mount Nabaw, which is in the land of Mawaab, that is over against Yarayachaw; and see the land of Kanain, which I give to the children of Yasharaal for a possession;⁵⁰ and die on the mountain where you go up, and be gathered to your people, as Aharan your brother died on Mount Har, and was gathered to his people:⁵¹ because you trespassed against me in the midst of the children of Yasharaal at the waters of Marayabah of Qadash, in the wilderness of Tzan; because you didn't sanctify me in the midst of the children of Yasharaal.⁵² For you shall see the land before you; but you shall not go there into the land which I give the children of Yasharaal.

33 This is the blessing, with which Mashah the man of Alahayam blessed the children of Yasharaal before his death.² He said, Yahawah came from Sayanay, Rose from Shaiyar to them; He shined forth from Mount Paaran, He came from the ten thousands of holy ones: At his right hand was a fiery law for them.³ Yes, he loves the people; All his saints are in your hand: They sat down at your feet; [Everyone] shall receive of your words.⁴ Mashah commanded us a law, An inheritance for the assembly of Yaiqab.⁵ He was king in Yasharawan, When the heads of the people were gathered, All the tribes of Yasharaal together. ⁶ Let Raawaban live, and not die; Nor let his men be few. ⁷ This is [the blessing] of Yahawadah: and he said, Hear, Yahawah, the voice of Yahawadah, Bring him in to his people. With his hands he contended for himself; You shall be a help against his adversaries. ⁸ Of Laway he said, Your Thummim and your Urim are with your godly one, Whom you did prove at Masah, With whom you did strive at the waters of Marayabah; ⁹ Who said of his father, and of his mother, I have not seen him; Neither did he acknowledge his brothers, Nor knew he his own children: For they have observed your word, Keep your covenant. ¹⁰ They shall teach Yaiqab your ordinances, Yasharaal your law: They shall put incense before you, Whole burnt offering on your altar. ¹¹ Bless, Yahawah, his substance, Accept the work of his hands: Smite through the loins of those who rise up against him, Of those who hate him, that they not rise again. ¹² Of Banayaman he said, The beloved of Yahawah shall dwell in safety by him; He covers him all the day long, He dwells between his shoulders. ¹³ Of Yawasap he said, Blessed of Yahawah be his land, For the precious things of the heavens, for the dew, For the deep that couches beneath, ¹⁴ For the precious things of the fruits of the sun, For the precious things of the growth of the moons, ¹⁵ For the chief things of the ancient mountains, For the precious things of the everlasting hills, ¹⁶ For the precious things of the earth and the fullness of it, The good will of him who lived in the bush. Let [the blessing] come on the head of Yawasap, On the crown of the head of him who was separate from his brothers. ¹⁷ The firstborn of his herd, majesty is his; His horns are the horns of the wild-ox: With them he shall push the peoples all of them, [even] the ends of the earth: They are the ten thousands of Aparayam, They are the thousands of Manashah. ¹⁸ Of Zabawalan he said, Rejoice, Zabawalan, in your going out; Yashashakar, in your tents. ¹⁹ They shall call the peoples to the mountain; There shall they offer sacrifices of righteousness: For they shall suck the abundance of the seas, The hidden treasures of the sand. ²⁰ Of Gad he said, Blessed be he who enlarges Gad: He dwells as a lioness, Tears the arm, yes, the crown of the head. ²¹ He provided the first part for himself, For there was the lawgiver's portion reserved; He came [with] the heads of the people; He executed the righteousness of Yahawah, His ordinances with Yasharaal. ²² Of Wadan he said, Wadan is a lion's whelp, That leaps forth from Bashan. ²³ Of Napathalay he said, Napathalay, satisfied with favor, Full with the blessing of Yahawah, Possess you the west and the south. ²⁴ Of Ashar he said, Blessed be Ashar with children; Let him be acceptable to his brothers, Let him dip his foot in oil. ²⁵ Your bars shall be iron and brass; As your days, so shall your strength be. ²⁶ There is none like Alahayam, Yasharawan, Who rides on the heavens for your help, In his excellency on the skies. ²⁷ The eternal Alahayam is [your] dwelling-place, Underneath are the everlasting arms. He thrust out the enemy from before you, Said, Destroy. ²⁸ Yasharaal dwells in safety, The fountain of Yaiqab alone, In a land of grain and new wine; Yes, his heavens drop down dew. ²⁹ Happy are you, Yasharaal: Who is like you, a people saved by Yahawah, The shield of your help, The sword of your excellency! Your enemies shall submit themselves to you; You shall tread on their high places.

34 Mashah went up from the plains of Mawaab to Mount Nabaw, to the top of Pasagah, that is over against Yarayachaw. Yahawah showed him all the land of Galaid, to Wadan, ² and all Napathalay, and the land of Aparayam and Manashah, and all the land of Yahawadah, to the hinder sea, ³ and the South, and the Plain of the valley of Yarayachaw the city of palm-trees, to Tzair. ⁴ Yahawah said to him, This is the land which I swore to Abaraham, to Yatzachaq, and to Yaiqab, saying, I will give it to your seed: I have caused you to see it with your eyes, but you shall not go over there. ⁵ So Mashah the servant of Yahawah died there in the land of Mawaab, according to the word of Yahawah. ⁶ He buried him in the valley in the land of Mawaab over against Bayath-Paiwar: but no man knows of his tomb to this day. ⁷ Mashah was one hundred twenty years old when he died: his eye was not dim, nor his natural force abated. ⁸ The children of Yasharaal wept for Mashah in the plains of Mawaab thirty days: so the days of weeping in the mourning for Mashah were ended. ⁹ Yahawashai the son of Nawan was full of the spirit of wisdom; for Mashah had laid his hands on him: and the children of Yasharaal listened to him, and did as Yahawah commanded Mashah. ¹⁰ There has not arisen a prophet since in Yasharaal like Mashah, whom Yahawah knew face to face, ¹¹ in all the signs and the wonders, which Yahawah sent him to do in the land of Matzarayam, to Paraih, and to all his servants, and to all his land, ¹² and in all the mighty hand, and in all the great terror, which Mashah worked in the sight of all Yasharaal.

Jubilees

1 And it came to pass in the first year of the exodus of the children of Yasharaal out of Matzarayam, in the third month, on the sixteenth day of the month, [2450 Anno Mundi] that Alahayam spoke to Mashah, saying: 'Come up to Me on the Mount, and I will give you two tables of stone of the law and of the commandment, which I have written, that you may teach them.'² And Mashah went up into the mount of Alahayam, and the glory of the Adanay abode on Mount Sayanay, and a cloud overshadowed it six days.³ And He called to Mashah on the seventh day out of the midst of the cloud, and the appearance of the glory of the Adanay was like a flaming fire on the top of the mount.⁴ And Mashah was on the Mount forty days and forty nights, and Alahayam taught him the earlier and the later history of the division of all the days of the law and of the testimony.⁵ And He said: 'Incline your heart to every word which I shall speak to you on this mount, and write them in a book in order that their generations may see how I have not forsaken them for all the evil which they have wrought in transgressing the covenant which I establish between Me and you for their generations this day on Mount Sayanay.'⁶ And thus it will come to pass when all these things come upon them, that they will recognise that I am more righteous than they in all their judgments and in all their actions, and they will recognise that I have been truly with them.⁷ And do you write for yourself all these words which I declare to you this day, for I know their rebellion and their stiff neck, before I bring them into the land of which I swore to their fathers, to Abaraham and to Yatzachaq and to Yaiqab, saying: 'To your seed will I give a land flowing with milk and honey.'⁸ And they will eat and be satisfied, and they will turn to strange gods, to (gods) which cannot deliver them from aught of their tribulation: and this witness shall be heard for a witness against them. For they will forget all My commandments, (even) all that I command them, and they will walk after the Gentiles, and after their uncleanness, and after their shame, and will serve their gods, and these will prove to them an offence and a tribulation and an affliction and a snare.⁹ And many will perish and they will be taken captive, and will fall into the hands of the enemy, because they have forsaken My ordinances and My commandments, and the festivals of My covenant, and My sabbaths, and My holy place which I have hallowed for Myself in their midst, and My tabernacle, and My sanctuary, which I have hallowed for Myself in the midst of the land, that I should set my name upon it, and that it should dwell (there).¹⁰ And they will make to themselves high places and groves and graven images, and they will worship, each his own (graven image), so as to go astray, and they will sacrifice their children to demons, and to all the works of the error of their hearts.¹¹ And I will send witnesses to them, that I may witness against them, but they will not hear, and will slay the witnesses also, and they will persecute those who seek the law, and they will abrogate and change everything so as to work evil before My eyes.¹² And I will hide My face from them, and I will deliver them into the hand of the Gentiles for captivity, and for a prey, and for devouring, and I will remove them from the midst of the land, and I will scatter them amongst the Gentiles.¹³ And they will forget all My law and all My commandments and all My judgments, and will go astray as to new moons, and sabbaths, and festivals, and jubilees, and ordinances.¹⁴ And after this they will turn to Me from amongst the Gentiles with all their heart and with all their soul and with all their strength, and I will gather them from amongst all the Gentiles, and they will seek me, so that I shall be found of them, when they seek me with all their heart and with all their soul.¹⁵ And I will disclose to them abounding peace with righteousness, and I will remove them the plant of uprightness, with all My heart and with all My soul, and they shall be for a blessing and not for a curse, and they shall be the head and not the tail.¹⁶ And I will build My sanctuary in their midst, and I will dwell with them, and I will be their Alahayam and they shall be My people in truth and righteousness.¹⁷ And I will not forsake them nor fail them; for I am the Adanay their Alahayam.'¹⁸ And Mashah fell on his face and prayed and said, 'O Adanay my Alahayam, do not forsake Your people and Your inheritance, so that they should wander in the error of their hearts, and do not deliver them into the hands of their enemies, the Gentiles, lest they should rule over them and cause them to sin against You.'¹⁹ Let your mercy, O Adanay, be lifted up upon Your people, and create in them an upright spirit, and let not the spirit of Beliar rule over them to accuse them before You, and to ensnare them from all the paths of righteousness, so that they may perish from before Your face.²⁰ But they are Your people and Your inheritance, which you have delivered with your great power from the hands of the Matzarayam: create in them a clean heart and a holy spirit, and let them not be ensnared in their sins from henceforth until eternity.'²¹ And the Adanay said to Mashah: 'I know their contrariness and their thoughts and their stiffneckedness, and they will not be obedient till they confess their own sin and the sin of their fathers.'²² And after this they will turn to Me in all uprightness and with all (their) heart and with all (their) soul, and I will circumcise the foreskin of their heart and the foreskin of the heart of their seed, and I will create in them a holy spirit, and I will cleanse them so that they shall not turn away from Me from that day to eternity.'²³ And their souls will cleave to Me and to all My commandments, and they will fulfil My commandments, and I will be their Father and they shall be My children.²⁴ And they all shall be called children of the living Alahayam, and every angel and every spirit shall know, yea, they shall know that these are My children, and that I am their Father in uprightness and righteousness, and that I love them.²⁵ And do you write down for yourself all these words which I declare to you on this mountain, the first and the last, which shall come to pass in all the divisions of the days in the law and in the testimony and in the weeks and the jubilees to eternity, until I descend and dwell with them throughout eternity.'²⁶ And He said to the angel of the presence: 'Write for Mashah from the beginning of creation till My sanctuary has been built among them for all eternity.'²⁷ And the Adanay will appear to the eyes of all, and all shall know that I am the Alahayam of Yasharaal and the Father of all the children of Yaiqab, and King on Mount Tzayawan for all eternity. And Tzayawan and Yarawashalam shall be holy.'²⁸ And the angel of the presence who went before the camp of Yasharaal took the tables of the divisions of the years -from the time of the creation- of the law and of the testimony of the weeks of the jubilees, according to the individual years, according to all the number of the jubilees [according, to the individual years], from the day of the [new] creation when the heavens and the earth shall be renewed and all their creation according to the powers of the heaven, and according to all the creation of the earth, until the sanctuary of the Adanay shall be made in Yarawashalam on Mount Tzayawan, and all the luminaries be renewed for healing and for peace and for blessing for all the elect of Yasharaal, and that thus it may be from that day and to all the days of the earth.

2 And the angel of the presence spoke to Mashah according to the word of the Adanay, saying: Write the complete history of the creation, how in six days the Adanay Alahayam finished all His works and all that He created, and kept Sabbath on the seventh day and hallowed it for all ages, and appointed it as a sign for all His works.² For on the first day He created the heavens which are above and the earth and the waters and all the spirits which serve before him -the angels of the presence, and the angels of sanctification, and the angels [of the spirit of fire and the angels] of the spirit of the winds, and the angels of the spirit of the clouds, and of darkness, and of snow and of hail and of hoar frost, and the angels of the voices and of the thunder and of the lightning, and the angels of the spirits of cold and of heat, and of winter and of spring and of autumn and of summer and of all the spirits of his creatures which are in the heavens and on the earth, (He created) the abysses and the darkness, eventide <and night>, and the light, dawn and day, which He has prepared in the knowledge of his heart.³ And thereupon we saw His works, and praised Him, and lauded before Him on account of all His works; for seven great works did He create on the first day.⁴ And on the second day He created the firmament in the midst of the waters, and the waters were divided on that day -half of them went up above and half of them went down below the firmament (that was) in the midst over the face of the whole earth. And this was the only work (Alahayam) created on the second day.⁵ And on the third day He commanded the waters to pass from off the face of the whole earth into one place, and the dry land to appear.⁶ And the waters did so as He commanded them, and they retired from off the face of the earth into one place outside of this firmament, and the dry land appeared.⁷ And on that day He created for them all the seas according to their separate gathering-places, and all the rivers, and the gatherings of the waters in the mountains and on all the earth, and all the lakes, and all the dew of the earth, and the seed which is sown, and all sprouting things, and fruit-bearing trees, and trees of the wood, and the garden of Idan, in Idan and all plants after their kind.⁸ These four great works Alahayam created on the third day. And on the fourth day He created the sun and the moon and the stars, and set them in the firmament of the heaven, to give light upon all the earth, and to rule over the day and the night, and divide the light from the darkness.⁹ And Alahayam appointed the sun to be a great sign on the earth for days and for sabbaths and for months and for feasts and for years and for sabbaths of years and for jubilees and for all seasons of the years.¹⁰ And it divides the light from the darkness [and] for prosperity, that all things may prosper which shoot and grow on the earth.¹¹ These three kinds He made on the fourth day. And on the fifth day He created great sea monsters in the depths of the waters, for these were the first things of flesh that were created by his hands, the fish and everything that moves in the waters, and everything that flies, the birds and all their kind.¹² And the sun rose above them to prosper (them), and above everything that was on the earth, everything that shoots out of the earth, and all fruit-bearing trees, and all flesh.¹³ These three kinds He created on the fifth day. And on the sixth day He created all the animals of the earth, and all cattle, and everything that moves on the earth.¹⁴ And after all this He created man, a man and a woman created He them, and gave him dominion over all that is upon the earth, and in the seas, and over everything that flies, and over beasts and over cattle, and over everything that moves on the earth, and over the whole earth, and over all this He gave him dominion.¹⁵ And these four kinds He created on the sixth day. And there were altogether two and twenty kinds.¹⁶ And He finished all his work on the sixth day -all that is in the heavens and on the earth, and in the seas and in the abysses, and in the light and in the darkness, and in everything.¹⁷ And He gave us a great sign, the Sabbath day, that we should work six days, but keep Sabbath on the seventh day from all work.¹⁸ And all the angels of the presence, and all the angels of sanctification, these two great classes -He has bidden us to keep the Sabbath with Him in heaven and on earth.¹⁹ And He said to us: 'Behold, I will separate to Myself a people from among all the peoples, and these shall keep the Sabbath day, and I will sanctify them to Myself as My people, and will bless them; as I have sanctified the Sabbath day and do sanctify (it) to Myself, even so will I bless them, and they shall be My people and I will be their Alahayam.²⁰ And I have chosen the seed of Yaiqab from amongst all that I have seen, and have written him down as My first-born son, and have sanctified him to Myself for ever and ever; and I will teach them the Sabbath day, that they may keep Sabbath thereon from all work.'²¹ And thus He created therein a sign in accordance with which they should keep Sabbath with us on the seventh day, to eat and to drink, and to bless Him who has created all things as He has blessed and sanctified to Himself a peculiar people above all peoples, and that they should keep Sabbath together with us.²² And He caused His commands to ascend as a sweet savour acceptable before Him all the days . . .²³ There (were) two and twenty heads of mankind from Adam to Yaiqab, and two and twenty kinds of work were made until the seventh day; this is blessed and holy; and the former also is blessed and holy; and this one serves with that one for sanctification and blessing.²⁴ And to this (Yaiqab and his seed) it was granted that they should always be the blessed and holy ones of the first testimony and law, even as He had sanctified and blessed the Sabbath day on the seventh day.²⁵ He created heaven and earth and everything that He created in six days, and Alahayam made the seventh day holy, for all His works; therefore He commanded on its behalf that, whoever does any work thereon shall die, and that he who defiles it shall surely die.²⁶ Therefore do you command the children of Yasharaal to observe this day that they may keep it holy and not do thereon any work, and not to defile it, as it is holier than all other days.²⁷ And whoever profanes it shall surely die, and whoever does thereon any work shall surely die eternally, that the children of Yasharaal may observe this day throughout their generations, and not be rooted out of the land; for it is a holy day and a blessed day.²⁸ And every one who observes it and keeps Sabbath thereon from all his work, will be holy and blessed throughout all days like to us.²⁹ Declare and say to the children of Yasharaal the law of this day both that they should keep Sabbath thereon, and that they should not forsake it in the error of their hearts; (and) that it is not lawful to do any work thereon which is unseemly, to do thereon their own pleasure, and that they should not prepare thereon anything to be eaten or drunk, and (that it is not lawful) to draw water, or bring in or take out thereon through their gates any burden, which they had not prepared for themselves on the sixth day in their dwellings.³⁰ And they shall not bring in nor take out from house to house on that day; for that day is more holy and blessed than any jubilee day of the jubilees; on this we kept Sabbath in the heavens before it was made known to any flesh to keep Sabbath thereon on the earth.³¹ And the Creator of all things blessed it, but he did not sanctify all peoples and nations to keep Sabbath thereon, but Yasharaal alone: them alone he permitted to eat and drink and to keep Sabbath thereon on the earth.³² And the Creator of all things blessed this day which He had created for blessing and holiness and glory above all days.³³ This law and testimony was given to the children of Yasharaal as a law for ever to their generations.

3 And on the six days of the second week we brought, according to the word of Alahayam, to Adam all the beasts, and all the cattle, and all the birds, and everything that moves on the earth, and everything that moves in the water, according to their kinds, and according to their types: the beasts on the first day; the cattle on the second day; the birds on the third day; and all that which moves on the earth on the fourth day; and that which moves in the water on the fifth day.² And Adam named them all by their respective names, and as he called them, so was their name.³ And on these five days Adam saw all these, male and female, according to every kind that was on the earth, but he was alone and found no helpmeet for him.⁴ And the Adanay said to us: 'It is not good that the man should be alone: let us make a helpmeet for him.'⁵ And the Adanay our Alahayam caused a deep sleep to fall upon him, and he slept, and He took for the woman one rib from amongst his ribs, and this rib was the origin of the woman from amongst his ribs, and He built up the flesh in its stead, and built the woman.⁶ And He awakened Adam out of his sleep and on awaking he rose on the sixth day, and He brought her to him, and he knew her, and said to her: 'This is now bone of my bones and flesh of my flesh; she shall be called [my] wife; because she was taken from her husband.'⁷ Therefore shall man and wife be one and therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and cleave to his wife, and they shall be one flesh.⁸ In the first week was Adam created, and the rib -his wife: in the second week He showed her to him: and for this reason the commandment was given to keep in their defilement, for a male seven days, and for a female twice seven days.⁹ And after Adam had completed forty days in the land where he had been created, we brought him into the garden of Idan to till and keep it, but his wife they brought in on the eightieth day, and after this she entered into the garden of Idan.¹⁰ And for this reason the commandment is written on the heavenly tablets in regard to her that gives birth: 'if she bears a male, she shall remain in her uncleanness seven days according to the first week of days, and thirty and three days shall she remain in the blood of her purifying, and she shall not touch any hallowed thing, nor enter into the sanctuary, until she accomplishes these days which (are enjoined) in the case of a male child.¹¹ But in the case of a female child she shall remain in her uncleanness two weeks of days, according to the first two weeks, and sixty-six days in the blood of her purification, and they will be in all eighty days.'¹² And when she had completed these eighty days we brought her into the garden of Idan, for it is holier than all the earth besides and every tree that is planted in it is holy.¹³ Therefore, there was ordained regarding her who bears a male or a female child the statute of those days that she should touch no hallowed thing, nor enter into the sanctuary until these days for the male or female child are accomplished.¹⁴ This is the law and testimony which was written down for Yasharaal, in order that they should observe (it) all the days.¹⁵ And in the first week of the first jubilee, [1-7 A.M.] Adam and his wife were in the garden of Idan for seven years tilling and keeping it, and we gave him work and we instructed him to do everything that is suitable for tillage.¹⁶ And he tilled (the garden), and was naked and knew it not, and was not ashamed, and he protected the garden from the birds and beasts and cattle, and gathered its fruit, and eat, and put aside the residue for himself and for his wife [and put aside that which was being kept].¹⁷ And after the completion of the seven years, which he had completed there, seven years exactly, [8 A.M.] and in the second month, on the seventeenth day (of the month), the serpent came and approached the woman, and the serpent said to the woman, 'Has Alahayam commanded you, saying, You shall not eat of every tree of the garden?'¹⁸ And she said to it, 'Of all the fruit of the trees of the garden Alahayam has said to us, Eat; but of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden Alahayam has said to us, 'You shall not eat thereof, neither shall you touch it, lest you die.'¹⁹ And the serpent said to the woman, 'You shall not surely die: for Alahayam does know that on the day you shall eat thereof, your eyes will be opened, and you will be as gods, and you will know good and evil.'²⁰ And the woman saw the tree that it was agreeable and pleasant to the eye, and that its fruit was good for food, and she took thereof and eat.²¹ And when she had first covered her shame with figleaves, she gave thereof to Adam and he eat, and his eyes were opened, and he saw that he was naked.²² And he took figleaves and sewed (them) together, and made an apron for himself, and covered his shame.²³ And Alahayam cursed the serpent, and was wroth with it for ever . . .²⁴ And He was wroth with the woman, because she harkened to the voice of the serpent, and did eat; and He said to her: 'I will greatly multiply your sorrow and your pains: in sorrow you shall bring forth children, and your return shall be to your husband, and he will rule over you.'²⁵ And to Adam also he said, 'Because you have harkened to the voice of your wife, and have eaten of the tree of which I commanded you that you should not eat thereof, cursed be the ground for your sake: thorns and thistles shall it bring forth to you, and you shall eat your bread in the sweat of your face, till you return to the earth from whence you were taken; for earth you are, and to earth shall you return.'²⁶ And He made for them coats of skin, and clothed them, and sent them forth from the Garden of Idan.²⁷ And on that day on which Adam went forth from the Garden, he offered as a sweet savour an offering, frankincense, galbanum, and stacte, and spices

in the morning with the rising of the sun from the day when he covered his shame.²⁸ And on that day was closed the mouth of all beasts, and of cattle, and of birds, and of whatever walks, and of whatever moves, so that they could no longer speak: for they had all spoken one with another with one lip and with one tongue.²⁹ And He sent out of the Garden of Idan all flesh that was in the Garden of Idan, and all flesh was scattered according to its kinds, and according to its types to the places which had been created for them.³⁰ And to Adam alone did He give (the wherewithal) to cover his shame, of all the beasts and cattle.³¹ On this account, it is prescribed on the heavenly tablets as touching all those who know the judgment of the law, that they should cover their shame, and should not uncover themselves as the Gentiles uncover themselves.³² And on the new moon of the fourth month, Adam and his wife went forth from the Garden of Idan, and they dwelt in the land of Elda in the land of their creation.³³ And Adam called the name of his wife Chawah.³⁴ And they had no son till the first jubilee, [8 A.M.] and after this he knew her.³⁵ Now he tilled the land as he had been instructed in the Garden of Idan.

4 And in the third week in the second jubilee [64-70 A.M.] she gave birth to Qayan, and in the fourth [71-77 A.M.] she gave birth to Habal, and in the fifth [78-84 A.M.] she gave birth to her daughter Âwân.² And in the first (year) of the third jubilee [99-105 A.M.], Qayan slew Habal because (Alahayam) accepted the sacrifice of Habal, and did not accept the offering of Qayan.³ And he slew him in the field: and his blood cried from the ground to heaven, complaining because he had slain him.⁴ And the Adanay reproved Qayan because of Habal, because he had slain him, and he made him a fugitive on the earth because of the blood of his brother, and he cursed him upon the earth.⁵ And on this account it is written on the heavenly tables, 'Cursed is he who smites his neighbour treacherously, and let all who have seen and heard say, So be it; and the man who has seen and not declared (it), let him be accursed as the other.'⁶ And for this reason we announce when we come before the Adanay our Alahayam all the sin which is committed in heaven and on earth, and in light and in darkness, and everywhere.⁷ And Adam and his wife mourned for Habal four weeks of years, [99-127 A.M.] and in the fourth year of the fifth week [130 A.M.] they became joyful, and Adam knew his wife again, and she bore him a son, and he called his name Shath; for he said 'Yahawah has raised up a second seed to us on the earth instead of Habal; for Qayan slew him.'⁸ And in the sixth week [134-40 A.M.] he begat his daughter Azûrâ.⁹ And Qayan took Âwân his sister to be his wife and she bore him Chanawak at the close of the fourth jubilee. [190-196 A.M.] And in the first year of the first week of the fifth jubilee, [197 A.M.] houses were built on the earth, and Qayan built a city, and called its name after the name of his son Chanawak.¹⁰ And Adam knew Chawah his wife and she bore yet nine sons.¹¹ And in the fifth week of the fifth jubilee [225-31 A.M.] Shath took Azûrâ his sister to be his wife, and in the fourth (year of the sixth week) [235 A.M.] she bore him Anawash.¹² He began to call on the name of the Adanay on the earth.¹³ And in the seventh jubilee in the third week [309-15 A.M.] Anawash took Nôâm his sister to be his wife, and she bore him a son in the third year of the fifth week, and he called his name Qayanan.¹⁴ And at the close of the eighth jubilee [325, 386-3992 A.M.] Qayanan took Mûâlêlêth his sister to be his wife, and she bore him a son in the ninth jubilee, in the first week in the third year of this week, [395 A.M.] and he called his name Mahalalaal.¹⁵ And in the second week of the tenth jubilee [449-55 A.M.] Mahalalaal took to him to wife DinaH, the daughter of Barakiel the daughter of his father's brother, and she bore him a son in the third week in the sixth year, [461 A.M.] and he called his name Yarad, for in his days the angels of the Adanay descended on the earth, those who are named the Watchers, that they should instruct the children of men, and that they should do judgment and uprightness on the earth.¹⁶ And in the eleventh jubilee [512-18 A.M.] Yarad took to himself a wife, and her name was Baraka, the daughter of Râsûjâl, a daughter of his father's brother, in the fourth week of this jubilee, [522 A.M.] and she bore him a son in the fifth week, in the fourth year of the jubilee, and he called his name Chanawak.¹⁷ And he was the first among men that are born on earth who learnt writing and knowledge and wisdom and who wrote down the signs of heaven according to the order of their months in a book, that men might know the seasons of the years according to the order of their separate months.¹⁸ And he was the first to write a testimony and he testified to the sons of men among the generations of the earth, and recounted the weeks of the jubilees, and made known to them the days of the years, and set in order the months and recounted the Sabbaths of the years as we made (them), known to him.¹⁹ And what was and what will be he saw in a vision of his sleep, as it will happen to the children of men throughout their generations until the day of judgment; he saw and understood everything, and wrote his testimony, and placed the testimony on earth for all the children of men and for their generations.²⁰ And in the twelfth jubilee, [582-88] in the seventh week thereof, he took to himself a wife, and her name was Edna, the daughter of Danel, the daughter of his father's brother, and in the sixth year in this week [587 A.M.] she bore him a son and he called his name Mathawashalach.²¹ And he was moreover with the angels of Alahayam these six jubilees of years, and they showed him everything which is on earth and in the heavens, the rule of the sun, and he wrote down everything.²² And he testified to the Watchers, who had sinned with the daughters of men; for these had begun to unite themselves, so as to be defiled, with the daughters of men, and Chanawak testified against (them) all.²³ And he was taken from amongst the children of men, and we conducted him into the Garden of Idan in majesty and honour, and behold there he writes down the condemnation and judgment of the world, and all the wickedness of the children of men.²⁴ And on account of it (Alahayam) brought the waters of the flood upon all the land of Idan; for there he was set as a sign and that he should testify against all the children of men, that he should recount all the deeds of the generations until the day of condemnation.²⁵ And he burnt the incense of the sanctuary, (even) sweet spices acceptable before the Adanay on the Mount.²⁶ For the Adanay has four places on the earth, the Garden of Idan, and the Mount of the East, and this mountain on which you are this day, Mount Sayanay, and Mount Tzayawan (which) will be sanctified in the new creation for a sanctification of the earth; through it will the earth be sanctified from all (its) guilt and its uncleanness through- out the generations of the world.²⁷ And in the fourteenth jubilee [652 A.M.] Mathawashalach took to himself a wife, Edna the daughter of Azrial, the daughter of his father's brother, in the third week, in the first year of this week, [701-7 A.M.] and he begat a son and called his name Lamak.²⁸ And in the fifteenth jubilee in the third week Lamak took to himself a wife, and her name was Betenos the daughter of Baraki'il, the daughter of his father's brother, and in this week she bore him a son and he called his name Nach, saying, 'This one will comfort me for my trouble and all my work, and for the ground which the Adanay has cursed.'²⁹ And at the close of the nineteenth jubilee, in the seventh week in the sixth year [930 A.M.] thereof, Adam died, and all his sons buried him in the land of his creation, and he was the first to be buried in the earth.³⁰ And he lacked seventy years of one thousand years; for one thousand years are as one day in the testimony of the heavens and therefore was it written concerning the tree of knowledge: 'On the day that you eat thereof you shall die.' For this reason he did not complete the years of this day; for he died during it.³¹ At the close of this jubilee Qayan was killed after him in the same year; for his house fell upon him and he died in the midst of his house, and he was killed by its stones; for with a stone he had killed Habal, and by a stone was he killed in righteous judgment.³² For this reason it was ordained on the heavenly tablets: With the instrument with which a man kills his neighbour with the same shall he be killed; after the manner that he wounded him, in like manner shall they deal with him.'³³ And in the twenty-fifth [1205 A.M.] jubilee Nach took to himself a wife, and her name was `Emzârâ, the daughter of Râkê'êl, the daughter of his father's brother, in the first year in the fifth week [1207 A.M.]:

and in the third year thereof she bore him Sham, in the fifth year thereof [1209 A.M.] she bore him Cham, and in the first year in the sixth week [1212 A.M.] she bore him Yapath.

5 And it came to pass when the children of men began to multiply on the face of the earth and daughters were born to them, that the angels of Alahayam saw them on a certain year of this jubilee, that they were beautiful to look upon; and they took themselves wives of all whom they chose, and they bore to them sons and they were giants.² And lawlessness increased on the earth and all flesh corrupted its way, alike men and cattle and beasts and birds and everything that walks on the earth -all of them corrupted their ways and their orders, and they began to devour each other, and lawlessness increased on the earth and every imagination of the thoughts of all men (was) thus evil continually.³ And Alahayam looked upon the earth, and behold it was corrupt, and all flesh had corrupted its orders, and all that were upon the earth had wrought all manner of evil before His eyes.⁴ And He said that He would destroy man and all flesh upon the face of the earth which He had created.⁵ But Nach found grace before the eyes of the Adanay.⁶ And against the angels whom He had sent upon the earth, He was exceedingly wroth, and He gave commandment to root them out of all their dominion, and He bade us to bind them in the depths of the earth, and behold they are bound in the midst of them, and are (kept) separate.⁷ And against their sons went forth a command from before His face that they should be smitten with the sword, and be removed from under heaven.⁸ And He said 'My spirit shall not always abide on man; for they also are flesh and their days shall be one hundred and twenty years'.⁹ And He sent His sword into their midst that each should slay his neighbour, and they began to slay each other till they all fell by the sword and were destroyed from the earth.¹⁰ And their fathers were witnesses (of their destruction), and after this they were bound in the depths of the earth for ever, until the day of the great condemnation, when judgment is executed on all those who have corrupted their ways and their works before the Adanay.¹¹ And He destroyed all from their places, and there was not left one of them whom He judged not according to all their wickedness.¹² And he made for all his works a new and righteous nature, so that they should not sin in their whole nature for ever, but should be all righteous each in his kind alway.¹³ And the judgment of all is ordained and written on the heavenly tablets in righteousness -even (the judgment of) all who depart from the path which is ordained for them to walk in; and if they walk not therein, judgment is written down for every creature and for every kind.¹⁴ And there is nothing in heaven or on earth, or in light or in darkness, or in Sheol or in the depth, or in the place of darkness (which is not judged); and all their judgments are ordained and written and engraved.¹⁵ In regard to all He will judge, the great according to his greatness, and the small according to his smallness, and each according to his way.¹⁶ And He is not one who will regard the person (of any), nor is He one who will receive gifts, if He says that He will execute judgment on each: if one gave everything that is on the earth, He will not regard the gifts or the person (of any), nor accept anything at his hands, for He is a righteous judge.¹⁷ [And of the children of Yasharaal it has been written and ordained: If they turn to him in righteousness He will forgive all their transgressions and pardon all their sins.¹⁸ It is written and ordained that He will show mercy to all who turn from all their guilt once each year.]¹⁹ And as for all those who corrupted their ways and their thoughts before the flood, no man's person was accepted save that of Nach alone; for his person was accepted in behalf of his sons, whom (Alahayam) saved from the waters of the flood on his account; for his heart was righteous in all his ways, according as it was commanded regarding him, and he had not departed from aught that was ordained for him.²⁰ And the Adanay said that he would destroy everything which was upon the earth, both men and cattle, and²¹ beasts, and fowls of the air, and that which moves on the earth. And He commanded Nach to make him an ark, that he might save himself from the waters of the flood.²² And Nach made the ark in all respects as He commanded him, in the twenty-seventh jubilee of years, in the fifth week in the fifth year (on the new moon of the first month). [1307 A.M.]²³ And he entered in the sixth (year) thereof, [1308 A.M.] in the second month, on the new moon of the second month, till the sixteenth; and he entered, and all that we brought to him, into the ark, and the Adanay closed it from without on the seventeenth evening.²⁴ And the Adanay opened seven flood-gates of heaven, And the mouths of the fountains of the great deep, seven mouths in number.²⁵ And the flood-gates began to pour down water from the heaven forty days and forty nights, And the fountains of the deep also sent up waters, until the whole world was full of water.²⁶ And the waters increased upon the earth: Fifteen cubits did the waters rise above all the high mountains, And the ark was lift up above the earth, And it moved upon the face of the waters.²⁷ And the water prevailed on the face of the earth five months -one hundred and fifty days.²⁸ And the ark went and rested on the top of Lubar, one of the mountains of Ararat.²⁹ And (on the new moon) in the fourth month the fountains of the great deep were closed and the flood-gates of heaven were restrained; and on the new moon of the seventh month all the mouths of the abysses of the earth were opened, and the water began to descend into the deep below.³⁰ And on the new moon of the tenth month the tops of the mountains were seen, and on the new moon of the first month the earth became visible.³¹ And the waters disappeared from above the earth in the fifth week in the seventh year [1309 A.M.] thereof, and on the seventeenth day in the second month the earth was dry.³² And on the twenty-seventh thereof he opened the ark, and sent forth from it beasts, and cattle, and birds, and every moving thing.

6 And on the new moon of the third month he went forth from the ark, and built an altar on that mountain.² And he made atonement for the earth, and took a kid and made atonement by its blood for all the guilt of the earth; for everything that had been on it had been destroyed, save those that were in the ark with Nach.³ And he placed the fat thereof on the altar, and he took an ox, and a goat, and a sheep and kids, and salt, and a turtle-dove, and the young of a dove, and placed a burnt sacrifice on the altar, and poured thereon an offering mingled with oil, and sprinkled wine and strewed frankincense over everything, and caused a goodly savour to arise, acceptable before the Adanay.⁴ And the Adanay smelt the goodly savour, and He made a covenant with him that there should not be any more a flood to destroy the earth; that all the days of the earth seed-time and harvest should never cease; cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night should not change their order, nor cease for ever.⁵ 'And you, increase you and multiply upon the earth, and become many upon it, and be a blessing upon it. The fear of you and the dread of you I will inspire in everything that is on earth and in the sea.'⁶ And behold I have given to you all beasts, and all winged things, and everything that moves on the earth, and the fish in the waters, and all things for food; as the green herbs, I have given you all things to eat.⁷ But flesh, with the life thereof, with the blood, you shall not eat; for the life of all flesh is in the blood, lest your blood of your lives be required. At the hand of every man, at the hand of every (beast) will I require the blood of man.⁸ Whoso sheds man's blood by man shall his blood be shed, for in the image of Alahayam made He man.⁹ And you, increase you, and multiply on the earth.'¹⁰ And Nach and his sons swore that they would not eat any blood that was in any flesh, and he made a covenant before the Adanay Alahayam for ever throughout all the generations of the earth in this month.¹¹ On this account He spoke to you that you should make a covenant with the children of Yasharaal in this month upon the mountain with an oath, and that you should sprinkle blood upon them because of all the words of the covenant, which the Adanay made with them for ever.¹² And this testimony is written concerning you that you should observe it continually, so that you should not eat on any day any blood of beasts or birds or cattle during all the days of the earth, and the man who eats the blood of beast or of cattle or of birds during all the days of the earth, he and his seed shall be rooted out of the land.¹³ And do you command the children of Yasharaal to eat no blood, so that their names and their seed may be before the Adanay our Alahayam continually.¹⁴ And for this law there is no limit of days, for it is for ever. They shall observe it throughout their generations, so that they may continue supplicating on your behalf with blood before the altar; every day and at the time of morning and evening they shall seek forgiveness on your behalf perpetually before the Adanay that they may keep it and not be rooted out.¹⁵ And He gave to Nach and his sons a sign that there should not again be a flood on the earth.¹⁶ He set His bow in the cloud for a sign of the eternal covenant that there should not again be a flood on the earth to destroy it all the days of the earth.¹⁷ For this reason it is ordained and written on the heavenly tablets, that they should celebrate the feast of weeks in this month once a year, to renew the covenant every year.¹⁸ And this whole festival was celebrated in heaven from the day of creation till the days of Nach -twenty-six jubilees and five weeks of years [1309-1659 A.M.]; and Nach and his sons observed it for seven jubilees and one week of years, till the day of Noah's death, and from the day of Noah's death his sons did away with (it) until the days of Abaraham, and they eat blood.¹⁹ But Abaraham observed it, and Yatzachaq and Yaiqab and his children observed it up to your days, and in your days the children of Yasharaal forgot it until you celebrated it anew on this mountain.²⁰ And do you command the children of Yasharaal to observe this festival in all their generations for a commandment to them; one day in the year in this month they shall celebrate the festival.²¹ For it is the feast of weeks and the feast of first fruits: this feast is twofold and of a double nature: according to what is written and engraven concerning it, celebrate it.²² For I have written in the book of the first law, in that which I have written for you, that you should celebrate it in its season, one day in the year, and I explained to you its sacrifices that the children of Yasharaal should remember and should celebrate it throughout their generations in this month, one day in every year.²³ And on the new moon of the first month, and on the new moon of the fourth month, and on the new moon of the seventh month, and on the new moon of the tenth month are the days of remembrance, and the days of the seasons in the four divisions of the year. These are written and ordained as a testimony for ever.²⁴ And Nach ordained them for himself as feasts for the generations for ever, so that they have become thereby a memorial to him.²⁵ And on the new moon of the first month he was bidden to make for himself an ark, and on that (day) the earth became dry and he opened (the ark) and saw the earth.²⁶ And on the new moon of the fourth month the mouths of the depths of the abyss beneath were closed. And on the new moon of the seventh month all the mouths of the abysses of the earth were opened, and the waters began to descend into them.²⁷ And on the new moon of the tenth month the tops of the mountains were seen, and Nach was glad.²⁸ And on this account he ordained them for himself as feasts for a memorial for ever, and thus are they ordained.²⁹ And they placed them on the heavenly tablets, each had thirteen weeks; from one to another (passed) their memorial, from the first to the second, and from the second to the third, and from the third to the fourth.³⁰ And all the days of the commandment will be two and fifty weeks of days, and (these will make) the entire year complete. Thus it is engraven and ordained on the heavenly tablets.³¹ And there is no neglecting (this commandment) for a single year or from year to year.³² And command you the children of Yasharaal that they observe the years according to this reckoning- three hundred and sixty-four days, and (these) will constitute a complete year, and they will not disturb its time from its days and from its feasts; for everything will fall out in them according to their testimony, and they will not leave out any day nor disturb any feasts.³³ But if they do neglect and do not observe them according to His commandment, then they will disturb all their seasons and the years will be dislodged from this (order), [and they will disturb the seasons and the years will be dislodged] and they will neglect their ordinances.³⁴ And all the children of Yasharaal will forget and will not find the path of the years, and will forget the new moons, and seasons, and sabbaths and they will go wrong as to all the order of the years.³⁵ For I know and from henceforth will I declare it to you, and it is not of my own devising; for the book (lies) written before me, and on the heavenly tablets the division of days is ordained, lest they forget the feasts of the covenant and walk according to the feasts of the Gentiles after their error and after their ignorance.

³⁶ For there will be those who will assuredly make observations of the moon -how (it) disturbs the seasons and comes in from year to year ten days too soon.³⁷ For this reason the years will come upon them when they will disturb (the order), and make an abominable (day) the day of testimony, and an unclean day a feast day, and they will confound all the days, the holy with the unclean, and the unclean day with the holy; for they will go wrong as to the months and sabbaths and feasts and jubilees.³⁸ For this reason I command and testify to you that you may testify to them; for after your death your children will disturb (them), so that they will not make the year three hundred and sixty-four days only, and for this reason they will go wrong as to the new moons and seasons and sabbaths and festivals, and they will eat all kinds of blood with all kinds of flesh.

7 And in the seventh week in the first year [1317 A.M.] thereof, in this jubilee, Nach planted vines on the mountain on which the ark had rested, named Lubar, one of the Ararat Mountains, and they produced fruit in the fourth year, [1320 A.M.] and he guarded their fruit, and gathered it in this year in the seventh month.² And he made wine therefrom and put it into a vessel, and kept it until the fifth year, [1321 A.M.] until the first day, on the new moon of the first month.³ And he celebrated with joy the day of this feast, and he made a burnt sacrifice to the Adanay, one young ox and one ram, and seven sheep, each a year old, and a kid of the goats, that he might make atonement thereby for himself and his sons.⁴ And he prepared the kid first, and placed some of its blood on the flesh that was on the altar which he had made, and all the fat he laid on the altar where he made the burnt sacrifice, and the ox and the ram and the sheep, and he laid all their flesh upon the altar.⁵ And he placed all their offerings mingled with oil upon it, and afterwards he sprinkled wine on the fire which he had previously made on the altar, and he placed incense on the altar and caused a sweet savour to ascend acceptable before the Adanay his Alahayam.⁶ And he rejoiced and drank of this wine, he and his children with joy.⁷ And it was evening, and he went into his tent, and being drunken he lay down and slept, and was uncovered in his tent as he slept.⁸ And Cham saw Nach his father naked, and went forth and told his two brethren without.⁹ And Sham took his garment and arose, he and Yapath, and they placed the garment on their shoulders and went backward and covered the shame of their father, and their faces were backward.¹⁰ And Nach awoke from his sleep and knew all that his younger son had done to him, and he cursed his son and said: 'Cursed be Kanain; an enslaved servant shall he be to his brethren.'¹¹ And he blessed Sham, and said: 'Blessed be the Adanay Alahayam of Sham, and Kanain shall be his servant.'¹² Alahayam shall enlarge Yapath, and Alahayam shall dwell in the dwelling of Sham, and Kanain shall be his servant.'¹³ And Cham knew that his father had cursed his younger son, and he was displeased that he had cursed his son, and he parted from his father, he and his sons with him, Kawash and Matzarayam and Pawat and Kanain.¹⁴ And he built for himself a city and called its name after the name of his wife Ne'elatama'uk.¹⁵ And Yapath saw it, and became envious of his brother, and he too built for himself a city, and he called its name after the name of his wife 'Adataneses.¹⁶ And Sham dwelt with his father Nach, and he built a city close to his father on the mountain, and he too called its name after the name of his wife Sedeqetelebab.¹⁷ And behold these three cities are near Mount Lubar; Sedeqetelebab fronting the mountain on its east; and Na'eltama'uk on the south; 'Adatan'eses towards the west.¹⁸ And these are the sons of Sham: Iyalam, and Ashawar, and Arpachshad -this (son) was born two years after the flood- and Lawad, and Aram.¹⁹ The sons of Yapath: Gamar and Magawag and Maday and Yawan, Thabal and Mashak and Thayaras: these are the sons of Nach.²⁰ And in the twenty-eighth jubilee [1324-1372 A.M.] Nach began to enjoin upon his sons' sons the ordinances and commandments, and all the judgments that he knew, and he exhorted his sons to observe righteousness, and to cover the shame of their flesh, and to bless their Creator, and honour father and mother, and love their neighbour, and guard their souls from fornication and uncleanness and all iniquity.²¹ For owing to these three things came the flood upon the earth, namely, owing to the fornication wherein the Watchers against the law of their ordinances went a whoring after the daughters of men, and took themselves wives of all which they chose: and they made the beginning of uncleanness.²² And they begat sons the Naphidim, and they were all unlike, and they devoured one another: and the Giants slew the Naphil, and the Naphil slew the Eljo, and the Eljo mankind, and one man another.²³ And every one sold himself to work iniquity and to shed much blood, and the earth was filled with iniquity.²⁴ And after this they sinned against the beasts and birds, and all that moves and walks on the earth: and much blood was shed on the earth, and every imagination and desire of men imagined vanity and evil continually.²⁵ And the Adanay destroyed everything from off the face of the earth; because of the wickedness of their deeds, and because of the blood which they had shed in the midst of the earth He destroyed everything.²⁶ 'And we were left, I and you, my sons, and everything that entered with us into the ark, and behold I see your works before me that you do not walk in righteousness: for in the path of destruction you have begun to walk, and you are parting one from another, and are envious one of another, and (so it comes) that you are not in harmony, my sons, each with his brother.'²⁷ For I see, and behold the demons have begun (their) seductions against you and against your children and now I fear on your behalf, that after my death you will shed the blood of men upon the earth, and that you, too, will be destroyed from the face of the earth.²⁸ For whoso sheds man's blood, and whoso eats the blood of any flesh, shall all be destroyed from the earth.²⁹ And there shall not be left any man that eats blood, or that sheds the blood of man on the earth, Nor shall there be left to him any seed or descendants living under heaven; For into Sheol shall they go, And into the place of condemnation shall they descend, And into the darkness of the deep shall they all be removed by a violent death.³⁰ There shall be no blood seen upon you of all the blood there shall be all the days in which you have killed any beasts or cattle or whatever flies upon the earth, and work you a good work to your souls by covering that which has been shed on the face of the earth.³¹ And you shall not be like him who eats with blood, but guard yourselves that none may eat blood before you: cover the blood, for thus have I been commanded to testify to you and your children, together with all flesh.³² And suffer not the soul to be eaten with the flesh, that your blood, which is your life, may not be required at the hand of any flesh that sheds (it) on the earth.³³ For the earth will not be clean from the blood which has been shed upon it; for (only) through the blood of him that shed it will the earth be purified throughout all its generations.³⁴ And now, my children, harken: work judgment and righteousness that you maybe planted in righteousness over the face of the whole earth, and your glory lifted up before my Alahayam, who saved me from the waters of the flood.³⁵ And behold, you will go and build for yourselves cities, and plant in them all the plants that are upon the earth, and moreover all fruit-bearing trees.³⁶ For three years the fruit of everything that is eaten will not be gathered: and in the fourth year its fruit will be accounted holy [and they will offer the first-fruits], acceptable before the Ilayawan Alahayam, who created heaven and earth and all things. Let them offer in abundance the first of the wine and oil (as) first-fruits on the altar of the Adanay, who receives it, and what is left let the servants of the house of the Adanay eat before the altar which receives (it).³⁷ And in the fifth year make you the release so that you release it in righteousness and uprightness, and you shall be righteous, and all that you plant shall prosper.³⁸ For thus did Chanawak, the father of your father command Mathawashalach, his son, and Mathawashalach his son Lamak, and Lamak commanded me all the things which his fathers commanded him.³⁹ And I also will give you commandment, my sons, as Chanawak commanded his son in the first jubilees: whilst still living, the seventh in his generation, he commanded and testified to his son and to his son's sons until the day of his death.'

8 In the twenty-ninth jubilee, in the first week, [1373 A.M.] in the beginning thereof Arpachshad took to himself a wife and her name was Rasu'eja, the daughter of Susan, the daughter of Iyalam, and she bore him a son in the third year in this week, [1375 A.M.] and he called his name Kainam.² And the son grew, and his father taught him writing, and he went to seek for himself a place where he might seize for himself a city.³ And he found a writing which former (generations) had carved on the rock, and he read what was thereon, and he transcribed it and sinned owing to it; for it contained the teaching of the Watchers in accordance with which they used to observe the omens of the sun and moon and stars in all the signs of heaven.⁴ And he wrote it down and said nothing regarding it; for he was afraid to speak to Nach about it lest he should be angry with him on account of it.⁵ And in the thirtieth jubilee, [1429 A.M.] in the second week, in the first year thereof, he took to himself a wife, and her name was Melka, the daughter of Maday, the son of Yapath, and in the fourth year [1432 A.M.] he begat a son, and called his name Shalach; for he said: 'Truly I have been sent.'⁶ [And in the fourth year he was born], and Shalach grew up and took to himself a wife, and her name was Mu'ak, the daughter of Kashad, his father's brother, in the one and thirtieth jubilee, in the fifth week, in the first year [1499 A.M.] thereof.⁷ And she bore him a son in the fifth year [1503 A.M.] thereof, and he called his name Ibar: and he took to himself a wife, and her name was 'Azûrâd, the daughter of Nebrod, in the thirty-second jubilee, in the seventh week, in the third year thereof. [1564 A.M.]⁸ And in the sixth year [1567 A.M.] thereof, she bore him son, and he called his name Palag; for in the days when he was born the children of Nach began to divide the earth amongst themselves: for this reason he called his name Palag.⁹ And they divided (it) secretly amongst themselves, and told it to Nach.¹⁰ And it came to pass in the beginning of the thirty-third jubilee [1569 A.M.] that they divided the earth into three parts, for Sham and Cham and Yapath, according to the inheritance of each, in the first year in the first week, when one of us who had been sent, was with them.¹¹ And he called his sons, and they drew nigh to him, they and their children, and he divided the earth into the lots, which his three sons were to take in possession, and they reached forth their hands, and took the writing out of the bosom of Nach, their father.¹² And there came forth on the writing as Shem's lot the middle of the earth which he should take as an inheritance for himself and for his sons for the generations of eternity, from the middle of the mountain range of Rafa, from the mouth of the water from the river Tina, and his portion goes towards the west through the midst of this river, and it extends till it reaches the water of the abysses, out of which this river goes forth and pours its waters into the sea Me'at, and this river flows into the great sea. And all that is towards the north is Japheth's, and all that is towards the south belongs to Sham.¹³ And it extends till it reaches Karaso: this is in the bosom of the tongue which looks towards the south.¹⁴ And his portion extends along the great sea, and it extends in a straight line till it reaches the west of the tongue which looks towards the south: for this sea is named the tongue of the Matzarayam Sea.¹⁵ And it turns from here towards the south towards the mouth of the great sea on the shore of (its) waters, and it extends to the west to 'Afra, and it extends till it reaches the waters of the river Gachawan, and to the south of the waters of Gachawan, to the banks of this river.¹⁶ And it extends towards the east, till it reaches the Garden of Idan, to the south thereof, [to the south] and from the east of the whole land of Idan and of the whole east, it turns to the east and proceeds till it reaches the east of the mountain named Rafa, and it descends to the bank of the mouth of the river Tina.¹⁷ This portion came forth by lot for Sham and his sons, that they should possess it for ever to his generations for evermore.¹⁸ And Nach rejoiced that this portion came forth for Sham and for his sons, and he remembered all that he had spoken with his mouth in prophecy; for he had said: 'Blessed be the Adanay Alahayam of Sham And may the Adanay dwell in the dwelling of Sham.'¹⁹ And he knew that the Garden of Idan is the holy of holies, and the dwelling of the Adanay, and Mount Sayanay the centre of the desert, and Mount Tzayawan -the centre of the navel of the earth: these three were created as holy places facing each other.²⁰ And he blessed the Alahayam of gods, who had put the word of the Adanay into his mouth, and the Adanay for evermore.²¹ And he knew that a blessed portion and a blessing had come to Sham and his sons to the generations for ever -the whole land of Idan and the whole land of the Sawap, and the whole land of the east and Hadaw, and on the Sawap and the mountains thereof, and all the land of Bashan, and all the land of Labanawan and the islands of Kaftur, and all the mountains of Sanir and 'Amanah, and the mountains of Ashawar in the north, and all the land of Iyalam, Ashawar, and Babal, and Susan and Ma'edai, and all the mountains of Ararat, and all the region beyond the sea, which is beyond the mountains of Ashawar towards the north, a blessed and spacious land, and all that is in it is very good.²² And for Cham came forth the second portion, beyond the Gachawan towards the south to the right of the Garden, and it extends towards the south and it extends to all the mountains of fire, and it extends towards the west to the sea of 'Atel and it extends towards the west till it reaches the sea of Ma'uk -that (sea) into which everything which is not destroyed descends.²³ And it goes forth towards the north to the limits of Gadir, and it goes forth to the coast of the waters of the sea to the waters of the great sea till it draws near to the river Gachawan, and goes along the river Gachawan till it reaches the right of the Garden of Idan.²⁴ And this is the land which came forth for Cham as the portion which he was to occupy for ever for himself and his sons to their generations for ever.²⁵ And for Yapath came forth the third portion beyond the river Tina to the north of the outflow of its waters, and it extends north-easterly to the whole region of Gawag, and to all the country east thereof.²⁶ And it extends northerly to the north, and it extends to the mountains of Qelt towards the north, and towards the sea of Ma'uk, and it goes forth to the east of Gadir as far as the region of the waters of the sea.²⁷ And it extends until it approaches the west of Fara and it returns towards 'Aferag, and it extends easterly to the waters of the sea of Me'at.²⁸ And it extends to the region of the river Tina in a north-easterly direction until it approaches the boundary of its waters towards the mountain Rafa, and it turns round towards the north.²⁹ This is the land which came forth for Yapath and his sons as the portion of his inheritance which he should possess for himself and his sons, for their generations for ever; five great islands, and a great land in the north.³⁰ But it is cold, and the land of Cham is hot, and the land of Sham is neither hot nor cold, but it is of blended cold and heat.

9 And Cham divided amongst his sons, and the first portion came forth for Kawash towards the east, and to the west of him for Matzarayam, and to the west of him for Pawat, and to the west of him [and to the west thereof] on the sea for Kanain.² And Sham also divided amongst his sons, and the first portion came forth for Cham and his sons, to the east of the river Tigris till it approaches the east, the whole land of Hadaw, and on the Sawap on its coast, and the waters of Dadan, and all the mountains of Mebri and Alaa, and all the land of Susan and all that is on the side of Pharnak to the Sawap and the river Tina.³ And for Ashawar came forth the second Portion, all the land of Ashawar and Nayanawah and Shanair and to the border of Hadaw, and it ascends and skirts the river.⁴ And for Arpachshad came forth the third portion, all the land of the region of the Kashadayam to the east of the Parath, bordering on the Sawap, and all the waters of the desert close to the tongue of the sea which looks towards Matzarayam, all the land of Labanawan and Sanir and 'Amanah to the border of the Parath.⁵ And for Aram there came forth the fourth portion, all the land of Aram between the Tigris and the Parath to the north of the Kashadayam to the border of the mountains of Ashawar and the land of 'Arara.⁶ And there came forth for Lawad the fifth portion, the mountains of Ashawar and all appertaining to them till it reaches the Great Sea, and till it reaches the east of Ashawar his brother.⁷ And Yapath also divided the land of his inheritance amongst his sons.⁸ And the first portion came forth for Gamar to the east from the north side to the river Tina; and in the north there came forth for Magawag all the inner portions of the north until it reaches to the sea of Me'at.⁹ And for Maday came forth as his portion that he should possess from the west of his two brothers to the islands, and to the coasts of the islands.¹⁰ And for Yawan came forth the fourth portion every island and the islands which are towards the border of Lawad.¹¹ And for Thabal there came forth the fifth portion in the midst of the tongue which approaches towards the border of the portion of Lawad to the second tongue, to the region beyond the second tongue to the third tongue.¹² And for Mashak came forth the sixth portion, all the region beyond the third tongue till it approaches the east of Gadir.¹³ And for Thayaras there came forth the seventh portion, four great islands in the midst of the sea, which reach to the portion of Cham [and the islands of Kamaturi came out by lot for the sons of Arpachshad as his inheritance].¹⁴ And thus the sons of Nach divided to their sons in the presence of Nach their father, and he bound them all by an oath, imprecating a curse on every one that sought to seize the portion which had not fallen (to him) by his lot.¹⁵ And they all said, 'So be it; so be it' for themselves and their sons for ever throughout their generations till the day of judgment, on which the Adanay Alahayam shall judge them with a sword and with fire for all the unclean wickedness of their errors, wherewith they have filled the earth with transgression and uncleanness and fornication and sin.

10 And in the third week of this jubilee the unclean demons began to lead astray the children of the sons of Nach, and to make to err and destroy them.² And the sons of Nach came to Nach their father, and they told him concerning the demons which were leading astray and blinding and slaying his sons' sons.³ And he prayed before the Adanay his Alahayam, and said: 'Alahayam of the spirits of all flesh, who have shown mercy to me And have saved me and my sons from the waters of the flood, And have not caused me to perish as You did the sons of perdition; For Your grace has been great towards me, And great has been Your mercy to my soul; Let Your grace be lift up upon my sons, And let not wicked spirits rule over them Lest they should destroy them from the earth.⁴ But do You bless me and my sons, that we may increase and Multiply and replenish the earth.⁵ And You know how Your Watchers, the fathers of these spirits, acted in my day: and as for these spirits which are living, imprison them and hold them fast in the place of condemnation, and let them not bring destruction on the sons of your servant, my Alahayam; for these are malignant, and created in order to destroy.⁶ And let them not rule over the spirits of the living; for You alone can exercise dominion over them. And let them not have power over the sons of the righteous from henceforth and for evermore.'⁷ And the Adanay our Alahayam bade us to bind all.⁸ And the chief of the spirits, Mastêmâ, came and said: 'Adanay, Creator, let some of them remain before me, and let them harken to my voice, and do all that I shall say to them; for if some of them are not left to me, I shall not be able to execute the power of my will on the sons of men; for these are for corruption and leading astray before my judgment, for great is the wickedness of the sons of men.'⁹ And He said: 'Let the tenth part of them remain before him, and let nine parts descend into the place of condemnation.'¹⁰ And one of us He commanded that we should teach Nach all their medicines; for He knew that they would not walk in uprightness, nor strive in righteousness.¹¹ And we did according to all His words: all the malignant evil ones we bound in the place of condemnation and a tenth part of them we left that they might be subject before Satan on the earth.¹² And we explained to Nach all the medicines of their diseases, together with their seductions, how he might heal them with herbs of the earth.¹³ And Nach wrote down all things in a book as we instructed him concerning every kind of medicine. Thus the evil spirits were precluded from (hurting) the sons of Nach.¹⁴ And he gave all that he had written to Sham, his eldest son; for he loved him exceedingly above all his sons.¹⁵ And Nach slept with his fathers, and was buried on Mount Lubar in the land of Ararat.¹⁶ Nine hundred and fifty years he completed in his life, nineteen jubilees and two weeks and five years. [1659 A.M.]¹⁷ And in his life on earth he excelled the children of men save Chanawak because of the righteousness, wherein he was perfect. For Enoch's office was ordained for a testimony to the generations of the world, so that he should recount all the deeds of generation to generation, till the day of judgment.¹⁸ And in the three and thirtieth jubilee, in the first year in the second week, Palag took to himself a wife, whose name was Lomna the daughter of Sina'ar, and she bore him a son in the fourth year of this week, and he called his name Raiw; for he said: 'Behold the children of men have become evil through the wicked purpose of building for themselves a city and a tower in the land of Shanair.'¹⁹ For they departed from the land of Ararat eastward to Shanair; for in his days they built the city and the tower, saying, 'Go to, let us ascend thereby into heaven.'²⁰ And they began to build, and in the fourth week they made brick with fire, and the bricks served them for stone, and the clay with which they cemented them together was asphalt which comes out of the sea, and out of the fountains of water in the land of Shanair.²¹ And they built it: forty and three years [1645-1688 A.M.] were they building it; its breadth was 203 bricks, and the height (of a brick) was the third of one; its height amounted to 5433 cubits and 2 palms, and (the extent of one wall was) thirteen stades (and of the other thirty stades).²² And the Adanay our Alahayam said to us: 'Behold, they are one people, and (this) they begin to do, and now nothing will be withholden from them. Go to, let us go down and confound their language, that they may not understand one another's speech, and they may be dispersed into cities and nations, and one purpose will no longer abide with them till the day of judgment.'²³ And the Adanay descended, and we descended with him to see the city and the tower which the children of men had built.²⁴ And he confounded their language, and they no longer understood one another's speech, and they ceased then to build the city and the tower.²⁵ For this reason the whole land of Shanair is called Babal, because the Adanay did there confound all the language of the children of men, and from thence they were dispersed into their cities, each according to his language and his nation.²⁶ And the Adanay sent a mighty wind against the tower and overthrew it upon the earth, and behold it was between Ashawar and Babal in the land of Shanair, and they called its name 'Overthrow'.²⁷ In the fourth week in the first year [1688 A.M.] in the beginning thereof in the four and thirtieth jubilee, were they dispersed from the land of Shanair.²⁸ And Cham and his sons went into the land which he was to occupy, which he acquired as his portion in the land of the south.²⁹ And Kanain saw the land of Labanawan to the river of Matzarayam, that it was very good, and he went not into the land of his inheritance to the west (that is to) the sea, and he dwelt in the land of Labanawan, eastward and westward from the border of Yaradan and from the border of the sea.³⁰ And Cham, his father, and Kawash and Matzarayam his brothers said to him: 'You have settled in a land which is not your, and which did not fall to us by lot: do not do so; for if you do do so, you and your sons will fall in the land and (be) accursed through sedition; for by sedition you have settled, and by sedition will your children fall, and you shall be rooted out for ever.'³¹ Dwell not in the dwelling of Sham; for to Sham and to his sons did it come by their lot.³² Cursed are you, and cursed shall you be beyond all the sons of Nach, by the curse by which we bound ourselves by an oath in the presence of the holy judge, and in the presence of Nach our father.'³³ But he did not harken to them, and dwelt in the land of Labanawan from Chamath to the entering of Matzarayam, he and his sons until this day.³⁴ And for this reason that land is named Kanain.³⁵ And Yapath and his sons went towards the sea and dwelt in the land of their portion, and Maday saw the land of the sea and it did not please him, and he begged a (portion) from Cham and Ashawar and Arpachshad, his wife's brother, and he dwelt in the land of Maday, near to his wife's brother until this day.³⁶ And he called his dwelling-place, and the dwelling-place of his sons, Maday, after the name of their father Maday.

11 And in the thirty-fifth jubilee, in the third week, in the first year [1681 A.M.] thereof, Raiw took to himself a wife, and her name was 'Orâ, the daughter of 'Ûr, the son of Kashad, and she bore him a son, and he called his name Sêrôh, in the seventh year of this week in this jubilee. [1687 A.M.] ² And the sons of Nach began to war on each other, to take captive and to slay each other, and to shed the blood of men on the earth, and to eat blood, and to build strong cities, and walls, and towers, and individuals (began) to exalt themselves above the nation, and to found the beginnings of kingdoms, and to go to war people against people, and nation against nation, and city against city, and all (began) to do evil, and to acquire arms, and to teach their sons war, and they began to capture cities, and to sell male and female slaves. ³ And 'Ûr, the son of Kashad, built the city of 'Araa of the Kashadayam, and called its name after his own name and the name of his father. And they made for themselves molten images, and they worshipped each the idol, the molten image which they had made for themselves, and they began to make graven images and unclean simulacra, and malignant spirits assisted and seduced (them) into committing transgression and uncleanness. ⁴ And the prince Mastêmâ exerted himself to do all this, and he sent forth other spirits, those which were put under his hand, to do all manner of wrong and sin, and all manner of transgression, to corrupt and destroy, and to shed blood upon the earth. ⁵ For this reason he called the name of Sêrôh, Sharawag, for every one turned to do all manner of sin and transgression. ⁶ And he grew up, and dwelt in Ur of the Kashadayam, near to the father of his wife's mother, and he worshipped idols, and he took to himself a wife in the thirty-sixth jubilee, in the fifth week, in the first year thereof, [1744 A.M.] and her name was Melka, the daughter of Kabër, the daughter of his father's brother. ⁷ And she bore him Nachawar, in the first year of this week, and he grew and dwelt in Ur of the Kashadayam, and his father taught him the researches of the Kashadayam to divine and augur, according to the signs of heaven. ⁸ And in the thirty-seventh jubilee in the sixth week, in the first year thereof, [1800 A.M.] he took to himself a wife, and her name was 'Ijaska, the daughter of Nestag of the Kashadayam. ⁹ And she bore him Tharach in the seventh year of this week. [1806 A.M.] ¹⁰ And the prince Mastêmâ sent ravens and birds to devour the seed which was sown in the land, in order to destroy the land, and rob the children of men of their labours. Before they could plough in the seed, the ravens picked (it) from the surface of the ground. ¹¹ And for this reason he called his name Tharach because the ravens and the birds reduced them to destitution and devoured their seed. ¹² And the years began to be barren, owing to the birds, and they devoured all the fruit of the trees from the trees: it was only with great effort that they could save a little of all the fruit of the earth in their days. ¹³ And in this thirty-ninth jubilee, in the second week in the first year, [1870 A.M.] Tharach took to himself a wife, and her name was 'Edna, the daughter of 'Abaram, the daughter of his father's sister. And in the seventh year of this week [1876 A.M.] she bore him a son, and he called his name Abaram, by the name of the father of his mother; ¹⁴ for he had died before his daughter had conceived a son. ¹⁵ And the child began to understand the errors of the earth that all went astray after graven images and after uncleanness, and his father taught him writing, and he was two weeks of years old, [1890 A.M.] and he separated himself from his father, that he might not worship idols with him. ¹⁶ And he began to pray to the Creator of all things that He might save him from the errors of the children of men, and that his portion should not fall into error after uncleanness and vileness. ¹⁷ And the seed time came for the sowing of seed upon the land, and they all went forth together to protect their seed against the ravens, and Abaram went forth with those that went, and the child was a lad of fourteen years. ¹⁸ And a cloud of ravens came to devour the seed, and Abaram ran to meet them before they settled on the ground, and cried to them before they settled on the ground to devour the seed, and said, 'Descend not: return to the place whence you came,' and they proceeded to turn back. ¹⁹ And he caused the clouds of ravens to turn back that day seventy times, and of all the ravens throughout all the land where Abaram was there settled there not so much as one. ²⁰ And all who were with him throughout all the land saw him cry out, and all the ravens turn back, and his name became great in all the land of the Kashadayam. ²¹ And there came to him this year all those that wished to sow, and he went with them until the time of sowing ceased: and they sowed their land, and that year they brought enough grain home and eat and were satisfied. ²² And in the first year of the fifth week [1891 A.M.] Abaram taught those who made implements for oxen, the artificers in wood, and they made a vessel above the ground, facing the frame of the plough, in order to put the seed thereon, and the seed fell down therefrom upon the share of the plough, and was hidden in the earth, and they no longer feared the ravens. ²³ And after this manner they made (vessels) above the ground on all the frames of the ploughs, and they sowed and tilled all the land, according as Abaram commanded them, and they no longer feared the birds.

12 And it came to pass in the sixth week, in the seventh year thereof, [1904 A.M.] that Abaram said to Tharach his father, saying, 'Father!' ² And he said, 'Behold, here am I, my son.' And he said, 'What help and profit have we from those idols which you do worship. And before which you do bow yourself?' ³ For there is no spirit in them, For they are dumb forms, and a misleading of the heart. Worship them not: ⁴ Worship the Alahayam of heaven, Who causes the rain and the dew to descend on the earth And does everything upon the earth, And has created everything by His word, And all life is from before His face. ⁵ Why do you worship things that have no spirit in them? For they are the work of (men's) hands, And on your shoulders do you bear them, And you have no help from them, But they are a great cause of shame to those who make them, And a misleading of the heart to those who worship them: Worship them not.' ⁶ And his father said to him, 'I also know it, my son, but what shall I do with a people who have made me to serve before them?' ⁷ And if I tell them the truth, they will slay me; for their soul cleaves to them to worship them and honour them. ⁸ Keep silent, my son, lest they slay you.' And these words he spoke to his two brothers, and they were angry with him and he kept silent. ⁹ And in the fortieth jubilee, in the second week, in the seventh year thereof, [1925 A.M.] Abaram took to himself a wife, and her name was Sharay, the daughter of his father, and she became his wife. ¹⁰ And Charan, his brother, took to himself a wife in the third year of the third week, [1928 A.M.] and she bore him a son in the seventh year of this week, [1932 A.M.] and he called his name Lawat. ¹¹ And Nachawar, his brother, took to himself a wife. ¹² And in the sixtieth year of the life of Abaram, that is, in the fourth week, in the fourth year thereof, [1936 A.M.] Abaram arose by night, and burned the house of the idols, and he burned all that was in the house and no man knew it. ¹³ And they arose in the night and sought to save their gods from the midst of the fire. ¹⁴ And Charan hastened to save them, but the fire flamed over him, and he was burnt in the fire, and he died in Ur of the Kashadayam before Tharach his father, and they buried him in Ur of the Kashadayam. ¹⁵ And Tharach went forth from Ur of the Kashadayam, he and his sons, to go into the land of Labanawan and into the land of Kanain, and he dwelt in the land of Charan, and Abaram dwelt with Tharach his father in Charan two weeks of years. ¹⁶ And in the sixth week, in the fifth year thereof, [1951 A.M.] Abaram sat up throughout the night on the new moon of the seventh month to observe the stars from the evening to the morning, in order to see what would be the character of the year with regard to the rains, and he was alone as he sat and observed. ¹⁷ And a word came into his heart and he said: 'All the signs of the stars, and the signs of the moon and of the sun are all in the hand of the Adanay. Why do I search (them) out?' ¹⁸ If He desires, He causes it to rain, morning and evening; And if He desires, He withholds it, And all things are in his hand.' ¹⁹ And he prayed that night and said, 'My Alahayam, Alahayam Ilayawan, You alone art my Alahayam, And You and Your dominion have I chosen. And You have created all things, And all things that are the work of your hands.²⁰ Deliver me from the hands of evil spirits who have dominion over the thoughts of men's hearts, And let them not lead me astray from You, my Alahayam. And establish You me and my seed for ever That we go not astray from henceforth and for evermore.'²¹ And he said, 'Shall I return to Ur of the Kashadayam who seek my face that I may return to them, am I to remain here in this place? The right path before You prosper it in the hands of Your servant that he may fulfil (it) and that I may not walk in the deceitfulness of my heart, O my Alahayam.'²² And he made an end of speaking and praying, and behold the word of the Adanay was sent to him through me, saying: 'Get you up from your country, and from your kindred and from the house of your father to a land which I will show you, and I shall make you a great and numerous nation.'²³ And I will bless you And I will make your name great, And you shall be blessed in the earth, And in You shall all families of the earth be blessed, And I will bless them that bless you, And curse them that curse you.'²⁴ And I will be a Alahayam to you and your son, and to your son's son, and to all your seed: fear not, from henceforth and to all generations of the earth I am your Alahayam.'²⁵ And the Adanay Alahayam said: 'Open his mouth and his ears, that he may hear and speak with his mouth, with the language which has been revealed'; for it had ceased from the mouths of all the children of men from the day of the overthrow (of Babal).²⁶ And I opened his mouth, and his ears and his lips, and I began to speak with him in Hebrew in the tongue of the creation.'²⁷ And he took the books of his fathers, and these were written in Hebrew, and he transcribed them, and he began from henceforth to study them, and I made known to him that which he could not (understand), and he studied them during the six rainy months.'²⁸ And it came to pass in the seventh year of the sixth week [1953 A.M.] that he spoke to his father and informed him, that he would leave Charan to go into the land of Kanain to see it and return to him.'²⁹ And Tharach his father said to him; 'Go in peace: May the eternal Alahayam make your path straight. And the Adanay [(be) with you, and] protect you from all evil, And grant to you grace, mercy and favour before those who see you, And may none of the children of men have power over you to harm you; Go in peace.'³⁰ And if you see a land pleasant to your eyes to dwell in, then arise and take me to you and take Lawat with you, the son of Charan your brother as your own son: the Adanay be with you.'³¹ And Nachawar your brother leave with me till you return in peace, and we go with you all together.'

13 And Abaram journeyed from Charan, and he took Sharay, his wife, and Lawat, his brother Haran's son, to the land of Kanain, and he came into Ashawar, and proceeded to Shakam, and dwelt near a lofty oak.² And he saw, and, behold, the land was very pleasant from the entering of Chamath to the lofty oak.³ And the Adanay said to him: 'To you and to your seed will I give this land.'⁴ And he built an altar there, and he offered thereon a burnt sacrifice to the Adanay, who had appeared to him.⁵ And he removed from thence to the mountain . . . Bethel on the west and Ai on the east, and pitched his tent there.⁶ And he saw and behold, the land was very wide and good, and everything grew thereon -vines and figs and pomegranates, oaks and ilexes, and terebinths and oil trees, and cedars and cypresses and date trees, and all trees of the field, and there was water on the mountains.⁷ And he blessed the Adanay who had led him out of Ur of the Kashadayam, and had brought him to this land.⁸ And it came to pass in the first year, in the seventh week, on the new moon of the first month, 1954 A.M.] that he built an altar on this mountain, and called on the name of the Adanay: 'You, the eternal Alahayam, art my Alahayam.'⁹ And he offered on the altar a burnt sacrifice to the Adanay that He should be with him and not forsake him all the days of his life.¹⁰ And he removed from thence and went towards the south, and he came to Chabarawan and Chabarawan was built at that time, and he dwelt there two years, and he went (thence) into the land of the south, to Bailawath, and there was a famine in the land.¹¹ And Abaram went into Matzarayam in the third year of the week, and he dwelt in Matzarayam five years before his wife was torn away from him.

¹² Now Tanais in Matzarayam was at that time built- seven years after Chabarawan.¹³ And it came to pass when Paraih seized Sharay, the wife of Abaram that the Adanay plagued Paraih and his house with great plagues because of Sharay, Abram's wife.¹⁴ And Abaram was very glorious by reason of possessions in sheep, and cattle, and asses, and horses, and camels, and menservants, and maidservants, and in silver and gold exceedingly. And Lawat also his brother's son, was wealthy.¹⁵ And Paraih gave back Sharay, the wife of Abaram, and he sent him out of the land of Matzarayam, and he journeyed to the place where he had pitched his tent at the beginning, to the place of the altar, with Ai on the east, and Bethel on the west, and he blessed the Adanay his Alahayam who had brought him back in peace.¹⁶ And it came to pass in the forty-first jubilee in the third year of the first week, [1963 A.M.] that he returned to this place and offered thereon a burnt sacrifice, and called on the name of the Adanay, and said: 'You, the most high Alahayam, art my Alahayam for ever and ever.'¹⁷ And in the fourth year of this week [1964 A.M.] Lawat parted from him, and Lawat dwelt in Sadam, and the men of Sadam were sinners exceedingly.¹⁸ And it grieved him in his heart that his brother's son had parted from him; for he had no children.¹⁹ In that year when Lawat was taken captive, the Adanay said to Abaram, after that Lawat had parted from him, in the fourth year of this week: 'Lift up your eyes from the place where you are dwelling, northward and southward, and westward and eastward.'²⁰ For all the land which you see I will give to you and to your seed for ever, and I will make your seed as the sand of the sea: though a man may number the dust of the earth, yet your seed shall not be numbered.'²¹ Arise, walk (through the land) in the length of it and the breadth of it, and see it all; for to your seed will I give it.' And Abaram went to Chabarawan, and dwelt there.²² And in this year came Kadaralaimar, king of Iyalam, and Amarapal, king of Shanair, and Arayawak king of Sellasar, and Tergal, king of nations, and slew the king of Imarah, and the king of Sadam fled, and many fell through wounds in the vale of Shadayam, by the Salt Sea.²³ And they took captive Sadam and Adam and Tzabayayam, and they took captive Lawat also, the son of Abram's brother, and all his possessions, and they went to Wadan.²⁴ And one who had escaped came and told Abaram that his brother's son had been taken captive and (Abaram) armed his household servants for Abaram, and for his seed, a tenth of the first fruits to the Adanay, and the Adanay ordained it as an ordinance for ever that they should give it to the priests who served before Him, that they should possess it for ever.'²⁵ And to this law there is no limit of days; for He has ordained it for the generations for ever that they should give to the Adanay the tenth of everything, of the seed and of the wine and of the oil and of the cattle and of the sheep.²⁷ And He gave (it) to His priests to eat and to drink with joy before Him.²⁸ And the king of Sadam came to him and bowed himself before him, and said: 'Our Adanay Abaram, give to us the souls which you have rescued, but let the booty be your.'²⁹ And Abaram said to him: 'I lift up my hands to the Ilayawan Alahayam, that from a thread to a shoe-latchet I shall not take aught that is your lest you should say, I have made Abaram rich; save only what the young men have eaten, and the portion of the men who went with me -Inar, Eschol, and Mamaraa. These shall take their portion.'

14 After these things, in the fourth year of this week, on the new moon of the third month, the word of the Adanay came to Abaram in a dream, saying: 'Fear not, Abaram; I am your defender, and your reward will be exceeding great.'² And he said: 'Adanay, Adanay, what will you give me, seeing I go hence childless, and the son of Maseq, the son of my handmaid, is the Dammasek Alayaizar: he will be my heir, and to me you have given no seed.'³ And he said to him: 'This (man) will not be your heir, but one that will come out of your own bowels; he will be your heir.'⁴ And He brought him forth abroad, and said to him: 'Look toward heaven and number the stars if you are able to number them.'⁵ And he looked toward heaven, and beheld the stars. And He said to him: 'So shall your seed be.'⁶ And he believed in the Adanay, and it was counted to him for righteousness.⁷ And He said to him: 'I am the Adanay that brought you out of Ur of the Kashadayam, to give you the land of the Canaanites to possess it for ever; and I will be Alahayam to you and to your seed after you.' ⁸ And he said: 'Adanay, Adanay, whereby shall I know that I shall inherit (it)?' ⁹ And He said to him: 'Take Me an heifer of three years, and a goat of three years, and a sheep of three years, and a turtle-dove, and a pigeon.' ¹⁰ And he took all these in the middle of the month and he dwelt at the oak of Mamaraa, which is near Chabarawan. ¹¹ And he built there an altar, and sacrificed all these; and he poured their blood upon the altar, and divided them in the midst, and laid them over against each other; but the birds divided he not. ¹² And birds came down upon the pieces, and Abaram drove them away, and did not suffer the birds to touch them. ¹³ And it came to pass, when the sun had set, that an ecstasy fell upon Abaram, and lo ! an horror of great darkness fell upon him, and it was said to Abaram: 'Know of a surety that your seed shall be a stranger in a land (that is) not theirs, and they shall bring them into bondage, and afflict them four hundred years. ¹⁴ And the nation also to whom they will be in bondage will I judge, and after that they shall come forth thence with much substance. ¹⁵ And you shall go to your fathers in peace, and be buried in a good old age. ¹⁶ But in the fourth generation they shall return here; for the iniquity of the Amorites is not yet full.' ¹⁷ And he awoke from his sleep, and he arose, and the sun had set; and there was a flame, and behold ! a furnace was smoking, and a flame of fire passed between the pieces. ¹⁸ And on that day the Adanay made a covenant with Abaram, saying: 'To your seed will I give this land, from the river of Matzarayam to the great river, the river Parath, the Kenites, the Kenizzites, the Kadmonites, the Perizzites, and the Rephaim, the Phakorites, and the Hivites, and the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Girgashites, and the Jebusites. ¹⁹ And the day passed, and Abaram offered the pieces, and the birds, and their fruit offerings, and their drink offerings, and the fire devoured them. ²⁰ And on that day we made a covenant with Abaram, according as we had covenanted with Nach in this month; and Abaram renewed the festival and ordinance for himself for ever. ²¹ And Abaram rejoiced, and made all these things known to Sharay his wife; and he believed that he would have seed, but she did not bear. ²² And Sharay advised her husband Abaram, and said to him: 'Go in to Hagar, my Matzarayam maid: it may be that I shall build up seed to you by her.' ²³ And Abaram hearkened to the voice of Sharay his wife, and said to her, 'Do (so).' And Sharay took Hagar, her maid, the Matzarayam, and gave her to Abaram, her husband, to be his wife. ²⁴ And he went in to her, and she conceived and bore him a son, and he called his name Yashamaial, in the fifth year of this week [1965 A.M.]; and this was the eighty-sixth year in the life of Abaram.

15 And in the fifth year of the fourth week of this jubilee, [1979 A.M.] in the third month, in the middle of the month, Abaram celebrated the feast of the first-fruits of the grain harvest. ² And he offered new offerings on the altar, the first-fruits of the produce, to the Adanay, an heifer and a goat and a sheep on the altar as a burnt sacrifice to the Adanay; their fruit offerings and their drink offerings he offered upon the altar with frankincense. ³ And the Adanay appeared to Abaram, and said to him: 'I am Al Shaday; approve yourself before me and be you perfect. ⁴ And I will make My covenant between Me and you, and I will multiply you exceedingly.' ⁵ And Abaram fell on his face, and Alahayam talked with him, and said: ⁶ 'Behold my ordinance is with you, And you shall be the father of many nations. ⁷ Neither shall your name any more be called Abaram, But your name from henceforth, even for ever, shall be Abaraham. For the father of many nations have I made you. ⁸ And I will make you very great, And I will make you into nations, And kings shall come forth from you. ⁹ And I shall establish My covenant between Me and you, and your seed after you, throughout their generations, for an eternal covenant, so that I may be a Alahayam to you, and to your seed after you. ¹⁰ <And I will give to you and to your seed after you> the land where you have been a sojourner, the land of Kanain, that you may possess it for ever, and I will be their Alahayam.' ¹¹ And the Adanay said to

Abraham: 'And as for you, do you keep my covenant, you and your seed after you: and circumcise you every male among you, and circumcise your foreskins, and it shall be a token of an eternal covenant between Me and you. ¹² And the child on the eighth day you shall circumcise, every male throughout your generations, him that is born in the house, or whom you have bought with money from any stranger, whom you have acquired who is not of your seed. ¹³ He that is born in your house shall surely be circumcised, and those whom you have bought with money shall be circumcised, and My covenant shall be in your flesh for an eternal ordinance. ¹⁴ And the uncircumcised male who is not circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin on the eighth day, that soul shall be cut off from his people, for he has broken My covenant.' ¹⁵ And Alahayam said to Abraham: 'As for Sharay your wife, her name shall no more be called Sharay, but Sarah shall be her name. ¹⁶ And I will bless her, and give you a son by her, and I will bless him, and he shall become a nation, and kings of nations shall proceed from him.' ¹⁷ And Abraham fell on his face, and rejoiced, and said in his heart: 'Shall a son be born to him that is a hundred years old, and shall Sarah, who is ninety years old, bring forth?' ¹⁸ And Abraham said to Alahayam: 'O that Yashamaial might live before you!' ¹⁹ And Alahayam said: 'Yea, and Sarah also shall bear you a son, and you shall call his name Yatzachaq, and I will establish My covenant with him, an everlasting covenant, and for his seed after him. ²⁰ And as for Yashamaial also have I heard you, and behold I will bless him, and make him great, and multiply him exceedingly, and he shall beget twelve princes, and I will make him a great nation. ²¹ But My covenant will I establish with Yatzachaq, whom Sarah shall bear to you, in these days, in the next year.' ²² And He left off speaking with him, and Alahayam went up from Abraham. ²³ And Abraham did according as Alahayam had said to him, and he took Yashamaial his son, and all that were born in his house, and whom he had bought with his money, every male in his house, and circumcised the flesh of their foreskin. ²⁴ And on the selfsame day was Abraham circumcised, and all the men of his house, <and those born in the house>, and all those, whom he had bought with money from the children of the stranger, were circumcised with him. ²⁵ This law is for all the generations for ever, and there is no circumcision of the days, and no omission of one day out of the eight days; for it is an eternal ordinance, ordained and written on the heavenly tablets. ²⁶ And every one that is born, the flesh of whose foreskin is not circumcised on the eighth day, belongs not to the children of the covenant which the Adanay made with Abraham, but to the children of destruction; nor is there, moreover, any sign on him that he is the Adanay's, but (he is destined) to be destroyed and slain from the earth, and to be rooted out of the earth, for he has broken the covenant of the Adanay our Alahayam. ²⁷ For all the angels of the presence and all the angels of sanctification have been so created from the day of their creation, and before the angels of the presence and the angels of sanctification He has sanctified Yasharaal, that they should be with Him and with His holy angels. ²⁸ And do you command the children of Yasharaal and let them observe the sign of this covenant for their generations as an eternal ordinance, and they will not be rooted out of the land. ²⁹ For the command is ordained for a covenant, that they should observe it for ever among all the children of Yasharaal. ³⁰ For Yashamaial and his sons and his brothers and Ishaw, the Adanay did not cause to approach Him, and he chose them not because they are the children of Abraham, because He knew them, but He chose Yasharaal to be His people. ³¹ And He sanctified it, and gathered it from amongst all the children of men; for there are many nations and many peoples, and all are His, and over all has He placed spirits in authority to lead them astray from Him. ³² But over Yasharaal He did not appoint any angel or spirit, for He alone is their ruler, and He will preserve them and require them at the hand of His angels and His spirits, and at the hand of all His powers in order that He may preserve them and bless them, and that they may be His and He may be theirs from henceforth for ever. ³³ And now I announce to you that the children of Yasharaal will not keep true to this ordinance, and they will not circumcise their sons according to all this law; for in the flesh of their circumcision they will omit this circumcision of their sons, and all of them, sons of Beliar, will leave their sons uncircumcised as they were born.³⁴ And there will be great wrath from the Adanay against the children of Yasharaal, because they have forsaken His covenant and turned aside from His word, and provoked and blasphemed, inasmuch as they do not observe the ordinance of this law; for they have treated their members like the Gentiles, so that they may be removed and rooted out of the land. And there will no more be pardon or forgiveness to them [so that there should be forgiveness and pardon] for all the sin of this eternal error.

16 And on the new moon of the fourth month we appeared to Abaraham, at the oak of Mamaraa, and we talked with him, and we announced to him that a son would be given to him by Sarah his wife.² And Sarah laughed, for she heard that we had spoken these words with Abaraham, and we admonished her, and she became afraid, and denied that she had laughed on account of the words.³ And we told her the name of her son, as his name is ordained and written in the heavenly tablets (i.e.) Yatzachaq,⁴ And (that) when we returned to her at a set time, she would have conceived a son.⁵ And in this month the Adanay executed his judgments on Sadam, and Imarah, and Tzabayayam, and all the region of the Yaradan, and He burned them with fire and brimstone, and destroyed them until this day, even as [lo] I have declared to you all their works, that they are wicked and sinners exceedingly, and that they defile themselves and commit fornication in their flesh, and work uncleanness on the earth.⁶ And, in like manner, Alahayam will execute judgment on the places where they have done according to the uncleanness of the Sodomites, like to the judgment of Sadam.⁷ But Lawat we saved; for Alahayam remembered Abaraham, and sent him out from the midst of the overthrow.⁸ And he and his daughters committed sin upon the earth, such as had not been on the earth since the days of Adam till his time; for the man lay with his daughters.⁹ And, behold, it was commanded and engraven concerning all his seed, on the heavenly tablets, to remove them and root them out, and to execute judgment upon them like the judgment of Sadam, and to leave no seed of the man on earth on the day of condemnation.¹⁰ And in this month Abaraham moved from Chabarawan, and departed and dwelt between Qadash and Shawar in the mountains of Garar.¹¹ And in the middle of the fifth month he moved from thence, and dwelt at the Well of the Oath.¹² And in the middle of the sixth month the Adanay visited Sarah and did to her as He had spoken and she conceived.¹³ And she bore a son in the third month, and in the middle of the month, at the time of which the Adanay had spoken to Abaraham, on the festival of the first fruits of the harvest, Yatzachaq was born.¹⁴ And Abaraham circumcised his son on the eighth day: he was the first that was circumcised according to the covenant which is ordained for ever.¹⁵ And in the sixth year of the fourth week we came to Abaraham, to the Well of the Oath, and we appeared to him [as we had told Sarah that we should return to her, and she would have conceived a son.¹⁶ And we returned in the seventh month, and found Sarah with child before us] and we blessed him, and we announced to him all the things which had been decreed concerning him, that he should not die till he should beget six sons more, and should see (them) before he died; but (that) in Yatzachaq should his name and seed be called:¹⁷ And (that) all the seed of his sons should be Gentiles, and be reckoned with the Gentiles; but from the sons of Yatzachaq one should become a holy seed, and should not be reckoned among the Gentiles.¹⁸ For he should become the portion of the Ilayawan, and all his seed had fallen into the possession of Alahayam, that it should be to the Adanay a people for (His) possession above all nations and that it should become a kingdom and priests and a holy nation.¹⁹ And we went our way, and we announced to Sarah all that we had told him, and they both rejoiced with exceeding great joy.²⁰ And he built there an altar to the Adanay who had delivered him, and who was making him rejoice in the land of his sojourning, and he celebrated a festival of joy in this month seven days, near the altar which he had built at the Well of the Oath.²¹ And he built booths for himself and for his servants on this festival, and he was the first to celebrate the feast of tabernacles on the earth.²² And during these seven days he brought each day to the altar a burnt offering to the Adanay, two oxen, two rams, seven sheep, one he-goat, for a sin offering, that he might atone thereby for himself and for his seed.²³ And, as a thank-offering, seven rams, seven kids, seven sheep, and seven he-goats, and their fruit offerings and their drink offerings; and he burnt all the fat thereof on the altar, a chosen offering to the Adanay for a sweet smelling savour.²⁴ And morning and evening he burnt fragrant substances, frankincense and galbanum, and stackte, and nard, and myrrh, and spice, and costum; all these seven he offered, crushed, mixed together in equal parts (and) pure.²⁵ And he celebrated this feast during seven days, rejoicing with all his heart and with all his soul, he and all those who were in his house, and there was no stranger with him, nor any that was uncircumcised.²⁶ And he blessed his Creator who had created him in his generation, for He had created him according to His good pleasure; for He knew and perceived that from him would arise the plant of righteousness for the eternal generations, and from him a holy seed, so that it should become like Him who had made all things.²⁷ And he blessed and rejoiced, and he called the name of this festival the festival of the Adanay, a joy acceptable to the Ilayawan Alahayam.²⁸ And we blessed him for ever, and all his seed after him throughout all the generations of the earth, because he celebrated this festival in its season, according to the testimony of the heavenly tablets.²⁹ For this reason it is ordained on the heavenly tablets concerning Yasharaal, that they shall celebrate the feast of tabernacles seven days with joy, in the seventh month, acceptable before the Adanay -a statute for ever throughout their generations every year.³⁰ And to this there is no limit of days; for it is ordained for ever regarding Yasharaal that they should celebrate it and dwell in booths, and set wreaths upon their heads, and take leafy boughs, and willows from the brook.³¹ And Abaraham took branches of palm trees, and the fruit of goodly trees, and every day going round the altar with the branches seven times [a day] in the morning, he praised and gave thanks to his Alahayam for all things in joy.

17 And in the first year of the fifth week Yatzachaq was weaned in this jubilee, [1982 A.M.] and Abaraham made a great banquet in the third month, on the day his son Yatzachaq was weaned.² And Yashamaial, the son of Hagar, the Matzarayam, was before the face of Abaraham, his father, in his place, and Abaraham rejoiced and blessed Alahayam because he had seen his sons and had not died childless.³ And he remembered the words which He had spoken to him on the day on which Lawat had parted from him, and he rejoiced because the Adanay had given him seed upon the earth to inherit the earth, and he blessed with all his mouth the Creator of all things.⁴ And Sarah saw Yashamaial playing and dancing, and Abaraham rejoicing with great joy, and she became jealous of Yashamaial and said to Abaraham, 'Cast out this bondwoman and her son; for the son of this bondwoman will not be heir with my son, Yatzachaq.'⁵ And the thing was grievous in Abraham's sight, because of his maidservant and because of his son, that he should drive them from him.⁶ And Alahayam said to Abaraham 'Let it not be grievous in your sight, because of the child and because of the bondwoman; in all that Sarah has said to you, harken to her words and do (them); for in Yatzachaq shall your name and seed be called.'⁷ But as for the son of this bondwoman I will make him a great nation, because he is of your seed.'⁸ And Abaraham rose up early in the morning, and took bread and a bottle of water, and placed them on the shoulders of Hagar and the child, and sent her away.⁹ And she departed and wandered in the wilderness of Beersheba, and the water in the bottle was spent, and the child thirsted, and was not able to go on, and fell down.¹⁰ And his mother took him and cast him under an olive tree, and went and sat her down over against him, at the distance of a bow-shot; for she said, 'Let me not see the death of my child,' and as she sat she wept.¹¹ And an angel of Alahayam, one of the holy ones, said to her, 'Why weep you,

Hagar? Arise take the child, and hold him in your hand; for Alahayam has heard your voice, and has seen the child.¹² And she opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water, and she went and filled her bottle with water, and she gave her child to drink, and she arose and went towards the wilderness of Paaran.¹³ And the child grew and became an archer, and Alahayam was with him, and his mother took him a wife from among the daughters of Matzarayam.

¹⁴ And she bore him a son, and he called his name Nabayawath; for she said, 'The Adanay was nigh to me when I called upon him.'¹⁵ And it came to pass in the seventh week, in the first year thereof, [2003 A.M.] in the first month in this jubilee, on the twelfth of this month, there were voices in heaven regarding Abaraham, that he was faithful in all that He told him, and that he loved the Adanay, and that in every affliction he was faithful.¹⁶ And the prince Mastêmâ came and said before Alahayam, 'Behold, Abaraham loves Yatzachaq his son, and he delights in him above all things else; bid him offer him as a burnt-offering on the altar, and You will see if he will do this command, and You will know if he is faithful in everything wherein You do try him.'¹⁷ And the Adanay knew that Abaraham was faithful in all his afflictions; for He had tried him through his country and with famine, and had tried him with the wealth of kings, and had tried him again through his wife, when she was torn (from him), and with circumcision; and had tried him through Yashamaal and Hagar, his maid-servant, when he sent them away.¹⁸ And in everything wherein He had tried him, he was found faithful, and his soul was not impatient, and he was not slow to act; for he was faithful and a lover of the Adanay.

18 And Alahayam said to him, 'Abaraham, Abraham'; and he said, 'Behold, (here) am I.'² And he said, 'Take your beloved son whom you love, (even) Yatzachaq, and go to the high country, and offer him on one of the mountains which I will point out to you.'³ And he rose early in the morning and saddled his ass, and took his two young men with him, and Yatzachaq his son, and clave the wood of the burnt offering, and he went to the place on the third day, and he saw the place afar off.⁴ And he came to a well of water, and he said to his young men, 'Abide you here with the ass, and I and the lad shall go (yonder), and when we have worshipped we shall come again to you.'⁵ And he took the wood of the burnt-offering and laid it on Yatzachaq his son, and he took in his hand the fire and the knife, and they went both of them together to that place.⁶ And Yatzachaq said to his father, 'Father;' and he said, 'Here am I, my son.' And he said to him, 'Behold the fire, and the knife, and the wood; but where is the sheep for the burnt-offering, father?'⁷ And he said, 'Alahayam will provide for himself a sheep for a burnt-offering, my son.' And he drew near to the place of the mount of Alahayam.⁸ And he built an altar, and he placed the wood on the altar, and bound Yatzachaq his son, and placed him on the wood which was upon the altar, and stretched forth his hand to take the knife to slay Yatzachaq his son.⁹ And I stood before him, and before the prince Mastêmâ, and the Adanay said, 'Bid him not to lay his hand on the lad, nor to do anything to him, for I have shown that he fears the Adanay.'¹⁰ And I called to him from heaven, and said to him: 'Abaraham, Abaraham;' and he was terrified and said: 'Behold, (here) am I.'¹¹ And I said to him: 'Lay not your hand upon the lad, neither do you anything to him; for now I have shown that you fear the Adanay, and have not withheld your son, your first-born son, from me.'¹² And the prince Mastêmâ was put to shame; and Abaraham lifted up his eyes and looked, and, behold a ram caught . . . by his horns, and Abaraham went and took the ram and offered it for a burnt-offering in the stead of his son.¹³ And Abaraham called that place 'The Adanay has seen', so that it is said in the mount the Adanay has seen: that is Mount Shayaan.¹⁴ And the Adanay called Abaraham by his name a second time from heaven, as he caused us to appear to speak to him in the name of the Adanay.¹⁵ And he said: 'By Myself have I sworn, says the Adanay, Because you have done this thing, And have not withheld your son, your beloved son, from Me, That in blessing I will bless you, And in multiplying I will multiply your seed As the stars of heaven, And as the sand which is on the seashore. And your seed shall inherit the cities of its enemies,¹⁶ And in your seed shall all nations of the earth be blessed; Because you have obeyed My voice, And I have shown to all that you are faithful to Me in all that I have said to you: Go in peace.'¹⁷ And Abaraham went to his young men, and they arose and went together to Beersheba, and Abaraham [2010 A.M.] dwelt by the Well of the Oath.¹⁸ And he celebrated this festival every year, seven days with joy, and he called it the festival of the Adanay according to the seven days during which he went and returned in peace.¹⁹ And accordingly has it been ordained and written on the heavenly tablets regarding Yasharaal and its seed that they should observe this festival seven days with the joy of festival.

19 And in the first year of the first week in the forty-second jubilee, Abaraham returned and dwelt opposite Chabarawan, that is Qarayath Arabai, two weeks of years.² And in the first year of the third week of this jubilee the days of the life of Sarah were accomplished, and she died in Chabarawan.³ And Abaraham went to mourn over her and bury her, and we tried him [to see] if his spirit were patient and he were not indignant in the words of his mouth; and he was found patient in this, and was not disturbed.⁴ For in patience of spirit he conversed with the children of Chath, to the intent that they should give him a place in which to bury his dead.⁵ And the Adanay gave him grace before all who saw him, and he besought in gentleness the sons of Chath, and they gave him the land of the double cave over against Mamaraa, that is Chabarawan, for four hundred pieces of silver.⁶ And they besought him saying, We shall give it to you for nothing; but he would not take it from their hands for nothing, for he gave the price of the place, the money in full, and he bowed down before them twice, and after this he buried his dead in the double cave.⁷ And all the days of the life of Sarah were one hundred and twenty-seven years, that is, two jubilees and four weeks and one year: these are the days of the years of the life of Sarah.⁸ This is the tenth trial wherewith Abaraham was tried, and he was found faithful, patient in spirit.⁹ And he said not a single word regarding the rumour in the land how that Alahayam had said that He would give it to him and to his seed after him, and he begged a place there to bury his dead; for he was found faithful, and was recorded on the heavenly tablets as the friend of Alahayam.¹⁰ And in the fourth year thereof he took a wife for his son Yatzachaq and her name was Rebecca [2020 A.M.] [the daughter of Bathawaal, the son of Nachawar, the brother of Abaraham] the sister of Laban and daughter of Bathawaal; and Bathawaal was the son of Melca, who was the wife of Nachawar, the brother of Abaraham.¹¹ And Abaraham took to himself a third wife, and her name was Qatawarah, from among the daughters of his household servants, for Hagar had died before Sarah. And she bore him six sons, Zimram, and Yaqashan, and Madan, and Madayan, and Yashabaq, and Shawach, in the two weeks of years.¹² And in the sixth week, in the second year thereof, Rebecca bore to Yatzachaq two sons, Yaiqab and Ishaw,¹³ and [2046 A.M.] Yaiqab was a smooth and upright man, and Ishaw was fierce, a man of the field, and hairy, and Yaiqab dwelt in tents.¹⁴ And the youths grew, and Yaiqab learned to write; but Ishaw did not learn, for he was a man of the field and a hunter, and he learnt war, and all his deeds were fierce.¹⁵ And Abaraham loved Yaiqab, but Yatzachaq loved Ishaw.¹⁶ And Abaraham saw the deeds of Ishaw, and he knew that in Yaiqab should his name and seed be called; and he called Rebecca and gave commandment regarding Yaiqab, for he knew that she (too) loved Yaiqab much more than Ishaw.¹⁷ And he said to her: My daughter, watch over my son Yaiqab, For he shall be in my stead on the earth, And for a blessing in the midst of the children of men, And for the glory of the whole seed of Sham.¹⁸ For I know that the Adanay will choose him to be a people for possession to Himself, above all peoples that are upon the face of the earth.¹⁹ And behold, Yatzachaq my son loves Ishaw more than Yaiqab, but I see that you truly love Yaiqab.²⁰ Add still further to your kindness to him, And let your eyes be upon him in love; For he shall be a blessing to us on the earth from henceforth to all generations of the earth.²¹ Let your hands be strong And let your heart rejoice in your son Yaiqab; For I have loved him far beyond all my sons. He shall be blessed for ever, And his seed shall fill the whole earth.²² If a man can number the sand of the earth, His seed also shall be numbered.²³ And all the blessings wherewith the Adanay has blessed me and my seed shall belong to Yaiqab and his seed alway.²⁴ And in his seed shall my name be blessed, and the name of my fathers, Sham, and Noab, and Chanawak, and Mahalalaal, and Anawash, and Shath, and Adam.²⁵ And these shall serve To lay the foundations of the heaven, And to strengthen the earth, And to renew all the luminaries which are in the firmament.²⁶ And he called Yaiqab before the eyes of Rebecca his mother, and kissed him, and blessed him, and said:²⁷ 'Yaiqab, my beloved son, whom my soul loves, may Alahayam bless you from above the firmament, and may He give you all the blessings wherewith He blessed Adam, and Chanawak, and Nach, and Sham; and all the things of which He told me, and all the things which He promised to give me, may he cause to cleave to you and to your seed for ever, according to the days of heaven above the earth.²⁸ And the Spirits of Mastêmâ shall not rule over you or over your seed to turn you from the Adanay, who is your Alahayam from henceforth for ever.²⁹ And may the Adanay Alahayam be a father to you and you the first-born son, and to the people alway.³⁰ Go in peace, my son.' And they both went forth together from Abaraham.³¹ And Rebecca loved Yaiqab, with all her heart and with all her soul, very much more than Ishaw; but Yatzachaq loved Ishaw much more than Yaiqab.

20 And in the forty-second jubilee, in the first year of the seventh week, Abaraham called Yashamaial, [2052 (2045?) A.M.] and his twelve sons, and Yatzachaq and his two sons, and the six sons of Qatawarah, and their sons.² And he commanded them that they should observe the way of the Adanay; that they should work righteousness, and love each his neighbour, and act on this manner amongst all men; that they should each so walk with regard to them as to do judgment and righteousness on the earth.³ That they should circumcise their sons, according to the covenant which He had made with them, and not deviate to the right hand or the left of all the paths which the Adanay had commanded us; and that we should keep ourselves from all fornication and uncleanness, [and renounce from amongst us all fornication and uncleanness].⁴ And if any woman or maid commit fornication amongst you, burn her with fire and let them not commit fornication with her after their eyes and their heart; and let them not take to themselves wives from the daughters of Kanain; for the seed of Kanain will be rooted out of the land.⁵ And he told them of the judgment of the giants, and the judgment of the Sodomites, how they had been judged on account of their wickedness, and had died on account of their fornication, and uncleanness, and mutual corruption through fornication.⁶ And guard yourselves from all fornication and uncleanness, And from all pollution of sin, Lest you make our name a curse, And your whole life a hissing, And all your sons to be destroyed by the sword, And you become accursed like Sadam, And all your remnant as the sons of Imarah.⁷ I implore you, my sons, love the Alahayam of heaven And cleave you to all His commandments. And walk not after their idols, and after their uncleannesses,⁸ And make not for yourselves molten or graven gods; For they are vanity, And there is no spirit in them; For they are work of (men's) hands, And all who trust in them, trust in nothing.⁹ Serve them not, nor worship them, But serve you the most high Alahayam, and worship Him continually: And hope for His countenance always, And work uprightness and righteousness before Him, That He may have pleasure in you and grant you His mercy, And send rain upon you morning and evening, And bless all your works which you have wrought upon the earth, And bless your bread and your water, And bless the fruit of your womb and the fruit of your land, And the herds of your cattle, and the flocks of your sheep.¹⁰ And you will be for a blessing on the earth, And all nations of the earth will desire you, And bless your sons in my name, That they may be blessed as I am.¹¹ And he gave to Yashamaial and to his sons, and to the sons of Qatawarah, gifts, and sent them away from Yatzachaq his son, and he gave everything to Yatzachaq his son.

¹² And Yashamaial and his sons, and the sons of Qatawarah and their sons, went together and dwelt from Paaran to the entering in of Babal in all the land which is towards the East facing the desert.¹³ And these mingled with each other, and their name was called Arabs, and Ishmaelites.

21 And in the sixth year of the seventh week of this jubilee Abaraham called Yatzachaq his son, and [2057 (2050?) A.M.] commanded him: saying, 'I am become old, and know not the day of my death, and am full of my days.² And behold, I am one hundred and seventy-five years old, and throughout all the days of my life I have remembered the Adanay, and sought with all my heart to do His will, and to walk uprightly in all His ways.³ My soul has hated idols, <and I have despised those that served them, and I have given my heart and spirit> that I might observe to do the will of Him who created me.⁴ For He is the living Alahayam, and He is holy and faithful, and He is righteous beyond all, and there is with Him no accepting of (men's) persons and no accepting of gifts; for Alahayam is righteous, and executeth judgment on all those who transgress His commandments and despise His covenant.⁵ And do you, my son, observe His commandments and His ordinances and His judgments, and walk not after the abominations and after the graven images and after the molten images.⁶ And eat no blood at all of animals or cattle, or of any bird which flies in the heaven.⁷ And if you do slay a victim as an acceptable peace offering, slay you it, and pour out its blood upon the altar, and all the fat of the offering offer on the altar with fine flour and the meat offering mingled with oil, with its drink offering -offer them all together on the altar of burnt offering; it is a sweet savour before the Adanay.⁸ And you will offer the fat of the sacrifice of thank offerings on the fire which is upon the altar, and the fat which is on the belly, and all the fat on the inwards and the two kidneys, and all the fat that is upon them, and upon the loins and liver you shall remove, together with the kidneys.⁹ And offer all these for a sweet savour acceptable before the Adanay, with its meat-offering and with its drink-offering, for a sweet savour, the bread of the offering to the Adanay.¹⁰ And eat its meat on that day and on the second day, and let not the sun on the second day go down upon it till it is eaten, and let nothing be left over for the third day; for it is not acceptable [for it is not approved] and let it no longer be eaten, and all who eat thereof will bring sin upon themselves; for thus I have found it written in the books of my forefathers, and in the words of Chanawak, and in the words of Nach.¹¹ And on all your oblations you shall strew salt, and let not the salt of the covenant be lacking in all your oblations before the Adanay.¹² And as regards the wood of the sacrifices, beware lest you bring (other) wood for the altar in addition to these: cypress, bay, almond, fir, pine, cedar, savin, fig, olive, myrrh, laurel, aspalathus.¹³ And of these kinds of wood lay upon the altar under the sacrifice, such as have been tested as to their appearance, and do not lay (thereon) any split or dark wood, (but) hard and clean, without fault, a sound and new growth; and do not lay (thereon) old wood, [for its fragrance is gone] for there is no longer fragrance in it as before.¹⁴ Besides these kinds of wood there is none other that you shall place (on the altar), for the fragrance is dispersed, and the smell of its fragrance goes not up to heaven.¹⁵ Observe this commandment and do it, my son, that you may be upright in all your deeds.¹⁶ And at all times be clean in your body, and wash yourself with water before you approach to offer on the altar, and wash your hands and your feet before you draw near to the altar; and when you are done sacrificing, wash again your hands and your feet.¹⁷ And let no blood appear upon you nor upon your clothes; be on your guard, my son, against blood, be on your guard exceedingly; cover it with dust.¹⁸ And do not eat any blood for it is the soul; eat no blood whatever.¹⁹ And take no gifts for the blood of man, lest it be shed with impunity, without judgment; for it is the blood that is shed that causes the earth to sin, and the earth cannot be cleansed from the blood of man save by the blood of him who shed it.²⁰ And take no present or gift for the blood of man: blood for blood, that you may be accepted before the Adanay, the Ilayawan Alahayam; for He is the defence of the good: and that you may be preserved from all evil, and that He may save you from every kind of death.²¹ I see, my son, That all the works of the children of men are sin and wickedness, And all their deeds are uncleanness and an abomination and a pollution, And there is no righteousness with them.²² Beware, lest you should walk in their ways And tread in their paths, And sin a sin to death before the Ilayawan Alahayam. Else He will [hide His face from you And] give you back into the hands of your transgression, And root you out of the land, and your seed likewise from under heaven, And your name and your seed shall perish from the whole earth.²³ Turn away from all their deeds and all their uncleanness, And observe the ordinance of the Ilayawan Alahayam, And do His will and be upright in all things.²⁴ And He will bless you in all your deeds, And will raise up from you a plant of righteousness through all the earth, throughout all generations of the earth, And my name and your name shall not be forgotten under heaven for ever.²⁵ Go, my son in peace. May the Ilayawan Alahayam, my Alahayam and your Alahayam, strengthen you to do His will, And may He bless all your seed and the residue of your seed for the generations for ever, with all righteous blessings, That you may be a blessing on all the earth.'²⁶ And he went out from him rejoicing.

22 And it came to pass in the first week in the forty-fourth jubilee, in the second year, that is, the year in which Abaraham died, that Yatzachaq and Yashamaial came from the Well of the Oath to celebrate the feast of weeks -that is, the feast of the first fruits of the harvest-to Abaraham, their father, and Abaraham rejoiced because his two sons had come.² For Yatzachaq had many possessions in Beersheba, and Yatzachaq was wont to go and see his possessions and to return to his father.³ And in those days Yashamaial came to see his father, and they both came together, and Yatzachaq offered a sacrifice for a burnt offering, and presented it on the altar of his father which he had made in Chabarawan.⁴ And he offered a thank offering and made a feast of joy before Yashamaial, his brother: and Rebecca made new cakes from the new grain, and gave them to Yaiqab, her son, to take them to Abaraham, his father, from the first fruits of the land, that he might eat and bless the Creator of all things before he died.⁵ And Yatzachaq, too, sent by the hand of Yaiqab to Abaraham a best thank offering, that he might eat and drink.⁶ And he eat and drank, and blessed the Ilayawan Alahayam, Who has created heaven and earth, Who has made all the fat things of the earth, And given them to the children of men That they might eat and drink and bless their Creator.⁷ 'And now I give thanks to You, my Alahayam, because you have caused me to see this day: behold, I am one hundred three score and fifteen years, an old man and full of days, and all my days have been to me peace.⁸ The sword of the adversary has not overcome me in all that You have given me and my children all the days of my life until this day.⁹ My Alahayam, may Your mercy and Your peace be upon Your servant, and upon the seed of his sons, that they may be to You a chosen nation and an inheritance from amongst all the nations of the earth from henceforth to all the days of the generations of the earth, to all the ages.'¹⁰ And he called Yaiqab and said: 'My son Yaiqab, may the Alahayam of all bless you and strengthen you to do righteousness, and His will before Him, and may He choose you and your seed that you may become a people for His inheritance according to His will alway.'¹¹ And do you, my son, Yaiqab, draw near and kiss me.' And he drew near and kissed him, and he said: 'Blessed be my son Yaiqab And all the sons of Alahayam Ilayawan, to all the ages: May Alahayam give to you a seed of righteousness; And some of your sons may He sanctify in the midst of the whole earth; May nations serve you, And all the nations bow themselves before your seed.'¹² Be strong in the presence of men, And exercise authority over all the seed of Shath. Then your ways and the ways of your sons will be justified, So that they shall become a holy nation.¹³ May the Ilayawan Alahayam give you all the blessings Wherewith He has blessed me And wherewith He blessed Nach and Adam; May they rest on the sacred head of your seed from generation to generation for ever.¹⁴ And may He cleanse you from all unrighteousness and impurity,

That you may be forgiven all the transgressions; which you have committed ignorantly. And may He strengthen you, And bless you. And may you inherit the whole earth,¹⁵ And may He renew His covenant with you. That you may be to Him a nation for His inheritance for all the ages, And that He may be to you and to your seed a Alahayam in truth and righteousness throughout all the days of the earth.¹⁶ And do you, my son Yaiqab, remember my words, And observe the commandments of Abaraham, your father: Separate yourself from the nations, And eat not with them: And do not according to their works, And become not their associate; For their works are unclean, And all their ways are a Pollution and an abomination and uncleanness.¹⁷ They offer their sacrifices to the dead And they worship evil spirits, And they eat over the graves, And all their works are vanity and nothingness.¹⁸ They have no heart to understand And their eyes do not see what their works are, And how they err in saying to a piece of wood: 'You are my Alahayam,' And to a stone: 'You are my Adanay and you are my deliverer.' [And they have no heart.]¹⁹ And as for you, my son Yaiqab, May the Ilayawan Alahayam help you And the Alahayam of heaven bless you And remove you from their uncleanness and from all their error.²⁰ Be you ware, my son Yaiqab, of taking a wife from any seed of the daughters of Kanain; For all his seed is to be rooted out of the earth.²¹ For, owing to the transgression of Cham, Kanain erred, And all his seed shall be destroyed from off the earth and all the residue thereof, And none springing from him shall be saved on the day of judgment.²² And as for all the worshippers of idols and the profane (b) There shall be no hope for them in the land of the living; (c) And there shall be no remembrance of them on the earth; (c) For they shall descend into Sheol, (d) And into the place of condemnation shall they go, As the children of Sadam were taken away from the earth So will all those who worship idols be taken away.²³ Fear not, my son Yaiqab, And be not dismayed, O son of Abaraham: May the Ilayawan Alahayam preserve you from destruction, And from all the paths of error may he deliver you.²⁴ This house have I built for myself that I might put my name upon it in the earth: [it is given to you and to your seed for ever], and it will be named the house of Abaraham; it is given to you and to your seed for ever; for you will build my house and establish my name before Alahayam for ever: your seed and your name will stand throughout all generations of the earth.'²⁵ And he ceased commanding him and blessing him.²⁶ And the two lay together on one bed, and Yaiqab slept in the bosom of Abaraham, his father's father and he kissed him seven times, and his affection and his heart rejoiced over him.²⁷ And he blessed him with all his heart and said: 'The Ilayawan Alahayam, the Alahayam of all, and Creator of all, who brought me forth from Ur of the Kashadayam that he might give me this land to inherit it for ever, and that I might establish a holy seed-blessed be the Ilayawan for ever.'²⁸ And he blessed Yaiqab and said: 'My son, over whom with all my heart and my affection I rejoice, may Your grace and Your mercy be lift up upon him and upon his seed alway.'²⁹ And do not forsake him, nor set him at nought from henceforth to the days of eternity, and may Your eyes be opened upon him and upon his seed, that You may preserve him, and bless him, and may sanctify him as a nation for Your inheritance;³⁰ And bless him with all Your blessings from henceforth to all the days of eternity, and renew Your covenant and Your grace with him and with his seed according to all Your good pleasure to all the generations of the earth.'

23 And he placed two fingers of Yaiqab on his eyes, and he blessed the Alahayam of gods, and he covered his face and stretched out his feet and slept the sleep of eternity, and was gathered to his fathers.² And notwithstanding all this Yaiqab was lying in his bosom, and knew not that Abaraham, his father's father, was dead.³ And Yaiqab awoke from his sleep, and behold Abaraham was cold as ice, and he said 'Father, father'; but there was none that spoke, and he knew that he was dead.⁴ And he arose from his bosom and ran and told Rebecca, his mother; and Rebecca went to Yatzachaq in the night, and told him; and they went together, and Yaiqab with them, and a lamp was in his hand, and when they had gone in they found Abaraham lying dead.⁵ And Yatzachaq fell on the face of his father and wept and kissed him.⁶ And the voices were heard in the house of Abaraham, and Yashamaial his son arose, and went to Abaraham his father, and wept over Abaraham his father, he and all the house of Abaraham, and they wept with a great weeping.⁷ And his sons Yatzachaq and Yashamaial buried him in the double cave, near Sharah his wife, and they wept for him forty days, all the men of his house, and Yatzachaq and Yashamaial, and all their sons, and all the sons of Qatawarah in their places; and the days of weeping for Abaraham were ended.⁸ And he lived three jubilees and four weeks of years, one hundred and seventy-five years, and completed the days of his life, being old and full of days.⁹ For the days of the forefathers, of their life, were nineteen jubilees; and after the Flood they began to grow less than nineteen jubilees, and to decrease in jubilees, and to grow old quickly, and to be full of their days by reason of manifold tribulation and the wickedness of their ways, with the exception of Abaraham.¹⁰ For Abaraham was perfect in all his deeds with the Adanay, and well-pleasing in righteousness all the days of his life; and behold, he did not complete four jubilees in his life, when he had grown old by reason of the wickedness, and was full of his days.¹¹ And all the generations which shall arise from this time until the day of the great judgment shall grow old quickly, before they complete two jubilees, and their knowledge shall forsake them by reason of their old age. And all their knowledge shall vanish away.¹² And in those days, if a man live a jubilee and a-half of years, they shall say regarding him: 'He has lived long, and the greater part of his days are pain and sorrow and tribulation, and there is no peace.'¹³ For calamity follows on calamity, and wound on wound, and tribulation on tribulation, and evil tidings on evil tidings, and illness on illness, and all evil judgments such as these, one with another, illness and overthrow, and snow and frost and ice, and fever, and chills, and torpor, and famine, and death, and sword, and captivity, and all kinds of calamities and pains.¹⁴ And all these shall come on an evil generation, which transgresses on the earth: their works are uncleanness and fornication, and pollution and abominations.¹⁵ Then they shall say: 'The days of the forefathers were many (even), to a thousand years, and were good; but behold, the days of our life, if a man has lived many, are three score years and ten, and, if he is strong, four score years, and those evil, and there is no peace in the days of this evil generation.'¹⁶ And in that generation the sons shall convict their fathers and their elders of sin and unrighteousness, and of the words of their mouth and the great wickednesses which they perpetrate, and concerning their forsaking the covenant which the Adanay made between them and Him, that they should observe and do all His commandments and His ordinances and all His laws, without departing either to the right hand or the left.¹⁷ For all have done evil, and every mouth speaks iniquity and all their works are an uncleanness and an abomination, and all their ways are pollution, uncleanness and destruction.¹⁸ Behold the earth shall be destroyed on account of all their works, and there shall be no seed of the vine, and no oil; for their works are altogether faithless, and they shall all perish together, beasts and cattle and birds, and all the fish of the sea, on account of the children of men.¹⁹ And they shall strive one with another, the young with the old, and the old with the young, the poor with the rich, the lowly with the great, and the beggar with the prince, on account of the law and the covenant; for they have forgotten commandment, and covenant, and feasts, and months, and Sabbaths, and jubilees, and all judgments.²⁰ And they shall stand <with bows and> swords and war to turn them back into the way; but they shall not return until much blood has been shed on the earth, one by another.²¹ And those who have escaped shall not return from their wickedness to the way of righteousness, but they shall all exalt themselves to deceit and wealth, that they may each take all that is his neighbour's, and they shall name the great name, but not in truth and not in righteousness, and they shall defile the holy of holies with their uncleanness and the corruption of their pollution.²² And a great punishment shall befall the deeds of this generation from the Adanay, and He will give them over to the sword and to judgment and to captivity, and to be plundered and devoured.²³ And He will wake up against them the sinners of the Gentiles, who have neither mercy nor compassion, and who shall respect the person of none, neither old nor young, nor any one, for they are more wicked and strong to do evil than all the children of men. And they shall use violence against Yasharaal and transgression against Yaiqab, And much blood shall be shed upon the earth, And there shall be none to gather and none to bury.²⁴ In those days they shall cry aloud, And call and pray that they may be saved from the hand of the sinners, the Gentiles; But none shall be saved.²⁵ And the heads of the children shall be white with grey hair, And a child of three weeks shall appear old like a man of one hundred years, And their stature shall be destroyed by tribulation and oppression.²⁶ And in those days the children shall begin to study the laws, And to seek the commandments, And to return to the path of righteousness.²⁷ And the days shall begin to grow many and increase amongst those children of men Till their days draw nigh to one thousand years. And to a greater number of years than (before) was the number of the days.²⁸ And there shall be no old man Nor one who is <not> satisfied with his days, For all shall be (as) children and youths.²⁹ And all their days they shall complete and live in peace and in joy, And there shall be no Satan nor any evil destroyer; For all their days shall be days of blessing and healing.³⁰ And at that time the Adanay will heal His servants, And they shall rise up and see great peace, And drive out their adversaries. And the righteous shall see and be thankful, And rejoice with joy for ever and ever, And shall see all their judgments and all their curses on their enemies.³¹ And their bones shall rest in the earth, And their spirits shall have much joy, And they shall know that it is the Adanay who executes judgment, And shows mercy to hundreds and thousands and to all that love Him.³² And do you, Mashah, write down these words; for thus are they written, and they record (them) on the heavenly tablets for a testimony for the generations for ever.

24 And it came to pass after the death of Abaraham, that the Adanay blessed Yatzachaq his son, and he arose from Chabarawan and went and dwelt at the Well of the Vision in the first year of the third week [2073 A.M.] of this jubilee, seven years.² And in the first year of the fourth week a famine began in the land, [2080 A.M.] besides the first famine, which had been in the days of Abaraham.³ And Yaiqab sod lentil pottage, and Ishaw came from the field hungry. And he said to Yaiqab his brother: 'Give me of this red pottage.' And Yaiqab said to him: 'Sell to me your [primogeniture, this] birthright and I will give you bread, and also some of this lentil pottage.'⁴ And Ishaw said in his heart: 'I shall die; of what profit to me is this birthright?'⁵ And he said to Yaiqab: 'I give it to you.' And Yaiqab said: 'Swear to me, this day,' and he swore to him.⁶ And Yaiqab gave his brother Ishaw bread and pottage, and he eat till he was satisfied, and Ishaw despised his birthright; for this reason was Esau's name called Adawam, on account of the red pottage which Yaiqab gave him for his birthright.⁷ And Yaiqab became the elder, and Ishaw was brought down from his dignity.⁸ And the famine was over the land, and Yatzachaq departed to go down into Matzarayam in the second year of this week, and went to the king of the Palashath to Garar, to Abayamalak.⁹ And the Adanay appeared to him and said to him: 'Go not down into Matzarayam; dwell in the land that I shall tell you of, and sojourn in this land, and I will be with you and bless you.¹⁰ For to you and to your seed will I give all this land, and I will establish My oath which I swore to Abaraham your father, and I will multiply your seed as the stars of heaven, and will give to your seed all this land.'¹¹ And in your seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed, because your father obeyed My voice, and kept My charge and My commandments, and My laws, and My ordinances, and My covenant; and now obey My voice and dwell in this land.'¹² And he dwelt in Gelar three weeks of years.¹³ And Abayamalak charged concerning him, [2080-2101 A.M.] and concerning all that was his, saying: 'Any man that shall touch him or aught that is his shall surely die.' ¹⁴ And Yatzachaq waxed strong among the Palashath, and he got many possessions, oxen and sheep and camels and asses and a great household. ¹⁵ And he sowed in the land of the Palashath and brought in a hundred-fold, and Yatzachaq became exceedingly great, and the Palashath envied him. ¹⁶ Now all the wells which the servants of Abaraham had dug during the life of Abaraham, the Palashath had stopped them after the death of Abaraham, and filled them with earth. ¹⁷ And Abayamalak said to Yatzachaq: 'Go from us, for you are much mightier than we', and Yatzachaq departed thence in the first year of the seventh week, and sojourned in the valleys of Garar. ¹⁸ And they digged again the wells of water which the servants of Abaraham, his father, had digged, and which the Palashath had closed after the death of Abaraham his father, and he called their names as Abaraham his father had named them. ¹⁹ And the servants of Yatzachaq dug a well in the valley, and found living water, and the shepherds of Garar strove with the shepherds of Yatzachaq, saying: 'The water is ours'; and Yatzachaq called the name of the well 'Perversity', because they had been perverse with us. ²⁰ And they dug a second well, and they strove for that also, and he called its name 'Enmity'. And he arose from thence and they digged another well, and for that they strove not, and he called the name of it 'Room', and Yatzachaq said: 'Now the Adanay has made room for us, and we have increased in the land.' ²¹ And he went up from thence to the Well of the Oath in the first year of the first week in the [2108 A.M.] forty-fourth jubilee. ²² And the Adanay appeared to him that night, on the new moon of the first month, and said to him: 'I am the Alahayam of Abaraham your father; fear not, for I am with you, and shall bless you and shall surely multiply your seed as the sand of the earth, for the sake of Abaraham my servant.' ²³ And he built an altar there, which Abaraham his father had first built, and he called upon the name of the Adanay, and he offered sacrifice to the Alahayam of Abaraham his father. ²⁴ And they digged a well and they found living water. ²⁵ And the servants of Yatzachaq digged another well and did not find water, and they went and told Yatzachaq that they had not found water, and Yatzachaq said: 'I have sworn this day to the Palashath and this thing has been announced to us.' ²⁶ And he called the name of that place the Well of the Oath; for there he had sworn to Abayamalak and Achazath his friend and Phicol the prefect Or his host. ²⁷ And Yatzachaq knew that day that under constraint he had sworn to them to make peace with them. ²⁸ And Yatzachaq on that day cursed the Palashath and said: 'Cursed be the Palashath to the day of wrath and indignation from the midst of all nations; may Alahayam make them a derision and a curse and an object of wrath and indignation in the hands of the sinners the Gentiles and in the hands of the Kathayam. ²⁹ And whoever escapes the sword of the enemy and the Kathayam, may the righteous nation root out in judgment from under heaven; for they shall be the enemies and foes of my children throughout their generations upon the earth. ³⁰ And no remnant shall be left to them, Nor one that shall be saved on the day of the wrath of judgment; For destruction and rooting out and expulsion from the earth is the whole seed of the Palashath (reserved), And there shall no longer be left for these Caphtorim a name or a seed on the earth. ³¹ For though he ascend to heaven, Thence shall he be brought down, And though he make himself strong on earth, Thence shall he be dragged forth, And though he hide himself amongst the nations, Even from thence shall he be rooted out; And though he descend into Sheol, There also shall his condemnation be great, And there also he shall have no peace. ³² And if he go into captivity, By the hands of those that seek his life shall they slay him on the way, And neither name nor seed shall be left to him on all the earth; For into eternal malediction shall he depart.' ³³ And thus is it written and engraved concerning him on the heavenly tablets, to do to him on the day of judgment, so that he may be rooted out of the earth.

25 And in the second year of this week in this jubilee, Rebecca called Yaiqab her son, and spoke to [2109 A.M.] him, saying: 'My son, do not take you a wife of the daughters of Kanain, as Ishaw, your brother, who took him two wives of the daughters of Kanain, and they have embittered my soul with all their unclean deeds: for all their deeds are fornication and lust, and there is no righteousness with them, for (their deeds) are evil. ² And I, my son, love you exceedingly, and my heart and my affection bless you every hour of the day and watch of the night. ³ And now, my son, hearken to my voice, and do the will of your mother, and do not take you a wife of the daughters of this land, but only of the house of my father, and of my father's kindred. You shall take you a wife of the house of my father, and the Ilayawan Alahayam will bless you, and your children shall be a righteous generation and a holy seed.' ⁴ And then spoke Yaiqab to Rebecca, his mother, and said to her: 'Behold, mother, I am nine weeks of years old, and I neither know nor have I touched any woman, nor have I betrothed myself to any, nor even think of taking me a wife of the daughters of Kanain. ⁵ For I remember, mother, the words of Abaraham, our father, for he commanded me not to take a wife of the daughters of Kanain, but to take me a wife from the seed of my father's house and from my kindred. ⁶ I have heard before that daughters have been born to Laban, your brother, and I have set my heart on them to take a wife from amongst them. ⁷ And for this reason I have guarded myself in my spirit against sinning or being corrupted in all my ways throughout all the days of my life; for with regard to lust and fornication, Abaraham, my father, gave me many commands. ⁸ And, despite all that he has commanded me, these two and twenty years my brother has striven with me, and spoken frequently to me and said: 'My brother, take to wife a sister of my two wives'; but I refuse to do as he has done. ⁹ I swear before you, mother, that all the days of my life I will not take me a wife from the daughters of the seed of Kanain, and I will not act wickedly as my brother has done. ¹⁰ Fear not, mother; be assured that I shall do your will and walk in uprightness, and not corrupt my ways for ever.' ¹¹ And thereupon she lifted up her face to heaven and extended the fingers of her hands, and opened her mouth and blessed the Ilayawan Alahayam, who had created the heaven and the earth, and she gave Him thanks and praise. ¹² And she said: 'Blessed be the Adanay Alahayam, and may His holy name be blessed for ever and ever, who has given me Yaiqab as a pure son and a holy seed; for he is Your, and Your shall his seed be continually and throughout all the generations for evermore. ¹³ Bless him, O Adanay, and place in my mouth the blessing of righteousness, that I may bless him.' ¹⁴ And at that hour, when the spirit of righteousness descended into her mouth, she placed both her hands on the head of Yaiqab, and said: ¹⁵ 'Blessed are you, Adanay of righteousness and Alahayam of the ages And may He bless you beyond all the generations of men. May He give you, my Son, the path of righteousness, And reveal righteousness to your seed. ¹⁶ And may He make your sons many during your life, And may they arise according to the number of the months of the year. And may their sons become many and great beyond the stars of heaven, And their numbers be more than the sand of the sea. ¹⁷ And may He give them this goodly land -as He said He would give it to Abaraham and to his seed after him always- And may they hold it as a possession for ever. ¹⁸ And may I see (born) to you, my son, blessed children during my life, And a blessed and holy seed may all your seed be. ¹⁹ And as you have refreshed your mother's spirit during her life, The womb of her that bore you blesses you thus, [My affection] and my breasts bless you And my mouth and my tongue praise you greatly. ²⁰ Increase and spread over the earth, And may your seed be perfect in the joy of heaven and earth for ever; And may your seed rejoice, And on the great day of peace may it have peace. ²¹ And may your name and your seed endure to all the ages, And may the Ilayawan Alahayam be their Alahayam, And may the Alahayam of righteousness dwell with them, And by them may His sanctuary be built to all the ages. ²² Blessed be he that blesses you, And all flesh that curses you falsely, may it be cursed.' ²³ And she kissed him, and said to him: 'May the Adanay of the world love you As the heart of your mother and her affection rejoice in you and bless you.' And she ceased from blessing.

26 And in the seventh year of this week Yatzachaq called Ishaw, his elder Son, and said to him: 'I am [2114 A.M.] old, my son, and behold my eyes are dim in seeing, and I know not the day of my death.² And now take your hunting weapons your quiver and your bow, and go out to the field, and hunt and catch me (venison), my son, and make me savoury meat, such as my soul loves, and bring it to me that I may eat, and that my soul may bless you before I die.'³ But Rebecca heard Yatzachaq speaking to Ishaw.⁴ And Ishaw went forth early to the field to hunt and catch and bring home to his father.⁵ And Rebecca called Yaiqab, her son, and said to him: 'Behold, I heard Yatzachaq, your father, speak to Ishaw, your brother, saying: "Hunt for me, and make me savoury meat, and bring (it) to me that I may eat and bless you before the Adanay before I die." And now, my son, obey my voice in that which I command you: Go to your flock and fetch me two good kids of the goats, and I will make them savoury meat for your father, such as he loves, and you shall bring (it) to your father that he may eat and bless you before the Adanay before he die, and that you may be blessed.'⁷ And Yaiqab said to Rebecca his mother: 'Mother, I shall not withhold anything which my father would eat, and which would please him: only I fear, my mother, that he will recognise my voice and wish to touch me.'⁸ And you know that I am smooth, and Ishaw, my brother, is hairy, and I shall appear before his eyes as an evildoer, and shall do a deed which he had not commanded me, and he will be wroth with me, and I shall bring upon myself a curse, and not a blessing.'⁹ And Rebecca, his mother, said to him: 'Upon me be your curse, my son, only obey my voice.'¹⁰ And Yaiqab obeyed the voice of Rebecca, his mother, and went and fetched two good and fat kids of the goats, and brought them to his mother, and his mother made them ~savoury meat~ such as he loved.¹¹ And Rebecca took the goodly raiment of Ishaw, her elder son, which was with her in the house, and she clothed Yaiqab, her younger son, (with them), and she put the skins of the kids upon his hands and on the exposed parts of his neck.¹² And she gave the meat and the bread which she had prepared into the hand of her son Yaiqab.¹³ And Yaiqab went in to his father and said: 'I am your son: I have done according as you bade me: arise and sit and eat of that which I have caught, father, that your soul may bless me.'¹⁴ And Yatzachaq said to his son: 'How have you found so quickly, my son?'¹⁵ And Yaiqab said: 'Because <the Adanay> your Alahayam caused me to find.'¹⁶ And Yatzachaq said to him: 'Come near, that I may feel you, my son, if you are my son Ishaw or not.'¹⁷ And Yaiqab went near to Yatzachaq, his father, and he felt him and said: 'The voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are the hands of Ishaw,'¹⁸ and he discerned him not, because it was a dispensation from heaven to remove his power of perception and Yatzachaq discerned not, for his hands were hairy as his brother Esau's, so that he blessed him.¹⁹ And he said: 'Are you my son Ishaw?' and he said: 'I am your son': and he said, 'Bring near to me that I may eat of that which you have caught, my son, that my soul may bless you.'²⁰ And he brought near to him, and he did eat, and he brought him wine and he drank.²¹ And Yatzachaq, his father, said to him: 'Come near and kiss me, my son.'²² And he came near and kissed him. And he smelled the smell of his raiment, and he blessed him and said: 'Behold, the smell of my son is as the smell of a <full> field which the Adanay has blessed.'²³ And may the Adanay give you of the dew of heaven And of the dew of the earth, and plenty of corn and oil: Let nations serve you, And peoples bow down to you.²⁴ Be lord over your brethren, And let your mother's sons bow down to you; And may all the blessings wherewith the Adanay has blessed me and blessed Abaraham, my father; Be imparted to you and to your seed for ever: Cursed be he that curses you, And blessed be he that blesses you.'²⁵ And it came to pass as soon as Yatzachaq had made an end of blessing his son Yaiqab, and Yaiqab had gone forth from Yatzachaq his father he hid himself and Ishaw, his brother, came in from his hunting.²⁶ And he also made savoury meat, and brought (it) to his father, and said to his father: 'Let my father arise, and eat of my venison that your soul may bless me.'²⁷ And Yatzachaq, his father, said to him: 'Who are you?' And he said to him: 'I am your first born, your son Ishaw: I have done as you have commanded me.'²⁸ And Yatzachaq was very greatly astonished, and said: 'Who is he that has hunted and caught and brought (it) to me, and I have eaten of all before you came, and have blessed him: (and) he shall be blessed, and all his seed for ever.'²⁹ And it came to pass when Ishaw heard the words of his father Yatzachaq that he cried with an exceeding great and bitter cry, and said to his father: 'Bless me, (even) me also, father.'³⁰ And he said to him: 'Your brother came with guile, and has taken away your blessing.' And he said: 'Now I know why his name is named Yaiqab: behold, he has supplanted me these two times: he took away my birth-right, and now he has taken away my blessing.'³¹ And he said: 'Have you not reserved a blessing for me, father?' and Yatzachaq answered and said to Ishaw: 'Behold, I have made him your lord, And all his brethren have I given to him for servants, And with plenty of corn and wine and oil have I strengthened him: And what now shall I do for you, my son?'³² And Ishaw said to Yatzachaq, his father: 'Have you but one blessing, O father? Bless me, (even) me also, father.'³³ And Ishaw lifted up his voice and wept. And Yatzachaq answered and said to him: 'Behold, far from the dew of the earth shall be your dwelling, And far from the dew of heaven from above.'³⁴ And by your sword will you live, And you will serve your brother. And it shall come to pass when you become great, And do shake his yoke from off your neck, You shall sin a complete sin to death, And your seed shall be rooted out from under heaven.'³⁵ And Ishaw kept threatening Yaiqab because of the blessing wherewith his father blessed him, and he: said in his heart: 'May the days of mourning for my father now come, so that I may slay my brother Yaiqab.'

27 And the words of Ishaw, her elder son, were told to Rebecca in a dream, and Rebecca sent and called Yaiqab her younger son,² and said to him: 'Behold Ishaw your brother will take vengeance on you so as to kill you.'³ Now, therefore, my son, obey my voice, and arise and flee you to Laban, my brother, to Charan, and tarry with him a few days until your brother's anger turns away, and he remove his anger from you, and forget all that you have done; then I will send and fetch you from thence.'⁴ And Yaiqab said: 'I am not afraid; if he wishes to kill me, I will kill him.'⁵ But she said to him: 'Let me not be bereft of both my sons on one day.'⁶ And Yaiqab said to Rebecca his mother: 'Behold, you know that my father has become old, and does not see because his eyes are dull, and if I leave him it will be evil in his eyes, because I leave him and go away from you, and my father will be angry, and will curse me. I will not go; when he sends me, then only will I go.'⁷ And Rebecca said to Yaiqab: 'I will go in and speak to him, and he will send you away.'⁸ And Rebecca went in and said to Yatzachaq: 'I loathe my life because of the two daughters of Chath, whom Ishaw has taken him as wives; and if Yaiqab take a wife from among the daughters of the land such as these, for what purpose do I further live, for the daughters of Kanain are evil.'⁹ And Yatzachaq called Yaiqab and blessed him, and admonished him and said to him: 'Do not take you a wife of any of the daughters of Kanain;¹⁰ arise and go to Aram, to the house of Bathawaal, your mother's father, and take you a wife from thence of the daughters of Laban, your mother's brother.'¹¹ And Al Shaday bless you and increase and multiply you that you may become a company of nations, and give you the blessings of my father Abaraham, to you and to your seed after you, that you may inherit the land of your sojournings and all the land which Alahayam gave to Abaraham: go, my son, in peace.'¹² And Yatzachaq sent Yaiqab away, and he went to Aram, to Laban the son of Bathawaal the Syrian, the brother of Rebecca, Jacob's mother.¹³ And it came to pass after Yaiqab had arisen to go to Aram that the spirit of Rebecca was grieved after her son, and she wept.¹⁴ And Yatzachaq said to Rebecca: 'My sister, weep not on account of Yaiqab, my son; for he goes in peace, and in peace will he return.'¹⁵ The Ilayawan Alahayam will preserve him from all evil, and will be with him; for He will not forsake him all his days;¹⁶ For I know that his ways will be prospered in all things wherever he goes, until he return in peace to us, and we see him in peace.¹⁷ Fear not on his account, my sister, for he is on the upright path and he is a perfect man: and he is faithful and will not perish. Weep not.'¹⁸ And Yatzachaq comforted Rebecca on account of her son

Yaiqab, and blessed him.¹⁹ And Yaiqab went from the Well of the Oath to go to Charan on the first year of the second week in the forty-fourth jubilee, and he came to Lawaz on the mountains, that is, Bethel, on the new moon of the first month of this week, [2115 A.M.] and he came to the place at even and turned from the way to the west of the road that night: and he slept there; for the sun had set.²⁰ And he took one of the stones of that place and laid <it at his head> under the tree, and he was journeying alone, and he slept.²¹ And he dreamt that night, and behold a ladder set up on the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven, and behold, the angels of the Adanay ascended and descended on it: and behold, the Adanay stood upon it.²² And he spoke to Yaiqab and said: 'I am the Adanay Alahayam of Abaraham, your father, and the Alahayam of Yatzachaq; the land whereon you are sleeping, to you will I give it, and to your seed after you.²³ And your seed shall be as the dust of the earth, and you shall increase to the west and to the east, to the north and the south, and in you and in your seed shall all the families of the nations be blessed.²⁴ And behold, I will be with you, and will keep you whithersoever you go, and I will bring you again into this land in peace; for I will not leave you until I do everything that I told you of.'²⁵ And Yaiqab awoke from his sleep, and said, 'Truly this place is the house of the Adanay, and I knew it not.' And he was afraid and said: 'Dreadful is this place which is none other than the house of Alahayam, and this is the gate of heaven.'²⁶ And Yaiqab arose early in the morning, and took the stone which he had put under his head and set it up as a pillar for a sign, and he poured oil upon the top of it. And he called the name of that place Bethel; but the name of the place was Lawaz at the first.²⁷ And Yaiqab vowed a vow to the Adanay, saying: 'If the Adanay will be with me, and will keep me in this way that I go, and give me bread to eat and raiment to put on, so that I come again to my father's house in peace, then shall the Adanay be my Alahayam, and this stone which I have set up as a pillar for a sign in this place, shall be the Adanay's house, and of all that you give me, I shall give the tenth to you, my Alahayam.'

28 And he went on his journey, and came to the land of the east, to Laban, the brother of Rebecca, and he was with him, and served him for Rachal his daughter one week.² And in the first year of the third week [2122 A.M.] he said to him: 'Give me my wife, for whom I have served you seven years'; and Laban said to Yaiqab: 'I will give you your wife.'³ And Laban made a feast, and took Laah his elder daughter, and gave (her) to Yaiqab as a wife, and gave her Zalapah his handmaid for an hand-maid; and Yaiqab did not know, for he thought that she was Rachal.⁴ And he went in to her, and behold, she was Laah; and Yaiqab was angry with Laban, and said to him: 'Why have you dealt thus with me? Did not I serve you for Rachal and not for Laah? Why have you wronged me?'⁵ Take your daughter, and I will go; for you have done evil to me.' For Yaiqab loved Rachal more than Laah; for Leah's eyes were weak, but her form was very handsome; but Rachal had beautiful eyes and a beautiful and very handsome form.⁶ And Laban said to Yaiqab: 'It is not so done in our country, to give the younger before the elder.' And it is not right to do this; for thus it is ordained and written in the heavenly tablets, that no one should give his younger daughter before the elder; but the elder, one gives first and after her the younger -and the man who does so, they set down guilt against him in heaven, and none is righteous that does this thing, for this deed is evil before the Adanay.⁷ And command you the children of Yasharaal that they do not this thing; let them neither take nor give the younger before they have given the elder, for it is very wicked.⁸ And Laban said to Yaiqab: 'Let the seven days of the feast of this one pass by, and I shall give you Rachal, that you may serve me another seven years, that you may pasture my sheep as you did in the former week.'⁹ And on the day when the seven days of the feast of Laah had passed, Laban gave Rachal to Yaiqab, that he might serve him another seven years, and he gave to Rachal Balahah, the sister of Zalapah, as a handmaid.¹⁰ And he served yet other seven years for Rachal, for Laah had been given to him for nothing.¹¹ And the Adanay opened the womb of Laah, and she conceived and bore Yaiqab a son, and he called his name Raawaban, on the fourteenth day of the ninth month, in the first year of the third week. [2122 A.M.]¹² But the womb of Rachal was closed, for the Adanay saw that Laah was hated and Rachal loved.¹³ And again Yaiqab went in to Laah, and she conceived, and bore Yaiqab a second son, and he called his name Shamaian, on the twenty-first of the tenth month, and in the third year of this week. [2124 A.M.]¹⁴ And again Yaiqab went in to Laah, and she conceived, and bore him a third son, and he called his name Laway, in the new moon of the first month in the sixth year of this week. [2127 A.M.]¹⁵ And again Yaiqab went in to her, and she conceived, and bore him a fourth son, and he called his name Yahawadah, on the fifteenth of the third month, in the first year of the fourth week. [2129 A.M.]¹⁶ And on account of all this Rachal envied Laah, for she did not bear, and she said to Yaiqab: 'Give me children'; and Yaiqab said: 'Have I withheld from you the fruits of your womb? Have I forsaken you?'¹⁷ And when Rachal saw that Laah had borne four sons to Yaiqab, Raawaban and Shamaian and Laway and Yahawadah, she said to him: 'Go in to Balahah my handmaid, and she will conceive, and bear a son to me.' (And she gave (him) Balahah her handmaid to wife).¹⁸ And he went in to her, and she conceived, and bore him a son, and he called his name Wadan, on the ninth of the sixth month, in the sixth year of the third week. [2127 A.M.]¹⁹ And Yaiqab went in again to Balahah a second time, and she conceived, and bore Yaiqab another son, and Rachal called his name Napthali, on the fifth of the seventh month, in the second year of the fourth week. [2130 A.M.]²⁰ And when Laah saw that she had become sterile and did not bear, she envied Rachal, and she also gave her handmaid Zalapah to Yaiqab to wife, and she conceived, and bore a son, and Laah called his name Gad, on the twelfth of the eighth month, in the third year of the fourth week. [2131 A.M.]²¹ And he went in again to her, and she conceived, and bore him a second son, and Laah called his name Ashar, on the second of the eleventh month, in the fifth year of the fourth week. [2133 A.M.]²² And Yaiqab went in to Laah, and she conceived, and bore a son, and she called his name Yashashakar, on the fourth of the fifth month, in the fourth year of the fourth week, [2132 A.M.] and she gave him to a nurse.²³ And Yaiqab went in again to her, and she conceived, and bore two (children), a son and a daughter, and she called the name of the son Zabulon, and the name of the daughter Dayanah, in the seventh of the seventh month, in the sixth year of the fourth week. [2134 A.M.]²⁴ And the Adanay was gracious to Rachal, and opened her womb, and she conceived, and bore a son, and she called his name Yawasap, on the new moon of the fourth month, in the sixth year in this fourth week. [2134 A.M.]²⁵ And in the days when Yawasap was born, Yaiqab said to Laban: 'Give me my wives and sons, and let me go to my father Yatzachaq, and let me make me an house; for I have completed the years in which I have served you for your two daughters, and I will go to the house of my father.'²⁶ And Laban said to Yaiqab: 'Tarry with me for your wages, and pasture my flock for me again, and take your wages.'²⁷ And they agreed with one another that he should give him as his wages those of the lambs and kids which were born black and spotted and white, (these) were to be his wages.²⁸ And all the sheep brought forth spotted and speckled and black, variously marked, and they brought forth again lambs like themselves, and all that were spotted were Jacob's and those which were not were Laban's.²⁹ And Jacob's possessions multiplied exceedingly, and he possessed oxen and sheep and asses and camels, and menservants and maid-servants.³⁰ And Laban and his sons envied Yaiqab, and Laban took back his sheep from him, and he observed him with evil intent.

29 And it came to pass when Rachal had borne Yawasap, that Laban went to shear his sheep; for they were distant from him a three days' journey.² And Yaiqab saw that Laban was going to shear his sheep, and Yaiqab called Laah and Rachal, and spoke kindly to them that they should come with him to the land of Kanan.³ For he told them how he had seen everything in a dream, even all that He had spoken to him that he should return to his father's house, and they said: 'To every place where you go we will go with you.'⁴ And Yaiqab blessed the Alahayam of Yatzachaq his father, and the Alahayam of Abraham his father's father, and he arose and mounted his wives and his children, and took all his possessions and crossed the river, and came to the land of Galaïd, and Yaiqab hid his intention from Laban and told him not.⁵ And in the seventh year of the fourth week Yaiqab turned (his face) toward Galaïd in the first month, on the twenty-first thereof. [2135 A.M.] And Laban pursued after him and overtook Yaiqab in the mountain of Galaïd in the third month, on the thirteenth thereof.⁶ And the Adanay did not suffer him to injure Yaiqab; for he appeared to him in a dream by night. And Laban spoke to Yaiqab.⁷ And on the fifteenth of those days Yaiqab made a feast for Laban, and for all who came with him, and Yaiqab swore to Laban that day, and Laban also to Yaiqab, that neither should cross the mountain of Galaïd to the other with evil purpose.⁸ And he made there a heap for a witness; therefore the name of that place is called: 'The Heap of Witness,' after this heap.⁹ But before they used to call the land of Galaïd the land of the Rephaim; for it was the land of the Rephaim, and the Rephaim were born (there), giants whose height was ten, nine, eight down to seven cubits.¹⁰ And their habitation was from the land of the children of Imawan to Mount Charamawan, and the seats of their kingdom were Karnaim and Ishatharawath, and Adaraiy, and Misur, and Bain.¹¹ And the Adanay destroyed them because of the evil of their deeds; for they were very malignant, and the Amorites dwelt in their stead, wicked and sinful, and there is no people to-day which has wrought to the full all their sins, and they have no longer length of life on the earth.¹² And Yaiqab sent away Laban, and he departed into Aram, the land of the East, and Yaiqab returned to the land of Galaïd.¹³ And he passed over the Yabaq in the ninth month, on the eleventh thereof. And on that day Ishaw, his brother, came to him, and he was reconciled to him, and departed from him to the land of Shaiyar, but Yaiqab dwelt in tents.¹⁴ And in the first year of the fifth week in this jubilee [2136 A.M.] he crossed the Yaradan, and dwelt beyond the Yaradan, and he pastured his sheep from the sea of the heap to Bethshan, and to Dathan and to the forest of Akrabbim.¹⁵ And he sent to his father Yatzachaq of all his substance, clothing, and food, and meat, and drink, and milk, and butter, and cheese, and some dates of the valley.¹⁶ And to his mother Rebecca also four times a year, between the times of the months, between ploughing and reaping, and between autumn and the rain (season) and between winter and spring, to the tower of Abraham.¹⁷ For Yatzachaq had returned from the Well of the Oath and gone up to the tower of his father Abraham, and he dwelt there apart from his son Ishaw.¹⁸ For in the days when Yaiqab went to Aram, Ishaw took to himself a wife Machalath, the daughter of Yashamaïal, and he gathered together all the flocks of his father and his wives, and went Up and dwelt on Mount Shaiyar, and left Yatzachaq his father at the Well of the Oath alone.¹⁹ And Yatzachaq went up from the Well of the Oath and dwelt in the tower of Abraham his father on the mountains of Chabarawan,²⁰ And there Yaiqab sent all that he did send to his father and his mother from time to time, all they needed, and they blessed Yaiqab with all their heart and with all their soul.

30 And in the first year of the sixth week [2143 A.M.] he went up to Shalam, to the east of Shakam, in peace, in the fourth month.² And there they carried off Dayanah, the daughter of Yaiqab, into the house of Shakam, the son of Chamawar, the Hivite, the prince of the land, and he lay with her and defiled her, and she was a little girl, a child of twelve years.³ And he besought his father and her brothers that she might be given to him to wife. And Yaiqab and his sons were wroth because of the men of Shakam; for they had defiled Dayanah, their sister, and they spoke to them with evil intent and dealt deceitfully with them and beguiled them.⁴ And Shamaiwan and Laway came unexpectedly to Shakam and executed judgment on all the men of Shakam, and slew all the men whom they found in it, and left not a single one remaining in it: they slew all in torments because they had dishonoured their sister Dayanah.⁵ And thus let it not again be done from henceforth that a daughter of Yasharaal be defiled; for judgment is ordained in heaven against them that they should destroy with the sword all the men of the Shechemites because they had wrought shame in Yasharaal.⁶ And the Adanay delivered them into the hands of the sons of Yaiqab that they might exterminate them with the sword and execute judgment upon them, and that it might not thus again be done in Yasharaal that a virgin of Yasharaal should be defiled.⁷ And if there is any man who wishes in Yasharaal to give his daughter or his sister to any man who is of the seed of the Gentiles he shall surely die, and they shall stone him with stones; for he has wrought shame in Yasharaal; and they shall burn the woman with fire, because she has dishonoured the name of the house of her father, and she shall be rooted out of Yasharaal.⁸ And let not an adulteress and no uncleanness be found in Yasharaal throughout all the days of the generations of the earth; for Yasharaal is holy to the Adanay, and every man who has defiled (it) shall surely die: they shall stone him with stones.⁹ For thus has it been ordained and written in the heavenly tablets regarding all the seed of Yasharaal: he who defiles (it) shall surely die, and he shall be stoned with stones.¹⁰ And to this law there is no limit of days, and no remission, nor any atonement: but the man who has defiled his daughter shall be rooted out in the midst of all Yasharaal, because he has given of his seed to Moloch, and wrought impiously so as to defile it.¹¹ And do you, Mashah, command the children of Yasharaal and exhort them not to give their daughters to the Gentiles, and not to take for their sons any of the daughters of the Gentiles, for this is abominable before the Adanay.¹² For this reason I have written for you in the words of the Law all the deeds of the Shechemites, which they wrought against Dayanah, and how the sons of Yaiqab spoke, saying: 'We will not give our daughter to a man who is uncircumcised; for that were a reproach to us.'¹³ And it is a reproach to Yasharaal, to those who live, and to those that take the daughters of the Gentiles; for this is unclean and abominable to Yasharaal.¹⁴ And Yasharaal will not be free from this uncleanness if it has a wife of the daughters of the Gentiles, or has given any of its daughters to a man who is of any of the Gentiles.¹⁵ For there will be plague upon plague, and curse upon curse, and every judgment and plague and curse will come upon him: if he do this thing, or hide his eyes from those who commit uncleanness, or those who defile the sanctuary of the Adanay, or those who profane His holy name, (then) will the whole nation together be judged for all the uncleanness and profanation of this man.¹⁶ And there will be no respect of persons [and no consideration of persons] and no receiving at his hands of fruits and offerings and burnt-offerings and fat, nor the fragrance of sweet savour, so as to accept it: and so fare every man or woman in Yasharaal who defiles the sanctuary.¹⁷ For this reason I have commanded you, saying: 'Testify this testimony to Yasharaal: see how the Shechemites fared and their sons: how they were delivered into the hands of two sons of Yaiqab, and they slew them under tortures, and it was (reckoned) to them for righteousness, and it is written down to them for righteousness.¹⁸ And the seed of Laway was chosen for the priesthood, and to be Levites, that they might minister before the Adanay, as we, continually, and that Laway and his sons may be blessed for ever; for he was zealous to execute righteousness and judgment and vengeance on all those who arose against Yasharaal.¹⁹ And so they inscribe as a testimony in his favour on the heavenly tablets blessing and righteousness before the Alahayam of all:²⁰ And we remember the righteousness which the man fulfilled during his life, at all periods of the year; until a thousand generations they will record it, and it will come to him and to his descendants after him, and he has been recorded on the heavenly tablets as a friend and a righteous man.²¹ All this account I have written for you, and have commanded you to say to the children of Yasharaal, that they should not commit sin nor transgress the ordinances nor break the covenant which has been ordained for them, (but) that they should fulfil it and be recorded as friends.²² But if they transgress and work uncleanness in every way, they will be recorded on the heavenly tablets as adversaries, and they will be destroyed out of the book of life, and they will be recorded in the book of those who will be destroyed and with those who will be rooted out of the earth.²³ And on the day when the sons of Yaiqab slew Shakam a writing was recorded in their favour in heaven that they had executed righteousness and uprightness and vengeance on the sinners, and it was written for a blessing.²⁴ And they brought Dayanah, their sister, out of the house of Shakam, and they took captive everything that was in Shakam, their sheep and their oxen and their asses, and all their wealth, and all their flocks, and brought them all to Yaiqab their father.²⁵ And he reproached them because they had put the city to the sword for he feared those who dwelt in the land, the Canaanites and the Perizzites.²⁶ And the dread of the Adanay was upon all the cities which are around about Shakam, and they did not rise to pursue after the sons of Yaiqab; for terror had fallen upon them.

31 And on the new moon of the month Yaiqab spoke to all the people of his house, saying: 'Purify yourselves and change your garments, and let us arise and go up to Bethel, where I vowed a vow to Him on the day when I fled from the face of Ishaw my brother, because he has been with me and brought me into this land in peace, and put you away the strange gods that are among you.'² And they gave up the strange gods and that which was in their ears and which was on their necks and the idols which Rachal stole from Laban her father she gave wholly to Yaiqab. And he burnt and broke them to pieces and destroyed them, and hid them under an oak which is in the land of Shakam.³ And he went up on the new moon of the seventh month to Bethel. And he built an altar at the place where he had slept, and he set up a pillar there, and he sent word to his father Yatzachaq to come to him to his sacrifice, and to his mother Rebecca.⁴ And Yatzachaq said: 'Let my son Yaiqab come, and let me see him before I die.'⁵ And Yaiqab went to his father Yatzachaq and to his mother Rebecca, to the house of his father Abaraham, and he took two of his sons with him, Laway and Yahawadah, and he came to his father Yatzachaq and to his mother Rebecca.⁶ And Rebecca came forth from the tower to the front of it to kiss Yaiqab and embrace him; for her spirit had revived when she heard: 'Behold Yaiqab your son has come'; and she kissed him.⁷ And she saw his two sons, and she recognised them, and said to him: 'Are these your sons, my son?' and she embraced them and kissed them, and blessed them, saying: 'In you shall the seed of Abaraham become illustrious, and you shall prove a blessing on the earth.'⁸ And Yaiqab went in to Yatzachaq his father, to the chamber where he lay, and his two sons were with him, and he took the hand of his father, and stooping down he kissed him, and Yatzachaq clung to the neck of Yaiqab his son, and wept upon his neck.⁹ And the darkness left the eyes of Yatzachaq, and he saw the two sons of Yaiqab, Laway, and Yahawadah, and he said: 'Are these your sons, my son? for they are like you.'¹⁰ And he said to him that they were truly his sons: 'And you have truly seen that they are truly my sons'.¹¹ And they came near to him, and he turned and kissed them and embraced them both together.¹² And the spirit of prophecy came down into his mouth, and he took Laway by his right hand and Yahawadah by his left.¹³ And he turned to Laway first, and began to bless him first, and said to him: 'May the Alahayam of all, the very Adanay of all the ages, bless you and your children throughout all the ages.'¹⁴ And may the Adanay give to you and to your seed greatness and great glory, and cause you and your seed, from among all flesh, to approach Him to serve in His sanctuary as the angels of the presence and as the holy ones. (Even) as they, shall the seed of your sons be for glory and greatness and holiness, and may He make them great to all the ages.'¹⁵ And they shall be judges and princes, and chiefs of all the seed of the sons of Yaiqab; They shall speak the word of the Adanay in righteousness, And they shall judge all His judgments in righteousness. And they shall declare My ways to Yaiqab And My paths to Yasharaal. The blessing of the Adanay shall be given in their mouths To bless all the seed of the beloved.'¹⁶ Your mother has called your name Laway, And justly has she called your name; You shall be joined to the Adanay And be the companion of all the sons of Yaiqab; Let His table be your,

And do you and your sons eat thereof; And may your table be full to all generations, And your food fail not to all the ages.'¹⁷ And let all who hate you fall down before you, And let all your adversaries be rooted out and perish; And blessed be he that blesses you, And cursed be every nation that curses you.'¹⁸ And to Yahawadah he said: 'May the Adanay give you strength and power to tread down all that hate you; A prince shall you be, you and one of your sons, over the sons of Yaiqab; May your name and the name of your sons go forth and traverse every land and region. Then shall the Gentiles fear before your face, And all the nations shall quake [And all the peoples shall quake].'¹⁹ In you shall be the help of Yaiqab, And in you be found the salvation of Yasharaal.'²⁰ And when you sit on the throne of honour of your righteousness There shall be great peace for all the seed of the sons of the beloved; Blessed be he that blesses you, And all that hate you and afflict you and curse you Shall be rooted out and destroyed from the earth and be accursed.'²¹ And turning he kissed him again and embraced him, and rejoiced greatly; for he had seen the sons of Yaiqab his son in very truth.²² And he went forth from between his feet and fell down and bowed down to him, and he blessed them and rested there with Yatzachaq his father that night, and they eat and drank with joy.²³ And he made the two sons of Yaiqab sleep, the one on his right hand and the other on his left, and it was counted to him for righteousness.²⁴ And Yaiqab told his father everything during the night, how the Adanay had shown him great mercy, and how he had prospered (him in) all his ways, and protected him from all evil.²⁵ And Yatzachaq blessed the Alahayam of his father Abaraham, who had not withdrawn his mercy and his righteousness from the sons of his servant Yatzachaq.²⁶ And in the morning Yaiqab told his father Yatzachaq the vow which he had vowed to the Adanay, and the vision which he had seen, and that he had built an altar, and that everything was ready for the sacrifice to be made before the Adanay as he had vowed, and that he had come to set him on an ass.²⁷ And Yatzachaq said to Yaiqab his son: 'I am not able to go with you; for I am old and not able to bear the way: go, my son, in peace; for I am one hundred and sixty-five years this day; I am no longer able to journey; set your mother (on an ass) and let her go with you.'²⁸ And I know, my son, that you have come on my account, and may this day be blessed on which you have seen me alive, and I also have seen you, my son.'²⁹ May you prosper and fulfil the vow which you have vowed; and put not off your vow; for you shall be called to account as touching the vow; now therefore make haste to perform it, and may He be pleased who has made all things, to whom you have vowed the vow.'³⁰ And he said to Rebecca: 'Go with Yaiqab your son'; and Rebecca went with Yaiqab her son, and Dabawarah with her, and they came to Bethel.³¹ And Yaiqab remembered the prayer with which his father had blessed him and his two sons, Laway and Yahawadah, and he rejoiced and blessed the Alahayam of his fathers, Abaraham and Yatzachaq.³² And he said: 'Now I know that I have an eternal hope, and my sons also, before the Alahayam of all'; and thus is it ordained concerning the two; and they record it as an eternal testimony to them on the heavenly tablets how Yatzachaq blessed them.

32 And he abode that night at Bethel, and Laway dreamed that they had ordained and made him the priest of the Ilayawan Alahayam, him and his sons for ever; and he awoke from his sleep and blessed the Adanay.² And Yaiqab rose early in the morning, on the fourteenth of this month, and he gave a tithe of all that came with him, both of men and cattle, both of gold and every vessel and garment, yea, he gave tithes of all.³ And in those days Rachal became pregnant with her son Banayaman. And Yaiqab counted his sons from him upwards and Laway fell to the portion of the Adanay, and his father clothed him in the garments of the priesthood and filled his hands.⁴ And on the fifteenth of this month, he brought to the altar fourteen oxen from amongst the cattle, and twenty-eight rams, and forty-nine sheep, and seven lambs, and twenty-one kids of the goats as a burnt-offering on the altar of sacrifice, well pleasing for a sweet savour before Alahayam.⁵ This was his offering, in consequence of the vow which he had vowed that he would give a tenth, with their fruit-offerings and their drink-offerings.⁶ And when the fire had consumed it, he burnt incense on the fire over the fire, and for a thank-offering two oxen and four rams and four sheep, four he-goats, and two sheep of a year old, and two kids of the goats; and thus he did daily for seven days.⁷ And he and all his sons and his men were eating (this) with joy there during seven days and blessing and thanking the Adanay, who had delivered him out of all his tribulation and had given him his vow.⁸ And he tithed all the clean animals, and made a burnt sacrifice, but the unclean animals he gave (not) to Laway his son, and he gave him all the souls of the men.⁹ And Laway discharged the priestly office at Bethel before Yaiqab his father in preference to his ten brothers, and he was a priest there, and Yaiqab gave his vow: thus he tithed again the tithe to the Adanay and sanctified it, and it became holy to Him.¹⁰ And for this reason it is ordained on the heavenly tablets as a law for the tithing again the tithe to eat before the Adanay from year to year, in the place where it is chosen that His name should dwell, and to this law there is no limit of days for ever.¹¹ This ordinance is written that it may be fulfilled from year to year in eating the second tithe before the Adanay in the place where it has been chosen, and nothing shall remain over from it from this year to the year following.¹² For in its year shall the seed be eaten till the days of the gathering of the seed of the year, and the wine till the days of the wine, and the oil till the days of its season.¹³ And all that is left thereof and becomes old, let it be regarded as polluted: let it be burnt with fire, for it is unclean.¹⁴ And thus let them eat it together in the sanctuary, and let them not suffer it to become old.¹⁵ And all the tithes of the oxen and sheep shall be holy to the Adanay, and shall belong to his priests, which they will eat before Him from year to year; for thus is it ordained and engraven regarding the tithe on the heavenly tablets.¹⁶ And on the following night, on the twenty-second day of this month, Yaiqab resolved to build that place, and to surround the court with a wall, and to sanctify it and make it holy for ever, for himself and his children after him.¹⁷ And the Adanay appeared to him by night and blessed him and said to him: 'Your name shall not be called Yaiqab, but Yasharaal shall they name your name.'¹⁸ And He said to him again: 'I am the Adanay who created the heaven and the earth, and I will increase you and multiply you exceedingly, and kings shall come forth from you, and they shall judge everywhere wherever the foot of the sons of men has trodden.'¹⁹ And I will give to your seed all the earth which is under heaven, and they shall judge all the nations according to their desires, and after that they shall get possession of the whole earth and inherit it for ever.'²⁰ And He finished speaking with him, and He went up from him, and Yaiqab looked till He had ascended into heaven.²¹ And he saw in a vision of the night, and behold an angel descended from heaven with seven tablets in his hands, and he gave them to Yaiqab, and he read them and knew all that was written therein which would befall him and his sons throughout all the ages.²² And he showed him all that was written on the tablets, and said to him: 'Do not build this place, and do not make it an eternal sanctuary, and do not dwell here; for this is not the place. Go to the house of Abaraham your father and dwell with Yatzachaq your father until the day of the death of your father.'²³ For in Matzarayam you shall die in peace, and in this land you shall be buried with honour in the sepulchre of your fathers, with Abaraham and Yatzachaq.²⁴ Fear not, for as you have seen and read it, thus shall it all be; and do you write down everything as you have seen and read.'²⁵ And Yaiqab said: 'Adanay, how can I remember all that I have read and seen?' And he said to him: 'I will bring all things to your remembrance.'²⁶ And he went up from him, and he awoke from his sleep, and he remembered everything which he had read and seen, and he wrote down all the words which he had read and seen.²⁷ And he celebrated there yet another day, and he sacrificed thereon according to all that he sacrificed on the former days, and called its name 'Addition,' for this day was added and the former days he called 'The Feast'.²⁸ And thus it was manifested that it should be, and it is written on the heavenly tablets: therefore it was revealed to him that he should celebrate it, and add it to the seven days of the feast.²⁹ And its name was called 'Addition,' because that it was recorded amongst the days of the feast days, according to the number of the days of the year.³⁰ And in the night, on the twenty-third of this month, Dabawarah Rebecca's nurse died, and they buried her beneath the city under the oak of the river, and he called the name of this place, 'The river of Dabawarah,' and the oak, 'The oak of the mourning of Dabawarah.'³¹ And Rebecca went and returned to her house to his father Yatzachaq, and Yaiqab sent by her hand rams and sheep and he-goats that she should prepare a meal for his father such as he desired.³² And he went after his mother till he came to the land of Kabratan, and he dwelt there.³³ And Rachal bore a son in the night, and called his name 'Son of my sorrow'; for she suffered in giving him birth: but his father called his name Banayaman, on the eleventh of the eighth month in the first of the sixth week of this jubilee. [2143 A.M.]³⁴ And Rachal died there and she was buried in the land of Aparathah, the same is Bayathalacham, and Yaiqab built a pillar on the grave of Rachal, on the road above her grave.

33 And Yaiqab went and dwelt to the south of Magdaladra'ef. And he went to his father Yatzachaq, he and Laah his wife, on the new moon of the tenth month.² And Raawaban saw Balahah, Rachel's maid, the concubine of his father, bathing in water in a secret place, and he loved her.³ And he hid himself at night, and he entered the house of Balahah [at night], and he found her sleeping alone on a bed in her house.⁴ And he lay with her, and she awoke and saw, and behold Raawaban was lying with her in the bed, and she uncovered the border of her covering and seized him, and cried out, and discovered that it was Raawaban.⁵ And she was ashamed because of him, and released her hand from him, and he fled.⁶ And she lamented because of this thing exceedingly, and did not tell it to any one.⁷ And when Yaiqab returned and sought her, she said to him: 'I am not clean for you, for I have been defiled as regards you; for Raawaban has defiled me, and has lain with me in the night, and I was asleep, and did not discover until he uncovered my skirt and slept with me.'⁸ And Yaiqab was exceedingly wroth with Raawaban because he had lain with Balahah, because he had uncovered his father's skirt.⁹ And Yaiqab did not approach her again because Raawaban had defiled her. And as for any man who uncovers his father's skirt his deed is wicked exceedingly, for he is abominable before the Adanay.¹⁰ For this reason it is written and ordained on the heavenly tablets that a man should not lie with his father's wife, and should not uncover his father's skirt, for this is unclean: they shall surely die together, the man who lies with his father's wife and the woman also, for they have wrought uncleanness on the earth.¹¹ And there shall be nothing unclean before our Alahayam in the nation which He has chosen for Himself as a possession.¹² And again, it is written a second time: 'Cursed be he who lies with the wife of his father, for he has uncovered his father's shame'; and all the holy ones of the Adanay said 'So be it; so be it.'¹³ And do you, Mashah, command the children of Yasharaal that they observe this word; for it (entails) a punishment of death; and it is unclean, and there is no atonement for ever to atone for the man who has committed this, but he is to be put to death and slain, and stoned with stones, and rooted out from the midst of the people of our Alahayam.¹⁴ For to no man who does so in Yasharaal is it permitted to remain alive a single day on the earth, for he is abominable and unclean.¹⁵ And let them not say: to Raawaban was granted life and forgiveness after he had lain with his father's concubine, and to her also though she had a husband, and her husband Yaiqab, his father, was still alive.¹⁶ For until that time there had not been revealed the ordinance and judgment and law in its completeness for all, but in your days (it has been revealed) as a law of seasons and of days, and an everlasting law for the everlasting generations.¹⁷ And for this law there is no consummation of days, and no atonement for it, but they must both be rooted out in the midst of the nation: on the day whereon they committed it they shall slay them.¹⁸ And do you, Mashah, write (it) down for Yasharaal that they may observe it, and do according to these words, and not commit a sin to death; for the Adanay our Alahayam is judge, who respects not persons and accepts not gifts.¹⁹ And tell them these words of the covenant, that they may hear and observe, and be on their guard with respect to them, and not be destroyed and rooted out of the land; for an uncleanness, and an abomination, and a contamination, and a pollution are all they who commit it on the earth before our Alahayam.²⁰ And there is no greater sin than the fornication which they commit on earth; for Yasharaal is a holy nation to the Adanay its Alahayam, and a nation of inheritance, and a priestly and royal nation and for (His own) possession; and there shall no such uncleanness appear in the midst of the holy nation.²¹ And in the third year of this sixth week [2145 A.M.] Yaiqab and all his sons went and dwelt in the house of Abaraham, near Yatzachaq his father and Rebecca his mother.²² And these were the names of the sons of Yaiqab: the first-born Raawaban, Shamaian, Laway, Yahawadah, Yashashakar, Zebulon, the sons of Laah; and the sons of Rachal, Yawasap and Banayaman; and the sons of Balahah, Wadan and Napathalay; and the sons of Zalapah, Gad and Ashar; and Dayanah, the daughter of Laah, the only daughter of Yaiqab.²³ And they came and bowed themselves to Yatzachaq and Rebecca, and when they saw them they blessed Yaiqab and all his sons, and Yatzachaq rejoiced exceedingly, for he saw the sons of Yaiqab, his younger son and he blessed them.

34 And in the sixth year of this week of this forty-fourth jubilee [2148 A.M.] Yaiqab sent his sons to pasture their sheep, and his servants with them to the pastures of Shakam.² And the seven kings of the Amorites assembled themselves together against them, to slay them, hiding themselves under the trees, and to take their cattle as a prey.³ And Yaiqab and Laway and Yahawadah and Yawasap were in the house with Yatzachaq their father; for his spirit was sorrowful, and they could not leave him: and Banayaman was the youngest, and for this reason remained with his father.⁴ And there came the king[s] of Taphu and the king[s] of 'Aresa, and the king[s] of Seragan, and the king[s] of Selo, and the king[s] of Ga'as, and the king of Bethoron, and the king of Ma'anisakir, and all those who dwell in these mountains (and) who dwell in the woods in the land of Kanain.⁵ And they announced this to Yaiqab saying: 'Behold, the kings of the Amorites have surrounded your sons, and plundered their herds.'⁶ And he arose from his house, he and his three sons and all the servants of his father, and his own servants, and he went against them with six thousand men, who carried swords.⁷ And he slew them in the pastures of Shakam, and pursued those who fled, and he slew them with the edge of the sword, and he slew 'Aresa and Taphu and Saregan and Selo and 'Amani- sakir and Ga[ga]as, and he recovered his herds.⁸ And he prevailed over them, and imposed tribute on them that they should pay him tribute, five fruit products of their land, and he built Robel and Tamnatares.⁹ And he returned in peace, and made peace with them, and they became his servants, until the day that he and his sons went down into Matzarayam.¹⁰ And in the seventh year of this week [2149 A.M.] he sent Yawasap to learn about the welfare of his brothers from his house to the land of Shakam, and he found them in the land of Dathan.¹¹ And they dealt treacherously with him, and formed a plot against him to slay him, but changing their minds, they sold him to Ishmaelite merchants, and they brought him down into Matzarayam, and they sold him to Pawatayapar, the eunuch of Paraih, the chief of the cooks, priest of the city of 'Elew.¹² And the sons of Yaiqab slaughtered a kid, and dipped the coat of Yawasap in the blood, and sent (it) to Yaiqab their father on the tenth of the seventh month.¹³ And he mourned all that night, for they had brought it to him in the evening, and he became feverish with mourning for his death, and he said: 'An evil beast has devoured Joseph'; and all the members of his house [mourned with him that day, and they] were grieving and mourning with him all that day.¹⁴ And his sons and his daughter rose up to comfort him, but he refused to be comforted for his son.¹⁵ And on that day Balahah heard that Yawasap had perished, and she died mourning him, and she was living in Qafratef, and Dayanah also, his daughter, died after Yawasap had perished.¹⁶ And there came these three mournings upon Yasharaal in one month. And they buried Balahah over against the tomb of Rachal, and Dayanah also, his daughter, they buried there.¹⁷ And he mourned for Yawasap one year, and did not cease, for he said 'Let me go down to the grave mourning for my son'.¹⁸ For this reason it is ordained for the children of Yasharaal that they should afflict themselves on the tenth of the seventh month -on the day that the news which made him weep for Yawasap came to Yaiqab his father- that they should make atonement for themselves thereon with a young goat on the tenth of the seventh month, once a year, for their sins; for they had grieved the affection of their father regarding Yawasap his son.¹⁹ And this day has been ordained that they should grieve thereon for their sins, and for all their transgressions and for all their errors, so that they might cleanse themselves on that day once a year.²⁰ And after Yawasap perished, the sons of Yaiqab took to themselves wives. The name of Reuben's wife is 'Ada; and the name of Simeon's wife is 'Adlba'a, a Canaanite; and the name of Levi's wife is Melka, of the daughters of Aram, of the seed of the sons of Tharach; and the name of Judah's wife, Betasu'el, a Canaanite; and the name of Issachar's wife, Hezaqa; and the name of Zabulon's wife, Ni'imam; and the name of Dan's wife, 'Egla; and the name of Naphtali's wife, Rasu'u, of Aram; and the name of Gad's wife, Maka; and the name of Asher's wife, 'Ijona; and the name of Joseph's wife, Asanath, the Matzarayam; and the name of Benjamin's wife, 'Ijasaka.²¹ And Shamaian repented, and took a second wife from Aram as his brothers.

35 And in the first year of the first week of the forty-fifth jubilee [2157 A.M.] Rebecca called Yaiqab, her son, and commanded him regarding his father and regarding his brother, that he should honour them all the days of his life.² And Yaiqab said: 'I will do everything as you have commanded me; for this thing will be honour and greatness to me, and righteousness before the Adanay, that I should honour them.'³ And you too, mother, know from the time I was born until this day, all my deeds and all that is in my heart, that I always think good concerning all.⁴ And how should I not do this thing which you have commanded me, that I should honour my father and my brother!⁵ Tell me, mother, what perversity have you seen in me and I shall turn away from it, and mercy will be upon me.'⁶ And she said to him: 'My son, I have not seen in you all my days any perverse but (only) upright deeds. And yet I will tell you the truth, my son: I shall die this year, and I shall not survive this year in my life; for I have seen in a dream the day of my death, that I should not live beyond a hundred and fifty-five years: and behold I have completed all the days of my life which I am to live.'⁷ And Yaiqab laughed at the words of his mother, because his mother had said to him that she should die; and she was sitting opposite to him in possession of her strength, and she was not infirm in her strength; for she went in and out and saw, and her teeth were strong, and no ailment had touched her all the days of her life.⁸ And Yaiqab said to her: 'Blessed am I, mother, if my days approach the days of your life, and my strength remain with me thus as your strength: and you will not die, for you are jesting idly with me regarding your death.'⁹ And she went in to Yatzachaq and said to him: 'One petition I make to you: make Ishaw swear that he will not injure Yaiqab, nor pursue him with enmity; for you know Esau's thoughts that they are perverse from his youth, and there is no goodness in him; for he desires after your death to kill him.'¹⁰ And you know all that he has done since the day Yaiqab his brother went to Charan until this day: how he has forsaken us with his whole heart, and has done evil to us; your flocks he has taken to himself, and carried off all your possessions from before your face.¹¹ And when we implored and besought him for what was our own, he did as a man who was taking pity on us.¹² And he is bitter against you because you did bless Yaiqab your perfect and upright son; for there is no evil but only goodness in him, and since he came from Charan to this day he has not robbed us of aught, for he brings us everything in its season always, and rejoices with all his heart when we take at his hands and he blesses us, and has not

parted from us since he came from Charan until this day, and he remains with us continually at home honouring us.' ¹³ And Yatzachaq said to her: 'I, too, know and see the deeds of Yaiqab who is with us, how that with all his heart he honours us; but I loved Ishaw formerly more than Yaiqab, because he was the firstborn; but now I love Yaiqab more than Ishaw, for he has done manifold evil deeds, and there is no righteousness in him, for all his ways are unrighteousness and violence, [and there is no righteousness around him.] ¹⁴ And now my heart is troubled because of all his deeds, and neither he nor his seed is to be saved, for they are those who will be destroyed from the earth and who will be rooted out from under heaven, for he has forsaken the Alahayam of Abaraham and gone after his wives and after their uncleanness and after their error, he and his children. ¹⁵ And you do bid me make him swear that he will not slay Yaiqab his brother; even if he swear he will not abide by his oath, and he will not do good but evil only. ¹⁶ But if he desires to slay Yaiqab, his brother, into Jacob's hands will he be given, and he will not escape from his hands, [for he will descend into his hands.] ¹⁷ And fear you not on account of Yaiqab; for the guardian of Yaiqab is great and powerful and honoured, and praised more than the guardian of Ishaw.' ¹⁸ And Rebecca sent and called Ishaw and he came to her, and she said to him: 'I have a petition, my son, to make to you, and do you promise to do it, my son.' ¹⁹ And he said: 'I will do everything that you say to me, and I will not refuse your petition.' ²⁰ And she said to him: 'I ask you that the day I die, you will take me in and bury me near Sharah, your father's mother, and that you and Yaiqab will love each other and that neither will desire evil against the other, but mutual love only, and (so) you will prosper, my sons, and be honoured in the midst of the land, and no enemy will rejoice over you, and you will be a blessing and a mercy in the eyes of all those that love you.' ²¹ And he said: 'I will do all that you have told me, and I shall bury you on the day you diest near Sharah, my father's mother, as you have desired that her bones may be near your bones. ²² And Yaiqab, my brother, also, I shall love above all flesh; for I have not a brother in all the earth but him only: and this is no great merit for me if I love him; for he is my brother, and we were sown together in your body, and together came we forth from your womb, and if I do not love my brother, whom shall I love? ²³ And I, myself, beg you to exhort Yaiqab concerning me and concerning my sons, for I know that he will assuredly be king over me and my sons, for on the day my father blessed him he made him the higher and me the lower. ²⁴ And I swear to you that I shall love him, and not desire evil against him all the days of my life but good only.' ²⁵ And he swore to her regarding all this matter. And she called Yaiqab before the eyes of Ishaw, and gave him commandment according to the words which she had spoken to Ishaw. ²⁶ And he said: 'I shall do your pleasure; believe me that no evil will proceed from me or from my sons against Ishaw, and I shall be first in naught save in love only.' ²⁷ And they eat and drank, she and her sons that night, and she died, three jubilees and one week and one year old, on that night, and her two sons, Ishaw and Yaiqab, buried her in the double cave near Sharah, their father's mother.

36 And in the sixth year of this week [2162 A.M.] Yatzachaq called his two sons Ishaw and Yaiqab, and they came to him, and he said to them: 'My sons, I am going the way of my fathers, to the eternal house where my fathers are. ² Therefore bury me near Abaraham my father, in the double cave in the field of Iparawan the Hittite, where Abaraham purchased a sepulchre to bury in; in the sepulchre which I digged for myself, there bury me. ³ And this I command you, my sons, that you practise righteousness and uprightness on the earth, so that the Adanay may bring upon you all that the Adanay said that he would do to Abaraham and to his seed. ⁴ And love one another, my sons, your brothers as a man who loves his own soul, and let each seek in what he may benefit his brother, and act together on the earth; and let them love each other as their own souls. ⁵ And concerning the question of idols, I command and admonish you to reject them and hate them, and love them not, for they are full of deception for those that worship them and for those that bow down to them. ⁶ Remember you, my sons, the Adanay Alahayam of Abaraham your father, and how I too worshipped Him and served Him in righteousness and in joy, that He might multiply you and increase your seed as the stars of heaven in multitude, and establish you on the earth as the plant of righteousness which will not be rooted out to all the generations for ever. ⁷ And now I shall make you swear a great oath -for there is no oath which is greater than it by the name glorious and honoured and great and splendid and wonderful and mighty, which created the heavens and the earth and all things together- that you will fear Him and worship Him. ⁸ And that each will love his brother with affection and righteousness, and that neither will desire evil against his brother from henceforth for ever all the days of your life so that you may prosper in all your deeds and not be destroyed. ⁹ And if either of you devises evil against his brother, know that from henceforth everyone that devises evil against his brother shall fall into his hand, and shall be rooted out of the land of the living, and his seed shall be destroyed from under heaven. ¹⁰ But on the day of turbulence and execration and indignation and anger, with flaming devouring fire as He burnt Sadam, so likewise will He burn his land and his city and all that is his, and he shall be blotted out of the book of the discipline of the children of men, and not be recorded in the book of life, but in that which is appointed to destruction, and he shall depart into eternal execration; so that their condemnation may be always renewed in hate and in execration and in wrath and in torment and in indignation and in plagues and in disease for ever. ¹¹ I say and testify to you, my sons, according to the judgment which shall come upon the man who wishes to injure his brother. ¹² And he divided all his possessions between the two on that day and he gave the larger portion to him that was the first-born, and the tower and all that was about it, and all that Abaraham possessed at the Well of the Oath. ¹³ And he said: 'This larger portion I will give to the firstborn.' ¹⁴ And Ishaw said, 'I have sold to Yaiqab and given my birthright to Yaiqab; to him let it be given, and I have not a single word to say regarding it, for it is his.' ¹⁵ And Yatzachaq said, 'May a blessing rest upon you, my sons, and upon your seed this day, for you have given me rest, and my heart is not pained concerning the birthright, lest you should work wickedness on account of it. ¹⁶ May the Ilayawan Alahayam bless the man that works righteousness, him and his seed for ever.' ¹⁷ And he ended commanding them and blessing them, and they eat and drank together before him, and he rejoiced because there was one mind between them, and they went forth from him and rested that day and slept. ¹⁸ And Yatzachaq slept on his bed that day rejoicing; and he slept the eternal sleep, and died one hundred and eighty years old. He completed twenty-five weeks and five years; and his two sons Ishaw and Yaiqab buried him. ¹⁹ And Ishaw went to the land of Adawam, to the mountains of Shaiyar, and dwelt there. ²⁰ And Yaiqab dwelt in the mountains of Chabarawan, in the tower of the land of the sojournings of his father Abaraham, and he worshipped the Adanay with all his heart and according to the visible commands according as He had divided the days of his generations. ²¹ And Laah his wife died in the fourth year of the second week of the forty-fifth jubilee, [2167 A.M.] and he buried her in the double cave near Rebecca his mother to the left of the grave of Sharah, his father's mother ²² and all her sons and his sons came to mourn over Laah his wife with him and to comfort him regarding her, for he was lamenting her for he loved her exceedingly after Rachal her sister died; ²³ for she was perfect and upright in all her ways and honoured Yaiqab, and all the days that she lived with him he did not hear from her mouth a harsh word, for she was gentle and peaceable and upright and honourable. ²⁴ And he remembered all her deeds which she had done during her life and he lamented her exceedingly; for he loved her with all his heart and with all his soul.

37 And on the day that Yatzachaq the father of Yaiqab and Ishaw died, [2162 A.M.] the sons of Ishaw heard that Yatzachaq had given the portion of the elder to his younger son Yaiqab and they were very angry. ² And they strove with their father, saying 'Why has your father given Yaiqab the portion of the elder and passed over you, although you are the elder and Yaiqab the younger?' ³ And he said to them 'Because I sold my birthright to Yaiqab for a small mess of lentils, and on the day my father sent me to hunt and catch and bring him something that he should eat and bless me, he came with guile and brought my father food and drink, and my father blessed him and put me under his hand.' ⁴ And now our father has caused us to swear, me and him, that we shall not mutually devise evil, either against his brother, and that we shall continue in love and in peace each with his brother and not make our ways corrupt.' ⁵ And they said to him, 'We shall not hearken to you to make peace with him; for our strength is greater than his strength, and we are more powerful than he; we shall go against him and slay him, and destroy him and his sons. And if you will not go with us, we shall do hurt to you also.' ⁶ And now hearken to us: Let us send to Aram and Palashath and Mawaab and Imawan, and let us choose for ourselves chosen men who are ardent for battle, and let us go against him and do battle with him, and let us exterminate him from the earth before he grows strong.' ⁷ And their father said to them, 'Do not go and do not make war with him lest you fall before him.' ⁸ And they said to him, 'This too, is exactly your mode of action from your youth until this day, and you are putting your neck under his yoke.' ⁹ We shall not hearken to these words.' And they sent to Aram, and to 'Aduram to the friend of their father, and they hired along with them one thousand fighting men, chosen men of war. ¹⁰ And there came to them from Mawaab and from the children of Imawan, those who were hired, one thousand chosen men, and from Palashath, one thousand chosen men of war, and from Adawam and from the Horites one thousand chosen fighting men, and from the Kathayam mighty men of war. ¹¹ And they said to their father: Go forth with them and lead them, else we shall slay you.' ¹² And he was filled with wrath and indignation on seeing that his sons were forcing him to go before (them) to lead them against Yaiqab his brother. ¹³ But afterward he remembered all the evil which lay hidden in his heart against Yaiqab his brother; and he remembered not the oath which he had sworn to his father and to his mother that he would devise no evil all his days against Yaiqab his brother. ¹⁴ And notwithstanding all this, Yaiqab knew not that they were coming against him to battle, and he was mourning for Laah, his wife, until they approached very near to the tower with four thousand warriors and chosen men of war. ¹⁵ And the men of Chabarawan sent to him saying, 'Behold your brother has come against you, to fight you, with four thousand girt with the sword, and they carry shields and weapons'; for they loved Yaiqab more than Ishaw. So they told him; for Yaiqab was a more liberal and merciful man than Ishaw. ¹⁶ But Yaiqab would not believe until they came very near to the tower. ¹⁷ And he closed the gates of the tower; and he stood on the battlements and spoke to his brother Ishaw and said, 'Noble is the comfort wherewith you have come to comfort me for my wife who has died. Is this the oath that you did swear to your father and again to your mother before they died? You have broken the oath, and on the moment that you did swear to your father were you condemned.' ¹⁸ And then Ishaw answered and said to him, 'Neither the children of men nor the beasts of the earth have any oath of righteousness which in swearing they have sworn (an oath valid) for ever; but every day they devise evil one against another, and how each may slay his adversary and foe.' ¹⁹ And you do hate me and my children for ever. And there is no observing the tie of brotherhood with you. ²⁰ Hear these words which I declare to you, If the boar can change its skin and make its bristles as soft as wool, Or if it can cause horns to sprout forth on its head like the horns of a stag or of a sheep, Then will I observe the tie of brotherhood with you And if the breasts separated themselves from their mother, for you have not been a brother to me. ²¹ And if the wolves make peace with the lambs so as not to devour or do them violence, And if their hearts are towards them for good, Then there shall be peace in my heart towards you ²² And if the lion becomes the friend of the ox and makes peace with him And if he is bound under one yoke with him and ploughs with him, Then will I make peace with you. ²³ And when the raven becomes white as the raven,

Then know that I have loved you And shall make peace with you You shall be rooted out, And your sons shall be rooted out, And there shall be no peace for you' ²⁴ And when Yaiqab saw that he was (so) evilly disposed towards him with his heart, and with all his soul as to slay him, and that he had come springing like the wild boar which comes upon the spear that pierces and kills it, and recoils not from it; ²⁵ then he spoke to his own and to his servants that they should attack him and all his companions.

38 And after that Yahawadah spoke to Yaiqab, his father, and said to him: 'Bend your bow, father, and send forth your arrows and cast down the adversary and slay the enemy; and may you have the power, for we shall not slay your brother, for he is such as you, and he is like you let us give him (this) honour.' ² Then Yaiqab bent his bow and sent forth the arrow and struck Ishaw, his brother (on his right breast) and slew him. ³ And again he sent forth an arrow and struck 'Adoran the Aramaean, on the left breast, and drove him backward and slew him. ⁴ And then went forth the sons of Yaiqab, they and their servants, dividing themselves into companies on the four sides of the tower. ⁵ And Yahawadah went forth in front, and Napathalay and Gad with him and fifty servants with him on the south side of the tower, and they slew all they found before them, and not one individual of them escaped. ⁶ And Laway and Wadan and Ashar went forth on the east side of the tower, and fifty (men) with them, and they slew the fighting men of Mawaab and Imawan. ⁷ And Raawaban and Yashashakar and Zebulon went forth on the north side of the tower, and fifty men with them, and they slew the fighting men of the Palashath. ⁸ And Shamaiwan and Banayaman and Chanawak, Reuben's son, went forth on the west side of the tower, and fifty (men) with them, and they slew of Adawam and of the Horites four hundred men, stout warriors; and six hundred fled, and four of the sons of Ishaw fled with them, and left their father lying slain, as he had fallen on the hill which is in 'Aduram. ⁹ And the sons of Yaiqab pursued after them to the mountains of Shaiyar. And Yaiqab buried his brother on the hill which is in 'Aduram, and he returned to his house. ¹⁰ And the sons of Yaiqab pressed hard upon the sons of Ishaw in the mountains of Shaiyar, and bowed their necks so that they became servants of the sons of Yaiqab. ¹¹ And they sent to their father (to inquire) whether they should make peace with them or slay them. ¹² And Yaiqab sent word to his sons that they should make peace, and they made peace with them, and placed the yoke of servitude upon them, so that they paid tribute to Yaiqab and to his sons always. ¹³ And they continued to pay tribute to Yaiqab until the day that he went down into Matzarayam. ¹⁴ And the sons of Adawam have not got quit of the yoke of servitude which the twelve sons of Yaiqab had imposed on them until this day. ¹⁵ And these are the kings that reigned in Adawam before there reigned any king over the children of Yasharaal [until this day] in the land of Adawam. ¹⁶ And Balaq, the son of Baiwar, reigned in Adawam, and the name of his city was Danaba. ¹⁷ And Balaq died, and Yawabab, the son of Zara of Boser, reigned in his stead. ¹⁸ And Yawabab died, and 'Asam, of the land of Thayaman, reigned in his stead. ¹⁹ And 'Asam died, and 'Adath, the son of Barad, who slew Madayan in the field of Mawaab, reigned in his stead, and the name of his city was Iwayath. ²⁰ And 'Adath died, and Salman, from 'Amaseqa, reigned in his stead. ²¹ And Salman died, and Shaawal of Ra'aboth (by the) river, reigned in his stead. ²² And Shaawal died, and Ba'elunan, the son of Ikabawar, reigned in his stead. ²³ And Ba'elunan, the son of Ikabawar died, and 'Adath reigned in his stead, and the name of his wife was Maitabith, the daughter of Matarat, the daughter of Metabedza'ab. ²⁴ These are the kings who reigned in the land of Adawam.

39 And Yaiqab dwelt in the land of his father's sojournings in the land of Kanain. These are the generations of Yaiqab. ² And Yawasap was seventeen years old when they took him down into the land of Matzarayam, and Pawatayapar, an eunuch of Paraih, the chief cook bought him. ³ And he set Yawasap over all his house and the blessing of the Adanay came upon the house of the Matzarayam on account of Yawasap, and the Adanay prospered him in all that he did.⁴ And the Matzarayam committed everything into the hands of Yawasap; for he saw that the Adanay was with him, and that the Adanay prospered him in all that he did.⁵ And Joseph's appearance was comely [and very beautiful was his appearance], and his master's wife lifted up her eyes and saw Yawasap, and she loved him and besought him to lie with her.⁶ But he did not surrender his soul, and he remembered the Adanay and the words which Yaiqab, his father, used to read from amongst the words of Abaraham, that no man should commit fornication with a woman who has a husband; that for him the punishment of death has been ordained in the heavens before the Ilayawan Alahayam, and the sin will be recorded against him in the eternal books continually before the Adanay.⁷ And Yawasap remembered these words and refused to lie with her.⁸ And she besought him for a year, but he refused and would not listen.⁹ But she embraced him and held him fast in the house in order to force him to lie with her, and closed the doors of the house and held him fast; but he left his garment in her hands and broke through the door and fled without from her presence.¹⁰ And the woman saw that he would not lie with her, and she calumniated him in the presence of his lord, saying 'Your Hebrew servant, whom you love, sought to force me so that he might lie with me; and it came to pass when I lifted up my voice that he fled and left his garment in my hands when I held him, and he broke through the door.'¹¹ And the Matzarayam saw the garment of Yawasap and the broken door, and heard the words of his wife, and cast Yawasap into prison into the place where the prisoners were kept whom the king imprisoned.¹² And he was there in the prison; and the Adanay gave Yawasap favour in the sight of the chief of the prison guards and compassion before him, for he saw that the Adanay was with him, and that the Adanay made all that he did to prosper.¹³ And he committed all things into his hands, and the chief of the prison guards knew of nothing that was with him, for Yawasap did every thing, and the Adanay perfected it.¹⁴ And he remained there two years. And in those days Paraih, king of Matzarayam was wroth against his two eunuchs, against the chief butler, and against the chief baker, and he put them in ward in the house of the chief cook, in the prison where Yawasap was kept.¹⁵ And the chief of the prison guards appointed Yawasap to serve them; and he served before them.¹⁶ And they both dreamed a dream, the chief butler and the chief baker, and they told it to Yawasap.¹⁷ And as he interpreted to them so it befell them, and Paraih restored the chief butler to his office and the (chief) baker he slew, as Yawasap had interpreted to them.¹⁸ But the chief butler forgot Yawasap in the prison, although he had informed him what would befall him, and did not remember to inform Paraih how Yawasap had told him, for he forgot.

40 And in those days Paraih dreamed two dreams in one night concerning a famine which was to be in all the land, and he awoke from his sleep and called all the interpreters of dreams that were in Matzarayam, and magicians, and told them his two dreams, and they were not able to declare (them).² And then the chief butler remembered Yawasap and spoke of him to the king, and he brought him forth from the prison, and he told his two dreams before him.³ And he said before Paraih that his two dreams were one, and he said to him: 'Seven years shall come (in which there shall be) plenty over all the land of Matzarayam, and after that seven years of famine, such a famine as has not been in all the land.'⁴ And now let Paraih appoint overseers in all the land of Matzarayam, and let them store up food in every city throughout the days of the years of plenty, and there will be food for the seven years of famine, and the land will not perish through the famine, for it will be very severe.'⁵ And the Adanay gave Yawasap favour and mercy in the eyes of Paraih, and Paraih said to his servants: 'We shall not find such a wise and discreet man as this man, for the spirit of the Adanay is with him.'⁶ And he appointed him the second in all his kingdom and gave him authority over all Matzarayam, and caused him to ride in the second chariot of Paraih.⁷ And he clothed him with byssus garments, and he put a gold chain upon his neck, and (a herald) proclaimed before him 'El 'El wa 'Abirer,' and placed a ring on his hand and made him ruler over all his house, and magnified him, and said to him. 'Only on the throne shall I be greater than you.'⁸ And Yawasap ruled over all the land of Matzarayam, and all the princes of Paraih, and all his servants, and all who did the king's business loved him, for he walked in uprightness, for he was without pride and arrogance, and he had no respect of persons, and did not accept gifts, but he judged in uprightness all the people of the land.⁹ And the land of Matzarayam was at peace before Paraih because of Yawasap, for the Adanay was with him, and gave him favour and mercy for all his generations before all those who knew him and those who heard concerning him, and Pharaoh's kingdom was well ordered, and there was no Satan and no evil person (therein).¹⁰ And the king called Joseph's name Sephantiphans, and gave Yawasap to wife the daughter of Pawatayapar, the daughter of the priest of Heliopolis, the chief cook.¹¹ And on the day that Yawasap stood before Paraih he was thirty years old [when he stood before Paraih].¹² And in that year Yatzachaq died. And it came to pass as Yawasap had said in the interpretation of his two dreams, according as he had said it, there were seven years of plenty over all the land of Matzarayam, and the land of Matzarayam abundantly produced, one measure (producing) eighteen hundred measures.¹³ And Yawasap gathered food into every city until they were full of corn until they could no longer count and measure it for its multitude.

41 And in the forty-fifth jubilee, in the second week, (and) in the second year, [2165 A.M.] Yahawadah took for his first-born Er, a wife from the daughters of Aram, named Thamar.² But he hated, and did not lie with her, because his mother was of the daughters of Kanain, and he wished to take him a wife of the kinsfolk of his mother, but Yahawadah, his father, would not permit him.³ And this Er, the first-born of Yahawadah, was wicked, and the Adanay slew him.⁴ And Yahawadah said to Awanan, his brother 'Go in to your brother's wife and perform the duty of a husband's brother to her, and raise up seed to your brother.'⁵ And Awanan knew that the seed would not be his, (but) his brother's only, and he went into the house of his brother's wife, and spilt the seed on the ground, and he was wicked in the eyes of the Adanay, and He slew him.⁶ And Yahawadah said to Thamar, his daughter-in-law: 'Remain in your father's house as a widow till Shalach my son be grown up, and I shall give you to him to wife.'⁷ And he grew up; but Bedsu'el, the wife of Yahawadah, did not permit her son Shalach to marry. And Bedsu'el, the wife of Yahawadah, died [2168 A.M.] in the fifth year of this week.⁸ And in the sixth year Yahawadah went up to shear his sheep at Thamanath. [2169 A.M.] And they told Thamar: 'Behold your father-in-law goes up to Thamanath to shear his sheep.'⁹ And she put off her widow's clothes, and put on a veil, and adorned herself, and sat in the gate adjoining the way to Thamanath.¹⁰ And as Yahawadah was going along he found her, and thought her to be an harlot, and he said to her: 'Let me come in to you'; and she said to him Come in,' and he went in.¹¹ And she said to him: 'Give me my hire'; and he said to her: 'I have nothing in my hand save my ring that is on my finger, and my necklace, and my staff which is in my hand.'¹² And she said to him 'Give them to me until you do send me my hire', and he said to her: 'I will send to you a kid of the goats'; and he gave them to her, and he went in to her, and she conceived by him.¹³ And Yahawadah went to his sheep, and she went to her father's house.¹⁴ And Yahawadah sent a kid of the goats by the hand of his shepherd, an Adullamite, and he found her not; and he asked the people of the place, saying: 'Where is the harlot who was here?' And they said to him: 'There is no harlot here with us.'¹⁵ And he returned and informed him, and said to him that he had not found her: 'I asked the people of the place, and they said to me: "There is no harlot here." '¹⁶ And he said: 'Let her keep (them) lest we become a cause of derision.' And when she had completed three months, it was manifest that she was with child, and they told Yahawadah, saying: 'Behold Thamar, your daughter-in-law, is with child by whoredom.'¹⁷ And Yahawadah went to the house of her father, and said to her father and her brothers: 'Bring her forth, and let them burn her, for she has wrought uncleanness in Yasharaal.¹⁸ And it came to pass when they brought her forth to burn her that she sent to her father-in-law the ring and the necklace, and the staff, saying: 'Discern whose are these, for by him am I with child.'¹⁹ And Yahawadah acknowledged, and said: 'Tamar is more righteous than I am.²⁰ And therefore let them burn her not' And for that reason she was not given to Shalach, and he did not again approach her.²¹ And after that she bore two sons, Paratz [2170 A.M.] and Zarach, in the seventh year of this second week.²² And thereupon the seven years of fruitfulness were accomplished, of which Yawasap spoke to Paraih.²³ And Yahawadah acknowledged that the deed which he had done was evil, for he had lain with his daughter-in-law, and he esteemed it hateful in his eyes, and he acknowledged that he had transgressed and gone astray, for he had uncovered the skirt of his son, and he began to lament and to supplicate before the Adanay because of his transgression.²⁴ And we told him in a dream that it was forgiven him because he supplicated earnestly, and lamented, and did not again commit it.²⁵ And he received forgiveness because he turned from his sin and from his ignorance, for he transgressed greatly before our Alahayam; and every one that acts thus, every one who lies with his mother-in-law, let them burn him with fire that he may burn therein, for there is uncleanness and pollution upon them, with fire let them burn them.²⁶ And do you command the children of Yasharaal that there be no uncleanness amongst them, for every one who lies with his daughter-in-law or with his mother-in-law has wrought uncleanness; with fire let them burn the man who has lain with her, and likewise the woman, and He will turn away wrath and punishment from Yasharaal.²⁷ And to Yahawadah we said that his two sons had not lain with her, and for this reason his seed was stablished for a second generation, and would not be rooted out.²⁸ For in singleness of eye he had gone and sought for punishment, namely, according to the judgment of Abaraham, which he had commanded his sons, Yahawadah had sought to burn her with fire.

42 And in the first year of the third week of the forty-fifth jubilee the famine began to come into the [2171 A.M.] land, and the rain refused to be given to the earth, for none whatever fell.² And the earth grew barren, but in the land of Matzarayam there was food, for Yawasap had gathered the seed of the land in the seven years of plenty and had preserved it.³ And the Matzarayam came to Yawasap that he might give them food, and he opened the store-houses where was the grain of the first year, and he sold it to the people of the land for gold.⁴ <Now the famine was very sore in the land of Kanain>, and Yaiqab heard that there was food in Matzarayam, and he sent his ten sons that they should procure food for him in Matzarayam; but Banayaman he did not send, and <the ten sons of Yaiqab> arrived <in Matzarayam> among those that went (there).⁵ And Yawasap recognised them, but they did not recognise him, and he spoke to them and questioned them, and he said to them; 'Are you not spies and have you not come to explore the approaches of the land?' And he put them in ward.⁶ And after that he set them free again, and detained Shamaiwan alone and sent off his nine brothers.⁷ And he filled their sacks with corn, and he put their gold in their sacks, and they did not know.⁸ And he commanded them to bring their younger brother, for they had told him their father was living and their younger brother.⁹ And they went up from the land of Matzarayam and they came to the land of Kanain; and they told their father all that had befallen them, and how the lord of the country had spoken roughly to them, and had seized Shamaiwan till they should bring Banayaman.¹⁰ And Yaiqab said: 'Me have you bereaved of my children! Yawasap is not and Shamaiwan also is not, and you will take Banayaman away. On me has your wickedness come.'¹¹ And he said: 'My son will not go down with you lest perchance he fall sick; for their mother gave birth to two sons, and one has perished, and this one also you will take from me. If perchance he took a fever on the road, you would bring down my old age with sorrow to death.'¹² For he saw that their money had been returned to every man in his sack, and for this reason he feared to send him.¹³ And the famine increased and became sore in the land of Kanain, and in all lands save in the land of Matzarayam, for many of the children of the Matzarayam had stored up their seed for food from the time when they saw Yawasap gathering seed together and putting it in storehouses and preserving it for the years of famine.¹⁴ And the people of Matzarayam fed themselves thereon during the first year of their famine.¹⁵ But when Yasharaal saw that the famine was very sore in the land, and that there was no deliverance, he said to his sons: 'Go again, and procure food for us that we die not.'¹⁶ And they said: 'We shall not go; unless our youngest brother go with us, we shall not go.'¹⁷ And Yasharaal saw that if he did not send him with them, they should all perish by reason of the famine.¹⁸ And Raawaban said: 'Give him into my hand, and if I do not bring him back to you, slay my two sons instead of his soul.'¹⁹ And he said to him: 'He shall not go with you.' And Yahawadah came near and said: 'Send him with me, and if I do not bring him back to you, let me bear the blame before you all the days of my life.'²⁰ And he sent him with them in the second year of this week on the [2172 A.M.] first day of the month, and they came to the land of Matzarayam with all those who went, and (they had) presents in their hands, stacte and almonds and terebith nuts and pure honey.²¹ And they went and stood before Yawasap, and he saw Banayaman his brother, and he knew him, and said to them: 'Is this your youngest brother?' And they said to him: 'It is he.' And he said 'The Adanay be gracious to you, my son!'²² And he sent him into his house and he brought forth Shamaiwan to them and he made a feast for them, and they presented to him the gift which they had brought in their hands.²³ And they eat before him and he gave them all a portion, but the portion of Banayaman was seven times larger than that of any of theirs.²⁴ And they eat and drank and arose and remained with their asses.²⁵ And Yawasap devised a plan whereby he might learn their thoughts as to whether thoughts of peace prevailed amongst them, and he said to the steward who was over his house: 'Fill all their sacks with food, and return their money to them into their vessels, and my cup, the silver cup out of which I drink, put it in the sack of the youngest, and send them away.'

43 And he did as Yawasap had told him, and filled all their sacks for them with food and put their money in their sacks, and put the cup in Benjamin's sack.² And early in the morning they departed, and it came to pass that, when they had gone from thence, Yawasap said to the steward of his house: 'Pursue them, run and seize them, saying, "For good you have requited me with evil; you have stolen from me the silver cup out of which my lord drinks." And bring back to me their youngest brother, and fetch (him) quickly before I go forth to my seat of judgment.'³ And he ran after them and said to them according to these words.⁴ And they said to him: 'Alahayam forbid that your servants should do this thing, and steal from the house of your lord any utensil, and the money also which we found in our sacks the first time, we your servants brought back from the land of Kanain.'⁵ How then should we steal any utensil? Behold here are we and our sacks search, and wherever you find the cup in the sack of any man amongst us, let him be slain, and we and our asses will serve your lord.'⁶ And he said to them: 'Not so, the man with whom I find, him only shall I take as a servant, and you shall return in peace to your house.'⁷ And as he was searching in their vessels, beginning with the eldest and ending with the youngest, it was found in Benjamin's sack.⁸ And they rent their garments, and laded their asses, and returned to the city and came to the house of Yawasap, and they all bowed themselves on their faces to the ground before him.⁹ And Yawasap said to them: 'You have done evil.' And they said: 'What shall we say and how shall we defend ourselves? Our lord has discovered the transgression of his servants; behold we are the servants of our lord, and our asses also.'¹⁰ And Yawasap said to them: 'I too fear the Adanay; as for you, go you to your homes and let your brother be my servant, for you have done evil. Know you not that a man delights in his cup as I with this cup? And yet you have stolen it from me.'¹¹ And Yahawadah said: 'O my lord, let your servant, I pray you, speak a word in my lord's ear two brothers did your servant's mother bear to our father: one went away and was lost, and has not been found, and he alone is left of his mother, and your servant our father loves him, and his life also is bound up with the life of this (lad).¹² And it will come to pass, when we go to your servant our father, and the lad is not with us, that he will die, and we shall bring down our father with sorrow to death.¹³ Now rather let me, your servant, abide instead of the boy as a bondsman to my lord, and let the lad go with his brethren, for I became surety for him at the hand of your servant our father, and if I do not bring him back, your servant will hear the blame to our father for ever.'¹⁴ And Yawasap saw that they were all accordant in goodness one with another, and he could not refrain himself, and he told them that he was Yawasap.¹⁵ And he conversed with them in the Hebrew tongue and fell on their neck and wept.¹⁶ But they knew him not and they began to weep. And he said to them: 'Weep not over me, but hasten and bring my father to me; and you see that it is my mouth that speaks and the eyes of my brother Banayaman see.'¹⁷ For behold this is the second year of the famine, and there are still five years without harvest or fruit of trees or ploughing.¹⁸ Come down quickly you and your households, so that you perish not through the famine, and do not be grieved for your possessions, for the Adanay sent me before you to set things in order that many people might live.¹⁹ And tell my father that I am still alive, and you, behold, you see that the Adanay has made me as a father to Paraih, and ruler over his house and over all the land of Matzarayam.²⁰ And tell my father of all my glory, and all the riches and glory that the Adanay has given me.'²¹ And by the command of the mouth of Paraih he gave them chariots and provisions for the way, and he gave them all many-coloured raiment and silver.²² And to their father he sent raiment and silver and ten asses which carried corn, and he sent them away.²³ And they went up and told their father that Yawasap was alive, and was measuring out corn to all the nations of the earth, and that he was ruler over all the land of Matzarayam.²⁴ And their father did not believe it, for he was beside himself in his mind; but when he saw the wagons which Yawasap had sent, the life of his spirit revived, and he said: 'It is enough for me if Yawasap lives; I will go down and see him before I die.'

44 And Yasharaal took his journey from Charan from his house on the new moon of the third month, and he went on the way of the Well of the Oath, and he offered a sacrifice to the Alahayam of his father Yatzachaq on the seventh of this month.² And Yaiqab remembered the dream that he had seen at Bethel, and he feared to go down into Matzarayam.³ And while he was thinking of sending word to Yawasap to come to him, and that he would not go down, he remained there seven days, if perchance he could see a vision as to whether he should remain or go down.⁴ And he celebrated the harvest festival of the first-fruits with old grain, for in all the land of Kanain there was not a handful of seed [in the land], for the famine was over all the beasts and cattle and birds, and also over man.⁵ And on the sixteenth the Adanay appeared to him, and said to him, 'Yaiqab, Jacob'; and he said, 'Here am I.' And He said to him: 'I am the Alahayam of your fathers, the Alahayam of Abaraham and Yatzachaq; fear not to go down into Matzarayam, for I will there make of you a great nation I will go down with you, and I will bring you up (again), and in this land shall you be buried, and Yawasap shall put his hands upon your eyes.'⁶ Fear not; go down into Matzarayam.'⁷ And his sons rose up, and his sons' sons, and they placed their father and their possessions upon wagons.⁸ And Yasharaal rose up from the Well of the Oath on the sixteenth of this third month, and he went to the land of Matzarayam.⁹ And Yasharaal sent Yahawadah before him to his son Yawasap to examine the Land of Gashan, for Yawasap had told his brothers that they should come and dwell there that they might be near him.¹⁰ And this was the goodliest (land) in the land of Matzarayam, and near to him, for all (of them) and also for the cattle.¹¹ And these are the names of the sons of Yaiqab who went into Matzarayam with Yaiqab their father.¹² Raawaban, the First-born of Yasharaal; and these are the names of his sons Chanawak, and Palawaa, and Chatzarawan and Karamay-five.¹³ Shamaiwan and his sons; and these are the names of his sons: Yamawaal, and Yamayan, and Ahad, and Yakayan, and Tzachar, and Shaawal, the son of the Zephathite woman-seven.¹⁴ Laway and his sons; and these are the names of his sons: Garashawan, and Qahath, and Mararay-four.¹⁵ Yahawadah and his sons; and these are the names of his sons: Shela, and Paratz, and Zarach-four.¹⁶ Yashashakar and his sons; and these are the names of his sons: Thawalai, and Phua, and Jasub, and Shamawar-five.¹⁷ Zebulon and his sons; and these are the names of his sons: Sarad, and Ayalawan, and Yachalaal-four.¹⁸ And these are the sons of Yaiqab and their sons whom Laah bore to Yaiqab in Aram, six, and their one sister, Dayanah and all the souls of the sons of Laah, and their sons, who went with Yaiqab their father into Matzarayam, were twenty-nine, and Yaiqab their father being with them, they were thirty.¹⁹ And the sons of Zalapah, Leah's handmaid, the wife of Yaiqab, who bore to Yaiqab Gad and Ashachawar.²⁰ And these are the names of their sons who went with him into Matzarayam. The sons of Gad: Tzapayawan, and Chagay, and Shawanay, and Atzabawan, <and Iray>, and Araalay, and Arawaday-eight.²¹ And the sons of Ashar: Yamanah, and Yashawah, <and Yashaway>, and Barayaih, and Sharach, their one sister-six.²² All the souls were fourteen, and all those of Laah were forty-four.²³ And the sons of Rachal, the wife of Yaiqab: Yawasap and Banayaman.²⁴ And there were born to Yawasap in Matzarayam before his father came into Matzarayam, those whom Asanath, daughter of Pawatayapar priest of Heliopolis bore to him, Manashah, and Aparayam-three.²⁵ And the sons of Banayaman: Balai and Bakar and Ashabal, Garaa, and Naiman, and Achay, and Raash, and Mapayam, and Chapayam, and Irad-eleven.²⁶ And all the souls of Rachal were fourteen.²⁷ And the sons of Balahah, the handmaid of Rachal, the wife of Yaiqab, whom she bore to Yaiqab, were Wadan and Napathalay.²⁸ And these are the names of their sons who went with them into Matzarayam. And the sons of Wadan were Chashayam, and Samon, and Asudi. and 'Ijaka, and Salomon-six.²⁹ And they died the year in which they entered into Matzarayam, and there was left to Wadan Chashayam alone.³⁰ And these are the names of the sons of Napathalay Yachazayaal, and Gawanay and Yatzar, and Shalawam, and 'Iv.³¹ And 'Iv, who was born after the years of famine, died in Matzarayam.³² And all the souls of Rachal were twenty-six.³³ And all the souls of Yaiqab which went into Matzarayam were seventy souls. These are his children and his children's children, in all seventy, but five died in Matzarayam before Yawasap, and had no children.³⁴ And in the land of Kanain two sons of Yahawadah died, Er and Awanan, and they had no children, and the children of Yasharaal buried those who perished, and they were reckoned among the seventy Hagawayam nations.

45 And Yasharaal went into the country of Matzarayam, into the land of Gashan, on the new moon of the fourth [2172 A.M.] month, in the second year of the third week of the forty-fifth jubilee.² And Yawasap went to meet his father Yaiqab, to the land of Gashan, and he fell on his father's neck and wept.³ And Yasharaal said to Yawasap: 'Now let me die since I have seen you, and now may the Adanay Alahayam of Yasharaal be blessed the Alahayam of Abaraham and the Alahayam of Yatzachaq who has not withheld His mercy and His grace from His servant Yaiqab.'⁴ It is enough for me that I have seen your face whilst I am yet alive; yea, true is the vision which I saw at Bethel. Blessed be the Adanay my Alahayam for ever and ever, and blessed be His name.'⁵ And Yawasap and his brothers eat bread before their father and drank wine, and Yaiqab rejoiced with exceeding great joy because he saw Yawasap eating with his brothers and drinking before him, and he blessed the Creator of all things who had preserved him, and had preserved for him his twelve sons.⁶ And Yawasap had given to his father and to his brothers as a gift the right of dwelling in the land of Gashan and in Raimasas and all the region round about, which he ruled over before Paraih. And Yasharaal and his sons dwelt in the land of Gashan, the best part of the land of Matzarayam and Yasharaal was one hundred and thirty years old when he came into Matzarayam.⁷ And Yawasap nourished his father and his brethren and also their possessions with bread as much as sufficed them for the seven years of the famine.⁸ And the land of Matzarayam suffered by reason of the famine, and Yawasap acquired all the land of Matzarayam for Paraih in return for food, and he got possession of the people and their cattle and everything for Paraih.⁹ And the years of the famine were accomplished, and Yawasap gave to the people in the land seed and food that they might sow (the land) in the eighth year, for the river had overflowed all the land of Matzarayam.¹⁰ For in the seven years of the famine it had (not) overflowed and had irrigated only a few places on the banks of the river, but now it overflowed and the Matzarayam sowed the land, and it bore much corn that year.¹¹ And this was the first year of [2178 A.M.] the fourth week of the forty-fifth jubilee.¹² And Yawasap took of the corn of the harvest the fifth part for the king and left four parts for them for food and for seed, and Yawasap made it an ordinance for the land of Matzarayam until this day.¹³ And Yasharaal lived in the land of Matzarayam seventeen years, and all the days which he lived were three jubilees, one hundred and forty-seven years, and he died in the fourth [2188 A.M.] year of the fifth week of the forty-fifth jubilee.¹⁴ And Yasharaal blessed his sons before he died and told them everything that would befall them in the land of Matzarayam; and he made known to them what would come upon them in the last days, and blessed them and gave to Yawasap two portions in the land.¹⁵ And he slept with his fathers, and he was buried in the double cave in the land of Kanain, near Abaraham his father in the grave which he dug for himself in the double cave in the land of Chabarawan.¹⁶ And he gave all his books and the books of his fathers to Laway his son that he might preserve them and renew them for his children until this day.

46 And it came to pass that after Yaiqab died the children of Yasharaal multiplied in the land of Matzarayam, and they became a great nation, and they were of one accord in heart, so that brother loved brother and every man helped his brother, and they increased abundantly and multiplied exceedingly, ten [2242 A.M.] weeks of years, all the days of the life of Yawasap.² And there was no Satan nor any evil all the days of the life of Yawasap which he lived after his father Yaiqab, for all the Matzarayam honoured the children of Yasharaal all the days of the life of Yawasap.³ And Yawasap died being a hundred and ten years old; seventeen years he lived in the land of Kanain, and ten years he was a servant, and three years in prison, and eighty years he was under the king, ruling all the land of Matzarayam.⁴ And he died and all his brethren and all that generation.⁵ And he commanded the children of Yasharaal before he died that they should carry his bones with them when they went forth from the land of Matzarayam.⁶ And he made them swear regarding his bones, for he knew that the Matzarayam would not again bring forth and bury him in the land of Kanain, for Makamaron, king of Kanain, while dwelling in the land of Ashawar, fought in the valley with the king of Matzarayam and slew him there, and pursued after the Matzarayam to the gates of 'Ermon.⁷ But he was not able to enter, for another, a new king, had become king of Matzarayam, and he was stronger than he, and he returned to the land of Kanain, and the gates of Matzarayam were closed, and none went out and none came into Matzarayam.⁸ And Yawasap died in the forty-sixth jubilee, in the sixth week, in the second year, and they buried him in the land of Matzarayam, and [2242 A.M.] all his brethren died after him.⁹ And the king of Matzarayam went forth to war with the king of Kanain [2263 A.M.] in the forty-seventh jubilee, in the second week in the second year, and the children of Yasharaal brought forth all the bones of the children of Yaiqab save the bones of Yawasap, and they buried them in the field in the double cave in the mountain.¹⁰ And the most (of them) returned to Matzarayam, but a few of them remained in the mountains of Chabarawan, and Imaram your father remained with them.¹¹ And the king of Kanain was victorious over the king of Matzarayam, and he closed the gates of Matzarayam.¹² And he devised an evil device against the children of Yasharaal of afflicting them and he said to the people of Matzarayam: 'Behold the people of the children of Yasharaal have increased and multiplied more than we.¹³ Come and let us deal wisely with them before they become too many, and let us afflict them with slavery before war come upon us and before they too fight against us; else they will join themselves to our enemies and get them up out of our land, for their hearts and faces are towards the land of Kanain.'¹⁴ And he set over them taskmasters to afflict them with slavery; and they built strong cities for Paraih, Patham, and Raimasas and they built all the walls and all the fortifications which had fallen in the cities of Matzarayam.¹⁵ And they made them serve with rigour, and the more they dealt evilly with them, the more they increased and multiplied.¹⁶ And the people of Matzarayam abominated the children of Yasharaal

47 And in the seventh week, in the seventh year, in the forty-seventh jubilee, your father went forth [2303 A.M.] from the land of Kanain, and you were born in the fourth week, in the sixth year thereof, in the [2330 A.M.] forty-eighth jubilee; this was the time of tribulation on the children of Yasharaal.² And Paraih, king of Matzarayam, issued a command regarding them that they should cast all their male children which were born into the river.³ And they cast them in for seven months until the day that you were born.⁴ And your mother hid you for three months, and they told regarding her. And she made an ark for you, and covered it with pitch and asphalt, and placed it in the flags on the bank of the river, and she placed you in it seven days, and your mother came by night and suckled you, and by day Marayam, your sister, guarded you from the birds.⁵ And in those days Tharmuth, the daughter of Paraih, came to bathe in the river, and she heard your voice crying, and she told her maidens to bring you forth, and they brought you to her.⁶ And she took you out of the ark, and she had compassion on you.⁷ And your sister said to her: 'Shall I go and call to you one of the Hebrew women to nurse and suckle this babe for you?'⁸ And she said <to her>: 'Go.' And she went and called your mother Yawakabad, and she gave her wages, and she nursed you.⁹ And afterwards, when you were grown up, they brought you to the daughter of Paraih, and you did become her son, and Imaram your father taught you writing, and after you had completed three weeks they brought you into the royal court.¹⁰ And you were three weeks of years at court until the time [2351-] when you did go forth from the royal court and did see an Matzarayam smiting your friend who was [2372 A.M.] of the children of Yasharaal, and you did slay him and hide him in the sand.¹¹ And on the second day you did and two of the children of Yasharaal striving together, and you did say to him who was doing the wrong: 'Why do you smite your brother?'¹² And he was angry and indignant, and said: 'Who made you a prince and a judge over us? Think you to kill me as you killedst the Matzarayam yesterday?' And you did fear and flee on account of these words.

48 And in the sixth year of the third week of the forty-ninth jubilee you did depart and dwell <in [2372 A.M.] the land of Madayan>, five weeks and one year. And you did return into Matzarayam in the second week in the second year in the fiftieth jubilee.² And you yourself know what He spoke to you on [2410 A.M.] Mount Sayanay, and what prince Mastêmâ desired to do with you when you were returning into Matzarayam <on the way when you did meet him at the lodging-place>.³ Did he not with all his power seek to slay you and deliver the Matzarayam out of your hand when he saw that you were sent to execute judgment and vengeance on the Matzarayam?⁴ And I delivered you out of his hand, and you did perform the signs and wonders which you were sent to perform in Matzarayam against Paraih, and against all his house, and against his servants and his people.⁵ And the Adanay executed a great vengeance on them for Israel's sake, and smote them through (the plagues of) blood and frogs, lice and dog-flies, and malignant boils breaking forth in blains; and their cattle by death; and by hail-stones, thereby He destroyed everything that grew for them; and by locusts which devoured the residue which had been left by the hail, and by darkness; and <by the death> of the first-born of men and animals, and on all their idols the Adanay took vengeance and burned them with fire.⁶ And everything was sent through your hand, that you should declare (these things)

before they were done, and you did speak with the king of Matzarayam before all his servants and before his people.⁷ And everything took place according to your words; ten great and terrible judgments came on the land of Matzarayam that you might execute vengeance on it for Yasharaal.⁸ And the Adanay did everything for Israel's sake, and according to His covenant, which he had ordained with Abaraham that He would take vengeance on them as they had brought them by force into bondage.⁹ And the prince Mastêmâ stood up against you, and sought to cast you into the hands of Paraih, and he helped the Matzarayam sorcerers,¹⁰ and they stood up and wrought before you the evils indeed we permitted them to work, but the remedies we did not allow to be wrought by their hands.¹¹ And the Adanay smote them with malignant ulcers, and they were not able to stand, for we destroyed them so that they could not perform a single sign.¹² And notwithstanding all (these) signs and wonders the prince Mastêmâ was not put to shame because he took courage and cried to the Matzarayam to pursue after you with all the powers of the Matzarayam, with their chariots, and with their horses, and with all the hosts of the peoples of Matzarayam.¹³ And I stood between the Matzarayam and Yasharaal, and we delivered Yasharaal out of his hand, and out of the hand of his people, and the Adanay brought them through the midst of the sea as if it were dry land.¹⁴ And all the peoples whom he brought to pursue after Yasharaal, the Adanay our Alahayam cast them into the midst of the sea, into the depths of the abyss beneath the children of Yasharaal, even as the people of Matzarayam had cast their children into the river. He took vengeance on 1,000,000 of them, and one thousand strong and energetic men were destroyed on account of one suckling of the children of your people which they had thrown into the river.¹⁵ And on the fourteenth day and on the fifteenth and on the sixteenth and on the seventeenth and on the eighteenth the prince Mastêmâ was bound and imprisoned behind the children of Yasharaal that he might not accuse them.¹⁶ And on the nineteenth we let them loose that they might help the Matzarayam and pursue the children of Yasharaal.¹⁷ And he hardened their hearts and made them stubborn, and the device was devised by the Adanay our Alahayam that He might smite the Matzarayam and cast them into the sea.¹⁸ And on the fourteenth we bound him that he might not accuse the children of Yasharaal on the day when they asked the Matzarayam for vessels and garments, vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and vessels of bronze, in order to despoil the Matzarayam in return for the bondage in which they had forced them to serve.¹⁹ And we did not lead forth the children of Yasharaal from Matzarayam empty handed.

49 Remember the commandment which the Adanay commanded you concerning the passover, that you should celebrate it in its season on the fourteenth of the first month, that you should kill it before it is evening, and that they should eat it by night on the evening of the fifteenth from the time of the setting of the sun.² For on this night -the beginning of the festival and the beginning of the joy- you were eating the passover in Matzarayam, when all the powers of Mastêmâ had been let loose to slay all the first-born in the land of Matzarayam, from the first-born of Paraih to the first-born of the captive maid-servant in the mill, and to the cattle.³ And this is the sign which the Adanay gave them: Into every house on the lintels of which they saw the blood of a lamb of the first year, into (that) house they should not enter to slay, but should pass by (it), that all those should be saved that were in the house because the sign of the blood was on its lintels.⁴ And the powers of the Adanay did everything according as the Adanay commanded them, and they passed by all the children of Yasharaal, and the plague came not upon them to destroy from amongst them any soul either of cattle, or man, or dog.⁵ And the plague was very grievous in Matzarayam, and there was no house in Matzarayam where there was not one dead, and weeping and lamentation.⁶ And all Yasharaal was eating the flesh of the paschal lamb, and drinking the wine, and was lauding, and blessing, and giving thanks to the Adanay Alahayam of their fathers, and was ready to go forth from under the yoke of Matzarayam, and from the evil bondage.⁷ And remember you this day all the days of your life, and observe it from year to year all the days of your life, once a year, on its day, according to all the law thereof, and do not adjourn (it) from day to day, or from month to month.⁸ For it is an eternal ordinance, and engraven on the heavenly tablets regarding all the children of Yasharaal that they should observe it every year on its day once a year, throughout all their generations; and there is no limit of days, for this is ordained for ever.⁹ And the man who is free from uncleanness, and does not come to observe it on occasion of its day, so as to bring an acceptable offering before the Adanay, and to eat and to drink before the Adanay on the day of its festival, that man who is clean and close at hand shall be cut off: because he offered not the oblation of the Adanay in its appointed season, he shall take the guilt upon himself.¹⁰ Let the children of Yasharaal come and observe the passover on the day of its fixed time, on the fourteenth day of the first month, between the evenings, from the third part of the day to the third part of the night, for two portions of the day are given to the light, and a third part to the evening.¹¹ This is that which the Adanay commanded you that you should observe it between the evenings.¹² And it is not permissible to slay it during any period of the light, but during the period bordering on the evening, and let them eat it at the time of the evening, until the third part of the night, and whatever is left over of all its flesh from the third part of the night and onwards, let them burn it with fire.¹³ And they shall not cook it with water, nor shall they eat it raw, but roast on the fire: they shall eat it with diligence, its head with the inwards thereof and its feet they shall roast with fire, and not break any bone thereof; for of the children of Yasharaal no bone shall be crushed.¹⁴ For this reason the Adanay commanded the children of Yasharaal to observe the passover on the day of its fixed time, and they shall not break a bone thereof; for it is a festival day, and a day commanded, and there may be no passing over from day to day, and month to month, but on the day of its festival let it be observed.¹⁵ And do you command the children of Yasharaal to observe the passover throughout their days, every year, once a year on the day of its fixed time, and it shall come for a memorial well pleasing before the Adanay, and no plague shall come upon them to slay or to smite in that year in which they celebrate the passover in its season in every respect according to His command.¹⁶ And they shall not eat it outside the sanctuary of the Adanay, but before the sanctuary of the Adanay, and all the people of the congregation of Yasharaal shall celebrate it in its appointed season.¹⁷ And every man who has come upon its day shall eat it in the sanctuary of your Alahayam before the Adanay from twenty years old and upward; for thus is it written and ordained that they should eat it in the sanctuary of the Adanay.¹⁸ And when the children of Yasharaal come into the land which they are to possess, into the land of Kanain, and set up the tabernacle of the Adanay in the midst of the land in one of their tribes until the sanctuary of the Adanay has been built in the land, let them come and celebrate the passover in the midst of the tabernacle of the Adanay, and let them slay it before the Adanay from year to year.¹⁹ And in the days when the house has been built in the name of the Adanay in the land of their inheritance, they shall go there and slay the passover in the evening, at sunset, at the third part of the day.²⁰ And they shall offer its blood on the threshold of the altar, and shall place its fat on the fire which is upon the altar, and they shall eat its flesh roasted with fire in the court of the house which has been sanctified in the name of the Adanay.²¹ And they may not celebrate the passover in their cities, nor in any place save before the tabernacle of the Adanay, or before His house where His name has dwelt; and they shall not go astray from the Adanay.²² And do you, Mashah, command the children of Yasharaal to observe the ordinances of the passover, as it was commanded to you; declare you to them every year and the day of its days, and the festival of unleavened bread, that they should eat unleavened bread seven days, (and) that they should observe its festival, and that they bring an oblation every day during those seven days of joy before the Adanay on the altar of your

Alahayam.²³ For you celebrated this festival with haste when you went forth from Matzarayam till you entered into the wilderness of Shawar; for on the shore of the sea you completed it.

50 And after this law I made known to you the days of the Sabbaths in the desert of Sayan[ai], which is between Ayalam and Sayanay.² And I told you of the Sabbaths of the land on Mount Sayanay, and I told you of the jubilee years in the sabbaths of years: but the year thereof have I not told you till you enter the land which you are to possess.³ And the land also shall keep its sabbaths while they dwell upon it, and they shall know the jubilee year.⁴ Therefore I have ordained for you the year-weeks and the years and the jubilees: there are forty-nine jubilees from the days of Adam until this day, [2410 A.M.] and one week and two years: and there are yet forty years to come (lit. 'distant') for learning the [2450 A.M.] commandments of the Adanay, until they pass over into the land of Kanain, crossing the Yaradan to the west.⁵ And the jubilees shall pass by, until Yasharaal is cleansed from all guilt of fornication, and uncleanness, and pollution, and sin, and error, and dwells with confidence in all the land, and there shall be no more a Satan or any evil one, and the land shall be clean from that time for evermore.⁶ And behold the commandment regarding the Sabbaths -I have written (them) down for you- and all the judgments of its laws.⁷ Six days shall you labour, but on the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Adanay your Alahayam. In it you shall do no manner of work, you and your sons, and your men- servants and your maid-servants, and all your cattle and the sojourner also who is with you.⁸ And the man that does any work on it shall die: whoever desecrates that day, whoever lies with (his) wife, or whoever says he will do something on it, that he will set out on a journey thereon in regard to any buying or selling: and whoever draws water thereon which he had not prepared for himself on the sixth day, and whoever takes up any burden to carry it out of his tent or out of his house shall die.⁹ You shall do no work whatever on the Sabbath day save what you have prepared for yourselves on the sixth day, so as to eat, and drink, and rest, and keep Sabbath from all work on that day, and to bless the Adanay your Alahayam, who has given you a day of festival and a holy day: and a day of the holy kingdom for all Yasharaal is this day among their days for ever.¹⁰ For great is the honour which the Adanay has given to Yasharaal that they should eat and drink and be satisfied on this festival day, and rest thereon from all labour which belongs to the labour of the children of men save burning frankincense and bringing oblations and sacrifices before the Adanay for days and for Sabbaths.¹¹ This work alone shall be done on the Sabbath-days in the sanctuary of the Adanay your Alahayam; that they may atone for Yasharaal with sacrifice continually from day to day for a memorial well-pleasing before the Adanay, and that He may receive them always from day to day according as you have been commanded.¹² And every man who does any work thereon, or goes a journey, or tills (his) farm, whether in his house or any other place, and whoever lights a fire, or rides on any beast, or travels by ship on the sea, and whoever strikes or kills anything, or slaughters a beast or a bird, or whoever catches an animal or a bird or a fish, or whoever fasts or makes war on the Sabbaths:¹³ The man who does any of these things on the Sabbath shall die, so that the children of Yasharaal shall observe the Sabbaths according to the commandments regarding the Sabbaths of the land, as it is written in the tablets, which He gave into my hands that I should write out for you the laws of the seasons, and the seasons according to the division of their days. Herewith is completed the account of the division of the days.

1 And Alahayam said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness, and Alahayam created man in his own image. ² And Alahayam formed man from the ground, and he blew into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul endowed with speech. ³ And the Adanay said, It is not good for man to be alone; I will make to him a helpmeet. ⁴ And the Adanay caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept, and he took away one of his ribs, and he built flesh upon it, and formed it and brought it to Adam, and Adam awoke from his sleep, and behold a woman was standing before him. ⁵ And he said, This is a bone of my bones and it shall be called woman, for this has been taken from man; and Adam called her name Chawah, for she was the mother of all living. ⁶ And Alahayam blessed them and called their names Adam and Chawah in the day that he created them, and the Adanay Alahayam said, Be fruitful and multiply and fill the earth. ⁷ And the Adanay Alahayam took Adam and his wife, and he placed them in the garden of Idan to dress it and to keep it; and he commanded them and said to them, From every tree of the garden you may eat, but from the tree of the knowledge of good and evil you shall not eat, for in the day that you eat thereof you shall surely die. ⁸ And when Alahayam had blessed and commanded them, he went from them, and Adam and his wife dwelt in the garden according to the command which the Adanay had commanded them. ⁹ And the serpent, which Alahayam had created with them in the earth, came to them to incite them to transgress the command of Alahayam which he had commanded them. ¹⁰ And the serpent enticed and persuaded the woman to eat from the tree of knowledge, and the woman hearkened to the voice of the serpent, and she transgressed the word of Alahayam, and took from the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, and she ate, and she took from it and gave also to her husband and he ate. ¹¹ And Adam and his wife transgressed the command of Alahayam which he commanded them, and Alahayam knew it, and his anger was kindled against them and he cursed them. ¹² And the Adanay Alahayam drove them that day from the garden of Idan, to till the ground from which they were taken, and they went and dwelt at the east of the garden of Idan; and Adam knew his wife Chawah and she bore two sons and three daughters. ¹³ And she called the name of the first born Qayan, saying, I have obtained a man from the Adanay, and the name of the other she called Habal, for she said, In vanity we came into the earth, and in vanity we shall be taken from it. ¹⁴ And the boys grew up and their father gave them a possession in the land; and Qayan was a tiller of the ground, and Habal a keeper of sheep. ¹⁵ And it was at the expiration of a few years, that they brought an approximating offering to the Adanay, and Qayan brought from the fruit of the ground, and Habal brought from the firstlings of his flock from the fat thereof, and Alahayam turned and inclined to Habal and his offering, and a fire came down from the Adanay from heaven and consumed it. ¹⁶ And to Qayan and his offering the Adanay did not turn, and he did not incline to it, for he had brought from the inferior fruit of the ground before the Adanay, and Qayan was jealous against his brother Habal on account of this, and he sought a pretext to slay him. ¹⁷ And in some time after, Qayan and Habal his brother, went one day into the field to do their work; and they were both in the field, Qayan tilling and ploughing his ground, and Habal feeding his flock; and the flock passed that part which Qayan had ploughed in the ground, and it sorely grieved Qayan on this account. ¹⁸ And Qayan approached his brother Habal in anger, and he said to him, What is there between me and you, that you come to dwell and bring your flock to feed in my land? ¹⁹ And Habal answered his brother Qayan and said to him, What is there between me and you, that you shall eat the flesh of my flock and clothe yourself with their wool? ²⁰ And now therefore, put off the wool of my sheep with which you have clothed yourself, and recompense me for their fruit and flesh which you have eaten, and when you shall have done this, I will then go from your land as you have said? ²¹ And Qayan said to his brother Habal, Surely if I slay you this day, who will require your blood from me? ²² And Habal answered Qayan, saying, Surely Alahayam who has made us in the earth, he will avenge my cause, and he will require my blood from you should you slay me, for the Adanay is the judge and arbiter, and it is he who repays man according to his evil, and the wicked man according to the wickedness that he works upon the earth. ²³ And now, if you should slay me here, surely Alahayam knows your secret views, and will judge you for the evil which you did declare to do to me this day. ²⁴ And when Qayan heard the words which Habal his brother had spoken, behold the anger of Qayan was kindled against his brother Habal for declaring this thing. ²⁵ And Qayan hastened and rose up, and took the iron part of his ploughing instrument, with which he suddenly smote his brother and he slew him, and Qayan spilt the blood of his brother Habal upon the earth, and the blood of Habal streamed upon the earth before the flock. ²⁶ And after this Qayan repented having slain his brother, and he was sadly grieved, and he wept over him and it vexed him exceedingly. ²⁷ And Qayan rose up and dug a hole in the field, wherein he put his brother's body, and he turned the dust over it. ²⁸ And the Adanay knew what Qayan had done to his brother, and the Adanay appeared to Qayan and said to him, Where is Habal your brother that was with you? ²⁹ And Qayan dissembled, and said, I do not know, am I my brother's keeper? And the Adanay said to him, What have you done? The voice of your brother's blood cries to me from the ground where you have slain him. ³⁰ For you have slain your brother and have dissembled before me, and did imagine in your heart that I saw you not, nor knew all your actions. ³¹ But you did this thing and did slay your brother for naught and because he spoke rightly to you, and now, therefore, cursed be you from the ground which opened its mouth to receive your brother's blood from your hand, and wherein you did bury him. ³² And it shall be when you shall till it, it shall no more give you its strength as in the beginning, for thorns and thistles shall the ground produce, and you shall be moving and wandering in the earth until the day of your death. ³³ And at that time Qayan went out from the presence of the Adanay, from the place where he was, and he went moving and wandering in the land toward the east of Idan, he and all belonging to him. ³⁴ And Qayan knew his wife in those days, and she conceived and bore a son, and he called his name Chanawak, saying, In that time the Adanay began to give him rest and quiet in the earth. ³⁵ And at that time Qayan also began to build a city: and he built the city and he called the name of the city Chanawak, according to the name of his son; for in those days the Adanay had given him rest upon the earth, and he did not move about and wander as in the beginning. ³⁶ And Iyarad was born to Chanawak, and Iyarad begat Machawayaal and Machawayaal begat Mathawashaal.

2 And it was in the hundred and thirtieth year of the life of Adam upon the earth, that he again knew Chawah his wife, and she conceived and bore a son in his likeness and in his image, and she called his name Shath, saying, Because Alahayam has appointed me another seed in the place of Habal, for Qayan has slain him. ² And Shath lived one hundred and five years, and he begat a son; and Shath called the name of his son Anawash, saying, Because in that time the sons of men began to multiply, and to afflict their souls and hearts by transgressing and rebelling against Alahayam.

³ And it was in the days of Anawash that the sons of men continued to rebel and transgress against Alahayam, to increase the anger of the Adanay against the sons of men. ⁴ And the sons of men went and they served other gods, and they forgot the Adanay who had created them in the earth: and in those days the sons of men made images of brass and iron, wood and stone, and they bowed down and served them. ⁵ And every man made his god and they bowed down to them, and the sons of men forsook the Adanay all the days of Anawash and his children; and the anger of the Adanay was kindled on account of their works and abominations which they did in the earth. ⁶ And the Adanay caused the waters of the river Gachawan to overwhelm them, and he destroyed and consumed them, and he destroyed the third part of the earth, and notwithstanding this, the sons of men did not turn from their evil ways, and their hands were yet extended to do evil in the sight of the Adanay. ⁷ And in those days there was neither sowing nor reaping in the earth; and there was no food for the sons of men and the famine was very great in those days. ⁸ And the seed which they sowed in those days in the ground became thorns, thistles and briers; for from the days of Adam was this declaration concerning the earth, of the curse of Alahayam, which he cursed the earth, on account of the sin which Adam sinned before the Adanay. ⁹ And it was when men continued to rebel and transgress against Alahayam, and to corrupt their ways, that the earth also became corrupt. ¹⁰ And Anawash lived ninety years and he begat Qayanan; ¹¹ And Qayanan grew up and he was forty years old, and he became wise and had knowledge and skill in all wisdom, and he reigned over all the sons of men, and he led the sons of men to wisdom and knowledge; for Qayanan was a very wise man and had understanding in all wisdom, and with his wisdom he ruled over spirits and demons; ¹² And Qayanan knew by his wisdom that Alahayam would destroy the sons of men for having sinned upon earth, and that the Adanay would in the latter days bring upon them the waters of the flood. ¹³ And in those days Qayanan wrote upon tablets of stone, what was to take place in time to come, and he put them in his treasures. ¹⁴ And Qayanan reigned over the whole earth, and he turned some of the sons of men to the service of Alahayam. ¹⁵ And when Qayanan was seventy years old, he begat three sons and two daughters. ¹⁶ And these are the names of the children of Qayanan; the name of the first born Mahlallel, the second Iyanan, and the third Marad, and their sisters were Idah and Tzalah; these are the five children of Qayanan that were born to him. ¹⁷ And Lamak, the son of Mathawashaal, became related to Qayanan by marriage, and he took his two daughters for his wives, and Idah conceived and bore a son to Lamak, and she called his name Yabal. ¹⁸ And she again conceived and bore a son, and called his name Yawabal; and Tzalah, her sister, was barren in those days and had no offspring. ¹⁹ For in those days the sons of men began to trespass against Alahayam, and to transgress the commandments which he had commanded to Adam, to be fruitful and multiply in the earth. ²⁰ And some of the sons of men caused their wives to drink a draught that would render them barren, in order that they might retain their figures and whereby their beautiful appearance might not fade. ²¹ And when the sons of men caused some of their wives to drink, Tzalah drank with them. ²² And the child-bearing women appeared abominable in the sight of their husbands as widows, whilst their husbands lived, for to the barren ones only they were attached. ²³ And in the end of days and years, when Tzalah became old, the Adanay opened her womb. ²⁴ And she conceived and bore a son and she called his name Thabal Qayan, saying, After I had withered away have I obtained him from the Shaday Alahayam. ²⁵ And she conceived again and bore a daughter, and she called her name Naimah, for she said, After I had withered away have I obtained pleasure and delight. ²⁶ And Lamak was old and advanced in years, and his eyes were dim that he could not see, and Thabal Qayan, his son, was leading him and it was one day that Lamak went into the field and Thabal Qayan his son was with him, and whilst they were walking in the field, Qayan the son of Adam advanced towards them; for Lamak was very old and could not see much, and Thabal Qayan his son was very young. ²⁷ And Thabal Qayan told his father to draw his bow, and with the arrows he smote Qayan, who was yet far off, and he slew him, for he appeared to them to be an animal. ²⁸ And the arrows entered Cain's body although he was distant from them, and he fell to the ground and died. ²⁹ And the Adanay requited Cain's evil according to his wickedness, which he had done to his brother Habal, according to the word of the Adanay which he had spoken. ³⁰ And it came to pass when Qayan had died, that Lamak and Thabal went to see the animal which they had slain, and they saw, and behold Qayan their grandfather was fallen dead upon the earth. ³¹ And Lamak was very much grieved at having done this, and in clapping his hands together he struck his son and caused his death. ³² And the wives of Lamak heard what Lamak had done, and they sought to kill him. ³³ And the wives of Lamak hated him from that day, because he slew Qayan and Thabal Qayan, and the wives of Lamak separated from him, and would not hearken to him in those days. ³⁴ And Lamak came to his wives, and he pressed them to listen to him about this matter. ³⁵ And he said to his wives Idah and Tzalah, Hear my voice O wives of Lamak, attend to my words, for now you have imagined and said that I slew a man with my wounds, and a child with my stripes for their having done no violence, but surely know that I am old and grey-headed, and that my eyes are heavy through age, and I did this thing unknowingly. ³⁶ And the wives of Lamak listened to him in this matter, and they returned to him with the advice of their father Adam, but they bore no children to him from that time, knowing that Alahayam's anger was increasing in those days against the sons of men, to destroy them with the waters of the flood for their evil doings. ³⁷ And Mahlallel the son of Qayanan lived sixty-five years and he begat Yarad; and Yarad lived sixty-two years and he begat Chanawak.

3 And Chanawak lived sixty-five years and he begat Mathawashalach; and Chanawak walked with Alahayam after having begot Mathawashalach, and he served the Adanay, and despised the evil ways of men. ² And the soul of Chanawak was wrapped up in the instruction of the Adanay, in knowledge and in understanding; and he wisely retired from the sons of men, and secreted himself from them for many days. ³ And it was at the expiration of many years, whilst he was serving the Adanay, and praying before him in his house, that an angel of the Adanay called to him from Heaven, and he said, Here am I. ⁴ And he said, Rise, go forth from your house and from the place where you do hide yourself, and appear to the sons of men, in order that you may teach them the way in which they should go and the work which they must accomplish to enter in the ways of Alahayam. ⁵ And Chanawak rose up according to the word of the Adanay, and went forth from his house, from his place and from the chamber in which he was concealed; and he went to the sons of men and taught them the ways of the Adanay, and at that time assembled the sons of men and acquainted them with the instruction of the Adanay. ⁶ And he ordered it to be proclaimed in all places where the sons of men dwelt, saying, Where is the man who wishes to know the ways of the Adanay and good works? let him come to Chanawak. ⁷ And all the sons of men then assembled to him, for all who desired this thing went to Chanawak, and Chanawak reigned over the sons of men according to the word of the Adanay, and they came and bowed to him and they heard his word. ⁸ And the spirit of Alahayam was upon Chanawak, and he taught all his men the wisdom of Alahayam and his ways, and the sons of men served the Adanay all the days of Chanawak, and they came to hear his wisdom. ⁹ And all the kings of the sons of men, both first and last, together with their princes and judges, came to Chanawak when they heard of his wisdom, and they bowed down to him, and they also required of Chanawak to reign over them, to which he consented. ¹⁰ And they assembled in all, one hundred and thirty kings and princes, and they made Chanawak king over them and they were all under his power and command. ¹¹ And Chanawak taught them wisdom, knowledge, and the ways of the Adanay; and he made peace amongst them, and peace was throughout the earth during the life of Chanawak. ¹² And Chanawak reigned over the sons of men two hundred and forty-three years, and he did justice and righteousness with all his people, and he led them in the ways of the Adanay.¹³ And these are the generations of Chanawak, Mathawashalach, Alayashai, and Alayamalak, three sons; and their sisters were Melca and Nahmah, and Mathawashalach lived eighty-seven years and he begat Lamak.

¹⁶ And Adam died because he ate of the tree of knowledge; he and his children after him, as the Adanay Alahayam had spoken.¹⁷ And it was in the year of Adam's death which was the two hundred and forty-third year of the reign of Chanawak, in that time Chanawak resolved to separate himself from the sons of men and to secret himself as at first in order to serve the Adanay.¹⁸ And Chanawak did so, but did not entirely secret himself from them, but kept away from the sons of men three days and then went to them for one day.

¹⁹ And during the three days that he was in his chamber, he prayed to, and praised the Adanay his Alahayam, and the day on which he went and appeared to his subjects he taught them the ways of the Adanay, and all they asked him about the Adanay he told them.

²⁰ And he did in this manner for many years, and he afterward concealed himself for six days, and appeared to his people one day in seven; and after that once in a month, and then once in a year, until all the kings, princes and sons of men sought for him, and desired again to see the face of Chanawak, and to hear his word; but they could not, as all the sons of men were greatly afraid of Chanawak, and they feared to approach him on account of the Godlike awe that was seated upon his countenance; therefore no man could look at him, fearing he might be punished and die.

²¹ And all the kings and princes resolved to assemble the sons of men, and to come to Chanawak, thinking that they might all speak to him at the time when he should come forth amongst them, and they did so.²² And the day came when Chanawak went forth and they all assembled and came to him, and Chanawak spoke to them the words of the Adanay and he taught them wisdom and knowledge, and they bowed down before him and they said, May the king live! May the king live!²³ And in some time after, when the kings and princes and the sons of men were speaking to Chanawak, and Chanawak was teaching them the ways of Alahayam, behold an angel of the Adanay then called to Chanawak from heaven, and wished to bring him up to heaven to make him reign there over the sons of Alahayam, as he had reigned over the sons of men upon earth.²⁴ When at that time Chanawak heard this he went and assembled all the inhabitants of the earth, and taught them wisdom and knowledge and gave them divine instructions, and he said to them, I have been required to ascend into heaven, I therefore do not know the day of my going.²⁵ And now therefore I will teach you wisdom and knowledge and will give you instruction before I leave you, how to act upon earth whereby you may live; and he did so.²⁶ And he taught them wisdom and knowledge, and gave them instruction, and he reproved them, and he placed before them statutes and judgments to do upon earth, and he made peace amongst them, and he taught them everlasting life, and dwelt with them some time teaching them all these things.²⁷ And at that time the sons of men were with Chanawak, and Chanawak was speaking to them, and they lifted up their eyes and the likeness of a great horse descended from heaven, and the horse paced in the air;²⁸ And they told Chanawak what they had seen, and Chanawak said to them, On my account does this horse descend upon earth; the time is come when I must go from you and I shall no more be seen by you.²⁹ And the horse descended at that time and stood before Chanawak, and all the sons of men that were with Chanawak saw him.³⁰ And Chanawak then again ordered a voice to be proclaimed, saying, Where is the man who delights to know the ways of the

Adanay his Alahayam, let him come this day to Chanawak before he is taken from us.³¹ And all the sons of men assembled and came to Chanawak that day; and all the kings of the earth with their princes and counsellors remained with him that day; and Chanawak then taught the sons of men wisdom and knowledge, and gave them divine instruction; and he bade them serve the Adanay and walk in his ways all the days of their lives, and he continued to make peace amongst them.³² And it was after this that he rose up and rode upon the horse; and he went forth and all the sons of men went after him, about eight hundred thousand men; and they went with him one day's journey.³³ And the second day he said to them, Return home to your tents, why will you go? perhaps you may die; and some of them went from him, and those that remained went with him six day's journey; and Chanawak said to them every day, Return to your tents, lest you may die; but they were not willing to return, and they went with him.³⁴ And on the sixth day some of the men remained and clung to him, and they said to him, We will go with you to the place where you go; as the Adanay lives, death only shall separate us.³⁵ And they urged so much to go with him, that he ceased speaking to them; and they went after him and would not return;³⁶ And when the kings returned they caused a census to be taken, in order to know the number of remaining men that went with Chanawak; and it was upon the seventh day that Chanawak ascended into heaven in a whirlwind, with horses and chariots of fire.³⁷ And on the eighth day all the kings that had been with Chanawak sent to bring back the number of men that were with Chanawak, in that place from which he ascended into heaven.³⁸ And all those kings went to the place and they found the earth there filled with snow, and upon the snow were large stones of snow, and one said to the other, Come, let us break through the snow and see, perhaps the men that remained with Chanawak are dead, and are now under the stones of snow, and they searched but could not find him, for he had ascended into heaven.

4 And all the days that Chanawak lived upon earth, were three hundred and sixty-five years.² And when Chanawak had ascended into heaven, all the kings of the earth rose and took Mathawashalach his son and anointed him, and they caused him to reign over them in the place of his father.³ And Mathawashalach acted uprightly in the sight of Alahayam, as his father Chanawak had taught him, and he likewise during the whole of his life taught the sons of men wisdom, knowledge and the fear of Alahayam, and he did not turn from the good way either to the right or to the left.⁴ But in the latter days of Mathawashalach, the sons of men turned from the Adanay, they corrupted the earth, they robbed and plundered each other, and they rebelled against Alahayam and they transgressed, and they corrupted their ways, and would not hearken to the voice of Mathawashalach, but rebelled against him.⁵ And the Adanay was exceedingly wroth against them, and the Adanay continued to destroy the seed in those days, so that there was neither sowing nor reaping in the earth.⁶ For when they sowed the ground in order that they might obtain food for their support, behold, thorns and thistles were produced which they did not sow.⁷ And still the sons of men did not turn from their evil ways, and their hands were still extended to do evil in the sight of Alahayam, and they provoked the Adanay with their evil ways, and the Adanay was very wroth, and repented that he had made man.⁸ And he thought to destroy and annihilate them and he did so.⁹ In those days when Lamak the son of Mathawashalach was one hundred and sixty years old, Shath the son of Adam died.¹⁰ And all the days that Shath lived, were nine hundred and twelve years, and he died.¹¹ And Lamak was one hundred and eighty years old when he took Ashmua, the daughter of Elishaa the son of Chanawak his uncle, and she conceived.¹² And at that time the sons of men sowed the ground, and a little food was produced, yet the sons of men did not turn from their evil ways, and they trespassed and rebelled against Alahayam.¹³ And the wife of Lamak conceived and bore him a son at that time, at the revolution of the year.¹⁴ And Mathawashalach called his name Nach, saying, The earth was in his days at rest and free from corruption, and Lamak his father called his name

Manacham, saying, This one shall comfort us in our works and miserable toil in the earth, which Alahayam had cursed.¹⁵ And the child grew up and was weaned, and he went in the ways of his father Mathawashalach, perfect and upright with Alahayam.¹⁶ And all the sons of men departed from the ways of the Adanay in those days as they multiplied upon the face of the earth with sons and daughters, and they taught one another their evil practices and they continued sinning against the Adanay.¹⁷ And every man made to himself a god, and they robbed and plundered every man his neighbor as well as his relative, and they corrupted the earth, and the earth was filled with violence.¹⁸ And their judges and rulers went to the daughters of men and took their wives by force from their husbands according to their choice, and the sons of men in those days took from the cattle of the earth, the beasts of the field and the fowls of the air, and taught the mixture of animals of one species with the other, in order therewith to provoke the Adanay; and Alahayam saw the whole earth and it was corrupt, for all flesh had corrupted its ways upon earth, all men and all animals.¹⁹ And the Adanay said, I will blot out man that I created from the face of the earth, yea from man to the birds of the air, together with cattle and beasts that are in the field for I repent that I made them.²⁰ And all men who walked in the ways of the Adanay, died in those days, before the Adanay brought the evil upon man which he had declared, for this was from the Adanay, that they should not see the evil which the Adanay spoke of concerning the sons of men.²¹ And Nach found grace in the sight of the Adanay, and the Adanay chose him and his children to raise up seed from them upon the face of the whole earth.

5 And it was in the eighty-fourth year of the life of Nach, that Chanawak the son of Shath died, he was nine hundred and five years old at his death.² And in the one hundred and seventy ninth year of the life of Nach, Qayanan the son of Anawash died, and all the days of Qayanan were nine hundred and ten years, and he died.³ And in the two hundred and thirty fourth year of the life of Nach, Mahlallel the son of Qayanan died, and the days of Mahlallel were eight hundred and ninety-five years, and he died.⁴ And Yarad the son of Mahlallel died in those days, in the three hundred and thirty-sixth year of the life of Nach; and all the days of Yarad were nine hundred and sixty-two years, and he died.⁵ And all who followed the Adanay died in those days, before they saw the evil which Alahayam declared to do upon earth.⁶ And after the lapse of many years, in the four hundred and eightieth year of the life of Nach, when all those men, who followed the Adanay had died away from amongst the sons of men, and only Mathawashalach was then left, Alahayam said to Nach and Mathawashalach, saying,⁷ Speak you, and proclaim to the sons of men, saying, Thus says the Adanay, return from your evil ways and forsake your works, and the Adanay will repent of the evil that he declared to do to you, so that it shall not come to pass.⁸ For thus says the Adanay, Behold I give you a period of one hundred and twenty years; if you will turn to me and forsake your evil ways, then will I also turn away from the evil which I told you, and it shall not exist, says the Adanay.⁹ And Nach and Mathawashalach spoke all the words of the Adanay to the sons of men, day after day, constantly speaking to them.¹⁰ But the sons of men would not hearken to them, nor incline their ears to their words, and they were stiffnecked.¹¹ And the Adanay granted them a period of one hundred and twenty years, saying, If they will return, then will Alahayam repent of the evil, so as not to destroy the earth.¹² Nach the son of Lamak refrained from taking a wife in those days, to beget children, for he said, Surely now Alahayam will destroy the earth, therefore then shall I beget children?¹³ And Nach was a just man, he was perfect in his generation, and the Adanay chose him to raise up seed from his seed upon the face of the earth.¹⁴ And the Adanay said to Nach, Take to you a wife, and beget children, for I have seen you righteous before me in this generation.¹⁵ And you shall raise up seed, and your children with you, in the midst of the earth; and Nach went and took a wife, and he chose Naimah the daughter of Chanawak, and she was five hundred and eighty years old.¹⁶ And

Nach was four hundred and ninety-eight years old, when he took Naimah for a wife.¹⁷ And Naimah conceived and bore a son, and he called his name Yapath, saying, Alahayam has enlarged me in the earth; and she conceived again and bore a son, and he called his name Sham, saying, Alahayam has made me a remnant, to raise up seed in the midst of the earth.¹⁸ And Nach was five hundred and two years old when Naimah bore Sham, and the boys grew up and went in the ways of the Adanay, in all that Mathawashalach and Nach their father taught them.¹⁹ And Lamak the father of Nach, died in those days; yet truly he did not go with all his heart in the ways of his father, and he died in the hundred and ninety-fifth year of the life of Nach.²⁰ And all the days of Lamak were seven hundred and seventy years, and he died.²¹ And all the sons of men who knew the Adanay, died in that year before the Adanay brought evil upon them; for the Adanay willed them to die, so as not to behold the evil that Alahayam would bring upon their brothers and relatives, as he had so declared to do.²² In that time, the Adanay said to Nach and Mathawashalach, Stand forth and proclaim to the sons of men all the words that I spoke to you in those days, peradventure they may turn from their evil ways, and I will then repent of the evil and will not bring it.²³ And Nach and Mathawashalach stood forth, and said in the ears of the sons of men, all that Alahayam had spoken concerning them.²⁴ But the sons of men would not hearken, neither would they incline their ears to all their declarations.²⁵ And it was after this that the Adanay said to Nach, The end of all flesh is come before me, on account of their evil deeds, and behold I will destroy the earth.²⁶ And do you take to you gopher wood, and go to a certain place and make a large ark, and place it in that spot.²⁷ And thus shall you make it; three hundred cubits its length, fifty cubits broad and thirty cubits high.²⁸ And you shall make to you a door, open at its side, and to a cubit you shall finish above, and cover it within and without with pitch.²⁹ And behold I will bring the flood of waters upon the earth, and all flesh be destroyed, from under the heavens all that is upon earth shall perish.³⁰ And you and your household shall go and gather two couple of all living things, male and female, and shall bring them to the ark, to raise up seed from them upon earth.³¹ And gather to you all food that is eaten by all the animals, that there may be food for you and for them.³² And you shall choose for your sons three maidens, from the daughters of men, and they shall be wives to your sons.³³ And Nach rose up, and he made the ark, in the place where Alahayam had commanded him, and Nach did as Alahayam had ordered him.³⁴ In his five hundred and ninety-fifth year Nach commenced to make the ark, and he made the ark in five years, as the Adanay had commanded.³⁵ Then Nach took the three daughters of Alayaqayam, son of Mathawashalach, for wives for his sons, as the Adanay had commanded Nach.³⁶ And it was at that time Mathawashalach the son of Chanawak died, nine hundred and sixty years old was he, at his death.

6 At that time, after the death of Mathawashalach, the Adanay said to Nach, Go you with your household into the ark; behold I will gather to you all the animals of the earth, the beasts of the field and the fowls of the air, and they shall all come and surround the ark.² And you shall go and seat yourself by the doors of the ark, and all the beasts, the animals, and the fowls, shall assemble and place themselves before you, and such of them as shall come and crouch before you, shall you take and deliver into the hands of your sons, who shall bring them to the ark, and all that will stand before you you shall leave.³ And the Adanay brought this about on the next day, and animals, beasts and fowls came in great multitudes and surrounded the ark.⁴ And Nach went and seated himself by the door of the ark, and of all flesh that crouched before him, he brought into the ark, and all that stood before him he left upon earth.⁵ And a lioness came, with her two whelps, male and female, and the three crouched before Nach, and the two whelps rose up against the lioness and smote her, and made her flee from her place, and she went away, and they returned to their places, and crouched upon the earth before Nach.⁶ And the lioness ran away, and stood in the place of the lions.⁷ And Nach saw this, and wondered greatly, and he rose and took the two whelps, and brought them into the ark.⁸ And Nach brought into the ark from all living creatures that were upon earth, so that there was none left but which Nach brought into the ark.⁹ Two and two came to Nach into the ark, but from the clean animals, and clean fowls, he brought seven couples, as Alahayam had commanded him.¹⁰ And all the animals, and beasts, and fowls, were still there, and they surrounded the ark at every place, and the rain had not descended till seven days after.¹¹ And on that day, the Adanay caused the whole earth to shake, and the sun darkened, and the foundations of the world raged, and the whole earth was moved violently, and the lightning flashed, and the thunder roared, and all the fountains in the earth were broken up, such as was not known to the inhabitants before; and Alahayam did this mighty act, in order to terrify the sons of men, that there might be no more evil upon earth.¹² And still the sons of men would not return from their evil ways, and they increased the anger of the Adanay at that time, and did not even direct their hearts to all this.¹³ And at the end of seven days, in the six hundredth year of the life of Nach, the waters of the flood were upon the earth.¹⁴ And all the fountains of the deep were broken up, and the windows of heaven were opened, and the rain was upon the earth forty days and forty nights.¹⁵ And Nach and his household, and all the living creatures that were with him, came into the ark on account of the waters of the flood, and the Adanay shut him in.¹⁶ And all the sons of men that were left upon the earth, became exhausted through evil on account of the rain, for the waters were coming more violently upon the earth, and the animals and beasts were still surrounding the ark.¹⁷ And the sons of men assembled together, about seven hundred thousand men and women, and they came to Nach to the ark.¹⁸ And they called to Nach, saying, Open for us that we may come to you in the ark--and therefore shall we die?¹⁹ And Nach, with a loud voice, answered them from the ark, saying, Have you not all rebelled against the Adanay, and said that he does not exist? and therefore the Adanay brought upon you this evil, to destroy and cut you off from the face of the earth.²⁰ Is not this the thing that I spoke to you of one hundred and twenty years back, and you would not hearken to the voice of the Adanay, and now do you desire to live upon earth?²¹ And they said to Nach, We are ready to return to the Adanay; only open for us that we may live and not die.²² And Nach answered them, saying, Behold now that you see the trouble of your souls, you wish to return to the Adanay; why did you not return during these hundred and twenty years, which the Adanay granted you as the determined period?²³ But now you come and tell me this on account of the troubles of your souls, now also the Adanay will not listen to you, neither will he give ear to you on this day, so that you will not now succeed in your wishes.²⁴ And the sons of men approached in order to break into the ark, to come in on account of the rain, for they could not bear the rain upon them.²⁵ And the Adanay sent all the beasts and animals that stood round the ark. And the beasts overpowered them and drove them from that place, and every man went his way and they again scattered themselves upon the face of the earth.²⁶ And the rain was still descending upon the earth, and it descended forty days and forty nights, and the waters prevailed greatly upon the earth; and all flesh that was upon the earth or in the waters died, whether men, animals, beasts, creeping things or birds of the air, and there only remained Nach and those that were with him in the ark.²⁷ And the waters prevailed and they greatly increased upon the earth, and they lifted up the ark and it was raised from the earth.²⁸ And the ark floated upon the face of the waters, and it was tossed upon the waters so that all the living creatures within were turned about like pottage in a cauldron.²⁹ And great anxiety seized all the living creatures that were in the ark, and the ark was like to be broken.³⁰ And all the living creatures that were in the ark were terrified, and the lions roared, and the oxen lowed, and the wolves howled, and every living creature in the ark spoke and lamented in its own language, so that their voices reached to a great distance, and Nach and his sons cried and wept in their troubles; they were greatly afraid that they had reached the gates of death.³¹ And Nach prayed to the Adanay, and cried to him on account of this, and he said, O Adanay help us, for we have no strength to bear this evil that has encompassed us, for the waves of the waters have surrounded us, mischievous torrents have terrified us, the snares of death have come before us; answer us, O Adanay, answer us, light up your countenance toward us and be gracious to us, redeem us and deliver us.³² And the Adanay hearkened to the voice of Nach, and the Adanay remembered him.³³ And a wind passed over the earth, and the waters were still and the ark rested.³⁴ And the fountains of the deep and the windows of heaven were stopped, and the rain from heaven was restrained.³⁵ And the waters decreased in those days, and the ark rested upon the mountains of Ararat.³⁶ And Nach then opened the windows of the ark, and Nach still called out to the Adanay at that time and he said, O Adanay, who did form the earth and the heavens and all that are therein, bring forth our souls from this confinement, and from the prison wherein you have placed us, for I am much wearied with sighing.³⁷ And the Adanay hearkened to the voice of Nach, and said to him, When though shall have completed a full year you shall then go forth.³⁸ And at the revolution of the year, when a full year was completed to Noah's dwelling in the ark, the waters were dried from off the earth, and Nach put off the covering of the ark.³⁹ At that time, on the twenty-seventh day of the second month, the earth was dry, but Nach and his sons, and those that were with him, did not go out from the ark until the Adanay told them.⁴⁰ And the day came that the Adanay told them to go out, and they all went out from the ark.⁴¹ And they went and returned every one to his way and to his place, and Nach and his sons dwelt in the land that Alahayam had told them, and they served the Adanay all their days, and the Adanay blessed Nach and his sons on their going out from the ark.⁴² And he said to them, Be fruitful and fill all the earth; become strong and increase abundantly in the earth and multiply therein.

7 And these are the names of the sons of Nach: Yapath, Cham and Sham; and children were born to them after the flood, for they had taken wives before the flood.² These are the sons of Yapath; Gamar, Magawag, Maday, Yawan, Thabal, Mashak, and Thayaras, seven sons.³ And the sons of Gamar were Askinaz, Rephath and Tegarmah.⁴ And the sons of Magawag were Elichanaf and Lubal.⁵ And the children of Maday were Achon, Zeelo, Chazoni and Lawat.⁶ And the sons of Yawan were Alayashai, Tharashayash, Kathayam and Dudonim.⁷ And the sons of Thabal were Aripshi, Kashad and Taari.⁸ And the sons of Mashak were Dedon, Zaron and Shebashni.⁹ And the sons of Thayaras were Benib, Garaa, Lupirion and Gilak; these are the sons of Yapath according to their families, and their numbers in those days were about four hundred and sixty men.¹⁰ And these are the sons of Cham; Kawash, Mitzraim, Pawat and Kanain, four sons; and the sons of Kawash were Sabaa, Chawayalah, Sabathaa, Raama and Satecha, and the sons of Raama were Shabaa and Dadan.¹¹ And the sons of Mitzraim were Lawad, Anom and Patharawas, Chasloth and Chapthor.¹² And the sons of Pawat were Gebul, Hadan, Benah and Adan.¹³ And the sons of Kanain were Tzayadawan, Chath, Amori, Gergashi, Hivi, Arkee, Seni, Arawaday, Zimodi and Chamothi.¹⁴ These are the sons of Cham, according to their families, and their numbers in those days were about seven hundred and thirty men.¹⁵ And these are the sons of Sham; Iyalam, Ashachawar, Arpachshad, Lawad and Aram, five sons; and the sons of Iyalam were Shawashan, Machul and Harmon.¹⁶ And the sons of Ashar were Mirus and Mokil, and the sons of Arpachshad were Shalach, Anar and Ashcol.¹⁷ And the sons of Lawad were Pathawar and Bizayon, and the sons of Aram were Uz, Chawal, Gather and Mash.¹⁸ These are the sons of Sham, according to their families; and their numbers in those days were about three hundred men.¹⁹ These are the generations of Sham; Sham begat Arpachshad and Arpachshad begat Shalach, and Shalach begat Ibar and to Ibar were born two children, the name of one was Palag, for in his days the sons of men were divided, and in the latter days, the earth was divided.²⁰ And the name of the second was Yoktan, meaning that in his day the lives of the sons of men were diminished and lessened.²¹ These are the sons of Yoktan; Alamawadad, Shelaf, Chazarmoveth, Yarach,

Hadurom, Ozel, Daqalah, Iwabal, Abayamaal, Shabaa, Awapayar, Chawayalah and Yawabab; all these are the sons of Yoktan.²² And Palag his brother begat Yen, and Yen begat Sharawag, and Sharawag begat Nachawar and Nachawar begat Tharach, and Tharach was thirty-eight years old, and he begat Charan and Nachawar.²³ And Kawash the son of Cham, the son of Nach, took a wife in those days in his old age, and she bore a son, and they called his name Namarad, saying, At that time the sons of men again began to rebel and transgress against Alahayam, and the child grew up, and his father loved him exceedingly, for he was the son of his old age.²⁴ And the garments of skin which Alahayam made for Adam and his wife, when they went out of the garden, were given to Kawash.²⁵ For after the death of Adam and his wife, the garments were given to Chanawak, the son of Yarad, and when Chanawak was taken up to Alahayam, he gave them to Mathawashalach, his son.²⁶ And at the death of Mathawashalach, Nach took them and brought them to the ark, and they were with him until he went out of the ark.²⁷ And in their going out, Cham stole those garments from Nach his father, and he took them and hid them from his brothers.²⁸ And when Cham begat his first born Kawash, he gave him the garments in secret, and they were with Kawash many days.²⁹ And Kawash also concealed them from his sons and brothers, and when Kawash had begotten Namarad, he gave him those garments through his love for him, and Namarad grew up, and when he was twenty years old he put on those garments.³⁰ And Namarad became strong when he put on the garments, and Alahayam gave him might and strength, and he was a mighty hunter in the earth, yea, he was a mighty hunter in the field, and he hunted the animals and he built altars, and he offered upon them the animals before the Adanay.³¹ And Namarad strengthened himself, and he rose up from amongst his brethren, and he fought the battles of his brethren against all their enemies round about.³² And the Adanay delivered all the enemies of his brethren in his hands, and Alahayam prospered him from time to time in his battles, and he reigned upon earth.³³ Therefore it became current in those days, when a man ushered forth those that he had trained up for battle, he would say to them, Like Alahayam did to Namarad, who was a mighty hunter in the earth, and who succeeded in the battles that prevailed against his brethren, that he delivered them from the hands of their enemies, so may Alahayam strengthen us and deliver us this day.³⁴ And when Namarad was forty years old, at that time there was a war between his brethren and the children of Yapath, so that they were in the power of their enemies.³⁵ And Namarad went forth at that time, and he assembled all the sons of Kawash and their families, about four hundred and sixty men, and he hired also from some of his friends and acquaintances about eighty men, and he gave them their hire, and he went with them to battle, and when he was on the road, Namarad strengthened the hearts of the people that went with him.³⁶ And he said to them, Do not fear, neither be alarmed, for all our enemies will be delivered into our hands, and you may do with them as you please.³⁷ And all the men that went were about five hundred, and they fought against their enemies, and they destroyed them, and subdued them, and Namarad placed standing officers over them in their respective places.³⁸ And he took some of their children as security, and they were all servants to Namarad and to his brethren, and Namarad and all the people that were with him turned homeward.³⁹ And when Namarad had joyfully returned from battle, after having conquered his enemies, all his brethren, together with those who knew him before, assembled to make him king over them, and they placed the regal crown upon his head.⁴⁰ And he set over his subjects and people, princes, judges, and rulers, as is the custom amongst kings.⁴¹ And he placed Tharach the son of Nachawar the prince of his host, and he dignified him and elevated him above all his princes.⁴² And whilst he was reigning according to his heart's desire, after having conquered all his enemies around, he advised with his counselors to build a city for his palace, and they did so.⁴³ And they found a large valley opposite to the east, and they built him a large and extensive city, and Namarad called the name of the city that he built Shanair, for the Adanay had vehemently shaken his enemies and destroyed them.⁴⁴ And Namarad dwelt in Shanair, and he reigned securely, and he fought with his enemies and he subdued them, and he prospered in all his battles, and his kingdom became very great.⁴⁵ And all nations and tongues heard of his fame, and they gathered themselves to him, and they bowed down to the earth, and they brought him offerings, and he became their lord and king, and they all dwelt with him in the city at Shanair, and Namarad reigned in the earth over all the sons of Nach, and they were all under his power and counsel.⁴⁶ And all the earth was of one tongue and words of union, but Namarad did not go in the ways of the Adanay, and he was more wicked than all the men that were before him, from the days of the flood until those days.⁴⁷ And he made gods of wood and stone, and he bowed down to them, and he rebelled against the Adanay, and taught all his subjects and the people of the earth his wicked ways; and Mardon his son was more wicked than his father.⁴⁸ And every one that heard of the acts of Mardon the son of Namarad would say, concerning him, From the wicked goes forth wickedness; therefore it became a proverb in the whole earth, saying, From the wicked goes forth wickedness, and it was current in the words of men from that time to this.⁴⁹ And Tharach the son of Nachawar, prince of Nimrod's host, was in those days very great in the sight of the king and his subjects, and the king and princes loved him, and they elevated him very high.⁵⁰ And Tharach took a wife and her name was Amthelo the daughter of Cornebo; and the wife of Tharach conceived and bore him a son in those days.⁵¹ Tharach was seventy years old when he begat him, and Tharach called the name of his son that was born to him Abaram, because the king had raised him in those days, and dignified him above all his princes that were with him.

8 And it was in the night that Abaram was born, that all the servants of Tharach, and all the wise men of Namarad, and his conjurors came and ate and drank in the house of Tharach, and they rejoiced with him on that night.² And when all the wise men and conjurors went out from the house of Tharach, they lifted up their eyes toward heaven that night to look at the stars, and they saw, and behold one very large star came from the east and ran in the heavens, and he swallowed up the four stars from the four sides of the heavens.³ And all the wise men of the king and his conjurors were astonished at the sight, and the sages understood this matter, and they knew its import.⁴ And they said to each other, This only betokens the child that has been born to Tharach this night, who will grow up and be fruitful, and multiply, and possess all the earth, he and his children for ever, and he and his seed will slay great kings, and inherit their lands.⁵ And the wise men and conjurors went home that night, and in the morning all these wise men and conjurors rose up early, and assembled in an appointed house.⁶ And they spoke and said to each other, Behold the sight that we saw last night is hidden from the king, it has not been made known to him.⁷ And should this thing get known to the king in the latter days, he will say to us, Why have you concealed this matter from me, and then we shall all suffer death; therefore, now let us go and tell the king the sight which we saw, and the interpretation thereof, and we shall then remain clear.⁸ And they did so, and they all went to the king and bowed down to him to the ground, and they said, May the king live, may the king live.⁹ We heard that a son was born to Tharach the son of Nachawar, the prince of your host, and we yesternight came to his house, and we ate and drank and rejoiced with him that night.¹⁰ And when your servants went out from the house of Tharach, to go to our respective homes to abide there for the night, we lifted up our eyes to heaven, and we saw a great star coming from the east, and the same star ran with great speed, and swallowed up four great stars, from the four sides of the heavens.¹¹ And your servants were astonished at the sight which we saw, and were greatly terrified, and we made our judgment upon the sight, and knew by our wisdom the proper interpretation thereof, that this thing applies to the child that is born to Tharach, who will grow up and multiply greatly, and become powerful, and kill all the kings of the earth, and inherit all their lands, he and his seed forever.¹² And now our lord and king, behold we have truly acquainted you with what we have seen concerning this child.¹³ If it seems good to the king to give his father value for this child, we will slay him before he shall grow up and increase in the land, and his evil increase against us, that we and our children perish through his evil.¹⁴ And the king heard their words and they seemed good in his sight, and he sent and called for Tharach, and Tharach came before the king.¹⁵ And the king said to Tharach, I have been told that a son was yesternight born to you, and after this manner was observed in the heavens at his birth.¹⁶ And now therefore give me the child, that we may slay him before his evil springs up against us, and I will give you for his value, your house full of silver and gold.¹⁷ And Tharach answered the king and said to him: My Adanay and king, I have heard your words, and your servant shall do all that his king desires.¹⁸ But my lord and king, I will tell you what happened to me yesternight, that I may see what advice the king will give his servant, and then I will answer the king upon what he has just spoken; and the king said, Speak.¹⁹ And Tharach said to the king, Ayon, son of Mored, came to me yesternight, saying,²⁰ Give to me the great and beautiful horse that the king gave you, and I will give you silver and gold, and straw and provender for its value; and I said to him, Wait till I see the king concerning your words, and behold whatever the king says, that will I do.²¹ And now my lord and king, behold I have made this thing known to you, and the advice which my king will give to his servant, that will I follow.²² And the king heard the words of Tharach, and his anger was kindled and he considered him in the light of a fool.²³ And the king answered Tharach, and he said to him, Are you so silly, ignorant, or deficient in understanding, to do this thing, to give your beautiful horse for silver and gold or even for straw and provender?²⁴ Are you so short of silver and gold, that you should do this thing, because you can not obtain straw and provender to feed your horse? and what is silver and gold to you, or straw and provender, that you should give away that fine horse which I gave you, like which there is none to be had on the whole earth?²⁵ And the king left off speaking, and Tharach answered the king, saying, Like to this has the king spoken to his servant;²⁶ I beseech you, my lord and king, what is this which you did say to me, saying, Give your son that we may slay him, and I will give you silver and gold for his value; what shall I do with silver and gold after the death of my son? who shall inherit me? surely then at my death, the silver and gold will return to my king who gave it.²⁷ And when the king heard the words of Tharach, and the parable which he brought concerning the king, it grieved him greatly and he was vexed at this thing, and his anger burned within him.²⁸ And Tharach saw that the anger of the king was kindled against him, and he answered the king, saying, All that I have is in the king's power; whatever the king desires to do to his servant, that let him do, yea, even my son, he is in the king's power, without value in exchange, he and his two brothers that are older than he.²⁹ And the king said to Tharach, No, but I will purchase your younger son for a price.³⁰ And Tharach answered the king, saying, I beseech you my lord and king to let your servant speak a word before you, and let the king hear the word of his servant, and Tharach said, Let my king give me three days' time till I consider this matter within myself, and consult with my family concerning the words of my king; and he pressed the king greatly to agree to this.³¹ And the king hearkened to Tharach, and he did so and he gave him three days' time, and Tharach went out from the king's presence, and he came home to his family and spoke to them all the words of the king; and the people were greatly afraid.³² And it was in the third day that the king sent to Tharach, saying, Send me your son for a price as I spoke to you; and should you not do this, I will send and slay all you have in your house, so that you shall not even have a dog remaining.³³ And Tharach hastened, (as the thing was urgent from the king), and he took a child from one of his servants, which his handmaid had born to him that day, and Tharach brought the child to the king and received value for him.³⁴ And the Adanay was with

Tharach in this matter, that Namarad might not cause Abram's death, and the king took the child from Tharach and with all his might dashed his head to the ground, for he thought it had been Abaram; and this was concealed from him from that day, and it was forgotten by the king, as it was the will of Providence not to suffer Abram's death.³⁵ And Tharach took Abaram his son secretly, together with his mother and nurse, and he concealed them in a cave, and he brought them their provisions monthly.³⁶ And the Adanay was with Abaram in the cave and he grew up, and Abaram was in the cave ten years, and the king and his princes, soothsayers and sages, thought that the king had killed Abaram.

9 And Charan, the son of Tharach, Abram's oldest brother, took a wife in those days.² Charan was thirty-nine years old when he took her; and the wife of Charan conceived and bore a son, and he called his name Lawat.³ And she conceived again and bore a daughter, and she called her name Milca; and she again conceived and bore a daughter, and she called her name Sharay.⁴ Charan was forty-two years old when he begat Sharay, which was in the tenth year of the life of Abaram; and in those days Abaram and his mother and nurse went out from the cave, as the king and his subjects had forgotten the affair of Abaram.⁵ And when Abaram came out from the cave, he went to Nach and his son Sham, and he remained with them to learn the instruction of the Adanay and his ways, and no man knew where Abaram was, and Abaram served Nach and Sham his son for a long time.⁶ And Abaram was in Noah's house thirty-nine years, and Abaram knew the Adanay from three years old, and he went in the ways of the Adanay until the day of his death, as Nach and his son Sham had taught him; and all the sons of the earth in those days greatly transgressed against the Adanay, and they rebelled against him and they served other gods, and they forgot the Adanay who had created them in the earth; and the inhabitants of the earth made to themselves, at that time, every man his god; gods of wood and stone which could neither speak, hear, nor deliver, and the sons of men served them and they became their gods.⁷ And the king and all his servants, and Tharach with all his household were then the first of those that served gods of wood and stone.⁸ And Tharach had twelve gods of large size, made of wood and stone, after the twelve months of the year, and he served each one monthly, and every month Tharach would bring his meat offering and drink offering to his gods; thus did Tharach all the days.⁹ And all that generation were wicked in the sight of the Adanay, and they thus made every man his god, but they forsook the Adanay who had created them.¹⁰ And there was not a man found in those days in the whole earth, who knew the Adanay (for they served each man his own Alahayam) except Nach and his household, and all those who were under his counsel knew the Adanay in those days.¹¹ And Abaram the son of Tharach was waxing great in those days in the house of Nach, and no man knew it, and the Adanay was with him.¹² And the Adanay gave Abaram an understanding heart, and he knew all the works of that generation were vain, and that all their gods were vain and were of no avail.¹³ And Abaram saw the sun shining upon the earth, and Abaram said to himself Surely now this sun that shines upon the earth is Alahayam, and him will I serve.¹⁴ And Abaram served the sun in that day and he prayed to him, and when evening came the sun set as usual, and Abaram said within himself, Surely this cannot be Alahayam?¹⁵ And Abaram still continued to speak within himself, Who is he who made the heavens and the earth? who created upon earth? where is he?¹⁶ And night darkened over him, and he lifted up his eyes toward the west, north, south, and east, and he saw that the sun had vanished from the earth, and the day became dark.¹⁷ And Abaram saw the stars and moon before him, and he said, Surely this is the Alahayam who created the whole earth as well as man, and behold these his servants are gods around him: and Abaram served the moon and prayed to it all that night.¹⁸ And in the morning when it was light and the sun shone upon the earth as usual, Abaram saw all the things that the Adanay Alahayam had made upon earth.¹⁹ And Abaram said to himself Surely these are not gods that made the earth and all mankind, but these are the servants of Alahayam, and Abaram remained in the house of Nach and there knew the Adanay and his ways' and he served the Adanay all the days of his life, and all that generation forgot the Adanay, and served other gods of wood and stone, and rebelled all their days.²⁰ And king Namarad reigned securely, and all the earth was under his control, and all the earth was of one tongue and words of union.²¹ And all the princes of Namarad and his great men took counsel together; Pawat, Mitzraim, Kawash and Kanain with their families, and they said to each other, Come let us build ourselves a city and in it a strong tower, and its top reaching heaven, and we will make ourselves famed, so that we may reign upon the whole world, in order that the evil of our enemies may cease from us, that we may reign mightily over them, and that we may not become scattered over the earth on account of their wars.²² And they all went before the king, and they told the king these words, and the king agreed with them in this affair, and he did so.²³ And all the families assembled consisting of about six hundred thousand men, and they went to seek an extensive piece of ground to build the city and the tower, and they sought in the whole earth and they found none like one valley at the east of the land of Shanair, about two days' walk, and they journeyed there and they dwelt there.²⁴ And they began to make bricks and burn fires to build the city and the tower that they had imagined to complete.²⁵ And the building of the tower was to them a transgression and a sin, and they began to build it, and whilst they were building against the Adanay Alahayam of heaven, they imagined in their hearts to war against him and to ascend into heaven.²⁶ And all these people and all the families divided themselves in three parts; the first said We will ascend into heaven and fight against him; the second said, We will ascend to heaven and place our own gods there and serve them; and the third part said, We will ascend to heaven and smite him with bows and spears; and Alahayam knew all their works and all their evil thoughts, and he saw the city and the tower which they were building.²⁷ And when they were building they built themselves a great city and a very high and strong tower; and on account of its height the mortar and bricks did not reach the builders in their ascent to it, until those who went up had completed a full year, and after that, they reached to the builders and gave them the mortar and the bricks; thus was it done daily.²⁸ And behold these ascended and others descended the whole day; and if a brick should fall from their hands and get broken, they would all weep over it, and if a man fell and died, none of them would look at him.²⁹ And the Adanay knew their thoughts, and it came to pass when they were building they cast the arrows toward the heavens, and all the arrows fell upon them filled with blood, and when they saw them they said to each other, Surely we have slain all those that are in heaven.³⁰ For this was from the Adanay in order to cause them to err, and in order; to destroy them from off the face of the ground.³¹ And they built the tower and the city, and they did this thing daily until many days and years were elapsed.³² And Alahayam said to the seventy angels who stood foremost before him, to those who were near to him, saying, Come let us descend and confuse their tongues, that one man shall not understand the language of his neighbor, and they did so to them.³³ And from that day following, they forgot each man his neighbor's tongue, and they could not understand to speak in one tongue, and when the builder took from the hands of his neighbor lime or stone which he did not order, the builder would cast it away and throw it upon his neighbor, that he would die.³⁴ And they did so many days, and they killed many of them in this manner.³⁵ And the Adanay smote the three divisions that were there, and he punished them according to their works and designs; those who said, We will ascend to heaven and serve our gods, became like apes and elephants; and those who said, We will smite the heaven with arrows, the Adanay killed them, one man through the hand of his neighbor; and the third division of those who said, We will ascend to heaven and fight against him, the Adanay scattered them throughout the earth.³⁶ And those who were left amongst them, when they knew and understood the evil which was coming upon them, they forsook the building, and they also became scattered upon the face of the whole earth.³⁷ And they ceased building the city and the tower; therefore he called that place Babal, for there the Adanay confounded the Language of the whole earth; behold it was at the east of the land of Shanair.³⁸ And as to the tower which the sons of men built, the earth opened its mouth and swallowed up one third part thereof, and a fire also descended from heaven and burned another third, and the other third is left to this day, and it is of that part which was aloft, and its circumference is three days' walk.³⁹ And many of the sons of men died in that tower, a people without number.

10 And Palag the son of Ibar died in those days, in the forty-eighth year of the life of Abaram son of Tharach, and all the days of Palag were two hundred and thirty-nine years.² And when the Adanay had scattered the sons of men on account of their sin at the tower, behold they spread forth into many divisions, and all the sons of men were dispersed into the four corners of the earth.³ And all the families became each according to its language, its land, or its city.⁴ And the sons of men built many cities according to their families, in all the places where they went, and throughout the earth where the Adanay had scattered them.⁵ And some of them built cities in places from which they were afterward extirpated, and they called these cities after their own names, or the names of their children, or after their particular occurrences.⁶ And the sons of Yapath the son of Nach went and built themselves cities in the places where they were scattered, and they called all their cities after their names, and the sons of Yapath were divided upon the face of the earth into many divisions and languages.⁷ And these are the sons of Yapath according to their families, Gamar, Magawag, Medai, Yawan, Thabal, Mashak and Thayaras; these are the children of Yapath according to their generations.⁸ And the children of Gamar, according to their cities, were the Francum, who dwell in the land of Franza, by the river Franza, by the river Senah.⁹ And the children of Rephath are the Bartonim, who dwell in the land of Bartonim by the river Ledah, which empties its waters in the great sea Gachawan, that is, oceanus.¹⁰ And the children of Tugarma are ten families, and these are their names: Buzar, Parzunac, Balgar, Elicanum, Ragbib, Tarki, Bid, Zebuc, Ongal and Tilmaz; all these spread and rested in the north and built themselves cities.¹¹ And they called their cities after their own names, those are they who abide by the rivers Hithlah and Italac to this day.¹² But the families of Angoli, Balgar and Parzunac, they dwell by the great river Dubnee; and the names of their cities are also according to their own names.¹³ And the children of Yawan are the Javanim who dwell in the land of Makdonia, and the children of Medaiare are the Orelum that dwell in the land of Curson, and the children of Thabal are those that dwell in the land of Tuskanah by the river Pashiah.¹⁴ And the children of Mashak are the Shibashni and the children of Thayaras are Rushash, Cushni, and Ongolis; all these went and built themselves cities; those are the cities that are situate by the sea Jabus by the river Cura, which empties itself in the river Tragan.¹⁵ And the children of Alayashah are the Almanim, and they also went and built themselves cities; those are the cities situate between the mountains of Ayawab and Shibathmo; and of them were the people of Lumbardi who dwell opposite the mountains of Ayawab and Shibathmo, and they conquered the land of Italia and remained there to this day.¹⁶ And the children of Kathayam are the Romim who dwell in the valley of Canopia by the river Tibreu.¹⁷ And the children of Dudonim are those who dwell in the cities of the sea Gachawan, in the land of Bordna.¹⁸ These are the families of the children of Yapath according to their cities and languages, when they were scattered after the tower, and they called their cities after their names and occurrences; and these are the names of all their cities according to their families, which they built in those days after the tower.¹⁹ And the children of Cham were Kawash, Mitzraim, Pawat and Kanain according to their generation and cities.²⁰ All these went and built themselves cities as they found fit places for them, and they called their cities after the names of their fathers Kawash, Mitzraim, Pawat and Kanain.²¹ And the children of Mitzraim are the Lawadayayam, Inamayam, Lahabayam, Napathachayam, Patharasayam, Casluchim and Caphturim, seven families.²² All these dwell by the river Shayachawar, that is the brook of Matzarayam, and they built themselves cities and called them after their own names.²³ And the children of Patharawas and Casloch intermarried together, and from them went forth the Pelishtim, the Azathim, and the Gerarim, the Githim and the Ekronim, in all five families; these also built themselves cities, and they called their cities after the names of their fathers to this day.²⁴ And the children of Kanain also built themselves cities, and they called their cities after their names, eleven cities and others without number.²⁵ And four men from the family of Cham went to the land of the plain; these are the names of the four men, Sadam, Imarah, Adamah and Zeboyim.²⁶ And these men built themselves four cities in the land of the plain, and they called the names of their cities after their own names.²⁷ And they and their children and all belonging to them dwelt in those cities, and they were fruitful and multiplied greatly and dwelt peaceably.²⁸ And Shaiyar the son of Chawar, son of Hivi, son of Kanain, went and found a valley opposite to Mount Paaran, and he built a city there, and he and his seven sons and his household dwelt there, and he called the city which he built Shaiyar, according to his name; that is the land of Shaiyar to this day.²⁹ These are the families of the children of Cham, according to their languages and cities, when they were scattered to their countries after the tower.³⁰ And some of the children of Sham son of Nach, father of all the children of Ibar, also went and built themselves cities in the places wherein they were scattered, and they called their cities after their names.³¹ And the sons of Sham were Iyalam, Ashachawar, Arpachshad, Lawad and Aram, and they built themselves cities and called the names of all their cities after their names.³² And Ashachawar son of Sham and his children and household went forth at that time, a very large body of them, and they went to a distant land that they found, and they met with a very extensive valley in the land that they went to, and they built themselves four cities, and they called them after their own names and occurrences.³³ And these are the names of the cities which the children of Ashachawar built, Ninevah, Rasan, Calach and Rehobother; and the children of Ashachawar dwell there to this day.³⁴ And the children of Aram also went and built themselves a city, and they called the name of the city Uz after their eldest brother, and they dwell therein; that is the land of Uz to this day.³⁵ And in the second year after the tower a man from the house of Ashachawar, whose name was Balai, went from the land of Ninevah to sojourn with his household wherever he could find a place; and they came until opposite the cities of the plain against Sadam, and they dwelt there.³⁶ And the man rose up and built there a small city, and called its name Balai, after his name; that is the land of Tzair to this day.³⁷ And these are the families of the children of Sham according to their language and cities, after they were scattered upon the earth after the tower.³⁸ And every kingdom, city, and family of the families of the children of Nach built themselves many cities after this.³⁹ And they established governments in all their cities, in order to be regulated by their orders; so did all the families of the children of Nach forever.

11 And Namarad son of Kawash was still in the land of Shanair, and he reigned over it and dwelt there, and he built cities in the land of Shanair.² And these are the names of the four cities which he built, and he called their names after the occurrences that happened to them in the building of the tower.³ And he called the first Babal, saying, Because the Adanay there confounded the language of the whole earth; and the name of the second he called Arak, because from there Alahayam dispersed them.⁴ And the third he called Eched, saying there was a great battle at that place; and the fourth he called Calnah, because his princes and mighty men were consumed there, and they vexed the Adanay, they rebelled and transgressed against him.⁵ And when Namarad had built these cities in the land of Shanair, he placed in them the remainder of his people, his princes and his mighty men that were left in his kingdom.⁶ And Namarad dwelt in Babal, and he there renewed his reign over the rest of his subjects, and he reigned securely, and the subjects and princes of Namarad called his name Amarapal, saying that at the tower his princes and men fell through his means.⁷ And notwithstanding this, Namarad did not return to the Adanay, and he continued in wickedness and teaching wickedness to the sons of men; and Mardon, his son, was worse than his father, and continued to add to the abominations of his father.⁸ And he caused the sons of men to sin, therefore it is said, From the wicked goes forth wickedness.⁹ At that time there was war between the families of the children of Cham, as they were dwelling in the cities which they had built.¹⁰ And Kadaralaimar, king of Iyalam, went away from the families of the children of Cham, and he fought with them and he subdued them, and he went to the five cities of the plain and he fought against them and he subdued them, and they were under his control.¹¹ And they served him twelve years, and they gave him a yearly tax.¹² At that time died Nachawar, son of Sharawag, in the forty-ninth year of the life of Abaram son of Tharach.¹³ And in the fiftieth year of the life of Abaram son of Tharach, Abaram came forth from the house of Nach, and went to his father's house.¹⁴ And Abaram knew the Adanay, and he went in his ways and instructions, and the Adanay his Alahayam was with him.¹⁵ And Tharach his father was in those days, still captain of the host of king Namarad, and he still followed strange gods.¹⁶ And Abaram came to his father's house and saw twelve gods standing there in their temples, and the anger of Abaram was kindled when he saw these images in his father's house.¹⁷ And Abaram said, As the Adanay lives these images shall not remain in my father's house; so shall the Adanay who created me do to me if in three days' time I do not break them all.¹⁸ And Abaram went from them, and his anger burned within him. And Abaram hastened and went from the chamber to his father's outer court, and he found his father sitting in the court, and all his servants with him, and Abaram came and sat before him.¹⁹ And Abaram asked his father, saying, Father, tell me where is Alahayam who created heaven and earth, and all the sons of men upon earth, and who created you and me. And Tharach answered his son Abaram and said, Behold those who created us are all with us in the house.²⁰ And Abaram said to his father, My lord, show them to me I pray you; and Tharach brought Abaram into the chamber of the inner court, and Abaram saw, and behold the whole room was full of gods of wood and stone, twelve great images and others less than they without number.²¹ And Tharach said to his son, Behold these are they which made all you see upon earth, and which created me and you, and all mankind.²² And Tharach bowed down to his gods, and he then went away from them, and Abaram, his son, went away with him.²³ And when Abaram had gone from them he went to his mother and sat before her, and he said to his mother, Behold, my father has shown me those who made heaven and earth, and all the sons of men.²⁴ Now, therefore, hasten and fetch a kid from the flock, and make of it savory meat, that I may bring it to my father's gods as an offering for them to eat; perhaps I may thereby become acceptable to them.²⁵ And his mother did so, and she fetched a kid, and made savory meat thereof, and brought it to Abaram, and Abaram took the savory meat from his mother and brought it before his father's gods, and he drew nigh to them that they might eat; and Tharach his father, did not know of it.²⁶ And Abaram saw on the day when he was sitting amongst them, that they had no voice, no hearing, no motion, and not one of them could stretch forth his hand to eat.²⁷ And Abaram mocked them, and said, Surely the savory meat that I prepared has not pleased them, or perhaps it was too little for them, and for that reason they would not eat; therefore tomorrow I will prepare fresh savory meat, better and more plentiful than this, in order that I may see the result.²⁸ And it was on the next day that Abaram directed his mother concerning the savory meat, and his mother rose and fetched three fine kids from the flock, and she made of them some excellent savory meat, such as her son was fond of, and she gave it to her son Abaram; and Tharach his father did not know of it.²⁹ And Abaram took the savory meat from his mother, and brought it before his father's gods into the chamber; and he came nigh to them that they might eat, and he placed it before them, and Abaram sat before them all day, thinking perhaps they might eat.³⁰ And Abaram viewed them, and behold they had neither voice nor hearing, nor did one of them stretch forth his hand to the meat to eat.³¹ And in the evening of that day in that house Abaram was clothed with the spirit of Alahayam.³² And he called out and said, Wo to my father and this wicked generation, whose hearts are all inclined to vanity, who serve these idols of wood and stone which can neither eat, smell, hear nor speak, who have mouths without speech, eyes without sight, ears without hearing, hands without feeling, and legs which cannot move; like them are those that made them and that trust in them.³³ And when Abaram saw all these things his anger was kindled against his father, and he hastened and took a hatchet in his hand, and came to the chamber of the gods, and he broke all his father's gods.³⁴ And when he had done breaking the images, he placed the hatchet in the hand of the great god which was there before them, and he went out; and Tharach his father came home, for he had heard at the door the sound of the striking of the hatchet; so Tharach came into the house to know what this was about.³⁵ And Tharach, having heard the noise of the hatchet in the room of images, ran to the room to the images, and he met Abaram going out.³⁶ And Tharach entered the room and found all the idols fallen down and broken, and the hatchet in the hand of the largest, which was not broken, and the savory meat which Abaram his son had made was still before them.³⁷ And when Tharach saw this his anger was greatly kindled, and he hastened and went from the room to Abaram.³⁸ And he found Abaram his son still sitting in the house; and he said to him, What is this work you have done to my gods?³⁹ And Abaram answered Tharach his father and he said, Not so my lord, for I brought savory meat before them, and when I came nigh to them with the meat that they might eat, they all at once stretched forth their hands to eat before the great one had put forth his hand to eat.⁴⁰ And the large one saw their works that they did before him, and his anger was violently kindled against them, and he went and took the hatchet that was in the house and came to them and broke them all, and behold the hatchet is yet in his hand as you see.⁴¹ And Terah's anger was kindled against his son Abaram, when he spoke this; and Tharach said to Abaram his son in his anger, What is this tale that you have told? You speak lies to me.⁴² Is there in these gods spirit, soul or power to do all you have told me? Are they not wood and stone, and have I not myself made them, and can you speak such lies, saying that the large god that was with them smote them? It is you that did place the hatchet in his hands, and then say he smote them all.⁴³ And Abaram answered his father and said to him, And how can you then serve these idols in whom there is no power to do any thing? Can those idols in which you trust deliver you? can they hear your prayers when you call upon them? can they deliver you from the hands of your enemies, or will they fight your battles for you against your enemies, that you should serve wood and stone which can neither speak nor hear?⁴⁴ And now surely it is not good for you nor for the sons of men that are connected with you, to do these things; are you so silly, so foolish or so short of understanding that you will serve wood and stone, and do after this manner?⁴⁵ And forget the Adanay Alahayam who made heaven and earth, and who created you in the earth, and thereby bring a great evil upon your souls in this matter by serving stone and wood?⁴⁶ Did not our fathers in days of old sin in this matter, and the Adanay Alahayam of the universe brought the waters of the flood upon them and destroyed the whole earth?⁴⁷ And how can you continue to do this and serve gods of wood and stone, who cannot hear, or speak, or deliver you from oppression, thereby bringing down the anger of the Alahayam of the universe upon you?⁴⁸ Now therefore my father refrain from this, and bring not evil upon your soul and the souls of your household.⁴⁹ And Abaram hastened and sprang from before his father, and took the hatchet from his father's largest idol, with which Abaram broke it and ran away.⁵⁰ And Tharach, seeing all that Abaram had done, hastened to go from his house, and he went to the king and he came before Namarad and stood before him, and he bowed down to the king; and the king said,

What do you want?⁵¹ And he said, I beseech you my lord, to hear me--Now fifty years back a child was born to me, and thus has he done to my gods and thus has he spoken; and now therefore, my lord and king, send for him that he may come before you, and judge him according to the law, that we may be delivered from his evil.⁵² And the king sent three men of his servants, and they went and brought Abaram before the king. And Namarad and all his princes and servants were that day sitting before him, and Tharach sat also before them.⁵³ And the king said to Abaram, What is this that you have done to your father and to his gods? And Abaram answered the king in the words that he spoke to his father, and he said, The large god that was with them in the house did to them what you have heard.⁵⁴ And the king said to Abaram, Had they power to speak and eat and do as you have said? And Abaram answered the king, saying, And if there be no power in them why do you serve them and cause the sons of men to err through your follies?⁵⁵ Do you imagine that they can deliver you or do anything small or great, that you should serve them? And why will you not sense the Alahayam of the whole universe, who created you and in whose power it is to kill and keep alive?⁵⁶ O foolish, simple, and ignorant king, woe to you forever.⁵⁷ I thought you would teach your servants the upright way, but you have not done this, but have filled the whole earth with your sins and the sins of your people who have followed your ways.⁵⁸ Do you not know, or have you not heard, that this evil which you do, our ancestors sinned therein in days of old, and the eternal Alahayam brought the waters of the flood upon them and destroyed them all, and also destroyed the whole earth on their account? And will you and your people rise up now and do like to this work, in order to bring down the anger of the Adanay Alahayam of the universe, and to bring evil upon you and the whole earth?⁵⁹ Now therefore put away this evil deed which you do, and serve the Alahayam of the universe, as your soul is in his hands, and then it will be well with you.⁶⁰ And if your wicked heart will not hearken to my words to cause you to forsake your evil ways, and to serve the eternal Alahayam, then will you die in shame in the latter days, you, your people and all who are connected with you, hearing your words or walking in your evil ways.⁶¹ And when Abaram had ceased speaking before the king and princes, Abaram lifted up his eyes to the heavens, and he said, The Adanay sees all the wicked, and he will judge them.

12 And when the king heard the words of Abaram he ordered him to be put into prison; and Abaram was ten days in prison.² And at the end of those days the king ordered that all the kings, princes and governors of different provinces and the sages should come before him, and they sat before him, and Abaram was still in the house of confinement.³ And the king said to the princes and sages, Have you heard what Abaram, the son of Tharach, has done to his father? Thus has he done to him, and I ordered him to be brought before me, and thus has he spoken; his heart did not misgive him, neither did he stir in my presence, and behold now he is confined in the prison.⁴ And therefore decide what judgment is due to this man who reviled the king; who spoke and did all the things that you heard.⁵ And they all answered the king saying, The man who revileth the king should be hanged upon a tree; but having done all the things that he said, and having despised our gods, he must therefore be burned to death, for this is the law in this matter.⁶ If it pleases the king to do this, let him order his servants to kindle a fire both night and day in your brick furnace, and then we will cast this man into it. And the king did so, and he commanded his servants that they should prepare a fire for three days and three nights in the king's furnace, that is in Casdim; and the king ordered them to take Abaram from prison and bring him out to be burned.⁷ And all the king's servants, princes, lords, governors, and judges, and all the inhabitants of the land, about nine hundred thousand men, stood opposite the furnace to see Abaram.⁸ And all the women and little ones crowded upon the roofs and towers to see what was doing with Abaram, and they all stood together at a distance; and there was not a man left that did not come on that day to behold the scene.⁹ And when Abaram was come, the conjurers of the king and the sages saw Abaram, and they cried out to the king, saying, Our sovereign lord, surely this is the man whom we know to have been the child at whose birth the great star swallowed the four stars, which we declared to the king now fifty years since. ¹⁰ And behold now his father has also transgressed your commands, and mocked you by bringing you another child, which you did kill. ¹¹ And when the king heard their words, he was exceedingly wroth, and he ordered Tharach to be brought before him. ¹² And the king said, Have you heard what the conjurors have spoken? Now tell me truly, how did you; and if you shall speak truth you shall be acquitted. ¹³ And seeing that the king's anger was so much kindled, Tharach said to the king, My lord and king, you have heard the truth, and what the sages have spoken is right. And the king said, How could you do this thing, to transgress my orders and to give me a child that you did not beget, and to take value for him? ¹⁴ And Tharach answered the king, Because my tender feelings were excited for my son, at that time, and I took a son of my handmaid, and I brought him to the king. ¹⁵ And the king said Who advised you to this? Tell me, do not hide aught from me, and then you shall not die. ¹⁶ And Tharach was greatly terrified in the king's presence, and he said to the king, It was Charan my eldest son who advised me to this; and Charan was in those days that Abaram was born, two and thirty years old. ¹⁷ But Charan did not advise his father to anything, for Tharach said this to the king in order to deliver his soul from the king, for he feared greatly; and the king said to Tharach, Charan your son who advised you to this shall die through fire with Abaram; for the sentence of death is upon him for having rebelled against the king's desire in doing this thing. ¹⁸ And Charan at that time felt inclined to follow the ways of Abaram, but he kept it within himself. ¹⁹ And Charan said in his heart, Behold now the king has seized Abaram on account of these things which Abaram did, and it shall come to pass, that if Abaram prevail over the king I will follow him, but if the king prevail I will go after the king. ²⁰ And when Tharach had spoken this to the king concerning Charan his son, the king ordered Charan to be seized with Abaram. ²¹ And they brought them both, Abaram and Charan his brother, to cast them into the fire; and all the inhabitants of the land and the king's servants and princes and all the women and little ones were there, standing that day over them. ²² And the king's servants took Abaram and his brother, and they stripped them of all their clothes excepting their lower garments which were upon them. ²³ And they bound their hands and feet with linen cords, and the servants of the king lifted them up and cast them both into the furnace. ²⁴ And the Adanay loved Abaram and he had compassion over him, and the Adanay came down and delivered Abaram from the fire and he was not burned. ²⁵ But all the cords with which they bound him were burned, while Abaram remained and walked about in the fire. ²⁶ And Charan died when they had cast him into the fire, and he was burned to ashes, for his heart was not perfect with the Adanay; and those men who cast him into the fire, the flame of the fire spread over them, and they were burned, and twelve men of them died. ²⁷ And Abaram walked in the midst of the fire three days and three nights, and all the servants of the king saw him walking in the fire, and they came and told the king, saying, Behold we have seen Abaram walking about in the midst of the fire, and even the lower garments which are upon him are not burned, but the cord with which he was bound is burned. ²⁸ And when the king heard their words his heart faintened and he would not believe them; so he sent other faithful princes to see this matter, and they went and saw it and told it to the king; and the king rose to go and see it, and he saw Abaram walking to and fro in the midst of the fire, and he saw Haran's body burned, and the king wondered greatly. ²⁹ And the king ordered Abaram to be taken out from the fire; and his servants approached to take him out and they could not, for the fire was round about and the flame ascending toward them from the furnace. ³⁰ And the king's servants fled from it, and the king rebuked them, saying, Make haste and bring Abaram out of the fire that you shall not die. ³¹ And the servants of the king again approached to bring Abaram out, and the flames came upon them and burned their faces so that eight of them died.

troops.⁵⁴ And as to what you have said concerning three men which you did see like to yourself, and which did escape, this means that only you will escape with three kings from the kings of the earth who will be with you in battle.⁵⁵ And that which you saw of the river which turned to an egg as at first, and the young bird plucking out your eye, this means nothing else but the seed of Abaram which will slay the king in latter days.⁵⁶ This is my king's dream, and this is its interpretation, and the dream is true, and the interpretation which your servant has given you is right.⁵⁷ Now therefore my king, surely you know that it is now fifty-two years since your sages saw this at the birth of Abaram, and if my king will suffer Abaram to live in the earth it will be to the injury of my lord and king, for all the days that Abaram lives neither you nor your kingdom will be established, for this was known formerly at his birth; and why will not my king slay him, that his evil may be kept from you in latter days?⁵⁸ And Namarad hearkened to the voice of Anuki, and he sent some of his servants in secret to go and seize Abaram, and bring him before the king to suffer death.⁵⁹ And Alayaizar, Abram's servant whom the king had given him, was at that time in the presence of the king, and he heard what Anuki had advised the king, and what the king had said to cause Abram's death.⁶⁰ And Alayaizar said to Abaram, Hasten, rise up and save your soul, that you may not die through the hands of the king, for thus did he see in a dream concerning you, and thus did Anuki interpret it, and thus also did Anuki advise the king concerning you.⁶¹ And Abaram hearkened to the voice of Alayaizar, and Abaram hastened and ran for safety to the house of Nach and his son Sham, and he concealed himself there and found a place of safety; and the king's servants came to Abram's house to seek him, but they could not find him, and they searched through out the country and he was not to be found, and they went and searched in every direction and he was not to be met with.⁶² And when the king's servants could not find Abaram they returned to the king, but the king's anger against Abaram was stilled, as they did not find him, and the king drove from his mind this matter concerning Abaram.⁶³ And Abaram was concealed in Noah's house for one month, until the king had forgotten this matter, but Abaram was still afraid of the king; and Tharach came to see Abaram his son secretly in the house of Nach, and Tharach was very great in the eyes of the king.⁶⁴ And Abaram said to his father, Do you not know that the king thinks to slay me, and to annihilate my name from the earth by the advice of his wicked counsellors?⁶⁵ Now whom have you here and what have you in this land? Arise, let us go together to the land of Kanain, that we may be delivered from his hand, lest you perish also through him in the latter days.⁶⁶ Do you not know or have you not heard, that it is not through love that Namarad gives you all this honor, but it is only for his benefit that he bestows all this good upon you?⁶⁷ And if he do to you greater good than this, surely these are only vanities of the world, for wealth and riches cannot avail in the day of wrath and anger.⁶⁸ Now therefore hearken to my voice, and let us arise and go to the land of Kanain, out of the reach of injury from Namarad; and serve you the Adanay who created you in the earth and it will be well with you; and cast away all the vain things which you pursue.⁶⁹ And Abaram ceased to speak, when Nach and his son Sham answered Tharach, saying, True is the word which Abaram has said to you.⁷⁰ And Tharach hearkened to the voice of his son Abaram, and Tharach did all that Abaram said, for this was from the Adanay, that the king should not cause Abram's death.

13 And Tharach took his son Abaram and his grandson Lawat, the son of Charan, and Sharay his daughter-in-law, the wife of his son Abaram, and all the souls of his household and went with them from Ur Casdim to go to the land of Kanain. And when they came as far as the land of Charan they remained there, for it was exceedingly good land for pasture, and of sufficient extent for those who accompanied them.² And the people of the land of Charan saw that Abaram was good and upright with Alahayam and men, and that the Adanay his Alahayam was with him, and some of the people of the land of Charan came and joined Abaram, and he taught them the instruction of the Adanay and his ways; and these men remained with Abaram in his house and they adhered to him.

³ And Abaram remained in the land three years, and at the expiration of three years the Adanay appeared to Abaram and said to him; I am the Adanay who brought you forth from Ur Casdim, and delivered you from the hands of all your enemies.⁴ And now therefore if you will hearken to my voice and keep my commandments, my statutes and my laws, then will I cause your enemies to fall before you, and I will multiply your seed like the stars of heaven, and I will send my blessing upon all the works of your hands, and you shall lack nothing.⁵ Arise now, take your wife and all belonging to you and go to the land of Kanain and remain there, and I will there be to you for a Alahayam, and I will bless you. And Abaram rose and took his wife and all belonging to him, and he went to the land of Kanain as the Adanay had told him; and Abaram was fifty years old when he went from Charan.⁶ And Abaram came to the land of Kanain and dwelt in the midst of the city, and he there pitched his tent amongst the children of Kanain, inhabitants of the land.⁷ And the Adanay appeared to Abaram when he came to the land of Kanain, and said to him, This is the land which I gave to you and to your seed after you forever, and I will make your seed like the stars of heaven, and I will give to your seed for an inheritance all the lands which you see.⁸ And Abaram built an altar in the place where Alahayam had spoken to him, and Abaram there called upon the name of the Adanay.⁹ At that time, at the end of three years of Abram's dwelling in the land of Kanain, in that year Nach died, which was the fifty-eighth year of the life of Abaram; and all the days that Nach lived were nine hundred and fifty years and he died.¹⁰ And Abaram dwelt in the land of Kanain, he, his wife, and all belonging to him, and all those that accompanied him, together with those that joined him from the people of the land; but Nachawar, Abram's brother, and Tharach his father, and Lawat the son of Charan and all belonging to them dwelt in Charan.¹¹ In the fifth year of Abram's dwelling in the land of Kanain the people of Sadam and Imarah and all the cities of the plain revolted from the power of Kadaralaimar, king of Iyalam; for all the kings of the cities of the plain had served Kadaralaimar for twelve years, and given him a yearly tax, but in those days in the thirteenth year, they rebelled against him.¹² And in the tenth year of Abram's dwelling in the land of Kanain there was war between Namarad king of Shanair and Kadaralaimar king of Iyalam, and Namarad came to fight with Kadaralaimar and to subdue him.¹³ For Kadaralaimar was at that time one of the princes of the hosts of Namarad, and when all the people at the tower were dispersed and those that remained were also scattered upon the face of the earth, Kadaralaimar went to the land of Iyalam and reigned over it and rebelled against his lord.¹⁴ And in those days when Namarad saw that the cities of the plain had rebelled, he came with pride and anger to war with Kadaralaimar, and Namarad assembled all his princes and subjects, about seven hundred thousand men, and went against Kadaralaimar, and Kadaralaimar went out to meet him with five thousand men, and they prepared for battle in the valley of Babal which is between Iyalam and Shanair.¹⁵ And all those kings fought there, and Namarad and his people were smitten before the people of Kadaralaimar, and there fell from Nimrod's men about six hundred thousand, and Mardon the king's son fell amongst them.¹⁶ And Namarad fled and returned in shame and disgrace to his land, and he was under subjection to Kadaralaimar for a long time, and Kadaralaimar returned to his land and sent princes of his host to the kings that dwelt around him, to Arayawak king of Elasar, and to Thadail king of Goyim, and made a covenant with them, and they were all obedient to his commands.¹⁷ And it was in the fifteenth year of Abram's dwelling in the land of Kanain, which is the seventieth year of the life of Abaram, and the Adanay appeared to Abaram in that year and he said to him, I am the Adanay who brought you out from Ur Casdim to give you this land for an inheritance.¹⁸ Now therefore walk before me and be perfect and keep my commands, for to you and to your seed I will give this land for an inheritance, from the river Mitzraim to the great river Parath.¹⁹ And you shall come to your fathers in peace and in good age, and the fourth generation shall return here in this land and shall inherit it forever; and Abaram built an altar, and he called upon the name of the Adanay who appeared to him, and he brought up sacrifices upon the altar to the Adanay.²⁰ At that time Abaram returned and went to Charan to see his father and mother, and his father's household, and Abaram and his wife and all belonging to him returned to Charan, and Abaram dwelt in Charan five years.²¹ And many of the people of Charan, about seventy-two men, followed Abaram and Abaram taught them the instruction of the Adanay and his ways, and he taught them to know the Adanay.²² In those days the Adanay appeared to Abaram in Charan, and he said to him, Behold, I spoke to you these twenty years back saying,²³ Go forth from your land, from your birth-place and from your father's house, to the land which I have shown you to give it to you and to your children, for there in that land will I bless you, and make you a great nation, and make your name great, and in you shall the families of the earth be blessed.²⁴ Now therefore arise, go forth from this place, you, your wife, and all belonging to you, also every one born in your house and all the souls you have made in Charan, and bring them out with you from here, and rise to return to the land of Kanain.²⁵ And Abaram arose and took his wife Sharay and all belonging to him and all that were born to him in his house and the souls which they had made in Charan, and they came out to go to the land of Kanain.²⁶ And Abaram went and returned to the land of Kanain, according to the word of the Adanay. And Lawat the son of his brother Charan went with him, and Abaram was seventy-five years old when he went forth from Charan to return to the land of Kanain.²⁷ And he came to the land of Kanain according to the word of the Adanay to Abaram, and he pitched his tent and he dwelt in the plain of Mamaraa, and with him was Lawat his brother's son, and all belonging to him.²⁸ And the Adanay again appeared to Abaram and said, To your seed will I give this land; and he there built an altar to the Adanay who appeared to him, which is still to this day in the plains of Mamaraa.

14 In those days there was in the land of Shanair a wise man who had understanding in all wisdom, and of a beautiful appearance, but he was poor and indigent; his name was Rikayon and he was hard set to support himself.² And he resolved to go to Matzarayam, to Oswiris the son of Anom king of Matzarayam, to show the king his wisdom; for perhaps he might find grace in his sight, to raise him up and give him maintenance; and Rikayon did so.³ And when Rikayon came to Matzarayam he asked the inhabitants of Matzarayam concerning the king, and the inhabitants of Matzarayam told him the custom of the king of Matzarayam, for it was then the custom of the king of Matzarayam that he went from his royal palace and was seen abroad only one day in the year, and after that the king would return to his palace to remain there.⁴ And on the day when the king went forth he passed judgment in the land, and every one having a suit came before the king that day to obtain his request.⁵ And when Rikayon heard of the custom in Matzarayam and that he could not come into the presence of the king, he grieved greatly and was very sorrowful.⁶ And in the evening Rikayon went out and found a house in ruins, formerly a bake house in Matzarayam, and he abode there all night in bitterness of soul and pinched with hunger, and sleep was removed from his eyes.⁷ And Rikayon considered within himself what he should do in the town until the king made his appearance, and how he might maintain himself there.⁸ And he rose in the morning and walked about, and met in his way those who sold vegetables and various sorts of seed with which they supplied the inhabitants.⁹ And Rikayon wished to do the same in order to get a maintenance in the city, but he was unacquainted with the custom of the people, and he was like a blind man among them.¹⁰ And he went and obtained vegetables to sell them for his support, and the rabble assembled about him and ridiculed him, and took his vegetables from him and left him nothing.¹¹ And he rose up from there in bitterness of soul, and went sighing to the bake house in which he had remained all the night before, and he slept there the second night.¹² And on that night again he reasoned within himself how he could save himself from starvation, and he devised a scheme how to act.¹³ And he rose up in the morning and acted ingeniously, and went and hired thirty strong men of the rabble, carrying their war instruments in their hands, and he led them to the top of the Matzarayam sepulchre, and he placed them there.¹⁴ And he commanded them, saying, Thus says the king, Strengthen yourselves and be valiant men, and let no man be buried here until two hundred pieces of silver be given, and then he may be buried; and those men did according to the order of Rikayon to the people of Matzarayam the whole of that year.¹⁵ And in eight months time Rikayon and his men gathered great riches of silver and gold, and Rikayon took a great quantity of horses and other animals, and he hired more men, and he gave them horses and they remained with him.¹⁶ And when the year came round, at the time the king went forth into the town, all the inhabitants of Matzarayam assembled together to speak to him concerning the work of Rikayon and his men.¹⁷ And the king went forth on the appointed day, and all the Matzarayam came before him and cried to him, saying,¹⁸ May the king live forever. What is this thing you do in the town to your servants, not to suffer a dead body to be buried until so much silver and gold be given? Was there ever the like to this done in the whole earth, from the days of former kings yea even from the days of Adam, to this day, that the dead should not be buried only for a set price?¹⁹ We know it to be the custom of kings to take a yearly tax from the living, but you do not only do this, but from the dead also you exact a tax day by day.²⁰ Now, O king, we can no more bear this, for the whole city is ruined on this account, and do you not know it?²¹ And when the king heard all that they had spoken he was very wroth, and his anger burned within him at this affair, for he had known nothing of it.²² And the king said, Who and where is he that dares to do this wicked thing in my land without my command? Surely you will tell me.²³ And they told him all the works of Rikayon and his men, and the king's anger was aroused, and he ordered Rikayon and his men to be brought before him.²⁴ And Rikayon took about a thousand children, sons and daughters, and clothed them in silk and embroidery, and he set them upon horses and sent them to the king by means of his men, and he also took a great quantity of silver and gold and precious stones, and a strong and beautiful horse, as a present for the king, with which he came before the king and bowed down to the earth before him; and the king, his servants and all the inhabitants of Matzarayam wondered at the work of Rikayon, and they saw his riches and the present that he had brought to the king.²⁵ And it greatly pleased the king and he wondered at it; and when Rikayon sat before him the king asked him concerning all his works, and Rikayon spoke all his words wisely before the king, his servants and all the inhabitants of Matzarayam.²⁶ And when the king heard the words of Rikayon and his wisdom, Rikayon found grace in his sight, and he met with grace and kindness from all the servants of the king and from all the inhabitants of Matzarayam, on account of his wisdom and excellent speeches, and from that time they loved him exceedingly.²⁷ And the king answered and said to Rikayon, Your name shall no more be called Rikayon but Paraih shall be your name, since you did exact a tax from the dead; and he called his name Paraih.²⁸ And the king and his subjects loved Rikayon for his wisdom, and they consulted with all the inhabitants of Matzarayam to make him prefect under the king.²⁹ And all the inhabitants of Matzarayam and its wise men did so, and it was made a law in Matzarayam.³⁰ And they made Rikayon Paraih prefect under Oswiris king of Matzarayam, and Rikayon Paraih governed over Matzarayam, daily administering justice to the whole city, but Oswiris the king would judge the people of the land one day in the year, when he went out to make his appearance.³¹ And Rikayon Paraih cunningly usurped the government of Matzarayam, and he exacted a tax from all the inhabitants of Matzarayam.³² And all the inhabitants of Matzarayam greatly loved Rikayon Paraih, and they made a decree to call every king that should reign over them and their seed in Matzarayam, Paraih.³³ Therefore all the kings that reigned in Matzarayam from that time forward were called Paraih to this day.

15 And in that year there was a heavy famine throughout the land of Kanain, and the inhabitants of the land could not remain on account of the famine for it was very grievous.² And Abaram and all belonging to him rose and went down to Matzarayam on account of the famine, and when they were at the brook Mitzraim they remained there some time to rest from the fatigue of the road.³ And Abaram and Sharay were walking at the border of the brook Mitzraim, and Abaram beheld his wife Sharay that she was very beautiful.⁴ And Abaram said to his wife Sharay, Since Alahayam has created you with such a beautiful countenance, I am afraid of the Matzarayam lest they should slay me and take you away, for the fear of Alahayam is not in these places.⁵ Surely then you shall do this, Say you are my sister to all that may ask you, in order that it may be well with me, and that we may live and not be put to death.⁶ And Abaram commanded the same to all those that came with him to Matzarayam on account of the famine; also his nephew Lawat he commanded, saying, If the Matzarayam ask you concerning Sharay say she is the sister of Abaram.⁷ And yet with all these orders Abaram did not put confidence in them, but he took Sharay and placed her in a chest and concealed it amongst their vessels, for Abaram was greatly concerned about Sharay on account of the wickedness of the Matzarayam.⁸ And Abaram and all belonging to him rose up from the brook Mitzraim and came to Matzarayam; and they had scarcely entered the gates of the city when the guards stood up to them saying, Give tithe to the king from what you have, and then you may come into the town; and Abaram and those that were with him did so.⁹ And Abaram with the people that were with him came to Matzarayam, and when they came they brought the chest in which Sharay was concealed and the Matzarayam saw the chest.¹⁰ And the king's servants approached Abaram, saying, What have you here in this chest which we have not seen? Now open you the chest and give tithe to the king of all that it contains.¹¹ And Abaram said, This chest I will not open, but all you demand upon it I will give. And Pharaoh's officers answered Abaram, saying, It is a chest of precious stones, give us the tenth thereof.¹² Abaram said, All that you desire I will give, but you must not open the chest.¹³ And the king's officers pressed Abaram, and they reached the chest and opened it with force, and they saw, and behold a beautiful woman was in the chest.¹⁴ And when the officers of the king beheld Sharay they were struck with admiration at her beauty, and all the princes and servants of Paraih assembled to see Sharay, for she was very beautiful. And the king's officers ran and told Paraih all that they had seen, and they praised Sharay to the king; and Paraih ordered her to be brought, and the woman came before the king.¹⁵ And Paraih beheld Sharay and she pleased him exceedingly, and he was struck with her beauty, and the king rejoiced greatly on her account, and made presents to those who brought him the tidings concerning her.¹⁶ And the woman was then brought to Pharaoh's house, and Abaram grieved on account of his wife, and he prayed to the Adanay to deliver her from the hands of Paraih.¹⁷ And Sharay also prayed at that time and said, O Adanay Alahayam you did tell my Adanay Abaram to go from his land and from his father's house to the land of Kanain, and you did promise to do well with him if he would perform your commands; now behold we have done that which you did command us, and we left our land and our families, and we went to a strange land and to a people whom we have not known before.¹⁸ And we came to this land to avoid the famine, and this evil accident has befallen me; now therefore, O Adanay Alahayam, deliver us and save us from the hand of this oppressor, and do well with me for the sake of your mercy.¹⁹ And the Adanay hearkened to the voice of Sharay, and the Adanay sent an angel to deliver Sharay from the power of Paraih.²⁰ And the king came and sat before Sharay and behold an angel of the Adanay was standing over them, and he appeared to Sharay and said to her, Do not fear, for the Adanay has heard your prayer.²¹ And the king approached Sharay and said to her, What is that man to you who brought you here? and she said, He is my brother.²² And the king said, It is incumbent upon us to make him great, to elevate him and to do to him all the good which you shall command us; and at that time the king sent to Abaram silver and gold and precious stones in abundance, together with cattle, men servants and maid servants; and the king ordered Abaram to be brought, and he sat in the court of the king's house, and the king greatly exalted Abaram on that night.²³ And the king approached to speak to Sharay, and he reached out his hand to touch her, when the angel smote him heavily, and he was terrified and he refrained from reaching to her.²⁴ And when the king came near to Sharay, the angel smote him to the ground, and acted thus to him the whole night, and the king was terrified.²⁵ And the angel on that night smote heavily all the servants of the king, and his whole household, on account of Sharay, and there was a great lamentation that night amongst the people of Pharaoh's house.²⁶ And Paraih, seeing the evil that befell him, said, Surely on account of this woman has this thing happened to me, and he removed himself at some distance from her and spoke pleasing words to her.²⁷ And the king said to Sharay, Tell me I pray you concerning the man with whom you came here; and Sharay said, This man is my husband, and I said to you that he was my brother for I was afraid, lest you should put him to death through wickedness.²⁸ And the king kept away from Sharay, and the plagues of the angel of the Adanay ceased from him and his household; and Paraih knew that he was smitten on account of Sharay, and the king was greatly astonished at this.²⁹ And in the morning the king called for Abaram and said to him, What is this you have done to me? Why did you say, She is my sister, owing to which I took her to me for a wife, and this heavy plague has therefore come upon me and my household.³⁰ Now therefore here is your wife, take her and go from our land lest we all die on her account. And Paraih took more cattle, men servants and maid servants, and silver and gold, to give to Abaram, and he returned to him Sharay his wife.³¹ And the king took a maiden whom he begat by his concubines, and he gave her to Sharay for a handmaid.³² And the king said to his daughter, It is better for you my daughter to be a handmaid in this man's house than to be mistress in my house, after we have beheld the evil that befell us on account of this woman.³³ And Abaram arose, and he and all belonging to him went away from Matzarayam; and Paraih ordered some of his men to accompany him and all that went with him.³⁴ And Abaram returned to the land of Kanain, to the place where he had made the altar, where he at first had pitched his tent.³⁵ And Lawat the son of Charan, Abram's brother, had a heavy stock of cattle, flocks and herds and tents, for the Adanay was bountiful to them on account of Abaram.³⁶ And when Abaram was dwelling in the land the herdsmen of Lawat quarrelled with the herdsmen of Abaram, for their property was too great for them to remain together in the land, and the land could not bear them on account of their cattle.³⁷ And when Abram's herdsmen went to feed their flock they would not go into the fields of the people of the land, but the cattle of Lot's herdsmen did otherwise, for they were suffered to feed in the fields of the people of the land.³⁸ And the people of the land saw this occurrence daily, and they came to Abaram and quarrelled with him on account of Lot's herdsmen.³⁹ And Abaram said to Lawat, What is this you are doing to me, to make me despicable to the inhabitants of the land, that you order your herdsmen to feed your cattle in the fields of other people? Do you not know that I am a stranger in this land amongst the children of Kanain, and why will you do this to me?⁴⁰ And Abaram quarrelled daily with Lawat on account of this, but Lawat would not listen to Abaram, and he continued to do the same and the inhabitants of the land came and told Abaram.⁴¹ And Abaram said to Lawat, How long will you be to me for a stumbling block with the inhabitants of the land? Now I beseech you let there be no more quarrelling between us, for we are kinsmen.⁴² But I pray you separate from me, go and choose a place where you may dwell with your cattle and all belonging to you, but Keep yourself at a distance from me, you and your household.⁴³ And be not afraid in going from me, for if any one do an injury to you, let me know and I will avenge your cause from him, only remove from me.⁴⁴ And when Abaram had spoken all these words to Lawat, then Lawat arose and lifted up his eyes toward the plain of Yaranan.⁴⁵ And he saw that the whole of this place was well watered, and good for man as well as affording pasture for the cattle.⁴⁶ And Lawat went from Abaram to that place, and he there pitched his tent and he dwelt in Sadam, and they were separated from each other.⁴⁷ And Abaram dwelt in the plain of Mamaraa, which is in Chabarawan, and he pitched his tent there, and Abaram remained in that place many years.

16 At that time Kadaralaimar king of Iyalam sent to all the neighboring kings, to Namarad, king of Shanair who was then under his power, and to Thadail, king of Goyim, and to Arayawak, king of Elasar, with whom he made a covenant, saying, Come up to me and assist me, that we may smite all the towns of Sadam and its inhabitants, for they have rebelled against me these thirteen years.² And these four kings went up with all their camps, about eight hundred thousand men, and they went as they were, and smote every man they found in their road.³ And the five kings of Sadam and Imarah, Shanaab king of Adamah, Shamaabar king of Zeboyim, Barai king of Sadam, Bersha king of Imarah, and Balai king of Tzair, went out to meet them, and they all joined together in the valley of Shadayam.⁴ And these nine kings made war in the valley of Shadayam; and the kings of Sadam and Imarah were smitten before the kings of Iyalam.⁵ And the valley of Shadayam was full of lime pits and the kings of Iyalam pursued the kings of Sadam, and the kings of Sadam with their camps fled and fell into the lime pits, and all that remained went to the mountain for safety, and the five kings of Iyalam came after them and pursued them to the gates of Sadam, and they took all that there was in Sadam.⁶ And they plundered all the cities of Sadam and Imarah, and they also took Lawat, Abram's brother's son, and his property, and they seized all the goods of the cities of Sadam, and they went away; and Unic, Abram's servant, who was in the battle, saw this, and told Abaram all that the kings had done to the cities of Sadam, and that Lawat was taken captive by them.⁷ And Abaram heard this, and he rose up with about three hundred and eighteen men that were with him, and he that night pursued these kings and smote them, and they all fell before Abaram and his men, and there was none remaining but the four kings who fled, and they went each his own road.⁸ And Abaram recovered all the property of Sadam, and he also recovered Lawat and his property, his wives and little ones and all belonging to him, so that Lawat lacked nothing.⁹ And when he returned from smiting these kings, he and his men passed the valley of Shadayam where the kings had made war together.¹⁰ And Barai king of Sadam, and the rest of his men that were with him, went out from the lime pits into which they had fallen, to meet Abaram and his men.¹¹ And Adonizedek king of Yarawashalam, the same was Sham, went out with his men to meet Abaram and his people, with bread and wine, and they remained together in the valley of Malak.¹² And Adonizedek blessed Abaram, and Abaram gave him a tenth from all that he had brought from the spoil of his enemies, for Adonizedek was a priest before Alahayam.¹³ And all the kings of Sadam and Imarah who were there, with their servants, approached Abaram and begged of him to return them their servants whom he had made captive, and to take to himself all the property.¹⁴ And Abaram answered the kings of Sadam, saying, As the Adanay lives who created heaven and earth, and who redeemed my soul from all affliction, and who delivered me this day from my enemies, and gave them into my hand, I will not take anything belonging to you, that you may not boast tomorrow, saying, Abaram became rich from our property that he saved.¹⁵ For the Adanay my Alahayam in whom I trust said to me, You shall lack nothing, for I will bless you in all the works of your hands.¹⁶ And now therefore behold, here is all belonging to you, take it and go; as the Adanay lives I will not take from you from a living soul down to a shoetie or thread, excepting the expense of the food of those who went out with me to battle, as also the portions of the men who went with me, Anar, Ashcol, and Mamaraa, they and their men, as well as those also who had remained to watch the baggage, they shall take their portion of the spoil.¹⁷ And the kings of Sadam gave Abaram according to all that he had said, and they pressed him to take of whatever he chose, but he would not.¹⁸ And he sent away the kings of Sadam and the remainder of their men, and he gave them orders about Lawat, and they went to their respective places.¹⁹ And Lawat, his brother's son, he also sent away with his property, and he went with them, and Lawat returned to his home, to Sadam, and Abaram and his people returned to their home to the plains of Mamaraa, which is in Chabarawan.²⁰ At that time the Adanay again appeared to Abaram in Chabarawan, and he said to him, Do not fear, your reward is very great before me, for I will not leave you, until I shall have multiplied you, and blessed you and made your seed like the stars in heaven, which cannot be measured nor numbered.²¹ And I will give to your seed all these lands that you see with your eyes, to them will I give them for an inheritance forever, only be strong and do not fear, walk before me and be perfect.²² And in the seventy-eighth year of the life of Abaram, in that year died Raiw, the son of Palag, and all the days of Raiw were two hundred and thirty-nine years, and he died.²³ And Sharay, the daughter of Charan, Abram's wife, was still barren in those days; she did not bear to Abaram either son or daughter.²⁴ And when she saw that she bore no children she took her handmaid Hagar, whom Paraih had given her, and she gave her to Abaram her husband for a wife.²⁵ For Hagar learned all the ways of Sharay as Sharay taught her, she was not in any way deficient in following her good ways.²⁶ And Sharay said to Abaram, Behold here is my handmaid Hagar, go to her that she may bring forth upon my knees, that I may also obtain children through her.²⁷ And at the end of ten years of Abram's dwelling in the land of Kanain, which is the eighty-fifth year of Abram's life, Sharay gave Hagar to him.²⁸ And Abaram hearkened to the voice of his wife Sharay, and he took his handmaid Hagar and Abaram came to her and she conceived.²⁹ And when Hagar saw that she had conceived she rejoiced greatly, and her mistress was despised in her eyes, and she said within herself, This can only be that I am better before Alahayam than Sharay my mistress, for all the days that my mistress has been with my lord, she did not conceive, but me the Adanay has caused in so short a time to conceive by him.³⁰ And when Sharay saw that Hagar had conceived by Abaram, Sharay was jealous of her handmaid, and Sharay said within herself, This is surely nothing else but that she must be better than I am.³¹ And Sharay said to Abaram, My wrong be upon you, for at the time when you did pray before the Adanay for children why did you not pray on my account, that the Adanay should give me seed from you?³² And when I speak to Hagar in your presence, she despises my words, because she has conceived, and you will say nothing to her; may the Adanay judge between me and you for what you have done to me.³³ And Abaram said to Sharay, Behold your handmaid is in your hand, do to her as it may seem good in your eyes; and Sharay afflicted her, and Hagar fled from her to the wilderness.³⁴ And an angel of the Adanay found her in the place where she had fled, by a well, and he said to her, Do not fear, for I will multiply your seed, for you shall bear a son and you shall call his name Yashamaial; now then return to Sharay your mistress, and submit yourself under her hands.³⁵ And Hagar called the place of that well Baar, it is between Qadash and the wilderness of Barad.³⁶ And Hagar at that time returned to her master's house, and at the end of days Hagar bore a son to Abaram, and Abaram called his name Yashamaial; and Abaram was eighty-six years old when he begat him.

17 And in those days, in the ninety-first year of the life of Abaram, the children of Kathayam made war with the children of Thabal, for when the Adanay had scattered the sons of men upon the face of the earth, the children of Kathayam went and embodied themselves in the plain of Canopia, and they built themselves cities there and dwelt by the river Tibreu.² And the children of Thabal dwelt in Tuscanah, and their boundaries reached the river Tibreu, and the children of Thabal built a city in Tuscanah, and they called the name Sabinah, after the name of Sabinah son of Thabal their father, and they dwelt there to this day.³ And it was at that time the children of Kathayam made war with the children of Thabal, and the children of Thabal were smitten before the children of

Kathayam, and the children of Kathayam caused three hundred and seventy men to fall from the children of Thabal.⁴ And at that time the children of Thabal swore to the children of Kathayam, saying, You shall not intermarry amongst us, and no man shall give his daughter to any of the sons of Kathayam.⁵ For all the daughters of Thabal were in those days fair, for no women were then found in the whole earth so fair as the daughters of Thabal.⁶ And all who delighted in the beauty of women went to the daughters of Thabal and took wives from them, and the sons of men, kings and princes, who greatly delighted in the beauty of women, took wives in those days from the daughters of Thabal.⁷ And at the end of three years after the children of Thabal had sworn to the children of Kathayam not to give them their daughters for wives, about twenty men of the children of Kathayam went to take some of the daughters of Thabal, but they found none.⁸ For the children of Thabal kept their oaths not to intermarry with them, and they would not break their oaths.⁹ And in the days of harvest the children of Thabal went into their fields to get in their harvest, when the young men of Kathayam assembled and went to the city of Sabinah, and each man took a young woman from the daughters of Thabal, and they came to their cities.¹⁰ And the children of Thabal heard of it and they went to make war with them, and they could not prevail over them, for the mountain was exceedingly high from them, and when they saw they could not prevail over them they returned to their land.¹¹ And at the revolution of the year the children of Thabal went and hired about ten thousand men from those cities that were near them, and they went to war with the children of Kathayam.¹² And the children of Thabal went to war with the children of Kathayam, to destroy their land and to distress them, and in this engagement the children of Thabal prevailed over the children of Kathayam, and the children of Kathayam, seeing that they were greatly distressed, lifted up the children which they had had by the daughters of Thabal, upon the wall which had been built, to be before the eyes of the children of Thabal.¹³ And the children of Kathayam said to them, Have you come to make war with your own sons and daughters, and have we not been considered your flesh and bones from that time till now?¹⁴ And when the children of Thabal heard this they ceased to make war with the children of Kathayam, and they went away.¹⁵ And they returned to their cities, and the children of Kathayam at that time assembled and built two cities by the sea, and they called one Purtu and the other Ariza.¹⁶ And Abaram the son of Tharach was then ninety-nine years old.¹⁷ At that time the Adanay appeared to him and he said to him, I will make my covenant between me and you, and I will greatly multiply your seed, and this is the covenant which I make between me and you, that every male child be circumcised, you and your seed after you.¹⁸ At eight days old shall it be circumcised, and this covenant shall be in your flesh for an everlasting covenant.¹⁹ And now therefore your name shall no more be called Abaram but Abaraham, and your wife shall no more be called Sharay but Sharah.²⁰ For I will bless you both, and I will multiply your seed after you that you shall become a great nation, and kings shall come forth from you.

18 And Abaraham rose and did all that Alahayam had ordered him, and he took the men of his household and those bought with his money, and he circumcised them as the Adanay had commanded him.² And there was not one left whom he did not circumcise, and Abaraham and his son Yashamaial were circumcised in the flesh of their foreskin; thirteen years old was Yashamaial when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin.³ And in the third day Abaraham went out of his tent and sat at the door to enjoy the heat of the sun, during the pain of his flesh.⁴ And the Adanay appeared to him in the plain of Mamaraa, and sent three of his ministering angels to visit him, and he was sitting at the door of the tent, and he lifted his eyes and saw, and lo three men were coming from a distance, and he rose up and ran to meet them, and he bowed down to them and brought them into his house.⁵ And he said to them, If now I have found favor in your sight, turn in and eat a morsel of bread; and he pressed them, and they turned in and he gave them water and they washed their feet, and he placed them

under a tree at the door of the tent.⁶ And Abaraham ran and took a calf, tender and good, and he hastened to kill it, and gave it to his servant Alayaizar to dress.⁷ And Abaraham came to Sharah into the tent, and he said to her, Make ready quickly three measures of fine meal, knead it and make cakes to cover the pot containing the meat, and she did so.⁸ And Abaraham hastened and brought before them butter and milk, beef and mutton, and gave it before them to eat before the flesh of the calf was sufficiently done, and they did eat.⁹ And when they had done eating one of them said to him, I will return to you according to the time of life, and Sharah your wife shall have a son.¹⁰ And the men afterward departed and went their ways, to the places to which they were sent.¹¹ In those days all the people of Sadam and Imarah, and of the whole five cities, were exceedingly wicked and sinful against the Adanay and they provoked the Adanay with their abominations, and they strengthened in aging abominably and scornfully before the Adanay, and their wickedness and crimes were in those days great before the Adanay.¹² And they had in their land a very extensive valley, about half a day's walk, and in it there were fountains of water and a great deal of herbage surrounding the water.¹³ And all the people of Sadam and Imarah went there four times in the year, with their wives and children and all belonging to them, and they rejoiced there with timbrels and dances.¹⁴ And in the time of rejoicing they would all rise and lay hold of their neighbor's wives, and some, the virgin daughters of their neighbors, and they enjoyed them, and each man saw his wife and daughter in the hands of his neighbor and did not say a word.¹⁵ And they did so from morning to night, and they afterward returned home each man to his house and each woman to her tent; so they always did four times in the year.¹⁶ Also when a stranger came into their cities and brought goods which he had purchased with a view to dispose of there, the people of these cities would assemble, men, women and children, young and old, and go to the man and take his goods by force, giving a little to each man until there was an end to all the goods of the owner which he had brought into the land.¹⁷ And if the owner of the goods quarreled with them, saying, What is this work which you have done to me, then they would approach to him one by one, and each would show him the little which he took and taunt him, saying, I only took that little which you did give me; and when he heard this from them all, he would arise and go from them in sorrow and bitterness of soul, when they would all arise and go after him, and drive him out of the city with great noise and tumult.¹⁸ And there was a man from the country of Iyalam who was leisurely going on the road, seated upon his ass, which carried a fine mantle of divers colors, and the mantle was bound with a cord upon the ass.¹⁹ And the man was on his journey passing through the street of Sadam when the sun set in the evening, and he remained there in order to abide during the night, but no one would let him into his house; and at that time there was in Sadam a wicked and mischievous man, one skillful to do evil, and his name was Hedad.²⁰ And he lifted up his eyes and saw the traveler in the street of the city, and he came to him and said, Whence come you and where do you go?²¹ And the man said to him, I am traveling from Chabarawan to Iyalam where I belong, and as I passed the sun set and no one would suffer me to enter his house, though I had bread and water and also straw and provender for my ass, and am short of nothing.²² And Hedad answered and said to him, All that you shall want shall be supplied by me, but in the street you shall not abide all night.²³ And Hedad brought him to his house, and he took off the mantle from the ass with the cord, and brought them to his house, and he gave the ass straw and provender whilst the traveler ate and drank in Hedad's house, and he abode there that night.²⁴ And in the morning the traveler rose up early to continue his journey, when Hedad said to him, Wait, comfort your heart with a morsel of bread and then go, and the man did so; and he remained with him, and they both ate and drank together during the day, when the man rose up to go.²⁵ And Hedad said to him, Behold now the day is declining, you had better remain all night that your heart may be comforted; and he pressed him so that he tarried there all night, and on the second day he rose up early to go away, when Hedad pressed him, saying, Comfort your heart with a morsel of bread and then go, and he remained and ate with him also the second day, and then the man rose up to continue his journey.

²⁶ And Hedad said to him, Behold now the day is declining, remain with me to comfort your heart and in the morning rise up early and go your way. ²⁷ And the man would not remain, but rose and saddled his ass, and whilst he was saddling his ass the wife of Hedad said to her husband, Behold this man has remained with us for two days eating and drinking and he has given us nothing, and now shall he go away from us without giving anything? and Hedad said to her, Be silent. ²⁸ And the man saddled his ass to go, and he asked Hedad to give him the cord and mantle to tie it upon the ass.

²⁹ And Hedad said to him, What say you? And he said to him, That you my lord shall give me the cord and the mantle made with divers colors which you did conceal with you in your house to take care of it. ³⁰ And Hedad answered the man, saying, This is the interpretation of your dream, the cord which you did see, means that your life will be lengthened out like a cord, and having seen the mantle colored with all sorts of colors, means that you shall have a vineyard in which you will plant trees of all fruits. ³¹ And the traveler answered, saying, Not so my lord, for I was awake when I gave you the cord and also a mantle woven with different colors, which you did take off the ass to put them by for me; and Hedad answered and said, Surely I have told you the interpretation of your dream and it is a good dream, and this is the interpretation thereof.

³² Now the sons of men give me four pieces of silver, which is my charge for interpreting dreams, and of you only I require three pieces of silver. ³³ And the man was provoked at the words of Hedad, and he cried bitterly, and he brought Hedad to Serak judge of Sadam. ³⁴ And the man laid his cause before Serak the judge, when Hedad replied, saying, It is not so, but thus the matter stands; and the judge said to the traveler, This man Hedad tells you truth, for he is famed in the cities for the accurate interpretation of dreams. ³⁵ And the man cried at the word of the judge, and he said, Not so my Adanay, for it was in the day that I gave him the cord and mantle which was upon the ass, in order to put them by in his house; and they both disputed before the judge, the one saying, Thus the matter was, and the other declaring otherwise. ³⁶ And Hedad said to the man, Give me four pieces of silver that I charge for my interpretations of dreams; I will not make any allowance; and give me the expense of the four meals that you did eat in my house. ³⁷ And the man said to Hedad, Truly I will pay you for what I ate in your house, only give me the cord and mantle which you did conceal in your house. ³⁸ And Hedad replied before the judge and said to the man, Did I not tell you the interpretation of your dream? the cord means that your days shall be prolonged like a cord, and the mantle, that you will have a vineyard in which you will plant all kinds of fruit trees. ³⁹ This is the proper interpretation of your dream, now give me the four pieces of silver that I require as a compensation, for I will make you no allowance. ⁴⁰ And the man cried at the words of Hedad and they both quarreled before the judge, and the judge gave orders to his servants, who drove them rashly from the house. ⁴¹ And they went away quarreling from the judge, when the people of Sadam heard them, and they gathered about them and they exclaimed against the stranger, and they drove him rashly from the city. ⁴² And the man continued his journey upon his ass with bitterness of soul, lamenting and weeping. ⁴³ And whilst he was going along he wept at what had happened to him in the corrupt city of Sadam.

19 And the cities of Sadam had four judges to four cities, and these were their names, Serak in the city of Sadam, Sharkad in Imarah, Zabnac in Adamah, and Menon in Zeboyim. ² And Alayaizar Abraham's servant applied to them different names, and he converted Serak to Shakra, Sharkad to Shakrura, Zeznac to Kezobim, and Menon to Matzlodin. ³ And by desire of their four judges the people of Sadam and Imarah had beds erected in the streets of the cities, and if a man came to these places they laid hold of him and brought him to one of their beds, and by force made him to lie in them. ⁴ And as he lay down, three men would stand at his head and three at his feet, and measure him by the length of the bed, and if the man was less than the bed these six men would stretch him at each end, and when he cried out to them they would not answer him. ⁵ And if he was longer than the bed they would draw together the two sides of the bed at each end, until the man had reached the gates of death. ⁶ And if he continued to cry out to them, they would answer him, saying, Thus shall it be done to a man that comes into our land. ⁷ And when men heard all these things that the people of the cities of Sadam did, they refrained from coming there.

⁸ And when a poor man came to their land they would give him silver and gold, and cause a proclamation in the whole city not to give him a morsel of bread to eat, and if the stranger should remain there some days, and die from hunger, not having been able to obtain a morsel of bread, then at his death all the people of the city would come and take their silver and gold which they had given to him. ⁹ And those that could recognize the silver or gold which they had given him took it back, and at his death they also stripped him of his garments, and they would fight about them, and he that prevailed over his neighbor took them. ¹⁰ They would after that carry him and bury him under some of the shrubs in the deserts; so they did all the days to any one that came to them and died in their land. ¹¹ And in the course of time Sharah sent Alayaizar to Sadam, to see Lawat and inquire after his welfare. ¹² And Alayaizar went to Sadam, and he met a man of Sadam fighting with a stranger, and the man of Sadam stripped the poor man of all his clothes and went away. ¹³ And this poor man cried to Alayaizar and supplicated his favor on account of what the man of Sadam had done to him.

¹⁴ And he said to him, Why do you act thus to the poor man who came to your land? ¹⁵ And the man of Sadam answered Alayaizar, saying, Is this man your brother, or have the people of Sadam made you a judge this day, that you speak about this man? ¹⁶ And Alayaizar strove with the man of Sadam on account of the poor man, and when Alayaizar approached to recover the poor man's clothes from the man of Sadam, he hastened and with a stone smote Alayaizar in the forehead. ¹⁷ And the blood flowed copiously from Eliezer's forehead, and when the man saw the blood he caught hold of Alayaizar, saying, Give me my hire for having rid you of this bad blood that was in your forehead, for such is the custom and the law in our land. ¹⁸ And Alayaizar said to him, You have wounded me and require me to pay you your hire; and Alayaizar would not hearken to the words of the man of Sadam. ¹⁹ And the man laid hold of Alayaizar and brought him to Shakra the judge of Sadam for judgment. ²⁰ And the man spoke to the judge, saying, I beseech you my lord, thus has this man done, for I smote him with a stone that the blood flowed from his forehead, and he is unwilling to give me my hire. ²¹ And the judge said to Alayaizar, This man speaks truth to you, give him his hire, for this is the custom in our land; and Alayaizar heard the words of the judge, and he lifted up a stone and smote the judge, and the stone struck on his forehead, and the blood flowed copiously from the forehead of the judge, and Alayaizar said, If this then is the custom in your land give you to this man what I should have given him, for this has been your decision, you did decree it. ²² And Alayaizar left the man of Sadam with the judge, and he went away. ²³ And when the kings of Iyalam had made war with the kings of Sadam, the kings of Iyalam captured all the property of Sadam, and they took Lawat captive, with his property, and when it was told to Abaraham he went and made war with the kings of Iyalam, and he recovered from their hands all the property of Lawat as well as the property of Sadam. ²⁴ At that time the wife of Lawat bore him a daughter, and he called her name Paltith, saying, Because Alahayam had delivered him and his whole household from the kings of Iyalam; and Paltith daughter of Lawat grew up, and one of the men of Sadam took her for a wife. ²⁵ And a poor man came into the city to seek a maintenance, and he remained in the city some days, and all the people of Sadam caused a proclamation of their custom not to give this man a morsel of bread to eat, until he dropped dead upon the earth, and they did so. ²⁶ And Paltith the daughter of Lawat saw this man lying in the streets starved with hunger, and no one would give him any thing to keep him alive, and he was just upon the point of death.²⁷ And her soul was filled with pity on account of the man, and she fed him secretly with bread for many days, and the soul of this man was revived.²⁸ For when she went forth to fetch water she would put the bread in the water pitcher, and when she came to the place where the poor man was, she took the bread from the pitcher and gave it him to eat; so she did many days.²⁹ And all the people of Sadam and Imarah wondered how this man could bear starvation for so many days.³⁰ And they said to each other, This can only be that he eats and drinks, for no man can bear starvation for so many days or live as this man has, without even his countenance changing; and three men concealed themselves in a place where the poor man was stationed, to know who it was that brought him bread to eat.³¹ And Paltiith daughter of Lawat went forth that day to fetch water, and she put bread into her pitcher of water, and she went to draw water by the poor man's place, and she took out the bread from the pitcher and gave it to the poor man and he ate it.³² And the three men saw what Paltiith did to the poor man, and they said to her, It is you then who have supported him, and therefore has he not starved, nor changed in appearance nor died like the rest.³³ And the three men went out of the place in which they were concealed, and they seized Paltiith and the bread which was in the poor man's hand.³⁴ And they took Paltiith and brought her before their judges, and they said to them, Thus did she do, and it is she who supplied the poor man with bread, therefore did he not die all this time; now therefore declare to us the punishment due to this woman for having transgressed our law.³⁵ And the people of Sadam and Imarah assembled and kindled a fire in the street of the city, and they took the woman and cast her into the fire and she was burned to ashes.³⁶ And in the city of Adamah there was a woman to whom they did the like.³⁷ For a traveler came into the city of Adamah to abide there all night, with the intention of going home in the morning, and he sat opposite the door of the house of the young woman's father, to remain there, as the sun had set when he had reached that place; and the young woman saw him sitting by the door of the house.³⁸ And he asked her for a drink of water and she said to him, Who are you? and he said to her, I was this day going on the road, and reached here when the sun set, so I will abide here all night, and in the morning I will arise early and continue my journey.³⁹ And the young woman went into the house and fetched the man bread and water to eat and drink.⁴⁰ And this affair became known to the people of Adamah, and they assembled and brought the young woman before the judges, that they should judge her for this act.⁴¹ And the judge said, The judgment of death must pass upon this woman because she transgressed our law, and this therefore is the decision concerning her.⁴² And the people of those cities assembled and brought out the young woman, and anointed her with honey from head to foot, as the judge had decreed, and they placed her before a swarm of bees which were then in their hives, and the bees flew upon her and stung her that her whole body was swelled.⁴³ And the young woman cried out on account of the bees, but no one took notice of her or pitied her, and her cries ascended to heaven.⁴⁴ And the Adanay was provoked at this and at all the works of the cities of Sadam, for they had abundance of food, and had tranquility amongst them, and still would not sustain the poor and the needy, and in those days their evil doings and sins became great before the Adanay.⁴⁵ And the Adanay sent for two of the angels that had come to Abraham's house, to destroy Sadam and its cities.⁴⁶ And the angels rose up from the door of Abraham's tent, after they had eaten and drunk, and they reached Sadam in the evening, and Lawat was then sitting in the gate of Sadam, and when he saw them he rose to meet them, and he bowed down to the ground.⁴⁷ And he pressed them greatly and brought them into his house, and he gave them victuals which they ate, and they abode all night in his house.⁴⁸ And the angels said to Lawat, Arise, go forth from this place, you and all belonging to you, lest you be consumed in the iniquity of this city, for the Adanay will destroy this place.⁴⁹ And the angels laid hold upon the hand of Lawat and upon the hand of his wife, and upon the hands of his children, and all belonging to him, and they brought him forth and set him without the cities.⁵⁰ And they said to Lawat, Escape for your life, and he fled and all belonging to him.⁵¹ Then the Adanay rained upon Sadam and upon Imarah and upon all these cities brimstone and fire from the Adanay out of heaven.⁵² And he overthrew these cities, all the plain and all the inhabitants of the cities, and that which grew upon the ground; and Ado the wife of Lawat looked back to see the destruction of the cities, for her compassion was moved on account of her daughters who remained in Sadam, for they did not go with her.⁵³ And when she looked back she became a pillar of salt, and it is yet in that place to this day.⁵⁴ And the oxen which stood in that place daily licked up the salt to the extremities of their feet, and in the morning it would spring forth afresh, and they again licked it up to this day.⁵⁵ And Lawat and two of his daughters that remained with him fled and escaped to the cave of Idalam, and they remained there for some time.⁵⁶ And Abaraham rose up early in the morning to see what had been done to the cities of Sadam; and he looked and beheld the smoke of the cities going up like the smoke of a furnace.⁵⁷ And Lawat and his two daughters remained in the cave, and they made their father drink wine, and they lay with him, for they said there was no man upon earth that could raise up seed from them, for they thought that the whole earth was destroyed.⁵⁸ And they both lay with their father, and they conceived and bore sons, and the first born called the name of her son Mawaab, saying, From my father did I conceive him; he is the father of the Moabites to this day.⁵⁹ And the younger also called her son Benami; he is the father of the children of Imawan to this day.⁶⁰ And after this Lawat and his two daughters went away from there, and he dwelt on the other side of the Yaradan with his two daughters and their sons, and the sons of Lawat grew up, and they went and took themselves wives from the land of Kanain, and they begat children and they were fruitful and multiplied.

20 And at that time Abaraham journeyed from the plain of Mamaraa, and he went to the land of the Palashath, and he dwelt in Garar; it was in the twenty-fifth year of Abraham's being in the land of Kanain, and the hundredth year of the life of Abaraham, that he came to Garar in the land of the Palashath.² And when they entered the land he said to Sharah his wife, Say you are my sister, to any one that shall ask you, in order that we may escape the evil of the inhabitants of the land.³ And as Abaraham was dwelling in the land of the Palashath, the servants of Abayamalak, king of the Palashath, saw that Sharah was exceedingly beautiful, and they asked Abaraham concerning her, and he said, She is my sister.⁴ And the servants of Abayamalak went to Abayamalak, saying, A man from the land of Kanain is come to dwell in the land, and he has a sister that is exceeding fair.⁵ And Abayamalak heard the words of his servants who praised Sharah to him, and Abayamalak sent his officers, and they brought Sharah to the king.⁶ And Sharah came to the house of Abayamalak, and the king saw that Sharah was beautiful, and she pleased him exceedingly.⁷ And he approached her and said to her, What is that man to you with whom you did come to our land? and Sharah answered and said He is my brother, and we came from the land of Kanain to dwell wherever we could find a place.⁸ And Abayamalak said to Sharah, Behold my land is before you, place your brother in any part of this land that pleases you, and it will be our duty to exalt and elevate him above all the people of the land since he is your brother.⁹ And Abayamalak sent for Abaraham, and Abaraham came to Abayamalak.¹⁰ And Abayamalak said to Abaraham, Behold I have given orders that you shall be honored as you desire on account of your sister Sharah.¹¹ And Abaraham went forth from the king, and the king's present followed him.¹² As at evening time, before men lie down to rest, the king was sitting upon his throne, and a deep sleep fell upon him, and he lay upon the throne and slept till morning.¹³ And he dreamed that an angel of the Adanay came to him with a drawn sword in his hand, and the angel stood over Abayamalak, and wished to slay him with the sword, and the king was terrified in his dream, and said to the angel, In what have I sinned against you that you come to slay me with your sword?¹⁴ And the angel answered and said to Abayamalak, Behold you diest on account of the woman which you did yesternight bring to your house, for she is a married woman, the wife of Abaraham who came to your house; now therefore return that man his wife, for she is his wife; and should you not return her, know that you will surely die, you and all belonging to you.¹⁵ And on that night there was a great outcry in the land of the Palashath, and the inhabitants of the land saw the figure of a man standing with a drawn sword in his hand, and he smote the inhabitants of the land with the sword, yea he continued to smite them.¹⁶ And the angel of the Adanay smote the whole land of the Palashath on that night, and there was a great confusion on that night and on the following morning.¹⁷ And every womb was closed, and all their issues, and the hand of the Adanay was upon them on account of Sharah, wife of Abaraham, whom Abayamalak had taken.¹⁸ And in the morning Abayamalak rose with terror and confusion and with a great dread, and he sent and had his servants called in, and he related his dream to them, and the people were greatly afraid.¹⁹ And one man standing amongst the servants of the king answered the king, saying, O sovereign king, restore this woman to her husband, for he is her husband, for the like happened to the king of Matzarayam when this man came to Matzarayam.²⁰ And he said concerning his wife, She is my sister, for such is his manner of doing when he comes to dwell in the land in which he is a stranger.²¹ And Paraih sent and took this woman for a wife and the Adanay brought upon him grievous plagues until he returned the woman to her husband.²² Now therefore, O sovereign king, know what happened yesternight to the whole land, for there was a very great consternation and great pain and lamentation, and we know that it was on account of the woman which you did take.²³ Now, therefore, restore this woman to her husband, lest it should befall us as it did to Paraih king of Matzarayam and his subjects, and that we may not die; and Abayamalak hastened and called and had Sharah called for, and she came before him, and he had Abaraham called for, and he came before him.²⁴ And Abayamalak said to them, What is this work you have been doing in saying you are brother and sister, and I took this woman for a wife?²⁵ And Abaraham said, Because I thought I should suffer death on account of my wife; and Abayamalak took flocks and herds, and men servants and maid servants, and a thousand pieces of silver, and he gave them to Abaraham, and he returned Sharah to him.²⁶ And Abayamalak said to Abaraham, Behold the whole land is before you, dwell in it wherever you shall choose.²⁷ And Abaraham and Sharah, his wife, went forth from the king's presence with honor and respect, and they dwelt in the land, even in Garar.²⁸ And all the inhabitants of the land of the Palashath and the king's servants were still in pain, through the plague which the angel had inflicted upon them the whole night on account of Sharah.²⁹ And Abayamalak sent for Abaraham, saying, Pray now for your servants to the Adanay your Alahayam, that he may put away this mortality from amongst us.³⁰ And Abaraham prayed on account of Abayamalak and his subjects, and the Adanay heard the prayer of Abaraham, and he healed Abayamalak and all his subjects.

21 And it was at that time at the end of a year and four months of Abraham's dwelling in the land of the Palashath in Garar, that Alahayam visited Sharah, and the Adanay remembered her, and she conceived and bore a son to Abaraham.² And Abaraham called the name of the son which was born to him, which Sharah bore to him, Yatzachaq.³ And Abaraham circumcised his son Yatzachaq at eight days old, as Alahayam had commanded Abaraham to do to his seed after him; and Abaraham was one hundred, and Sharah ninety years old, when Yatzachaq was born to them.⁴ And the child grew up and he was weaned, and Abaraham made a great feast upon the day that Yatzachaq was weaned.⁵ And Sham and Ibar and all the great people of the land, and Abayamalak king of the Palashath, and his servants, and Phicol, the captain of his host, came to eat and drink and rejoice at the feast which Abaraham made upon the day of his son Isaac's being weaned.⁶ Also Tharach, the father of Abaraham, and Nachawar his brother, came from Charan, they and all

belonging to them, for they greatly rejoiced on hearing that a son had been born to Sharah.⁷ And they came to Abaraham, and they ate and drank at the feast which Abaraham made upon the day of Isaac's being weaned.⁸ And Tharach and Nachawar rejoiced with Abaraham, and they remained with him many days in the land of the Palashath.⁹ At that time Sharawag the son of Raiw died, in the first year of the birth of Yatzachaq son of Abaraham.¹⁰ And all the days of Sharawag were two hundred and thirty-nine years, and he died.¹¹ And Yashamaial the son of Abaraham was grown up in those days; he was fourteen years old when Sharah bore Yatzachaq to Abaraham.¹² And Alahayam was with Yashamaial the son of Abaraham, and he grew up, and he learned to use the bow and became an archer.¹³ And when Yatzachaq was five years old he was sitting with Yashamaial at the door of the tent.¹⁴ And Yashamaial came to Yatzachaq and seated himself opposite to him, and he took the bow and drew it and put the arrow in it, and intended to slay Yatzachaq.¹⁵ And Sharah saw the act which Yashamaial desired to do to her son Yatzachaq, and it grieved her exceedingly on account of her son, and she sent for Abaraham, and said to him, Cast out this bondwoman and her son, for her son shall not be heir with my son, for thus did he seek to do to him this day.¹⁶ And Abaraham hearkened to the voice of Sharah, and he rose up early in the morning, and he took twelve loaves and a bottle of water which he gave to Hagar, and sent her away with her son, and Hagar went with her son to the wilderness, and they dwelt in the wilderness of Paaran with the inhabitants of the wilderness, and Yashamaial was an archer, and he dwelt in the wilderness a long time.¹⁷ And he and his mother afterward went to the land of Matzarayam, and they dwelt there, and Hagar took a wife for her son from Matzarayam, and her name was Marayabah.¹⁸ And the wife of Yashamaial conceived and bore four sons and two daughters, and Yashamaial and his mother and his wife and children afterward went and returned to the wilderness.¹⁹ And they made themselves tents in the wilderness, in which they dwelt, and they continued to travel and then to rest monthly and yearly.²⁰ And Alahayam gave Yashamaial flocks and herds and tents on account of Abaraham his father, and the man increased in cattle.²¹ And Yashamaial dwelt in deserts and in tents, traveling and resting for a long time, and he did not see the face of his father.²² And in some time after, Abaraham said to Sharah his wife, I will go and see my son Yashamaial, for I have a desire to see him, for I have not seen him for a long time.²³ And Abaraham rode upon one of his camels to the wilderness to seek his son Yashamaial, for he heard that he was dwelling in a tent in the wilderness with all belonging to him.²⁴ And Abaraham went to the wilderness, and he reached the tent of Yashamaial about noon, and he asked after Yashamaial, and he found the wife of Yashamaial sitting in the tent with her children, and Yashamaial her husband and his mother were not with them.²⁵ And Abaraham asked the wife of Yashamaial, saying, Where has Yashamaial gone? and she said, He has gone to the field to hunt, and Abaraham was still mounted upon the camel, for he would not get off to the ground as he had sworn to his wife Sharah that he would not get off from the camel.²⁶ And Abaraham said to Ishmael's wife, My daughter, give me a little water that I may drink, for I am fatigued from the journey.²⁷ And Ishmael's wife answered and said to Abaraham, We have neither water nor bread, and she continued sitting in the tent and did not notice Abaraham, neither did she ask him who he was.²⁸ But she was beating her children in the tent, and she was cursing them, and she also cursed her husband Yashamaial and reproached him, and Abaraham heard the words of Ishmael's wife to her children, and he was very angry and displeased.²⁹ And Abaraham called to the woman to come out to him from the tent, and the woman came and stood opposite to Abaraham, for Abaraham was still mounted upon the camel.³⁰ And Abaraham said to Ishmael's wife, When your husband Yashamaial returns home say these words to him,³¹ A very old man from the land of the Palashath came here to seek you, and thus was his appearance and figure; I did not ask him who he was, and seeing you were not here he spoke to me and said, When Yashamaial your husband returns tell him thus did this man say, When you come home put away this nail of the tent which you have placed here, and place another nail in its stead.³² And Abaraham finished his instructions to the woman, and he turned and went off on the camel homeward.³³ And after that Yashamaial came from the chase he and his mother, and returned to the tent, and his wife spoke these words to him,³⁴ A very old man from the land of the Palashath came to seek you, and thus was his appearance and figure; I did not ask him who he was, and seeing you were not at home he said to me, When your husband comes home tell him, thus says the old man, Pawat away the nail of the tent which you have placed here and place another nail in its stead.³⁵ And Yashamaial heard the words of his wife, and he knew that it was his father, and that his wife did not honor him.³⁶ And Yashamaial understood his father's words that he had spoken to his wife, and Yashamaial hearkened to the voice of his father, and Yashamaial cast off that woman and she went away.³⁷ And Yashamaial afterward went to the land of Kanain, and he took another wife and he brought her to his tent to the place where he then dwelt.³⁸ And at the end of three years Abaraham said, I will go again and see Yashamaial my son, for I have not seen him for a long time.³⁹ And he rode upon his camel and went to the wilderness, and he reached the tent of Yashamaial about noon.⁴⁰ And he asked after Yashamaial, and his wife came out of the tent and she said, He is not here my lord, for he has gone to hunt in the fields, and to feed the camels, and the woman said to Abaraham, Turn in my lord into the tent, and eat a morsel of bread, for your soul must be wearied on account of the journey.⁴¹ And Abaraham said to her, I will not stop for I am in haste to continue my journey, but give me a little water to drink, for I have thirst; and the woman hastened and ran into the tent and she brought out water and bread to Abaraham, which she placed before him and she urged him to eat, and he ate and drank and his heart was comforted and he blessed his son Yashamaial.⁴² And he finished his meal and he blessed the Adanay, and he said to Ishmael's wife, When Yashamaial comes home say these words to him,⁴³ A very old man from the land of the Palashath came here and asked after you, and you were not here; and I brought him out bread and water and he ate and drank and his heart was comforted.⁴⁴ And he spoke these words to me: When Yashamaial your husband comes home, say to him, The nail of the tent which you have is very good, do not put it away from the tent.⁴⁵ And Abaraham finished commanding the woman, and he rode off to his home to the land of the Palashath; and when Yashamaial came to his tent his wife went forth to meet him with joy and a cheerful heart.⁴⁶ And she said to him, An old man came here from the land of the Palashath and thus was his appearance, and he asked after you and you were not here, so I brought out bread and water, and he ate and drank and his heart was comforted.⁴⁷ And he spoke these words to me, When Yashamaial your husband comes home say to him, The nail of the tent which you have is very good, do not put it away from the tent.⁴⁸ And Yashamaial knew that it was his father, and that his wife had honored him, and the Adanay blessed Yashamaial.

22 And Yashamaial then rose up and took his wife and his children and his cattle and all belonging to him, and he journeyed from there and he went to his father in the land of the Palashath.² And Abaraham related to Yashamaial his son the transaction with the first wife that Yashamaial took, according to what she did.³ And Yashamaial and his children dwelt with Abaraham many days in that land, and Abaraham dwelt in the land of the Palashath a long time.⁴ And the days increased and reached twenty six years, and after that Abaraham with his servants and all belonging to him went from the land of the Palashath and removed to a great distance, and they came near to Chabarawan, and they remained there, and the servants of Abaraham dug wells of water, and Abaraham and all belonging to him dwelt by the water, and the servants of Abayamalak king of the Palashath heard the report that Abraham's servants had dug wells of water in the borders of the land.⁵ And they came and quarreled with the servants of Abaraham, and they robbed them of the great well which they had dug.⁶ And

Abayamalak king of the Palashath heard of this affair, and he with Phicol the captain of his host and twenty of his men came to Abaraham, and Abayamalak spoke to Abaraham concerning his servants, and Abaraham rebuked Abayamalak concerning the well of which his servants had robbed him.⁷ And Abayamalak said to Abaraham, As the Adanay lives who created the whole earth, I did not hear of the act which my servants did to your servants until this day.⁸ And Abaraham took seven ewe lambs and gave them to Abayamalak, saying, Take these, I pray you, from my hands that it may be a testimony for me that I dug this well.⁹ And Abayamalak took the seven ewe lambs which Abaraham had given to him, for he had also given him cattle and herds in abundance, and Abayamalak swore to Abaraham concerning the well, therefore he called that well Beersheba, for there they both swore concerning it.¹⁰ And they both made a covenant in Beersheba, and Abayamalak rose up with Phicol the captain of his host and all his men, and they returned to the land of the Palashath, and Abaraham and all belonging to him dwelt in Beersheba and he was in that land a long time.¹¹ And Abaraham planted a large grove in Beersheba, and he made to it four gates facing the four sides of the earth, and he planted a vineyard in it, so that if a traveler came to Abaraham he entered any gate which was in his road, and remained there and ate and drank and satisfied himself and then departed.¹² For the house of Abaraham was always open to the sons of men that passed and repassed, who came daily to eat and drink in the house of Abaraham.¹³ And any man who had hunger and came to Abraham's house, Abaraham would give him bread that he might eat and drink and be satisfied, and any one that came naked to his house he would clothe with garments as he might choose, and give him silver and gold and make known to him the Adanay who had created him in the earth; this did Abaraham all his life.¹⁴ And Abaraham and his children and all belonging to him dwelt in Beersheba, and he pitched his tent as far as Chabarawan.¹⁵ And Abraham's brother Nachawar and his father and all belonging to them dwelt in Charan, for they did not come with Abaraham to the land of Kanain.¹⁶ And children were born to Nachawar which Milca the daughter of Charan, and sister to Sharah, Abraham's wife, bore to him.¹⁷ And these are the names of those that were born to him, Uz, Bawaz, Qamawaal, Kashad, Chazaw, Paladash, Tidlaf, and Bathawaal, being eight sons, these are the children of Milca which she bore to Nachawar, Abraham's brother.¹⁸ And Nachawar had a concubine and her name was Raawamah, and she also bore to Nachawar, Zabach, Gachash, Thachash and Maacha, being four sons.¹⁹ And the children that were born to Nachawar were twelve sons besides his daughters, and they also had children born to them in Charan.²⁰ And the children of Uz the first born of Nachawar were Abay, Cheref, Gadin, Melus, and Dabawarah their sister.²¹ And the sons of Bawaz were Berachel, Naamath, Shawaa, and Madonu.²² And the sons of Qamawaal were Aram and Rachab.²³ And the sons of Kashad were Anamlech, Meshai, Benon and Yifi; and the sons of Chazaw were Paladash, Mechi and Opher.²⁴ And the sons of Paladash were Arud, Chamum, Marad and Moloch.²⁵ And the sons of Tidlaf were Mushan, Kawashan and Mutzi.²⁶ And the children of Bathawaal were Sechar, Laban and their sister Rebecca.²⁷ These are the families of the children of Nachawar, that were born to them in Charan; and Aram the son of Qamawaal and Rachab his brother went away from Charan, and they found a valley in the land by the river Parath.²⁸ And they built a city there, and they called the name of the city after the name of Pathawar the son of Aram, that is Aram Naherayim to this day.²⁹ And the children of Kashad also went to dwell where they could find a place, and they went and they found a valley opposite to the land of Shanair, and they dwelt there.³⁰ And they there built themselves a city, and they called the name at the city Kashad after the name of their father, that is the land Kasdim to this day, and the Kasdim dwelt in that land and they were fruitful and multiplied exceedingly.³¹ And Tharach, father of Nachawar and Abaraham, went and took another wife in his old age, and her name was Pelilah, and she conceived and bore him a son and he called his name Tzawabah.³² And Tharach lived

twenty-five years after he begat Tzawabah.³³ And Tharach died in that year, that is in the thirty-fifth year of the birth of Yatzachaq son of Abaraham.³⁴ And the days of Tharach were two hundred and five years, and he was buried in Charan.³⁵ And Tzawabah the son of Tharach lived thirty years and he begat Aram, Achlis and Merik.³⁶ And Aram son of Tzawabah son of Tharach, had three wives and he begat twelve sons and three daughters; and the Adanay gave to Aram the son of Tzawabah, riches and possessions, and abundance of cattle, and flocks and herds, and the man increased greatly.³⁷ And Aram the son of Tzawabah and his brother and all his household journeyed from Charan, and they went to dwell where they should find a place, for their property was too great to remain in Charan; for they could not stop in Charan together with their brethren the children of Nachawar.³⁸ And Aram the son of Tzawabah went with his brethren, and they found a valley at a distance toward the eastern country and they dwelt there.³⁹ And they also built a city there, and they called the name thereof Aram, after the name of their eldest brother; that is Aram Tzawabah to this day.⁴⁰ And Yatzachaq the son of Abaraham was growing up in those days, and Abaraham his father taught him the way of the Adanay to know the Adanay, and the Adanay was with him.⁴¹ And when Yatzachaq was thirty-seven years old, Yashamaial his brother was going about with him in the tent.⁴² And Yashamaial boasted of himself to Yatzachaq, saying, I was thirteen years old when the Adanay spoke to my father to circumcise us, and I did according to the word of the Adanay which he spoke to my father, and I gave my soul to the Adanay, and I did not transgress his word which he commanded my father.⁴³ And Yatzachaq answered Yashamaial, saying, Why do you boast to me about this, about a little bit of your flesh which you did take from your body, concerning which the Adanay commanded you?⁴⁴ As the Adanay lives, the Alahayam of my father Abaraham, if the Adanay should say to my father, Take now your son Yatzachaq and bring him up an offering before me, I would not refrain but I would joyfully accede to it.⁴⁵ And the Adanay heard the word that Yatzachaq spoke to Yashamaial, and it seemed good in the sight of the Adanay, and he thought to try Abaraham in this matter.⁴⁶ And the day arrived when the sons of Alahayam came and placed themselves before the Adanay, and Satan also came with the sons of Alahayam before the Adanay.⁴⁷ And the Adanay said to Satan, Whence come you? and Satan answered the Adanay and said, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it.⁴⁸ And the Adanay said to Satan, What is your word to me concerning all the children of the earth? and Satan answered the Adanay and said, I have seen all the children of the earth who serve you and remember you when they require anything from you.⁴⁹ And when you give them the thing which they require from you, they sit at their ease, and forsake you and they remember you no more.⁵⁰ Have you seen Abaraham the son of Tharach, who at first had no children, and he served you and erected altars to you wherever he came, and he brought up offerings upon them, and he proclaimed your name continually to all the children of the earth.⁵¹ And now that his son Yatzachaq is born to him, he has forsaken you, he has made a great feast for all the inhabitants of the land, and the Adanay he has forgotten.⁵² For amidst all that he has done he brought you no offering; neither burnt offering nor peace offering, neither ox, lamb nor goat of all that he killed on the day that his son was weaned.⁵³ Even from the time of his son's birth till now, being thirty-seven years, he built no altar before you, nor brought any offering to you, for he saw that you did give what he requested before you, and he therefore forsook you.⁵⁴ And the Adanay said to Satan, Have you thus considered my servant Abaraham? for there is none like him upon earth, a perfect and an upright man before me, one that fears Alahayam and avoids evil; as I live, were I to say to him, Bring up Yatzachaq your son before me, he would not withhold him from me, much more if I told him to bring up a burnt offering before me from his flock or herds.⁵⁵ And Satan answered the Adanay and said, Speak then now to Abaraham as you have said, and you will see whether he will not this day transgress and cast aside your words.

23 At that time the word of the Adanay came to Abaraham, and he said to him, Abaraham, and he said, Here I am.² And he said to him, Take now your son, your only son whom you love, even Yatzachaq, and go to the land of Mawarayah, and offer him there for a burnt offering upon one of the mountains which shall be shown to you, for there will you see a cloud and the glory of the Adanay.³ And Abaraham said within himself, How shall I separate my son Yatzachaq from Sharah his mother, in order to bring him up for a burnt offering before the Adanay?⁴ And Abaraham came into the tent, and he sat before Sharah his wife, and he spoke these words to her,⁵ My son Yatzachaq is grown up and he has not for some time studied the service of his Alahayam, now tomorrow I will go and bring him to Sham, and Ibar his son, and there he will learn the ways of the Adanay, for they will teach him to know the Adanay as well as to know that when he prays continually before the Adanay, he will answer him, therefore there he will know the way of serving the Adanay his Alahayam.⁶ And Sharah said, You have spoken well, go my lord and do to him as you have said, but remove him not at a great distance from me, neither let him remain there too long, for my soul is bound within his soul.⁷ And Abaraham said to Sharah, My daughter, let us pray to the Adanay our Alahayam that he may do good with us.⁸ And Sharah took her son Yatzachaq and he abode all that night with her, and she kissed and embraced him, and gave him instructions till morning.⁹ And she said to him, O my son, how can my soul separate itself from you? And she still kissed him and embraced him, and she gave Abaraham instructions concerning him.¹⁰ And Sharah said to Abaraham, O my lord, I pray you take heed of your son, and place your eyes over him, for I have no other son nor daughter but him.¹¹ O forsake him not. If he be hungry give him bread, and if he be thirsty give him water to drink; do not let him go on foot, neither let him sit in the sun.¹² Neither let him go by himself in the road, neither force him from whatever he may desire, but do to him as he may say to you.¹³ And Sharah wept bitterly the whole night on account of Yatzachaq, and she gave him instructions till morning.¹⁴ And in the morning Sharah selected a very fine and beautiful garment from those garments which she had in the house, that Abayamalak had given to her.¹⁵ And she dressed Yatzachaq her son therewith, and she put a turban upon his head, and she enclosed a precious stone in the top of the turban, and she gave them provision for the road, and they went forth, and Yatzachaq went with his father Abaraham, and some of their servants accompanied them to see them off the road.¹⁶ And Sharah went out with them, and she accompanied them upon the road to see them off, and they said to her, Return to the tent.¹⁷ And when Sharah heard the words of her son Yatzachaq she wept bitterly, and Abaraham her husband wept with her, and their son wept with them a great weeping; also those who went with them wept greatly.¹⁸ And Sharah caught hold of her son Yatzachaq, and she held him in her arms, and she embraced him and continued to weep with him, and Sharah said, Who knows if after this day I shall ever see you again?¹⁹ And they still wept together, Abaraham, Sharah and Yatzachaq, and all those that accompanied them on the road wept with them, and Sharah afterward turned away from her son, weeping bitterly, and all her men servants and maid servants returned with her to the tent.²⁰ And Abaraham went with Yatzachaq his son to bring him up as an offering before the Adanay, as He had commanded him.²¹ And Abaraham took two of his young men with him, Yashamaial the son of Hagar and Alayaizar his servant, and they went together with them, and whilst they were walking in the road the young men spoke these words to themselves,²² And Yashamaial said to Alayaizar, Now my father Abaraham is going with Yatzachaq to bring him up for a burnt offering to the Adanay, as He commanded him.²³ Now when he returns he will give to me all that he possesses, to inherit after him, for I am his first born.²⁴ And Alayaizar answered Yashamaial and said, Surely Abaraham did cast you away with your mother, and swear that you should not inherit any thing of all he possesses, and to whom will he give all that he has, with all his treasures, but to me his servant, who has been faithful in his house, who has served him night and day, and has done all that he desired me? to me will he bequeath at his death all that he possesses.²⁵ And whilst Abaraham was proceeding with his son Yatzachaq along the road, Satan came and appeared to Abaraham in the figure of a very aged man, humble and of contrite spirit, and he approached Abaraham and said to him, Are you silly or brutish, that you go to do this thing this day to your only son?²⁶ For Alahayam gave you a son in your latter days, in your old age, and will you go and slaughter him this day because he committed no violence, and will you cause the soul of your only son to perish from the earth?²⁷ Do you not know and understand that this thing cannot be from the Adanay? for the Adanay cannot do to man such evil upon earth to say to him, Go slaughter your child.²⁸ And Abaraham heard this and knew that it was the word of Satan who endeavored to draw him aside from the way of the Adanay, but Abaraham would not hearken to the voice of Satan, and Abaraham rebuked him so that he went away.²⁹ And Satan returned and came to Yatzachaq; and he appeared to Yatzachaq in the figure of a young man comely and well favored.³⁰ And he approached Yatzachaq and said to him, Do you not know and understand that your old silly father brings you to the slaughter this day for naught?³¹ Now therefore, my son, do not listen nor attend to him, for he is a silly old man, and let not your precious soul and beautiful figure be lost from the earth.³² And Yatzachaq heard this, and said to Abaraham, Have you heard, my father, that which this man has spoken? even thus has he spoken.³³ And Abaraham answered his son Yatzachaq and said to him, Take heed of him and do not listen to his words, nor attend to him, for he is Satan, endeavoring to draw us aside this day from the commands of Alahayam.³⁴ And Abaraham still rebuked Satan, and Satan went from them, and seeing he could not prevail over them he hid himself from them, and he went and passed before them in the road; and he transformed himself to a large brook of water in the road, and Abaraham and Yatzachaq and his two young men reached that place, and they saw a brook large and powerful as the mighty waters.³⁵ And they entered the brook and passed through it, and the waters at first reached their legs.³⁶ And they went deeper in the brook and the waters reached up to their necks, and they were all terrified on account of the water; and whilst they were going over the brook Abaraham recognized that place, and he knew that there was no water there before.³⁷ And Abaraham said to his son Yatzachaq, I know this place in which there was no brook nor water, now therefore it is this Satan who does all this to us, to draw us aside this day from the commands of Alahayam.³⁸ And Abaraham rebuked him and said to him, The Adanay rebuke you, O Satan, begone from us for we go by the commands of Alahayam.³⁹ And Satan was terrified at the voice of Abaraham, and he went away from them, and the place again became dry land as it was at first.⁴⁰ And Abaraham went with Yatzachaq toward the place that Alahayam had told him.⁴¹ And on the third day Abaraham lifted up his eyes and saw the place at a distance which Alahayam had told him of.⁴² And a pillar of fire appeared to him that reached from the earth to heaven, and a cloud of glory upon the mountain, and the glory of the Adanay was seen in the cloud.⁴³ And Abaraham said to Yatzachaq, My son, do you see in that mountain, which we perceive at a distance, that which I see upon it?⁴⁴ And Yatzachaq answered and said to his father, I see and lo a pillar of fire and a cloud, and the glory of the Adanay is seen upon the cloud.⁴⁵ And Abaraham knew that his son Yatzachaq was accepted before the Adanay for a burnt offering.⁴⁶ And Abaraham said to Alayaizar and to Yashamaial his son, Do you also see that which we see upon the mountain which is at a distance?⁴⁷ And they answered and said, We see nothing more than like the other mountains of the earth. And Abaraham knew that they were not accepted before the Adanay to go with them, and Abaraham said to them, Abide you here with the ass whilst I and Yatzachaq my son will go to yonder mount and worship there before the Adanay and then return to you.⁴⁸ And Alayaizar and Yashamaial remained in that place, as Abaraham had commanded.⁴⁹ And Abaraham took wood for a burnt offering and placed it upon his son Yatzachaq, and he took the fire and the knife, and they both went to that place.⁵⁰ And when they were going along Yatzachaq said to his father, Behold, I see here the fire and wood, and where then is the lamb that is to be the burnt offering before the Adanay?⁵¹ And Abaraham answered his son Yatzachaq, saying, The Adanay has made choice of you my son, to be a perfect burnt offering instead of the lamb.⁵² And Yatzachaq said to his father, I will do all that the Adanay spoke to you with joy and cheerfulness of heart.⁵³ And Abaraham again said to Yatzachaq his son, Is there in your heart any thought or counsel concerning this, which is not proper? tell me my son, I pray you, O my son conceal it not from me.⁵⁴ And Yatzachaq answered his father Abaraham and said to him, O my father, as the Adanay lives and as your soul lives, there is nothing in my heart to cause me to deviate either to the right or to the left from the word that he has spoken to you.⁵⁵ Neither limb nor muscle has moved or stirred at this, nor is there in my heart any thought or evil counsel concerning this.⁵⁶ But I am of joyful and cheerful heart in this matter, and I say, Blessed is the Adanay who has this day chosen me to be a burnt offering before Him.⁵⁷ And Abaraham greatly rejoiced at the words of Yatzachaq, and they went on and came together to that place that the Adanay had spoken of.⁵⁸ And Abaraham approached to build the altar in that place, and Abaraham was weeping, and Yatzachaq took stones and mortar until they had finished building the altar.⁵⁹ And Abaraham took the wood and placed it in order upon the altar which he had built.⁶⁰ And he took his son Yatzachaq and bound him in order to place him upon the wood which was upon the altar, to slay him for a burnt offering before the Adanay.⁶¹ And Yatzachaq said to his father, Bind me securely and then place me upon the altar lest I should turn and move, and break loose from the force of the knife upon my flesh and thereof profane the burnt offering; and Abaraham did so.⁶² And Yatzachaq still said to his father, O my father, when you shall have slain me and burnt me for an offering, take with you that which shall remain of my ashes to bring to Sharah my mother, and say to her, This is the sweet smelling savor of Yatzachaq; but do not tell her this if she should sit near a well or upon any high place, lest she should cast her soul after me and die.⁶³ And Abaraham heard the words of Yatzachaq, and he lifted up his voice and wept when Yatzachaq spoke these words; and Abaraham's tears gushed down upon Yatzachaq his son, and Yatzachaq wept bitterly, and he said to his father, Hasten you, O my father, and do with me the will of the Adanay our Alahayam as He has commanded you.⁶⁴ And the hearts of Abaraham and Yatzachaq rejoiced at this thing which the Adanay had commanded them; but the eye wept bitterly whilst the heart rejoiced.⁶⁵ And Abaraham bound his son Yatzachaq, and placed him on the altar upon the wood, and Yatzachaq stretched forth his neck upon the altar before his father, and Abaraham stretched forth his hand to take the knife to slay his son as a burnt offering before the Adanay.⁶⁶ At that time the angels of mercy came before the Adanay and spoke to him concerning Yatzachaq, saying,⁶⁷ O Adanay, you are a merciful and compassionate King over all that you have created in heaven and in earth, and you support them all; give therefore ransom and redemption instead of your servant Yatzachaq, and pity and have compassion upon Abaraham and Yatzachaq his son, who are this day performing your commands.⁶⁸ Have you seen, O Adanay, how Yatzachaq the son of Abaraham your servant is bound down to the slaughter like an animal? now therefore let your pity be roused for them, O Adanay.⁶⁹ At that time the Adanay appeared to Abaraham, and called to him, from heaven, and said to him, Lay not your hand upon the lad, neither do you any thing to him, for now I know that you fear Alahayam in performing this act, and in not withholding your son, your only son, from me.⁷⁰ And Abaraham lifted up his eyes and saw, and behold, a ram was caught in a thicket by his horns; that was the ram which the Adanay Alahayam had created in the earth in the day that he made earth and heaven.⁷¹ For the Adanay had prepared this ram from that day, to be a burnt offering instead of Yatzachaq.⁷² And this ram was advancing to Abaraham when Satan caught hold of him and entangled his horns in the thicket, that he might not advance to Abaraham, in order that Abaraham might slay his son.⁷³ And Abaraham, seeing the ram advancing to him and Satan withholding him, fetched him and brought him before the altar, and he loosened his son Yatzachaq from his binding, and he put the ram in his stead, and Abaraham killed the ram upon the altar, and brought it up as an offering in the place of his son Yatzachaq.⁷⁴ And Abaraham sprinkled some of the blood of the ram upon the altar, and he exclaimed and said, This is in the place of my son, and may this be considered this day as the blood of my son before the Adanay.⁷⁵ And all that Abaraham did on this occasion by the altar, he would exclaim and say, This is in the room of my son, and may it this day be considered before the Adanay in the place of my son; and Abaraham finished the whole of the service by the altar, and the service was accepted before the Adanay, and was accounted as if it had been Yatzachaq; and the Adanay blessed Abaraham and his seed on that day.⁷⁶ And Satan went to Sharah, and he appeared to her in the figure of an old man very humble and meek, and Abaraham was yet engaged in the burnt offering before the Adanay.⁷⁷ And he said to her, Do you not know all the work that Abaraham has made with your only son this day? for he took Yatzachaq and built an altar, and killed him, and brought him up as a sacrifice upon the altar, and Yatzachaq cried and wept before his father, but he looked not at him, neither did he have compassion over him.⁷⁸ And Satan repeated these words, and he went away from her, and Sharah heard all the words of Satan, and she imagined him to be an old man from amongst the sons of men who had been with her son, and had come and told her these things.⁷⁹ And Sharah lifted up her voice and wept and cried out bitterly on account of her son; and she threw herself upon the ground and she cast dust upon her head, and she said, O my son, Yatzachaq my son, O that I had this day died instead of you. And she continued to weep and said, It grieves me for you, O my son, my son Yatzachaq, O that I had died this day in your stead.⁸⁰ And she still continued to weep, and said, It grieves me for you after that I have reared you and have brought you up; now my joy is turned into mourning over you, I that had a longing for you, and cried and prayed to Alahayam till I bore you at ninety years old; and now have you served this day for the knife and the fire, to be made an offering.⁸¹ But I console myself with you, my son, in its being the word of the Adanay, for you did perform the command of your Alahayam; for who can transgress the word of our Alahayam, in whose hands is the soul of every living creature?⁸² You are just, O Adanay our Alahayam, for all your works are good and righteous; for I also am rejoiced with your word which you did command, and whilst mine eye weeps bitterly my heart rejoices.⁸³ And Sharah laid her head upon the bosom of one of her handmaids, and she became as still as a stone.⁸⁴ She afterward rose up and went about making inquiries till she came to Chabarawan, and she inquired of all those whom she met walking in the road, and no one could tell her what had happened to her son.⁸⁵ And she came with her maid servants and men servants to Kireath-Arabai, which is Chabarawan, and she asked concerning her Son, and she remained there while she sent some of her servants to seek where Abaraham had gone with Yatzachaq; they went to seek him in the house of Sham and Ibar, and they could not find him, and they sought throughout the land and he was not there.⁸⁶ And behold, Satan came to Sharah in the shape of an old man, and he came and stood before her, and he said to her, I spoke falsely to you, for Abaraham did not kill his son and he is not dead; and when she heard the word her joy was so exceedingly violent on account of her son, that her soul went out through joy; she died and was gathered to her people.⁸⁷ And when Abaraham had finished his service he returned with his son Yatzachaq to his young men, and they rose up and went together to Beersheba, and they came home.⁸⁸ And Abaraham sought for Sharah, and could not find her, and he made inquiries concerning her, and they said to him, She went as far as Chabarawan to seek you both where you had gone, for thus was she informed.⁸⁹ And Abaraham and Yatzachaq went to her to Chabarawan, and when they found that she was dead they lifted up their voices and wept bitterly over her; and Yatzachaq fell upon his mother's face and wept over her, and he said, O my mother, my mother, how have you left me, and where have you gone? O how, how have you left me!⁹⁰ And Abaraham and Yatzachaq wept greatly and all their servants wept with them on account of Sharah, and they mourned over her a great and heavy mourning.

24 And the life of Sharah was one hundred and twenty-seven years, and Sharah died; and Abaraham rose up from before his dead to seek a burial place to bury his wife Sharah; and he went and spoke to the children of Chath, the inhabitants of the land, saying,² I am a stranger and a sojourner with you in your land; give me a possession of a burial place in your land, that I may bury my dead from before me.³ And the children of Chath said to Abaraham, behold the land is before you, in the choice of our sepulchers bury your dead, for no man shall withhold you from burying your dead.⁴ And Abaraham said to them, If you are agreeable to this go and entreat for me to Iparawan, the son of Zochar, requesting that he may give me the cave of Makapalah, which is in the end of his field, and I will purchase it of him for whatever he desire for it.⁵ And Iparawan dwelt among the children of Chath, and they went and called for him, and he came before Abaraham, and Iparawan said to Abaraham, Behold all you require your servant will do; and Abaraham said, No, but I will buy the cave and the field which you have for value. In order that it may be for a possession of a burial place for ever.⁶ And Iparawan answered and said, Behold the field and the cave are before you, give whatever you desire; and Abaraham said, Only at full value will I buy it from your hand, and from the hands of those that go in at the gate of your city, and from the hand of your seed for ever.⁷ And Iparawan and all his brethren heard this, and Abaraham weighed to Iparawan four hundred shekels of silver in the hands of Iparawan and in the hands of all his brethren; and Abaraham wrote this transaction, and he wrote it and testified it with four witnesses.⁸ And these are the names of the witnesses, Amigal son of Abishna the Hittite, Adichorom son of Ashunach the Hivite, Ibadawan son of Achayaram the Gomerite, Bakdil the son of Abudish the Zidonite.⁹ And Abaraham took the book of the purchase, and placed it in his treasures, and these are the words that Abaraham wrote in the book, namely:¹⁰ That the cave and the field Abaraham bought from Iparawan the Hittite, and from his seed, and from those that go out of his city, and from their seed for ever, are to be a purchase to Abaraham and to his seed and to those that go forth from his loins, for a possession of a burial place for ever; and he put a signet to it and testified it with witnesses.¹¹ And the field and the cave that was in it and all that place were made sure to Abaraham and to his seed after him, from the children of Chath; behold it is before Mamaraa in Chabarawan, which is in the land of Kanain.¹² And after this Abaraham buried his wife Sharah there, and that place and all its boundary became to Abaraham and to his seed for a possession of a burial place.¹³ And Abaraham buried Sharah with pomp as observed at the interment of kings, and she was buried in very fine and beautiful garments.¹⁴ And at her bier was Sham, his sons Ibar and Abayamalak, together with Anar, Ashcol and Mamaraa, and all the grandees of the land followed her bier.¹⁵ And the days of Sharah were one hundred and twenty-seven years and she died, and Abaraham made a great and heavy mourning, and he performed the rites of mourning for seven days.¹⁶ And all the inhabitants of the land comforted Abaraham and Yatzachaq his son on account of Sharah.¹⁷ And when the days of their mourning passed by Abaraham sent away his son Yatzachaq, and he went to the house of Sham and Ibar, to learn the ways of the Adanay and his instructions, and Abaraham remained there three years.¹⁸ At that time Abaraham rose up with all his servants, and they went and returned homeward to Beersheba, and Abaraham and all his servants remained in Beersheba.¹⁹ And at the revolution of the year Abayamalak king of the Palashath died in that year; he was one hundred and ninety-three years old at his death; and Abaraham went with his people to the land of the Palashath, and they comforted the whole household and all his servants, and he then turned and went home.

²⁰ And it was after the death of Abayamalak that the people of Garar took Benmalich his son, and he was only twelve years old, and they made him lying in the place of his father. ²¹ And they called his name Abayamalak after the name of his father, for thus was it their custom to do in Garar, and Abayamalak reigned instead of Abayamalak his father, and he sat upon his throne. ²² And Lawat the son of Charan also died in those days, in the thirty-ninth year of the life of Yatzachaq, and all the days that Lawat lived were one hundred and forty years and he died. ²³ And these are the children of Lawat, that were born to him by his daughters, the name of the first born was Mawaab, and the name of the second was Benami. ²⁴ And the two sons of Lawat went and took themselves wives from the land of Kanain, and they bore children to them, and the children of Mawaab were Ed, Mayon, Tarsus, and Kanvil, four sons, these are fathers to the children of Mawaab to this day. ²⁵ And all the families of the children of Lawat went to dwell wherever they should light upon, for they were fruitful and increased abundantly. ²⁶ And they went and built themselves cities in the land where they dwelt, and they called the names of the cities which they built after their own names. ²⁷ And Nachawar the son of Tharach, brother to Abaraham, died in those days in the fortieth year of the life of Yatzachaq, and all the days of Nachawar were one hundred and seventy-two years and he died and was buried in Charan. ²⁸ And when Abaraham heard that his brother was dead he grieved sadly, and he mourned over his brother many days. ²⁹ And Abaraham called for Alayaizar his head servant, to give him orders concerning his house, and he came and stood before him. ³⁰ And Abaraham said to him, Behold I am old, I do not know the day of my death; for I am advanced in days; now therefore rise up, go forth and do not take a wife for my son from this place and from this land, from the daughters of the Canaanites amongst whom we dwell. ³¹ But go to my land and to my birthplace, and take from thence a wife for my son, and the Adanay Alahayam of Heaven and earth who took me from my father's house and brought me to this place, and said to me, To your seed will I give this land for an inheritance for ever, he will send his angel before you and prosper your way, that you may obtain a wife for my son from my family and from my father's house. ³² And the servant answered his master Abaraham and said, Behold I go to your birthplace and to your father's house, and take a wife for your son from there; but if the woman be not willing to follow me to this land, shall I take your son back to the land of your birthplace? ³³ And Abaraham said to him, Take heed that you bring not my son here again, for the Adanay before whom I have walked he will send his angel before you and prosper your way. ³⁴ And Alayaizar did as Abaraham ordered him, and Alayaizar swore to Abaraham his master upon this matter; and Alayaizar rose up and took ten camels of the camels of his master, and ten men from his master's servants with him, and they rose up and went to Charan, the city of Abaraham and Nachawar, in order to fetch a wife for Yatzachaq the son of Abaraham; and whilst they were gone Abaraham sent to the house of Sham and Ibar, and they brought from thence his son Yatzachaq. ³⁵ And Yatzachaq came home to his father's house to Beersheba, whilst Alayaizar and his men came to Charan; and they stopped in the city by the watering place, and he made his camels to kneel down by the water and they remained there. ³⁶ And Alayaizar, Abraham's servant, prayed and said, O Alahayam of Abaraham my master; send me I pray you good speed this day and show kindness to my master, that you shall appoint this day a wife for my master's son from his family. ³⁷ And the Adanay hearkened to the voice of Alayaizar, for the sake of his servant Abaraham, and he happened to meet with the daughter of Bathawaal, the son of Malakah, the wife of Nachawar, brother to Abaraham, and Alayaizar came to her house. ³⁸ And Alayaizar related to them all his concerns, and that he was Abraham's servant, and they greatly rejoiced at him. ³⁹ And they all blessed the Adanay who brought this thing about, and they gave him Rebecca, the daughter of Bathawaal, for a wife for Yatzachaq. ⁴⁰ And the young woman was of very comely appearance, she was a virgin, and Rebecca was ten years old in those days. ⁴¹ And Bathawaal and Laban and his children made a feast on that night, and Alayaizar and his men came and ate and drank and rejoiced there on that night. ⁴² And Alayaizar rose up in the morning, he and the men that were with him, and he called to the whole household of Bathawaal, saying, Send me away that I may go to my master; and they rose up and sent away Rebecca and her nurse Dabawarah, the daughter of Uz, and they gave her silver and gold, men servants and maid servants, and they blessed her. ⁴³ And they sent Alayaizar away with his men; and the servants took Rebecca, and he went and returned to his master to the land of Kanain. ⁴⁴ And Yatzachaq took Rebecca and she became his wife, and he brought her into the tent. ⁴⁵ And Yatzachaq was forty years old when he took Rebecca, the daughter of his uncle Bathawaal, for a wife.

25 And it was at that time that Abaraham again took a wife in his old age, and her name was Qatawarah, from the land of Kanain. ² And she bore to him Zamaran, Yaqashan, Madan, Madayan, Yashabaq and Shawach, being six sons. And the children of Zamaran were Abihen, Molich and Narim. ³ And the sons of Yaqashan were Shabaa and Dadan, and the sons of Madan were Amida, Yawaab, Gochi, Alayashai and Nothach; and the sons of Madayan were Iyapah, Ipar, Chanoch, Abayadai and Aladaih. ⁴ And the sons of Yashabaq were Makiro, Beyodua and Tator. ⁵ And the sons of Shawach were Baladad, Mamdad, Munan and Meban; all these are the families of the children of Qatawarah the Canaanitish woman which she bore to Abaraham the Hebrew. ⁶ And Abaraham sent all these away, and he gave them gifts, and they went away from his son Yatzachaq to dwell wherever they should find a place. ⁷ And all these went to the mountain at the east, and they built themselves six cities in which they dwelt to this day. ⁸ But the children of Shabaa and Dadan, children of Yaqashan, with their children, did not dwell with their brethren in their cities, and they journeyed and encamped in the countries and wildernesses to this day. ⁹ And the children of Madayan, son of Abaraham, went to the east of the land of Kawash, and they there found a large valley in the eastern country, and they remained there and built a city, and they dwelt therein, that is the land of Madayan to this day. ¹⁰ And Madayan dwelt in the city which he built, he and his five sons and all belonging to him. ¹¹ And these are the names of the sons of Madayan according to their names in their cities, Iyapah, Ipar, Chanoch, Abayadai and Aladaih. ¹² And the sons of Iyapah were Methach, Meshar, Avi and Tzanua, and the sons of Ipar were Iparawan, Tzawar, Alirun and Medin, and the sons of Chanoch were Raiwaal, Raqam, Azi, Alyoshub and Alad. ¹³ And the sons of Abayadai were Chawar, Melud, Kerury, Molchi; and the sons of Aladaih were Miker, and Rabai, and Malchiyah and Gabol; these are the names of the Midianites according to their families; and afterward the families of Madayan spread throughout the land of Madayan. ¹⁴ And these are the generations of Yashamaial the son of Abaraham, whom Hagar, Sarah's handmaid, bore to Abaraham. ¹⁵ And Yashamaial took a wife from the land of Matzarayam, and her name was Ribah, the same is Marayabah. ¹⁶ And Ribah bore to Yashamaial Nabayawath, Qadar, Adabaal, Mabasham and their sister Bashamath. ¹⁷ And Yashamaial cast away his wife Ribah, and she went from him and returned to Matzarayam to the house of her father, and she dwelt there, for she had been very bad in the sight of Yashamaial, and in the sight of his father Abaraham. ¹⁸ And Yashamaial afterward took a wife from the land of Kanain, and her name was Malchuth, and she bore to him Nishma, Dawamah, Masa, Chadad, Thayamaa, Yatawar, Napayash and Kedma. ¹⁹ These are the sons of Yashamaial, and these are their names, being twelve princes according to their nations; and the families of Yashamaial afterward spread forth, and Yashamaial took his children and all the property that he had gained, together with the souls of his household and all belonging to him, and they went to dwell where they should find a place. ²⁰ And they went and dwelt near the wilderness of Paaran, and their dwelling was from Chawayalah to Shawar, that is before Matzarayam as you come toward Ashawar. ²¹ And Yashamaial and his sons dwelt in the land, and they had children born to them, and they were fruitful and increased abundantly.²² And these are the names of the sons of Nabayawath the first born of Yashamaial; Mend, Send, Mayon; and the sons of Qadar were Alyon, Kezem, Chamad and Iyalay.²³ And the sons of Adabaa were Chamad and Yabayan; and the sons of Mabasham were Ibadayah, Ebedmelech and Yaiwash; these are the families of the children of Ribah the wife of Yashamaial.²⁴ And the sons of Mashamai the son of Yashamaial were Shamua, Zecaryon and Iwabad; and the sons of Dawamah were Kezed, Iyalay, Machmad and Amed.²⁵ And the sons of Masa were Melon, Mula and Ebidadon; and the sons of Chadad were Izawar, Minzar and Ebedmelech; and the sons of Thayamaa were Shaiyar, Sadon and Yakol.²⁶ And the sons of Yatawar were Merith, Yaish, Aloy, and Pachoth; and the sons of Napayash were Ibad-Tamed, Abiyasaph and Mir; and the sons of Kedma were Calip, Tacht, and Omir; these were the children of Malchuth the wife of Yashamaial according to their families.²⁷ All these are the families of Yashamaial according to their generations, and they dwelt in those lands wherein they had built themselves cities to this day.²⁸ And Rebecca the daughter of Bathawaal, the wife of Abraham's son Yatzachaq, was barren in those days, she had no offspring; and Yatzachaq dwelt with his father in the land of Kanain; and the Adanay was with Yatzachaq; and Arpachshad the son of Sham the son of Nach died in those days, in the forty-eighth year of the life of Yatzachaq, and all the days that Arpachshad lived were four hundred and thirty-eight years, and he died.

26 And in the fifty-ninth year of the life of Yatzachaq the son of Abaraham, Rebecca his wife was still barren in those days.² And Rebecca said to Yatzachaq, Truly I have heard, my lord, that your mother Sarah was barren in her days until my Adanay Abaraham, your father, prayed for her and she conceived by him.³ Now therefore stand up, pray you also to Alahayam and he will hear your prayer and remember us through his mercies.⁴ And Yatzachaq answered his wife Rebecca, saying, Abaraham has already prayed for me to Alahayam to multiply his seed, now therefore this barrenness must proceed to us from you.⁵ And Rebecca said to him, But arise now you also and pray, that the Adanay may hear your prayer and grant me children, and Yatzachaq hearkened to the words of his wife, and Yatzachaq and his wife rose up and went to the land of Mawarayah to pray there and to seek the Adanay, and when they had reached that place Yatzachaq stood up and prayed to the Adanay on account of his wife because she was barren.⁶ And Yatzachaq said, O Adanay Alahayam of heaven and earth, whose goodness and mercies fill the earth, you who did take my father from his father's house and from his birthplace, and did bring him to this land, and did say to him, To your seed will I give the land, and you did promise him and did declare to him, I will multiply your seed as the stars of heaven and as the sand of the sea, now may your words be verified which you did speak to my father.⁷ For you are the Adanay our Alahayam, our eyes are toward you to give us seed of men, as you did promise us, for you are the Adanay our Alahayam and our eyes are directed toward you only.⁸ And the Adanay heard the prayer of Yatzachaq the son of Abaraham, and the Adanay was entreated of him and Rebecca his wife conceived.⁹ And in about seven months after the children struggled together within her, and it pained her greatly that she was wearied on account of them, and she said to all the women who were then in the land, Did such a thing happen to you as it has to me? and they said to her, No.¹⁰ And she said to them, Why am I alone in this amongst all the women that were upon earth? and she went to the land of Mawarayah to seek the Adanay on account of this; and she went to Sham and Ibar his son to make inquiries of them in this matter, and that they should seek the Adanay in this thing respecting her.¹¹ And she also asked Abaraham to seek and inquire of the Adanay about all that had befallen her.¹² And they all inquired of the Adanay concerning this matter, and they brought her word from the Adanay and told her, Two children are in your womb, and two nations shall rise from them; and one nation shall be stronger than the other, and the greater shall serve the younger.

¹³ And when her days to be delivered were completed, she knelt down, and behold there were twins in her womb, as the Adanay had spoken to her.¹⁴ And the first came out red all over like a hairy garment, and all the people of the land called his name Ishaw, saying, That this one was made complete from the womb.¹⁵ And after that came his brother, and his hand took hold of Esau's heel, therefore they called his name Yaiqab.¹⁶ And Yatzachaq, the son of Abaraham, was sixty years old when he begat them.¹⁷ And the boys grew up to their fifteenth year, and they came amongst the society of men. Ishaw was a designing and deceitful man, and an expert hunter in the field, and Yaiqab was a man perfect and wise, dwelling in tents, feeding flocks and learning the instructions of the Adanay and the commands of his father and mother.¹⁸ And Yatzachaq and the children of his household dwelt with his father Abaraham in the land of Kanain, as Alahayam had commanded them.¹⁹ And Yashamaial the son of Abaraham went with his children and all belonging to them, and they returned there to the land of Chawayalah, and they dwelt there.²⁰ And all the children of Abraham's concubines went to dwell in the land of the east, for Abaraham had sent them away from his son, and had given them presents, and they went away.²¹ And Abaraham gave all that he had to his son Yatzachaq, and he also gave him all his treasures.²² And he commanded him saying, Do you not know and understand the Adanay is Alahayam in heaven and in earth, and there is no other beside him?²³ And it was he who took me from my father's house, and from my birth place, and gave me all the delights upon earth; who delivered me from the counsel of the wicked, for in him did I trust.²⁴ And he brought me to this place, and he delivered me from Ur Casdim; and he said to me, To your seed will I give all these lands, and they shall inherit them when they keep my commandments, my statutes and my judgments that I have commanded you, and which I shall command them.²⁵ Now therefore my son, hearken to my voice, and keep the commandments of the Adanay your Alahayam, which I commanded you, do not turn from the right way either to the right or to the left, in order that it may be well with you and your children after you forever.²⁶ And remember the wonderful works of the Adanay, and his kindness that he has shown toward us, in having delivered us from the hands of our enemies, and the Adanay our Alahayam caused them to fall into our hands; and now therefore keep all that I have commanded you, and turn not away from the commandments of your Alahayam, and serve none beside him, in order that it may be well with you and your seed after you.²⁷ And teach you your children and your seed the instructions of the Adanay and his commandments, and teach them the upright way in which they should go, in order that it may be well with them forever.²⁸ And Yatzachaq answered his father and said to him, That which my Adanay has commanded that will I do, and I will not depart from the commands of the Adanay my Alahayam, I will keep all that he commanded me; and Abaraham blessed his son Yatzachaq, and also his children; and Abaraham taught Yaiqab the instruction of the Adanay and his ways.²⁹ And it was at that time that Abaraham died, in the fifteenth year of the life of Yaiqab and Ishaw, the sons of Yatzachaq, and all the days of Abaraham were one hundred and seventy-five years, and he died and was gathered to his people in good old age, old and satisfied with days, and Yatzachaq and Yashamaial his sons buried him.³⁰ And when the inhabitants of Kanain heard that Abaraham was dead, they all came with their kings and princes and all their men to bury Abaraham.³¹ And all the inhabitants of the land of Charan, and all the families of the house of Abaraham, and all the princes and grandees, and the sons of Abaraham by the concubines, all came when they heard of Abraham's death, and they requited Abraham's kindness, and comforted Yatzachaq his son, and they buried Abaraham in the cave which he bought from Iparawan the Hittite and his children, for the possession of a burial place.³² And all the inhabitants of Kanain, and all those who had known Abaraham, wept for Abaraham a whole year, and men and women mourned over him.³³ And all the little children, and all the inhabitants of the land wept on account of Abaraham, for Abaraham had been good to them all, and because he had been upright with Alahayam and men.³⁴ And there arose not a man who feared Alahayam like to Abaraham, for he had feared his Alahayam from his youth, and had served the Adanay, and had gone in all his ways during his life, from his childhood to the day of his death.³⁵ And the Adanay was with him and delivered him from the counsel of Namarad and his people, and when he made war with the four kings of Iyalam he conquered them.³⁶ And he brought all the children of the earth to the service of Alahayam, and he taught them the ways of the Adanay, and caused them to know the Adanay.³⁷ And he formed a grove and he planted a vineyard therein, and he had always prepared in his tent meat and drink to those that passed through the land, that they might satisfy themselves in his house.³⁸ And the Adanay Alahayam delivered the whole earth on account of Abaraham.³⁹ And it was after the death of Abaraham that Alahayam blessed his son Yatzachaq and his children, and the Adanay was with Yatzachaq as he had been with his father Abaraham, for Yatzachaq kept all the commandments of the Adanay as Abaraham his father had commanded him; he did not turn to the right or to the left from the right path which his father had commanded him.

27 And Ishaw at that time, after the death of Abaraham, frequently went in the field to hunt.² And Namarad king of Babal, the same was Amarapal, also frequently went with his mighty men to hunt in the field, and to walk about with his men in the cool of the day.³ And Namarad was observing Ishaw all the days, for a jealousy was formed in the heart of Namarad against Ishaw all the days.⁴ And on a certain day Ishaw went in the field to hunt, and he found Namarad walking in the wilderness with his two men.⁵ And all his mighty men and his people were with him in the wilderness, but they removed at a distance from him, and they went from him in different directions to hunt, and Ishaw concealed himself for Namarad, and he lurked for him in the wilderness.⁶ And Namarad and his men that were with him did not know him, and Namarad and his men frequently walked about in the field at the cool of the day, and to know where his men were hunting in the field.⁷ And Namarad and two of his men that were with him came to the place where they were, when Ishaw started suddenly from his lurking place, and drew his sword, and hastened and ran to Namarad and cut off his head.⁸ And Ishaw fought a desperate fight with the two men that were with Namarad, and when they called out to him, Ishaw turned to them and smote them to death with his sword.⁹ And all the mighty men of Namarad, who had left him to go to the wilderness, heard the cry at a distance, and they knew the voices of those two men, and they ran to know the cause of it, when they found their king and the two men that were with him lying dead in the wilderness.¹⁰ And when Ishaw saw the mighty men of Namarad coming at a distance, he fled, and thereby escaped; and Ishaw took the valuable garments of Namarad, which Nimrod's father had bequeathed to Namarad, and with which Namarad prevailed over the whole land, and he ran and concealed them in his house.¹¹ And Ishaw took those garments and ran into the city on account of Nimrod's men, and he came to his father's house wearied and exhausted from fight, and he was ready to die through grief when he approached his brother Yaiqab and sat before him.¹² And he said to his brother Yaiqab, Behold I shall die this day, and therefore then do I want the birthright? And Yaiqab acted wisely with Ishaw in this matter, and Ishaw sold his birthright to Yaiqab, for it was so brought about by the Adanay.¹³ And Esau's portion in the cave of the field of Makapalah, which Abaraham had bought from the children of Chath for the possession of a burial ground, Ishaw also sold to Yaiqab, and Yaiqab bought all this from his brother Ishaw for value given.¹⁴ And Yaiqab wrote the whole of this in a book, and he testified the same with witnesses, and he sealed it, and the book remained in the hands of Yaiqab.¹⁵ And when Namarad the son of Kawash died, his men lifted him up and brought him in consternation, and buried him in his city, and all the days that Namarad lived were two hundred and fifteen years and he died.¹⁶ And the days that Namarad reigned upon the people of the land were one hundred and eighty-five years; and Namarad died by the sword of Ishaw in shame and contempt, and the seed of Abaraham caused his death as he had seen in his dream.¹⁷ And at the death of Namarad his kingdom became divided into many divisions, and all those parts that Namarad reigned over were restored to the respective kings of the land, who recovered them after the death of Namarad, and all the people of the house of Namarad were for a long time enslaved to all the other kings of the land.

28 And in those days, after the death of Abaraham, in that year the Adanay brought a heavy famine in the land, and whilst the famine was raging in the land of Kanain, Yatzachaq rose up to go down to Matzarayam on account of the famine, as his father Abaraham had done.² And the Adanay appeared that night to Yatzachaq and he said to him, Do not go down to Matzarayam but rise and go to Garar, to Abayamalak king of the Palashath, and remain there till the famine shall cease.³ And Yatzachaq rose up and went to Garar, as the Adanay commanded him, and he remained there a full year.⁴ And when Yatzachaq came to Garar, the people of the land saw that Rebecca his wife was of a beautiful appearance, and the people of Garar asked Yatzachaq concerning his wife, and he said, She is my sister, for he was afraid to say she was his wife lest the people of the land should slay him on account of her.⁵ And the princes of Abayamalak went and praised the woman to the king, but he answered them not, neither did he attend to their words.⁶ But he heard them say that Yatzachaq declared her to be his sister, so the king reserved this within himself.⁷ And when Yatzachaq had remained three months in the land, Abayamalak looked out at the window, and he saw, and behold Yatzachaq was sporting with Rebecca his wife, for Yatzachaq dwelt in the outer house belonging to the king, so that the house of Yatzachaq was opposite the house of the king.⁸ And the king said to Yatzachaq, What is this you have done to us in saying of your wife, She is my sister? how easily might one of the great men of the people have lain with her, and you would then have brought guilt upon us.⁹ And Yatzachaq said to Abayamalak, Because I was afraid lest I die on account of my wife, therefore I said, She is my sister.¹⁰ At that time Abayamalak gave orders to all his princes and great men, and they took Yatzachaq and Rebecca his wife and brought them before the king.¹¹ And the king commanded that they should dress them in princely garments, and make them ride through the streets of the city, and proclaim before them throughout the land, saying, This is the man and this is his wife; whoever touches this man or his wife shall surely die. And Yatzachaq returned with his wife to the king's house, and the Adanay was with Yatzachaq and he continued to wax great and lacked nothing.¹² And the Adanay caused Yatzachaq to find favor in the sight of Abayamalak, and in the sight of all his subjects, and Abayamalak acted well with Yatzachaq, for Abayamalak remembered the oath and the covenant that existed between his father and Abaraham.¹³ And Abayamalak said to Yatzachaq, Behold the whole earth is before you; dwell wherever it may seem good in your sight until you shall return to your land; and Abayamalak gave Yatzachaq fields and vineyards and the best part of the land of Garar, to sow and reap and eat the fruits of the ground until the days of the famine should have passed by.¹⁴ And Yatzachaq sowed in that land, and received a hundred-fold in the same year, and the Adanay blessed him.¹⁵ And the man waxed great, and he had possession of flocks and possession of herds and great store of servants.¹⁶ And when the days of the famine had passed away the Adanay appeared to Yatzachaq and said to him, Rise up, go forth from this place and return to your land, to the land of Kanain; and Yatzachaq rose up and returned to Chabarawan which is in the land of Kanain, he and all belonging to him as the Adanay commanded him.¹⁷ And after this Shalach the son at Arpachshad died in that year, which is the eighteenth year of the lives of Yaiqab and Ishaw; and all the days that Shalach lived were four hundred and thirty-three years and he died.¹⁸ At that time Yatzachaq sent his younger son Yaiqab to the house of Sham and Ibar, and he learned the instructions of the Adanay, and Yaiqab remained in the house of Sham and Ibar for thirty-two years, and

Ishaw his brother did not go, for he was not willing to go, and he remained in his father's house in the land of Kanain.¹⁹ And Ishaw was continually hunting in the fields to bring home what he could get, so did Ishaw all the days.²⁰ And Ishaw was a designing and deceitful man, one who hunted after the hearts of men and inveigled them, and Ishaw was a valiant man in the field, and in the course of time went as usual to hunt; and he came as far as the field of Shaiyar, the same is Adawam.²¹ And he remained in the land of Shaiyar hunting in the field a year and four months.²² And Ishaw there saw in the land of Shaiyar the daughter of a man of Kanain, and her name was Jehudith, the daughter of Baaray, son of Ipar, from the families of Chath the son of Kanain.²³ And Ishaw took her for a wife, and he came to her; forty years old was Ishaw when he took her, and he brought her to Chabarawan, the land of his father's dwelling place, and he dwelt there.²⁴ And it came to pass in those days, in the hundred and tenth year of the life of Yatzachaq, that is in the fiftieth year of the life of Yaiqab, in that year died Sham the son of Nach; Sham was six hundred years old at his death.²⁵ And when Sham died Yaiqab returned to his father to Chabarawan which is in the land of Kanain.²⁶ And in the fifty-sixth year of the life of Yaiqab, people came from Charan, and Rebecca was told concerning her brother Laban the son of Bathawaal.²⁷ For the wife of Laban was barren in those days, and bore no children, and also all his handmaids bore none to him.²⁸ And the Adanay afterward remembered Adinah the wife of Laban, and she conceived and bore twin daughters, and Laban called the names of his daughters, the name of the elder Laah, and the name of the younger Rachal.²⁹ And those people came and told these things to Rebecca, and Rebecca rejoiced greatly that the Adanay had visited her brother and that he had got children.

29 And Yatzachaq the son of Abaraham became old and advanced in days, and his eyes became heavy through age; they were dim and could not see.² At that time Yatzachaq called to Ishaw his son, saying, Get I pray you your weapons, your quiver and your bow, rise up and go forth into the field and get me some venison, and make me savory meat and bring it to me, that I may eat in order that I may bless you before my death, as I have now become old and gray-headed.³ And Ishaw did so; and he took his weapon and went forth into the field to hunt for venison, as usual, to bring to his father as he had ordered him, so that he might bless him.⁴ And Rebecca heard all the words that Yatzachaq had spoken to Ishaw, and she hastened and called her son Yaiqab, saying, Thus did your father speak to your brother Ishaw, and thus did I hear, now therefore hasten you and make that which I shall tell you.⁵ Rise up and go, I pray you, to the flock and fetch me two fine kids of the goats, and I will get the savory meat for your father, and you shall bring the savory meat that he may eat before your brother shall have come from the chase, in order that your father may bless you.⁶ And Yaiqab hastened and did as his mother had commanded him, and he made the savory meat and brought it before his father before Ishaw had come from his chase.⁷ And Yatzachaq said to Yaiqab, Who are you, my son? And he said, I am your first born Ishaw, I have done as you did order me, now therefore rise up I pray you, and eat of my hunt, in order that your soul may bless me as you did speak to me.⁸ And Yatzachaq rose up and he ate and he drank, and his heart was comforted, and he blessed Yaiqab and Yaiqab went away from his father; and as soon as Yatzachaq had blessed Yaiqab and he had gone away from him, behold Ishaw came from his hunt from the field, and he also made savory meat and brought it to his father to eat thereof and to bless him.⁹ And Yatzachaq said to Ishaw, And who was he that has taken venison and brought it me before you came and whom I did bless? And Ishaw knew that his brother Yaiqab had done this, and the anger of Ishaw was kindled against his brother Yaiqab that he had acted thus toward him.¹⁰ And Ishaw said, Is he not rightly called Yaiqab? for he has supplanted me twice, he took away my birthright and now he has taken away my blessing; and Ishaw wept greatly; and when Yatzachaq heard the voice of his son Ishaw weeping, Yatzachaq said to Ishaw, What can I do, my son, your brother came with subtlety and took away your blessing; and Ishaw hated his brother Yaiqab on account of the blessing that his father had given him, and his anger was greatly roused against him.¹¹ And Yaiqab was very much afraid of his brother Ishaw, and he rose up and fled to the house of Ibar the son of Sham, and he concealed himself there on account of his brother, and Yaiqab was sixty-three years old when he went forth from the land of Kanain from Chabarawan, and Yaiqab was concealed in Eber's house fourteen years on account of his brother Ishaw, and he there continued to learn the ways of the Adanay and his commandments.¹² And when Ishaw saw that Yaiqab had fled and escaped from him, and that Yaiqab had cunningly obtained the blessing, then Ishaw grieved exceedingly, and he was also vexed at his father and mother; and he also rose up and took his wife and went away from his father and mother to the land of Shaiyar, and he dwelt there; and Ishaw saw there a woman from amongst the daughters of Chath whose name was Bashamath, the daughter of Ayalawan the Hittite, and he took her for a wife in addition to his first wife, and Ishaw called her name Idah, saying the blessing had in that time passed from him.¹³ And Ishaw dwelt in the land of Shaiyar six months without seeing his father and mother, and afterward Ishaw took his wives and rose up and returned to the land of Kanain, and Ishaw placed his two wives in his father's house in Chabarawan.¹⁴ And the wives of Ishaw vexed and provoked Yatzachaq and Rebecca with their works, for they walked not in the ways of the Adanay, but served their father's gods of wood and stone as their father had taught them, and they were more wicked than their father.¹⁵ And they went according to the evil desires of their hearts, and they sacrificed and burnt incense to the Baalim, and Yatzachaq and Rebecca became weary of them.¹⁶ And Rebecca said, I am weary of my life because of the daughters of Chath; if Yaiqab take a wife of the daughters of Chath, such as these which are of the daughters of the land, what good then is life to me?¹⁷ And in those days Idah the wife of Ishaw conceived and bore him a son, and Ishaw called the name of the son that was born to him Alayapaz, and Ishaw was sixty-five years old when she bore him.¹⁸ And Yashamaial the son of Abaraham died in those days, in the sixty-fourth year of the life of Yaiqab, and all the days that Yashamaial lived were one hundred and thirty-seven years and he died.¹⁹ And when Yatzachaq heard that Yashamaial was dead he mourned for him, and Yatzachaq lamented over him many days.²⁰ And at the end of fourteen years of Jacob's residing in the house of Ibar, Yaiqab desired to see his father and mother, and Yaiqab came to the house of his father and mother to Chabarawan, and Ishaw had in those days forgotten what Yaiqab had done to him in having taken the blessing from him in those days.²¹ And when Ishaw saw Yaiqab coming to his father and mother he remembered what Yaiqab had done to him, and he was greatly incensed against him and he sought to slay him.²² And Yatzachaq the son of Abaraham was old and advanced in days, and Ishaw said, Now my father's time is drawing nigh that he must die, and when he shall die I will slay my brother Yaiqab.²³ And this was told to Rebecca, and she hastened and sent and called for Yaiqab her son, and she said to him, Arise, go and flee to Charan to my brother Laban, and remain there for some time, until your brother's anger be turned from you and then shall you come back.²⁴ And Yatzachaq called to Yaiqab and said to him, Take not a wife from the daughters of Kanain, for thus did our father Abaraham command us according to the word of the Adanay which he had commanded him, saying, To your seed will I give this land; if your children keep my covenant that I have made with you, then will I also perform to your children that which I have spoken to you and I will not forsake them.²⁵ Now therefore my son hearken to my voice, to all that I shall command you, and refrain from taking a wife from amongst the daughters of Kanain; arise, go to Charan to the house of Bathawaal your mother's father, and take to you a wife from there from the daughters of Laban your mother's brother.²⁶ Therefore take heed lest you should forget the Adanay your Alahayam and all his ways in the land to which you go, and should get connected with the people of the land and pursue vanity and forsake the Adanay your Alahayam.²⁷ But when you come to the land serve there the Adanay, do not turn to the right or to the left from the way which I commanded you and which you did learn.²⁸ And may the Shaday Alahayam grant you favor in the sight of the people of the earth, that you may take there a wife according to your choice; one who is good and upright in the ways of the Adanay.²⁹ And may Alahayam give to you and your seed the blessing of your father Abaraham, and make you fruitful and multiply you, and may you become a multitude of people in the land where you go, and may Alahayam cause you to return to this land, the land of your father's dwelling, with children and with great riches, with joy and with pleasure.³⁰ And Yatzachaq finished commanding Yaiqab and blessing him, and he gave him many gifts, together with silver and gold, and he sent him away; and Yaiqab hearkened to his father and mother; he kissed them and arose and went to Padan; and Yaiqab was seventy-seven years old when he went out from the land of Kanain from Beersheba.³¹ And when Yaiqab went away to go to Charan Ishaw called to his son Alayapaz, and secretly spoke to him, saying, Now hasten, take your sword in your hand and pursue Yaiqab and pass before him in the road, and lurk for him, and slay him with your sword in one of the mountains, and take all belonging to him and come back.³² And Alayapaz the son of Ishaw was an active man and expert with the bow as his father had taught him, and he was a noted hunter in the field and a valiant man.³³ And Alayapaz did as his father had commanded him, and Alayapaz was at that time thirteen years old, and Alayapaz rose up and went and took ten of his mother's brothers with him and pursued Yaiqab.³⁴ And he closely followed Yaiqab, and he lurked for him in the border of the land of Kanain opposite to the city of Shakam.³⁵ And Yaiqab saw Alayapaz and his men pursuing him, and Yaiqab stood still in the place in which he was going, in order to know what this was, for he did not know the thing; and Alayapaz drew his sword and he went on advancing, he and his men, toward Yaiqab; and Yaiqab said to them, What is to do with you that you have come here, and what means it that you pursue with your swords.³⁶ And Alayapaz came near to Yaiqab and he answered and said to him, Thus did my father command me, and now therefore I will not deviate from the orders which my father gave me; and when Yaiqab saw that Ishaw had spoken to Alayapaz to employ force, Yaiqab then approached and supplicated Alayapaz and his men, saying to him,³⁷ Behold all that I have and which my father and mother gave to me, that take to you and go from me, and do not slay me, and may this thing be accounted to you a righteousness.³⁸ And the Adanay caused Yaiqab to find favor in the sight of Alayapaz the son of Ishaw, and his men, and they hearkened to the voice of Yaiqab, and they did not put him to death, and Alayapaz and his men took all belonging to Yaiqab together with the silver and gold that he had brought with him from Beersheba; they left him nothing.³⁹ And Alayapaz and his men went away from him and they returned to Ishaw to Beersheba, and they told him all that had occurred to them with Yaiqab, and they gave him all that they had taken from Yaiqab.⁴⁰ And Ishaw was indignant at Alayapaz his son, and at his men that were with him, because they had not put Yaiqab to death.⁴¹ And they answered and said to Ishaw, Because Yaiqab supplicated us in this matter not to slay him, our pity was excited toward him, and we took all belonging to him and brought it to you; and Ishaw took all the silver and gold which Alayapaz had taken from Yaiqab and he put them by in his house.⁴² At that time when Ishaw saw that Yatzachaq had blessed Yaiqab, and had commanded him, saying, You shall not take a wife from amongst the daughters of Kanain, and that the daughters of Kanain were bad in the sight of Yatzachaq and Rebecca,⁴³ Then he went to the house of Yashamaial his uncle, and in addition to his older wives he took Machlath the daughter of Yashamaial, the sister of Nabayawath, for a wife.

30 And Yaiqab went forth continuing his road to Charan, and he came as far as mount Mawarayah, and he tarried there all night near the city of Lawaz; and the Adanay appeared there to Yaiqab on that night, and he said to him, I am the Adanay Alahayam of Abaraham and the Alahayam of Yatzachaq your father; the land upon which you lie I will give to you and your seed.² And behold I am with you and will keep you wherever you go, and I will multiply your seed as the stars of Heaven, and I will cause all your enemies to fall before you; and when they shall make war with you they shall not prevail over you, and I will bring you again to this land with joy, with children, and with great riches.³ And Yaiqab awoke from his sleep and he rejoiced greatly at the vision which he had seen; and he called the name of that place Bethel.⁴ And Yaiqab rose up from that place quite rejoiced, and when he walked his feet felt light to him for joy, and he went from there to the land of the children of the East, and he returned to Charan and he set by the shepherd's well.⁵ And he there found some men; going from Charan to feed their flocks, and Yaiqab made inquiries of them, and they said, We are from Charan.⁶ And he said to them, Do you know Laban, the son of Nachawar? and they said, We know him, and behold his daughter Rachal is coming along to feed her father's flock.⁷ Whilst he was yet speaking with them, Rachal the daughter of Laban came to feed her father's sheep, for she was a shepherdess.⁸ And when Yaiqab saw Rachal, the daughter of Laban, his mother's brother, he ran and kissed her, and lifted up his voice and wept.⁹ And Yaiqab told Rachal that he was the son of Rebecca, her father's sister, and Rachal ran and told her father, and Yaiqab continued to cry because he had nothing with him to bring to the house of Laban.¹⁰ And when Laban heard that his sister's son Yaiqab had come, he ran and kissed him and embraced him and brought him into the house and gave him bread, and he ate.¹¹ And Yaiqab related to Laban what his brother Ishaw had done to him, and what his son Alayapaz had done to him in the road.¹² And Yaiqab resided in Laban's house for one month, and Yaiqab ate and drank in the house of Laban, and afterward Laban said to Yaiqab, Tell me what shall be your wages, for how can you serve me for nought?¹³ And Laban had no sons but only daughters, and his other wives and handmaids were still barren in those days; and these are the names of Laban's daughters which his wife Adinah had borne to him; the name of the elder was Laah and the name of the younger was Rachal; and Laah was tender-eyed, but Rachal was beautiful and well favored, and Yaiqab loved her.¹⁴ And Yaiqab said to Laban, I will serve you seven years for Rachal your younger daughter; and Laban consented to this and Yaiqab served Laban seven years for his daughter Rachal.¹⁵ And in the second year of Jacob's dwelling in Charan, that is in the seventy ninth year of the life of Yaiqab, in that year died Ibar the son of Sham, he was four hundred and sixty-four years old at his death.¹⁶ And when Yaiqab heard that Ibar was dead he grieved exceedingly, and he lamented and mourned over him many days.¹⁷ And in the third year of Jacob's dwelling in Charan, Bashamath, the daughter of Yashamaial, the wife of Ishaw, bore to him a son, and Ishaw called his name Raiwaal.¹⁸ And in the fourth year of Jacob's residence in the house of Laban, the Adanay visited Laban and remembered him on account of Yaiqab, and sons were born to him, and his first born was Baiwar, his second was Alib, and the third was Chorash.¹⁹ And the Adanay gave Laban riches and honor, sons and daughters, and the man increased greatly on account of Yaiqab.²⁰ And Yaiqab in those days served Laban in all manner of work, in the house and in the field, and the blessing of the Adanay was in all that belonged to Laban in the house and in the field.²¹ And in the fifth year died Jehudith, the daughter of Baaray, the wife of Ishaw, in the land of Kanain, and she had no sons but daughters only.²² And these are the names of her daughters which she bore to Ishaw, the name of the elder was Marzith, and the name of the younger was Puith.²³ And when Jehudith died, Ishaw rose up and went to Shaiyar to hunt in the field, as usual, and Ishaw dwelt in the land of Shaiyar for a long time.²⁴ And in the sixth year Ishaw took for a wife, in addition to his other wives, Ahlibamah, the daughter of Zebeon the Hivite, and Ishaw brought her to the land of Kanain.²⁵ And Ahlibamah conceived and bore to Ishaw three sons, Yaiwash, Yaalan, and Qarach.²⁶ And in those days, in the land of Kanain, there was a quarrel between the herdsmen of Ishaw and the herdsmen of the inhabitants of the land of Kanain, for Esau's cattle and goods were too abundant for him to remain in the land of

Kanain, in his father's house, and the land of Kanain could not bear him on account of his cattle.²⁷ And when Ishaw saw that his quarreling increased with the inhabitants of the land of Kanain, he rose up and took his wives and his sons and his daughters, and all belonging to him, and the cattle which he possessed, and all his property that he had acquired in the land of Kanain, and he went away from the inhabitants of the land to the land of Shaiyar, and Ishaw and all belonging to him dwelt in the land of Shaiyar.²⁸ But from time to time Ishaw would go and see his father and mother in the land of Kanain, and Ishaw intermarried with the Horites, and he gave his daughters to the sons of Shaiyar, the Horite.²⁹ And he gave his elder daughter Marzith to Inah, the son of Zebeon, his wife's brother, and Puith he gave to Azar, the son of Balahan the Horite; and Ishaw dwelt in the mountain, he and his children, and they were fruitful and multiplied.

31 And in the seventh year, Jacob's service which he served Laban was completed, and Yaiqab said to Laban, Give me my wife, for the days of my service are fulfilled; and Laban did so, and Laban and Yaiqab assembled all the people of that place and they made a feast.² And in the evening Laban came to the house, and afterward Yaiqab came there with the people of the feast, and Laban extinguished all the lights that were there in the house.³ And Yaiqab said to Laban, Therefore do you do this thing to us? and Laban answered, Such is our custom to act in this land.⁴ And afterward Laban took his daughter Laah, and he brought her to Yaiqab, and he came to her and Yaiqab did not know that she was Laah.⁵ And Laban gave his daughter Laah his maid Zalapah for a handmaid.⁶ And all the people at the feast knew what Laban had done to Yaiqab, but they did not tell the thing to Yaiqab.⁷ And all the neighbors came that night to Jacob's house, and they ate and drank and rejoiced, and played before Laah upon timbrels, and with dances, and they responded before Yaiqab, Heleah, Heleah.⁸ And Yaiqab heard their words but did not understand their meaning, but he thought such might be their custom in this land.⁹ And the neighbors spoke these words before Yaiqab during the night, and all the lights that were in the house Laban had that night extinguished.¹⁰ And in the morning, when daylight appeared, Yaiqab turned to his wife and he saw, and behold it was Laah that had been lying in his bosom, and Yaiqab said, Behold now I know what the neighbors said last night, Heleah, they said, and I knew it not.¹¹ And Yaiqab called to Laban, and said to him, What is this that you did to me? Surely I served you for Rachal, and why did you deceive me and did give me Laah?¹² And Laban answered Yaiqab, saying, Not so is it done in our place to give the younger before the elder now therefore if you desire to take her sister likewise, take her to you for the service which you will serve me for another seven years.¹³ And Yaiqab did so, and he also took Rachal for a wife, and he served Laban seven years more, and Yaiqab also came to Rachal, and he loved Rachal more than Laah, and Laban gave her his maid Balahah for a handmaid.¹⁴ And when the Adanay saw that Laah was hated, the Adanay opened her womb, and she conceived and bore Yaiqab four sons in those days.¹⁵ And these are their names, Raawaban Shamaian, Laway, and Yahawadah, and she afterward left bearing.¹⁶ And at that time Rachal was barren, and she had no offspring, and Rachal envied her sister Laah, and when Rachal saw that she bore no children to Yaiqab, she took her handmaid Balahah, and she bore Yaiqab two sons, Wadan and Napathalay.¹⁷ And when Laah saw that she had left bearing, she also took her handmaid Zalapah, and she gave her to Yaiqab for a wife, and Yaiqab also came to Zalapah, and she also bore Yaiqab two sons, Gad and Ashar.¹⁸ And Laah again conceived and bore Yaiqab in those days two sons and one daughter, and these are their names, Yashashakar, Zebulon, and their sister Dayanah.¹⁹ And Rachal was still barren in those days, and Rachal prayed to the Adanay at that time, and she said, O Adanay Alahayam remember me and visit me, I beseech you, for now my husband will cast me off, for I have borne him no children.²⁰ Now O Adanay Alahayam, hear my supplication before you, and see my affliction, and give me children like one of the handmaids, that I may no more bear my reproach.²¹ And Alahayam heard her and opened her womb, and Rachal conceived and bore a son, and she said, The Adanay has taken away my reproach, and she called his name Yawasap, saying, May the Adanay add to me another son; and Yaiqab was ninety-one years old when she bore him.²² At that time Jacob's mother, Rebecca, sent her nurse Dabawarah the daughter of Uz, and two of Isaac's servants to Yaiqab.²³ And they came to Yaiqab to Charan and they said to him, Rebecca has sent us to you that you shall return to your father's house to the land of Kanain; and Yaiqab hearkened to them in this which his mother had spoken.²⁴ At that time, the other seven years which Yaiqab served Laban for Rachal were completed, and it was at the end of fourteen years that he had dwelt in Charan that Yaiqab said to Laban, give me my wives and send me away, that I may go to my land, for behold my mother did send to me from the land at Kanain that I should return to my father's house.²⁵ And Laban said to him, Not so I pray you; if I have found favor in your sight do not leave me; appoint me your wages and I will give them, and remain with me.²⁶ And Yaiqab said to him, This is what you shall give me for wages, that I shall this day pass through all your flock and take away from them every lamb that is speckled and spotted and such as are brown amongst the sheep, and amongst the goats, and if you will do this thing for me I will return and feed your flock and keep them as at first.²⁷ And Laban did so, and Laban removed from his flock all that Yaiqab had said and gave them to him.²⁸ And Yaiqab placed all that he had removed from Laban's flock in the hands of his sons, and Yaiqab was feeding the remainder of Laban's flock.²⁹ And when the servants of Yatzachaq which he had sent to Yaiqab saw that Yaiqab would not then return with them to the land of Kanain to his father, they then went away from him, and they returned home to the land of Kanain.³⁰ And Dabawarah remained with Yaiqab in Charan, and she did not return with the servants of Yatzachaq to the land of Kanain, and Dabawarah resided with Jacob's wives and children in Charan.³¹ And Yaiqab served Laban six years longer, and when the sheep brought forth, Yaiqab removed from them such as were speckled and spotted, as he had determined with Laban, and Yaiqab did so at Laban's for six years, and the man increased abundantly and he had cattle and maid servants and men servants, camels, and asses.³² And Yaiqab had two hundred drove of cattle, and his cattle were of large size and of beautiful appearance and were very productive, and all the families of the sons of men desired to get some of the cattle of Yaiqab, for they were exceedingly prosperous.³³ And many of the sons of men came to procure some of Jacob's flock, and Yaiqab gave them a sheep for a man servant or a maid servant or for an ass or a camel, or whatever Yaiqab desired from them they gave him.³⁴ And Yaiqab obtained riches and honor and possessions by means of these transactions with the sons of men, and the children of Laban envied him of this honor.³⁵ And in the course of time he heard the words of Laban's sons, saying, Yaiqab has taken away all that was our father's, and of that which was our father's has he acquired all this glory.³⁶ And Yaiqab beheld the countenance of Laban and of his children, and behold it was not toward him in those days as it had been before.³⁷ And the Adanay appeared to Yaiqab at the expiration of the six years, and said to him, Arise, go forth out of this land, and return to the land of your birthplace and I will be with you.³⁸ And Yaiqab rose up at that time and he mounted his children and wives and all belonging to him upon camels, and he went forth to go to the land of Kanain to his father Yatzachaq.³⁹ And Laban did not know that Yaiqab had gone from him, for Laban had been that day sheep-shearing.⁴⁰ And Rachal stole her father's images, and she took them and she concealed them upon the camel upon which she sat, and she went on.⁴¹ And this is the manner of the images; in taking a man who is the first born and slaying him and taking the hair off his head, and taking salt and salting the head and anointing it in oil, then taking a small tablet of copper or a tablet of gold and writing the name upon it, and placing the tablet under his tongue, and taking the head with the tablet under the tongue and putting it in the house, and lighting up lights before it and bowing down to it.⁴² And at the time when they bow down to it, it speaks to them in all matters that they ask of it, through the power of the name which is written in it.⁴³ And some make them in the figures of men, of gold and silver, and go to them in times known to them, and the figures receive the influence of the stars, and tell them future things, and in this manner were the images which Rachal stole from her father.⁴⁴ And Rachal stole these images which were her father's, in order that Laban might not know through them where Yaiqab had gone.⁴⁵ And Laban came home and he asked concerning Yaiqab and his household, and he was not to be found, and Laban sought his images to know where Yaiqab had gone, and could not find them, and he went to some other images, and he inquired of them and they told him that Yaiqab had fled from him to his father's, to the land of Kanain.⁴⁶ And Laban then rose up and he took his brothers and all his servants, and he went forth and pursued Yaiqab, and he overtook him in mount Galaid.⁴⁷ And Laban said to Yaiqab, What is this you have done to me to flee and deceive me, and lead my daughters and their children as captives taken by the sword?⁴⁸ And you did not suffer me to kiss them and send them away with joy, and you did steal my gods and did go away.⁴⁹ And Yaiqab answered Laban, saying, Because I was afraid lest you would take your daughters by force from me; and now with whomsoever you find your gods he shall die.⁵⁰ And Laban searched for the images and he examined in all Jacob's tents and furniture, but could not find them.⁵¹ And Laban said to Yaiqab, We will make a covenant together and it shall be a testimony between me and you; if you shall afflict my daughters, or shall take other wives besides my daughters, even Alahayam shall be a witness between me and you in this matter.⁵² And they took stones and made a heap, and Laban said, This heap is a witness between me and you, therefore he called the name thereof Galaid.⁵³ And Yaiqab and Laban offered sacrifice upon the mount, and they ate there by the heap, and they tarried in the mount all night, and Laban rose up early in the morning, and he wept with his daughters and he kissed them, and he returned to his place.⁵⁴ And he hastened and sent off his son Baiwar, who was seventeen years old, with Abichorof the son of Uz, the son of Nachawar, and with them were ten men.⁵⁵ And they hastened and went and passed on the road before Yaiqab, and they came by another road to the land of Shaiyar.⁵⁶ And they came to Ishaw and said to him, Thus says your brother and relative, your mother's brother Laban, the son of Bathawaal, saying,⁵⁷ Have you heard what Yaiqab your brother has done to me, who first came to me naked and bore, and I went to meet him, and brought him to my house with honor, and I made him great, and I gave him my two daughters for wives and also two of my maids.⁵⁸ And Alahayam blessed him on my account, and he increased abundantly, and had sons, daughters and maid servants.⁵⁹ He has also an immense stock of flocks and herds, camels and asses, also silver and gold in abundance; and when he saw that his wealth increased, he left me whilst I went to shear my sheep, and he rose up and fled in secrecy.⁶⁰ And he lifted his wives and children upon camels, and he led away all his cattle and property which he acquired in my land, and he lifted up his countenance to go to his father Yatzachaq, to the land of Kanain.⁶¹ And he did not suffer me to kiss my daughters and their children, and he led my daughters as captives taken by the sword, and he also stole my gods and he fled.⁶² And now I have left him in the mountain of the brook of Jabuk, him and all belonging to him; he lacketh nothing.⁶³ If it be your wish to go to him, go then and there will you find him, and you can do to him as your soul desires; and Laban's messengers came and told Ishaw all these things.⁶⁴ And Ishaw heard all the words of Laban's messengers, and his anger was greatly kindled against Yaiqab, and he remembered his hatred, and his anger burned within him.⁶⁵ And Ishaw hastened and took his children and servants and the souls of his household, being sixty men, and he went and assembled all the children of Shaiyar the Horite and their people, being three hundred and forty men, and took all this number of four hundred men with drawn swords, and he went to Yaiqab to smite him.⁶⁶ And Ishaw divided this number into several parts, and he took the sixty men of his children and servants and the souls of his household as one head, and gave them in care of Alayapaz his eldest son.⁶⁷ And the remaining heads he gave to the care of the six sons of Shaiyar the Horite, and he placed every man over his generations and children.⁶⁸ And the whole of this camp went as it was, and Ishaw went amongst them toward Yaiqab, and he conducted them with speed.⁶⁹ And Laban's messengers departed from Ishaw and went to the land of Kanain, and they came to the house of Rebecca the mother of Yaiqab and Ishaw.⁷⁰ And they told her saying, Behold your son Ishaw has gone against his brother Yaiqab with four hundred men, for he heard that he was coming, and he is gone to make war with him, and to smite him and to take all that he has.⁷¹ And Rebecca hastened and sent seventy two men from the servants of Yatzachaq to meet Yaiqab on the road; for she said, Peradventure, Ishaw may make war in the road when he meets him.⁷² And these messengers went on the road to meet Yaiqab, and they met him in the road of the brook on the opposite side of the brook Jabuk, and Yaiqab said when he saw them, This camp is destined to me from Alahayam, and Yaiqab called the name of that place Machnayim.⁷³ And Yaiqab knew all his father's people, and he kissed them and embraced them and came with them, and Yaiqab asked them concerning his father and mother, and they said, They were well.⁷⁴ And these messengers said to Yaiqab, Rebecca your mother has sent us to you, saying, I have heard, my son, that your brother Ishaw has gone forth against you on the road with men from the children of Shaiyar the Horite.⁷⁵ And therefore, my son, hearken to my voice and see with your counsel what you will do, and when he comes up to you, supplicate him, and do not speak rashly to him, and give him a present from what you possess, and from what Alahayam has favored you with.⁷⁶ And when he asks you concerning your affairs, conceal nothing from him, perhaps he may turn from his anger against you and you will thereby save your soul, you and all belonging to you, for it is your duty to honor him, for he is your elder brother.⁷⁷ And when Yaiqab heard the words of his mother which the messengers had spoken to him, Yaiqab lifted up his voice and wept bitterly, and did as his mother then commanded him.

32 And at that time Yaiqab sent messengers to his brother Ishaw toward the land of Shaiyar, and he spoke to him words of supplication.² And he commanded them, saying, Thus shall you say to my lord, to Ishaw, Thus says your servant Yaiqab, Let not my lord imagine that my father's blessing with which he did bless me has proved beneficial to me.³ For I have been these twenty years with Laban, and he deceived me and changed my wages ten times, as it has all been already told to my lord.⁴ And I served him in his house very laboriously, and Alahayam afterward saw my affliction, my labor and the work of my hands, and he caused me to find grace and favor in his sight.⁵ And I afterward through Alahayam's great mercy and kindness acquired oxen and asses and cattle, and men servants and maid servants.⁶ And now I am coming to my land and my home to my father and mother, who are in the land of Kanain; and I have sent to let my lord know all this in order to find favor in the sight of my lord, so that he may not imagine that I have of myself obtained wealth, or that the blessing with which my father blessed me has benefited me.⁷ And those messengers went to Ishaw, and found him on the borders of the land of Adawam going toward Yaiqab, and four hundred men of the children of Shaiyar the Horite were standing with drawn swords.⁸ And the messengers of Yaiqab told Ishaw all the words that Yaiqab had spoken to them concerning Ishaw.⁹ And Ishaw answered them with pride and contempt, and said to them, Surely I have heard and truly it has been told to me what Yaiqab has done to Laban, who exalted him in his house and gave him his daughters for wives, and he begat sons and daughters, and abundantly increased in wealth and riches in Laban's house through his means.¹⁰ And when he saw that his wealth was abundant and his riches great he fled with all belonging to him, from Laban's house, and he led Laban's daughters away from the face of their father, as captives taken by the sword without telling him of it.¹¹ And not only to

Laban has Yaiqab done thus but also to me has he done so and has twice supplanted me, and shall I be silent?¹² Now therefore I have this day come with my camps to meet him, and I will do to him according to the desire of my heart.¹³ And the messengers returned and came to Yaiqab and said to him, We came to your brother, to Ishaw, and we told him all your words, and thus has he answered us, and behold he comes to meet you with four hundred men.¹⁴ Now then know and see what you shall do, and pray before Alahayam to deliver you from him.¹⁵ And when he heard the words of his brother which he had spoken to the messengers of Yaiqab, Yaiqab was greatly afraid and he was distressed.¹⁶ And Yaiqab prayed to the Adanay his Alahayam, and he said, O Adanay Alahayam of my fathers, Abaraham and Yatzachaq, you did say to me when I went away from my father's house, saying,¹⁷ I am the Adanay Alahayam of your father Abaraham and the Alahayam of Yatzachaq, to you do I give this land and your seed after you, and I will make your seed as the stars of heaven, and you shall spread forth to the four sides of heaven, and in you and in your seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed.¹⁸ And you did establish your words, and did give to me riches and children and cattle, as the utmost wishes of my heart did you give to your servant; you did give to me all that I asked from you, so that I lacked nothing.¹⁹ And you did afterward say to me, Return to your parents and to your birth place and I will still do well with you.²⁰ And now that I have come, and you did deliver me from Laban, I shall fall in the hands of Ishaw who will slay me, yea, together with the mothers of my children.²¹ Now therefore, O Adanay Alahayam, deliver me, I pray you, also from the hands of my brother Ishaw, for I am greatly afraid of him.²² And if there is no righteousness in me, do it for the sake of Abaraham and my father Yatzachaq.²³ For I know that through kindness and mercy have I acquired this wealth; now therefore I beseech you to deliver me this day with your kindness and to answer me.²⁴ And Yaiqab ceased praying to the Adanay, and he divided the people that were with him with the flocks and cattle into two camps, and he gave the half to the care of Damesek, the son of Alayaizar, Abraham's servant, for a camp, with his children, and the other half he gave to the care of his brother Elianus the son of Alayaizar, to be for a camp with his children.²⁵ And he commanded them, saying, Keep yourselves at a distance with your camps, and do not come too near each other, and if Ishaw come to one camp and slay it, the other camp at a distance from it will escape him.²⁶ And Yaiqab tarried there that night, and during the whole night he gave his servants instructions concerning the forces and his children.²⁷ And the Adanay heard the prayer of Yaiqab on that day, and the Adanay then delivered Yaiqab from the hands of his brother Ishaw.²⁸ And the Adanay sent three angels of the angels of heaven, and they went before Ishaw and came to him.²⁹ And these angels appeared to Ishaw and his people as two thousand men, riding upon horses furnished with all sorts of war instruments, and they appeared in the sight of Ishaw and all his men to be divided into four camps, with four chiefs to them.³⁰ And one camp went on and they found Ishaw coming with four hundred men toward his brother Yaiqab, and this camp ran toward Ishaw and his people and terrified them, and Ishaw fell off the horse in alarm, and all his men separated from him in that place, for they were greatly afraid.³¹ And the whole of the camp shouted after them when they fled from Ishaw, and all the warlike men answered, saying,³² Surely we are the servants of Yaiqab, who is the servant of Alahayam, and who then can stand against us? And Ishaw said to them, O then, my lord and brother Yaiqab is your lord, whom I have not seen for these twenty years, and now that I have this day come to see him, do you treat me in this manner?³³ And the angels answered him saying, As the Adanay lives, were not Yaiqab of whom you speaks your brother, we had not let one remaining from you and your people, but only on account of Yaiqab we will do nothing to them.³⁴ And this camp passed from Ishaw and his men and it went away, and Ishaw and his men had gone from them about a league when the second camp came toward him with all sorts of weapons, and they also did to Ishaw and his men as the first camp

had done to them.³⁵ And when they had left it to go on, behold the third camp came toward him and they were all terrified, and Ishaw fell off the horse, and the whole camp cried out, and said, Surely we are the servants of Yaiqab, who is the servant of Alahayam, and who can stand against us?³⁶ And Ishaw again answered them saying, O then, Yaiqab my lord and your lord is my brother, and for twenty years I have not seen his countenance and hearing this day that he was coming, I went this day to meet him, and do you treat me in this manner?³⁷ And they answered him, and said to him, As the Adanay lives, were not Yaiqab your brother as you did say, we had not left a remnant from you and your men, but on account of Yaiqab of whom you speak being your brother, we will not meddle with you or your men.³⁸ And the third camp also passed from them, and he still continued his road with his men toward Yaiqab, when the fourth camp came toward him, and they also did to him and his men as the others had done.³⁹ And when Ishaw beheld the evil which the four angels had done to him and to his men, he became greatly afraid of his brother Yaiqab, and he went to meet him in peace.⁴⁰ And Ishaw concealed his hatred against Yaiqab, because he was afraid of his life on account of his brother Yaiqab, and because he imagined that the four camps that he had lighted upon were Jacob's servants.⁴¹ And Yaiqab tarried that night with his servants in their camps, and he resolved with his servants to give to Ishaw a present from all that he had with him, and from all his property; and Yaiqab rose up in the morning, he and his men, and they chose from amongst the cattle a present for Ishaw.⁴² And this is the amount of the present which Yaiqab chose from his flock to give to his brother Ishaw: and he selected two hundred and forty head from the flocks, and he selected from the camels and asses thirty each, and of the herds he chose fifty kine.⁴³ And he put them all in ten droves, and he placed each sort by itself, and he delivered them into the hands of ten of his servants, each drove by itself.⁴⁴ And he commanded them, and said to them, Keep yourselves at a distance from each other, and put a space between the droves, and when Ishaw and those who are with him shall meet you and ask you, saying, Whose are you, and where do you go, and to whom belongs all this before you, you shall say to them, We are the servants of Yaiqab, and we come to meet Ishaw in peace, and behold Yaiqab comes behind us.⁴⁵ And that which is before us is a present sent from Yaiqab to his brother Ishaw.⁴⁶ And if they shall say to you, Why does he delay behind you, from coming to meet his brother and to see his face, then you shall say to them, Surely he comes joyfully behind us to meet his brother, for he said, I will appease him with the present that goes to him, and after this I will see his face, peradventure he will accept of me.⁴⁷ So the whole present passed on in the hands of his servants, and went before him on that day, and he lodged that night with his camps by the border of the brook of Jabuk, and he rose up in the midst of the night, and he took his wives and his maid servants, and all belonging to him, and he that night passed them over the ford Jabuk.⁴⁸ And when he passed all belonging to him over the brook, Yaiqab was left by himself, and a man met him, and he wrestled with him that night until the breaking of the day, and the hollow of Jacob's thigh was out of joint through wrestling with him.⁴⁹ And at the break of day the man left Yaiqab there, and he blessed him and went away, and Yaiqab passed the brook at the break of day, and he halted upon his thigh.⁵⁰ And the sun rose upon him when he had passed the brook, and he came up to the place of his cattle and children.⁵¹ And they went on till midday, and whilst they were going the present was passing on before them.⁵² And Yaiqab lifted up his eyes and looked, and behold Ishaw was at a distance, coming along with many men, about four hundred, and Yaiqab was greatly afraid of his brother.⁵³ And Yaiqab hastened and divided his children to his wives and his handmaids, and his daughter Dayanah he put in a chest, and delivered her into the hands of his servants.⁵⁴ And he passed before his children and wives to meet his brother, and he bowed down to the ground, yea he bowed down seven times until he approached his brother, and Alahayam caused Yaiqab to find grace and favor in the sight of Ishaw and his men, for Alahayam

had heard the prayer of Yaiqab.⁵⁵ And the fear of Yaiqab and his terror fell upon his brother Ishaw, for Ishaw was greatly afraid of Yaiqab for what the angels of Alahayam had done to Ishaw, and Esau's anger against Yaiqab was turned into kindness.⁵⁶ And when Ishaw saw Yaiqab running toward him, he also ran toward him and he embraced him, and he fell upon his neck, and they kissed and they wept.⁵⁷ And Alahayam put fear and kindness toward Yaiqab in the hearts of the men that came with Ishaw, and they also kissed Yaiqab and embraced him.⁵⁸ And also Alayapaz, the son of Ishaw, with his four brothers, sons of Ishaw, wept with Yaiqab, and they kissed him and embraced him, for the fear of Yaiqab had fallen upon them all.⁵⁹ And Ishaw lifted up his eyes and saw the women with their offspring, the children of Yaiqab, walking behind Yaiqab and bowing along the road to Ishaw.⁶⁰ And Ishaw said to Yaiqab, Who are these with you, my brother? are they your children or your servants? and Yaiqab answered Ishaw and said, They are my children which Alahayam has graciously given to your servant.⁶¹ And whilst Yaiqab was speaking to Ishaw and his men, Ishaw beheld the whole camp, and he said to Yaiqab, Whence did you get the whole of the camp that I met yesternight? and Yaiqab said, To find favor in the sight of my lord, it is that which Alahayam graciously gave to your servant.⁶² And the present came before Ishaw, and Yaiqab pressed Ishaw, saying, Take I pray you the present that I have brought to my lord, and Ishaw said, Therefore is this my purpose? keep that which you have to yourself.⁶³ And Yaiqab said, It is incumbent upon me to give all this, since I have seen your face, that you still live in peace.⁶⁴ And Ishaw refused to take the present, and Yaiqab said to him, I beseech you my lord, if now I have found favor in your sight, then receive my present at my hand, for I have therefore seen your face, as though I had seen a god-like face, because you were pleased with me.⁶⁵ And Ishaw took the present, and Yaiqab also gave to Ishaw silver and gold and bdellium, for he pressed him so much that he took them.⁶⁶ And Ishaw divided the cattle that were in the camp, and he gave the half to the men who had come with him, for they had come on hire, and the other half he delivered to the hands of his children.⁶⁷ And the silver and gold and bdellium he gave in the hands of Alayapaz his eldest son, and Ishaw said to Yaiqab, Let us remain with you, and we will go slowly along with you until you come to my place with me, that we may dwell there together.⁶⁸ And Yaiqab answered his brother and said, I would do as my lord speaks to me, but my lord knows that the children are tender, and the flocks and herds with their young who are with me, go but slowly, for if they went swiftly they would all die, for you know their burdens and their fatigue.⁶⁹ Therefore let my lord pass on before his servant, and I will go on slowly for the sake of the children and the flock, until I come to my lord's place to Shaiyar.⁷⁰ And Ishaw said to Yaiqab, I will place with you some of the people that are with me to take care of you in the road, and to bear your fatigue and burden, and he said, What needs it my lord, if I may find grace in your sight?⁷¹ Behold I will come to you to Shaiyar to dwell there together as you have spoken, go you then with your people for I will follow you.⁷² And Yaiqab said this to Ishaw in order to remove Ishaw and his men from him, so that Yaiqab might afterward go to his father's house to the land of Kanain.⁷³ And Ishaw hearkened to the voice of Yaiqab, and Ishaw returned with the four hundred men that were with him on their road to Shaiyar, and Yaiqab and all belonging to him went that day as far as the extremity of the land of Kanain in its borders, and he remained there some time.

33 And in some time after Yaiqab went away from the borders of the land, and he came to the land of Shalam, that is the city of Shakam, which is in the land of Kanain, and he rested in front of the city.² And he bought a parcel of the field which was there, from the children of Chamawar the people of the land, for five shekels.³ And Yaiqab there built himself a house, and he pitched his tent there, and he made booths for his cattle, therefore he called the name of that place Sakawath.⁴ And Yaiqab remained in Sakawath a year and six months.⁵ At that time some of the women of the inhabitants of the land went to the city of Shakam to dance and rejoice with the daughters of the people of the city, and when they went forth then Rachal and Laah the wives of Yaiqab with their families also went to behold the rejoicing of the daughters of the city.⁶ And Dayanah the daughter of Yaiqab also went along with them and saw the daughters of the city, and they remained there before these daughters whilst all the people of the city were standing by them to behold their rejoicings, and all the great people of the city were there.⁷ And Shakam the son of Chamawar, the prince of the land was also standing there to see them.⁸ And Shakam beheld Dayanah the daughter of Yaiqab sitting with her mother before the daughters of the city, and the damsel pleased him greatly, and he there asked his friends and his people, saying, Whose daughter is that sitting amongst the women, whom I do not know in this city?⁹ And they said to him, Surely this is the daughter of Yaiqab the son of Yatzachaq the Hebrew, who has dwelt in this city for some time, and when it was reported that the daughters of the land were going forth to rejoice she went with her mother and maid servants to sit amongst them as you see.¹⁰ And Shakam beheld Dayanah the daughter of Yaiqab, and when he looked at her his soul became fixed upon Dayanah.¹¹ And he sent and had her taken by force, and Dayanah came to the house of Shakam and he seized her forcibly and lay with her and humbled her, and he loved her exceedingly and placed her in his house.¹² And they came and told the thing to Yaiqab, and when Yaiqab heard that Shakam had defiled his daughter Dayanah, Yaiqab sent twelve of his servants to fetch Dayanah from the house of Shakam, and they went and came to the house of Shakam to take away Dayanah from there.¹³ And when they came Shakam went out to them with his men and drove them from his house, and he would not suffer them to come before Dayanah, but Shakam was sitting with Dayanah kissing and embracing her before their eyes.¹⁴ And the servants of Yaiqab came back and told him, saying, When we came, he and his men drove us away, and thus did Shakam do to Dayanah before our eyes.¹⁵ And Yaiqab knew moreover that Shakam had defiled his daughter, but he said nothing, and his sons were feeding his cattle in the field, and Yaiqab remained silent till their return.¹⁶ And before his sons came home Yaiqab sent two maidens from his servants' daughters to take care of Dayanah in the house of Shakam, and to remain with her, and Shakam sent three of his friends to his father Chamawar the son of Chiddekem, the son of Pered, saying, Get me this damsel for a wife.¹⁷ And Chamawar the son of Chiddekem the Hivite came to the house of Shakam his son, and he sat before him, and Chamawar said to his son, Shakam, Is there then no woman amongst the daughters of your people that you will take an Hebrew woman who is not of your people?¹⁸ And Shakam said to him, Her only must you get for me, for she is delightful in my sight; and Chamawar did according to the word of his son, for he was greatly beloved by him.¹⁹ And Chamawar went forth to Yaiqab to commune with him concerning this matter, and when he had gone from the house of his son Shakam, before he came to Yaiqab to speak to him, behold the sons of Yaiqab had come from the field, as soon as they heard the thing that Shakam the son of Chamawar had done.²⁰ And the men were very much grieved concerning their sister, and they all came home fired with anger, before the time of gathering in their cattle.²¹ And they came and sat before their father and they spoke to him kindled with wrath, saying, Surely death is due to this man and to his household, because the Adanay Alahayam of the whole earth commanded Nach and his children that man shall never rob, nor commit adultery; now behold Shakam has both ravaged and committed fornication with our sister, and not one of all the people of the city spoke a word to him.²² Surely you know and understand that the judgment of death is due to Shakam, and to his father, and to the whole city on account of the thing which he has done.²³ And whilst they were speaking before their father in this matter, behold Chamawar the father of Shakam came to speak to Yaiqab the words of his son concerning Dayanah, and he sat before Yaiqab and before his sons.²⁴ And Chamawar spoke to them, saying, The soul of my son Shakam longs for your daughter; I pray you give her to him for a wife and intermarry with us; give us your daughters and we will give you our daughters, and you shall dwell with us in our land and we will be as one people in the land.²⁵ For our land is very extensive, so dwell you and trade therein and get possessions in it, and do therein as you desire, and no one shall prevent you by saying a word to you.²⁶ And Chamawar ceased speaking to Yaiqab and his sons, and behold Shakam his son had come after him, and he sat before them.²⁷ And Shakam spoke before Yaiqab and his sons, saying, May I find favor in your sight that you will give me your daughter, and whatever you say to me that will I do for her.²⁸ Ask me for abundance of dowry and gift, and I will give it, and whatever you shall say to me that will I do, and whoever he be that will rebel against your orders, he shall die; only give me the damsel for a wife.²⁹ And Shamaiwan and Laway answered Chamawar and Shakam his son deceitfully, saying, All you have spoken to us we will do for you.³⁰ And behold our sister is in your house, but keep away from her until we send to our father Yatzachaq concerning this matter, for we can do nothing without his consent.³¹ For he knows the ways of our father Abaraham, and whatever he says to us we will tell you, we will conceal nothing from you.³² And Shamaiwan and Laway spoke this to Shakam and his father in order to find a pretext, and to seek counsel what was to be done to Shakam and to his city in this matter.³³ And when Shakam and his father heard the words of Shamaiwan and Laway, it seemed good in their sight, and Shakam and his father came forth to go home.³⁴ And when they had gone, the sons of Yaiqab said to their father, saying, Behold, we know that death is due to these wicked ones and to their city, because they transgressed that which Alahayam had commanded to Nach and his children and his seed after them.³⁵ And also because Shakam did this thing to our sister Dayanah in defiling her, for such vileness shall never be done amongst us.³⁶ Now therefore know and see what you will do, and seek counsel and pretext what is to be done to them, in order to kill all the inhabitants of this city.³⁷ And Shamaiwan said to them, Here is a proper advice for you: tell them to circumcise every male amongst them as we are circumcised, and if they do not wish to do this, we shall take our daughter from them and go away.³⁸ And if they consent to do this and will do it, then when they are sunk down with pain, we will attack them with our swords, as upon one who is quiet and peaceable, and we will slay every male person amongst them.³⁹ And Simeon's advice pleased them, and Shamaiwan and Laway resolved to do to them as it was proposed.⁴⁰ And on the next morning Shakam and Chamawar his father came again to Yaiqab and his sons, to speak concerning Dayanah, and to hear what answer the sons of Yaiqab would give to their words.⁴¹ And the sons of Yaiqab spoke deceitfully to them, saying, We told our father Yatzachaq all your words, and your words pleased him.⁴² But he spoke to us, saying, Thus did Abaraham his father command him from Alahayam the Adanay of the whole earth, that any man who is not of his descendants that should wish to take one of his daughters, shall cause every male belonging to him to be circumcised, as we are circumcised, and then we may give him our daughter for a wife.⁴³ Now we have made known to you all our ways that our father spoke to us, for we cannot do this of which you spoke to us, to give our daughter to an uncircumcised man, for it is a disgrace to us.⁴⁴ But herein will we consent to you, to give you our daughter, and we will also take to ourselves your daughters, and will dwell amongst you and be one people as you have spoken, if you will hearken to us, and consent to be like us, to circumcise every male belonging to you, as we are circumcised.⁴⁵ And if you will not hearken to us, to have every male circumcised as we are circumcised, as we have commanded, then we will come to you, and take our daughter from you and go away.⁴⁶ And Shakam and his father Chamawar heard the words of the sons of Yaiqab, and the thing pleased them exceedingly, and Shakam and his father Chamawar hastened to do the wishes of the sons of Yaiqab, for Shakam was very fond of Dayanah, and his soul was riveted to her.⁴⁷ And Shakam and his father Chamawar hastened to the gate of the city, and they assembled all the men of their city and spoke to them

the words of the sons of Yaiqab, saying,⁴⁸ We came to these men, the sons of Yaiqab, and we spoke to them concerning their daughter, and these men will consent to do according to our wishes, and behold our land is of great extent for them, and they will dwell in it, and trade in it, and we shall be one people; we will take their daughters, and our daughters we will give to them for wives.⁴⁹ But only on this condition will these men consent to do this thing, that every male amongst us be circumcised as they are circumcised, as their Alahayam commanded them, and when we shall have done according to their instructions to be circumcised, then will they dwell amongst us, together with their cattle and possessions, and we shall be as one people with them.⁵⁰ And when all the men of the city heard the words of Shakam and his father Chamawar, then all the men of their city were agreeable to this proposal, and they obeyed to be circumcised, for Shakam and his father Chamawar were greatly esteemed by them, being the princes of the land.⁵¹ And on the next day, Shakam and Chamawar his father rose up early in the morning, and they assembled all the men of their city into the middle of the city, and they called for the sons of Yaiqab, who circumcised every male belonging to them on that day and the next.⁵² And they circumcised Shakam and Chamawar his father, and the five brothers of Shakam, and then every one rose up and went home, for this thing was from the Adanay against the city of Shakam, and from the Adanay was Simeon's counsel in this matter, in order that the Adanay might deliver the city of Shakam into the hands of Jacob's two sons.

34 And the number of all the males that were circumcised, were six hundred and forty-five men, and two hundred and forty-six children.² But Chiddekem, son of Pered, the father of Chamawar, and his six brothers, would not listen to Shakam and his father Chamawar, and they would not be circumcised, for the proposal of the sons of Yaiqab was loathsome in their sight, and their anger was greatly roused at this, that the people of the city had not hearkened to them.³ And in the evening of the second day, they found eight small children who had not been circumcised, for their mothers had concealed them from Shakam and his father Chamawar, and from the men of the city.⁴ And Shakam and his father Chamawar sent to have them brought before them to be circumcised, when Chiddekem and his six brothers sprang at them with their swords, and sought to slay them.⁵ And they sought to slay also Shakam and his father Chamawar and they sought to slay Dayanah with them on account of this matter.⁶ And they said to them, What is this thing that you have done? are there no women amongst the daughters of your brethren the Canaanites, that you wish to take to yourselves daughters of the Hebrews, whom you knew not before, and will do this act which your fathers never commanded you?⁷ Do you imagine that you will succeed through this act which you have done? and what will you answer in this affair to your brethren the Canaanites, who will come tomorrow and ask you concerning this thing?⁸ And if your act shall not appear just and good in their sight, what will you do for your lives, and me for our lives, in your not having hearkened to our voices?⁹ And if the inhabitants of the land and all your brethren the children of Cham, shall hear of your act, saying,¹⁰ On account of a Hebrew woman did Shakam and Chamawar his father, and all the inhabitants of their city, do that with which they had been unacquainted and which their ancestors never commanded them, where then will you fly or where conceal your shame, all your days before your brethren, the inhabitants of the land of Kanain?¹¹ Now therefore we cannot bear up against this thing which you have done, neither can we be burdened with this yoke upon us, which our ancestors did not command us.¹² Behold tomorrow we will go and assemble all our brethren, the Canaanitish brethren who dwell in the land, and we will all come and smite you and all those who trust in you, that there shall not be a remnant left from you or them.¹³ And when Chamawar and his son Shakam and all the people of the city heard the words of Chiddekem and his brothers, they were terribly afraid of their lives at their words, and they repented of what they had done.¹⁴ And Shakam and his father Chamawar answered their father Chiddekem and his brethren, and they said to them, All the words which you spoke to us are true.

¹⁵ Now do not say, nor imagine in your hearts that on account of the love of the Hebrews we did this thing that our ancestors did not command us. ¹⁶ But because we saw that it was not their intention and desire to accede to our wishes concerning their daughter as to our taking her, except on this condition, so we hearkened to their voices and did this act which you saw, in order to obtain our desire from them. ¹⁷ And when we shall have obtained our request from them, we will then return to them and do to them that which you say to us. ¹⁸ We beseech you then to wait and tarry until our flesh shall be healed and we again become strong, and we will then go together against them, and do to them that which is in your hearts and in ours. ¹⁹ And Dayanah the daughter of Yaiqab heard all these words which Chiddekem and his brothers had spoken, and what Chamawar and his son Shakam and the people of their city had answered them. ²⁰ And she hastened and sent one of her maidens, that her father had sent to take care of her in the house of Shakam, to Yaiqab her father and to her brethren, saying: ²¹ Thus did Chiddekem and his brothers advise concerning you, and thus did Chamawar and Shakam and the people of the city answer them.

²² And when Yaiqab heard these words he was filled with wrath, and he was indignant at them, and his anger was kindled against them. ²³ And Shamaïwan and Laway swore and said, As the Adanay lives, the Alahayam of the whole earth, by this time tomorrow, there shall not be a remnant left in the whole city. ²⁴ And twenty young men had concealed themselves who were not circumcised, and these young men fought against Shamaïwan and Laway, and Shamaïwan and Laway killed eighteen of them, and two fled from them and escaped to some lime pits that were in the city, and Shamaïwan and Laway sought for them, but could not find them.

²⁹ And the sons of Yaiqab went and returned, and came upon the slain, and spoiled all their property which was in the city and the field. ³⁰ And whilst they were taking the spoil, three hundred men stood up and threw dust at them and struck them with stones, when Shamaïwan turned to them and he slew them all with the edge of the sword, and Shamaïwan turned before Laway, and came into the city. ³¹ And they took away their sheep and their oxen and their cattle, and also the remainder of the women and little ones, and they led all these away, and they opened a gate and went out and came to their father Yaiqab with vigor. ³² And when Yaiqab saw all that they had done to the city, and saw the spoil that they took from them, Yaiqab was very angry at them, and Yaiqab said to them, What is this that you have done to me? behold I obtained rest amongst the Canaanitish inhabitants of the land, and none of them meddled with me. ³³ And now you have done to make me obnoxious to the inhabitants of the land, amongst the Canaanites and the Perizzites, and I am but of a small number, and they will all assemble against me and slay me when they hear of your work with their brethren, and I and my household will be destroyed. ³⁴ And Shamaïwan and Laway and all their brothers with them answered their father Yaiqab and said to him, Behold we live in the land, and shall Shakam do this to our sister? why are you silent at all that Shakam has done? and shall he deal with our sister as with a harlot in the streets? ³⁵ And the number of women whom Shamaïwan and Laway took captives from the city of Shakam, whom they did not slay, was eighty-five who had not known man. ³⁶ And amongst them was a young damsel of beautiful appearance and well favored, whose name was Bawanah, and Shamaïwan took her for a wife, and the number of the males which they took captives and did not slay, was forty-seven men, and the rest they slew. ³⁷ And all the young men and women that Shamaïwan and Laway had taken captives from the city of Shakam, were servants to the sons of Yaiqab and to their children after them, until the day of the sons of Yaiqab going forth from the land of Matzarayam. ³⁸ And when Shamaïwan and Laway had gone forth from the city, the two young men that were left, who had concealed themselves in the city, and did not die amongst the people of the city, rose up, and these young men went into the city and walked about in it, and found the city desolate without man, and only women weeping, and these young men cried out and said, Behold, this is the evil which the sons of Yaiqab the Hebrew did to this city in their having this day destroyed one of the Canaanitish cities, and were not afraid of their lives of all the land of Kanain. ³⁹ And these men left the city and went to the city of Tapnach, and they came there and told the inhabitants of Tapnach all that had befallen them, and all that the sons of Yaiqab had done to the city of Shakam. ⁴⁰ And the information reached Yashawab king of Tapnach, and he sent men to the city of Shakam to see those young men, for the king did not believe them in this account, saying, How could two men lay waste such a large town as Shakam? ⁴¹ And the messengers of Yashawab came back and told him, saying, We came to the city, and it is destroyed, there is not a man there; only weeping women; neither is any flock or cattle there, for all that was in the city the sons of Yaiqab took away.

⁴² And Yashawab wondered at this, saying, How could two men do this thing, to destroy so large a city, and not one man able to stand against them? ⁴³ For the like has not been from the days of Namarad, and not even from the remotest time, has the like taken place; and Yashawab, king of Tapnach, said to his people, Be courageous and we will go and fight against these Hebrews, and do to them as they did to the city, and we will avenge the cause of the people of the city. ⁴⁴ And Yashawab, king of Tapnach, consulted with his counsellors about this matter, and his advisers said to him, Alone you will not prevail over the Hebrews, for they must be powerful to do this work to the whole city. ⁴⁵ If two of them laid waste the whole city, and no one stood against them, surely if you will go against them, they will all rise against us and destroy us likewise. ⁴⁶ But if you will send to all the kings that surround us, and let them come together, then we will go with them and fight against the sons of Yaiqab; then will you prevail against them.

⁴⁷ And Yashawab heard the words of his counsellors, and their words pleased him and his people, and he did so; and Yashawab king of Tapnach sent to all the kings of the Amorites that surrounded Shakam and Tapnach, saying, ⁴⁸ Go up with me and assist me, and we will smite Yaiqab the Hebrew and all his sons, and destroy them from the earth, for thus did he do to the city of Shakam, and do you not know of it? ⁴⁹ And all the kings of the Amorites heard the evil that the sons of Yaiqab had done to the city of Shakam, and they were greatly astonished at them. ⁵⁰ And the seven kings of the Amorites assembled with all their armies, about ten thousand men with drawn swords, and they came to fight against the sons of Yaiqab; and Yaiqab heard that the kings of the Amorites had assembled to fight against his sons, and Yaiqab was greatly afraid, and it distressed him. ⁵¹ And Yaiqab exclaimed against Shamaïwan and Laway, saying, What is this act that you did? why have you injured me, to bring against me all the children of Kanain to destroy me and my household? for I was at rest, even I and my household, and you have done this thing to me, and provoked the inhabitants of the land against me by your proceedings. ⁵² And Yahawadah answered his father, saying, Was it for naught my brothers Shamaïwan and Laway killed all the inhabitants of Shakam? Surely it was because Shakam had humbled our sister, and transgressed the command of our Alahayam to Nach and his children, for Shakam took our sister away by force, and committed adultery with her. ⁵³ And Shakam did all this evil and not one of the inhabitants of his city interfered with him, to say, Why will you do this? surely for this my brothers went and smote the city, and the Adanay delivered it into their hands, because its inhabitants had transgressed the commands of our Alahayam. Is it then for naught that they have done all this? ⁵⁴ And now why are you afraid or distressed, and why are you displeased at my brothers, and why is your anger kindled against them? ⁵⁵ Surely our Alahayam who delivered into their hand the city of Shakam and its people, he will also deliver into our hands all the Canaanitish kings who are coming against us, and we will do to them as my brothers did to Shakam. ⁵⁶ Now be tranquil about them and cast away your fears, but trust in the Adanay our Alahayam, and pray to him to assist us and deliver us, and deliver our enemies into our hands. ⁵⁷ And Yahawadah called to one of his father's servants, Go now and see where those kings, who are coming against us, are situated with their armies. ⁵⁸ And the servant went and looked far off, and went up opposite Mount Sayachawan, and saw all the camps of the kings standing in the fields, and he returned to Yahawadah and said, Behold the kings are situated in the field with all their camps, a people exceedingly numerous, like to the sand upon the sea shore. ⁵⁹ And Yahawadah said to Shamaïwan and Laway, and to all his brothers, Strengthen yourselves and be sons of valor, for the Adanay our Alahayam is with us, do not fear them. ⁶⁰ Stand forth each man, girt with his weapons of war, his bow and his sword, and we will go and fight against these uncircumcised men; the Adanay is our Alahayam, He will save us. ⁶¹ And they rose up, and each girt on his weapons of war, great and small, eleven sons of Yaiqab, and all the servants of Yaiqab with them. ⁶² And all the servants of Yatzachaq who were with Yatzachaq in Chabarawan, all came to them equipped in all sorts of war instruments, and the sons of Yaiqab and their servants, being one hundred and twelve men, went towards these kings, and Yaiqab also went with them. ⁶³ And the sons of Yaiqab sent to their father Yatzachaq the son of Abaraham to Chabarawan, the same is Kireath-Arabai, saying, ⁶⁴ Pray we beseech you for us to the Adanay our Alahayam, to protect us from the hands of the Canaanites who are coming against us, and to deliver them into our hands. ⁶⁵ And Yatzachaq the son of Abaraham prayed to the Adanay for his sons, and he said, O Adanay Alahayam, you did promise my father, saying, I will multiply your seed as the stars of heaven, and you did also promise me, and establish you your word, now that the kings of Kanain are coming together, to make war with my children because they committed no violence. ⁶⁶ Now therefore, O Adanay Alahayam, Alahayam of the whole earth, pervert, I pray you, the counsel of these kings that they may not fight against my sons. ⁶⁷ And impress the hearts of these kings and their people with the terror of my sons and bring down their pride, and that they may turn away from my sons. ⁶⁸ And with your strong hand and outstretched arm deliver my sons and their servants from them, for power and might are in your hands to do all this. ⁶⁹ And the sons of Yaiqab and their servants went toward these kings, and they trusted in the Adanay their Alahayam, and whilst they were going, Yaiqab their father also prayed to the Adanay and said, O Adanay Alahayam, powerful and exalted Alahayam, who has reigned from days of old, from thence till now and forever; ⁷⁰ You are He who stirs up wars and causes them to cease, in your hand are power and might to exalt and to bring down; O may my prayer be acceptable before you that you may turn to me with your mercies, to impress the hearts of these kings and their people with the terror of my sons, and terrify them and their camps, and with your great kindness deliver all those that trust in you, for it is you who can bring people under us and reduce nations under our power.

35 And all the kings of the Amorites came and took their stand in the field to consult with their counsellors what was to be done with the sons of Yaiqab, for they were still afraid of them, saying, Behold, two of them slew the whole of the city of Shakam. ² And the Adanay heard the prayers of Yatzachaq and Yaiqab, and he filled the hearts of all these kings' advisers with great fear and terror that they unanimously exclaimed, ³ Are you silly this day, or is there no understanding in you, that you will fight with the Hebrews, and why will you take a delight in your own destruction this day? ⁴ Behold two of them came to the city of Shakam without fear or terror, and they killed all the inhabitants of the city, that no man stood up against them, and how will you be able to fight with them all? ⁵ Surely you know that their Alahayam is exceedingly fond of them, and has done mighty things for them, such as have not been done from days of old, and amongst all the gods of nations, there is none can do like to his mighty deeds. ⁶ Surely he delivered their father Abaraham, the Hebrew, from the hand of Namarad, and from the hand of all his people who had many times sought to slay him. ⁷ He delivered him also from the fire in which king Namarad had cast him, and his Alahayam delivered him from it. ⁸ And who else can do the like? surely it was Abaraham who slew the five kings of Iyalam, when they had touched his brother's son who in those days dwelt in Sadam. ⁹ And took his servant that was faithful in his house and a few of his men, and they pursued the kings of Iyalam in one night and killed them, and restored to his brother's son all his property which they had taken from him. ¹⁰ And surely you know the Alahayam of these Hebrews is much delighted with them, and they are also delighted with him, for they know that he delivered them from all their enemies. ¹¹ And behold through his love toward his Alahayam, Abaraham took his only and precious son and intended to bring him up as a burnt offering to his Alahayam, and had it not been for Alahayam who prevented him from doing this, he would then have done it through his love to his Alahayam. ¹² And Alahayam saw all his works, and swore to him, and promised him that he would deliver his sons and all his seed from every trouble that would befall them, because he had done this thing, and through his love to his Alahayam stifled his compassion for his child. ¹³ And have you not heard what their Alahayam did to Paraih king of Matzarayam, and to Abayamalak king of Garar, through taking Abraham's wife, who said of her, She is my sister, lest they might slay him on account of her, and think of taking her for a wife? and Alahayam did to them and their people all that you heard of. ¹⁴ And behold, we ourselves saw with our eyes that Ishaw, the brother of Yaiqab, came to him with four hundred men, with the intention of slaying him, for he called to mind that he had taken away from him his father's blessing. ¹⁵ And he went to meet him when he came from Aram, to smite the mother with the children, and who delivered him from his hands but his Alahayam in whom he trusted? he delivered him from the hand of his brother and also from the hands of his enemies, and surely he again will protect them. ¹⁶ Who does not know that it was their Alahayam who inspired them with strength to do to the town of Shakam the evil which you heard of? ¹⁷ Could it then be with their own strength that two men could destroy such a large city as Shakam had it not been for their Alahayam in whom they trusted? he said and did to them all this to slay the inhabitants of the city in their city. ¹⁸ And can you then prevail over them who have come forth together from your city to fight with the whole of them, even if a thousand times as many more should come to your assistance? ¹⁹ Surely you know and understand that you do not come to fight with them, but you come to war with their Alahayam who made choice of them, and you have therefore all come this day to be destroyed. ²⁰ Now therefore refrain from this evil which you are endeavoring to bring upon yourselves, and it will be better for you not to go to battle with them, although they are but few in numbers, because their Alahayam is with them. ²¹ And when the kings of the Amorites heard all the words of their advisers, their hearts were filled with terror, and they were afraid of the sons of Yaiqab and would not fight against them. ²² And they inclined their ears to the words of their advisers, and they listened to all their words, and the words of the counsellors greatly pleased the kings, and they did so. ²³ And the kings turned and refrained from the sons of Yaiqab, for they durst not approach them to make war with them, for they were greatly afraid of them, and their hearts melted within them from their fear of them. ²⁴ For this proceeded from the Adanay to them, for he heard the prayers of his servants Yatzachaq and Yaiqab, for they trusted in him; and all these kings returned with their camps on that day, each to his own city, and they did not at that time fight with the sons of Yaiqab. ²⁵ And the sons of Yaiqab kept their station that day till evening opposite mount Sayachawan, and seeing that these kings did not come to fight against them, the sons of Yaiqab returned home.

36 At that time the Adanay appeared to Yaiqab saying, Arise, go to Bethel and remain there, and make there an altar to the Adanay who appears to you, who delivered you and your sons from affliction. ² And Yaiqab rose up with his sons and all belonging to him, and they went and came to Bethel according to the word of the Adanay. ³ And Yaiqab was ninety-nine years old when he went up to Bethel, and Yaiqab and his sons and all the people that were with him, remained in Bethel in Lawaz, and he there built an altar to the Adanay who appeared to him, and Yaiqab and his sons remained in Bethel six months. ⁴ At that time died Dabawarah the daughter of Uz, the nurse of Rebecca, who had been with Yaiqab; and Yaiqab buried her beneath Bethel under an oak that was there. ⁵ And Rebecca the daughter of Bathawaal, the mother of Yaiqab, also died at that time in Chabarawan, the same is Kireath-Arabai, and she was buried in the cave of Makapalah which Abaraham had bought from the children of Chath. ⁶ And the life of Rebecca was one hundred and thirty-three years, and she died and when Yaiqab heard that his mother Rebecca was dead he wept bitterly for his mother, and made a great mourning for her, and for Dabawarah her nurse beneath the oak, and he called the name of that place Alawan. ⁷ And Laban the Syrian died in those days, for Alahayam smote him because he transgressed the covenant that existed between him and Yaiqab. ⁸ And Yaiqab was a hundred years old when the Adanay appeared to him, and blessed him and called his name Yasharaal, and Rachal the wife of Yaiqab conceived in those days. ⁹ And at that time Yaiqab and all belonging to him journeyed from Bethel to go to his father's house, to Chabarawan. ¹⁰ And whilst they were going on the road, and there was yet but a little way to come to Aparathah, Rachal bore a son and she had hard labor and she died. ¹¹ And Yaiqab buried her in the way to Aparathah, which is Bayathalacham, and he set a pillar upon her grave, which is there to this day; and the days of Rachal were forty-five years and she died. ¹² And Yaiqab called the name of his son that was born to him, which Rachal bore to him, Banayaman, for he was born to him in the land on the right hand. ¹³ And it was after the death of Rachal, that Yaiqab pitched his tent in the tent of her handmaid Balahah. ¹⁴ And Raawaban was jealous for his mother Laah on account of this, and he was filled with anger, and he rose up in his anger and went and entered the tent of Balahah and he thence removed his father's bed. ¹⁵ At that time the portion of birthright, together with the kingly and priestly offices, was removed from the sons of Raawaban, for he had profaned his father's bed, and the birthright was given to Yawasap, the kingly office to Yahawadah, and the priesthood to Laway, because Raawaban had defiled his father's bed. ¹⁶ And these are the generations of Yaiqab who were born to him in Padan, and the sons of Yaiqab were twelve. ¹⁷ The sons of Laah were Raawaban the first born, and Shamaiwan, Laway, Yahawadah, Yashashakar, Zabawalan, and their sister Dayanah; and the sons of Rachal were Yawasap and Banayaman. ¹⁸ The sons of Zalapah, Leah's handmaid, were Gad and Ashar, and the sons of Balahah, Rachel's handmaid, were Wadan and Napathalay; these are the sons of Yaiqab which were born to him in Padan. ¹⁹ And Yaiqab and his sons and all belonging to him journeyed and came to Mamaraa, which is Kireath-Arabai, that is in Chabarawan, where Abaraham and Yatzachaq sojourned, and Yaiqab with his sons and all belonging to him, dwelt with his father in Chabarawan. ²⁰ And his brother Ishaw and his sons, and all belonging to him went to the land of Shaiyar and dwelt there, and had possessions in the land of Shaiyar, and the children of Ishaw were fruitful and multiplied exceedingly in the land of Shaiyar. ²¹ And these are the generations of Ishaw that were born to him in the land of Kanain, and the sons of Ishaw were five. ²² And Idah bore to Ishaw his first born Alayapaz, and she also bore to him Raiwaal, and Ahlibamah bore to him Yaiwash, Yaalam and Qarach. ²³ These are the children of Ishaw who were born to him in the land of Kanain; and the sons of Alayapaz the son of Ishaw were Thayaman, Awamar, Tzapaw, Gaitham, Qanaz and Amalex, and the sons of Raiwaal were Nachath, Zarach, Shamah and Mazah. ²⁴ And the sons of Yaiwash were Thamanath, Ilawah, Yathath; and the sons of Yaalam were

Alah, Phinor and Qanaz. ²⁵ And the sons of Qarach were Thayaman, Mabatzar, Magadayaal and Eram; these are the families of the sons of Ishaw according to their dukedoms in the land of Shaiyar. ²⁶ And these are the names of the sons of Shaiyar the Horite, inhabitants of the land of Shaiyar, Lawatan, Shawabal, Tzabaiwan, Inah, Dayashan, Atzar and Dayashan, being seven sons. ²⁷ And the children of Lawatan were Charay, Hayaman and their sister Thamanai, that is Thamanai who came to Yaiqab and his sons, and they would not give ear to her, and she went and became a concubine to Alayapaz the son of Ishaw, and she bore to him Imalaq. ²⁸ And the sons of Shawabal were Ilawan, Manachath, Iyabal, Shapaw, and Awanam, and the sons of Tzabaiwan were Ayah, and Inah, this was that Inah who found the Yemim in the wilderness when he fed the asses of Tzabaiwan his father. ²⁹ And whilst he was feeding his father's asses he led them to the wilderness at different times to feed them. ³⁰ And there was a day that he brought them to one of the deserts on the sea shore, opposite the wilderness of the people, and whilst he was feeding them, behold a very heavy storm came from the other side of the sea and rested upon the asses that were feeding there, and they all stood still. ³¹ And afterward about one hundred and twenty great and terrible animals came out from the wilderness at the other side of the sea, and they all came to the place where the asses were, and they placed themselves there. ³² And those animals, from their middle downward, were in the shape of the children of men, and from their middle upward, some had the likeness of bears, and some the likeness of the keephass, with tails behind them from between their shoulders reaching down to the earth, like the tails of the ducheephath, and these animals came and mounted and rode upon these asses, and led them away, and they went away to this day. ³³ And one of these animals approached Inah and smote him with his tail, and then fled from that place. ³⁴ And when he saw this work he was exceedingly afraid of his life, and he fled and escaped to the city. ³⁵ And he related to his sons and brothers all that had happened to him, and many men went to seek the asses but could not find them, and Inah and his brothers went no more to that place from that day following, for they were greatly afraid of their lives. ³⁶ And the children of Inah the son of Shaiyar, were Dayashan and his sister Ahlibamah, and the children of Dayashan were Chamadan, Ashaban, Yatharan and Karan, and the children of Atzar were Balahan, Zaiwan and Iqan, and the children of Dayashan were Uz and Aran. ³⁷ These are the families of the children of Shaiyar the Horite, according to their dukedoms in the land of Shaiyar. ³⁸ And Ishaw and his children dwelt in the land of Shaiyar the Horite, the inhabitant of the land, and they had possessions in it and were fruitful and multiplied exceedingly, and Yaiqab and his children and all belonging to them, dwelt with their father Yatzachaq in the land of Kanain, as the Adanay had commanded Abaraham their father.

37 And in the one hundred and fifth year of the life of Yaiqab, that is the ninth year of Jacob's dwelling with his children in the land of Kanain, he came from Padan. ² And in those days Yaiqab journeyed with his children from Chabarawan, and they went and returned to the city of Shakam, they and all belonging to them, and they dwelt there, for the children of Yaiqab obtained good and fat pasture land for their cattle in the city of Shakam, the city of Shakam having then been rebuilt, and there were in it about three hundred men and women. ³ And Yaiqab and his children and all belonging to him dwelt in the part of the field which Yaiqab had bought from Chamawar the father of Shakam, when he came from Padan before Shamaiwan and Laway had smitten the city. ⁴ And all those kings of the Canaanites and Amorites that surrounded the city of Shakam, heard that the sons of Yaiqab had again come to Shakam and dwelt there. ⁵ And they said, Shall the sons of Yaiqab the Hebrew again come to the city and dwell therein, after that they have smitten its inhabitants and driven them out? shall they now return and also drive out those who are dwelling in the city or slay them? ⁶ And all the kings of Kanain again assembled, and they came together to make war with Yaiqab and his sons. ⁷ And

Yashawab king of Tapnach sent also to all his neighboring kings, to Elan king of Gaish, and to Ihuri king of Shalah, and to Parathon king of Chazar, and to Sawasay king of Sarton, and to Laban king of Bethchoran, and to Shabir king of Othnay-mah, saying,⁸ Come up to me and assist me, and let us smite Yaiqab the Hebrew and his sons, and all belonging to him, for they are again come to Shakam to possess it and to slay its inhabitants as before.⁹ And all these kings assembled together and came with all their camps, a people exceedingly plentiful like the sand upon the sea shore, and they were all opposite to Tapnach.¹⁰ And Yashawab king of Tapnach went forth to them with all his army, and he encamped with them opposite to Tapnach without the city, and all these kings they divided into seven divisions, being seven camps against the sons of Yaiqab.¹¹ And they sent a declaration to Yaiqab and his son, saying, Come you all forth to us that we may have an interview together in the plain, and revenge the cause of the men of Shakam whom you slew in their city, and you will now again return to the city of Shakam and dwell therein, and slay its inhabitants as before.¹² And the sons of Yaiqab heard this and their anger was kindled exceedingly at the words of the kings of Kanain, and ten of the sons of Yaiqab hastened and rose up, and each of them girt on his weapons of war; and there were one hundred and two of their servants with them equipped in battle array.¹³ And all these men, the sons of Yaiqab with their servants, went toward these kings, and Yaiqab their father was with them, and they all stood upon the heap of Shakam.¹⁴ And Yaiqab prayed to the Adanay for his sons, and he spread forth his hands to the Adanay, and he said, O Alahayam, you are an Shaday Alahayam, you are our father, you did form us and we are the works of your hands; I pray you deliver my sons through your mercy from the hand of their enemies, who are this day coming to fight with them and save them from their hand, for in your hand is power and might, to save the few from the many.¹⁵ And give to my sons, your servants, strength of heart and might to fight with their enemies, to subdue them, and make their enemies fall before them, and let not my sons and their servants die through the hands of the children of Kanain.¹⁶ But if it seems good in your eyes to take away the lives of my sons and their servants, take them in your great mercy through the hands of your ministers, that they may not perish this day by the hands of the kings of the Amorites.¹⁷ And when Yaiqab ceased praying to the Adanay the earth shook from its place, and the sun darkened, and all these kings were terrified and a great consternation seized them.¹⁸ And the Adanay hearkened to the prayer of Yaiqab, and the Adanay impressed the hearts of all the kings and their hosts with the terror and awe of the sons of Yaiqab.¹⁹ For the Adanay caused them to hear the voice of chariots, and the voice of mighty horses from the sons of Yaiqab, and the voice of a great army accompanying them.²⁰ And these kings were seized with great terror at the sons of Yaiqab, and whilst they were standing in their quarters, behold the sons of Yaiqab advanced upon them, with one hundred and twelve men, with a great and tremendous shouting.²¹ And when the kings saw the sons of Yaiqab advancing toward them, they were still more panic struck, and they were inclined to retreat from before the sons of Yaiqab as at first, and not to fight with them.²² But they did not retreat, saying, It would be a disgrace to us thus twice to retreat from before the Hebrews.²³ And the sons of Yaiqab came near and advanced against all these kings and their armies, and they saw, and behold it was a very mighty people, numerous as the sand of the sea.²⁴ And the sons of Yaiqab called to the Adanay and said, Help us O Adanay, help us and answer us, for we trust in you, and let us not die by the hands of these uncircumcised men, who this day have come against us.²⁵ And the sons of Yaiqab girt on their weapons of war, and they took in their hands each man his shield and his javelin, and they approached to battle.²⁶ And Yahawadah, the son of Yaiqab, ran first before his brethren, and ten of his servants with him, and he went toward these kings.²⁷ And Yashawab, king of Tapnach, also came forth first with his army before Yahawadah, and Yahawadah saw Yashawab and his army coming toward him, and Judah's wrath was kindled, and his anger burned within him, and he approached to battle in which Yahawadah ventured his life.

²⁸ And Yashawab and all his army were advancing toward Yahawadah, and he was riding upon a very strong and powerful horse, and Yashawab was a very valiant man, and covered with iron and brass from head to foot.²⁹ And whilst he was upon the horse, he shot arrows with both hands from before and behind, as was his manner in all his battles, and he never missed the place to which he aimed his arrows.³⁰ And when Yashawab came to fight with Yahawadah, and was darting many arrows against Yahawadah, the Adanay bound the hand of Yashawab, and all the arrows that he shot rebounded upon his own men.³¹ And notwithstanding this, Yashawab kept advancing toward Yahawadah, to challenge him with the arrows, but the distance between them was about thirty cubits, and when Yahawadah saw Yashawab darting forth his arrows against him, he ran to him with his wrath-excited might.³² And Yahawadah took up a large stone from the ground, and its weight was sixty shekels, and Yahawadah ran toward Yashawab, and with the stone struck him on his shield, that Yashawab was stunned with the blow, and fell off from his horse to the ground.³³ And the shield burst asunder out of the hand of Yashawab, and through the force of the blow sprang to the distance of about fifteen cubits, and the shield fell before the second camp.³⁴ And the kings that came with Yashawab saw at a distance the strength of Yahawadah, the son of Yaiqab, and what he had done to Yashawab, and they were terribly afraid of Yahawadah.³⁵ And they assembled near Jashub's camp, seeing his confusion, and Yahawadah drew his sword and smote forty-two men of the camp of Yashawab, and the whole of Jashub's camp fled before Yahawadah, and no man stood against him, and they left Yashawab and fled from him, and Yashawab was still prostrate upon the ground.³⁶ And Yashawab seeing that all the men of his camp had fled from him, hastened and rose up with terror against Yahawadah, and stood upon his legs opposite Yahawadah.³⁷ And Yashawab had a single combat with Yahawadah, placing shield toward shield, and Jashub's men all fled, for they were greatly afraid of Yahawadah.³⁸ And Yashawab took his spear in his hand to strike Yahawadah upon his head, but Yahawadah had quickly placed his shield to his head against Jashub's spear, so that the shield of Yahawadah received the blow from Jashub's spear, and the shield was split in too.³⁹ And when Yahawadah saw that his shield was split, he hastily drew his sword and smote Yashawab at his ankles, and cut off his feet that Yashawab fell upon the ground, and the spear fell from his hand.⁴⁰ And Yahawadah hastily picked up Jashub's spear, with which he severed his head and cast it next to his feet.⁴¹ And when the sons of Yaiqab saw what Yahawadah had done to Yashawab, they all ran into the ranks of the other kings, and the sons of Yaiqab fought with the army of Yashawab, and the armies of all the kings that were there.⁴² And the sons of Yaiqab caused fifteen thousand of their men to fall, and they smote them as if smiting at gourds, and the rest fled for their lives.⁴³ And Yahawadah was still standing by the body of Yashawab, and stripped Yashawab of his coat of mail.⁴⁴ And Yahawadah also took off the iron and brass that was about Yashawab, and behold nine men of the captains of Yashawab came along to fight against Yahawadah.⁴⁵ And Yahawadah hastened and took up a stone from the ground, and with it smote one of them upon the head, and his skull was fractured, and the body also fell from the horse to the ground.⁴⁶ And the eight captains that remained, seeing the strength of Yahawadah, were greatly afraid and they fled, and Yahawadah with his ten men pursued them, and they overtook them and slew them.⁴⁷ And the sons of Yaiqab were still smiting the armies of the kings, and they slew many of them, but those kings daringly kept their stand with their captains, and did not retreat from their places, and they exclaimed against those of their armies that fled from before the sons of Yaiqab, but none would listen to them, for they were afraid of their lives lest they should die.⁴⁸ And all the sons of Yaiqab, after having smitten the armies of the kings, returned and came before Yahawadah, and Yahawadah was still slaying the eight captains of Yashawab, and stripping off their garments.⁴⁹ And Laway saw Ayalawan, king of

Gaish, advancing toward him, with his fourteen captains to smite him, but Laway did not know it for certain.⁵⁰ And Ayalawan with his captains approached nearer, and Laway looked back and saw that battle was given him in the rear, and Laway ran with twelve of his servants, and they went and slew Ayalawan and his captains with the edge of the sword.

38 And Ihuri king of Shalah came up to assist Ayalawan, and he approached Yaiqab, when Yaiqab drew his bow that was in his hand and with an arrow struck Ihuri which caused his death.² And when Ihuri king of Shalah was dead, the four remaining kings fled from their station with the rest of the captains, and they endeavored to retreat, saying, We have no more strength with the Hebrews after their having killed the three kings and their captains who were more powerful than we are.³ And when the sons of Yaiqab saw that the remaining kings had removed from their station, they pursued them, and Yaiqab also came from the heap of Shakam from the place where he was standing, and they went after the kings and they approached them with their servants.⁴ And the kings and the captains with the rest of their armies, seeing that the sons of Yaiqab approached them, were afraid of their lives and fled till they reached the city of Chazar.⁵ And the sons of Yaiqab pursued them to the gate of the city of Chazar, and they smote a great smiting amongst the kings and their armies, about four thousand men, and whilst they were smiting the army of the kings, Yaiqab was occupied with his bow confining himself to smiting the kings, and he slew them all.⁶ And he slew Parathon king of Chazar at the gate of the city of Chazar, and he afterward smote Sawasay king of Sarton, and Laban king of Bethchorin, and Shabir king of Machnaymah, and he slew them all with arrows, an arrow to each of them, and they died.⁷ And the sons of Yaiqab seeing that all the kings were dead and that they were broken up and retreating, continued to carry on the battle with the armies of the kings opposite the gate of Chazar, and they still smote about four hundred of their men.⁸ And three men of the servants of Yaiqab fell in that battle, and when Yahawadah saw that three of his servants had died, it grieved him greatly, and his anger burned within him against the Amorites.⁹ And all the men that remained of the armies of the kings were greatly afraid of their lives, and they ran and broke the gate of the walls of the city of Chazar, and they all entered the city for safety.¹⁰ And they concealed themselves in the midst of the city of Chazar, for the city of Chazar was very large and extensive, and when all these armies had entered the city, the sons of Yaiqab ran after them to the city.¹¹ And four mighty men, experienced in battle, went forth from the city and stood against the entrance of the city, with drawn swords and spears in their hands, and they placed themselves opposite the sons of Yaiqab, and would not suffer them to enter the city.¹² And Napathalay ran and came between them and with his sword smote two of them, and cut off their heads at one stroke.¹³ And he turned to the other two, and behold they had fled, and he pursued them, overtook them, smote them and slew them.¹⁴ And the sons of Yaiqab came to the city and saw, and behold there was another wall to the city, and they sought for the gate of the wall and could not find it, and Yahawadah sprang upon the top of the wall, and Shamaïwan and Laway followed him, and they all three descended from the wall into the city.¹⁵ And Shamaïwan and Laway slew all the men who ran for safety into the city, and also the inhabitants of the city with their wives and little ones, they slew with the edge of the sword, and the cries of the city ascended up to heaven.¹⁶ And Wadan and Napathalay sprang upon the wall to see what caused the noise of lamentation, for the sons of Yaiqab felt anxious about their brothers, and they heard the inhabitants of the city speaking with weeping and supplications, saying, Take all that we possess in the city and go away, only do not put us to death.¹⁷ And when Yahawadah, Shamaïwan, and Laway had ceased smiting the inhabitants of the city, they ascended the wall and called to Wadan and Napathalay, who were upon the wall, and to the rest of their brothers, and Shamaïwan and Laway informed them of the entrance into the city, and all the sons of Yaiqab came to fetch the spoil.¹⁸ And the sons of Yaiqab took the

spoil of the city of Chazar, the flocks and herds, and the property, and they took all that could be captured, and went away that day from the city.¹⁹ And on the next day the sons of Yaiqab went to Sarton, for they heard that the men of Sarton who had remained in the city were assembling to fight with them for having slain their king, and Sarton was a very high and fortified city, and it had a deep rampart surrounding the city.²⁰ And the pillar of the rampart was about fifty cubits and its breadth forty cubits, and there was no place for a man to enter the city on account of the rampart, and the sons of Yaiqab saw the rampart of the city, and they sought an entrance in it but could not find it.²¹ For the entrance to the city was at the rear, and every man that wished to come into the city came by that road and went around the whole city, and he afterwards entered the city.²² And the sons of Yaiqab seeing they could not find the way into the city, their anger was kindled greatly, and the inhabitants of the city seeing that the sons of Yaiqab were coming to them were greatly afraid of them, for they had heard of their strength and what they had done to Chazar.²³ And the inhabitants of the city of Sarton could not go out toward the sons of Yaiqab after having assembled in the city to fight against them, lest they might thereby get into the city, but when they saw that they were coming toward them, they were greatly afraid of them, for they had heard of their strength and what they had done to Chazar.²⁴ So the inhabitants of Sarton speedily took away the bridge of the road of the city, from its place, before the sons of Yaiqab came, and they brought it into the city.²⁵ And the sons of Yaiqab came and sought the way into the city, and could not find it and the inhabitants of the city went up to the top of the wall, and saw, and behold the sons of Yaiqab were seeking an entrance into the city.²⁶ And the inhabitants of the city reproached the sons of Yaiqab from the top of the wall, and they cursed them, and the sons of Yaiqab heard the reproaches, and they were greatly incensed, and their anger burned within them.²⁷ And the sons of Yaiqab were provoked at them, and they all rose and sprang over the rampart with the force of their strength, and through their might passed the forty cubits' breadth of the rampart.²⁸ And when they had passed the rampart they stood under the wall of the city, and they found all the gates of the city enclosed with iron doors.²⁹ And the sons of Yaiqab came near to break open the doors of the gates of the city, and the inhabitants did not let them, for from the top of the wall they were casting stones and arrows upon them.³⁰ And the number of the people that were upon the wall was about four hundred men, and when the sons of Yaiqab saw that the men of the city would not let them open the gates of the city, they sprang and ascended the top of the wall, and Yahawadah went up first to the east part of the city.³¹ And Gad and Ashar went up after him to the west corner of the city, and Shamaïwan and Laway to the north, and Wadan and Raawaban to the south.³² And the men who were on the top of the wall, the inhabitants of the city, seeing that the sons of Yaiqab were coming up to them, they all fled from the wall, descended into the city, and concealed themselves in the midst of the city.³³ And Yashashakar and Napathalay that remained under the wall approached and broke the gates of the city, and kindled a fire at the gates of the city, that the iron melted, and all the sons of Yaiqab came into the city, they and all their men, and they fought with the inhabitants of the city of Sarton, and smote them with the edge of the sword, and no man stood up before them.³⁴ And about two hundred men fled from the city, and they all went and hid themselves in a certain tower in the city, and Yahawadah pursued them to the tower and he broke down the tower, which fell upon the men, and they all died.³⁵ And the sons of Yaiqab went up the road of the roof of that tower, and they saw, and behold there was another strong and high tower at a distance in the city, and the top of it reached to heaven, and the sons of Yaiqab hastened and descended, and went with all their men to that tower, and found it filled with about three hundred men, women and little ones.³⁶ And the sons of Yaiqab smote a great smiting amongst those men in the tower and they ran away and fled from them.³⁷ And Shamaïwan and Laway pursued them, when twelve mighty and valiant men came out to them from the place where they had concealed themselves.³⁸ And those twelve men maintained a strong battle against Shamaïwan and Laway, and Shamaïwan and Laway could not prevail over them, and those valiant men broke the shields of Shamaïwan and Laway, and one of them struck at Levi's head with his sword, when Laway hastily placed his hand to his head, for he was afraid of the sword, and the sword struck Levi's hand, and it wanted but little to the hand of Laway being cut off.³⁹ And Laway seized the sword of the valiant man in his hand, and took it forcibly from the man, and with it he struck at the head of the powerful man, and he severed his head.

⁴⁰ And eleven men approached to fight with Laway, for they saw that one of them was killed, and the sons of Yaiqab fought, but the sons of Yaiqab could not prevail over them, for those men were very powerful.⁴¹ And the sons of Yaiqab seeing that they could not prevail over them, Shamaïwan gave a loud and tremendous shriek, and the eleven powerful men were stunned at the voice of Simeon's shrieking.⁴² And Yahawadah at a distance knew the voice of Simeon's shouting, and Napathalay and Yahawadah ran with their shields to Shamaïwan and Laway, and found them fighting with those powerful men, unable to prevail over them as their shields were broken.⁴³ And Napathalay saw that the shields of Shamaïwan and Laway were broken, and he took two shields from his servants and brought them to Shamaïwan and Laway.⁴⁴ And Shamaïwan, Laway and Yahawadah on that day fought all three against the eleven mighty men until the time of sunset, but they could not prevail over them.⁴⁵ And this was told to Yaiqab, and he was sorely grieved, and he prayed to the Adanay, and he and Napathalay his son went against these mighty men.⁴⁶ And Yaiqab approached and drew his bow, and came nigh to the mighty men, and slew three of their men with the bow, and the remaining eight turned back, and behold, the war waged against them in the front and rear, and they were greatly afraid of their lives, and could not stand before the sons of Yaiqab, and they fled from before them.⁴⁷ And in their flight they met Wadan and Ashar coming toward them, and they suddenly fell upon them, and fought with them, and slew two of them, and Yahawadah and his brothers pursued them, and smote the remainder of them, and slew them.⁴⁸ And all the sons of Yaiqab returned and walked about the city, searching if they could find any men, and they found about twenty young men in a cave in the city, and Gad and Ashar smote them all, and Wadan and Napathalay lighted upon the rest of the men who had fled and escaped from the second tower, and they smote them all.⁴⁹ And the sons of Yaiqab smote all the inhabitants of the city of Sarton, but the women and little ones they left in the city and did not slay them.⁵⁰ And all the inhabitants of the city of Sarton were powerful men, one of them would pursue a thousand, and two of them would not flee from ten thousand of the rest of men.⁵¹ And the sons of Yaiqab slew all the inhabitants of the city of Sarton with the edge of the sword, that no man stood up against them, and they left the women in the city.⁵² And the sons of Yaiqab took all the spoil of the city, and captured what they desired, and they took flocks and herds and property from the city, and the sons of Yaiqab did to Sarton and its inhabitants as they had done to Chazar and its inhabitants, and they turned and went away.

39 And when the sons of Yaiqab went from the city of Sarton, they had gone about two hundred cubits when they met the inhabitants of Tapnach coming toward them, for they went out to fight with them, because they had smitten the king of Tapnach and all his men.² So all that remained in the city of Tapnach came out to fight with the sons of Yaiqab, and they thought to retake from them the booty and the spoil which they had captured from Chazar and Sarton.³ And the rest of the men of Tapnach fought with the sons of Yaiqab in that place, and the sons of Yaiqab smote them, and they fled before them, and they pursued them to the city of Arbelan, and they all fell before the sons of Yaiqab.⁴ And the sons of Yaiqab returned and came to Tapnach, to take away the spoil of Tapnach, and when they came to Tapnach they heard that the people of Arbelan had gone out to meet them to save the spoil of their brethren, and the sons of Yaiqab left ten of their men in

Tapnach to plunder the city, and they went out toward the people of Arbelan.⁵ And the men of Arbelan went out with their wives to fight with the sons of Yaiqab, for their wives were experienced in battle, and they went out, about four hundred men and women.

⁹ And the sons of Yaiqab fought with them in the city, and all their women were engaged in slinging against the sons of Yaiqab, and the combat was very severe amongst them the whole of that day till evening.¹⁰ And the sons of Yaiqab could not prevail over them, and the sons of Yaiqab had almost perished in that battle, and the sons of Yaiqab cried to the Adanay and greatly gained strength toward evening, and the sons of Yaiqab smote all the inhabitants of Arbelan by the edge of the sword, men, women and little ones.

¹¹ And also the remainder of the people who had fled from Sarton, the sons of Yaiqab smote them in Arbelan, and the sons of Yaiqab did to Arbelan and Tapnach as they had done to Chazar and Sarton, and when the women saw that all the men were dead, they went upon the roofs of the city and smote the sons of Yaiqab by showering down stones like rain.¹² And the sons of Yaiqab hastened and came into the city and seized all the women and smote them with the edge of the sword, and the sons of Yaiqab captured all the spoil and booty, flocks and herds and cattle.¹³ And the sons of Yaiqab did to Machnaymah as they had done to Tapnach, to Chazar and to Shalah, and they turned from there and went away.

¹⁴ And on the fifth day the sons of Yaiqab heard that the people of Gaish had gathered against them to battle, because they had slain their king and their captains, for there had been fourteen captains in the city of Gaish, and the sons of Yaiqab had slain them all in the first battle.¹⁵ And the sons of Yaiqab that day girt on their weapons of war, and they marched to battle against the inhabitants of Gaish, and in Gaish there was a strong and mighty people of the people of the Amorites, and Gaish was the strongest and best fortified city of all the cities of the Amorites, and it had three walls.¹⁶ And the sons of Yaiqab came to Gaish and they found the gates of the city locked, and about five hundred men standing at the top of the outer-most wall, and a people numerous as the sand upon the sea shore were in ambush for the sons of Yaiqab from without the city at the rear thereof.¹⁷ And the sons of Yaiqab approached to open the gates of the city, and whilst they were drawing nigh, behold those who were in ambush at the rear of the city came forth from their places and surrounded the sons of Yaiqab.¹⁸ And the sons of Yaiqab were enclosed between the people of Gaish, and the battle was both to their front and rear, and all the men that were upon the wall, were casting from the wall upon them, arrows and stones.

¹⁹ And Yahawadah, seeing that the men of Gaish were getting too heavy for them, gave a most piercing and tremendous shriek and all the men of Gaish were terrified at the voice of Judah's cry, and men fell from the wall at his powerful shriek, and all those that were from without and within the city were greatly afraid of their lives.²⁰ And the sons of Yaiqab still came nigh to break the doors of the city, when the men of Gaish threw stones and arrows upon them from the top of the wall, and made them flee from the gate.²¹ And the sons of Yaiqab returned against the men of Gaish who were with them from without the city, and they smote them terribly, as striking against gourds, and they could not stand against the sons of Yaiqab, for fright and terror had seized them at the shriek of Yahawadah.²² And the sons of Yaiqab slew all those men who were without the city, and the sons of Yaiqab still drew nigh to effect an entrance into the city, and to fight under the city walls, but they could not for all the inhabitants of Gaish who remained in the city had surrounded the walls of Gaish in every direction, so that the sons of Yaiqab were unable to approach the city to fight with them.²³ And the sons of Yaiqab came nigh to one corner to fight under the wall, the inhabitants of Gaish threw arrows and stones upon them like showers of rain, and they fled from under the wall.²⁴ And the people of Gaish who were upon the wall, seeing that the sons of Yaiqab could not prevail over them from under the wall, reproached the sons of Yaiqab in these words, saying,²⁵ What is the matter with you in the battle that you cannot prevail? can you then do to the mighty city of Gaish and its inhabitants as you did to the cities of the Amorites that were not so powerful? Surely to those weak ones amongst us you did those things, and slew them in the entrance of the city, for they had no strength when they were terrified at the sound of your shouting.²⁶ And will you now then be able to fight in this place? Surely here you will all die, and we will avenge the cause of those cities that you have laid waste.²⁷ And the inhabitants of Gaish greatly reproached the sons of Yaiqab and reviled them with their gods, and continued to cast arrows and stones upon them from the wall.²⁸ And Yahawadah and his brothers heard the words of the inhabitants of Gaish and their anger was greatly roused, and Yahawadah was jealous of his Alahayam in this matter, and he called out and said, O Adanay, help, send help to us and our brothers.²⁹ And he ran at a distance with all his might, with his drawn sword in his hand, and he sprang from the earth and by dint of his strength, mounted the wall, and his sword fell from his hand.³⁰ And Yahawadah shouted upon the wall, and all the men that were upon the wall were terrified, and some of them fell from the wall into the city and died, and those who were yet upon the wall, when they saw Judah's strength, they were greatly afraid and fled for their lives into the city for safety.³¹ And some were emboldened to fight with Yahawadah upon the wall, and they came nigh to slay him when they saw there was no sword in Judah's hand, and they thought of casting him from the wall to his brothers, and twenty men of the city came up to assist them, and they surrounded Yahawadah and they all shouted over him, and approached him with drawn swords, and they terrified Yahawadah, and Yahawadah cried out to his brothers from the wall.³² And Yaiqab and his sons drew the bow from under the wall, and smote three of the men that were upon the top of the wall, and Yahawadah continued to cry and he exclaimed, O Adanay help us, O Adanay deliver us, and he cried out with a loud voice upon the wall, and the cry was heard at a great distance.³³ And after this cry he again repeated to shout, and all the men who surrounded Yahawadah on the top of the wall were terrified, and they each threw his sword from his hand at the sound of Judah's shouting and his tremor, and fled.³⁴ And Yahawadah took the swords which had fallen from their hands, and Yahawadah fought with them and slew twenty of their men upon the wall.³⁵ And about eighty men and women still ascended the wall from the city and they all surrounded Yahawadah, and the Adanay impressed the fear of Yahawadah in their hearts, that they were unable to approach him.³⁶ And Yaiqab and all who were with him drew the bow from under the wall, and they slew ten men upon the wall, and they fell below the wall, before Yaiqab and his sons.³⁷ And the people upon the wall seeing that twenty of their men had fallen, they still ran toward Yahawadah with drawn swords, but they could not approach him for they were greatly terrified at Judah's strength.³⁸ And one of their mighty men whose name was Arud approached to strike Yahawadah upon the head with his sword, when Yahawadah hastily put his shield to his head, and the sword hit the shield, and it was split in two.³⁹ And this mighty man after he had struck Yahawadah ran for his life, at the fear of Yahawadah, and his feet slipped upon the wall and he fell amongst the sons of Yaiqab who were below the wall, and the sons of Yaiqab smote him and slew him.⁴⁰ And Judah's head pained him from the blow of the powerful man, and Yahawadah had nearly died from it.⁴¹ And Yahawadah cried out upon the wall owing to the pain produced by the blow, when Wadan heard him, and his anger burned within him, and he also rose up and went at a distance and ran and sprang from the earth and mounted the wall with his wrath-excited strength.⁴² And when Wadan came upon the wall

near to Yahawadah all the men upon the wall fled, who had stood against Yahawadah, and they went up to the second wall, and they threw arrows and stones upon Wadan and Yahawadah from the second wall, and endeavored to drive them from the wall.⁴³ And the arrows and stones struck Wadan and Yahawadah, and they had nearly been killed upon the wall, and wherever Wadan and Yahawadah fled from the wall, they were attacked with arrows and stones from the second wall.⁴⁴ And Yaiqab and his sons were still at the entrance of the city below the first wall, and they were not able to draw their bow against the inhabitants of the city, as they could not be seen by them, being upon the second wall.⁴⁵ And Wadan and Yahawadah when they could no longer bear the stones and arrows that fell upon them from the second wall, they both sprang upon the second wall near the people of the city, and when the people of the city who were upon the second wall saw that Wadan and Yahawadah had come to them upon the second wall, they all cried out and descended below between the walls.⁴⁶ And Yaiqab and his sons heard the noise of the shouting from the people of the city, and they were still at the entrance of the city, and they were anxious about Wadan and Yahawadah who were not seen by them, they being upon the second wall.⁴⁷ And Napathalay went up with his wrath-excited might and sprang upon the first wall to see what caused the noise of shouting which they had heard in the city, and Yashashakar and Zabawalan drew nigh to break the doors of the city, and they opened the gates of the city and came into the city.⁴⁸ And Napathalay leaped from the first wall to the second, and came to assist his brothers, and the inhabitants of Gaish who were upon the wall, seeing that Napathalay was the third who had come up to assist his brothers, they all fled and descended into the city, and Yaiqab and all his sons and all their young men came into the city to them.⁴⁹ And Yahawadah and Wadan and Napathalay descended from the wall into the city and pursued the inhabitants of the city, and Shamaian and Laway were from without the city and knew not that the gate was opened, and they went up from there to the wall and came down to their brothers into the city.⁵⁰ And the inhabitants of the city had all descended into the city, and the sons of Yaiqab came to them in different directions, and the battle waged against them from the front and the rear, and the sons of Yaiqab smote them terribly, and slew about twenty thousand of them men and women, not one of them could stand up against the sons of Yaiqab.⁵¹ And the blood flowed plentifully in the city, and it was like a brook of water, and the blood flowed like a brook to the outer part of the city, and reached the desert of Bethchorin.⁵² And the people of Bethchorin saw at a distance the blood flowing from the city of Gaish, and about seventy men from amongst them ran to see the blood, and they came to the place where the blood was.⁵³ And they followed the track of the blood and came to the wall of the city of Gaish, and they saw the blood issue from the city, and they heard the voice of crying from the inhabitants of Gaish, for it ascended to heaven, and the blood was continuing to flow abundantly like a brook of water.⁵⁴ And all the sons of Yaiqab were still smiting the inhabitants of Gaish, and were engaged in slaying them till evening, about twenty thousand men and women, and the people of Chorin said, Surely this is the work of the Hebrews, for they are still carrying on war in all the cities of the Amorites.⁵⁵ And those people hastened and ran to Bethchorin, and each took his weapons of war, and they cried out to all the inhabitants of Bethchorin, who also girt on their weapons of war to go and fight with the sons of Yaiqab.⁵⁶ And when the sons of Yaiqab had done smiting the inhabitants of Gaish, they walked about the city to strip all the slain, and coming in the innermost part of the city and farther on they met three very powerful men, and there was no sword in their hand.⁵⁷ And the sons of Yaiqab came up to the place where they were, and the powerful men ran away, and one of them had taken Zabawalan, who he saw was a young lad and of short stature, and with his might dashed him to the ground.⁵⁸ And Yaiqab ran to him with his sword and Yaiqab smote him below his loins with the sword, and cut him in two, and the body fell upon Zabawalan.⁵⁹ And the second one approached and seized Yaiqab to fell him to the ground, and Yaiqab turned to him and shouted to him, whilst Shamaïwan and Laway ran and smote him on the hips with the sword and felled him to the ground.⁶⁰ And the powerful man rose up from the ground with wrath-excited might, and Yahawadah came to him before he had gained his footing, and struck him upon the head with the sword, and his head was split and he died.⁶¹ And the third powerful man, seeing that his companions were killed, ran from before the sons of Yaiqab, and the sons of Yaiqab pursued him in the city; and whilst the powerful man was fleeing he found one of the swords of the inhabitants of the city, and he picked it up and turned to the sons of Yaiqab and fought them with that sword.⁶² And the powerful man ran to Yahawadah to strike him upon the head with the sword, and there was no shield in the hand of Yahawadah; and whilst he was aiming to strike him, Napathalay hastily took his shield and put it to Judah's head, and the sword of the powerful man hit the shield of Napathalay and Yahawadah escaped the sword.⁶³ And Shamaïwan and Laway ran upon the powerful man with their swords and struck at him forcibly with their swords, and the two swords entered the body of the powerful man and divided it in two, length-wise.⁶⁴ And the sons of Yaiqab smote the three mighty men at that time, together with all the inhabitants of Gaish, and the day was about to decline.⁶⁵ And the sons of Yaiqab walked about Gaish and took all the spoil of the city, even the little ones and women they did not suffer to live, and the sons of Yaiqab did to Gaish as they had done to Sarton and Shalah.

40 And the sons of Yaiqab led away all the spoil of Gaish, and went out of the city by night.² They were going out marching toward the castle of Bethchorin, and the inhabitants of Bethchorin were going to the castle to meet them, and on that night the sons of Yaiqab fought with the inhabitants of Bethchorin, in the castle of Bethchorin.³ And all the inhabitants of Bethchorin were mighty men, one of them would not flee from before a thousand men, and they fought on that night upon the castle, and their shouts were heard on that night from afar, and the earth quaked at their shouting.⁴ And all the sons of Yaiqab were afraid of those men, as they were not accustomed to fight in the dark, and they were greatly confounded, and the sons of Yaiqab cried to the Adanay, saying, Give help to us O Adanay, deliver us that we may not die by the hands of these uncircumcised men.⁵ And the Adanay hearkened to the voice of the sons of Yaiqab, and the Adanay caused great terror and confusion to seize the people of Bethchorin, and they fought amongst themselves the one with the other in the darkness of night, and smote each other in great numbers.⁶ And the sons of Yaiqab, knowing that the Adanay had brought a spirit of perverseness amongst those men, and that they fought each man with his neighbor, went forth from among the bands of the people of Bethchorin and went as far as the descent of the castle of Bethchorin, and farther, and they tarried there securely with their young men on that night.⁷ And the people of Bethchorin fought the whole night, one man with his brother, and the other with his neighbor, and they cried out in every direction upon the castle, and their cry was heard at a distance, and the whole earth shook at their voice, for they were powerful above all the people of the earth.⁸ And all the inhabitants of the cities of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Amorites, the Hivites and all the kings of Kanain, and also those who were on the other side of the Yaradan, heard the noise of the shouting on that night.⁹ And they said, Surely these are the battles of the Hebrews who are fighting against the seven cities, who came nigh to them; and who can stand against those Hebrews?¹⁰ And all the inhabitants of the cities of the Canaanites, and all those who were on the other side of the Yaradan, were greatly afraid of the sons of Yaiqab, for they said, Behold the same will be done to us as was done to those cities, for who can stand against their mighty strength?¹¹ And the cries of the Chorinites were very great on that night, and continued to increase; and they smote each other till morning, and numbers of them were killed.¹² And the morning appeared, and all the sons of Yaiqab rose up at daybreak and went up to the castle, and they smote those who remained of the

Chorinites in a terrible manner, and they were all killed in the castle.¹³ And the sixth day appeared, and all the inhabitants of Kanain saw at a distance all the people of Bethchorin lying dead in the castle of Bethchorin, and strewn about as the carcasses of lambs and goats.¹⁴ And the sons of Yaiqab led all the spoil which they had captured from Gaish and went to Bethchorin, and they found the city full of people like the sand of the sea, and they fought with them, and the sons of Yaiqab smote them there till evening time.¹⁵ And the sons of Yaiqab did to Bethchorin as they had done to Gaish and Tapnach, and as they had done to Chazar, to Sarton and to Shalah.¹⁶ And the sons of Yaiqab took with them the spoil of Bethchorin and all the spoil of the cities, and on that day they went home to Shakam.¹⁷ And the sons of Yaiqab came home to the city of Shakam, and they remained without the city, and they then rested there from the war, and tarried there all night.¹⁸ And all their servants together with all the spoil that they had taken from the cities, they left without the city, and they did not enter the city, for they said, Peradventure there may be yet more fighting against us, and they may come to besiege us in Shakam.¹⁹ And Yaiqab and his sons and their servants remained on that night and the next day in the portion of the field which Yaiqab had purchased from Chamawar for five shekels, and all that they had captured was with them.²⁰ And all the booty which the sons of Yaiqab had captured, was in the portion of the field, immense as the sand upon the sea shore.²¹ And the inhabitants of the land observed them from afar, and all the inhabitants of the land were afraid of the sons of Yaiqab who had done this thing, for no king from the days of old had ever done the like.²² And the seven kings of the Canaanites resolved to make peace with the sons of Yaiqab, for they were greatly afraid of their lives, on account of the sons of Yaiqab.²³ And on that day, being the seventh day, Yapayai king of Chabarawan sent secretly to the king of Ai, and to the king of Gabaiwan, and to the king of Shalam, and to the king of Adulam, and to the king of Lakayash, and to the king of Chazar, and to all the Canaanitish kings who were under their subjection, saying,²⁴ Go up with me, and come to me that we may go to the sons of Yaiqab, and I will make peace with them, and form a treaty with them, lest all your lands be destroyed by the swords of the sons of Yaiqab, as they did to Shakam and the cities around it, as you have heard and seen.²⁵ And when you come to me, do not come with many men, but let every king bring his three head captains, and every captain bring three of his officers.²⁶ And come all of you to Chabarawan, and we will go together to the sons of Yaiqab, and supplicate them that they shall form a treaty of peace with us.²⁷ And all those kings did as the king of Chabarawan had sent to them, for they were all under his counsel and command, and all the kings of Kanain assembled to go to the sons of Yaiqab, to make peace with them; and the sons of Yaiqab returned and went to the portion of the field that was in Shakam, for they did not put confidence in the kings of the land.²⁸ And the sons of Yaiqab returned and remained in the portion of the field ten days, and no one came to make war with them.²⁹ And when the sons of Yaiqab saw that there was no appearance of war, they all assembled and went to the city of Shakam, and the sons of Yaiqab remained in Shakam.³⁰ And at the expiration of forty days, all the kings of the Amorites assembled from all their places and came to Chabarawan, to Yapayai, king of Chabarawan.³¹ And the number of kings that came to Chabarawan, to make peace with the sons of Yaiqab, was twenty-one kings, and the number of captains that came with them was sixty-nine, and their men were one hundred and eighty-nine, and all these kings and their men rested by Mount Chabarawan.³² And the king of Chabarawan went out with his three captains and nine men, and these kings resolved to go to the sons of Yaiqab to make peace.³³ And they said to the king of Chabarawan, Go you before us with your men, and speak for us to the sons of Yaiqab, and we will come after you and confirm your words, and the king of Chabarawan did so.³⁴ And the sons of Yaiqab heard that all the kings of Kanain had gathered together and rested in Chabarawan, and the sons of Yaiqab sent four of their servants as spies, saying, Go and spy these kings, and search and examine their men whether they are few or many, and if they are but few in number, number them all and come back.³⁵ And the servants of Yaiqab went secretly to these kings, and did as the sons of Yaiqab had commanded them, and on that day they came back to the sons of Yaiqab, and said to them, We came to those kings, and they are but few in number, and we numbered them all, and behold, they were two hundred and eighty-eight, kings and men.³⁶ And the sons of Yaiqab said, They are but few in number, therefore we will not all go out to them; and in the morning the sons of Yaiqab rose up and chose sixty two of their men, and ten of the sons of Yaiqab went with them; and they girt on their weapons of war, for they said, They are coming to make war with us, for they knew not that they were coming to make peace with them.³⁷ And the sons of Yaiqab went with their servants to the gate of Shakam, toward those kings, and their father Yaiqab was with them.³⁸ And when they had come forth, behold, the king of Chabarawan and his three captains and nine men with him were coming along the road against the sons of Yaiqab, and the sons of Yaiqab lifted up their eyes, and saw at a distance Yapayai, king of Chabarawan, with his captains, coming toward them, and the sons of Yaiqab took their stand at the place of the gate of Shakam, and did not proceed.³⁹ And the king of Chabarawan continued to advance, he and his captains, until he came nigh to the sons of Yaiqab, and he and his captains bowed down to them to the ground, and the king of Chabarawan sat with his captains before Yaiqab and his sons.⁴⁰ And the sons of Yaiqab said to him, What has befallen you, O king of Chabarawan? why have you come to us this day? what do you require from us? and the king of Chabarawan said to Yaiqab, I beseech you my lord, all the kings of the Canaanites have this day come to make peace with you.⁴¹ And the sons of Yaiqab heard the words of the king of Chabarawan, and they would not consent to his proposals, for the sons of Yaiqab had no faith in him, for they imagined that the king of Chabarawan had spoken deceitfully to them.⁴² And the king of Chabarawan knew from the words of the sons of Yaiqab, that they did not believe his words, and the king of Chabarawan approached nearer to Yaiqab, and said to him, I beseech you, my lord, to be assured that all these kings have come to you on peaceable terms, for they have not come with all their men, neither did they bring their weapons of war with them, for they have come to seek peace from my lord and his sons.⁴³ And the sons of Yaiqab answered the king of Chabarawan, saying, Send you to all these kings, and if you speak truth to us, let them each come singly before us, and if they come to us unarmed, we shall then know that they seek peace from us.⁴⁴ And Yapayai, king of Chabarawan, sent one of his men to the kings, and they all came before the sons of Yaiqab, and bowed down to them to the ground, and these kings sat before Yaiqab and his sons, and they spoke to them, saying,⁴⁵ We have heard all that you did to the kings of the Amorites with your sword and exceedingly mighty arm, so that no man could stand up before you, and we were afraid of you for the sake of our lives, lest it should befall us as it did to them.⁴⁶ So we have come to you to form a treaty of peace between us, and now therefore contract with us a covenant of peace and truth, that you will not meddle with us, inasmuch as we have not meddled with you.⁴⁷ And the sons of Yaiqab knew that they had really come to seek peace from them, and the sons of Yaiqab listened to them, and formed a covenant with them.⁴⁸ And the sons of Yaiqab swore to them that they would not meddle with them, and all the kings of the Canaanites swore also to them, and the sons of Yaiqab made them tributary from that day forward.⁴⁹ And after this all the captains of these kings came with their men before Yaiqab, with presents in their hands for Yaiqab and his sons, and they bowed down to him to the ground.⁵⁰ And these kings then urged the sons of Yaiqab and begged of them to return all the spoil they had captured from the seven cities of the Amorites, and the sons of Yaiqab did so, and they returned all that they had captured, the women, the little ones, the cattle and all the spoil which they had taken, and they sent them off, and they went away each to his city.⁵¹ And all these kings again bowed down to the sons of Yaiqab, and they sent or brought them many gifts in those days, and the sons of Yaiqab sent off these kings and their men, and they went peaceably away from them to their cities, and the sons of Yaiqab also returned to their home, to Shakam.⁵² And there was peace from that day forward between the sons of Yaiqab and the kings of the Canaanites, until the children of Yasharaal came to inherit the land of Kanain.

41 And at the revolution of the year the sons of Yaiqab journeyed from Shakam, and they came to Chabarawan, to their father Yatzachaq, and they dwelt there, but their flocks and herds they fed daily in Shakam, for there was there in those days good and fat pasture, and Yaiqab and his sons and all their household dwelt in the valley of Chabarawan.² And it was in those days, in that year, being the hundred and sixth year of the life of Yaiqab, in the tenth year of Jacob's coming from Padan, that Laah the wife of Yaiqab died; she was fifty-one years old when she died in Chabarawan.³ And Yaiqab and his sons buried her in the cave of the field of Makapalah, which is in Chabarawan, which Abaraham had bought from the children of Chath, for the possession of a burial place.⁴ And the sons of Yaiqab dwelt with their father in the valley of Chabarawan, and all the inhabitants of the land knew their strength and their fame went throughout the land.⁵ And Yawasap the son of Yaiqab, and his brother Banayaman, the sons of Rachal, the wife of Yaiqab, were yet young in those days, and did not go out with their brethren during their battles in all the cities of the Amorites.⁶ And when Yawasap saw the strength of his brethren, and their greatness, he praised them and extolled them, but he ranked himself greater than them, and extolled himself above them; and Yaiqab, his father, also loved him more than any of his sons, for he was a son of his old age, and through his love toward him, he made him a coat of many colors.⁷ And when Yawasap saw that his father loved him more than his brethren, he continued to exalt himself above his brethren, and he brought to his father evil reports concerning them.⁸ And the sons of Yaiqab seeing the whole of Joseph's conduct toward them, and that their father loved him more than any of them, they hated him and could not speak peaceably to him all the days.⁹ And Yawasap was seventeen years old, and he was still magnifying himself above his brethren, and thought of raising himself above them.¹⁰ At that time he dreamed a dream, and he came to his brothers and told them his dream, and he said to them, I dreamed a dream, and behold we were all binding sheaves in the field, and my sheaf rose and placed itself upon the ground and your sheaves surrounded it and bowed down to it.¹¹ And his brethren answered him and said to him, What means this dream that you did dream? do you imagine in your heart to reign or rule over us?¹² And he still came, and told the thing to his father Yaiqab, and Yaiqab kissed Yawasap when he heard these words from his mouth, and Yaiqab blessed Yawasap.¹³ And when the sons of Yaiqab saw that their father had blessed Yawasap and had kissed him, and that he loved him exceedingly, they became jealous of him and hated him the more.¹⁴ And after this Yawasap dreamed another dream and related the dream to his father in the presence of his brethren, and Yawasap said to his father and brethren, Behold I have again dreamed a dream, and behold the sun and the moon and the eleven stars bowed down to me.¹⁵ And his father heard the words of Yawasap and his dream, and seeing that his brethren hated Yawasap on account of this matter, Yaiqab therefore rebuked Yawasap before his brethren on account of this thing, saying, What means this dream which you have dreamed, and this magnifying yourself before your brethren who are older than you are?¹⁶ Do you imagine in your heart that I and your mother and your eleven brethren will come and bow down to you, that you speak these things?¹⁷ And his brethren were jealous of him on account of his words and dreams, and they continued to hate him, and Yaiqab reserved the dreams in his heart.¹⁸ And the sons of Yaiqab went one day to feed their father's flock in Shakam, for they were still herdsmen in those days; and whilst the sons of Yaiqab were that day feeding in Shakam they delayed, and the time of gathering in the cattle was passed, and they had not arrived.¹⁹ And Yaiqab saw that his sons were delayed in Shakam, and Yaiqab said within himself, peradventure the people of Shakam have risen up to fight against them, therefore they have delayed coming this day.²⁰ And Yaiqab called Yawasap his son and commanded him, saying, Behold your brethren are feeding in Shakam this day, and behold they have not yet come back; go now therefore and see where they are, and bring me word back concerning the welfare of your brethren and the welfare of the flock.²¹ And Yaiqab sent his son Yawasap to the valley of Chabarawan, and Yawasap came for his brothers to Shakam, and could not find them, and Yawasap went about the field which was near Shakam, to see where his brothers had turned, and he missed his road in the wilderness, and knew not which way he should go.²² And an angel of the Adanay found him wandering in the road toward the field, and Yawasap said to the angel of the Adanay, I seek my brethren; have you not heard where they are feeding? and the angel of the Adanay said to Yawasap, I saw your brethren feeding here, and I heard them say they would go to feed in Dathan.²³ And Yawasap hearkened to the voice of the angel of the Adanay, and he went to his brethren in Dathan and he found them in Dathan feeding the flock.²⁴ And Yawasap advanced to his brethren, and before he had come nigh to them, they had resolved to slay him.²⁵ And Shamaian said to his brethren, Behold the man of dreams is coming to us this day, and now therefore come and let us kill him and cast him in one of the pits that are in the wilderness, and when his father shall seek him from us, we will say an evil beast has devoured him.²⁶ And Raawaban heard the words of his brethren concerning Yawasap, and he said to them, You should not do this thing, for how can we look up to our father Yaiqab? Cast him into this pit to die there, but stretch not forth a hand upon him to spill his blood; and Raawaban said this in order to deliver him from their hand, to bring him back to his father.²⁷ And when Yawasap came to his brethren he sat before them, and they rose upon him and seized him and smote him to the earth, and stripped the coat of many colors which he had on.²⁸ And they took him and cast him into a pit, and in the pit there was no water, but serpents and scorpions. And Yawasap was afraid of the serpents and scorpions that were in the pit. And Yawasap cried out with a loud voice, and the Adanay hid the serpents and scorpions in the sides of the pit, and they did no harm to Yawasap.²⁹ And Yawasap called out from the pit to his brethren, and said to them, What have I done to you, and in what have I sinned? why do you not fear the Adanay concerning me? am I not of your bones and flesh, and is not Yaiqab your father, my father? why do you do this thing to me this day, and how will you be able to look up to our father Yaiqab?³⁰ And he continued to cry out and call to his brethren from the pit, and he said, O Yahawadah, Shamaian, and Laway, my brethren, lift me up from the place of darkness in which you have placed me, and come this day to have compassion on me, you children of the Adanay, and sons of Yaiqab my father. And if I have sinned to you, are you not the sons of Abaraham, Yatzachaq, and Yaiqab? if they saw an orphan they had compassion over him, or one that was hungry, they gave him bread to eat, or one that was thirsty, they gave him water to drink, or one that was naked, they covered him with garments!³¹ And how then will you withhold your pity from your brother, for I am of your flesh and bones, and if I have sinned to you, surely you will do this on account of my father!³² And Yawasap spoke these words from the pit, and his brethren could not listen to him, nor incline their ears to the words of Yawasap, and Yawasap was crying and weeping in the pit.³³ And Yawasap said, O that my father knew, this day, the act which my brothers have done to me, and the words which they have this day spoken to me.³⁴ And all his brethren heard his cries and weeping in the pit, and his brethren went and removed themselves from the pit, so that they might not hear the cries of Yawasap and his weeping in the pit.

42 And they went and sat on the opposite side, about the distance of a bow-shot, and they sat there to eat bread, and whilst they were eating, they held counsel together what was to be done with him, whether to slay him or to bring him back to his father.² They were holding the counsel, when they lifted up their eyes, and saw, and behold there was a company of Ishmaelites coming at a distance by the road of Galaid, going down to Matzarayam.³ And Yahawadah said to them, What gain will it be to us if we slay our brother? peradventure Alahayam will require him from us; this then is the counsel proposed concerning him, which you shall do to him: Behold this company of Ishmaelites going down to Matzarayam,⁴ Now therefore, come let us dispose of him to them, and let not our hand be upon him, and they will lead him along with them, and he will be lost amongst the people of the land, and we will not put him to death with our own hands. And the proposal pleased his brethren and they did according to the word of Yahawadah.⁵ And whilst they were discoursing about this matter, and before the company of Ishmaelites had come up to them, seven trading men of Madayan passed by them, and as they passed they were thirsty, and they lifted up their eyes and saw the pit in which Yawasap was immured, and they looked, and behold every species of bird was upon him.⁶ And these Midianites ran to the pit to drink water, for they thought that it contained water, and on coming before the pit they heard the voice of Yawasap crying and weeping in the pit, and they looked down into the pit, and they saw and behold there was a youth of comely appearance and well favored.⁷ And they called to him and said, Who are you and who brought you here, and who placed you in this pit, in the wilderness? and they all assisted to raise up Yawasap and they drew him out, and brought him up from the pit, and took him and went away on their journey and passed by his brethren.⁸ And these said to them, Why do you do this, to take our servant from us and to go away? surely we placed this youth in the pit because he rebelled against us, and you come and bring him up and lead him away; now then give us back our servant.⁹ And the Midianites answered and said to the sons of Yaiqab, Is this your servant, or does this man attend you? peradventure you are all his servants, for he is more comely and well favored than any of you, and why do you all speak falsely to us?¹⁰ Now therefore we will not listen to your words, nor attend to you, for we found the youth in the pit in the wilderness, and we took him; we will therefore go on.¹¹ And all the sons of Yaiqab approached them and rose up to them and said to them, Give us back our servant, and why will you all die by the edge of the sword? And the Midianites cried out against them, and they drew their swords, and approached to fight with the sons of Yaiqab.¹² And behold Shamaian rose up from his seat against them, and sprang upon the ground and drew his sword and approached the Midianites and he gave a terrible shout before them, so that his shouting was heard at a distance, and the earth shook at Simeon's shouting.¹³ And the Midianites were terrified on account of Shamaian and the noise of his shouting, and they fell upon their faces, and were excessively alarmed.¹⁴ And Shamaian said to them, Truly I am Shamaian, the son of Yaiqab the Hebrew, who have, only with my brother, destroyed the city of Shakam and the cities of the Amorites; so shall Alahayam moreover do to me, that if all your brethren the people of Madayan, and also the kings of Kanain, were to come with you, they could not fight against me.¹⁵ Now therefore give us back the youth whom you have taken, lest I give your flesh to the birds of the skies and the beasts of the earth.¹⁶ And the Midianites were more afraid of Shamaian, and they approached the sons of Yaiqab with terror and fright, and with pathetic words, saying,¹⁷ Surely you have said that the young man is your servant, and that he rebelled against you, and therefore you placed him in the pit; what then will you do with a servant who rebels against his master? Now therefore sell him to us, and we will give you all that you require for him; and the Adanay was pleased to do this in order that the sons of Yaiqab should not slay their brother.¹⁸ And the Midianites saw that Yawasap was of a comely appearance and well-favored; they desired him in their hearts and were urgent to purchase him from his brethren.¹⁹ And the sons of Yaiqab hearkened to the Midianites and they sold their brother Yawasap to them for twenty pieces of silver, and Raawaban their brother was not with them, and the Midianites took Yawasap and continued their journey to Galaid.²⁰ They were going along the road, and the Midianites repented of what they had done, in having purchased the young man, and one said to the other, What is this thing that we have done, in taking this youth from the Hebrews, who is of comely appearance and well favored.²¹ Perhaps this youth is stolen from the land of the Hebrews, and why then have we done this thing? and if he should be sought for and found in our hands we shall die through him.²² Now surely hardy and powerful men have sold him to us, the strength of one of whom you saw this day; perhaps they stole him from his land with their might and with their powerful arm, and have therefore sold him to us for the small value which we gave to them.²³ And whilst they were thus discoursing together, they looked, and behold the company of Ishmaelites which was coming at first, and which the sons of Yaiqab saw, was advancing toward the Midianites, and the Midianites said to each other, Come let us sell this youth to the company of Ishmaelites who are coming toward us, and we will take for him the little that we gave for him, and we will be delivered from his evil.²⁴ And they did so, and they reached the Ishmaelites, and the Midianites sold Yawasap to the Ishmaelites for twenty pieces of silver which they had given for him to his brethren.²⁵ And the Midianites went on their road to Galaid, and the Ishmaelites took Yawasap and they let him ride upon one of the camels, and they were leading him to Matzarayam.²⁶ And Yawasap heard that the Ishmaelites were proceeding to Matzarayam, and Yawasap lamented and wept at this thing that he was to be so far removed from the land of Kanain, from his father, and he wept bitterly whilst he was riding upon the camel, and one of their men observed him, and made him go down from the camel and walk on foot, and notwithstanding this Yawasap continued to cry and weep, and he said, O my father, my father.²⁷ And one of the Ishmaelites rose up and smote Yawasap upon the cheek, and still he continued to weep; and Yawasap was fatigued in the road, and was unable to proceed on account of the bitterness of his soul, and they all smote him and afflicted him in the road, and they terrified him in order that he might cease from weeping.²⁸ And the Adanay saw the ambition of Yawasap and his trouble, and the Adanay brought down upon those men darkness and confusion, and the hand of every one that smote him became withered.²⁹ And they said to each other, What is this thing that Alahayam has done to us in the road? and they knew not that this befell them on account of Yawasap. And the men proceeded on the road, and they passed along the road of Aparathah where Rachal was buried.³⁰ And Yawasap reached his mother's grave, and Yawasap hastened and ran to his mother's grave, and fell upon the grave and wept.³¹ And Yawasap cried aloud upon his mother's grave, and he said, O my mother, my mother, O you who did give me birth, awake now, and rise and see your son, how he has been sold for a slave, and no one to pity him.³² O rise and see your son, weep with me on account of my troubles, and see the heart of my brethren.³³ Arouse my mother, arouse, awake from your sleep for me, and direct your battles against my brethren. O how have they stripped me of my coat, and sold me already twice for a slave, and separated me from my father, and there is no one to pity me.³⁴ Arouse and lay your cause against them before Alahayam, and see whom Alahayam will justify in the judgment, and whom he will condemn.³⁵ Rise, O my mother, rise, awake from your sleep and see my father how his soul is with me this day, and comfort him and ease his heart.³⁶ And Yawasap continued to speak these words, and Yawasap cried aloud and wept bitterly upon his mother's grave; and he ceased speaking, and from bitterness of heart he became still as a stone upon the grave.³⁷ And Yawasap heard a voice speaking to him from beneath the ground, which answered him with bitterness of heart, and with a voice of weeping and praying in these words:³⁸ My son, my son Yawasap, I have heard the voice of your weeping and the voice of your lamentation; I have seen your tears; I know your troubles, my son, and it grieves me for your sake, and abundant grief is added to my grief.³⁹ Now therefore my son, Yawasap my son, hope to the Adanay, and wait for him and do not fear, for the Adanay is with you, he will deliver you from all trouble.⁴⁰ Rise my son, go down to Matzarayam with your masters, and do not fear, for the Adanay is with you, my son. And she continued to speak like to these words to Yawasap, and she was still.⁴¹ And Yawasap heard this, and he wondered greatly at this, and he continued to weep; and after this one of the Ishmaelites observed him crying and weeping upon the grave, and his anger was kindled against him, and he drove him from there, and he smote him and cursed him.⁴² And Yawasap said to the men, May I find grace in your sight to take me back to my father's house, and he will give you abundance of riches.⁴³ And they answered him, saying, Are you not a slave, and where is your father? and if you had a father you would not already twice have been sold for a slave for so little value; and their anger was still roused against him, and they continued to smite him and to chastise him, and Yawasap wept bitterly.⁴⁴ And the Adanay saw Joseph's affliction, and Adanay again smote these men, and chastised them, and the Adanay caused darkness to envelope them upon the earth, and the lightning flashed and the thunder roared, and the earth shook at the voice of the thunder and of the mighty wind, and the men were terrified and knew not where they should go.⁴⁵ And the beasts and camels stood still, and they led them, but they would not go, they smote them, and they crouched upon the ground; and the men said to each other, What is this that Alahayam has done to us? what are our transgressions, and what are our sins that this thing has thus befallen us?⁴⁶ And one of them answered and said to them, Perhaps on account of the sin of afflicting this slave has this thing happened this day to us; now therefore implore him strongly to forgive us, and then we shall know on whose account this evil befalls us, and if Alahayam shall have compassion over us, then we shall know that all this comes to us on account of the sin of afflicting this slave.⁴⁷ And the men did so, and they supplicated Yawasap and pressed him to forgive them; and they said, We have sinned to the Adanay and to you, now therefore vouchsafe to request of your Alahayam that he shall put away this death from amongst us, for we have sinned to him.⁴⁸ And Yawasap did according to their words, and the Adanay hearkened to Yawasap, and the Adanay put away the plague which he had inflicted upon those men on account of Yawasap, and the beasts rose up from the ground and they conducted them, and they went on, and the raging storm abated and the earth became tranquilized, and the men proceeded on their journey to go down to Matzarayam, and the men knew that this evil had befallen them on account of Yawasap.⁴⁹ And they said to each other, Behold we know that it was on account of his affliction that this evil befell us; now therefore why shall we bring this death upon our souls? Let us hold counsel what to do to this slave.⁵⁰ And one answered and said, Surely he told us to bring him back to his father; now therefore come, let us take him back and we will go to the place that he will tell us, and take from his family the price that we gave for him and we will then go away.⁵¹ And one answered again and said, Behold this counsel is very good, but we cannot do so for the way is very far from us, and we cannot go out of our road.⁵² And one more answered and said to them, This is the counsel to be adopted, we will not swerve from it; behold we are this day going to Matzarayam, and when we shall have come to Matzarayam, we will sell him there at a high price, and we will be delivered from his evil.⁵³ And this thing pleased the men and they did so, and they continued their journey to Matzarayam with Yawasap.

43 And when the sons of Yaiqab had sold their brother Yawasap to the Midianites, their hearts were smitten on account of him, and they repented of their acts, and they sought for him to bring him back, but could not find him.² And Raawaban returned to the pit in which Yawasap had been put, in order to lift him out, and restore him to his father, and Raawaban stood by the pit, and he heard not a word, and he called out Yawasap! Yawasap! and no one answered or uttered a word.³ And Raawaban said, Yawasap has died through fright, or some serpent has caused his death; and Raawaban descended into the pit, and he searched for Yawasap and could not find him in the pit, and he came out again.⁴ And Raawaban tore his garments and he said, The child is not there, and how shall I reconcile my father about him if he be dead? and he went to his brethren and found them grieving on account of Yawasap, and counseling together how to reconcile their father about him, and Raawaban said to his brethren, I came to the pit and behold Yawasap was not there, what then shall we say to our father, for my father will only seek the lad from me.⁵ And his brethren answered him saying, Thus and thus we did, and our hearts afterward smote us on account of this act, and we now sit to seek a pretext how we shall reconcile our father to it.⁶ And Raawaban said to them, What is this you have done to bring down the grey hairs of our father in sorrow to the grave? the thing is not good, that you have done.⁷ And Raawaban sat with them, and they all rose up and swore to each other not to tell this thing to Yaiqab, and they all said, The man who will tell this to our father or his household, or who will report this to any of the children of the land, we will all rise up against him and slay him with the sword.⁸ And the sons of Yaiqab feared each other in this matter, from the youngest to the oldest, and no one spoke a word, and they concealed the thing in their hearts.⁹ And they afterward sat down to determine and invent something to say to their father Yaiqab concerning all these things.¹⁰ And Yashashakar said to them, Here is an advice for you if it seem good in your eyes to do this thing, take the coat which belongs to Yawasap and tear it, and kill a kid of the goats and dip it in its blood.¹¹ And send it to our father and when he sees it he will say an evil beast has devoured him, therefore tear you his coat and behold his blood will be upon his coat, and by your doing this we shall be free of our father's murmurings.¹² And Issachar's advice pleased them, and they hearkened to him and they did according to the word of Yashashakar which he had counselled them.¹³ And they hastened and took Joseph's coat and tore it, and they killed a kid of the goats and dipped the coat in the blood of the kid, and then trampled it in the dust, and they sent the coat to their father Yaiqab by the hand of Napathalay, and they commanded him to say these words:¹⁴ We had gathered in the cattle and had come as far as the road to Shakam and farther, when we found this coat upon the road in the wilderness dipped in blood and in dust; now therefore know whether it be your son's coat or not.¹⁵ And Napathalay went and he came to his father and he gave him the coat, and he spoke to him all the words which his brethren had commanded him.¹⁶ And Yaiqab saw Joseph's coat and he knew it and he fell upon his face to the ground, and became as still as a stone, and he afterward rose up and cried out with a loud and weeping voice and he said, It is the coat of my son Yawasap!¹⁷ And Yaiqab hastened and sent one of his servants to his sons, who went to them and found them coming along the road with the flock.¹⁸ And the sons of Yaiqab came to their father about evening, and behold their garments were torn and dust was upon their heads, and they found their father crying out and weeping with a loud voice.¹⁹ And Yaiqab said to his sons, Tell me truly what evil have you this day suddenly brought upon me? and they answered their father Yaiqab, saying, We were coming along this day after the flock had been gathered in, and we came as far as the city of Shakam by the road in the wilderness, and we found this coat filled with blood upon the ground, and we knew it and we sent to you if you could know it.²⁰ And Yaiqab heard the words of his sons and he cried out with a loud voice, and he said, It is the coat of my son, an evil beast has devoured him; Yawasap is rent in pieces, for I sent him this day to see whether it was well with you and well with the flocks and to bring me word again from you, and he went as I commanded him, and this has happened to him this day whilst I thought my son was with you.²¹ And the sons of Yaiqab answered and said, He did not come to us, neither have we seen him from the time of our going out from you until now.²² And when Yaiqab heard their words he again cried out aloud, and he rose up and tore his garments, and he put sackcloth upon his loins, and he wept bitterly and he mourned and lifted up his voice in weeping and exclaimed and said these words,²³ Yawasap my son, O my son Yawasap, I sent you this day after the welfare of your brethren, and behold you have been torn in pieces; through my hand has this happened to my son.²⁴ It grieves me for you Yawasap my son, it grieves me for you; how sweet were you to me during life, and now how exceedingly bitter is your death to me.²⁵ O that I had died in your stead Yawasap my son, for it grieves me sadly for you my son, O my son, my son. Yawasap my son, where are you, and where have you been drawn? arouse, arouse from your place, and come and see my grief for you, O my son Yawasap.²⁶ Come now and number the tears gushing from my eyes down my cheeks, and bring them up before the Adanay, that his anger may turn from me.²⁷ O Yawasap my son, how did you fall, by the hand of one by whom no one had fallen from the beginning of the world to this day; for you have been put to death by the smiting of an enemy, inflicted with cruelty, but surely I know that this has happened to you, on account of the multitude of my sins.²⁸ Arouse now and see how bitter is my trouble for you my son, although I did not rear you, nor fashion you, nor give you breath and soul, but it was Alahayam who formed you and built your bones and covered them with flesh, and breathed in your nostrils the breath of life, and then he gave you to me.²⁹ Now truly Alahayam who gave you to me, he has taken you from me, and such then has befallen you.³⁰ And Yaiqab continued to speak like to these words concerning Yawasap, and he wept bitterly; he fell to the ground and became still.³¹ And all the sons of Yaiqab seeing their father's trouble, they repented of what they had done, and they also wept bitterly.³² And Yahawadah rose up and lifted his father's head from the ground, and placed it upon his lap, and he wiped his father's tears from his cheeks, and Yahawadah wept an exceeding great weeping, whilst his father's head was reclining upon his lap, still as a stone.³³ And the sons of Yaiqab saw their father's trouble, and they lifted up their voices and continued to weep, and Yaiqab was yet lying upon the ground still as a stone.³⁴ And all his sons and his servants and his servant's children rose up and stood round him to comfort him, and he refused to be comforted.³⁵ And the whole household of Yaiqab rose up and mourned a great mourning on account of Yawasap and their father's trouble, and the intelligence reached Yatzachaq, the son of Abaraham, the father of Yaiqab, and he wept bitterly on account of Yawasap, he and all his household, and he went from the place where he dwelt in Chabarawan, and his men with him, and he comforted Yaiqab his son, and he refused to be comforted.³⁶ And after this, Yaiqab rose up from the ground, and his tears were running down his cheeks, and he said to his sons, Rise up and take your swords and your bows, and go forth into the field, and seek whether you can find my son's body and bring it to me that I may bury it.³⁷ Seek also, I pray you, among the beasts and hunt them, and that which shall come the first before you seize and bring it to me, perhaps the Adanay will this day pity my affliction, and prepare before you that which did tear my son in pieces, and bring it to me, and I will avenge the cause of my son.³⁸ And his sons did as their father had commanded them, and they rose up early in the morning, and each took his sword and his bow in his hand, and they went forth into the field to hunt the beasts.³⁹ And Yaiqab was still crying aloud and weeping and walking to and fro in the house, and smiting his hands together, saying, Yawasap my son, Yawasap my son.⁴⁰ And the sons of Yaiqab went into the wilderness to seize the beasts, and behold a wolf came toward them, and they seized him, and brought him to their father, and they said to him, This is the first we have found, and we have brought him to you as you did command us, and your son's body we could not find.⁴¹ And Yaiqab took the beast from the hands of his sons, and he cried out with a loud and weeping voice, holding the beast in his hand, and he spoke with a bitter heart to the beast, Why did you devour my son Yawasap, and how did you have no fear of the Alahayam of the earth, or of my trouble for my son Yawasap?⁴² And you did devour my son for naught, because he committed no violence, and did thereby render me culpable on his account, therefore Alahayam will require him that is persecuted.⁴³ And the Adanay opened the mouth of the beast in order to comfort Yaiqab with its words, and it answered Yaiqab and spoke these words to him,⁴⁴ As Alahayam lives who created us in the earth, and as your soul lives, my lord, I did not see your son, neither did I tear him to pieces, but from a distant land I also came to seek my son who went from me this day, and I know not whether he be living or dead.⁴⁵ And I came this day into the field to seek my son, and your sons found me, and seized me and increased my grief, and have this day brought me before you, and I have now spoken all my words to you.⁴⁶ And now therefore, O son of man, I am in your hands, and do to me this day as it may seem good in your sight, but by the life of Alahayam who created me, I did not see your son, nor did I tear him to pieces, neither has the flesh of man entered my mouth all the days of my life.⁴⁷ And when Yaiqab heard the words of the beast he was greatly astonished, and sent forth the beast from his hand, and she went her way.⁴⁸ And Yaiqab was still crying aloud and weeping for Yawasap day after day, and he mourned for his son many days.

44 And the sons of Yashamaial who had bought Yawasap from the Midianites, who had bought him from his brethren, went to Matzarayam with Yawasap, and they came upon the borders of Matzarayam, and when they came near to Matzarayam, they met four men of the sons of Madan the son of Abaraham, who had gone forth from the land of Matzarayam on their journey.² And the Ishmaelites said to them, Do you desire to purchase this slave from us? and they said, Deliver him over to us, and they delivered Yawasap over to them, and they beheld him, that he was a very comely youth and they purchased him for twenty shekels.³ And the Ishmaelites continued their journey to Matzarayam and the Medanims also returned that day to Matzarayam, and the Medanims said to each other, Behold we have heard that Pawatayapar, an officer of Paraih, captain of the guard, seeks a good servant who shall stand before him to attend him, and to make him overseer over his house and all belonging to him.⁴ Now therefore come let us sell him to him for what we may desire, if he be able to give to us that which we shall require for him.⁵ And these Medanims went and came to the house of Pawatayapar, and said to him, We have heard that you seek a good servant to attend you, behold we have a servant that will please you, if you can give to us that which we may desire, and we will sell him to you.⁶ And Pawatayapar said, Bring him before me, and I will see him, and if he please me I will give to you that which you may require for him.⁷ And the Medanims went and brought Yawasap and placed him before Pawatayapar, and he saw him, and he pleased him exceedingly, and Pawatayapar said to them, Tell me what you require for this youth?⁸ And they said, Four hundred pieces of silver we desire for him, and Pawatayapar said, I will give it you if you bring me the record of his sale to you, and will tell me his history, for perhaps he may be stolen, for this youth is neither a slave, nor the son of a slave, but I observe in him the appearance of a goodly and handsome person.⁹ And the Medanims went and brought to him the Ishmaelites who had sold him to them, and they told him, saying, He is a slave and we sold him to them.¹⁰ And Pawatayapar heard the words of the Ishmaelites in his giving the silver to the Medanims, and the Medanims took the silver and went on their journey, and the Ishmaelites also returned home.¹¹ And Pawatayapar took Yawasap and brought him to his house that he might serve him, and Yawasap found favor in the sight of Pawatayapar, and he placed confidence in him, and made him overseer over his house, and all that belonged to him he delivered over into his hand.¹² And the Adanay was with Yawasap and he became a prosperous man, and the Adanay blessed the house of Pawatayapar for the sake of Yawasap.¹³ And Pawatayapar left all that he had in the hand of Yawasap, and Yawasap was one that caused things to come in and go out, and everything was regulated by his wish in the house of Pawatayapar.¹⁴ And Yawasap was eighteen years old, a youth with beautiful eyes and of comely appearance, and like to him was not in the whole land of Matzarayam.¹⁵ At that time whilst he was in his master's house, going in and out of the house and attending his master, Zelicah, his master's wife, lifted up her eyes toward Yawasap and she looked at him, and behold he was a youth comely and well favored.¹⁶ And she coveted his beauty in her heart, and her soul was fixed upon Yawasap, and she enticed him day after day, and Zelicah persuaded Yawasap daily, but Yawasap did not lift up his eyes to behold his master's wife.¹⁷ And Zelicah said to him, How goodly are your appearance and form, truly I have looked at all the slaves, and have not seen so beautiful a slave as you are; and Yawasap said to her, Surely he who created me in my mother's womb created all mankind.¹⁸ And she said to him, How beautiful are your eyes, with which you have dazzled all the inhabitants of Matzarayam, men and women; and he said to her, How beautiful they are whilst we are alive, but should you behold them in the grave, surely you would move away from them.¹⁹ And she said to him, How beautiful and pleasing are all your words; take now, I pray you, the harp which is in the house, and play with your hands and let us hear your words.²⁰ And he said to her, How beautiful and pleasing are my words when I speak the praise of my Alahayam and his glory; and she said to him, How very beautiful is the hair of your head, behold the golden comb which is in the house, take it I pray you, and curl the hair of your head.²¹ And he said to her, How long will you speak these words? cease to utter these words to me, and rise and attend to your domestic affairs.²² And she said to him, There is no one in my house, and there is nothing to attend to but to your words and to your wish; yet notwithstanding all this, she could not bring Yawasap to her, neither did he place his eye upon her, but directed his eyes below to the ground.²³ And Zelicah desired Yawasap in her heart, that he should lie with her, and at the time that Yawasap was sitting in the house doing his work, Zelicah came and sat before him, and she enticed him daily with her discourse to lie with her, or ever to look at her, but Yawasap would not hearken to her.²⁴ And she said to him, If you will not do according to my words, I will chastise you with the punishment of death, and put an iron yoke upon you.²⁵ And Yawasap said to her, Surely Alahayam who created man looses the fetters of prisoners, and it is he who will deliver me from your prison and from your judgment.²⁶ And when she could not prevail over him, to persuade him, and her soul being still fixed upon him, her desire threw her into a grievous sickness.²⁷ And all the women of Matzarayam came to visit her, and they said to her, Why are you in this declining state? you that lackest nothing; surely your husband is a great and esteemed prince in the sight of the king, should you lack anything of what your heart desires?²⁸ And Zelicah answered them, saying, This day it shall be made known to you, whence this disorder springs in which you see me, and she commanded her maid servants to prepare food for all the women, and she made a banquet for them, and all the women ate in the house of Zelicah.²⁹ And she gave them knives to peel the citrons to eat them, and she commanded that they should dress Yawasap in costly garments, and that he should appear before them, and Yawasap came before their eyes and all the women looked on Yawasap, and could not take their eyes from off him, and they all cut their hands with the knives that they had in their hands, and all the citrons that were in their hands were filled with blood.³⁰ And they knew not what they had done but they continued to look at the beauty of Yawasap, and did not turn their eyelids from him.³¹ And Zelicah saw what they had done, and she said to them, What is this work that you have done? behold I gave you citrons to eat and you have all cut your hands.³² And all the women saw their hands, and behold they were full of blood, and their blood flowed down upon their garments, and they said to her, this slave in your house has overcome us, and we could not turn our eyelids from him on account of his beauty.³³ And she said to them, Surely this happened to you in the moment that you looked at him, and you could not contain yourselves from him; how then can I refrain when he is constantly in my house, and I see him day after day going in and out of my house? how then can I keep from declining or even from perishing on account of this?³⁴ And they said to her, the words are true, for who can see this beautiful form in the house and refrain from him, and is he not your slave and attendant in your house, and why do you not tell him that which is in your heart, and suffer your soul to perish through this matter?³⁵ And she said to them, I am daily endeavoring to persuade him, and he will not consent to my wishes, and I promised him everything that is good, and yet I could meet with no return from him; I am therefore in a declining state as you see.³⁶ And Zelicah became very ill on account of her desire toward Yawasap, and she was desperately lovesick on account of him, and all the people of the house of Zelicah and her husband knew nothing of this matter, that Zelicah was ill on account of her love to Yawasap.³⁷ And all the people of her house asked her, saying, Why are you ill and declining, and lackest nothing? and she said to them, I know not this thing which is daily increasing upon me.³⁸ And all the women and her friends came daily to see her, and they spoke with her, and she said to them, This can only be through the love of Yawasap; and they said to her, Entice him and seize him secretly, perhaps he may hearken to you, and put off this death from you.³⁹ And Zelicah became worse from her love to Yawasap, and she continued to decline, till she had scarce strength to stand.⁴⁰ And on a certain day Yawasap was doing his master's work in the house, and Zelicah came secretly and fell suddenly upon him, and Yawasap rose up against her, and he was more powerful than she, and he brought her down to the ground.⁴¹ And Zelicah wept on account of the desire of her heart toward him, and she supplicated him with weeping, and her tears flowed down her cheeks, and she spoke to him in a voice of supplication and in bitterness of soul, saying,⁴² Have you ever heard, seen or known of so beautiful a woman as I am, or better than myself, who speak daily to you, fall into a decline through love for you, confer all this honor upon you, and still you will not hearken to my voice?⁴³ And if it be through fear of your master lest he punish you, as the king lives no harm shall come to you from your master through this thing; now, therefore pray listen to me, and consent for the sake of the honor which I have conferred upon you, and put off this death from me, and why should I die for your sake? and she ceased to speak.⁴⁴ And Yawasap answered her, saying, Refrain from me, and leave this matter to my master; behold my master knows not what there is with me in the house, for all that belongs to him he has delivered into my hand, and how shall I do these things in my master's house?⁴⁵ For he has also greatly honored me in his house, and he has also made me overseer over his house, and he has exalted me, and there is no one greater in this house than I am, and my master has refrained nothing from me, excepting you who art his wife, how then can you speak these words to me, and how can I do this great evil and sin to Alahayam and to your husband?⁴⁶ Now therefore refrain from me, and speak no more such words as these, for I will not hearken to your words. But Zelicah would not hearken to Yawasap when he spoke these words to her, but she daily enticed him to listen to her.⁴⁷ And it was after this that the brook of Matzarayam was filled above all its sides, and all the inhabitants of Matzarayam went forth, and also the king and princes went forth with timbrels and dances, for it was a great rejoicing in Matzarayam, and a holiday at the time of the inundation of the sea Shayachawar, and they went there to rejoice all the day.⁴⁸ And when the Matzarayam went out to the river to rejoice, as was their custom, all the people of the house of Pawatayapar went with them, but Zelicah would not go with them, for she said, I am indisposed, and she remained alone in the house, and no other person was with her in the house.⁴⁹ And she rose up and ascended to her temple in the house, and dressed herself in princely garments, and she placed upon her head precious stones of onyx stones, inlaid with silver and gold, and she beautified her face and skin with all sorts of women's purifying liquids, and she perfumed the temple and the house with cassia and frankincense, and she spread myrrh and aloes, and she afterward sat in the entrance of the temple, in the passage of the house, through which Yawasap passed to do his work, and behold Yawasap came from the field, and entered the house to do his master's work.⁵⁰ And he came to the place through which he had to pass, and he saw all the work of Zelicah, and he turned back.⁵¹ And Zelicah saw Yawasap turning back from her, and she called out to him, saying What aileth you Yawasap? come to your work, and behold I will make room for you until you shall have passed to your seat.⁵² And Yawasap returned and came to the house, and passed from thence to the place of his seat, and he sat down to do his master's work as usual and behold Zelicah came to him and stood before him in princely garments, and the scent from her clothes was spread to a distance.⁵³ And she hastened and caught hold of

Yawasap and his garments, and she said to him, As the king lives if you will not perform my request you shall die this day, and she hastened and stretched forth her other hand and drew a sword from beneath her garments, and she placed it upon Joseph's neck, and she said, Rise and perform my request, and if not you diest this day.⁵⁴ And Yawasap was afraid of her at her doing this thing, and he rose up to flee from her, and she seized the front of his garments, and in the terror of his flight the garment which Zelicah seized was torn, and Yawasap left the garment in the hand of Zelicah, and he fled and got out, for he was in fear.⁵⁵ And when Zelicah saw that Joseph's garment was torn, and that he had left it in her hand, and had fled, she was afraid of her life, lest the report should spread concerning her, and she rose up and acted with cunning, and put off the garments in which she was dressed, and she put on her other garments.⁵⁶ And she took Joseph's garment, and she laid it beside her, and she went and seated herself in the place where she had sat in her illness, before the people of her house had gone out to the river, and she called a young lad who was then in the house, and she ordered him to call the people of the house to her.⁵⁷ And when she saw them she said to them with a loud voice and lamentation, See what a Hebrew your master has brought to me in the house, for he came this day to lie with me.⁵⁸ For when you had gone out he came to the house, and seeing that there was no person in the house, he came to me, and caught hold of me, with intent to lie with me.⁵⁹ And I seized his garments and tore them and called out against him with a loud voice, and when I had lifted up my voice he was afraid of his life and left his garment before me, and fled.⁶⁰ And the people of her house spoke nothing, but their wrath was very much kindled against Yawasap, and they went to his master and told him the words of his wife.⁶¹ And Pawatayapar came home enraged, and his wife cried out to him, saying, What is this thing that you have done to me in bringing a He. brew servant into my house, for he came to me this day to sport with me; thus did he do to me this day.⁶² And Pawatayapar heard the words of his wife, and he ordered Yawasap to be punished with severe stripes, and they did so to him.⁶³ And whilst they were smiting him, Yawasap called out with a loud voice, and he lifted up his eyes to heaven, and he said, O Adanay Alahayam, you know that I am innocent of all these things, and why shall I die this day through falsehood, by the hand of these uncircumcised wicked men, whom you know?⁶⁴ And whilst Potiphar's men were beating Yawasap, he continued to cry out and weep, and there was a child there eleven months old, and the Adanay opened the mouth of the child, and he spoke these words before Potiphar's men, who were smiting Yawasap, saying,⁶⁵ What do you want of this man, and why do you do this evil to him? my mother speaks falsely and uttereth lies; thus was the transaction.⁶⁶ And the child told them accurately all that happened, and all the words of Zelicah to Yawasap day after day did he declare to them.⁶⁷ And all the men heard the words of the child and they wondered greatly at the child's words, and the child ceased to speak and became still.⁶⁸ And Pawatayapar was very much ashamed at the words of his son, and he commanded his men not to beat Yawasap any more, and the men ceased beating Yawasap.⁶⁹ And Pawatayapar took Yawasap and ordered him to be brought to justice before the priests, who were judges belonging to the king, in order to judge him concerning this affair.⁷⁰ And Pawatayapar and Yawasap came before the priests who were the king's judges, and he said to them, Decide I pray you, what judgment is due to a servant, for thus has he done.⁷¹ And the priests said to Yawasap, Why did you do this thing to your master? and Yawasap answered them, saying, Not so my lords, thus was the matter; and Pawatayapar said to Yawasap, Surely I entrusted in your hands all that belonged to me, and I withheld nothing from you but my wife, and how could you do this evil?⁷² And Yawasap answered saying, Not so my lord, as the Adanay lives, and as your soul lives, my lord, the word which you did hear from your wife is untrue, for thus was the affair this day.⁷³ A year has elapsed to me since I have been in your house; have you seen any iniquity in me, or any thing which might cause you to demand my life?⁷⁴ And the priests said to

Pawatayapar, Send, we pray you, and let them bring before us Joseph's torn garment, and let us see the tear in it, and if it shall be that the tear is in front of the garment, then his face must have been opposite to her and she must have caught hold of him, to come to her, and with deceit did your wife do all that she has spoken.⁷⁵ And they brought Joseph's garment before the priests who were judges, and they saw and behold the tear was in front of Yawasap, and all the judging priests knew that she had pressed him, and they said, The judgment of death is not due to this slave for he has done nothing, but his judgment is, that he be placed in the prison house on account of the report, which through him has gone forth against your wife.⁷⁶ And Pawatayapar heard their words, and he placed him in the prison house, the place where the king's prisoners are confined, and Yawasap was in the house of confinement twelve years.⁷⁷ And notwithstanding this, his master's wife did not turn from him, and she did not cease from speaking to him day after day to hearken to her, and at the end of three months Zelicah continued going to Yawasap to the house of confinement day by day, and she enticed him to hearken to her, and Zelicah said to Yawasap, How long will you remain in this house? but hearken now to my voice, and I will bring you out of this house.⁷⁸ And Yawasap answered her, saying, It is better for me to remain in this house than to hearken to your words, to sin against Alahayam; and she said to him, If you will not perform my wish, I will pluck out your eyes, add fetters to your feet, and will deliver you into the hands of them whom you did not know before.⁷⁹ And Yawasap answered her and said, Behold the Alahayam of the whole earth is able to deliver me from all that you can do to me, for he opens the eyes of the blind, and looses those that are bound, and preserves all strangers who are unacquainted with the land.⁸⁰ And when Zelicah was unable to persuade Yawasap to hearken to her, she left off going to entice him; and Yawasap was still confined in the house of confinement. And Yaiqab the father of Yawasap, and all his brethren who were in the land of Kanain still mourned and wept in those days on account of Yawasap, for Yaiqab refused to be comforted for his son Yawasap, and Yaiqab cried aloud, and wept and mourned all those days.

45 And it was at that time in that year, which is the year of Joseph's going down to Matzarayam after his brothers had sold him, that Raawaban the son of Yaiqab went to Thamanath and took to him for a wife Eliuram, the daughter of Avi the Canaanite, and he came to her.² And Eliuram the wife of Raawaban conceived and bore him Hanoch, Palu, Chetzron and Karamay, four sons; and Shamaian his brother took his sister Dayanah for a wife, and she bore to him Memuel, Yamayan, Ahad, Yakayan and Zochar, five sons.³ And he afterward came to Bawanah the Canaanitish woman, the same is Bawanah whom Shamaian took captive from the city of Shakam, and Bawanah was before Dayanah and attended upon her, and Shamaian came to her, and she bore to him Shaawal.⁴ And Yahawadah went at that time to Adulam, and he came to a man of Adulam, and his name was Chayarah, and Yahawadah saw there the daughter of a man from Kanain, and her name was Aliyath, the daughter of Shawai, and he took her, and came to her, and Aliyath bore to Yahawadah, Er, Awanan and Shalah; three sons.⁵ And Laway and Yashashakar went to the land of the east, and they took to themselves for wives the daughters of Yawabab the son of Yoktan, the son of Ibar; and Yawabab the son of Yoktan had two daughters; the name of the elder was Adinah, and the name of the younger was Aridah.⁶ And Laway took Adinah, and Yashashakar took Aridah, and they came to the land of Kanain, to their father's house, and Adinah bore to Laway, Garashawan, Kehath and Mararay; three sons.⁷ And Aridah bore to Yashashakar Thawalai, Puvah, Ayawab and Shamarawan, four sons; and Wadan went to the land of Mawaab and took for a wife Aphlaeth, the daughter of Chamudan the Moabite, and he brought her to the land of Kanain.⁸ And Aphlaeth was barren, she had no offspring, and Alahayam afterward remembered Aphlaeth the wife of Wadan, and she conceived and bore a son, and she called his name Chashayam.⁹ And Gad and Napathalay went to Charan and took from thence the daughters of Amuram the son of Uz, the son of Nachawar, for wives.¹⁰ And these are the names of the daughters of Amuram; the name of the elder was Merimah, and the name of the younger Uzith; and Napathalay took Merimah, and Gad took Uzith; and brought them to the land of Kanain, to their father's house.¹¹ And Merimah bore to Napathalay Yachzeel, Gawanay, Yaizar and Shalam, four sons; and Uzith bore to Gad Zephion, Chagi, Shawanay, Atzabawan, Iray, Arawaday and Arali, seven sons.¹² And Ashar went forth and took Adon the daughter of Aphlal, the son of Hadad, the son of Yashamaial, for a wife, and he brought her to the land of Kanain.¹³ And Adon the wife of Ashar died in those days: she had no offspring; and it was after the death of Adon that Ashar went to the other side of the river and took for a wife Hadurah the daughter of Abayamaal, the son of Ibar, the son of Sham.¹⁴ And the young woman was of a comely appearance, and a woman of sense, and she had been the wife of Malakayaal the son of Iyalam, the son of Sham.¹⁵ And Hadurah bore a daughter to Malakayaal, and he called her name Sharach, and Malakayaal died after this, and Hadurah went and remained in her father's house.¹⁶ And after the death of the wife at Ashar he went and took Hadurah for a wife, and brought her to the land of Kanain, and Sharach her daughter he also brought with them, and she was three years old, and the damsel was brought up in Jacob's house.¹⁷ And the damsel was of a comely appearance, and she went in the sanctified ways of the children of Yaiqab; she lacked nothing, and the Adanay gave her wisdom and understanding.¹⁸ And Hadurah the wife of Ashar conceived and bore to him Yamanah, Yashawah, Yashaway and Barayaih; four sons.¹⁹ And Zabawalan went to Madayan, and took for a wife Merishah the daughter of Molad, the son of Abayadai, the son of Madayan, and brought her to the land of Kanain.²⁰ And Merushah bore to Zabawalan Sarad, Ayalawan and Yachalaal; three sons.²¹ And Yaiqab sent to Aram, the son of Tzawabah, the son of Tharach, and he took for his son Banayaman Mechalia the daughter of Aram, and she came to the land of Kanain to the house of Yaiqab; and Banayaman was ten years old when he took Mechalia the daughter of Aram for a wife.²² And Mechalia conceived and bore to Banayaman Balai, Bakar, Ashabal, Garaa and Naiman, five sons; and Banayaman went afterward and took for a wife Aribath, the daughter of Shamarawan, the son of Abaraham, in addition to his first wife, and he was eighteen years old; and Aribath bore to Banayaman Achay, Vosh, Mupim, Chupim, and Ord; five sons.²³ And in those days Yahawadah went to the house of Sham and took Thamar the daughter of Iyalam, the son of Sham, for a wife for his first born Er.²⁴ And Er came to his wife Thamar, and she became his wife, and when he came to her he outwardly destroyed his seed, and his work was evil in the sight of the Adanay, and the Adanay slew him.²⁵ And it was after the death of Er, Judah's first born, that Yahawadah said to Awanan, go to your brother's wife and marry her as the next of kin, and raise up seed to your brother.²⁶ And Awanan took Thamar for a wife and he came to her, and Awanan also did like to the work of his brother, and his work was evil in the sight of the Adanay, and he slew him also.²⁷ And when Awanan died, Yahawadah said to Thamar, Remain in your father's house until my son Shalah shall have grown up, and Yahawadah did no more delight in Thamar, to give her to Shalah, for he said, Peradventure he will also die like his brothers.²⁸ And Thamar rose up and went and remained in her father's house, and Thamar was in her father's house for some time.²⁹ And at the revolution of the year, Aliyath the wife of Yahawadah died; and Yahawadah was comforted for his wife, and after the death of Aliyath, Yahawadah went up with his friend Chayarah to Thamanath to shear their sheep.³⁰ And Thamar heard that Yahawadah had gone up to Thamanath to shear the sheep, and that Shalah was grown up, and Yahawadah did not delight in her.³¹ And Thamar rose up and put off the garments of her widowhood, and she put a veil upon her, and she entirely covered herself, and she went and sat in the public thoroughfare, which is upon the road to Thamanath.³² And Yahawadah passed and saw her and took her and he came to her, and she conceived by him, and at the time of being delivered, behold, there were twins in her womb, and he called the name of the first Paratz, and the name of the second Zarach.

46 In those days Yawasap was still confined in the prison house in the land of Matzarayam.² At that time the attendants of Paraih were standing before him, the chief of the butlers and the chief of the bakers which belonged to the king of Matzarayam.³ And the butler took wine and placed it before the king to drink, and the baker placed bread before the king to eat, and the king drank of the wine and ate of the bread, he and his servants and ministers that ate at the king's table.⁴ And whilst they were eating and drinking, the butler and the baker remained there, and Pharaoh's ministers found many flies in the wine, which the butler had brought, and stones of nitre were found in the baker's bread.⁵ And the captain of the guard placed Yawasap as an attendant on Pharaoh's officers, and Pharaoh's officers were in confinement one year.⁶ And at the end of the year, they both dreamed dreams in one night, in the place of confinement where they were, and in the morning Yawasap came to them to attend upon them as usual, and he saw them, and behold their countenances were dejected and sad.⁷ And Yawasap asked them, Why are your countenances sad and dejected this day? and they said to him, We dreamed a dream, and there is no one to interpret it; and Yawasap said to them, Relate, I pray you, your dream to me, and Alahayam shall give you an answer of peace as you desire.⁸ And the butler related his dream to Yawasap, and he said, I saw in my dream, and behold a large vine was before me, and upon that vine I saw three branches, and the vine speedily blossomed and reached a great height, and its clusters were ripened and became grapes.⁹ And I took the grapes and pressed them in a cup, and placed it in Pharaoh's hand and he drank; and Yawasap said to him, The three branches that were upon the vine are three days.¹⁰ Yet within three days, the king will order you to be brought out and he will restore you to your office, and you shall give the king his wine to drink as at first when you were his butler; but let me find favor in your sight, that you shall remember me to Paraih when it will be well with you, and do kindness to me, and get me brought forth from this prison, for I was stolen away from the land of Kanain and was sold for a slave in this place.¹¹ And also that which was told you concerning my master's wife is false, for they placed me in this dungeon for naught; and the butler answered Yawasap, saying, If the king deal well with me as at first, as you last interpreted to me, I will do all that you desire, and get you brought out of this dungeon.¹² And the baker, seeing that Yawasap had accurately interpreted the butler's dream, also approached, and related the whole of his dream to Yawasap.¹³ And he said to him, In my dream I saw and behold three white baskets upon my head, and I looked, and behold there were in the upper-most basket all manner of baked meats for Paraih, and behold the birds were eating them from off my head.¹⁴ And Yawasap said to him, The three baskets which you did see are three days, yet within three days Paraih will take off your head, and hang you upon a tree, and the birds will eat your flesh from off you, as you saw in your dream.¹⁵ In those days the queen was about to be delivered, and upon that day she bore a son to the king of Matzarayam, and they proclaimed that the king had gotten his first born son and all the people of Matzarayam together with the officers and servants of Paraih rejoiced greatly.¹⁶ And upon the third day of his birth Paraih made a feast for his officers and servants, for the hosts of the land of Tzair and of the land of Matzarayam.¹⁷ And all the people of Matzarayam and the servants of Paraih came to eat and drink with the king at the feast of his son, and to rejoice at the king's rejoicing.¹⁸ And all the officers of the king and his servants were rejoicing at that time for eight days at the feast, and they made merry with all sorts of musical instruments, with timbrels and with dances in the king's house for eight days.¹⁹ And the butler, to whom Yawasap had interpreted his dream, forgot Yawasap, and he did not mention him to the king as he had promised, for this thing was from the Adanay in order to punish Yawasap because he had trusted in man.²⁰ And Yawasap remained after this in the prison house two years, until he had completed twelve years.

47 And Yatzachaq the son of Abaraham was still living in those days in the land of Kanain; he was very aged, one hundred and eighty years old, and Ishaw his son, the brother of Yaiqab, was in the land of Adawam, and he and his sons had possessions in it amongst the children of Shaiyar.² And Ishaw heard that his father's time was drawing nigh to die, and he and his sons and household came to the land of Kanain, to his father's house, and Yaiqab and his sons went forth from the place where they dwelt in Chabarawan, and they all came to their father Yatzachaq, and they found Ishaw and his sons in the tent.³ And Yaiqab and his sons sat before his father Yatzachaq, and Yaiqab was still mourning for his son Yawasap.⁴ And Yatzachaq said to Yaiqab, Bring me here your sons and I will bless them; and Yaiqab brought his eleven children before his father Yatzachaq.⁵ And Yatzachaq placed his hands upon all the sons of Yaiqab, and he took hold of them and embraced them, and kissed them one by one, and Yatzachaq blessed them on that day, and he said to them, May the Alahayam of your fathers bless you and increase your seed like the stars of heaven for number.⁶ And Yatzachaq also blessed the sons of Ishaw, saying, May Alahayam cause you to be a dread and a terror to all that will behold you, and to all your enemies.⁷ And Yatzachaq called Yaiqab and his sons, and they all came and sat before Yatzachaq, and Yatzachaq said to Yaiqab, The Adanay Alahayam of the whole earth said to me, To your seed will I give this land for an inheritance if your children keep my statutes and my ways, and I will perform to them the oath which I swore to your father Abaraham.⁸ Now therefore my son, teach your children and your children's children to fear the Adanay, and to go in the good way which will please the Adanay your Alahayam, for if you keep the ways of the Adanay and his statutes the Adanay will also keep to you his covenant with Abaraham, and will do well with you and your seed all the days.⁹ And when Yatzachaq had finished commanding Yaiqab and his children, he gave up the ghost and died, and was gathered to his people.¹⁰ And Yaiqab and Ishaw fell upon the face of their father Yatzachaq, and they wept, and Yatzachaq was one hundred and eighty years old when he died in the land of Kanain, in Chabarawan, and his sons carried him to the cave of Makapalah, which Abaraham had bought from the children of Chath for a possession of a burial place.¹¹ And all the kings of the land of Kanain went with Yaiqab and Ishaw to bury Yatzachaq, and all the kings of Kanain showed Yatzachaq great honor at his death.¹² And the sons of Yaiqab and the sons of Ishaw went barefooted round about, walking and lamenting until they reached Kireath-Arabai.¹³ And Yaiqab and Ishaw buried their father Yatzachaq in the cave of Makapalah, which is in Kireath-Arabai in Chabarawan, and they buried him with very great honor, as at the funeral of kings.¹⁴ And Yaiqab and his sons, and Ishaw and his sons, and all the kings of Kanain made a great and heavy mourning, and they buried him and mourned for him many days.¹⁵ And at the death of Yatzachaq, he left his cattle and his possessions and all belonging to him to his sons; and Ishaw said to Yaiqab, Behold I pray you, all that our father has left we will divide it in two parts, and I will have the choice, and Yaiqab said, We will do so.¹⁶ And Yaiqab took all that Yatzachaq had left in the land of Kanain, the cattle and the property, and he placed them in two parts before Ishaw and his sons, and he said to Ishaw, Behold all this is before you, choose you to yourself the half which you will take.¹⁷ And Yaiqab said to Ishaw, Hear you I pray you what I will speak to you, saying, The Adanay Alahayam of heaven and earth spoke to our fathers Abaraham and Yatzachaq, saying, To your seed will I give this land for an inheritance forever.¹⁸ Now therefore all that our father has left is before you, and behold all the land is before you; choose you from them what you desire.¹⁹ If you desire the whole land take it for you and your children forever, and I will take this riches, and if you desire the riches take it to you, and I will take this land for me and for my children to inherit it forever.²⁰ And Nabayawath, the son of Yashamaial, was then in the land with his children, and Ishaw went on that day and consulted with him, saying.²¹ Thus has Yaiqab spoken to me, and thus has he answered me, now give your advice and we will hear.²² And Nabayawath said, What is this that Yaiqab has spoken to you? behold all the children of Kanain are dwelling securely in their land, and Yaiqab says he will inherit it with his seed all the days.²³ Go now therefore and take all your father's riches and leave Yaiqab your brother in the land, as he has spoken.²⁴ And Ishaw rose up and returned to Yaiqab, and did all that Nabayawath the son of Yashamaial had advised; and Ishaw took all the riches that Yatzachaq had left, the souls, the beasts, the cattle and the property, and all the riches; he gave nothing to his brother Yaiqab; and Yaiqab took all the land of Kanain, from the brook of Matzarayam to the river Parath, and he took it for an everlasting possession, and for his children and for his seed after him forever.²⁵ Yaiqab also took from his brother Ishaw the cave of Makapalah, which is in Chabarawan, which Abaraham had bought from Iparawan for a possession of a burial place for him and his seed forever.²⁶ And Yaiqab wrote all these things in the book of purchase, and he signed it, and he testified all this with four faithful witnesses.²⁷ And these are the words which Yaiqab wrote in the book, saying: The land of Kanain and all the cities of the Hittites, the Hivites, the Jebusites, the Amorites, the Perizzites, and the Gergashites, all the seven nations from the river of Matzarayam to the river Parath.²⁸ And the city of Chabarawan Kireath-Arabai, and the cave which is in it, the whole did Yaiqab buy from his brother Ishaw for value, for a possession and for an inheritance for his seed after him forever.²⁹ And Yaiqab took the book of purchase and the signature, the command and the statutes and the revealed book, and he placed them in an earthen vessel in order that they should remain for a long time, and he delivered them into the hands of his children.³⁰ Ishaw took all that his father had left him after his death from his brother Yaiqab, and he took all the property, from man and beast, camel and ass, ox and lamb, silver and gold, stones and bdellium, and all the riches which had belonged to Yatzachaq the son of Abaraham; there was nothing left which Ishaw did not take to himself, from all that Yatzachaq had left after his death.³¹ And Ishaw took all this, and he and his children went home to the land of Shaiyar the Horite, away from his brother Yaiqab and his children.³² And Ishaw had possessions amongst the children of Shaiyar, and Ishaw returned not to the land of Kanain from that day forward.³³ And the whole land of Kanain became an inheritance to the children of Yasharaal for an everlasting inheritance, and Ishaw with all his children inherited the mountain of Shaiyar.

48 In those days, after the death of Yatzachaq, the Adanay commanded and caused a famine upon the whole earth.² At that time Paraih king of Matzarayam was sitting upon his throne in the land of Matzarayam, and lay in his bed and dreamed dreams, and Paraih saw in his dream that he was standing by the side of the river of Matzarayam.³ And whilst he was standing he saw and behold seven fat fleshed and well favored kine came up out of the river.⁴ And seven other kine, lean fleshed and ill favored, came up after them, and the seven ill favored ones swallowed up the well favored ones, and still their appearance was ill as at first.⁵ And he awoke, and he slept again and he dreamed a second time, and he saw and behold seven ears of corn came up upon one stalk, rank and good, and seven thin ears blasted with the east wind sprang, up after them, and the thin ears swallowed up the full ones, and Paraih awoke out of his dream.⁶ And in the morning the king remembered his dreams, and his spirit was sadly troubled on account of his dreams, and the king hastened and sent and called for all the magicians of Matzarayam, and the wise men, and they came and stood before Paraih.⁷ And the king said to them, I have dreamed dreams, and there is none to interpret them; and they said to the king, relate your dreams to your servants and let us hear them.⁸ And the king related his dreams to them, and they all answered and said with one voice to the king, may the king live forever; and this is the interpretation of your dreams.⁹ The seven good kine which you did see denote seven daughters that will be born to you in the latter days, and the seven kine which you saw come up after them, and swallowed them up, are for a sign that the daughters which will be born to you will all die in the life-time of the king.¹⁰ And that which you did see in the second dream of seven full good ears of corn coming up upon one stalk, this is their interpretation, that you will build to yourself in the latter days seven cities throughout the land of Matzarayam; and that which you saw of the seven blasted ears of corn springing up after them and swallowing them up whilst you did behold them with your eyes, is for a sign that the cities which you will build will all be destroyed in the latter days, in the life-time of the king.¹¹ And when they spoke these words the king did not incline his ear to their words, neither did he fix his heart upon them, for the king knew in his wisdom that they did not give a proper interpretation of the dreams; and when they had finished speaking before the king, the king answered them, saying, What is this thing that you have spoken to me? surely you have uttered falsehood and spoken lies; therefore now give the proper interpretation of my dreams, that you may not die.¹² And the king commanded after this, and he sent and called again for other wise men, and they came and stood before the king, and the king related his dreams to them, and they all answered him according to the first interpretation, and the king's anger was kindled and he was very wroth, and the king said to them, Surely you speak lies and utter falsehood in what you have said.¹³ And the king commanded that a proclamation should be issued throughout the land of Matzarayam, saying, It is resolved by the king and his great men, that any wise man who knows and understands the interpretation of dreams, and will not come this day before the king, shall die.¹⁴ And the man that will declare to the king the proper interpretation of his dreams, there shall be given to him all that he will require from the king. And all the wise men of the land of Matzarayam came before the king, together with all the magicians and sorcerers that were in Matzarayam and in Gashan, in Raimasas, in Tachpanches, in Tzair, and in all the places on the borders of Matzarayam, and they all stood before the king.¹⁵ And all the nobles and the princes, and the attendants belonging to the king, came together from all the cities of Matzarayam, and they all sat before the king, and the king related his dreams before the wise men, and the princes, and all that sat before the king were astonished at the vision.¹⁶ And all the wise men who were before the king were greatly divided in their interpretation of his dreams; some of them interpreted them to the king, saying, The seven good kine are seven kings, who from the king's issue will be raised over Matzarayam.¹⁷ And the seven bad kine are seven princes, who will stand up against them in the latter days and destroy them; and the seven ears of corn are the seven great princes belonging to Matzarayam, who will fall in the hands of the seven less powerful princes of their enemies, in the wars of our lord the king.¹⁸ And some of them interpreted to the king in this manner, saying, The seven good kine are the strong cities of Matzarayam, and the seven bad kine are the seven nations of the land of Kanain, who will come against the seven cities of Matzarayam in the latter days and destroy them.¹⁹ And that which you saw in the second dream, of seven good and bad ears of corn, is a sign that the government of Matzarayam will again return to your seed as at first.²⁰ And in his reign the people of the cities of Matzarayam will turn against the seven cities of Kanain who are stronger than they are, and will destroy them, and the government of Matzarayam will return to your seed.²¹ And some of them said to the king, This is the interpretation of your dreams; the seven good kine are seven queens, whom you will take for wives in the latter days, and the seven bad kine denote that those women will all die in the lifetime of the king.²² And the seven good and bad ears of corn which you did see in the second dream are fourteen children, and it will be in the latter days that they will stand up and fight amongst themselves, and seven of them will smite the seven that are more powerful.²³ And some of them said these words to the king, saying, The seven good kine denote that seven children will be born to you, and they will slay seven of your children's children in the latter days; and the seven good ears of corn which you did see in the second dream, are those princes against whom seven other less powerful princes will fight and destroy them in the latter days, and avenge your children's cause, and the government will again return to your seed.²⁴ And the king heard all the words of the wise men of Matzarayam and their interpretation of his dreams, and none of them pleased the king.²⁵ And the king knew in his wisdom that they did not altogether speak correctly in all these words, for this was from the Adanay to frustrate the words of the wise men of Matzarayam, in order that Yawasap might go forth from the house of confinement, and in order that he should become great in Matzarayam.²⁶ And the king saw that none amongst all the wise men and magicians of Matzarayam spoke correctly to him, and the king's wrath was kindled, and his anger burned within him.²⁷ And the king commanded that all the wise men and magicians should go out from before him, and they all went out from before the king with shame and disgrace.²⁸ And the king commanded that a proclamation be sent throughout Matzarayam to slay all the magicians that were in Matzarayam, and not one of them should be suffered to live.²⁹ And the captains of the guards belonging to the king rose up, and each man drew his sword, and they began to smite the magicians of Matzarayam, and the wise men.³⁰ And after this Merod, chief butler to the king, came and bowed down before the king and sat before him.³¹ And the butler said to the king, May the king live forever, and his government be exalted in the land.³² You were angry with your servant in those days, now two years past, and did place me in the ward, and I was for some time in the ward, I and the chief of the bakers.³³ And there was with us a Hebrew servant belonging to the captain of the guard, his name was Yawasap, for his master had been angry with him and placed him in the house of confinement, and he attended us there.³⁴ And in some time after when we were in the ward, we dreamed dreams in one night, I and the chief of the bakers; we dreamed, each man according to the interpretation of his dream.³⁵ And we came in the morning and told them to that servant, and he interpreted to us our dreams, to each man according to his dream, did he correctly interpret.³⁶ And it came to pass as he interpreted to us, so was the event; there fell not to the ground any of his words.³⁷ And now therefore my lord and king do not slay the people of Matzarayam for naught; behold that slave is still confined in the house by the captain of the guard his master, in the house of confinement.³⁸ If it pleases the king let him send for him that he may come before you and he will make known to you, the correct interpretation of the dream which you did dream.³⁹ And the king heard the words of the chief butler, and the king ordered that the wise men of Matzarayam should not be slain.⁴⁰ And the king ordered his servants to bring Yawasap before him, and the king said to them, Go to him and do not terrify him lest he be confused and will not know to speak properly.⁴¹ And the servants of the king went to Yawasap, and they brought him hastily out of the dungeon, and the king's servants shaved him, and he changed his prison garment and he came before the king.⁴² And the king was sitting upon his royal throne in a princely dress girt around with a golden ephod, and the fine gold which was upon it sparkled, and the carbuncle and the ruby and the emerald, together with all the precious stones that were upon the king's head, dazzled the eye, and Yawasap wondered greatly at the king.⁴³ And the throne upon which the king sat was covered with gold and silver, and with onyx stones, and it had seventy steps.⁴⁴ And it was their custom throughout the land of Matzarayam, that every man who came to speak to the king, if he was a prince or one that was estimable in the sight of the king, he ascended to the king's throne as far as the thirty-first step, and the king would descend to the thirty-sixth step, and speak with him.⁴⁵ If he was one of the common people, he ascended to the third step, and the king would descend to the fourth and speak to him, and their custom was, moreover, that any man who understood to speak in all the seventy languages, he ascended the seventy steps, and went up and spoke till he reached the king.⁴⁶ And any man who could not complete the seventy, he ascended as many steps as the languages which he knew to speak in.⁴⁷ And it was customary in those days in Matzarayam that no one should reign over them, but who understood to speak in the seventy languages.⁴⁸ And when

Yawasap came before the king he bowed down to the ground before the king, and he ascended to the third step, and the king sat upon the fourth step and spoke with Yawasap.⁴⁹ And the king said to Yawasap, I dreamed a dream, and there is no interpreter to interpret it properly, and I commanded this day that all the magicians of Matzarayam and the wise men thereof, should come before me, and I related my dreams to them, and no one has properly interpreted them to me.⁵⁰ And after this I this day heard concerning you, that you are a wise man, and can correctly interpret every dream that you hear.⁵¹ And Yawasap answered Paraih, saying, Let Paraih relate his dreams that he dreamed; surely the interpretations belong to Alahayam; and Paraih related his dreams to Yawasap, the dream of the kine, and the dream of the ears of corn, and the king left off speaking.⁵² And Yawasap was then clothed with the spirit of Alahayam before the king, and he knew all the things that would befall the king from that day forward, and he knew the proper interpretation of the king's dream, and he spoke before the king.⁵³ And Yawasap found favor in the sight of the king, and the king inclined his ears and his heart, and he heard all the words of Yawasap. And Yawasap said to the king, Do not imagine that they are two dreams, for it is only one dream, for that which Alahayam has chosen to do throughout the land he has shown to the king in his dream, and this is the proper interpretation of your dream:⁵⁴ The seven good kine and ears of corn are seven years, and the seven bad kine and ears of corn are also seven years; it is one dream.⁵⁵ Behold the seven years that are coming there will be a great plenty throughout the land, and after that the seven years of famine will follow them, a very grievous famine; and all the plenty will be forgotten from the land, and the famine will consume the inhabitants of the land.⁵⁶ The king dreamed one dream, and the dream was therefore repeated to Paraih because the thing is established by Alahayam, and Alahayam will shortly bring it to pass.⁵⁷ Now therefore I will give you counsel and deliver your soul and the souls of the inhabitants of the land from the evil of the famine, that you seek throughout your kingdom for a man very discreet and wise, who knows all the affairs of government, and appoint him to superintend over the land of Matzarayam.⁵⁸ And let the man whom you place over Matzarayam appoint officers under him, that they gather in all the food of the good years that are coming, and let them lay up corn and deposit it in your appointed stores.⁵⁹ And let them keep that food for the seven years of famine, that it may be found for you and your people and your whole land, and that you and your land be not cut off by the famine.⁶⁰ Let all the inhabitants of the land be also ordered that they gather in, every man the produce of his field, of all sorts of food, during the seven good years, and that they place it in their stores, that it may be found for them in the days of the famine and that they may live upon it.⁶¹ This is the proper interpretation of your dream, and this is the counsel given to save your soul and the souls of all your subjects.⁶² And the king answered and said to Yawasap, Who says and who knows that your words are correct? And he said to the king, This shall be a sign for you respecting all my words, that they are true and that my advice is good for you.⁶³ Behold your wife sits this day upon the stool of delivery, and she will bear you a son and you will rejoice with him; when your child shall have gone forth from his mother's womb, your first born son that has been born these two years back shall die, and you will be comforted in the child that will be born to you this day.⁶⁴ And Yawasap finished speaking these words to the king, and he bowed down to the king and he went out, and when Yawasap had gone out from the king's presence, those signs which Yawasap had spoken to the king came to pass on that day.⁶⁵ And the queen bore a son on that day and the king heard the glad tidings about his son, and he rejoiced, and when the reporter had gone forth from the king's presence, the king's servants found the first born son of the king fallen dead upon the ground.⁶⁶ And there was great lamentation and noise in the king's house, and the king heard it, and he said, What is the noise and lamentation that I have heard in the house? and they told the king that his first born son had died; then the king knew that all Joseph's words that he had spoken were correct, and the king was consoled for his son by the child that was born to him on that day as Yawasap had spoken.

49 After these things the king sent and assembled all his officers and servants, and all the princes and nobles belonging to the king, and they all came before the king.² And the king said to them, Behold you have seen and heard all the words of this Hebrew man, and all the signs which he declared would come to pass, and not any of his words have fallen to the ground.³ You know that he has given a proper interpretation of the dream, and it will surely come to pass, now therefore take counsel, and know what you will do and how the land will be delivered from the famine.⁴ Seek now and see whether the like can be found, in whose heart there is wisdom and knowledge, and I will appoint him over the land.⁵ For you have heard what the Hebrew man has advised concerning this to save the land therewith from the famine, and I know that the land will not be delivered from the famine but with the advice of the Hebrew man, him that advised me.⁶ And they all answered the king and said, The counsel which the Hebrew has given concerning this is good; now therefore, our lord and king, behold the whole land is in your hand, do that which seems good in your sight.⁷ Him whom you chooses, and whom you in your wisdom know to be wise and capable of delivering the land with his wisdom, him shall the king appoint to be under him over the land.⁸ And the king said to all the officers: I have thought that since Alahayam has made known to the Hebrew man all that he has spoken, there is none so discreet and wise in the whole land as he is; if it seem good in your sight I will place him over the land, for he will save the land with his wisdom.⁹ And all the officers answered the king and said, But surely it is written in the laws of Matzarayam, and it should not be violated, that no man shall reign over Matzarayam, nor be the second to the king, but one who has knowledge in all the languages of the sons of men.¹⁰ Now therefore our lord and king, behold this Hebrew man can only speak the Hebrew language, and how then can he be over us the second under government, a man who not even knows our language?¹¹ Now we pray you send for him, and let him come before you, and prove him in all things, and do as you see fit.¹² And the king said, It shall be done tomorrow, and the thing that you have spoken is good; and all the officers came on that day before the king.¹³ And on that night the Adanay sent one of his ministering angels, and he came into the land of Matzarayam to Yawasap, and the angel of the Adanay stood over Yawasap, and behold Yawasap was lying in the bed at night in his master's house in the dungeon, for his master had put him back into the dungeon on account of his wife.¹⁴ And the angel roused him from his sleep, and Yawasap rose up and stood upon his legs, and behold the angel of the Adanay was standing opposite to him; and the angel of the Adanay spoke with Yawasap, and he taught him all the languages of man in that night, and he called his name Jehoseph.¹⁵ And the angel of the Adanay went from him, and Yawasap returned and lay upon his bed, and Yawasap was astonished at the vision which he saw.¹⁶ And it came to pass in the morning that the king sent for all his officers and servants, and they all came and sat before the king, and the king ordered Yawasap to be brought, and the king's servants went and brought Yawasap before Paraih.¹⁷ And the king came forth and ascended the steps of the throne, and Yawasap spoke to the king in all languages, and Yawasap went up to him and spoke to the king until he arrived before the king in the seventieth step, and he sat before the king.¹⁸ And the king greatly rejoiced on account of Yawasap, and all the king's officers rejoiced greatly with the king when they heard all the words of Yawasap.¹⁹ And the thing seemed good in the sight of the king and the officers, to appoint Yawasap to be second to the king over the whole land of Matzarayam, and the king spoke to Yawasap, saying,²⁰ Now you did give me counsel to appoint a wise man over the land of Matzarayam, in order with his wisdom to save the land from the famine; now therefore, since Alahayam has made all this known to you, and all the words which you have spoken, there is not throughout the land a discreet and wise man like to you.²¹ And your name no more shall be called

Yawasap, but Zaphnath Paaneah shall be your name; you shall be second to me, and according to your word shall be all the affairs of my government, and at your word shall my people go out and come in.²² Also from under your hand shall my servants and officers receive their salary which is given to them monthly, and to you shall all the people of the land bow down; only in my throne will I be greater than you.²³ And the king took off his ring from his hand and put it upon the hand of Yawasap, and the king dressed Yawasap in a princely garment, and he put a golden crown upon his head, and he put a golden chain upon his neck.²⁴ And the king commanded his servants, and they made him ride in the second chariot belonging to the king, that went opposite to the king's chariot, and he caused him to ride upon a great and strong horse from the king's horses, and to be conducted through the streets of the land of Matzarayam.²⁵ And the king commanded that all those that played upon timbrels, harps and other musical instruments should go forth with Yawasap; one thousand timbrels, one thousand mecholoth, and one thousand nebalim went after him.²⁶ And five thousand men, with drawn swords glittering in their hands, and they went marching and playing before Yawasap, and twenty thousand of the great men of the king girt with girdles of skin covered with gold, marched at the right hand of Yawasap, and twenty thousand at his left, and all the women and damsels went upon the roofs or stood in the streets playing and rejoicing at Yawasap, and gazed at the appearance of Yawasap and at his beauty.²⁷ And the king's people went before him and behind him, perfuming the road with frankincense and with cassia, and with all sorts of fine perfume, and scattered myrrh and aloes along the road, and twenty men proclaimed these words before him throughout the land in a loud voice:²⁸ Do you see this man whom the king has chosen to be his second? all the affairs of government shall be regulated by him, and he that transgresses his orders, or that does not bow down before him to the ground, shall die, for he rebels against the king and his second.²⁹ And when the heralds had ceased proclaiming, all the people of Matzarayam bowed down to the ground before Yawasap and said, May the king live, also may his second live; and all the inhabitants of Matzarayam bowed down along the road, and when the heralds approached them, they bowed down, and they rejoiced with all sorts of timbrels, mechol and nebal before Yawasap.³⁰ And Yawasap upon his horse lifted up his eyes to heaven, and called out and said, He raises the poor man from the dust, He lifts up the needy from the dunghill. O Adanay of Hosts, happy is the man who trusts in you.³¹ And Yawasap passed throughout the land of Matzarayam with Pharaoh's servants and officers, and they showed him the whole land of Matzarayam and all the king's treasures.³² And Yawasap returned and came on that day before Paraih, and the king gave to Yawasap a possession in the land of Matzarayam, a possession of fields and vineyards, and the king gave to Yawasap three thousand talents of silver and one thousand talents of gold, and onyx stones and bdellium and many gifts.³³ And on the next day the king commanded all the people of Matzarayam to bring to Yawasap offerings and gifts, and that he that violated the command of the king should die; and they made a high place in the street of the city, and they spread out garments there, and whoever brought anything to Yawasap put it into the high place.³⁴ And all the people of Matzarayam cast something into the high place, one man a golden ear-ring, and the other rings and ear-rings, and different vessels of gold and silver work, and onyx stones and bdellium did he cast upon the high place; every one gave something of what he possessed.³⁵ And Yawasap took all these and placed them in his treasuries, and all the officers and nobles belonging to the king exalted Yawasap, and they gave him many gifts, seeing that the king had chosen him to be his second.³⁶ And the king sent to Potiphera, the son of Achayaram priest of On, and he took his young daughter Osnath and gave her to Yawasap for a wife.³⁷ And the damsel was very comely, a virgin, one whom man had not known, and Yawasap took her for a wife; and the king said to Yawasap, I am Paraih, and beside you none shall dare to lift up his hand or his foot to regulate my people throughout the land of

Matzarayam.³⁸ And Yawasap was thirty years old when he stood before Paraih, and Yawasap went out from before the king, and he became the king's second in Matzarayam.³⁹ And the king gave Yawasap a hundred servants to attend him in his house, and Yawasap also sent and purchased many servants and they remained in the house of Yawasap.⁴⁰ Yawasap then built for himself a very magnificent house like to the houses of kings, before the court of the king's palace, and he made in the house a large temple, very elegant in appearance and convenient for his residence; three years was Yawasap in erecting his house.⁴¹ And Yawasap made to himself a very elegant throne of abundance of gold and silver, and he covered it with onyx stones and bdellium, and he made upon it the likeness of the whole land of Matzarayam, and the likeness of the river of Matzarayam that watereth the whole land of Matzarayam; and Yawasap sat securely upon his throne in his house and the Adanay increased Joseph's wisdom.⁴² And all the inhabitants of Matzarayam and Pharaoh's servants and his princes loved Yawasap exceedingly, for this thing was from the Adanay to Yawasap.⁴³ And Yawasap had an army that made war, going out in hosts and troops to the number of forty thousand six hundred men, capable of bearing arms to assist the king and Yawasap against the enemy, besides the king's officers and his servants and inhabitants of Matzarayam without number.⁴⁴ And Yawasap gave to his mighty men, and to all his host, shields and javelins, and caps and coats of mail and stones for slinging.

50 At that time the children of Tharashayash came against the sons of Yashamaial, and made war with them, and the children of Tharashayash spoiled the Ishmaelites for a long time.² And the children of Yashamaial were small in number in those days, and they could not prevail over the children of Tharashayash, and they were sorely oppressed.³ And the old men of the Ishmaelites sent a record to the king of Matzarayam, saying, Send I pray you to your servants officers and hosts to help us to fight against the children of Tharashayash, for we have been consuming away for a long time.⁴ And Paraih sent Yawasap with the mighty men and host which were with him, and also his mighty men from the king's house.⁵ And they went to the land of Chawayalah to the children of Yashamaial, to assist them against the children of Tharashayash, and the children of Yashamaial fought with the children of Tharashayash, and Yawasap smote the Tarshishites and he subdued all their land, and the children of Yashamaial dwell therein to this day.⁶ And when the land of Tharashayash was subdued, all the Tarshishites ran away, and came on the border of their brethren the children of Yawan, and Yawasap with all his mighty men and host returned to Matzarayam, not one man of them missing.⁷ And at the revolution of the year, in the second year of Joseph's reigning over Matzarayam, the Adanay gave great plenty throughout the land for seven years as Yawasap had spoken, for the Adanay blessed all the produce of the earth in those days for seven years, and they ate and were greatly satisfied.⁸ And Yawasap at that time had officers under him, and they collected all the food of the good years, and heaped corn year by year, and they placed it in the treasuries of Yawasap.⁹ And at any time when they gathered the food Yawasap commanded that they should bring the corn in the ears, and also bring with it some of the soil of the field, that it should not spoil.¹⁰ And Yawasap did according to this year by year, and he heaped up corn like the sand of the sea for abundance, for his stores were immense and could not be numbered for abundance.¹¹ And also all the inhabitants of Matzarayam gathered all sorts of food in their stores in great abundance during the seven good years, but they did not do to it as Yawasap did.¹² And all the food which Yawasap and the Matzarayam had gathered during the seven years of plenty, was secured for the land in stores for the seven years of famine, for the support of the whole land.¹³ And the inhabitants of Matzarayam filled each man his store and his concealed place with corn, to be for support during the famine.¹⁴ And Yawasap placed all the food that he had gathered in all the cities of Matzarayam, and he closed all the stores and placed sentinels over them.¹⁵ And Joseph's wife Osnath the daughter of Potiphera bore him two sons, Manashah and

Aparayam, and Yawasap was thirty-four years old when he begat them.¹⁶ And the lads grew up and they went in his ways and in his instructions, they did not deviate from the way which their father taught them, either to the right or left.¹⁷ And the Adanay was with the lads, and they grew up and had understanding and skill in all wisdom and in all the affairs of government, and all the king's officers and his great men of the inhabitants of Matzarayam exalted the lads, and they were brought up amongst the king's children.¹⁸ And the seven years of plenty that were throughout the land were at an end, and the seven years of famine came after them as Yawasap had spoken, and the famine was throughout the land.¹⁹ And all the people of Matzarayam saw that the famine had commenced in the land of Matzarayam, and all the people of Matzarayam opened their stores of corn for the famine prevailed over them.²⁰ And they found all the food that was in their stores, full of vermin and not fit to eat, and the famine prevailed throughout the land, and all the inhabitants of Matzarayam came and cried before Paraih, for the famine was heavy upon them.²¹ And they said to Paraih, Give food to your servants, and therefore shall we die through hunger before your eyes, even we and our little ones? ²² And Paraih answered them, saying, And therefore do you cry to me? did not Yawasap command that the corn should be laid up during the seven years of plenty for the years of famine? and therefore did you not hearken to his voice? ²³ And the people of Matzarayam answered the king, saying, As your soul lives, our lord, your servants have done all that Yawasap ordered, for your servants also gathered in all the produce of their fields during the seven years of plenty and laid it in the stores to this day.²⁴ And when the famine prevailed over your servants we opened our stores, and behold all our produce was filled with vermin and was not fit for food.²⁵ And when the king heard all that had befallen the inhabitants of Matzarayam, the king was greatly afraid on account of the famine, and he was much terrified; and the king answered the people of Matzarayam, saying, Since all this has happened to you, go to Yawasap, do whatever he shall say to you, transgress not his commands.²⁶ And all the people of Matzarayam went forth and came to Yawasap, and said to him, Give to us food, and therefore shall we die before you through hunger? for we gathered in our produce during the seven years as you did command, and we put it in store, and thus has it befallen us.²⁷ And when Yawasap heard all the words of the people of Matzarayam and what had befallen them, Yawasap opened all his stores of the produce and he sold it to the people of Matzarayam.²⁸ And the famine prevailed throughout the land, and the famine was in all countries, but in the land of Matzarayam there was produce for sale.²⁹ And all the inhabitants of Matzarayam came to Yawasap to buy corn, for the famine prevailed over them, and all their corn was spoiled, and Yawasap daily sold it to all the people of Matzarayam.³⁰ And all the inhabitants of the land of Kanain and the Palashath, and those beyond the Yaradan, and the children of the east and all the cities of the lands far and nigh heard that there was corn in Matzarayam, and they all came to Matzarayam to buy corn, for the famine prevailed over them.³¹ And Yawasap opened the stores of corn and placed officers over them, and they daily stood and sold to all that came.³² And Yawasap knew that his brethren also would come to Matzarayam to buy corn, for the famine prevailed throughout the earth. And Yawasap commanded all his people that they should cause it to be proclaimed throughout the land of Matzarayam, saying,³³ It is the pleasure of the king, of his second and of their great men, that any person who wishes to buy corn in Matzarayam shall not send his servants to Matzarayam to purchase, but his sons, and also any Matzarayam or Canaanite, who shall come from any of the stores from buying corn in Matzarayam, and shall go and sell it throughout the land, he shall die, for no one shall buy but for the support of his household.³⁴ And any man leading two or three beasts shall die, for a man shall only lead his own beast.³⁵ And Yawasap placed sentinels at the gates of Matzarayam, and commanded them, saying, Any person who may come to buy corn, suffer him not to enter until his name, and the name of his father, and the name of his father's father be written down, and whatever is written by day, send their names to me in the evening that I may know their names.³⁶ And Yawasap placed officers throughout the land of Matzarayam, and he commanded them to do all these things.³⁷ And Yawasap did all these things, and made these statutes, in order that he might know when his brethren should come to Matzarayam to buy corn; and Joseph's people caused it daily to be proclaimed in Matzarayam according to these words and statutes which Yawasap had commanded.³⁸ And all the inhabitants of the east and west country, and of all the earth, heard of the statutes and regulations which Yawasap had enacted in Matzarayam, and the inhabitants of the extreme parts of the earth came and they bought corn in Matzarayam day after day, and then went away.³⁹ And all the officers of Matzarayam did as Yawasap had commanded, and all that came to Matzarayam to buy corn, the gate keepers would write their names, and their fathers' names, and daily bring them in the evening before Yawasap.

51 And Yaiqab afterward heard that there was corn in Matzarayam, and he called to his sons to go to Matzarayam to buy corn, for upon them also did the famine prevail, and he called to his sons, saying,² Behold I hear that there is corn in Matzarayam, and all the people of the earth go there to purchase, now therefore why will you show yourselves satisfied before the whole earth? go you also down to Matzarayam and buy us a little corn amongst those that come there, that we may not die.³ And the sons of Yaiqab hearkened to the voice of their father, and they rose up to go down to Matzarayam in order to buy corn amongst the rest that came there.⁴ And Yaiqab their father commanded them, saying, When you come into the city do not enter together in one gate, on account of the inhabitants of the land.⁵ And the sons of Yaiqab went forth and they went to Matzarayam, and the sons of Yaiqab did all as their father had commanded them, and Yaiqab did not send Banayaman, for he said, Lest an accident might befall him on the road like his brother; and ten of Jacob's sons went forth.⁶ And whilst the sons of Yaiqab were going on the road, they repented of what they had done to Yawasap, and they spoke to each other, saying, We know that our brother Yawasap went down to Matzarayam, and now we will seek him where we go, and if we find him we will take him from his master for a ransom, and if not, by force, and we will die for him.⁷ And the sons of Yaiqab agreed to this thing and strengthened themselves on account of Yawasap, to deliver him from the hand of his master, and the sons of Yaiqab went to Matzarayam; and when they came near to Matzarayam they separated from each other, and they came through ten gates of Matzarayam, and the gate keepers wrote their names on that day, and brought them to Yawasap in the evening.⁸ And Yawasap read the names from the hand of the gate-keepers of the city, and he found that his brethren had entered at the ten gates of the city, and Yawasap at that time commanded that it should be proclaimed throughout the land of Matzarayam, saying,⁹ Go forth all you store guards, close all the corn stores and let only one remain open, that those who come may purchase from it.¹⁰ And all the officers of Yawasap did so at that time, and they closed all the stores and left only one open.¹¹ And Yawasap gave the written names of his brethren to him that was set over the open store, and he said to him, Whosoever shall come to you to buy corn, ask his name, and when men of these names shall come before you, seize them and send them, and they did so.¹² And when the sons of Yaiqab came into the city, they joined together in the city to seek Yawasap before they bought themselves corn.¹³ And they went to the walls of the harlots, and they sought Yawasap in the walls of the harlots for three days, for they thought that Yawasap would come in the walls of the harlots, for Yawasap was very comely and well favored, and the sons of Yaiqab sought Yawasap for three days, and they could not find him.¹⁴ And the man who was set over the open store sought for those names which Yawasap had given him, and he did not find them.¹⁵ And he sent to Yawasap, saying, These three days have passed, and those men whose names you did give to me have not come; and Yawasap sent servants to seek the men in all

Matzarayam, and to bring them before Yawasap.¹⁶ And Joseph's servants went and came into Matzarayam and could not find them, and went to Gashan and they were not there, and then went to the city of Raimasas and could not find them.¹⁷ And Yawasap continued to send sixteen servants to seek his brothers, and they went and spread themselves in the four corners of the city, and four of the servants went into the house of the harlots, and they found the ten men there seeking their brother.¹⁸ And those four men took them and brought them before him, and they bowed down to him to the ground, and Yawasap was sitting upon his throne in his temple, clothed with princely garments, and upon his head was a large crown of gold, and all the mighty men were sitting around him.¹⁹ And the sons of Yaiqab saw Yawasap, and his figure and comeliness and dignity of countenance seemed wonderful in their eyes, and they again bowed down to him to the ground.²⁰ And Yawasap saw his brethren, and he knew them, but they knew him not, for Yawasap was very great in their eyes, therefore they knew him not.²¹ And Yawasap spoke to them, saying, From whence come you? and they all answered and said, Your servants have come from the land of Kanain to buy corn, for the famine prevails throughout the earth, and your servants heard that there was corn in Matzarayam, so they have come amongst the other comers to buy corn for their support.²² And Yawasap answered them, saying, If you have come to purchase as you say, why do you come through ten gates of the city? it can only be that you have come to spy through the land.²³ And they all together answered Yawasap, and said, Not so my lord, we are right, your servants are not spies, but we have come to buy corn, for your servants are all brothers, the sons of one man in the land of Kanain, and our father commanded us, saying, When you come to the city do not enter together at one gate on account of the inhabitants of the land.²⁴ And Yawasap again answered them and said, That is the thing which I spoke to you, you have come to spy through the land, therefore you all came through ten gates of the city; you have come to see the nakedness of the land.²⁵ Surely every one that comes to buy corn goes his way, and you are already three days in the land, and what do you do in the walls of harlots in which you have been for these three days? surely spies do like to these things.²⁶ And they said to Yawasap, Far be it from our lord to speak thus, for we are twelve brothers, the sons of our father Yaiqab, in the land of Kanain, the son of Yatzachaq, the son of Abaraham, the Hebrew, and behold the youngest is with our father this day in the land of Kanain, and one is not, for he was lost from us, and we thought perhaps he might be in this land, so we are seeking him throughout the land, and have come even to the houses of harlots to seek him there.²⁷ And Yawasap said to them, And have you then sought him throughout the earth, that there only remained Matzarayam for you to seek him in? And what also should your brother do in the houses of harlots, although he were in Matzarayam? have you not said, That you are from the sons of Yatzachaq, the son of Abaraham, and what shall the sons of Yaiqab do then in the houses of harlots?²⁸ And they said to him, Because we heard that Ishmaelites stole him from us, and it was told to us that they sold him in Matzarayam, and your servant, our brother, is very comely and well favored, so we thought he would surely be in the houses of harlots, therefore your servants went there to seek him and give ransom for him.²⁹ And Yawasap still answered them, saying, Surely you speak falsely and utter lies, to say of yourselves that you are the sons of Abaraham; as Paraih lives you are spies, therefore have you come to the houses of harlots that you should not be known.³⁰ And Yawasap said to them, And now if you find him, and his master requires of you a great price, will you give it for him? and they said, It shall be given.³¹ And he said to them, And if his master will not consent to part with him for a great price, what will you do to him on his account? and they answered him, saying, If he will not give him to us we will slay him, and take our brother and go away.³² And Yawasap said to them, That is the thing which I have spoken to you; you are spies, for you are come to slay the inhabitants of the land, for we heard that two of your brethren smote all the inhabitants of Shakam, in the land of Kanain, on account of your sister, and you now come to do the like in Matzarayam on account of your brother.³³ Only hereby shall I know that you are true men; if you will send home one from amongst you to fetch your youngest brother from your father, and to bring him here to me, and by doing this thing I will know that you are right.³⁴ And Yawasap called to seventy of his mighty men, and he said to them, Take these men and bring them into the ward.³⁵ And the mighty men took the ten men, they laid hold of them and put them into the ward, and they were in the ward three days.³⁶ And on the third day Yawasap had them brought out of the ward, and he said to them, Do this for yourselves if you be true men, so that you may live, one of your brethren shall be confined in the ward whilst you go and take home the corn for your household to the land of Kanain, and fetch your youngest brother, and bring him here to me, that I may know that you are true men when you do this thing.³⁷ And Yawasap went out from them and came into the chamber, and wept a great weeping, for his pity was excited for them, and he washed his face, and returned to them again, and he took Shamaïwan from them and ordered him to be bound, but Shamaïwan was not willing to be done so, for he was a very powerful man and they could not bind him.³⁸ And Yawasap called to his mighty men and seventy valiant men came before him with drawn swords in their hands, and the sons of Yaiqab were terrified at them.³⁹ And Yawasap said to them, Seize this man and confine him in prison until his brethren come to him, and Joseph's valiant men hastened and they all laid hold of Shamaïwan to bind him, and Shamaïwan gave a loud and terrible shriek and the cry was heard at a distance.⁴⁰ And all the valiant men of Yawasap were terrified at the sound of the shriek, that they fell upon their faces, and they were greatly afraid and fled.⁴¹ And all the men that were with Yawasap fled, for they were greatly afraid of their lives, and only Yawasap and Manassah his son remained there, and Manassah the son of Yawasap saw the strength of Shamaïwan, and he was exceedingly wroth.⁴² And Manassah the son of Yawasap rose up to Shamaïwan, and Manassah smote Shamaïwan a heavy blow with his fist against the back of his neck, and Shamaïwan was stilled of his rage.⁴³ And Manassah laid hold of Shamaïwan and he seized him violently and he bound him and brought him into the house of confinement, and all the sons of Yaiqab were astonished at the act of the youth.⁴⁴ And Shamaïwan said to his brethren, None of you must say that this is the smiting of an Matzarayam, but it is the smiting of the house of my father.⁴⁵ And after this Yawasap ordered him to be called who was set over the storehouse, to fill their sacks with corn as much as they could carry, and to restore every man's money into his sack, and to give them provision for the road, and thus did he to them.⁴⁶ And Yawasap commanded them, saying, Take heed lest you transgress my orders to bring your brother as I have told you, and it shall be when you bring your brother here to me, then will I know that you are true men, and you shall traffic in the land, and I will restore to you your brother, and you shall return in peace to your father.⁴⁷ And they all answered and said, According as our lord speaks so will we do, and they bowed down to him to the ground.⁴⁸ And every man lifted his corn upon his ass, and they went out to go to the land of Kanain to their father; and they came to the inn and Laway spread his sack to give provender to his ass, when he saw and behold his money in full weight was still in his sack.⁴⁹ And the man was greatly afraid, and he said to his brethren, My money is restored, and lo, it is even in my sack, and the men were greatly afraid, and they said, What is this that Alahayam has done to us?⁵⁰ And they all said, And where is the Adanay's kindness with our fathers, with Abaraham, Yatzachaq, end Yaiqab, that the Adanay has this day delivered us into the hands of the king of Matzarayam to contrive against us?⁵¹ And Yahawadah said to them, Surely we are guilty sinners before the Adanay our Alahayam in having sold our brother, our own flesh, and therefore do you say, Where is the Adanay's kindness with our fathers?⁵² And Raawaban said to them, Said I not to you, do not sin against the lad, and you would not listen to me? now Alahayam requires him from us, and how dare you say, Where is the Adanay's kindness with our fathers, whilst you have sinned to the Adanay?⁵³ And they tarried over night in that place, and they rose up early in the morning and laded their asses with their corn, and they led them and went on and came to their father's house in the land of Kanain.⁵⁴ And Yaiqab and his household went out to meet his sons, and Yaiqab saw and behold their brother Shamaïwan was not with them, and Yaiqab said to his sons, Where is your brother Shamaïwan, whom I do not see? and his sons told him all that had befallen them in Matzarayam.

52 And they entered their house, and every man opened his sack and they saw and behold every man's bundle of money was there, at which they and their father were greatly terrified.² And Yaiqab said to them, What is this that you have done to me? I sent your brother Yawasap to inquire after your welfare and you said to me. A wild beast did devour him.³ And Shamaïwan went with you to buy food and you say the king of Matzarayam has confined him in prison, and you wish to take Banayaman to cause his death also, and bring down my grey hairs with sorrow to the grave on account of Banayaman and his brother Yawasap.⁴ Now therefore my son shall not go down with you, for his brother is dead and he is left alone, and mischief may befall him by the way in which you go, as it befell his brother.⁵ And Raawaban said to his father, You shall slay my two sons if I do not bring your son and place him before you; and Yaiqab said to his sons, Abide you here and do not go down to Matzarayam, for my son shall not go down with you to Matzarayam, nor die like his brother.⁶ And Yahawadah said to them, refrain you from him until the corn is finished, and he will then say, Take down your brother, when he will find his own life and the life of his household in danger from the famine.⁷ And in those days the famine was sore throughout the land, and all the people of the earth went and came to Matzarayam to buy food, for the famine prevailed greatly amongst them, and the sons of Yaiqab remained in Kanain a year and two months until their corn was finished.⁸ And it came to pass after their corn was finished, the whole household of Yaiqab was pinched with hunger, and all the infants of the sons of Yaiqab came together and they approached Yaiqab, and they all surrounded him, and they said to him, Give to us bread, and therefore shall we all perish through hunger in your presence?⁹ Yaiqab heard the words of his son's children, and he wept a great weeping, and his pity was roused for them, and Yaiqab called to his sons and they all came and sat before him.¹⁰ And Yaiqab said to them, And have you not seen how your children have been weeping over me this day, saying, Give to us bread, and there is none? now therefore return and buy for us a little food.¹¹ And Yahawadah answered and said to his father, If you will send our brother with us we will go down and buy corn for you, and if you will not send him then we will not go down, for surely the king of Matzarayam particularly enjoined us, saying, You shall not see my face unless your brother be with you, for the king of Matzarayam is a strong and mighty king, and behold if we shall go to him without our brother we shall all be put to death.¹² Do you not know and have you not heard that this king is very powerful and wise, and there is not like to him in all the earth? behold we have seen all the kings of the earth and we have not seen one like that king, the king of Matzarayam; surely amongst all the kings of the earth there is none greater than Abayamalak king of the Palashath, yet the king of Matzarayam is greater and mightier than he, and Abayamalak can only be compared to one of his officers.¹³ Father, you have not seen his palace and his throne, and all his servants standing before him; you have not seen that king upon his throne in his pomp and royal appearance, dressed in his kingly robes with a large golden crown upon his head; you have not seen the honor and glory which Alahayam has given to him, for there is not like to him in all the earth.¹⁴ Father, you have not seen the wisdom, the understanding and the knowledge which Alahayam has given in his heart, nor heard his sweet voice when he spoke to us.¹⁵ We know not, father, who made him acquainted with our names and all that befell us, yet he asked also after you, saying, Is your father still living, and is it well with him?¹⁶ You have not seen the affairs of the government of Matzarayam regulated by him, without inquiring of Paraih his lord; you have not seen the awe and fear which he impressed upon all the Matzarayam.¹⁷ And also when we went from him, we threatened to do to Matzarayam like to the rest of the cities of the Amorites, and we were exceedingly wroth against all his words which he spoke concerning us as spies, and now when we shall again come before him his terror will fall upon us all, and not one of us will be able to speak to him either a little or a great thing.¹⁸ Now therefore father, send we pray you the lad with us, and we will go down and buy you food for our support, and not die through hunger. And Yaiqab said, Why have you dealt so ill with me to tell the king you had a brother? what is this thing that you have done to me?¹⁹ And Yahawadah said to Yaiqab his father, Give the lad into my care and we will rise up and go down to Matzarayam and buy corn, and then return, and it shall be when we return if the lad be not with us, then let me bear your blame forever.²⁰ Have you seen all our infants weeping over you through hunger and there is no power in your hand to satisfy them? now let your pity be roused for them and send our brother with us and we will go.²¹ For how will the Adanay's kindness to our ancestors be manifested to you when you say that the king of Matzarayam will take away your son? as the Adanay lives I will not leave him until I bring him and place him before you; but pray for us to the Adanay, that he may deal kindly with us, to cause us to be received favorably and kindly before the king of Matzarayam and his men, for had we not delayed surely now we had returned a second time with your son.²² And Yaiqab said to his sons, I trust in the Adanay Alahayam that he may deliver you and give you favor in the sight of the king of Matzarayam, and in the sight of all his men.²³ Now therefore rise up and go to the man, and take for him in your hands a present from what can be obtained in the land and bring it before him, and may the Shaday Alahayam give you mercy before him that he may send Banayaman and Shamaïwan your brethren with you.²⁴ And all the men rose up, and they took their brother Banayaman, and they took in their hands a large present of the best of the land, and they also took a double portion of silver.²⁵ And Yaiqab strictly commanded his sons concerning Banayaman, Saying, Take heed of him in the way in which you are going, and do not separate yourselves from him in the road, neither in Matzarayam.²⁶ And Yaiqab rose up from his sons and spread forth his hands and he prayed to the Adanay on account of his sons, saying, O Adanay Alahayam of heaven and earth, remember your covenant with our father Abaraham, remember it with my father Yatzachaq and deal kindly with my sons and deliver them not into the hands of the king of Matzarayam; do it I pray you O Alahayam for the sake of your mercies and redeem all my children and rescue them from Matzarayam power, and send them their two brothers.²⁷ And all the wives of the sons of Yaiqab and their children lifted up their eyes to heaven and they all wept before the Adanay, and cried to him to deliver their fathers from the hand of the king of Matzarayam.²⁸ And Yaiqab wrote a record to the king of Matzarayam and gave it into the hand of Yahawadah and into the hands of his sons for the king of Matzarayam, saying,²⁹ From your servant Yaiqab, son of Yatzachaq, son of Abaraham the Hebrew, the prince of Alahayam, to the powerful and wise king, the revealer of secrets, king of Matzarayam, greeting.³⁰ Be it known to my lord the king of Matzarayam, the famine was sore upon us in the land of Kanain, and I sent my sons to you to buy us a little food from you for our support.³¹ For my sons surrounded me and I being very old cannot see with my eyes, for my eyes have become very heavy through age, as well as with daily weeping for my son, for Yawasap who was lost from before me, and I commanded my sons that they should not enter the gates of the city when they came to Matzarayam, on account of the inhabitants of the land.³² And I also commanded them to go about Matzarayam to seek for my son Yawasap, perhaps they might find him there, and they did so, and you did consider them as spies of the land.³³ Have we not heard concerning you that you did interpret Pharaoh's dream and did speak truly to him? how then do you not know in your wisdom

whether my sons are spies or not?³⁴ Now therefore, my lord and king, behold I have sent my son before you, as you did speak to my sons; I beseech you to put your eyes upon him until he is returned to me in peace with his brethren.³⁵ For do you not know, or have you not heard that which our Alahayam did to Paraih when he took my mother Sharah, and what he did to Abayamalak king of the Palashath on account of her, and also what our father Abaraham did to the nine kings of Iyalam, how he smote them all with a few men that were with him?³⁶ And also what my two sons Shamaïwan and Laway did to the eight cities of the Amorites, how they destroyed them on account of their sister Dayanah?³⁷ And also on account of their brother Banayaman they consoled themselves for the loss of his brother Yawasap; what will they then do for him when they see the hand of any people prevailing over them, for his sake?³⁸ Do you not know, O king of Matzarayam, that the power of Alahayam is with us, and that also Alahayam ever hears our prayers and forsakes us not all the days?³⁹ And when my sons told me of your dealings with them, I called not to the Adanay on account of you, for then you would have perished with your men before my son Banayaman came before you, but I thought that as Shamaïwan my son was in your house, perhaps you might deal kindly with him, therefore I did not this thing to you.⁴⁰ Now therefore behold Banayaman my son comes to you with my sons, take heed of him and put your eyes upon him, and then will Alahayam place his eyes over you and throughout your kingdom.⁴¹ Now I have told you all that is in my heart, and behold my sons are coming to you with their brother, examine the face of the whole earth for their sake and send them back in peace with their brethren.⁴² And Yaiqab gave the record to his sons into the care of Yahawadah to give it to the king of Matzarayam.

53 And the sons of Yaiqab rose up and took Banayaman and the whole of the presents, and they went and came to Matzarayam and they stood before Yawasap.² And Yawasap beheld his brother Banayaman with them and he saluted them, and these men came to Joseph's house.³ And Yawasap commanded the superintendent of his house to give to his brethren to eat, and he did so to them.⁴ And at noon time Yawasap sent for the men to come before him with Banayaman, and the men told the superintendent of Joseph's house concerning the silver that was returned in their sacks, and he said to them, It will be well with you, fear not, and he brought their brother Shamaïwan to them.⁵ And Shamaïwan said to his brethren, The lord of the Matzarayam has acted very kindly to me, he did not keep me bound, as you saw with your eyes, for when you went out from the city he let me free and dealt kindly with me in his house.⁶ And Yahawadah took Banayaman by the hand, and they came before Yawasap, and they bowed down to him to the ground.⁷ And the men gave the present to Yawasap and they all sat before him, and Yawasap said to them, Is it well with you, is it well with your children, is it well with your aged father? and they said, It is well, and Yahawadah took the record which Yaiqab had sent and gave it into the hand of Yawasap.⁸ And Yawasap read the letter and knew his father's writing, and he wished to weep and he went into an inner room and he wept a great weeping; and he went out.⁹ And he lifted up his eyes and beheld his brother Banayaman, and he said, Is this your brother of whom you spoke to me? And Banayaman approached Yawasap, and Yawasap placed his hand upon his head and he said to him, May Alahayam be gracious to you my son.¹⁰ And when Yawasap saw his brother, the son of his mother, he again wished to weep, and he entered the chamber, and he wept there, and he washed his face, and went out and refrained from weeping, and he said, Prepare food.¹¹ And Yawasap had a cup from which he drank, and it was of silver beautifully inlaid with onyx stones and bdellium, and Yawasap struck the cup in the sight of his brethren whilst they were sitting to eat with him.¹² And Yawasap said to the men, I know by this cup that Raawaban the first born, Shamaïwan and Laway and Yahawadah, Yashashakar and Zabawalan are children from one mother, seat yourselves to eat according to your births.¹³ And he also placed the others according to their births, and he said, I know that this your youngest brother has no brother, and I, like him, have no brother, he shall therefore sit down to eat with me.¹⁴ And Banayaman went up before Yawasap and sat upon the throne, and the men beheld the acts of Yawasap, and they were astonished at them; and the men ate and drank at that time with Yawasap, and he then gave presents to them, and Yawasap gave one gift to Banayaman, and Manashah and Aparayam saw the acts of their father, and they also gave presents to him, and Osnath gave him one present, and they were five presents in the hand of Banayaman.¹⁵ And Yawasap brought them out wine to drink, and they would not drink, and they said, From the day on which Yawasap was lost we have not drunk wine, nor eaten any delicacies.¹⁶ And Yawasap swore to them, and he pressed them hard, and they drank plentifully with him on that day, and Yawasap afterward turned to his brother Banayaman to speak with him, and Banayaman was still sitting upon the throne before Yawasap.¹⁷ And Yawasap said to him, Have you begotten any children? and he said, Your servant has ten sons, and these are their names, Balai, Bakar, Ashbal, Garaa, Naiman, Achay, Raash, Mupim, Chupim, and Ord, and I called their names after my brother whom I have not seen.¹⁸ And he ordered them to bring before him his map of the stars, whereby Yawasap knew all the times, and Yawasap said to Banayaman, I have heard that the Hebrews are acquainted with all wisdom, do you know anything of this?¹⁹ And Banayaman said, Your servant is knowing also in all the wisdom which my father taught me, and Yawasap said to Banayaman, Look now at this instrument and understand where your brother Yawasap is in Matzarayam, who you said went down to Matzarayam.²⁰ And Banayaman beheld that instrument with the map of the stars of heaven, and he was wise and looked therein to know where his brother was, and Banayaman divided the whole land of Matzarayam into four divisions, and he found that he who was sitting upon the throne before him was his brother Yawasap, and Banayaman wondered greatly, and when Yawasap saw that his brother Banayaman was so much astonished, he said to Banayaman, What have you seen, and why are you astonished?²¹ And Banayaman said to Yawasap, I can see by this that Yawasap my brother sits here with me upon the throne, and Yawasap said to him, I am Yawasap your brother, reveal not this thing to your brethren; behold I will send you with them when they go away, and I will command them to be brought back again into the city, and I will take you away from them.²² And if they dare their lives and fight for you, then shall I know that they have repented of what they did to me, and I will make myself known to them, and if they forsake you when I take you, then shall you remain with me, and I will wrangle with them, and they shall go away, and I will not become known to them.²³ At that time Yawasap commanded his officer to fill their sacks with food, and to put each man's money into his sack, and to put the cup in the sack of Banayaman, and to give them provision for the road, and they did so to them.²⁴ And on the next day the men rose up early in the morning, and they loaded their asses with their corn, and they went forth with Banayaman, and they went to the land of Kanain with their brother Banayaman.²⁵ They had not gone far from Matzarayam when Yawasap commanded him that was set over his house, saying, Rise, pursue these men before they get too far from Matzarayam, and say to them, Why have you stolen my master's cup?²⁶ And Joseph's officer rose up and he reached them, and he spoke to them all the words of Yawasap; and when they heard this thing they became exceedingly wroth, and they said, He with whom your master's cup shall be found shall die, and we will also become slaves.²⁷ And they hastened and each man brought down his sack from his ass, and they looked in their bags and the cup was found in Benjamin's bag, and they all tore their garments and they returned to the city, and they smote Banayaman in the road, continually smiting him until he came into the city, and they stood before Yawasap.²⁸ And Judah's anger was kindled, and he said, This man has only brought me back to destroy Matzarayam this day.²⁹ And the men came to Joseph's house, and they found Yawasap sitting upon his throne, and all the mighty men standing at his right and left.³⁰ And

Yawasap said to them, What is this act that you have done, that you took away my silver cup and went away? but I know that you took my cup in order to know thereby in what part of the land your brother was.³¹ And Yahawadah said, What shall we say to our lord, what shall we speak and how shall we justify ourselves, Alahayam has this day found the iniquity of all your servants, therefore has he done this thing to us this day.³² And Yawasap rose up and caught hold of Banayaman and took him from his brethren with violence, and he came to the house and locked the door at them, and Yawasap commanded him that was set over his house that he should say to them, Thus says the king, Go in peace to your father, behold I have taken the man in whose hand my cup was found.

54 And when Yahawadah saw the dealings of Yawasap with them, Yahawadah approached him and broke open the door, and came with his brethren before Yawasap.² And Yahawadah said to Yawasap, Let it not seem grievous in the sight of my lord, may your servant I pray you speak a word before you? and Yawasap said to him, Speak.³ And Yahawadah spoke before Yawasap, and his brethren were there standing before them; and Yahawadah said to Yawasap, Surely when we first came to our lord to buy food, you did consider us as spies of the land, and we brought Banayaman before you, and you still make sport of us this day.⁴ Now therefore let the king hear my words, and send I pray you our brother that he may go along with us to our father, lest your soul perish this day with all the souls of the inhabitants of Matzarayam.⁵ Do you not know what two of my brethren, Shamaian and Laway, did to the city of Shakam, and to seven cities of the Amorites, on account of our sister Dayanah, and also what they would do for the sake of their brother Banayaman?⁶ And I with my strength, who am greater and mightier than both of them, come this day upon you and your land if you are unwilling to send our brother.⁷ Have you not heard what our Alahayam who made choice of us did to Paraih on account of Sharah our mother, whom he took away from our father, that he smote him and his household with heavy plagues, that even to this day the Matzarayam relate this wonder to each other? so will our Alahayam do to you on account of Banayaman whom you have this day taken from his father, and on account of the evils which you this day heapest over us in your land; for our Alahayam will remember his covenant with our father Abaraham and bring evil upon you, because you have grieved the soul of our father this day.⁸ Now therefore hear my words that I have this day spoken to you, and send our brother that he may go away lest you and the people of your land die by the sword, for you cannot all prevail over me.⁹ And Yawasap answered Yahawadah, saying, Why have you opened wide your mouth and why do you boast over us, saying, Strength is with you? as Paraih lives, if I command all my valiant men to fight with you, surely you and these your brethren would sink in the mire.¹⁰ And Yahawadah said to Yawasap, Surely it becomes you and your people to fear me; as the Adanay lives if I once draw my sword I shall not sheathe it again until I shall this day have slain all Matzarayam, and I will commence with you and finish with Paraih your master.¹¹ And Yawasap answered and said to him, Surely strength belongs not alone to you; I am stronger and mightier than you, surely if you draw your sword I will put it to your neck and the necks of all your brethren.¹² And Yahawadah said to him, Surely if I this day open my mouth against you I would swallow you up that you be destroyed from off the earth and perish this day from your kingdom. And Yawasap said, Surely if you open your mouth I have power and might to close your mouth with a stone until you shall not be able to utter a word; see how many stones are before us, truly I can take a stone, and force it into your mouth and break your jaws.¹³ And Yahawadah said, Alahayam is witness between us, that we have not hitherto desired to battle with you, only give us our brother and we will go from you; and Yawasap answered and said, As Paraih lives, if all the kings of Kanain came together with you, you should not take him from my hand.¹⁴ Now therefore go your way to your father, and your brother shall be to me for a slave, for he has robbed the king's house. And Yahawadah said, What is it to you or to the character of the king, surely the king sends forth from his house, throughout the land, silver and gold either in gifts or expenses, and you still talkest about your cup which you did place in our brother's bag and say that he has stolen it from you? ¹⁵ Alahayam forbid that our brother Banayaman or any of the seed of Abaraham should do this thing to steal from you, or from any one else, whether king, prince, or any man. ¹⁶ Now therefore cease this accusation lest the whole earth hear your words, saying, For a little silver the king of Matzarayam wrangled with the men, and he accused them and took their brother for a slave. ¹⁷ And Yawasap answered and said, Take to you this cup and go from me and leave your brother for a slave, for it is the judgment of a thief to be a slave. ¹⁸ And Yahawadah said, Why are you not ashamed of your words, to leave our brother and to take your cup? Surely if you give us your cup, or a thousand times as much, we will not leave our brother for the silver which is found in the hand of any man, that we will not die over him. ¹⁹ And Yawasap answered, And why did you forsake your brother and sell him for twenty pieces of silver to this day, and why then will you not do the same to this your brother? ²⁰ And Yahawadah said, the Adanay is witness between me and you that we desire not your battles; now therefore give us our brother and we will go from you without quarreling. ²¹ And Yawasap answered and said, If all the kings of the land should assemble they will not be able to take your brother from my hand; and Yahawadah said, What shall we say to our father, when he sees that our brother comes not with us, and will grieve over him? ²² And Yawasap answered and said, This is the thing which you shall tell to your father, saying, The rope has gone after the bucket. ²³ And Yahawadah said, Surely you are a king, and why speak you these things, giving a false judgment? woe to the king who is like to you. ²⁴ And Yawasap answered and said, There is no false judgment in the word that I spoke on account of your brother Yawasap, for all of you sold him to the Midianites for twenty pieces of silver, and you all denied it to your father and said to him, An evil beast has devoured him, Yawasap has been torn to pieces. ²⁵ And Yahawadah said, Behold the fire of Sham burns in my heart, now I will burn all your land with fire; and Yawasap answered and said, Surely your sister-in-law Thamar, who killed your sons, extinguished the fire of Shakam. ²⁶ And Yahawadah said, If I pluck out a single hair from my flesh, I will fill all Matzarayam with its blood. ²⁷ And Yawasap answered and said, Such is your custom to do as you did to your brother whom you sold, and you dipped his coat in blood and brought it to your father in order that he might say an evil beast devoured him and here is his blood. ²⁸ And when Yahawadah heard this thing he was exceedingly wroth and his anger burned within him, and there was before him in that place a stone, the weight of which was about four hundred shekels, and Judah's anger was kindled and he took the stone in one hand and cast it to the heavens and caught it with his left hand. ²⁹ And he placed it afterward under his legs, and he sat upon it with all his strength and the stone was turned into dust from the force of Yahawadah. ³⁰ And Yawasap saw the act of Yahawadah and he was very much afraid, but he commanded Manassah his son and he also did with another stone like to the act of Yahawadah, and Yahawadah said to his brethren, Let not any of you say, this man is an Matzarayam, but by his doing this thing he is of our father's family. ³¹ And Yawasap said, Not to you only is strength given, for we are also powerful men, and why will you boast over us all? and Yahawadah said to Yawasap, Send I pray you our brother and ruin not your country this day. ³² And Yawasap answered and said to them, Go and tell your father, an evil beast has devoured him as you said concerning your brother Yawasap. ³³ And Yahawadah spoke to his brother Napathalay, and he said to him, Make haste, go now and number all the streets of Matzarayam and come and tell me; and Shamaian said to him, Let not this thing be a trouble to you; now I will go to the mount and take up one large stone from the mount and level it at every one in Matzarayam, and kill all that are in it. ³⁴ And Yawasap heard all these words that his brethren spoke before him, and they did not know that Yawasap understood them, for they imagined that he knew not to speak Hebrew. ³⁵ And

Yawasap was greatly afraid at the words of his brethren lest they should destroy Matzarayam, and he commanded his son Manashah, saying, Go now make haste and gather to me all the inhabitants of Matzarayam, and all the valiant men together, and let them come to me now upon horseback and on foot and with all sorts of musical instruments, and Manashah went and did so. ³⁶ And Napathalay went as Yahawadah had commanded him, for Napathalay was lightfooted as one of the swift stags, and he would go upon the ears of corn and they would not break under him. ³⁷ And he went and numbered all the streets of Matzarayam, and found them to be twelve, and he came hastily and told Yahawadah, and Yahawadah said to his brethren, Hasten you and put on every man his sword upon his loins and we will come over Matzarayam, and smite them all, and let not a remnant remain. ³⁸ And Yahawadah said, Behold, I will destroy three of the streets with my strength, and you shall each destroy one street; and when Yahawadah was speaking this thing, behold the inhabitants of Matzarayam and all the mighty men came toward them with all sorts of musical instruments and with loud shouting. ³⁹ And their number was five hundred cavalry and ten thousand infantry, and four hundred men who could fight without sword or spear, only with their hands and strength. ⁴⁰ And all the mighty men came with great storming and shouting, and they all surrounded the sons of Yaiqab and terrified them, and the ground quaked at the sound of their shouting. ⁴¹ And when the sons of Yaiqab saw these troops they were greatly afraid of their lives, and Yawasap did so in order to terrify the sons of Yaiqab to become tranquilized. ⁴² And Yahawadah, seeing some of his brethren terrified, said to them, Why are you afraid whilst the grace of Alahayam is with us? and when Yahawadah saw all the people of Matzarayam surrounding them at the command of Yawasap to terrify them, only Yawasap commanded them, saying, Do not touch any of them. ⁴³ Then Yahawadah hastened and drew his sword, and uttered a loud and bitter scream, and he smote with his sword, and he sprang upon the ground and he still continued to shout against all the people. ⁴⁴ And when he did this thing the Adanay caused the terror of Yahawadah and his brethren to fall upon the valiant men and all the people that surrounded them. ⁴⁵ And they all fled at the sound of the shouting, and they were terrified and fell one upon the other, and many of them died as they fell, and they all fled from before Yahawadah and his brethren and from before Yawasap. ⁴⁶ And whilst they were fleeing, Yahawadah and his brethren pursued them to the house of Paraih, and they all escaped, and Yahawadah again sat before Yawasap and roared at him like a lion, and gave a great and tremendous shriek at him. ⁴⁷ And the shriek was heard at a distance, and all the inhabitants of Sakawath heard it, and all Matzarayam quaked at the sound of the shriek, and also the walls of Matzarayam and of the land of Gashan fell in from the shaking of the earth, and Paraih also fell from his throne upon the ground, and also all the pregnant women of Matzarayam and Gashan miscarried when they heard the noise of the shaking, for they were terribly afraid. ⁴⁸ And Paraih sent word, saying, What is this thing that has this day happened in the land of Matzarayam? and they came and told him all the things from beginning to end, and Paraih was alarmed and he wondered and was greatly afraid. ⁴⁹ And his fright increased when he heard all these things, and he sent to Yawasap, saying, You have brought to me the Hebrews to destroy all Matzarayam; what will you do with that thievish slave? send him away and let him go with his brethren, and let us not perish through their evil, even we, you and all Matzarayam. ⁵⁰ And if you desire not to do this thing, cast off from you all my valuable things, and go with them to their land, if you delight in it, for they will this day destroy my whole country and slay all my people; even all the women of Matzarayam have miscarried through their screams; see what they have done merely by their shouting and speaking, moreover if they fight with the sword, they will destroy the land; now therefore choose that which you desire, whether me or the Hebrews, whether Matzarayam or the land of the Hebrews. ⁵¹ And they came and told Yawasap all the words of Paraih that he had said concerning him, and Yawasap was greatly afraid at the words of Paraih and Yahawadah and his brethren were still standing before Yawasap indignant and enraged, and all the sons of Yaiqab roared at Yawasap, like the roaring of the sea and its waves.⁵² And Yawasap was greatly afraid of his brethren and on account of Paraih, and Yawasap sought a pretext to make himself known to his brethren, lest they should destroy all Matzarayam.⁵³ And Yawasap commanded his son Manashah, and Manashah went and approached Yahawadah, and placed his hand upon his shoulder, and the anger of Yahawadah was stilled.⁵⁴ And Yahawadah said to his brethren, Let no one of you say that this is the act of an Matzarayam youth for this is the work of my father's house.⁵⁵ And Yawasap seeing and knowing that Judah's anger was stilled, he approached to speak to Yahawadah in the language of mildness.⁵⁶ And Yawasap said to Yahawadah, Surely you speak truth and have this day verified your assertions concerning your strength, and may your Alahayam who delights in you, increase your welfare; but tell me truly why from amongst all your brethren do you wrangle with me on account of the lad, as none of them have spoken one word to me concerning him.⁵⁷ And Yahawadah answered Yawasap, saying, Surely you must know that I was security for the lad to his father, saying, If I brought him not to him I should bear his blame forever.⁵⁸ Therefore have I approached you from amongst all my brethren, for I saw that you were unwilling to suffer him to go from you; now therefore may I find grace in your sight that you shall send him to go with us, and behold I will remain as a substitute for him, to serve you in whatever you desire, for wheresoever you shall send me I will go to serve you with great energy.⁵⁹ Send me now to a mighty king who has rebelled against you, and you shall know what I will do to him and to his land; although he may have cavalry and infantry or an exceeding mighty people, I will slay them all and bring the king's head before you.⁶⁰ Do you not know or have you not heard that our father Abaraham with his servant Alayaizar smote all the kings of Iyalam with their hosts in one night, they left not one remaining? and ever since that day our father's strength was given to us for an inheritance, for us and our seed forever.⁶¹ And Yawasap answered and said, You speak truth, and falsehood is not in your mouth, for it was also told to us that the Hebrews have power and that the Adanay their Alahayam delights much in them, and who then can stand before them?⁶² However, on this condition will I send your brother, if you will bring before me his brother the son of his mother, of whom you said that he had gone from you down to Matzarayam; and it shall come to pass when you bring to me his brother I will take him in his stead, because not one of you was security for him to your father, and when he shall come to me, I will then send with you his brother for whom you have been security.⁶³ And Judah's anger was kindled against Yawasap when he spoke this thing, and his eyes dropped blood with anger, and he said to his brethren, How does this man this day seek his own destruction and that of all Matzarayam!⁶⁴ And Shamaiwan answered Yawasap, saying, Did we not tell you at first that we knew not the particular spot to which he went, and whether he be dead or alive, and therefore speaks my lord like to these things?⁶⁵ And Yawasap observing the countenance of Yahawadah discerned that his anger began to kindle when he spoke to him, saying, Bring to me your other brother instead of this brother.⁶⁶ And Yawasap said to his brethren, Surely you said that your brother was either dead or lost, now if I should call him this day and he should come before you, would you give him to me instead of his brother?⁶⁷ And Yawasap began to speak and call out, Yawasap, Yawasap, come this day before me, and appear to your brethren and sit before them.⁶⁸ And when Yawasap spoke this thing before them, they looked each a different way to see from whence Yawasap would come before them.⁶⁹ And Yawasap observed all their acts, and said to them, Why do you look here and there? I am Yawasap whom you sold to Matzarayam, now therefore let it not grieve you that you sold me, for as a support during the famine did Alahayam send me before you.⁷⁰ And his brethren were terrified at him when they heard the words of Yawasap, and Yahawadah was exceedingly terrified at him.⁷¹ And when Banayaman heard the words of Yawasap he was before them in the inner part of the house, and Banayaman ran to Yawasap his brother, and embraced him and fell upon his neck, and they wept.⁷² And when Joseph's brethren saw that Banayaman had fallen upon his brother's neck and wept with him, they also fell upon Yawasap and embraced him, and they wept a great weeping with Yawasap.⁷³ And the voice was heard in the house of Yawasap that they were Joseph's brethren, and it pleased Paraih exceedingly, for he was afraid of them lest they should destroy Matzarayam.⁷⁴ And Paraih sent his servants to Yawasap to congratulate him concerning his brethren who had come to him, and all the captains of the armies and troops that were in Matzarayam came to rejoice with Yawasap, and all Matzarayam rejoiced greatly about Joseph's brethren.⁷⁵ And Paraih sent his servants to Yawasap, saying, Tell your brethren to fetch all belonging to them and let them come to me, and I will place them in the best part of the land of Matzarayam, and they did so.⁷⁶ And Yawasap commanded him that was set over his house to bring out to his brethren gifts and garments, and he brought out to them many garments being robes of royalty and many gifts, and Yawasap divided them amongst his brethren.⁷⁷ And he gave to each of his brethren a change of garments of gold and silver, and three hundred pieces of silver, and Yawasap commanded them all to be dressed in these garments, and to be brought before Paraih.⁷⁸ And Paraih seeing that all Joseph's brethren were valiant men, and of beautiful appearance, he greatly rejoiced.⁷⁹ And they afterward went out from the presence of Paraih to go to the land of Kanain, to their father, and their brother Banayaman was with them.⁸⁰ And Yawasap rose up and gave to them eleven chariots from Paraih, and Yawasap gave to them his chariot, upon which he rode on the day of his being crowned in Matzarayam, to fetch his father to Matzarayam; and Yawasap sent to all his brothers' children, garments according to their numbers, and a hundred pieces of silver to each of them, and he also sent garments to the wives of his brethren from the garments of the king's wives, and he sent them.⁸¹ And he gave to each of his brethren ten men to go with them to the land of Kanain to serve them, to serve their children and all belonging to them in coming to Matzarayam.⁸² And Yawasap sent by the hand of his brother Banayaman ten suits of garments for his ten sons, a portion above the rest of the children of the sons of Yaiqab.⁸³ And he sent to each fifty pieces of silver, and ten chariots on the account of Paraih, and he sent to his father ten asses laden with all the luxuries of Matzarayam, and ten she asses laden with corn and bread and nourishment for his father, and to all that were with him as provisions for the road.⁸⁴ And he sent to his sister Dayanah garments of silver and gold, and frankincense and myrrh, and aloes and women's ornaments in great plenty, and he sent the same from the wives of Paraih to the wives of Banayaman.⁸⁵ And he gave to all his brethren, also to their wives, all sorts of onyx stones and bdellium, and from all the valuable things amongst the great people of Matzarayam, nothing of all the costly things was left but what Yawasap sent of to his father's household.⁸⁶ And he sent his brethren away, and they went, and he sent his brother Banayaman with them.⁸⁷ And Yawasap went out with them to accompany them on the road to the borders of Matzarayam, and he commanded them concerning his father and his household, to come to Matzarayam.⁸⁸ And he said to them, Do not quarrel on the road, for this thing was from the Adanay to keep a great people from starvation, for there will be yet five years of famine in the land.⁸⁹ And he commanded them, saying, When you come to the land of Kanain, do not come suddenly before my father in this affair, but act in your wisdom.⁹⁰ And Yawasap ceased to command them, and he turned and went back to Matzarayam, and the sons of Yaiqab went to the land of Kanain with joy and cheerfulness to their father Yaiqab.⁹¹ And they came to the borders of the land, and they said to each other, What shall we do in this matter before our father, for if we come suddenly to him and tell him the matter, he will be greatly alarmed at our words and will not believe us.⁹² And they went along until they came nigh to their houses, and they found Sharach, the daughter of Ashar, going forth to meet them, and the

damsel was very good and subtle, and knew how to play upon the harp.⁹³ And they called to her and she came before them, and she kissed them, and they took her and gave to her a harp, saying, Go now before our father, and sit before him, and strike upon the harp, and speak these words.⁹⁴ And they commanded her to go to their house, and she took the harp and hastened before them, and she came and sat near Yaiqab.⁹⁵ And she played well and sang, and uttered in the sweetness of her words, Yawasap my uncle is living, and he rules throughout the land of Matzarayam, and is not dead.⁹⁶ And she continued to repeat and utter these words, and Yaiqab heard her words and they were agreeable to him.⁹⁷ He listened whilst she repeated them twice and thrice, and joy entered the heart of Yaiqab at the sweetness of her words, and the spirit of Alahayam was upon him, and he knew all her words to be true.⁹⁸ And Yaiqab blessed Sharach when she spoke these words before him, and he said to her, My daughter, may death never prevail over you, for you have revived my spirit; only speak yet before me as you have spoken, for you have gladdened me with all your words.⁹⁹ And she continued to sing these words, and Yaiqab listened and it pleased him, and he rejoiced, and the spirit of Alahayam was upon him.¹⁰⁰ Whilst he was yet speaking with her, behold his sons came to him with horses and chariots and royal garments and servants running before them.¹⁰¹ And Yaiqab rose up to meet them, and saw his sons dressed in royal garments and he saw all the treasures that Yawasap had sent to them.¹⁰² And they said to him, Be informed that our brother Yawasap is living, and it is he who rules throughout the land of Matzarayam, and it is he who spoke to us as we told you.¹⁰³ And Yaiqab heard all the words of his sons, and his heart palpitated at their words, for he could not believe them until he saw all that Yawasap had given them and what he had sent him, and all the signs which Yawasap had spoken to them.¹⁰⁴ And they opened out before him, and showed him all that Yawasap had sent, they gave to each what Yawasap had sent him, and he knew that they had spoken the truth, and he rejoiced exceedingly an account of his son.¹⁰⁵ And Yaiqab said, It is enough for me that my son Yawasap is still living, I will go and see him before I die.¹⁰⁶ And his sons told him all that had befallen them, and Yaiqab said, I will go down to Matzarayam to see my son and his offspring.¹⁰⁷ And Yaiqab rose up and put on the garments which Yawasap had sent him, and after he had washed, and shaved his hair, he put upon his head the turban which Yawasap had sent him.¹⁰⁸ And all the people of Jacob's house and their wives put on the garments which Yawasap had sent to them, and they greatly rejoiced at Yawasap that he was still living and that he was ruling in Matzarayam.¹⁰⁹ And all the inhabitants of Kanain heard of this thing, and they came and rejoiced much with Yaiqab that he was still living.¹¹⁰ And Yaiqab made a feast for them for three days, and all the kings of Kanain and nobles of the land ate and drank and rejoiced in the house of Yaiqab.

55 And it came to pass after this that Yaiqab said, I will go and see my son in Matzarayam and will then come back to the land of Kanain of which Alahayam had spoken to Abaraham, for I cannot leave the land of my birth-place.¹ Behold the word of the Adanay came to him, saying, Go down to Matzarayam with all your household and remain there, fear not to go down to Matzarayam for I will there make you a great nation.² And Yaiqab said within himself, I will go and see my son whether the fear of his Alahayam is yet in his heart amidst all the inhabitants of Matzarayam.³ And the Adanay said to Yaiqab, Fear not about Yawasap, for he still retaineth his integrity to serve me, as will seem good in your sight, and Yaiqab rejoiced exceedingly concerning his son.⁴ At that time Yaiqab commanded his sons and household to go to Matzarayam according to the word of the Adanay to him, and Yaiqab rose up with his sons and all his household, and he went out from the land of Kanain from Beersheba, with joy and gladness of heart, and they went to the land of Matzarayam.⁵ And it came to pass when they came near Matzarayam, Yaiqab sent Yahawadah before him to Yawasap that he might show him a situation in Matzarayam, and Yahawadah did according to the word of his father, and he hastened and ran and came to Yawasap, and they assigned for them a place in the land of Gashan for all his household, and Yahawadah returned and came along the road to his father.⁷ And Yawasap harnessed the chariot, and he assembled all his mighty men and his servants and all the officers of Matzarayam in order to go and meet his father Yaiqab, and Joseph's mandate was proclaimed in Matzarayam, saying, All that do not go to meet Yaiqab shall die.⁸ And on the next day Yawasap went forth with all Matzarayam a great and mighty host, all dressed in garments of fine linen and purple and with instruments of silver and gold and with their instruments of war with them.⁹ And they all went to meet Yaiqab with all sorts of musical instruments, with drums and timbrels, strewing myrrh and aloes all along the road, and they all went after this fashion, and the earth shook at their shouting.¹⁰ And all the women of Matzarayam went upon the roofs of Matzarayam and upon the walls to meet Yaiqab, and upon the head of Yawasap was Pharaoh's regal crown, for Paraih had sent it to him to put on at the time of his going to meet his father.¹¹ And when Yawasap came within fifty cubits of his father, he alighted from the chariot and he walked toward his father, and when all the officers of Matzarayam and her nobles saw that Yawasap had gone on foot toward his father, they also alighted and walked on foot toward Yaiqab.¹² And when Yaiqab approached the camp of Yawasap, Yaiqab observed the camp that was coming toward him with Yawasap, and it gratified him and Yaiqab was astonished at it.¹³ And Yaiqab said to Yahawadah, Who is that man whom I see in the camp of Matzarayam dressed in kingly robes with a very red garment upon him and a royal crown upon his head, who has alighted from his chariot and is coming toward us? and Yahawadah answered his father, saying, He is your son Yawasap the king; and Yaiqab rejoiced in seeing the glory of his son.¹⁴ And Yawasap came nigh to his father and he bowed to his father, and all the men of the camp bowed to the ground with him before Yaiqab.¹⁵ And behold Yaiqab ran and hastened to his son Yawasap and fell upon his neck and kissed him, and they wept, and Yawasap also embraced his father and kissed him, and they wept and all the people of Matzarayam wept with them.¹⁶ And Yaiqab said to Yawasap, Now I will die cheerfully after I have seen your face, that you are still living and with glory.¹⁷ And the sons of Yaiqab and their wives and their children and their servants, and all the household of Yaiqab wept exceedingly with Yawasap, and they kissed him and wept greatly with him.¹⁸ And Yawasap and all his people returned afterward home to Matzarayam, and Yaiqab and his sons and all the children of his household came with Yawasap to Matzarayam, and Yawasap placed them in the best part of Matzarayam, in the land of Gashan.¹⁹ And Yawasap said to his father and to his brethren, I will go up and tell Paraih, saying, My brethren and my father's household and all belonging to them have come to me, and behold they are in the land of Gashan.²⁰ And Yawasap did so and took from his brethren Raawaban, Yashashakar Zabawalan and his brother Banayaman and he placed them before Paraih.²¹ And Yawasap spoke to Paraih, saying, My brethren and my father's household and all belonging to them, together with their flocks and cattle have come to me from the land of Kanain, to sojourn in Matzarayam; for the famine was sore upon them.²² And Paraih said to Yawasap, Place your father and brethren in the best part of the land, withhold not from them all that is good, and cause them to eat of the fat of the land.²³ And Yawasap answered, saying, Behold I have stationed them in the land of Gashan, for they are shepherds, therefore let them remain in Gashan to feed their flocks apart from the Matzarayam.²⁴ And Paraih said to Yawasap, Do with your brethren all that they shall say to you; and the sons of Yaiqab bowed down to Paraih, and they went forth from him in peace, and Yawasap afterward brought his father before Paraih.²⁵ And Yaiqab came and bowed down to Paraih, and Yaiqab blessed Paraih, and he then went out; and Yaiqab and all his sons, and all his household dwelt in the land of Gashan.²⁶ In the second year, that is in the hundred and thirtieth year of the life of Yaiqab, Yawasap maintained his father and his brethren, and all his father's household, with bread according to their little ones, all the days of the famine; they lacked nothing.²⁷ And Yawasap gave to them the best part of the whole land; the best of Matzarayam had they all the days of Yawasap; and Yawasap also gave to them and to the whole of his father's household, clothes and garments year by year; and the sons of Yaiqab remained securely in Matzarayam all the days of their brother.²⁸ And Yaiqab always ate at Joseph's table, Yaiqab and his sons did not leave Joseph's table day or night, besides what Jacob's children consumed in their houses.²⁹ And all Matzarayam ate bread during the days of the famine from the house of Yawasap, for all the Matzarayam sold all belonging to them on account of the famine.³⁰ And Yawasap purchased all the lands and fields of Matzarayam for bread on the account of Paraih, and Yawasap supplied all Matzarayam with bread all the days of the famine, and Yawasap collected all the silver and gold that came to him for the corn which they bought throughout the land, and he accumulated much gold and silver, besides an immense quantity of onyx stones, bdellium and valuable garments which they brought to Yawasap from every part of the land when their money was spent.³¹ And Yawasap took all the silver and gold that came into his hand, about seventy two talents of gold and silver, and also onyx stones and bdellium in great abundance, and Yawasap went and concealed them in four parts, and he concealed one part in the wilderness near the Sawap, and one part by the river Parath, and the third and fourth part he concealed in the desert opposite to the wilderness of Paras and Maday.³² And he took part of the gold and silver that was left, and gave it to all his brothers and to all his father's household, and to all the women of his father's household, and the rest he brought to the house of Paraih, about twenty talents of gold and silver.³³ And Yawasap gave all the gold and silver that was left to Paraih, and Paraih placed it in the treasury, and the days of the famine ceased after that in the land, and they sowed and reaped in the whole land, and they obtained their usual quantity year by year; they lacked nothing.³⁴ And Yawasap dwelt securely in Matzarayam, and the whole land was under his advice, and his father and all his brethren dwelt in the land of Gashan and took possession of it.³⁵ And Yawasap was very aged, advanced in days, and his two sons, Aparayam and Manashah, remained constantly in the house of Yaiqab, together with the children of the sons of Yaiqab their brethren, to learn the ways of the Adanay and his law.³⁶ And Yaiqab and his sons dwelt in the land of Matzarayam in the land of Gashan, and they took possession in it, and they were fruitful and multiplied in it.

56 And Yaiqab lived in the land of Matzarayam seventeen years, and the days of Yaiqab, and the years of his life were a hundred and forty seven years.² At that time Yaiqab was attacked with that illness of which he died and he sent and called for his son Yawasap from Matzarayam, and Yawasap his son came from Matzarayam and Yawasap came to his father.³ And Yaiqab said to Yawasap and to his sons, Behold I die, and the Alahayam of your ancestors will visit you, and bring you back to the land, which the Adanay swore to give to you and to your children after you, now therefore when I am dead, bury me in the cave which is in Makapalah in Chabarawan in the land of Kanain, near my ancestors.⁴ And Yaiqab made his sons swear to bury him in Makapalah, in Chabarawan, and his sons swore to him concerning this thing.⁵ And he commanded them, saying, Serve the Adanay your Alahayam, for he who delivered your fathers will also deliver you from all trouble.⁶ And Yaiqab said, Call all your children to me, and all the children of Jacob's sons came and sat before him, and Yaiqab blessed them, and he said to them, The Adanay Alahayam of your fathers shall grant you a thousand times as much and bless you, and may he give you the blessing of your father Abaraham; and all the children of Jacob's sons went forth on that day after he had blessed them.⁷ And on the next day Yaiqab again called for his sons, and they all assembled and came to him and sat before him, and Yaiqab on that day blessed his sons before his death, each man did he bless according to his blessing; behold it is written in the book of the law of the Adanay appertaining to Yasharaal.⁸ And Yaiqab said to

Yahawadah, I know my son that you are a mighty man for your brethren; reign over them, and your sons shall reign over their sons forever.⁹ Only teach your sons the bow and all the weapons of war, in order that they may fight the battles of their brother who will rule over his enemies.¹⁰ And Yaiqab again commanded his sons on that day, saying, Behold I shall be this day gathered to my people; carry me up from Matzarayam, and bury me in the cave of Makapalah as I have commanded you.¹¹ Howbeit take heed I pray you that none of your sons carry me, only yourselves, and this is the manner you shall do to me, when you carry my body to go with it to the land of Kanain to bury me,¹² Yahawadah, Yashashakar and Zabawalan shall carry my bier at the eastern side; Raawaban, Shamaiwan and Gad at the south, Aparayam, Manashah and Banayaman at the west, Wadan, Ashar and Napathalay at the north.¹³ Let not Laway carry with you, for he and his sons will carry the ark of the covenant of the Adanay with the Israelites in the camp, neither let Yawasap my son carry, for as a king so let his glory be; howbeit, Aparayam and Manashah shall be in their stead.¹⁴ Thus shall you do to me when you carry me away; do not neglect any thing of all that I command you; and it shall come to pass when you do this to me, that the Adanay will remember you favorably and your children after you forever.¹⁵ And you my sons, honor each his brother and his relative, and command your children and your children's children after you to serve the Adanay Alahayam of your ancestors all the days.¹⁶ In order that you may prolong your days in the land, you and your children and your children's children for ever, when you do what is good and upright in the sight of the Adanay your Alahayam, to go in all his ways.¹⁷ And you, Yawasap my son, forgive I pray you the prongs of your brethren and all their misdeeds in the injury that they heaped upon you, for Alahayam intended it for your and your children's benefit.¹⁸ And O my son leave not your brethren to the inhabitants of Matzarayam, neither hurt their feelings, for behold I consign them to the hand of Alahayam and in your hand to guard them from the Matzarayam; and the sons of Yaiqab answered their father saying, O, our father, all that you have commanded us, so will we do; may Alahayam only be with us.¹⁹ And Yaiqab said to his sons, So may Alahayam be with you when you keep all his ways; turn not from his ways either to the right or the left in performing what is good and upright in his sight.²⁰ For I know that many and grievous troubles will befall you in the latter days in the land, yea your children and children's children, only serve the Adanay and he will save you from all trouble.²¹ And it shall come to pass when you shall go after Alahayam to serve him and will teach your children after you, and your children's children, to know the Adanay, then will the Adanay raise up to you and your children a servant from amongst your children, and the Adanay will deliver you through his hand from all affliction, and bring you out of Matzarayam and bring you back to the land of your fathers to inherit it securely.²² And Yaiqab ceased commanding his sons, and he drew his feet into the bed, he died and was gathered to his people.²³ And Yawasap fell upon his father and he cried out and wept over him and he kissed him, and he called out in a bitter voice, and he said, O my father, my father.²⁴ And his son's wives and all his household came and fell upon Yaiqab, and they wept over him, and cried in a very loud voice concerning Yaiqab.²⁵ And all the sons of Yaiqab rose up together, and they tore their garments, and they all put sackcloth upon their loins, and they fell upon their faces, and they cast dust upon their heads toward the heavens.²⁶ And the thing was told to Osnath Joseph's wife, and she rose up and put on a sack and she with all the Matzarayam women with her came and mourned and wept for Yaiqab.²⁷ And also all the people of Matzarayam who knew Yaiqab came all on that day when they heard this thing, and all Matzarayam wept for many days.²⁸ And also from the land of Kanain did the women come to Matzarayam when they heard that Yaiqab was dead, and they wept for him in Matzarayam for seventy days.²⁹ And it came to pass after this that Yawasap commanded his servants the doctors to embalm his father with myrrh and frankincense and all manner of incense and perfume, and the doctors embalmed Yaiqab as Yawasap had commanded them.³⁰ And all the people of Matzarayam and the elders and all the inhabitants of the land of Gashan wept and mourned over Yaiqab, and all his sons and the children of his household lamented and mourned over their father Yaiqab many days.³¹ And after the days of his weeping had passed away, at the end of seventy days, Yawasap said to Paraih, I will go up and bury my father in the land of Kanain as he made me swear, and then I will return.³² And Paraih sent Yawasap, saying, Go up and bury your father as he said, and as he made you swear; and Yawasap rose up with all his brethren to go to the land of Kanain to bury their father Yaiqab as he had commanded them.³³ And Paraih commanded that it should be proclaimed throughout Matzarayam, saying, Whoever goes not up with Yawasap and his brethren to the land of Kanain to bury Yaiqab, shall die.³⁴ And all Matzarayam heard of Pharaoh's proclamation, and they all rose up together, and all the servants of Paraih, and the elders of his house, and all the elders of the land of Matzarayam went up with Yawasap, and all the officers and nobles of Paraih went up as the servants of Yawasap, and they went to bury Yaiqab in the land of Kanain.³⁵ And the sons of Yaiqab carried the bier upon which he lay; according to all that their father commanded them, so did his sons to him.³⁶ And the bier was of pure gold, and it was inlaid round about with onyx stones and bdellium; and the covering of the bier was gold woven work, joined with threads, and over them were hooks of onyx stones and bdellium.³⁷ And Yawasap placed upon the head of his father Yaiqab a large golden crown, and he put a golden scepter in his hand, and they surrounded the bier as was the custom of kings during their lives.³⁸ And all the troops of Matzarayam went before him in this array, at first all the mighty men of Paraih, and the mighty men of Yawasap, and after them the rest of the inhabitants of Matzarayam, and they were all girded with swords and equipped with coats of mail, and the trappings of war were upon them.³⁹ And all the weepers and mourners went at a distance opposite to the bier, going and weeping and lamenting, and the rest of the people went after the bier.⁴⁰ And Yawasap and his household went together near the bier barefooted and weeping, and the rest of Joseph's servants went around him; each man had his ornaments upon him, and they were all armed with their weapons of war.⁴¹ And fifty of Jacob's servants went in front of the bier, and they strewed along the road myrrh and aloes, and all manner of perfume, and all the sons of Yaiqab that carried the bier walked upon the perfumery, and the servants of Yaiqab went before them strewing the perfume along the road.⁴² And Yawasap went up with a heavy camp, and they did after this manner every day until they reached the land of Kanain, and they came to the threshing floor of Haatad, which was on the other side of Yadaran, and they mourned an exceeding great and heavy mourning in that place.⁴³ And all the kings of Kanain heard of this thing and they all went forth, each man from his house, thirty-one kings of Kanain, and they all came with their men to mourn and weep over Yaiqab.⁴⁴ And all these kings beheld Jacob's bier, and behold Joseph's crown was upon it, and they also put their crowns upon the bier, and encircled it with crowns.⁴⁵ And all these kings made in that place a great and heavy mourning with the sons of Yaiqab and Matzarayam over Yaiqab, for all the kings of Kanain knew the valor of Yaiqab and his sons.⁴⁶ And the report reached Ishaw, saying, Yaiqab died in Matzarayam, and his sons and all Matzarayam are conveying him to the land of Kanain to bury him.⁴⁷ And Ishaw heard this thing, and he was dwelling in mount Shaiyar, and he rose up with his sons and all his people and all his household, a people exceedingly great, and they came to mourn and weep over Yaiqab.⁴⁸ And it came to pass, when Ishaw came he mourned for his brother Yaiqab, and all Matzarayam and all Kanain again rose up and mourned a great mourning with Ishaw over Yaiqab in that place.⁴⁹ And Yawasap and his brethren brought their father Yaiqab from that place, and they went to Chabarawan to bury Yaiqab in the cave by his fathers.⁵⁰ And they came to Kireath-Arabai, to the cave, and as they came Ishaw stood with his sons against Yawasap and his brethren as a hindrance in the cave, saying, Yaiqab shall not be buried therein, for it belongs to us and to our father.⁵¹ And Yawasap and his brethren heard the words of Esau's sons, and they were exceedingly wroth, and Yawasap approached to Ishaw, saying, What is this thing which they have spoken? surely my father Yaiqab bought it from you for great riches after the death of Yatzachaq, now five and twenty years ago, and also all the land of Kanain he bought from you and from your sons, and your seed after you.⁵² And Yaiqab bought it for his sons and his seed after him for an inheritance for ever, and why speak you these things this day?⁵³ And Ishaw answered, saying, You speak falsely and utterest lies, for I sold not anything belonging to me in all this land, as you say, neither did my brother Yaiqab buy aught belonging to me in this land.⁵⁴ And Ishaw spoke these things in order to deceive Yawasap with his words, for Ishaw knew that Yawasap was not present in those days when Ishaw sold all belonging to him in the land of Kanain to Yaiqab.⁵⁵ And Yawasap said to Ishaw, Surely my father inserted these things with you in the record of purchase, and testified the record with witnesses, and behold it is with us in Matzarayam.⁵⁶ And Ishaw answered, saying to him, Bring the record, all that you will find in the record, so will we do.⁵⁷ And Yawasap called to Napathalay his brother, and he said, Hasten quickly, stay not, and run I pray you to Matzarayam and bring all the records; the record of the purchase, the sealed record and the open record, and also all the first records in which all the transactions of the birth-right are written, fetch you.⁵⁸ And you shall bring them to us here, that we may know from them all the words of Ishaw and his sons which they spoke this day.⁵⁹ And Napathalay hearkened to the voice of Yawasap and he hastened and ran to go down to Matzarayam, and Napathalay was lighter on foot than any of the stags that were upon the wilderness, for he would go upon ears of corn without crushing them.⁶⁰ And when Ishaw saw that Napathalay had gone to fetch the records, he and his sons increased their resistance against the cave, and Ishaw and all his people rose up against Yawasap and his brethren to battle.⁶¹ And all the sons of Yaiqab and the people of Matzarayam fought with Ishaw and his men, and the sons of Ishaw and his people were smitten before the sons of Yaiqab, and the sons of Yaiqab slew of Esau's people forty men.⁶² And Chashayam the son of Wadan, the son of Yaiqab, was at that time with Jacob's sons, but he was about a hundred cubits distant from the place of battle, for he remained with the children of Jacob's sons by Jacob's bier to guard it.⁶³ And Chashayam was dumb and deaf, still he understood the voice of consternation amongst men.⁶⁴ And he asked, saying, Why do you not bury the dead, and what is this great consternation? and they answered him the words of Ishaw and his sons; and he ran to Ishaw in the midst of the battle, and he slew Ishaw with a sword, and he cut off his head, and it sprang to a distance, and Ishaw fell amongst the people of the battle.⁶⁵ And when Chashayam did this thing the sons of Yaiqab prevailed over the sons of Ishaw, and the sons of Yaiqab buried their father Yaiqab by force in the cave, and the sons of Ishaw beheld it.⁶⁶ And Yaiqab was buried in Chabarawan, in the cave of Makapalah which Abraham had bought from the sons of Chath for the possession of a burial place, and he was buried in very costly garments.⁶⁷ And no king had such honor paid him as Yawasap paid to his father at his death, for he buried him with great honor like to the burial of kings.⁶⁸ And Yawasap and his brethren made a mourning of seven days for their father.

57 And it was after this that the sons of Ishaw waged war with the sons of Yaiqab, and the sons of Ishaw fought with the sons of Yaiqab in Chabarawan, and Ishaw was still lying dead, and not buried.² And the battle was heavy between them, and the sons of Ishaw were smitten before the sons of Yaiqab, and the sons of Yaiqab slew of the sons of Ishaw eighty men, and not one died of the people of the sons of Yaiqab; and the hand of Yawasap prevailed over all the people of the sons of Ishaw, and he took Tzapaw, the son of Alayapaz, the son of Ishaw, and fifty of his men captive, and he bound them with chains of iron, and gave them into the hand of his servants to bring them to Matzarayam.³ And it came to pass when the sons of Yaiqab had taken Tzapaw and his people

captive, all those that remained were greatly afraid of their lives from the house of Ishaw, lest they should also be taken captive, and they all fled with Alayapaz the son of Ishaw and his people, with Esau's body, and they went on their road to Mount Shaiyar.⁴ And they came to Mount Shaiyar and they buried Ishaw in Shaiyar, but they had not brought his head with them to Shaiyar, for it was buried in that place where the battle had been in Chabarawan.⁵ And it came to pass when the sons of Ishaw had fled from before the sons of Yaiqab, the sons of Yaiqab pursued them to the borders of Shaiyar, but they did not slay a single man from amongst them when they pursued them, for Esau's body which they carried with them excited their confusion, so they fled and the sons of Yaiqab turned back from them and came up to the place where their brethren were in Chabarawan, and they remained there on that day, and on the next day until they rested from the battle.⁶ And it came to pass on the third day they assembled all the sons of Shaiyar the Horite, and they assembled all the children of the east, a multitude of people like the sand of the sea, and they went and came down to Matzarayam to fight with Yawasap and his brethren, in order to deliver their brethren.⁷ And Yawasap and all the sons of Yaiqab heard that the sons of Ishaw and the children of the east had come upon them to battle in order to deliver their brethren.⁸ And Yawasap and his brethren and the strong men of Matzarayam went forth and fought in the city of Raimasas, and Yawasap and his brethren dealt out a tremendous blow amongst the sons of Ishaw and the children of the east.⁹ And they slew of them six hundred thousand men, and they slew amongst them all the mighty men of the children of Shaiyar the Horite; there were only a few of them left, and they slew also a great many of the children of the east, and of the children of Ishaw; and Alayapaz the son of Ishaw, and the children of the east all fled before Yawasap and his brethren.¹⁰ And Yawasap and his brethren pursued them until they came to Sakawath, and they yet slew of them in Sakawath thirty men, and the rest escaped and they fled each to his city.¹¹ And Yawasap and his brethren and the mighty men of Matzarayam turned back from them with joy and cheerfulness of heart, for they had smitten all their enemies.¹² And Tzapaw the son of Alayapaz and his men were still slaves in Matzarayam to the sons of Yaiqab, and their pains increased.¹³ And when the sons of Ishaw and the sons of Shaiyar returned to their land, the sons of Shaiyar saw that they had all fallen into the hands of the sons of Yaiqab, and the people of Matzarayam, on account of the battle of the sons of Ishaw.¹⁴ And the sons of Shaiyar said to the sons of Ishaw, You have seen and therefore you know that this camp was on your account, and not one mighty man or an adept in war remains.¹⁵ Now therefore go forth from our land, go from us to the land of Kanain to the land of the dwelling of your fathers; therefore shall your children inherit the effects of our children in latter days?¹⁶ And the children of Ishaw would not listen to the children of Shaiyar, and the children of Shaiyar considered to make war with them.¹⁷ And the children of Ishaw sent secretly to Angeas king of Africa, the same is Danahabah, saying,¹⁸ Send to us some of your men and let them come to us, and we will fight together with the children of Shaiyar the Horite, for they have resolved to fight with us to drive us away from the land.¹⁹ And Angeas king of Danahabah did so, for he was in those days friendly to the children of Ishaw, and Angeas sent five hundred valiant infantry to the children of Ishaw, and eight hundred cavalry.²⁰ And the children of Shaiyar sent to the children of the east and to the children of Madayan, saying, You have seen what the children of Ishaw have done to us, upon whose account we are almost all destroyed, in their battle with the sons of Yaiqab.²¹ Now therefore come to us and assist us, and we will fight them together, and we will drive them from the land and be avenged of the cause of our brethren who died for their sakes in their battle with their brethren the sons of Yaiqab.²² And all the children of the east listened to the children of Shaiyar, and they came to them about eight hundred men with drawn swords, and the children of Ishaw fought with the children of Shaiyar at that time in the wilderness of Paaran.²³ And the children of Shaiyar prevailed then over the sons of Ishaw, and the children of Shaiyar slew on that day of the children of Ishaw in that battle about two hundred men of the people of Angeas king of Danahabah.²⁴ And on the second day the children of Ishaw came again to fight a second time with the children of Shaiyar, and the battle was sore upon the children of Ishaw this second time, and it troubled them greatly on account of the children of Shaiyar.²⁵ And when the children of Ishaw saw that the children of Shaiyar were more powerful than they were, some men of the children of Ishaw turned and assisted the children of Shaiyar their enemies.²⁶ And there fell yet of the people of the children of Ishaw in the second battle fifty-eight men of the people at Angeas king of Danahabah.²⁷ And on the third day the children of Ishaw heard that some of their brethren had turned from them to fight against them in the second battle; and the children of Ishaw mourned when they heard this thing.²⁸ And they said, What shall we do to our brethren who turned from us to assist the children of Shaiyar our enemies? and the children of Ishaw again sent to Angeas king of Danahabah, saying,²⁹ Send to us again other men that with them we may fight with the children of Shaiyar, for they have already twice been heavier than we were.³⁰ And Angeas again sent to the children of Ishaw about six hundred valiant men, and they came to assist the children of Ishaw.³¹ And in ten days' time the children of Ishaw again waged war with the children of Shaiyar in the wilderness of Paaran, and the battle was very severe upon the children of Shaiyar, and the children of Ishaw prevailed at this time over the children of Shaiyar, and the children of Shaiyar were smitten before the children of Ishaw, and the children of Ishaw slew from them about two thousand men.³² And all the mighty men of the children of Shaiyar died in this battle, and there only remained their young children that were left in their cities.³³ And all Madayan and the children of the east betook themselves to flight from the battle, and they left the children of Shaiyar and fled when they saw that the battle was severe upon them, and the children of Ishaw pursued all the children of the east until they reached their land.³⁴ And the children of Ishaw slew yet of them about two hundred and fifty men and from the people of the children of Ishaw there fell in that battle about thirty men, but this evil came upon them through their brethren turning from them to assist the children of Shaiyar the Horite, and the children of Ishaw again heard of the evil doings of their brethren, and they again mourned on account of this thing.³⁵ And it came to pass after the battle, the children of Ishaw turned back and came home to Shaiyar, and the children of Ishaw slew those who had remained in the land of the children of Shaiyar; they slew also their wives and little ones, they left not a soul alive except fifty young lads and damsels whom they suffered to live, and the children of Ishaw did not put them to death, and the lads became their slaves, and the damsels they took for wives.³⁶ And the children of Ishaw dwelt in Shaiyar in the place of the children of Shaiyar, and they inherited their land and took possession of it.³⁷ And the children of Ishaw took all belonging in the land to the children of Shaiyar, also their flocks, their bullocks and their goods, and all belonging to the children of Shaiyar, did the children of Ishaw take, and the children of Ishaw dwelt in Shaiyar in the place of the children of Shaiyar to this day, and the children of Ishaw divided the land into divisions to the five sons of Ishaw, according to their families.³⁸ And it came to pass in those days, that the children of Ishaw resolved to crown a king over them in the land of which they became possessed. And they said to each other, Not so, for he shall reign over us in our land, and we shall be under his counsel and he shall fight our battles, against our enemies, and they did so.³⁹ And all the children of Ishaw swore, saying, That none of their brethren should ever reign over them, but a strange man who is not of their brethren, for the souls of all the children of Ishaw were embittered every man against his son, brother and friend, on account of the evil they sustained from their brethren when they fought with the children of Shaiyar.⁴⁰ Therefore the sons of Ishaw swore, saying, From that day forward they would not choose a king from their brethren, but one from a strange land to this day.⁴¹ And there was a man there from the people of Angeas

king of Danahabah; his name was Balai the son of Baiwar, who was a very valiant man, beautiful and comely and wise in all wisdom, and a man of sense and counsel; and there was none of the people of Angeas like to him.⁴² And all the children of Ishaw took him and anointed him and they crowned him for a king, and they bowed down to him, and they said to him, May the king live, may the king live.⁴³ And they spread out the sheet, and they brought him each man earrings of gold and silver or rings or bracelets, and they made him very rich in silver and in gold, in onyx stones and bdellium, and they made him a royal throne, and they placed a regal crown upon his head, and they built a palace for him and he dwelt therein, and he became king over all the children of Ishaw.⁴⁴ And the people of Angeas took their hire for their battle from the children of Ishaw, and they went and returned at that time to their master in Danahabah.⁴⁵ And Balai reigned over the children of Ishaw thirty years, and the children of Ishaw dwelt in the land instead of the children of Shaiyar, and they dwelt securely in their stead to this day.

58 And it came to pass in the thirty-second year of the Israelites going down to Matzarayam, that is in the seventy-first year of the life of Yawasap, in that year died Paraih king of Matzarayam, and Magron his son reigned in his stead.² And Paraih commanded Yawasap before his death to be a father to his son, Magron, and that Magron should be under the care of Yawasap and under his counsel.³ And all Matzarayam consented to this thing that Yawasap should be king over them, for all the Matzarayam loved Yawasap as of heretofore, only Magron the son of Paraih sat upon, his father's throne, and he became king in those days in his father's stead.⁴ Magron was forty-one years old when he began to reign, and forty years he reigned in Matzarayam, and all Matzarayam called his name Paraih after the name of his father, as it was their custom to do in Matzarayam to every king that reigned over them.⁵ And it came to pass when Paraih reigned in his father's stead, he placed the laws of Matzarayam and all the affairs of government in the hand of Yawasap, as his father had commanded him.⁶ And Yawasap became king over Matzarayam, for he superintended over all Matzarayam, and all Matzarayam was under his care and under his counsel, for all Matzarayam inclined to Yawasap after the death of Paraih, and they loved him exceedingly to reign over them.⁷ But there were some people amongst them, who did not like him, saying, No stranger shall reign over us; still the whole government of Matzarayam devolved in those days upon Yawasap, after the death of Paraih, he being the regulator, doing as he liked throughout the land without any one interfering.⁸ And all Matzarayam was under the care of Yawasap, and Yawasap made war with all his surrounding enemies, and he subdued them; also all the land and all the Palashath, to the borders of Kanain, did Yawasap subdue, and they were all under his power and they gave a yearly tax to Yawasap.⁹ And Paraih king of Matzarayam sat upon his throne in his father's stead, but he was under the control and counsel of Yawasap, as he was at first under the control of his father.¹⁰ Neither did he reign but in the land of Matzarayam only, under the counsel of Yawasap, but Yawasap reigned over the whole country at that time, from Matzarayam to the great river Parath.¹¹ And Yawasap was successful in all his ways, and the Adanay was with him, and the Adanay gave Yawasap additional wisdom, and honor, and glory, and love toward him in the hearts of the Matzarayam and throughout the land, and Yawasap reigned over the whole country forty years.¹² And all the countries of the Palashath and Kanain and Tzayadawan, and on the other side of Yaradan, brought presents to Yawasap all his days, and the whole country was in the hand of Yawasap, and they brought to him a yearly tribute as it was regulated, for Yawasap had fought against all his surrounding enemies and subdued them, and the whole country was in the hand of Yawasap, and Yawasap sat securely upon his throne in Matzarayam.¹³ And also all his brethren the sons of Yaiqab dwelt securely in the land, all the days of Yawasap, and they were fruitful and multiplied exceedingly in the land, and they served the Adanay all their days, as their father Yaiqab had commanded them.¹⁴ And it came to pass at the end of many days and years, when the children of Ishaw were dwelling quietly in their land with Balai their king, that the children of Ishaw were fruitful and multiplied in the land, and they resolved to go and fight with the sons of Yaiqab and all Matzarayam, and to deliver their brother Tzapaw, the son of Alayapaz, and his men, for they were yet in those days slaves to Yawasap.¹⁵ And the children of Ishaw sent to all the children of the east, and they made peace with them, and all the children of the east came to them to go with the children of Ishaw to Matzarayam to battle.¹⁶ And there came also to them of the people of Angeas, king of Danahabah, and they also sent to the children of Yashamaial and they also came to them.¹⁷ And all this people assembled and came to Shaiyar to assist the children of Ishaw in their battle, and this camp was very large and heavy with people, numerous as the sand of the sea, about eight hundred thousand men, infantry and cavalry, and all these troops went down to Matzarayam to fight with the sons of Yaiqab, and they encamped by Raimasas.¹⁸ And Yawasap went forth with his brethren with the mighty men of Matzarayam, about six hundred men, and they fought with them in the land of Raimasas; and the sons of Yaiqab at that time again fought with the children of Ishaw, in the fiftieth year of the sons of Yaiqab going down to Matzarayam, that is the thirtieth year of the reign of Balai over the children of Ishaw in Shaiyar.¹⁹ And the Adanay gave all the mighty men of Ishaw and the children of the east into the hand of Yawasap and his brethren, and the people of the children of Ishaw and the children of the east were smitten before Yawasap.²⁰ And of the people of Ishaw and the children of the east that were slain, there fell before the sons of Yaiqab about two hundred thousand men, and their king Balai the son of Baiwar fell with them in the battle, and when the children of Ishaw saw that their king had fallen in battle and was dead, their hands became weak in the combat.²¹ And Yawasap and his brethren and all Matzarayam were still smiting the people of the house of Ishaw, and all Esau's people were afraid of the sons of Yaiqab and fled from before them.²² And Yawasap and his brethren and all Matzarayam pursued them a day's journey, and they slew yet from them about three hundred men, continuing to smite them in the road; and they afterward turned back from them.²³ And Yawasap and all his brethren returned to Matzarayam, not one man was missing from them, but of the Matzarayam there fell twelve men.²⁴ And when Yawasap returned to Matzarayam he ordered Tzapaw and his men to be additionally bound, and they bound them in irons and they increased their grief.²⁵ And all the people of the children of Ishaw, and the children of the east, returned in shame each to his city, for all the mighty men that were with them had fallen in battle.²⁶ And when the children of Ishaw saw that their king had died in battle they hastened and took a man from the people of the children of the east; his name was Yawabab the son of Zarach, from the land of Botzrah, and they caused him to reign over them instead of Balai their king.²⁷ And Yawabab sat upon the throne of Balai as king in his stead, and Yawabab reigned in Adawam over all the children of Ishaw ten years, and the children of Ishaw went no more to fight with the sons of Yaiqab from that day forward, for the sons of Ishaw knew the valor of the sons of Yaiqab, and they were greatly afraid of them.²⁸ But from that day forward the children of Ishaw hated the sons of Yaiqab, and the hatred and enmity were very strong between them all the days, to this day.²⁹ And it came to pass after this, at the end of ten years, Yawabab, the son of Zarach, from Botzrah, died, and the children of Ishaw took a man whose name was Chawasham, from the land of Thayaman, and they made him king over them instead of Yawabab, and Chawasham reigned in Adawam over all the children of Ishaw for twenty years.³⁰ And Yawasap, king of Matzarayam, and his brethren, and all the children of Yasharaal dwelt securely in Matzarayam in those days, together with all the children of Yawasap and his brethren, having no hindrance or evil accident and the land of Matzarayam was at that time at rest from war in the days of Yawasap and his brethren.

59 And these are the names of the sons of Yasharaal who dwelt in Matzarayam, who had come with Yaiqab, all the sons of Yaiqab came to Matzarayam, every man with his household.² The children of Laah were Raawaban, Shamaian, Laway, Yahawadah, Yashashakar and Zabawalan, and their sister Dayanah.³ And the sons of Rachal were Yawasap and Banayaman.⁴ And the sons of Zalalah, the handmaid of Laah, were Gad and Ashar.⁵ And the sons of Balahah, the handmaid of Rachal, were Wadan and Napathalay.⁶ And these were their offspring that were born to them in the land of Kanain, before they came to Matzarayam with their father Yaiqab.⁷ The sons of Raawaban were Chanoth, Palawaa, Chetzron and Karamay.⁸ And the sons of Shamaian were Yamawaal, Yamayan, Ahad, Yakayan, Zochar and Shaawal, the son of the Canaanitish woman.⁹ And the children of Laway were Garashawan, Kehath and Mararay, and their sister Yawakabad, who was born to them in their going down to Matzarayam.¹⁰ And the sons of Yahawadah were Er, Awanan, Shalach, Paratz and Zarach.¹¹ And Er and Awanan died in the land of Kanain; and the sons of Paratz were Chezron and Chamawal.¹² And the sons of Yashashakar were Thawalai, Puvah, Ayawab and Shamarawan.¹³ And the sons of Zabawalan were Sarad, Ayalawan and Jachleel, and the son of Wadan was Chashayam.¹⁴ And the sons of Napathalay were Jachzeel, Gawanay, Jetzer and Shilam.¹⁵ And the sons of Gad were Tzapayawan, Chagay, Shawanay, Atzabawan, Iray, Arawaday and Araalay.¹⁶ And the children of Ashar were Yamanah, Jishvah, Jishvi, Barayaih and their sister Sharach; and the sons of Barayaih were Chabar and Malakayaal.¹⁷ And the sons of Banayaman were Balai, Bakar, Ashabal, Garaa, Naiman, Achay, Raash, Mupim, Chupim and Ord.¹⁸ And the sons of Yawasap, that were born to him in Matzarayam, were Manashah and Aparayam.¹⁹ And all the souls that went forth from the loins of Yaiqab, were seventy souls; these are they who came with Yaiqab their father to Matzarayam to dwell there: and Yawasap and all his brethren dwelt securely in Matzarayam, and they ate of the best of Matzarayam all the days of the life of Yawasap.²⁰ And Yawasap lived in the land of Matzarayam ninety-three years, and Yawasap reigned over all Matzarayam eighty years.²¹ And when the days of Yawasap drew nigh that he should die, he sent and called for his brethren and all his father's household, and they all came together and sat before him.²² And Yawasap said to his brethren and to the whole of his father's household, Behold I die, and Alahayam will surely visit you and bring you up from this land to the land which he swore to your fathers to give to them.²³ And it shall be when Alahayam shall visit you to bring you up from here to the land of your fathers, then bring up my bones with you from here.²⁴ And Yawasap made the sons of Yasharaal to swear for their seed after them, saying, Alahayam will surely visit you and you shall bring up my bones with you from here.²⁵ And it came to pass after this that Yawasap died in that year, the seventy-first year of the Israelites going down to Matzarayam.²⁶ And Yawasap was one hundred and ten years old when he died in the land of Matzarayam, and all his brethren and all his servants rose up and they embalmed Yawasap, as was their custom, and his brethren and all Matzarayam mourned over him for seventy days.²⁷ And they put Yawasap in a coffin filled with spices and all sorts of perfume, and they buried him by the side of the river, that is Shayachawar, and his sons and all his brethren, and the whole of his father's household made a seven day's mourning for him.²⁸ And it came to pass after the death of Yawasap, all the Matzarayam began in those days to rule over the children of Yasharaal, and Paraih, king of Matzarayam, who reigned in his father's stead, took all the laws of Matzarayam and conducted the whole government of Matzarayam under his counsel, and he reigned securely over his people.

60 And when the year came round, being the seventy-second year from the Israelites going down to Matzarayam, after the death of Yawasap, Tzapaw, the son of Alayapaz, the son of Ishaw, fled from Matzarayam, he and his men, and they went away.² And he came to Africa, which is Danahabah, to Angeas king of Africa, and Angeas received them with great honor, and he made Tzapaw the captain of his host.³ And Tzapaw found favor in the sight of Angeas and in the sight of his people, and Tzapaw was captain of the host to Angeas king of Africa for many days.⁴ And Tzapaw enticed Angeas king of Africa to collect all his army to go and fight with the Matzarayam, and with the sons of Yaiqab, and to avenge of them the cause of his brethren.⁵ But Angeas would not listen to Tzapaw to do this thing, for Angeas knew the strength of the sons of Yaiqab, and what they had done to his army in their warfare with the children of Ishaw.⁶ And Tzapaw was in those days very great in the sight of Angeas and in the sight of all his people, and he continually enticed them to make war against Matzarayam, but they would not.⁷ And it came to pass in those days there was in the land of Kathayam a man in the city of Puzimna, whose name was Uzu, and he became degenerately deified by the children of Kathayam, and the man died and had no son, only one daughter whose name was Jania.⁸ And the damsel was exceedingly beautiful, comely and intelligent, there was none seen like to her for beauty and wisdom throughout the land.⁹ And the people of Angeas king of Africa saw her and they came and praised her to him, and Angeas sent to the children of Kathayam, and he requested to take her to himself for a wife, and the people of Kathayam consented to give her to him for a wife.¹⁰ And when the messengers of Angeas were going forth from the land of Kathayam to take their journey, behold the messengers of Turnus king of Bibentu came to Kathayam, for Turnus king of Bibentu also sent his messengers to request Jania for him, to take to himself for a wife, for all his men had also praised her to him, therefore he sent all his servants to her.¹¹ And the servants of Turnus came to Kathayam, and they asked for Jania, to be taken to Turnus their king for a wife.¹² And the people of Kathayam said to them, We cannot give her, because Angeas king of Africa desired her to take her to him for a wife before you came, and that we should give her to him, and now therefore we cannot do this thing to deprive Angeas of the damsel in order to give her to Turnus.¹³ For we are greatly afraid of Angeas lest he come in battle against us and destroy us, and Turnus your master will not be able to deliver us from his hand.¹⁴ And when the messengers of Turnus heard all the words of the children of Kathayam, they turned back to their master and told him all the words of the children of Kathayam.¹⁵ And the children of Kathayam sent a memorial to Angeas, saying, Behold Turnus has sent for Jania to take her to him for a wife, and thus have we answered him; and we heard that he has collected his whole army to go to war against you, and he intends to pass by the road of Sardunia to fight against your brother Lucas, and after that he will come to fight against you.¹⁶ And Angeas heard the words of the children of Kathayam which they sent to him in the record, and his anger was kindled and he rose up and assembled his whole army and came through the islands of the sea, the road to Sardunia, to his brother Lucas king of Sardunia.¹⁷ And Niblos, the son of Lucas, heard that his uncle Angeas was coming, and he went out to meet him with a heavy army, and he kissed him and embraced him, and Niblos said to Angeas, When you ask my father after his welfare, when I shall go with you to fight with Turnus, ask of him to make me captain of his host, and Angeas did so, and he came to his brother and his brother came to meet him, and he asked him after his welfare.¹⁸ And Angeas asked his brother Lucas after his welfare, and to make his son Niblos captain of his host, and Lucas did so, and Angeas and his brother Lucas rose up and they went toward Turnus to battle, and there was with them a great army and a heavy people.¹⁹ And he came in ships, and they came into the province of Ashtorash, and behold Turnus came toward them, for he went forth to Sardunia, and intended to destroy it and afterward to pass on from there to Angeas to fight with him.²⁰ And Angeas and Lucas his brother met Turnus in the valley of Canopia, and the battle was strong and mighty between them in that place.²¹ And the battle was severe upon Lucas king of Sardunia, and all his army fell, and Niblos his son fell also in that battle.²² And his uncle Angeas commanded his servants and they made a golden coffin for Niblos and they put him into it, and Angeas again waged battle toward Turnus, and Angeas was stronger than he, and he slew him, and he smote all his people with the edge of the sword, and Angeas avenged the cause of Niblos his brother's son and the cause of the army of his brother Lucus.²³ And when Turnus died, the hands of those that survived the battle became weak, and they fled from before Angeas and Lucus his brother.²⁴ And Angeas and his brother Lucus pursued them to the highroad, which is between Alphanu and Romah, and they slew the whole army of Turnus with the edge of the sword.²⁵ And Lucus king of Sardunia commanded his servants that they should make a coffin of brass, and that they should place therein the body of his son Niblos, and they buried him in that place.²⁶ And they built upon it a high tower there upon the highroad, and they called its name after the name of Niblos to this day, and they also buried Turnus king of Bibentu there in that place with Niblos.²⁷ And behold upon the highroad between Alphanu and Romah the grave of Niblos is on one side and the grave of Turnus on the other, and a pavement between them to this day.²⁸ And when Niblos was buried, Lucus his father returned with his army to his land Sardunia, and Angeas his brother king of Africa went with his people to the city of Bibentu, that is the city of Turnus.²⁹ And the inhabitants of Bibentu heard of his fame and they were greatly afraid of him, and they went forth to meet him with weeping and supplication, and the inhabitants of Bibentu entreated of Angeas not to slay them nor destroy their city; and he did so, for Bibentu was in those days reckoned as one of the cities of the children of Kathayam; therefore he did not destroy the city.³⁰ But from that day forward the troops of the king of Africa would go to Kathayam to spoil and plunder it, and whenever they went, Tzapaw the captain of the host of Angeas would go with them.³¹ And it was after this that Angeas turned with his army and they came to the city of Puzimna, and Angeas took thence Jania the daughter of Uzu for a wife and brought her to his city to Africa.

61 And it came to pass at that time Paraih king of Matzarayam commanded all his people to make for him a strong palace in Matzarayam.² And he also commanded the sons of Yaiqab to assist the Matzarayam in the building, and the Matzarayam made a beautiful and elegant palace for a royal habitation, and he dwelt therein and he renewed his government and he reigned securely.³ And Zabawalan the son of Yaiqab died in that year, that is the seventy-second year of the going down of the Israelites to Matzarayam, and Zabawalan died a hundred and fourteen years old, and was put into a coffin and given into the hands of his children.⁴ And in the seventy-fifth year died his brother Shamaiwan, he was a hundred and twenty years old at his death, and he was also put into a coffin and given into the hands of his children.⁵ And Tzapaw the son of Alayapaz the son of Ishaw, captain of the host to Angeas king of Danahabah, was still daily enticing Angeas to prepare for battle to fight with the sons of Yaiqab in Matzarayam, and Angeas was unwilling to do this thing, for his servants had related to him all the might of the sons of Yaiqab, what they had done to them in their battle with the children of Ishaw.⁶ And Tzapaw was in those days daily enticing Angeas to fight with the sons of Yaiqab in those days.⁷ And after some time Angeas hearkened to the words of Tzapaw and consented to him to fight with the sons of Yaiqab in Matzarayam, and Angeas got all his people in order, a people numerous as the sand which is upon the sea shore, and he formed his resolution to go to Matzarayam to battle.⁸ And amongst the servants of Angeas was a youth fifteen years old, Balaim the son of Baiwar was his name and the youth was very wise and understood the art of witchcraft.⁹ And Angeas said to Balaim, Conjure for us, I pray you, with the witchcraft, that we may know who will prevail in this battle to which we are now proceeding.¹⁰ And Balaim ordered that they should bring him wax, and he made thereof the likeness of chariots and horsemen representing the army of Angeas and the army of Matzarayam, and he put them in the cunningly prepared waters that he had for that purpose, and he took in his hand the boughs of myrtle trees, and he exercised his cunning, and he joined them over the water, and there appeared to him in the water the resembling images of the hosts of Angeas falling before the resembling images of the Matzarayam and the sons of Yaiqab.¹¹ And Balaim told this thing to Angeas, and Angeas despaired and did not arm himself to go down to Matzarayam to battle, and he remained in his city.¹² And when Tzapaw the son of Alayapaz saw that Angeas despaired of going forth to battle with the Matzarayam, Tzapaw fled from Angeas from Africa, and he went and came to Kathayam.¹³ And all the people of Kathayam received him with great honor, and they hired him to fight their battles all the days, and Tzapaw became exceedingly rich in those days, and the troops of the king of Africa still spread themselves in those days, and the children of Kathayam assembled and went to Mount Cuptizia on account of the troops of Angeas king of Africa, who were advancing upon them.¹⁴ And it was one day that Tzapaw lost a young heifer, and he went to seek it, and he heard it lowing round about the mountain.¹⁵ And Tzapaw went and he saw and behold there was a large cave at the bottom of the mountain, and there was a great stone there at the entrance of the cave, and Tzapaw split the stone and he came into the cave and he looked and behold, a large animal was devouring the ox; from the middle upward it resembled a man, and from the middle downward it resembled an animal, and Tzapaw rose up against the animal and slew it with his swords.¹⁶ And the inhabitants of Kathayam heard of this thing, and they rejoiced exceedingly, and they said, What shall we do to this man who has slain this animal that devoured our cattle?¹⁷ And they all assembled to consecrate one day in the year to him, and they called the name thereof Tzapaw after his name, and they brought to him drink offerings year after year on that day, and they brought to him gifts.¹⁸ At that time Jania the daughter of Uzu wife of king Angeas became ill, and her illness was heavily felt by Angeas and his officers, and Angeas said to his wise men, What shall I do to Jania and how shall I heal her from her illness? And his wise men said to him, Because the air of our country is not like the air of the land of Kathayam, and our water is not like their water, therefore from this has the queen become ill.¹⁹ For through the change of air and water she became ill, and also because in her country she drank only the water which came from Purmah, which her ancestors had brought up with bridges.²⁰ And Angeas commanded his servants, and they brought to him in vessels of the waters of Purmah belonging to Kathayam, and they weighed those waters with all the waters of the land of Africa, and they found those waters lighter than the waters of Africa.²¹ And Angeas saw this thing, and he commanded all his officers to assemble the hewers of stone in thousands and tens of thousands, and they hewed stone without number, and the builders came and they built an exceedingly strong bridge, and they conveyed the spring of water from the land of Kathayam to Africa, and those waters were for Jania the queen and for all her concerns, to drink from and to bake, wash and bathe therewith, and also to water therewith all seed from which food can be obtained, and all fruit of the ground.²² And the king commanded that they should bring of the soil of Kathayam in large ships, and they also brought stones to build therewith, and the builders built palaces for Jania the queen, and the queen became healed of her illness.²³ And at the revolution of the year the troops of Africa continued coming to the land of Kathayam to plunder as usual, and Tzapaw son of Alayapaz heard their report, and he gave orders concerning them and he fought with them, and they fled before him, and he delivered the land of Kathayam from them.²⁴ And the children of Kathayam saw the valor of Tzapaw, and the children of Kathayam resolved and they made Tzapaw king over them, and he became king over them, and whilst he reigned they went to subdue the children of Thabal, and all the surrounding islands.²⁵ And their king Tzapaw went at their head and they made war with Thabal and the islands, and they subdued them, and when they returned from the battle they renewed his government for him, and they built for him a very large palace for his royal habitation and seat, and they made a large throne for him, and Tzapaw reigned over the whole land of Kathayam and over the land of Italia fifty years.

62 In that year, being the seventy-ninth year of the Israelites going down to Matzarayam, died Raawaban the son of Yaiqab, in the land of Matzarayam; Raawaban was a hundred and twenty-five years old when he died, and they put him into a coffin, and he was given into the hands of his children.² And in the eightieth year died his brother Wadan; he was a hundred and twenty years at his death, and he was also put into a coffin and given into the hands of his children.³ And in that year died Chawasham king of Adawam, and after him reigned Hadad the son of Badad, for thirty-five years; and in the eighty-first year died Yashashakar the son of Yaiqab, in Matzarayam, and Yashashakar was a hundred and twenty-two years old at his death, and he was put into a coffin in Matzarayam, and given into the hands of his children.⁴ And in the eighty-second year died Ashar his brother, he was a hundred and twenty-three years old at his death, and he was placed in a coffin in Matzarayam, and given into the hands of his children.⁵ And in the eighty-third year died Gad, he was a hundred and twenty-five years old at his death, and he was put into a coffin in Matzarayam, and given into the hands of his children.⁶ And it came to pass in the eighty-fourth year, that is the fiftieth year of the reign of Hadad, son of Badad, king of Adawam, that Hadad assembled all the children of Ishaw, and he got his whole army in readiness, about four hundred thousand men, and he directed his way to the land of Mawaab, and he went to fight with Mawaab and to make them tributary to him.⁷ And the children of Mawaab heard this thing, and they were very much afraid, and they sent to the children of Madayan to assist them in fighting with Hadad, son of Badad, king of Adawam.⁸ And Hadad came to the land of Mawaab, and Mawaab and the children of Madayan went out to meet him, and they placed themselves in battle array against him in the field of Mawaab.⁹ And Hadad fought with Mawaab, and there fell of the children of Mawaab and the children of Madayan many slain ones, about two hundred thousand men.¹⁰ And the battle was very severe upon Mawaab, and when the children of Mawaab saw that the battle was sore upon them, they weakened their hands and turned their backs, and left the children of Madayan to carry on the battle.¹¹ And the children of Madayan knew not the intentions of Mawaab, but they strengthened themselves in battle and fought with Hadad and all his host, and all Madayan fell before him.¹² And Hadad smote all Madayan with a heavy smiting, and he slew them with the edge of the sword, he left none remaining of those who came to assist Mawaab.¹³ And when all the children of Madayan had perished in battle, and the children at Mawaab had escaped, Hadad made all Mawaab at that time tributary to him, and they became under his hand, and they gave a yearly tax as it was ordered, and Hadad turned and went back to his land.¹⁴ And at the revolution of the year, when the rest of the people of Madayan that were in the land heard that all their brethren had fallen in battle with Hadad for the sake of Mawaab, because the children of Mawaab had turned their backs in battle and left Madayan to fight, then five of the princes of Madayan resolved with the rest of their brethren who remained in their land, to fight with Mawaab to avenge the cause of their brethren.¹⁵ And the children of Madayan sent to all their brethren the children of the east, and all their brethren, all the children of Qatawarah came to assist Madayan to fight with Mawaab.¹⁶ And the children of Mawaab heard this thing, and they were greatly afraid that all the children of the east had assembled together against them for battle, and they the children of Mawaab sent a memorial to the land of Adawam to Hadad the son of Badad, saying,¹⁷ Come now to us and assist us and we will smite Madayan, for they all assembled together and have come against us with all their brethren the children of the east to battle, to avenge the cause of Madayan that fell in battle.¹⁸ And Hadad, son of Badad, king of Adawam, went forth with his whole army and went to the land of Mawaab to fight with Madayan, and Madayan and the children of the east fought with Mawaab in the field of Mawaab, and the battle was very fierce between them.¹⁹ And Hadad smote all the children of Madayan and the children of the east with the edge of the sword, and Hadad at that time delivered Mawaab from the hand of Madayan, and those that remained of Madayan and of the children of the east fled before Hadad and his army, and Hadad pursued them to their land, and

smote them with a very heavy slaughter, and the slain fell in the road.²⁰ And Hadad delivered Mawaab from the hand of Madayan, for all the children of Madayan had fallen by the edge of the sword, and Hadad turned and went back to his land.²¹ And from that day forth, the children of Madayan hated the children of Mawaab, because they had fallen in battle for their sake, and there was a great and mighty enmity between them all the days.²² And all that were found of Madayan in the road of the land of Mawaab perished by the sword of Mawaab, and all that were found of Mawaab in the road of the land of Madayan, perished by the sword of Madayan; thus did Madayan to Mawaab and Mawaab to Madayan for many days.²³ And it came to pass at that time that Yahawadah the son of Yaiqab died in Matzarayam, in the eighty-sixth year of Jacob's going down to Matzarayam, and Yahawadah was a hundred and twenty-nine years old at his death, and they embalmed him and put him into a coffin, and he was given into the hands of his children.²⁴ And in the eighty-ninth year died Napathalay, he was a hundred and thirty-two years old, and he was put into a coffin and given into the hands of his children.²⁵ And it came to pass in the ninety-first year of the Israelites going down to Matzarayam, that is in the thirtieth year of the reign of Tzapaw the son of Alayapaz, the son of Ishaw, over the children of Kathayam, the children of Africa came upon the children of Kathayam to plunder them as usual, but they had not come upon them for these thirteen years.²⁶ And they came to them in that year, and Tzapaw the son of Alayapaz went out to them with some of his men and smote them desperately, and the troops of Africa fled from before Tzapaw and the slain fell before him, and Tzapaw and his men pursued them, going on and smiting them until they were near to Africa.²⁷ And Angeas king of Africa heard the thing which Tzapaw had done, and it vexed him exceedingly, and Angeas was afraid of Tzapaw all the days.

63 And in the ninety-third year died Laway, the son of Yaiqab, in Matzarayam, and Laway was a hundred and thirty-seven years old when he died, and they put him into a coffin and he was given into the hands of his children.² And it came to pass after the death of Laway, when all Matzarayam saw that the sons of Yaiqab the brethren of Yawasap were dead, all the Matzarayam began to afflict the children of Yaiqab, and to embitter their lives from that day to the day of their going forth from Matzarayam, and they took from their hands all the vineyards and fields which Yawasap had given to them, and all the elegant houses in which the people of Yasharaal lived, and all the fat of Matzarayam, the Matzarayam took all from the sons of Yaiqab in those days.³ And the hand of all Matzarayam became more grievous in those days against the children of Yasharaal, and the Matzarayam injured the Israelites until the children of Yasharaal were wearied of their lives on account of the Matzarayam.⁴ And it came to pass in those days, in the hundred and second year of Israel's going down to Matzarayam, that Paraih king of Matzarayam died, and Melol his son reigned in his stead, and all the mighty men of Matzarayam and all that generation which knew Yawasap and his brethren died in those days.⁵ And another generation rose up in their stead, which had not known the sons of Yaiqab and all the good which they had done to them, and all their might in Matzarayam.⁶ Therefore all Matzarayam began from that day forth to embitter the lives of the sons of Yaiqab, and to afflict them with all manner of hard labor, because they had not known their ancestors who had delivered them in the days of the famine.⁷ And this was also from the Adanay, for the children of Yasharaal, to benefit them in their latter days, in order that all the children of Yasharaal might know the Adanay their Alahayam.⁸ And in order to know the signs and mighty wonders which the Adanay would do in Matzarayam on account of his people Yasharaal, in order that the children of Yasharaal might fear the Adanay Alahayam of their ancestors, and walk in all his ways, they and their seed after them all the days.⁹ Melol was twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned ninety-four years, and all Matzarayam called his name Paraih after the name of his father, as it was their custom to do to every king who reigned over them in Matzarayam.¹⁰ At that time all the troops of Angeas king of Africa

went forth to spread along the land of Kathayam as usual for plunder.¹¹ And Tzapaw the son of Alayapaz the son of Ishaw heard their report, and he went forth to meet them with his army, and he fought them there in the road.¹² And Tzapaw smote the troops of the king of Africa with the edge of the sword, and left none remaining of them, and not even one returned to his master in Africa.¹³ And Angeas heard of this which Tzapaw the son of Alayapaz had done to all his troops, that he had destroyed them, and Angeas assembled all his troops, all the men of the land of Africa, a people numerous like the sand by the sea shore.¹⁴ And Angeas sent to Lucus his brother, saying, Come to me with all your men and help me to smite Tzapaw and all the children of Kathayam who have destroyed my men, and Lucus came with his whole army, a very great force, to assist Angeas his brother to fight with Tzapaw and the children of Kathayam.¹⁵ And Tzapaw and the children of Kathayam heard this thing, and they were greatly afraid and a great terror fell upon their hearts.¹⁶ And Tzapaw also sent a letter to the land of Adawam to Hadad the son of Badad king of Adawam and to all the children of Ishaw, saying,¹⁷ I have heard that Angeas king of Africa is coming to us with his brother for battle against us, and we are greatly afraid of him, for his army is very great, particularly as he comes against us with his brother and his army likewise.¹⁸ Now therefore come you also up with me and help me, and we will fight together against Angeas and his brother Lucus, and you will save us out of their hands, but if not, know you that we shall all die.¹⁹ And the children of Ishaw sent a letter to the children of Kathayam and to Tzapaw their king, saying, We cannot fight against Angeas and his people for a covenant of peace has been between us these many years, from the days of Balai the first king, and from the days of Yawasap the son of Yaiqab king of Matzarayam, with whom we fought on the other side of Yaradan when he buried his father.²⁰ And when Tzapaw heard the words of his brethren the children of Ishaw he refrained from them, and Tzapaw was greatly afraid of Angeas.²¹ And Angeas and Lucus his brother arrayed all their forces, about eight hundred thousand men, against the children of Kathayam.²² And all the children of Kathayam said to Tzapaw, Pray for us to the Alahayam of your ancestors, peradventure he may deliver us from the hand of Angeas and his army, for we have heard that he is a great Alahayam and that he delivers all who trust in him.²³ And Tzapaw heard their words, and Tzapaw sought the Adanay and he said,²⁴ O Adanay Alahayam of Abaraham and Yatzachaq my ancestors, this day I know that you are a true Alahayam, and all the gods of the nations are vain and useless.²⁵ Remember now this day to me your covenant with Abaraham our father, which our ancestors related to us, and do graciously with me this day for the sake of Abaraham and Yatzachaq our fathers, and save me and the children of Kathayam from the hand of the king of Africa who comes against us for battle.²⁶ And the Adanay hearkened to the voice of Tzapaw, and he had regard for him on account of Abaraham and Yatzachaq, and the Adanay delivered Tzapaw and the children of Kathayam from the hand of Angeas and his people.²⁷ And Tzapaw fought Angeas king of Africa and all his people on that day, and the Adanay gave all the people of Angeas into the hands of the children of Kathayam.²⁸ And the battle was severe upon Angeas, and Tzapaw smote all the men of Angeas and Lucus his brother, with the edge of the sword, and there fell from them to the evening of that day about four hundred thousand men.²⁹ And when Angeas saw that all his men perished, he sent a letter to all the inhabitants of Africa to come to him, to assist him in the battle, and he wrote in the letter, saying, All who are found in Africa let them come to me from ten years old and upward; let them all come to me, and behold if he comes not he shall die, and all that he has, with his whole household, the king will take.³⁰ And all the rest of the inhabitants of Africa were terrified at the words of Angeas, and there went out of the city about three hundred thousand men and boys, from ten years upward, and they came to Angeas.³¹ And at the end of ten days Angeas renewed the battle against Tzapaw and the children of Kathayam, and the battle was very great and strong between them.³² And from the army of Angeas and Lucus, Tzapaw

sent many of the wounded to his hand, about two thousand men, and Sosiphtar the captain of the host of Angeas fell in that battle.³³ And when Sosiphtar had fallen, the African troops turned their backs to flee, and they fled, and Angeas and Lucus his brother were with them.³⁴ And Tzapaw and the children of Kathayam pursued them, and they smote them still heavily on the road, about two hundred men, and they pursued Azdrubal the son of Angeas who had fled with his father, and they smote twenty of his men in the road, and Azdrubal escaped from the children of Kathayam, and they did not slay him.³⁵ And Angeas and Lucus his brother fled with the rest of their men, and they escaped and came into Africa with terror and consternation, and Angeas feared all the days lest Tzapaw the son of Alayapaz should go to war with him.

64 And Balaim the son of Baiwar was at that time with Angeas in the battle, and when he saw that Tzapaw prevailed over Angeas, he fled from there and came to Kathayam.² And Tzapaw and the children of Kathayam received him with great honor, for Tzapaw knew Balaam's wisdom, and Tzapaw gave to Balaim many gifts and he remained with him.³ And when Tzapaw had returned from the war, he commanded all the children of Kathayam to be numbered who had gone into battle with him, and behold not one was missed.⁴ And Tzapaw rejoiced at this thing, and he renewed his kingdom, and he made a feast to all his subjects.⁵ But Tzapaw remembered not the Adanay and considered not that the Adanay had helped him in battle, and that he had delivered him and his people from the hand of the king of Africa, but still walked in the ways of the children of Kathayam and the wicked children of Ishaw, to serve other gods which his brethren the children of Ishaw had taught him; it is therefore said, From the wicked goes forth wickedness.⁶ And Tzapaw reigned over all the children of Kathayam securely, but knew not the Adanay who had delivered him and all his people from the hand of the king of Africa; and the troops of Africa came no more to Kathayam to plunder as usual, for they knew of the power of Tzapaw who had smitten them all at the edge of the sword, so Angeas was afraid of Tzapaw the son of Alayapaz, and of the children of Kathayam all the days.⁷ At that time when Tzapaw had returned from the war, and when Tzapaw had seen how he prevailed over all the people of Africa and had smitten them in battle at the edge of the sword, then Tzapaw advised with the children of Kathayam, to go to Matzarayam to fight with the sons of Yaiqab and with Paraih king of Matzarayam.⁸ For Tzapaw heard that the mighty men of Matzarayam were dead and that Yawasap and his brethren the sons at Yaiqab were dead, and that all their children the children of Yasharaal remained in Matzarayam.⁹ And Tzapaw considered to go to fight against them and all Matzarayam, to avenge the cause of his brethren the children of Ishaw, whom Yawasap with his brethren and all Matzarayam had smitten in the land of Kanain, when they went up to bury Yaiqab in Chabarawan.¹⁰ And Tzapaw sent messengers to Hadad, son of Badad, king of Adawam, and to all his brethren the children of Ishaw, saying,¹¹ Did you not say that you would not fight against the king of Africa for he is a member of your covenant? behold I fought with him and smote him and all his people.¹² Now therefore I have resolved to fight against Matzarayam and the children of Yaiqab who are there, and I will be revenged of them for what Yawasap, his brethren and ancestors did to us in the land of Kanain when they went up to bury their father in Chabarawan.¹³ Now then if you are willing to come to me to assist me in fighting against them and Matzarayam, then shall we avenge the cause of our brethren.¹⁴ And the children of Ishaw hearkened to the words of Tzapaw, and the children of Ishaw gathered themselves together, a very great people, and they went to assist Tzapaw and the children of Kathayam in battle.¹⁵ And Tzapaw sent to all the children of the east and to all the children of Yashamaial with words like to these, and they gathered themselves and came to the assistance of Tzapaw and the children of Kathayam in the war upon Matzarayam.¹⁶ And all these kings, the king of Adawam and the children of the east, and all the children of Yashamaial, and Tzapaw the king of Kathayam went forth and arrayed all their hosts

in Chabarawan.¹⁷ And the camp was very heavy, extending in length a distance of three days' journey, a people numerous as the sand upon the sea shore which can not be counted.¹⁸ And all these kings and their hosts went down and came against all Matzarayam in battle, and encamped together in the valley of Patharawas.¹⁹ And all Matzarayam heard their report, and they also gathered themselves together, all the people of the land of Matzarayam, and of all the cities belonging to Matzarayam, about three hundred thousand men.²⁰ And the men of Matzarayam sent also to the children of Yasharaal who were in those days in the land of Gashan, to come to them in order to go and fight with these kings.²¹ And the men of Yasharaal assembled and were about one hundred and fifty men, and they went into battle to assist the Matzarayam.²² And the men of Yasharaal and of Matzarayam went forth, about three hundred thousand men and one hundred and fifty men, and they went toward these kings to battle, and they placed themselves from without the land of Gashan opposite Patharawas.²³ And the Matzarayam believed not in Yasharaal to go with them in their camps together for battle, for all the Matzarayam said, Perhaps the children of Yasharaal will deliver us into the hand of the children of Ishaw and Yashamaial, for they are their brethren.²⁴ And all the Matzarayam said to the children of Yasharaal, Remain you here together in your stand and we will go and fight against the children of Ishaw and Yashamaial, and if these kings should prevail over us, then come you altogether upon them and assist us, and the children of Yasharaal did so.²⁵ And Tzapaw the son of Alayapaz the son of Ishaw king of Kathayam, and Hadad the son of Badad king of Adawam, and all their camps, and all the children of the east, and children of Yashamaial, a people numerous as sand, encamped together in the valley of Patharawas opposite Tachpanches.²⁶ And Balaim the son of Baiwar the Syrian was there in the camp of Tzapaw, for he came with the children of Kathayam to the battle, and Balaim was a man highly honored in the eyes of Tzapaw and his men.²⁷ And Tzapaw said to Balaim, Try by divination for us that we may know who will prevail in the battle, we or the Matzarayam.²⁸ And Balaim rose up and tried the art of divination, and he was skillful in the knowledge of it, but he was confused and the work was destroyed in his hand.²⁹ And he tried it again but it did not succeed, and Balaim despaired of it and left it and did not complete it, for this was from the Adanay, in order to cause Tzapaw and his people to fall into the hand of the children of Yasharaal, who had trusted in the Adanay, the Alahayam of their ancestors, in their war.³⁰ And Tzapaw and Hadad put their forces in battle array, and all the Matzarayam went alone against them, about three hundred thousand men, and not one man of Yasharaal was with them.³¹ And all the Matzarayam fought with these kings opposite Patharawas and Tachpanches, and the battle was severe against the Matzarayam.³² And the kings were stronger than the Matzarayam in that battle, and about one hundred and eighty men of Matzarayam fell on that day, and about thirty men of the forces of the kings, and all the men of Matzarayam fled from before the kings, so the children of Ishaw and Yashamaial pursued the Matzarayam, continuing to smite them to the place where was the camp of the children of Yasharaal.³³ And all the Matzarayam cried to the children of Yasharaal, saying, Hasten to us and assist us and save us from the hand of Ishaw, Yashamaial and the children of Kathayam.³⁴ And the hundred and fifty men of the children of Yasharaal ran from their station to the camps of these kings, and the children of Yasharaal cried to the Adanay their Alahayam to deliver them.³⁵ And the Adanay hearkened to Yasharaal, and the Adanay gave all the men of the kings into their hand, and the children of Yasharaal fought against these kings, and the children of Yasharaal smote about four thousand of the kings' men.³⁶ And the Adanay threw a great consternation in the camp of the kings, so that the fear of the children of Yasharaal fell upon them.³⁷ And all the hosts of the kings fled from before the children of Yasharaal and the children of Yasharaal pursued them continuing to smite them to the borders of the land of Kawash.³⁸ And the children of Yasharaal slew of them in the road yet two thousand men, and of the children of Yasharaal not one fell.³⁹ And when the Matzarayam saw that the children of Yasharaal had fought with such few men with the kings, and that the battle was so very severe against them,⁴⁰ All the Matzarayam were greatly afraid of their lives on account of the strong battle, and all Matzarayam fled, every man hiding himself from the arrayed forces, and they hid themselves in the road, and they left the Israelites to fight.⁴¹ And the children of Yasharaal inflicted a terrible blow upon the kings' men, and they returned from them after they had driven them to the border of the land of Kawash.⁴² And all Yasharaal knew the thing which the men of Matzarayam had done to them, that they had fled from them in battle, and had left them to fight alone.⁴³ So the children of Yasharaal also acted with cunning, and as the children of Yasharaal returned from battle, they found some of the Matzarayam in the road and smote them there.⁴⁴ And whilst they slew them, they said to them these words:⁴⁵ Therefore did you go from us and leave us, being a few people, to fight against these kings who had a great people to smite us, that you might thereby deliver your own souls?⁴⁶ And of some which the Israelites met on the road, they the children of Yasharaal spoke to each other, saying, Smite, smite, for he is an Ishmaelite, or an Edomite, or from the children of Kathayam, and they stood over him and slew him, and they knew that he was an Matzarayam.⁴⁷ And the children of Yasharaal did these things cunningly against the Matzarayam, because they had deserted them in battle and had fled from them.⁴⁸ And the children of Yasharaal slew of the men of Matzarayam in the road in this manner, about two hundred men.⁴⁹ And all the men of Matzarayam saw the evil which the children of Yasharaal had done to them, so all Matzarayam feared greatly the children of Yasharaal, for they had seen their great power, and that not one man of them had fallen.⁵⁰ So all the children of Yasharaal returned with joy on their road to Gashan, and the rest of Matzarayam returned each man to his place.

65 And it came to pass after these things, that all the counsellors of Paraih, king of Matzarayam, and all the elders of Matzarayam assembled and came before the king and bowed down to the ground, and they sat before him.² And the counsellors and elders of Matzarayam spoke to the king, saying,³ Behold the people of the children of Yasharaal is greater and mightier than we are, and you know all the evil which they did to us in the road when we returned from battle.⁴ And you have also seen their strong power, for this power is to them from their fathers, for but a few men stood up against a people numerous as the sand, and smote them at the edge of the sword, and of themselves not one has fallen, so that if they had been numerous they would then have utterly destroyed them.⁵ Now therefore give us counsel what to do with them, until we gradually destroy them from amongst us, lest they become too numerous for us in the land.⁶ For if the children of Yasharaal should increase in the land, they will become an obstacle to us, and if any war should happen to take place, they with their great strength will join our enemy against us, and fight against us, destroy us from the land and go away from it.⁷ So the king answered the elders of Matzarayam and said to them, This is the plan advised against Yasharaal, from which we will not depart,⁸ Behold in the land are Patham and Raimasas, cities unfortified against battle, it behooves you and us to build them, and to fortify them.⁹ Now therefore go you also and act cunningly toward them, and proclaim a voice in Matzarayam and in Gashan at the command of the king, saying,¹⁰ All you men of Matzarayam, Gashan, Patharawas and all their inhabitants! the king has commanded us to build Patham and Raimasas, and to fortify them for battle; who amongst you of all Matzarayam, of the children of Yasharaal and of all the inhabitants of the cities, are willing to build with us, shall each have his wages given to him daily at the king's order; so go you first and do cunningly, and gather yourselves and come to Patham and Raimasas to build.¹¹ And whilst you are building, cause a proclamation of this kind to be made throughout Matzarayam every day at the command of the king.¹² And when some of the children of Yasharaal shall come to build with you, you shall give them their wages daily for a few days.¹³ And after they shall have built with you for their daily hire, drag yourselves away from them daily one by one in secret, and then you shall rise up and become their task-masters and officers, and you shall leave them afterward to build without wages, and should they refuse, then force them with all your might to build.¹⁴ And if you do this it will be well with us to strengthen our land against the children of Yasharaal, for on account of the fatigue of the building and the work, the children of Yasharaal will decrease, because you will deprive them from their wives day by day.¹⁵ And all the elders of Matzarayam heard the counsel of the king, and the counsel seemed good in their eyes and in the eyes of the servants of Paraih, and in the eyes of all Matzarayam, and they did according to the word of the king.¹⁶ And all the servants went away from the king, and they caused a proclamation to be made in all Matzarayam, in Tachpanches and in Gashan, and in all the cities which surrounded Matzarayam, saying,¹⁷ You have seen what the children of Ishaw and Yashamaial did to us, who came to war against us and wished to destroy us.¹⁸ Now therefore the king commanded us to fortify the land, to build the cities Patham and Raimasas, and to fortify them for battle, if they should again come against us.¹⁹ Whosoever of you from all Matzarayam and from the children of Yasharaal will come to build with us, he shall have his daily wages given by the king, as his command is to us.²⁰ And when Matzarayam and all the children of Yasharaal heard all that the servants of Paraih had spoken, there came from the Matzarayam, and the children of Yasharaal to build with the servants of Paraih, Patham and Raimasas, but none of the children of Laway came with their brethren to build.²¹ And all the servants of Paraih and his princes came at first with deceit to build with all Yasharaal as daily hired laborers, and they gave to Yasharaal their daily hire at the beginning.²² And the servants of Paraih built with all Yasharaal, and were employed in that work with Yasharaal for a month.²³ And at the end of the month, all the servants of Paraih began to withdraw secretly from the people of Yasharaal daily.²⁴ And Yasharaal went on with the work at that time, but they then received their daily hire, because some of the men of Matzarayam were yet carrying on the work with Yasharaal at that time; therefore the Matzarayam gave Yasharaal their hire in those days, in order that they, the Matzarayam their fellow-workmen, might also take the pay for their labor.²⁵ And at the end of a year and four months all the Matzarayam had withdrawn from the children of Yasharaal, so that the children of Yasharaal were left alone engaged in the work.²⁶ And after all the Matzarayam had withdrawn from the children of Yasharaal they returned and became oppressors and officers over them, and some of them stood over the children of Yasharaal as task masters, to receive from them all that they gave them for the pay of their labor.²⁷ And the Matzarayam did in this manner to the children of Yasharaal day by day, in order to afflict in their work.²⁸ And all the children of Yasharaal were alone engaged in the labor, and the Matzarayam refrained from giving any pay to the children of Yasharaal from that time forward.²⁹ And when some of the men of Yasharaal refused to work on account of the wages not being given to them, then the exactors and the servants of Paraih oppressed them and smote them with heavy blows, and made them return by force, to labor with their brethren; thus did all the Matzarayam to the children of Yasharaal all the days.³⁰ And all the children of Yasharaal were greatly afraid of the Matzarayam in this matter, and all the children of Yasharaal returned and worked alone without pay.³¹ And the children of Yasharaal built Patham and Raimasas, and all the children of Yasharaal did the work, some making bricks, and some building, and the children of Yasharaal built and fortified all the land of Matzarayam and its walls, and the children of Yasharaal were engaged in work for many years, until the time came when the Adanay remembered them and brought them out of Matzarayam.³² But the children of Laway were not employed in the work with their brethren of Yasharaal, from the beginning to the day of their going forth from Matzarayam.³³ For all the children of Laway knew that the Matzarayam had spoken all these words with deceit

to the Israelites, therefore the children of Laway refrained from approaching to the work with their brethren.³⁴ And the Matzarayam did not direct their attention to make the children of Laway work afterward, since they had not been with their brethren at the beginning, therefore the Matzarayam left them alone.³⁵ And the hands of the men of Matzarayam were directed with continued severity against the children of Yasharaal in that work, and the Matzarayam made the children of Yasharaal work with rigor.³⁶ And the Matzarayam embittered the lives of the children of Yasharaal with hard work, in mortar and bricks, and also in all manner of work in the field.³⁷ And the children of Yasharaal called Melol the king of Matzarayam "Meror, king of Matzarayam," because in his days the Matzarayam had embittered their lives with all manner of work.³⁸ And all the work wherein the Matzarayam made the children of Yasharaal labor, they exacted with rigor, in order to afflict the children of Yasharaal, but the more they afflicted them, the more they increased and grew, and the Matzarayam were grieved because of the children of Yasharaal.

66 At that time died Hadad the son of Badad king of Adawam, and Shamalah from Mesrekeh, from the country of the children of the east, reigned in his place.² In the thirteenth year of the reign of Paraih king of Matzarayam, which was the hundred and twenty-fifth year of the Israelites going down into Matzarayam, Shamalah had reigned over Adawam eighteen years.³ And when he reigned, he drew forth his hosts to go and fight against Tzapaw the son of Alayapaz and the children of Kathayam, because they had made war against Angeas king of Africa, and they destroyed his whole army.⁴ But he did not engage with him, for the children of Ishaw prevented him, saying, He was their brother, so Shamalah listened to the voice of the children of Ishaw, and turned back with all his forces to the land of Adawam, and did not proceed to fight against Tzapaw the son of Alayapaz.⁵ And Paraih king of Matzarayam heard this thing, saying, Shamalah king of Adawam has resolved to fight the children of Kathayam, and afterward he will come to fight against Matzarayam.⁶ And when the Matzarayam heard this matter, they increased the labor upon the children of Yasharaal, lest the Israelites should do to them as they did to them in their war with the children of Ishaw in the days of Hadad.⁷ So the Matzarayam said to the children of Yasharaal, Hasten and do your work, and finish your task, and strengthen the land, lest the children of Ishaw your brethren should come to fight against us, for on your account will they come against us.⁸ And the children of Yasharaal did the work of the men of Matzarayam day by day, and the Matzarayam afflicted the children of Yasharaal in order to lessen them in the land.⁹ But as the Matzarayam increased the labor upon the children of Yasharaal, so did the children of Yasharaal increase and multiply, and all Matzarayam was filled with the children of Yasharaal.¹⁰ And in the hundred and twenty-fifth year of Israel's going down into Matzarayam, all the Matzarayam saw that their counsel did not succeed against Yasharaal, but that they increased and grew, and the land of Matzarayam and the land of Gashan were filled with the children of Yasharaal.¹¹ So all the elders of Matzarayam and its wise men came before the king and bowed down to him and sat before him.¹² And all the elders of Matzarayam and the wise men thereof said to the king, May the king live forever; you did counsel us the counsel against the children of Yasharaal, and we did to them according to the word of the king.¹³ But in proportion to the increase of the labor so do they increase and grow in the land, and behold the whole country is filled with them.¹⁴ Now therefore our lord and king, the eyes of all Matzarayam are upon you to give them advice with your wisdom, by which they may prevail over Yasharaal to destroy them, or to diminish them from the land; and the king answered them saying, Give you counsel in this matter that we may know what to do to them.¹⁵ And an officer, one of the king's counsellors, whose name was Ayawab, from Aram, in the land of Uz, answered the king, saying,¹⁶ If it please the king, let him hear the counsel of his servant; and the king said to him, Speak.¹⁷ And Ayawab spoke before the king, the princes, and before all the elders of Matzarayam, saying, ¹⁸ Behold the counsel of the king which he advised formerly respecting the labor of the children of Yasharaal is very good, and you must not remove from them that labor forever. ¹⁹ But this is the advice counselled by which you may lessen them, if it seems good to the king to afflict them. ²⁰ Behold we have feared war for a long time, and we said, When Yasharaal becomes fruitful in the land, they will drive us from the land if a war should take place. ²¹ If it please the king, let a royal decree go forth, and let it be written in the laws of Matzarayam which shall not be revoked, that every male child born to the Israelites, his blood shall be spilled upon the ground. ²² And by your doing this, when all the male children of Yasharaal shall have died, the evil of their wars will cease; let the king do so and send for all the Hebrew midwives and order them in this matter to execute it; so the thing pleased the king and the princes, and the king did according to the word of Ayawab. ²³ And the king sent for the Hebrew midwives to be called, of which the name of one was Shephrah, and the name of the other Pawaah. ²⁴ And the midwives came before the king, and stood in his presence. ²⁵ And the king said to them, When you do the office of a midwife to the Hebrew women, and see them upon the stools, if it be a son, then you shall kill him, but if it be a daughter, then she shall live. ²⁶ But if you will not do this thing, then will I burn you up and all your houses with fire. ²⁷ But the midwives feared Alahayam and did not hearken to the king of Matzarayam nor to his words, and when the Hebrew women brought forth to the midwife son or daughter, then did the midwife do all that was necessary to the child and let it live; thus did the midwives all the days. ²⁸ And this thing was told to the king, and he sent and called for the midwives and he said to them, Why have you done this thing and have saved the children alive? ²⁹ And the midwives answered and spoke together before the king, saying, ³⁰ Let not the king think that the Hebrew women are as the Matzarayam women, for all the children of Yasharaal are hale, and before the midwife comes to them they are delivered, and as for us your handmaids, for many days no Hebrew woman has brought forth upon us, for all the Hebrew women are their own midwives, because they are hale. ³¹ And Paraih heard their words and believed them in this matter, and the midwives went away from the king, and Alahayam dealt well with them, and the people multiplied and waxed exceedingly.

67 There was a man in the land of Matzarayam of the seed of Laway, whose name was Imaram, the son of Kehath, the son of Laway, the son of Yasharaal. ² And this man went and took a wife, namely Yawakabad the daughter of Laway his father's sister, and she was one hundred and twenty-six years old, and he came to her. ³ And the woman conceived and bore a daughter, and she called her name Marayam, because in those days the Matzarayam had embittered the lives of the children of Yasharaal. ⁴ And she conceived again and bore a son and she called his name Aharan, for in the days of her conception, Paraih began to spill the blood of the male children of Yasharaal. ⁵ In those days died Tzapaw the son of Alayapaz, son of Ishaw, king of Kathayam, and Janeas reigned in his stead. ⁶ And the time that Tzapaw reigned over the children of Kathayam was fifty years, and he died and was buried in the city of Nabna in the land of Kathayam. ⁷ And Janeas, one of the mighty men of the children of Kathayam, reigned after him and he reigned fifty years. ⁸ And it was after the death of the king of Kathayam that Balaim the son of Baiwar fled from the land of Kathayam, and he went and came to Matzarayam to Paraih king of Matzarayam. ⁹ And Paraih received him with great honor, for he had heard of his wisdom, and he gave him presents and made him for a counsellor, and aggrandized him. ¹⁰ And Balaim dwelt in Matzarayam, in honor with all the nobles of the king, and the nobles exalted him, because they all coveted to learn his wisdom. ¹¹ And in the hundred and thirtieth year of Israel's going down to Matzarayam, Paraih dreamed that he was sitting upon his kingly throne, and lifted up his eyes and saw an old man standing before him, and there were scales in the hands of the old man, such scales as are used by merchants. ¹² And the old man took the scales and hung them before Paraih.

turned upon them and smote them, for who had ever stretched forth his hand against them with impunity? ³⁸ Surely Paraih the former, your father's father, raised Yawasap the son of Yaiqab above all the princes of the land of Matzarayam, when he saw his wisdom, for through his wisdom he rescued all the inhabitants of the land from the famine. ³⁹ After which he ordered Yaiqab and his children to come down to Matzarayam, in order that through their virtue, the land of Matzarayam and the land of Gashan might be delivered from the famine. ⁴⁰ Now therefore if it seem good in your eyes, cease from destroying the children of Yasharaal, but if it be not your will that they shall dwell in Matzarayam, send them forth from here, that they may go to the land of Kanain, the land where their ancestors sojourned. ⁴¹ And when Paraih heard the words of Yathar he was very angry with him, so that he rose with shame from the king's presence, and went to Madayan, his land, and took Joseph's stick with him. ⁴² And the king said to Ayawab the Uzite, What say you Ayawab, and what is your advice respecting the Hebrews? ⁴³ So Ayawab said to the king, Behold all the inhabitants of the land are in your power, let the king do as it seems good in his eyes. ⁴⁴ And the king said to Balaim, What do you say, Balaim, speak your word that we may hear it. ⁴⁵ And Balaim said to the king, Of all that the king has counselled against the Hebrews will they be delivered, and the king will not be able to prevail over them with any counsel. ⁴⁶ For if you think to lessen them by the flaming fire, you can not prevail over them, for surely their Alahayam delivered Abaraham their father from Ur of the Kashadayam; and if you think to destroy them with a sword, surely Yatzachaq their father was delivered from it, and a ram was placed in his stead. ⁴⁷ And if with hard and rigorous labor you think to lessen them, you will not prevail even in this, for their father Yaiqab served Laban in all manner of hard work, and prospered. ⁴⁸ Now therefore, O King, hear my words, for this is the counsel which is counselled against them, by which you will prevail over them, and from which you should not depart. ⁴⁹ If it please the king let him order all their children which shall be born from this day forward, to be thrown into the water, for by this can you wipe away their name, for none of them, nor of their fathers, were tried in this manner. ⁵⁰ And the king heard the words of Balaim, and the thing pleased the king and the princes, and the king did according to the word of Balaim. ⁵¹ And the king ordered a proclamation to be issued and a law to be made throughout the land of Matzarayam, saying, Every male child born to the Hebrews from this day forward shall be thrown into the water. ⁵² And Paraih called to all his servants, saying, Go now and seek throughout the land of Gashan where the children of Yasharaal are, and see that every son born to the Hebrews shall be cast into the river, but every daughter you shall let live. ⁵³ And when the children of Yasharaal heard this thing which Paraih had commanded, to cast their male children into the river, some of the people separated from their wives and others adhered to them. ⁵⁴ And from that day forward, when the time of delivery arrived to those women of Yasharaal who had remained with their husbands, they went to the field to bring forth there, and they brought forth in the field, and left their children upon the field and returned home. ⁵⁵ And the Adanay who had sworn to their ancestors to multiply them, sent one of his ministering angels which are in heaven to wash each child in water, to anoint and swathe it and to put into its hands two smooth stones from one of which it sucked milk and from the other honey, and he caused its hair to grow to its knees, by which it might cover itself; to comfort it and to cleave to it, through his compassion for it. ⁵⁶ And when Alahayam had compassion over them and had desired to multiply them upon the face of the land, he ordered his earth to receive them to be preserved therein till the time of their growing up, after which the earth opened its mouth and vomited them forth and they sprouted forth from the city like the herb of the earth, and the grass of the forest, and they returned each to his family and to his father's house, and they remained with them. ⁵⁷ And the babes of the children of Yasharaal were upon the earth like the herb of the field, through Alahayam's grace to them. ⁵⁸ And when all the Matzarayam saw this thing, they went forth, each to his field with his yoke of oxen and his ploughshare, and they ploughed it up as one ploughs the earth at seed time. ⁵⁹ And when they ploughed they were unable to hurt the infants of the children of Yasharaal, so the people increased and waxed exceedingly. ⁶⁰ And Paraih ordered his officers daily to go to Gashan to seek for the babes of the children of Yasharaal. ⁶¹ And when they had sought and found one, they took it from its mother's bosom by force, and threw it into the river, but the female child they left with its mother; thus did the Matzarayam do to the Israelites all the days.

68 And it was at that time the spirit of Alahayam was upon Marayam the daughter of Imaram the sister of Aharan, and she went forth and prophesied about the house, saying, Behold a son will be born to us from my father and mother this time, and he will save Yasharaal from the hands of Matzarayam. ² And when Imaram heard the words of his daughter, he went and took his wife back to the house, after he had driven her away at the time when Paraih ordered every male child of the house of Yaiqab to be thrown into the water. ³ So Imaram took Yawakabad his wife, three years after he had driven her away, and he came to her and she conceived. ⁴ And at the end of seven months from her conception she brought forth a son, and the whole house was filled with great light as of the light of the sun and moon at the time of their shining. ⁵ And when the woman saw the child that it was good and pleasing to the sight, she hid it for three months in an inner room. ⁶ In those days the Matzarayam conspired to destroy all the Hebrews there. ⁷ And the Matzarayam women went to Gashan where the children of Yasharaal were, and they carried their young ones upon their shoulders, their babes who could not yet speak. ⁸ And in those days, when the women of the children of Yasharaal brought forth, each woman had hidden her son from before the Matzarayam, that the Matzarayam might not know of their bringing forth, and might not destroy them from the land. ⁹ And the Matzarayam women came to Gashan and their children who could not speak were upon their shoulders, and when an Matzarayam woman came into the house of a Hebrew woman her babe began to cry. ¹⁰ And when it cried the child that was in the inner room answered it, so the Matzarayam women went and told it at the house of Paraih. ¹¹ And Paraih sent his officers to take the children and slay them; thus did the Matzarayam to the Hebrew women all the days. ¹² And it was at that time, about three months from Jochebed's concealment of her son, that the thing was known in Pharaoh's house. ¹³ And the woman hastened to take away her son before the officers came, and she took for him an ark of bulrushes, and daubed it with slime and with pitch, and put the child therein, and she laid it in the flags by the river's brink. ¹⁴ And his sister Marayam stood afar off to know what would be done to him, and what would become of her words. ¹⁵ And Alahayam sent forth at that time a terrible heat in the land of Matzarayam, which burned up the flesh of man like the sun in his circuit, and it greatly oppressed the Matzarayam. ¹⁶ And all the Matzarayam went down to bathe in the river, on account of the consuming heat which burned up their flesh. ¹⁷ And Bathia, the daughter of Paraih, went also to bathe in the river, owing to the consuming heat, and her maidens walked at the river side, and all the women of Matzarayam as well. ¹⁸ And Bathia lifted up her eyes to the river, and she saw the ark upon the water, and sent her maid to fetch it. ¹⁹ And she opened it and saw the child, and behold the babe wept, and she had compassion on him, and she said, This is one of the Hebrew children. ²⁰ And all the women of Matzarayam walking on the river side desired to give him suck, but he would not suck, for this thing was from the Adanay, in order to restore him to his mother's breast. ²¹ And Marayam his sister was at that time amongst the Matzarayam women at the river side, and she saw this thing and she said to Pharaoh's daughter, Shall I go and fetch a nurse of the Hebrew women, that she may nurse the child for you? ²² And Pharaoh's daughter said to her, Go, and the young woman went and called the child's mother. ²³ And Pharaoh's daughter said to Yawakabad, Take this child away and suckle it for me, and I will pay you your wages, two bits of silver daily; and the woman took the child and nursed it.²⁴ And at the end of two years, when the child grew up, she brought him to the daughter of Paraih, and he was to her as a son, and she called his name Mashah, for she said, Because I drew him out of the water.²⁵ And Imaram his father called his name Chabar, for he said, It was for him that he associated with his wife whom he had turned away.²⁶ And Yawakabad his mother called his name Yaqawathayaal, Because, she said, I have hoped for him to the Shaday, and Alahayam restored him to me.²⁷ And Marayam his sister called him Jered, for she descended after him to the river to know what his end would be.²⁸ And Aharan his brother called his name Abay Zanuch, saying, My father left my mother and returned to her on his account.²⁹ And Kehath the father of Imaram called his name Abigdor, because on his account did Alahayam repair the breach of the house of Yaiqab, that they could no longer throw their male children into the water.³⁰ And their nurse called him Abay Socho, saying, In his tabernacle was he hidden for three months, on account of the children of Cham.³¹ And all Yasharaal called his name Shamaiah, son of Nathanaal, for they said, In his days has Alahayam heard their cries and rescued them from their oppressors.³² And Mashah was in Pharaoh's house, and was to Bathia, Pharaoh's daughter, as a son, and Mashah grew up amongst the king's children.

69 And the king of Adawam died in those days, in the eighteenth year of his reign, and was buried in his temple which he had built for himself as his royal residence in the land of Adawam.² And the children of Ishaw sent to Pathawar, which is upon the river, and they fetched from there a young man of beautiful eyes and comely aspect, whose name was Shaawal, and they made him king over them in the place of Shamalah.³ And Shaawal reigned over all the children of Ishaw in the land of Adawam for forty years.⁴ And when Paraih king of Matzarayam saw that the counsel which Balaim had advised respecting the children of Yasharaal did not succeed, but that still they were fruitful, multiplied and increased throughout the land of Matzarayam,⁵ Then Paraih commanded in those days that a proclamation should be issued throughout Matzarayam to the children of Yasharaal, saying, No man shall diminish any thing of his daily labor.⁶ And the man who shall be found deficient in his labor which he performs daily, whether in mortar or in bricks, then his youngest son shall be put in their place.⁷ And the labor of Matzarayam strengthened upon the children of Yasharaal in those days, and behold if one brick was deficient in any man's daily labor, the Matzarayam took his youngest boy by force from his mother, and put him into the building in the place of the brick which his father had left wanting.⁸ And the men of Matzarayam did so to all the children of Yasharaal day by day, all the days for a long period.⁹ But the tribe of Laway did not at that time work with the Israelites their brethren, from the beginning, for the children of Laway knew the cunning of the Matzarayam which they exercised at first toward the Israelites.

70 And in the third year from the birth of Mashah, Paraih was sitting at a banquet, when Alparanith the queen was sitting at his right and Bathia at his left, and the lad Mashah was lying upon her bosom, and Balaim the son of Baiwar with his two sons, and all the princes of the kingdom were sitting at table in the king's presence.² And the lad stretched forth his hand upon the king's head, and took the crown from the king's head and placed it on his own head.³ And when the king and princes saw the work which the boy had done, the king and princes were terrified, and one man to his neighbor expressed astonishment.⁴ And the king said to the princes who were before him at table, What speak you and what say you, O you princes, in this matter, and what is to be the judgment against the boy on account of this act?⁵ And Balaim the son of Baiwar the magician answered before the king and princes, and he said, Remember now, O my lord and king, the dream which you did dream many days since, and that which your servant interpreted to you.⁶ Now therefore this is a child from the Hebrew children, in whom is the spirit of Alahayam, and let not my lord the king imagine that this youngster did this thing without knowledge.⁷ For he is a Hebrew boy, and wisdom and understanding are with him, although he is yet a child, and with wisdom has he done this and chosen to himself the kingdom of Matzarayam.⁸ For this is the manner of all the Hebrews to deceive kings and their nobles, to do all these things cunningly, in order to make the kings of the earth and their men tremble.⁹ Surely you know that Abaraham their father acted thus, who deceived the army of Namarad king of Babal, and Abayamalak king of Garar, and that he possessed himself of the land of the children of Chath and all the kingdoms of Kanain.¹⁰ And that he descended into Matzarayam and said of Sharah his wife, she is my sister, in order to mislead Matzarayam and her king.¹¹ His son Yatzachaq also did so when he went to Garar and dwelt there, and his strength prevailed over the army of Abayamalak king of the Palashath.¹² He also thought of making the kingdom of the Palashath stumble, in saying that Rebecca his wife was his sister.¹³ Yaiqab also dealt treacherously with his brother, and took from his hand his birthright and his blessing.¹⁴ He went then to Padan to the house of Laban his mother's brother, and cunningly obtained from him his daughter, his cattle, and all belonging to him, and fled away and returned to the land of Kanain to his father.¹⁵ His sons sold their brother Yawasap, who went down into Matzarayam and became a slave, and was placed in the prison house for twelve years.¹⁶ Until the former Paraih dreamed dreams, and withdrew him from the prison house, and magnified him above all the princes in Matzarayam on account of his interpreting his dreams to him.¹⁷ And when Alahayam caused a famine throughout the land he sent for and brought his father and all his brothers, and the whole of his father's household, and supported them without price or reward, and bought the Matzarayam for slaves.¹⁸ Now therefore my lord king behold this child has risen up in their stead in Matzarayam, to do according to their deeds and to trifle with every king, prince and judge.¹⁹ If it please the king, let us now spill his blood upon the ground, lest he grow up and take away the government from your hand, and the hope of Matzarayam perish after he shall have reigned.²⁰ And Balaim said to the king, Let us moreover call for all the judges of Matzarayam and the wise men thereof, and let us know if the judgment of death is due to this boy as you did say, and then we will slay him.²¹ And Paraih sent and called for all the wise men of Matzarayam and they came before the king, and an angel of the Adanay came amongst them, and he was like one of the wise men of Matzarayam.²² And the king said to the wise men, Surely you have heard what this Hebrew boy who is in the house has done, and thus has Balaim judged in the matter.²³ Now judge you also and see what is due to the boy for the act he has committed.²⁴ And the angel, who seemed like one of the wise men of Paraih, answered and said as follows, before all the wise men of Matzarayam and before the king and the princes:²⁵ If it please the king let the king send for men who shall bring before him an onyx stone and a coal of fire, and place them before the child, and if the child shall stretch forth his hand and take the onyx stone, then shall we know that with wisdom has the youth done all that he has done, and we must slay him.²⁶ But if he stretch forth his hand upon the coal, then shall we know that it was not with knowledge that he did this thing, and he shall live.²⁷ And the thing seemed good in the eyes of the king and the princes, so the king did according to the word of the angel of the Adanay.²⁸ And the king ordered the onyx stone and coal to be brought and placed before Mashah.²⁹ And they placed the boy before them, and the lad endeavored to stretch forth his hand to the onyx stone, but the angel of the Adanay took his hand and placed it upon the coal, and the coal became extinguished in his hand, and he lifted it up and put it into his mouth, and burned part of his lips and part of his tongue, and he became heavy in mouth and tongue.³⁰ And when the king and princes saw this, they knew that Mashah had not acted with wisdom in taking off the crown from the king's head.³¹ So the king and princes refrained from slaying the child, so Mashah remained in Pharaoh's house, growing up, and the Adanay was with him.³² And whilst the boy was in the king's house, he was robed in purple and he grew amongst the children of the king.³³ And when Mashah grew up in the king's house, Bathia the daughter of Paraih considered him as a son, and all the household of Paraih honored him, and all the men of Matzarayam were afraid of him.³⁴ And he daily went forth and came into the land of Gashan, where his brethren the children of Yasharaal were, and Mashah saw them daily in shortness of breath and hard labor.³⁵ And Mashah asked them, saying, Therefore is this labor meted out to you day by day?³⁶ And they told him all that had befallen them, and all the injunctions which Paraih had put upon them before his birth.³⁷ And they told him all the counsels which Balaim the son of Baiwar had counselled against them, and what he had also counselled against him in order to slay him when he had taken the king's crown from off his head.³⁸ And when Mashah heard these things his anger was kindled against Balaim, and he sought to kill him, and he was in ambush for him day by day.³⁹ And Balaim was afraid of Mashah, and he and his two sons rose up and went forth from Matzarayam, and they fled and delivered their souls and betook themselves to the land of Kawash to Kikianus, king of Kawash.⁴⁰ And Mashah was in the king's house going out and coming in, the Adanay gave him favor in the eyes of Paraih, and in the eyes of all his servants, and in the eyes of all the people of Matzarayam, and they loved Mashah exceedingly.⁴¹ And the day arrived when Mashah went to Gashan to see his brethren, that he saw the children of Yasharaal in their burdens and hard labor, and Mashah was grieved on their account.⁴² And Mashah returned to Matzarayam and came to the house of Paraih, and came before the king, and Mashah bowed down before the king.⁴³ And Mashah said to Paraih, I pray you my lord, I have come to seek a small request from you, turn not away my face empty; and Paraih said to him, Speak.⁴⁴ And Mashah said to Paraih, Let there be given to your servants the children of Yasharaal who are in Gashan, one day to rest therein from their labor.⁴⁵ And the king answered Mashah and said, Behold I have lifted up your face in this thing to grant your request.⁴⁶ And Paraih ordered a proclamation to be issued throughout Matzarayam and Gashan, saying,⁴⁷ To you, all the children of Yasharaal, thus says the king, for six days you shall do your work and labor, but on the seventh day you shall rest, and shall not preform any work, thus shall you do all the days, as the king and Mashah the son of Bathia have commanded.⁴⁸ And Mashah rejoiced at this thing which the king had granted to him, and all the children of Yasharaal did as Mashah ordered them.⁴⁹ For this thing was from the Adanay to the children of Yasharaal, for the Adanay had begun to remember the children of Yasharaal to save them for the sake of their fathers.⁵⁰ And the Adanay was with Mashah and his fame went throughout Matzarayam.⁵¹ And Mashah became great in the eyes of all the Matzarayam, and in the eyes of all the children of Yasharaal, seeking good for his people Yasharaal and speaking words of peace regarding them to the king.

71 And when Mashah was eighteen years old, he desired to see his father and mother and he went to them to Gashan, and when Mashah had come near Gashan, he came to the place where the children of Yasharaal were engaged in work, and he observed their burdens, and he saw an Matzarayam smiting one of his Hebrew brethren.² And when the man who was beaten saw Mashah he ran to him for help, for the man Mashah was greatly respected in the house of Paraih, and he said to him, My lord attend to me, this Matzarayam came to my house in the night, bound me, and came to my wife in my presence, and now he seeks to take my life away.³ And when Mashah heard this wicked thing, his anger was kindled against the Matzarayam, and he turned this way and the other, and when he saw there was no man there he smote the Matzarayam and hid him in the sand, and delivered the Hebrew from the hand of him that smote him.⁴ And the Hebrew went to his house, and Mashah returned to his home, and went forth and came back to the king's house.⁵ And when the man had returned home, he thought of repudiating his wife, for it was not right in the house of Yaiqab, for any man to come to his wife after she had been defiled.⁶ And the woman went and told her brothers, and the woman's brothers sought to slay him, and he fled to his house and escaped.⁷ And on the second day Mashah went forth to his brethren, and saw, and behold two men were quarreling, and he said to the wicked one, Why do you smite your neighbor?⁸ And he answered him and said to him, Who has set you for a prince and judge over us? do you think to slay me as you did slay the Matzarayam? and Mashah was afraid and he said, Surely the thing is known?⁹ And Paraih heard of this affair, and he ordered Mashah to be slain, so Alahayam sent his angel, and he appeared to Paraih in the likeness of a captain of the guard.¹⁰ And the angel of the Adanay took the sword from the hand of the captain of the guard, and took his head off with it, for the likeness of the captain of the guard was turned into the likeness of Mashah.¹¹ And the angel of the Adanay took hold of the right hand of Mashah, and brought him forth from Matzarayam, and placed him from without the borders of Matzarayam, a distance of forty days' journey.¹² And Aharan his brother alone remained in the land of Matzarayam, and he prophesied to the children of Yasharaal, saying,¹³ Thus says the Adanay Alahayam of your ancestors, Throw away, each man, the abominations of his eyes, and do not defile yourselves with the idols of Matzarayam.¹⁴ And the children of Yasharaal rebelled and would not hearken to Aharan at that time.¹⁵ And the Adanay thought to destroy them, were it not that the Adanay remembered the covenant which he had made with Abaraham, Yatzachaq and Yaiqab.¹⁶ In those days the hand of Paraih continued to be severe against the children of Yasharaal, and he crushed and oppressed them until the time when Alahayam sent forth his word and took notice of them.

72 And it was in those days that there was a great war between the children of Kawash and the children of the east and Aram, and they rebelled against the king of Kawash in whose hands they were.² So Kikianus king of Kawash went forth with all the children of Kawash, a people numerous as the sand, and he went to fight against Aram and the children of the east, to bring them under subjection.³ And when Kikianus went out, he left Balaim the magician, with his two sons, to guard the city, and the lowest sort of the people of the land.⁴ So Kikianus went forth to Aram and the children of the east, and he fought against them and smote them, and they all fell down wounded before Kikianus and his people.⁵ And he took many of them captives and he brought them under subjection as at first, and he encamped upon their land to take tribute from them as usual.⁶ And Balaim the son of Baiwar, when the king of Kawash had left him to guard the city and the poor of the city, he rose up and advised with the people of the land to rebel against king Kikianus, not to let him enter the city when he should come home.⁷ And the people of the land hearkened to him, and they swore to him and made him king over them, and his two sons for captains of the army.⁸ So they rose up and raised the walls of the city at the two corners, and they built an exceeding strong building.⁹ And at the third corner they dug ditches without number, between the city and the river which surrounded the whole land of Kawash, and they made the waters of the river burst forth there.¹⁰ At the fourth corner they collected numerous serpents by their incantations and enchantments, and they fortified the city and dwelt therein, and no one went out or in before them.¹¹ And Kikianus fought against Aram and the children of the east and he subdued them as before, and they gave him their usual tribute, and he went and returned to his land.¹² And when Kikianus the king of Kawash approached his city and all the captains of the forces with him, they lifted up their eyes and saw that the walls of the city were built up and greatly elevated, so the men were astonished at this.¹³ And they said one to the other, It is because they saw that we were delayed, in battle, and were greatly afraid of us, therefore have they done this thing and raised the city walls and fortified them so that the kings of Kanan might not come in battle against them.¹⁴ So the king and the troops approached the city door and they looked up and behold, all the gates of the city were closed, and they called out to the sentinels, saying, Open to us, that we may enter the city.¹⁵ But the sentinels refused to open to them by the order of Balaim the magician, their king, they suffered them not to enter their city.¹⁶ So they raised a battle with them opposite the city gate, and one hundred and thirty men of the army at Kikianus fell on that day.

¹⁷ And on the next day they continued to fight and they fought at the side of the river; they endeavored to pass but were not able, so some of them sank in the pits and died. ¹⁸ So the king ordered them to cut down trees to make rafts, upon which they might pass to them, and they did so. ¹⁹ And when they came to the place of the ditches, the waters revolved by mills, and two hundred men upon ten rafts were drowned. ²⁰ And on the third day they came to fight at the side where the serpents were, but they could not approach there, for the serpents slew of them one hundred and seventy men, and they ceased fighting against Kawash, and they besieged Kawash for nine years, no person came out or in. ²¹ At that time that the war and the siege were against Kawash, Mashah fled from Matzarayam from Paraih who sought to kill him for having slain the Matzarayam. ²² And Mashah was eighteen years old when he fled from Matzarayam from the presence of Paraih, and he fled and escaped to the camp of Kikianus, which at that time was besieging Kawash. ²³ And Mashah was nine years in the camp of Kikianus king of Kawash, all the time that they were besieging Kawash, and Mashah went out and came in with them. ²⁴ And the king and princes and all the fighting men loved Mashah, for he was great and worthy, his stature was like a noble lion, his face was like the sun, and his strength was like that of a lion, and he was counsellor to the king. ²⁵ And at the end of nine years, Kikianus was seized with a mortal disease, and his illness prevailed over him, and he died on the seventh day. ²⁶ So his servants embalmed him and carried him and buried him opposite the city gate to the north of the land of Matzarayam. ²⁷ And they built over him an elegant strong and high building, and they placed great stones below. ²⁸ And the king's scribes engraved upon those stones all the might of their king Kikianus, and all his battles which he had fought, behold they are written there at this day. ²⁹ Now after the death of Kikianus king of Kawash it grieved his men and troops greatly on account of the war. ³⁰ So they said one to the other, Give us counsel what we are to do at this time, as we have resided in the wilderness nine years away from our homes. ³¹ If we say we will fight against the city many of us will fall wounded or killed, and if we remain here in the siege we shall also die. ³² For now all the kings of Aram and of the children of the east will hear that our king is dead, and they will attack us suddenly in a hostile manner, and they will fight against us and leave no remnant of us. ³³ Now therefore let us go and make a king over us, and let us remain in the siege until the city is delivered up to us. ³⁴ And they wished to choose on that day a man for king from the army of Kikianus, and they found no object of their choice like Mashah to reign over them. ³⁵ And they hastened and stripped off each man his garments and cast them upon the ground, and they made a great heap and placed Mashah thereon. ³⁶ And they rose up and blew with trumpets and called out before him, and said, May the king live, may the king live! ³⁷ And all the people and nobles swore to him to give him for a wife Adanayahaw the queen, the Cushite, wife of Kikianus, and they made Mashah king over them on that day. ³⁸ And all the people of Kawash issued a proclamation on that day, saying, Every man must give something to Mashah of what is in his possession. ³⁹ And they spread out a sheet upon the heap, and every man cast into it something of what he had, one a gold earring and the other a coin. ⁴⁰ Also of onyx stones, bdellium, pearls and marble did the children of Kawash cast to Mashah upon the heap, also silver and gold in great abundance. ⁴¹ And Mashah took all the silver and gold, all the vessels, and the bdellium and onyx stones, which all the children of Kawash had given to him, and he placed them amongst his treasures. ⁴² And Mashah reigned over the children of Kawash on that day, in the place of Kikianus king of Kawash.

73 In the fifty-fifth year of the reign of Paraih king of Matzarayam, that is in the hundred and fifty-seventh year of the Israelites going down into Matzarayam, reigned Mashah in Kawash. ² Mashah was twenty-seven years old when he began to reign over Kawash, and forty years did he reign. ³ And the Adanay granted Mashah favor and grace in the eyes of all the children of Kawash, and the children of Kawash loved him exceedingly, so

Mashah was favored by the Adanay and by men. ⁴ And in the seventh day of his reign, all the children of Kawash assembled and came before Mashah and bowed down to him to the ground. ⁵ And all the children spoke together in the presence of the king, saying, Give us counsel that we may see what is to be done to this city. ⁶ For it is now nine years that we have been besieging round about the city, and have not seen our children and our wives. ⁷ So the king answered them, saying, If you will hearken to my voice in all that I shall command you, then will the Adanay give the city into our hands and we shall subdue it. ⁸ For if we fight with them as in the former battle which we had with them before the death of Kikianus, many of us will fall down wounded as before. ⁹ Now therefore behold here is counsel for you in this matter; if you will hearken to my voice, then will the city be delivered into our hands. ¹⁰ So all the forces answered the king, saying, All that our lord shall command that will we do. ¹¹ And Mashah said to them, Pass through and proclaim a voice in the whole camp to all the people, saying, ¹² Thus says the king, Go into the forest and bring with you of the young ones of the stork, each man a young one in his hand. ¹³ And any person transgressing the word of the king, who shall not bring his young one, he shall die, and the king will take all belonging to him. ¹⁴ And when you shall bring them they shall be in your keeping, you shall rear them until they grow up, and you shall teach them to dart upon, as is the way of the young ones of the hawk. ¹⁵ So all the children of Kawash heard the words of Mashah, and they rose up and caused a proclamation to be issued throughout the camp, saying, ¹⁶ To you, all the children of Kawash, the king's order is, that you go all together to the forest, and catch there the young storks each man his young one in his hand, and you shall bring them home. ¹⁷ And any person violating the order of the king shall die, and the king will take all that belongs to him. ¹⁸ And all the people did so, and they went out to the wood and they climbed the fir trees and caught, each man a young one in his hand, all the young of the storks, and they brought them into the desert and reared them by order of the king, and they taught them to dart upon, similar to the young hawks. ¹⁹ And after the young storks were reared, the king ordered them to be hungered for three days, and all the people did so. ²⁰ And on the third day, the king said to them, strengthen yourselves and become valiant men, and put on each man his armor and gird on his sword upon him, and ride each man his horse and take each his young stork in his hand. ²¹ And we will rise up and fight against the city at the place where the serpents are; and all the people did as the king had ordered. ²² And they took each man his young one in his hand, and they went away, and when they came to the place of the serpents the king said to them, Send forth each man his young stork upon the serpents. ²³ And they sent forth each man his young stork at the king's order, and the young storks ran upon the serpents and they devoured them all and destroyed them out of that place. ²⁴ And when the king and people had seen that all the serpents were destroyed in that place, all the people set up a great shout. ²⁵ And they approached and fought against the city and took it and subdued it, and they entered the city. ²⁶ And there died on that day one thousand and one hundred men of the people of the city, all that inhabited the city, but of the people besieging not one died. ²⁷ So all the children of Kawash went each to his home, to his wife and children and to all belonging to him. ²⁸ And Balaim the magician, when he saw that the city was taken, he opened the gate and he and his two sons and eight brothers fled and returned to Matzarayam to Paraih king of Matzarayam. ²⁹ They are the sorcerers and magicians who are mentioned in the book of the law, standing against Mashah when the Adanay brought the plagues upon Matzarayam. ³⁰ So Mashah took the city by his wisdom, and the children of Kawash placed him on the throne instead of Kikianus king of Kawash. ³¹ And they placed the royal crown upon his head, and they gave him for a wife Adanayahaw the Cushite queen, wife of Kikianus. ³² And Mashah feared the Adanay Alahayam of his fathers, so that he came not to her, nor did he turn his eyes to her. ³³ For Mashah remembered how Abaraham had made his servant Alayaizar swear, saying to him, You shall not take a woman from the daughters of Kanain for my son Yatzachaq.³⁴ Also what Yatzachaq did when Yaiqab had fled from his brother, when he commanded him, saying, You shall not take a wife from the daughters of Kanain, nor make alliance with any of the children of Cham.³⁵ For the Adanay our Alahayam gave Cham the son of Nach, and his children and all his seed, as slaves to the children of Sham and to the children of Yapath, and to their seed after them for slaves, forever.³⁶ Therefore Mashah turned not his heart nor his eyes to the wife of Kikianus all the days that he reigned over Kawash.³⁷ And Mashah feared the Adanay his Alahayam all his life, and Mashah walked before the Adanay in truth, with all his heart and soul, he turned not from the right way all the days of his life; he declined not from the way either to the right or to the left, in which Abaraham, Yatzachaq and Yaiqab had walked.³⁸ And Mashah strengthened himself in the kingdom of the children of Kawash, and he guided the children of Kawash with his usual wisdom, and Mashah prospered in his kingdom.³⁹ And at that time Aram and the children of the east heard that Kikianus king of Kawash had died, so Aram and the children of the east rebelled against Kawash in those days.⁴⁰ And Mashah gathered all the children of Kawash, a people very mighty, about thirty thousand men, and he went forth to fight with Aram and the children of the east.⁴¹ And they went at first to the children of the east, and when the children of the east heard their report, they went to meet them, and engaged in battle with them.⁴² And the war was severe against the children of the east, so the Adanay gave all the children of the east into the hand of Mashah, and about three hundred men fell down slain.⁴³ And all the children of the east turned back and retreated, so Mashah and the children of Kawash followed them and subdued them, and put a tax upon them, as was their custom.⁴⁴ So Mashah and all the people with him passed from there to the land of Aram for battle.⁴⁵ And the people of Aram also went to meet them, and they fought against them, and the Adanay delivered them into the hand of Mashah, and many of the men of Aram fell down wounded.⁴⁶ And Aram also were subdued by Mashah and the people of Kawash, and also gave their usual tax.⁴⁷ And Mashah brought Aram and the children of the east under subjection to the children of Kawash, and Mashah and all the people who were with him, turned to the land of Kawash.⁴⁸ And Mashah strengthened himself in the kingdom of the children of Kawash, and the Adanay was with him, and all the children of Kawash were afraid of him.

74 In the end of years died Shaawal king of Adawam, and BailChanan the son of Ikabawar reigned in his place.² In the sixteenth year of the reign of Mashah over Kawash, BailChanan the son of Ikabawar reigned in the land of Adawam over all the children of Adawam for thirty-eight years.³ In his days Mawaab rebelled against the power of Adawam, having been under Adawam since the days of Hadad the son of Badad, who smote them and Madayan, and brought Mawaab under subjection to Adawam.⁴ And when BailChanan the son of Ikabawar reigned over Adawam, all the children of Mawaab withdrew their allegiance from Adawam.⁵ And Angeas king of Africa died in those days, and Azdrubal his son reigned in his stead.⁶ And in those days died Janeas king of the children of Kathayam, and they buried him in his temple which he had built for himself in the plain of Canopia for a residence, and Latinus reigned in his stead.⁷ In the twenty-second year of the reign of Mashah over the children of Kawash, Latinus reigned over the children of Kathayam forty-five years.⁸ And he also built for himself a great and mighty tower, and he built therein an elegant temple for his residence, to conduct his government, as was the custom.⁹ In the third year of his reign he caused a proclamation to be made to all his skilful men, who made many ships for him.¹⁰ And Latinus assembled all his forces, and they came in ships, and went therein to fight with Azdrubal son of Angeas king of Africa, and they came to Africa and engaged in battle with Azdrubal and his army.¹¹ And Latinus prevailed over Azdrubal, and Latinus took from Azdrubal the aqueduct which his father had brought from the children of Kathayam, when he took Janiah the daughter of Uzi for a wife, so Latinus overthrew the bridge of the aqueduct, and smote the whole army of Azdrubal a severe blow.¹² And the remaining strong men of Azdrubal strengthened themselves, and their hearts were filled with envy, and they courted death, and again engaged in battle with Latinus king of Kathayam.¹³ And the battle was severe upon all the men of Africa, and they all fell wounded before Latinus and his people, and Azdrubal the king also fell in that battle.¹⁴ And the king Azdrubal had a very beautiful daughter, whose name was Ushpezena, and all the men of Africa embroidered her likeness on their garments, on account of her great beauty and comely appearance.¹⁵ And the men of Latinus saw Ushpezena, the daughter of Azdrubal, and praised her to Latinus their king.¹⁶ And Latinus ordered her to be brought to him, and Latinus took Ushpezena for a wife, and he turned back on his way to Kathayam.¹⁷ And it was after the death of Azdrubal son of Angeas, when Latinus had turned back to his land from the battle, that all the inhabitants of Africa rose up and took Anibal the son of Angeas, the younger brother of Azdrubal, and made him king instead at his brother over the whole land at Africa.¹⁸ And when he reigned, he resolved to go to Kathayam to fight with the children of Kathayam, to avenge the cause of Azdrubal his brother, and the cause of the inhabitants of Africa, and he did so.¹⁹ And he made many ships, and he came therein with his whole army, and he went to Kathayam.²⁰ So Anibal fought with the children of Kathayam, and the children of Kathayam fell wounded before Anibal and his army, and Anibal avenged his brother's cause.²¹ And Anibal continued the war for eighteen years with the children of Kathayam, and Anibal dwelt in the land of Kathayam and encamped there for a long time.²² And Anibal smote the children of Kathayam very severely, and he slew their great men and princes, and of the rest of the people he smote about eighty thousand men.²³ And at the end of days and years, Anibal returned to his land of Africa, and he reigned securely in the place of Azdrubal his brother.

75 At that time, in the hundred and eightieth year of the Israelites going down into Matzarayam, there went forth from Matzarayam valiant men, thirty thousand on foot, from the children of Yasharaal, who were all of the tribe of Yawasap, of the children of Aparayam the son of Yawasap.² For they said the period was completed which the Adanay had appointed to the children of Yasharaal in the times of old, which he had spoken to Abaraham.³ And these men girded themselves, and they put each man his sword at his side, and every man his armor upon him, and they trusted to their strength, and they went out together from Matzarayam with a mighty hand.⁴ But they brought no provision for the road, only silver and gold, not even bread for that day did they bring in their hands, for they thought of getting their provision for pay from the Palashath, and if not they would take it by force.⁵ And these men were very mighty and valiant men, one man could pursue a thousand and two could rout ten thousand, so they trusted to their strength and went together as they were.⁶ And they directed their course toward the land of Gath, and they went down and found the shepherds of Gath feeding the cattle of the children of Gath.⁷ And they said to the shepherds, Give us some of the sheep for pay, that we may eat, for we are hungry, for we have eaten no bread this day.⁸ And the shepherds said, Are they our sheep or cattle that we should give them to you even for pay? so the children of Aparayam approached to take them by force.⁹ And the shepherds of Gath shouted over them that their cry was heard at a distance, so all the children of Gath went out to them.¹⁰ And when the children of Gath saw the evil doings of the children of Aparayam, they returned and assembled the men of Gath, and they put on each man his armor, and came forth to the children of Aparayam for battle.¹¹ And they engaged with them in the valley of Gath, and the battle was severe, and they smote from each other a great many on that day.¹² And on the second day the children of Gath sent to all the cities of the Palashath that they should come to their help, saying,¹³ Come up to us and help us, that we may smite the children of Aparayam who have come forth from Matzarayam to take our cattle, and to fight against us without cause.¹⁴ Now the souls of the children of Aparayam were exhausted with hunger and thirst, for they had eaten no bread for three days. And forty thousand men went forth from the cities of the Palashath to the assistance of the men of Gath.¹⁵ And these men were engaged in battle with the children of Aparayam, and the Adanay delivered the children of Aparayam into the hands of the Palashath.¹⁶ And they smote all the children of Aparayam, all who had gone forth from Matzarayam, none were remaining but ten men who had run away from the engagement.¹⁷ For this evil was from the Adanay against the children of Aparayam, for they transgressed the word of the Adanay in going forth from Matzarayam, before the period had arrived which the Adanay in the days of old had appointed to Yasharaal.¹⁸ And of the Palashath also there fell a great many, about twenty thousand men, and their brethren carried them and buried them in their cities.¹⁹ And the slain of the children of Aparayam remained forsaken in the valley of Gath for many days and years, and were not brought to burial, and the valley was filled with men's bones.²⁰ And the men who had escaped from the battle came to Matzarayam, and told all the children of Yasharaal all that had befallen them.²¹ And their father Aparayam mourned over them for many days, and his brethren came to console him.²² And he came to his wife and she bore a son, and he called his name Barayaih, for she was unfortunate in his house.

76 And Mashah the son of Imaram was still king in the land of Kawash in those days, and he prospered in his kingdom, and he conducted the government of the children of Kawash in justice, in righteousness, and integrity.² And all the children of Kawash loved Mashah all the days that he reigned over them, and all the inhabitants of the land of Kawash were greatly afraid of him.³ And in the fortieth year of the reign of Mashah over Kawash, Mashah was sitting on the royal throne whilst Adanayahaw the queen was before him, and all the nobles were sitting around him.⁴ And Adanayahaw the queen said before the king and the princes, What is this thing which you, the children of Kawash, have done for this long time?⁵ Surely you know that for forty years that this man has reigned over Kawash he has not approached me, nor has he served the gods of the children of Kawash.⁶ Now therefore hear, O you children of Kawash, and let this man no more reign over you as he is not of our flesh.⁷ Behold Menacrus my son is grown up, let him reign over you, for it is better for you to serve the son of your lord, than to serve a stranger, slave of the king of Matzarayam.⁸ And all the people and nobles of the children of Kawash heard the words which Adanayahaw the queen had spoken in their ears.⁹ And all the people were preparing until the evening, and in the morning they rose up early and made Menacrus, son of Kikianus, king over them.¹⁰ And all the children of Kawash were afraid to stretch forth their hand against Mashah, for the Adanay was with Mashah, and the children of Kawash remembered the oath which they swore to Mashah, therefore they did no harm to him.¹¹ But the children of Kawash gave many presents to Mashah, and sent him from them with great honor.¹² So Mashah went forth from the land of Kawash, and went home and ceased to reign over Kawash, and Mashah was sixty-six years old when he went out of the land of Kawash, for the thing was from the Adanay, for the period had arrived which he had appointed in the days of old, to bring forth Yasharaal from the affliction of the children of Cham.¹³ So Mashah went to Madayan, for he was afraid to return to Matzarayam on account of Paraih, and he went and sat at a well of water in Madayan.¹⁴ And the seven daughters of Raiwaal the Madayan went out to feed their father's flock.¹⁵ And they came to the well and drew water to water their father's flock.¹⁶ So the shepherds of Madayan came and drove them away, and Mashah rose up and helped them and watered the flock.¹⁷ And they came home to their father Raiwaal, and told him what Mashah did for them.¹⁸ And they said, An Matzarayam man has delivered us from the hands of the shepherds, he drew up water for us and watered the flock.¹⁹ And Raiwaal said to his daughters, And where is he? therefore have you left the man?²⁰ And Raiwaal sent for him and fetched him and brought him home, and he ate bread with him.²¹ And Mashah related to Raiwaal that he had fled from

Matzarayam and that he reigned forty years over Kawash, and that they afterward had taken the government from him, and had sent him away in peace with honor and with presents.²² And when Raiwaal had heard the words of Mashah, Raiwaal said within himself, I will put this man into the prison house, whereby I shall conciliate the children of Kawash, for he has fled from them.²³ And they took and put him into the prison house, and Mashah was in prison ten years, and whilst Mashah was in the prison house, Tzarah the daughter of Raiwaal took pity over him, and supported him with bread and water all the time.²⁴ And all the children of Yasharaal were yet in the land of Matzarayam serving the Matzarayam in all manner of hard work, and the hand of Matzarayam continued in severity over the children of Yasharaal in those days.²⁵ At that time the Adanay smote Paraih king of Matzarayam, and he afflicted with the plague of leprosy from the sole of his foot to the crown of his head; owing to the cruel treatment of the children of Yasharaal was this plague at that time from the Adanay upon Paraih king of Matzarayam.²⁶ For the Adanay had hearkened to the prayer of his people the children of Yasharaal, and their cry reached him on account of their hard work.²⁷ Still his anger did not turn from them, and the hand of Paraih was still stretched out against the children of Yasharaal, and Paraih hardened his neck before the Adanay, and he increased his yoke over the children of Yasharaal, and embittered their lives with all manner of hard work.²⁸ And when the Adanay had inflicted the plague upon Paraih king of Matzarayam, he asked his wise men and sorcerers to cure him.²⁹ And his wise men and sorcerers said to him, That if the blood of little children were put into the wounds he would be healed.³⁰ And Paraih hearkened to them, and sent his ministers to Gashan to the children of Yasharaal to take their little children.³¹ And Pharaoh's ministers went and took the infants of the children of Yasharaal from the bosoms of their mothers by force, and they brought them to Paraih daily, a child each day, and the physicians killed them and applied them to the plague; thus did they all the days.³² And the number of the children which Paraih slew was three hundred and seventy-five.³³ But the Adanay hearkened not to the physicians of the king of Matzarayam, and the plague went on increasing mightily.³⁴ And Paraih was ten years afflicted with that plague, still the heart of Paraih was more hardened against the children of Yasharaal.³⁵ And at the end of ten years the Adanay continued to afflict Paraih with destructive plagues.³⁶ And the Adanay smote him with a bad tumor and sickness at the stomach, and that plague turned to a severe boil.³⁷ At that time the two ministers of Paraih came from the land of Gashan where all the children of Yasharaal were, and went to the house of Paraih and said to him, We have seen the children of Yasharaal slacken in their work and negligent in their labor.³⁸ And when Paraih heard the words of his ministers, his anger was kindled against the children of Yasharaal exceedingly, for he was greatly grieved at his bodily pain.³⁹ And he answered and said, Now that the children of Yasharaal know that I am ill, they turn and scoff at us, now therefore harness my chariot for me, and I will betake myself to Gashan and will see the scoff of the children of Yasharaal with which they are deriding me; so his servants harnessed the chariot for him.⁴⁰ And they took and made him ride upon a horse, for he was not able to ride of himself;⁴¹ And he took with him ten horsemen and ten footmen, and went to the children of Yasharaal to Gashan.⁴² And when they had come to the border of Matzarayam, the king's horse passed into a narrow place, elevated in the hollow part of the vineyard, fenced on both sides, the low, plain country being on the other side.⁴³ And the horses ran rapidly in that place and pressed each other, and the other horses pressed the king's horse.⁴⁴ And the king's horse fell into the low plain whilst the king was riding upon it, and when he fell the chariot turned over the king's face and the horse lay upon the king, and the king cried out, for his flesh was very sore.⁴⁵ And the flesh of the king was torn from him, and his bones were broken and he could not ride, for this thing was from the Adanay to him, for the Adanay had heard the cries of his people the children of Yasharaal and their affliction.

⁴⁶ And his servants carried him upon their shoulders, a little at a time, and they brought him back to Matzarayam, and the horsemen who were with him came also back to Matzarayam. ⁴⁷ And they placed him in his bed, and the king knew that his end was come to die, so Aparanith the queen his wife came and cried before the king, and the king wept a great weeping with her. ⁴⁸ And all his nobles and servants came on that day and saw the king in that affliction, and wept a great weeping with him. ⁴⁹ And the princes of the king and all his counselors advised the king to cause one to reign in his stead in the land, whomsoever he should choose from his sons. ⁵⁰ And the king had three sons and two daughters which Aparanith the queen his wife had borne to him, besides the king's children of concubines. ⁵¹ And these were their names, the firstborn Othri, the second Adikam, and the third Morion, and their sisters, the name of the elder Bathia and of the other Acuzi. ⁵² And Othri the first born of the king was an idiot, precipitate and hurried in his words. ⁵³ But Adikam was a cunning and wise man and knowing in all the wisdom of Matzarayam, but of unseemly aspect, thick in flesh, and very short in stature; his height was one cubit. ⁵⁴ And when the king saw Adikam his son intelligent and wise in all things, the king resolved that he should be king in his stead after his death. ⁵⁵ And he took for him a wife Gedudah daughter of Abilot, and he was ten years old, and she bore to him four sons. ⁵⁶ And he afterward went and took three wives and begat eight sons and three daughters. ⁵⁷ And the disorder greatly prevailed over the king, and his flesh stank like the flesh of a carcass cast upon the field in summer time, during the heat of the sun. ⁵⁸ And when the king saw that his sickness had greatly strengthened itself over him, he ordered his son Adikam to be brought to him, and they made him king over the land in his place. ⁵⁹ And at the end of three years, the king died, in shame, disgrace, and disgust, and his servants carried him and buried him in the sepulcher of the kings of Matzarayam in Tzain Matzarayam. ⁶⁰ But they embalmed him not as was usual with kings, for his flesh was putrid, and they could not approach to embalm him on account of the stench, so they buried him in haste. ⁶¹ For this evil was from the Adanay to him, for the Adanay had requited him evil for the evil which in his days he had done to Yasharaal. ⁶² And he died with terror and with shame, and his son Adikam reigned in his place.<

77 Adikam was twenty years old when he reigned over Matzarayam, he reigned four years. ² In the two hundred and sixth year of Israel's going down to Matzarayam did Adikam reign over Matzarayam, but he continued not so long in his reign over Matzarayam as his fathers had continued their reigns. ³ For Melol his father reigned ninety-four years in Matzarayam, but he was ten years sick and died, for he had been wicked before the Adanay. ⁴ And all the Matzarayam called the name of Adikam Paraih like the name of his fathers, as was their custom to do in Matzarayam. ⁵ And all the wise men of Paraih called the name of Adikam Ahuz, for short is called Ahuz in the Matzarayam language. ⁶ And Adikam was exceedingly ugly, and he was a cubit and a span and he had a great beard which reached to the soles of his feet. ⁷ And Paraih sat upon his father's throne to reign over Matzarayam, and he conducted the government of Matzarayam in his wisdom. ⁸ And whilst he reigned he exceeded his father and all the preceding kings in wickedness, and he increased his yoke over the children of Yasharaal. ⁹ And he went with his servants to Gashan to the children of Yasharaal, and he strengthened the labor over them and he said to them, Complete your work, each day's task, and let not your hands slacken from our work from this day forward as you did in the days of my father. ¹⁰ And he placed officers over them from amongst the children of Yasharaal, and over these officers he placed taskmasters from amongst his servants. ¹¹ And he placed over them a measure of bricks for them to do according to that number, day by day, and he turned back and went to Matzarayam. ¹² At that time the task-masters of Paraih ordered the officers of the children of Yasharaal according to the command of Paraih, saying, ¹³ Thus says Paraih, Do your work each day, and finish your task, and observe the daily measure of bricks; diminish not anything.

¹⁴ And it shall come to pass that if you are deficient in your daily bricks, I will put your young children in their stead. ¹⁵ And the task-masters of Matzarayam did so in those days as Paraih had ordered them. ¹⁶ And whenever any deficiency was found in the children of Israel's measure of their daily bricks, the task-masters of Paraih would go to the wives of the children of Yasharaal and take infants of the children of Yasharaal to the number of bricks deficient, they would take them by force from their mother's laps, and put them in the building instead of the bricks; ¹⁷ Whilst their fathers and mothers were crying over them and weeping when they heard the weeping voices of their infants in the wall of the building. ¹⁸ And the task-masters prevailed over Yasharaal, that the Israelites should place their children in the building, so that a man placed his son in the wall and put mortar over him, whilst his eyes wept over him, and his tears ran down upon his child. ¹⁹ And the task-masters of Matzarayam did so to the babes of Yasharaal for many days, and no one pitied or had compassion over the babes of the children of Yasharaal. ²⁰ And the number of all the children killed in the building was two hundred and seventy, some whom they had built upon instead of the bricks which had been left deficient by their fathers, and some whom they had drawn out dead from the building. ²¹ And the labor imposed upon the children of Yasharaal in the days of Adikam exceeded in hardship that which they performed in the days of his father. ²² And the children of Yasharaal sighed every day on account of their heavy work, for they had said to themselves, Behold when Paraih shall die, his son will rise up and lighten our work! ²³ But they increased the latter work more than the former, and the children of Yasharaal sighed at this and their cry ascended to Alahayam on account of their labor. ²⁴ And Alahayam heard the voice of the children of Yasharaal and their cry, in those days, and Alahayam remembered to them his covenant which he had made with Abaraham, Yatzachaq and Yaiqab. ²⁵ And Alahayam saw the burden of the children of Yasharaal, and their heavy work in those days, and he determined to deliver them. ²⁶ And Mashah the son of Imaram was still confined in the dungeon in those days, in the house of Raiwaal the Madayan, and Tzarah the daughter of Raiwaal did support him with food secretly day by day. ²⁷ And Mashah was confined in the dungeon in the house of Raiwaal for ten years. ²⁸ And at the end of ten years which was the first year of the reign of Paraih over Matzarayam, in the place of his father, ²⁹ Tzarah said to her father Raiwaal, No person inquires or seeks after the Hebrew man, whom you did bind in prison now ten years. ³⁰ Now therefore, if it seem good in your sight, let us send and see whether he is living or dead, but her father knew not that she had supported him. ³¹ And Raiwaal her father answered and said to her, Has ever such a thing happened that a man should be shut up in a prison without food for ten years, and that he should live? ³² And Tzarah answered her father, saying, Surely you have heard that the Alahayam of the Hebrews is great and awful, and does wonders for them at all times. ³³ He it was who delivered Abaraham from Ur of the Kashadayam, and Yatzachaq from the sword of his father, and Yaiqab from the angel of the Adanay who wrestled with him at the ford of Jabbuk. ³⁴ Also with this man has he done many things, he delivered him from the river in Matzarayam and from the sword of Paraih, and from the children of Kawash, so also can he deliver him from famine and make him live. ³⁵ And the thing seemed good in the sight of Raiwaal, and he did according to the word of his daughter, and sent to the dungeon to ascertain what became of Mashah. ³⁶ And he saw, and behold the man Mashah was living in the dungeon, standing upon his feet, praising and praying to the Alahayam of his ancestors. ³⁷ And Raiwaal commanded Mashah to be brought out of the dungeon, so they shaved him and he changed his prison garments and ate bread. ³⁸ And afterward Mashah went into the garden of Raiwaal which was behind the house, and he there prayed to the Adanay his Alahayam, who had done mighty wonders for him. ³⁹ And it was that whilst he prayed he looked opposite to him, and behold a sapphire stick was placed in the ground, which was planted in the midst of the garden. ⁴⁰ And he approached the stick and he looked, and behold the name of the Adanay Alahayam of hosts was engraved thereon, written and developed upon the stick.⁴¹ And he read it and stretched forth his hand and he plucked it like a forest tree from the thicket, and the stick was in his hand.⁴² And this is the stick with which all the works of our Alahayam were performed, after he had created heaven and earth, and all the host of them, seas, rivers and all their fishes.⁴³ And when Alahayam had driven Adam from the garden of Idan, he took the stick in his hand and went and tilled the ground from which he was taken.⁴⁴ And the stick came down to Nach and was given to Sham and his descendants, until it came into the hand of Abaraham the Hebrew.⁴⁵ And when Abaraham had given all he had to his son Yatzachaq, he also gave to him this stick.⁴⁶ And when Yaiqab had fled to Padan, he took it into his hand, and when he returned to his father he had not left it behind him.⁴⁷ Also when he went down to Matzarayam he took it into his hand and gave it to Yawasap, one portion above his brethren, for Yaiqab had taken it by force from his brother Ishaw.⁴⁸ And after the death of Yawasap, the nobles of Matzarayam came into the house of Yawasap, and the stick came into the hand of Raiwaal the Madayan, and when he went out of Matzarayam, he took it in his hand and planted it in his garden.⁴⁹ And all the mighty men of the Kinites tried to pluck it when they endeavored to get Tzarah his daughter, but they were unsuccessful.⁵⁰ So that stick remained planted in the garden of Raiwaal, until he came who had a right to it and took it.⁵¹ And when Raiwaal saw the stick in the hand of Mashah, he wondered at it, and he gave him his daughter Tzarah for a wife.

78 At that time died Bail Channan son of Ikabawar, king of Adawam, and was buried in his house in the land of Adawam.² And after his death the children of Ishaw sent to the land of Adawam, and took from there a man who was in Adawam, whose name was Hadad, and they made him king over them in the place of Bail Channan, their king.³ And Hadad reigned over the children of Adawam forty-eight years.⁴ And when he reigned he resolved to fight against the children of Mawaab, to bring them under the power of the children of Ishaw as they were before, but he was not able, because the children of Mawaab heard this thing, and they rose up and hastened to elect a king over them from amongst their brethren.⁵ And they afterward gathered together a great people, and sent to the children of Imawan their brethren for help to fight against Hadad king of Adawam.⁶ And Hadad heard the thing which the children of Mawaab had done, and was greatly afraid of them, and refrained from fighting against them.⁷ In those days Mashah, the son of Imaram, in Madayan, took Tzarah, the daughter of Raiwaal the Madayan, for a wife.⁸ And Tzarah walked in the ways of the daughters of Yaiqab, she was nothing short of the righteousness of Sarah, Rebecca, Rachal and Laah.⁹ And Tzarah conceived and bore a son and he called his name Garashawan, for he said, I was a stranger in a foreign land; but he circumcised not his foreskin, at the command of Raiwaal his father-in-law.¹⁰ And she conceived again and bore a son, but circumcised his foreskin, and called his name Alayaizar, for Mashah said, Because the Alahayam of my fathers was my help, and delivered me from the sword of Paraih.¹¹ And Paraih king of Matzarayam greatly increased the labor of the children of Yasharaal in those days, and continued to make his yoke heavier upon the children of Yasharaal.¹² And he ordered a proclamation to be made in Matzarayam, saying, Give no more straw to the people to make bricks with, let them go and gather themselves straw as they can find it.¹³ Also the tale of bricks which they shall make let them give each day, and diminish nothing from them, for they are idle in their work.¹⁴ And the children of Yasharaal heard this, and they mourned and sighed, and they cried to the Adanay on account of the bitterness of their souls.¹⁵ And the Adanay heard the cries of the children of Yasharaal, and saw the oppression with which the Matzarayam oppressed them.¹⁶ And the Adanay was jealous of his people and his inheritance, and heard their voice, and he resolved to take them out of the affliction of Matzarayam, to give them the land of Kanain for a possession.

79 And in those days Mashah was feeding the flock of Raiwaal the Madayan his father-in-law, beyond the wilderness of Sayan, and the stick which he took from his father-in-law was in his hand.² And it came to pass one day that a kid of goats strayed from the flock, and Mashah pursued it and it came to the mountain of Alahayam to Charab.³ And when he came to Charab, the Adanay appeared there to him in the bush, and he found the bush burning with fire, but the fire had no power over the bush to consume it.⁴ And Mashah was greatly astonished at this sight, therefore the bush was not consumed, and he approached to see this mighty thing, and the Adanay called to Mashah out of the fire and commanded him to go down to Matzarayam, to Paraih king of Matzarayam, to send the children of Yasharaal from his service.⁵ And the Adanay said to Mashah, Go, return to Matzarayam, for all those men who sought your life are dead, and you shall speak to Paraih to send forth the children of Yasharaal from his land.⁶ And the Adanay showed him to do signs and wonders in Matzarayam before the eyes of Paraih and the eyes of his subjects, in order that they might believe that the Adanay had sent him.⁷ And Mashah hearkened to all that the Adanay had commanded him, and he returned to his father-in-law and told him the thing, and Raiwaal said to him, Go in peace.⁸ And Mashah rose up to go to Matzarayam, and he took his wife and sons with him, and he was at an inn in the road, and an angel of Alahayam came down, and sought an occasion against him.⁹ And he wished to kill him on account of his first born son, because he had not circumcised him, and had transgressed the covenant which the Adanay had made with Abaraham.¹⁰ For Mashah had hearkened to the words of his father-in-law which he had spoken to him, not to circumcise his first born son, therefore he circumcised him not.¹¹ And Tzarah saw the angel of the Adanay seeking an occasion against Mashah, and she knew that this thing was owing to his not having circumcised her son Garashawan.¹² And Tzarah hastened and took of the sharp rock stones that were there, and she circumcised her son, and delivered her husband and her son from the hand of the angel of the Adanay.¹³ And Aharan the son of Imaram, the brother of Mashah, was in Matzarayam walking at the river side on that day.¹⁴ And the Adanay appeared to him in that place, and he said to him, Go now toward Mashah in the wilderness, and he went and met him in the mountain of Alahayam, and he kissed him.¹⁵ And Aharan lifted up his eyes, and saw Tzarah the wife of Mashah and her children, and he said to Mashah, Who are these to you?¹⁶ And Mashah said to him, They are my wife and sons, which Alahayam gave to me in Madayan; and the thing grieved Aharan on account of the woman and her children.¹⁷ And Aharan said to Mashah, Send away the woman and her children that they may go to her father's house, and Mashah hearkened to the words of Aharan, and did so.¹⁸ And Tzarah returned with her children, and they went to the house of Raiwaal, and remained there until the time arrived when the Adanay had visited his people, and brought them forth from Matzarayam from the hand at Paraih.¹⁹ And Mashah and Aharan came to Matzarayam to the community of the children of Yasharaal, and they spoke to them all the words of the Adanay, and the people rejoiced an exceeding great rejoicing.²⁰ And Mashah and Aharan rose up early on the next day, and they went to the house of Paraih, and they took in their hands the stick of Alahayam.²¹ And when they came to the king's gate, two young lions were confined there with iron instruments, and no person went out or came in from before them, unless those whom the king ordered to come, when the conjurors came and withdrew the lions by their incantations, and this brought them to the king.²² And Mashah hastened and lifted up the stick upon the lions, and he loosed them, and Mashah and Aharan came into the king's house.²³ The lions also came with them in joy, and they followed them and rejoiced as a dog rejoices over his master when he comes from the field.²⁴ And when Paraih saw this thing he was astonished at it, and he was greatly terrified at the report, for their appearance was like the appearance of the children of Alahayam.²⁵ And Paraih said to Mashah, What do you require? and they answered him, saying,

The Adanay Alahayam of the Hebrews has sent us to you, to say, Send forth my people that they may serve me.²⁶ And when Paraih heard their words he was greatly terrified before them, and he said to them, Go today and come back to me tomorrow, and they did according to the word of the king.²⁷ And when they had gone Paraih sent for Balaim the magician and to Jannes and Jambres his sons, and to all the magicians and conjurors and counsellors which belonged to the king, and they all came and sat before the king.²⁸ And the king told them all the words which Mashah and his brother Aharan had spoken to him, and the magicians said to the king, But how came the men to you, on account of the lions which were confined at the gate?²⁹ And the king said, Because they lifted up their rod against the lions and loosed them, and came to me, and the lions also rejoiced at them as a dog rejoices to meet his master.³⁰ And Balaim the son of Baiwar the magician answered the king, saying, These are none else than magicians like ourselves.³¹ Now therefore send for them, and let them come and we will try them, and the king did so.³² And in the morning Paraih sent for Mashah and Aharan to come before the king, and they took the rod of Alahayam, and came to the king and spoke to him, saying,³³ Thus said the Adanay Alahayam of the Hebrews, Send my people that they may serve me.³⁴ And the king said to them, But who will believe you that you are the messengers of Alahayam and that you come to me by his order?³⁵ Now therefore give a wonder or sign in this matter, and then the words which you speak will be believed.³⁶ And Aharan hastened and threw the rod out of his hand before Paraih and before his servants, and the rod turned into a serpent.³⁷ And the sorcerers saw this and they cast each man his rod upon the ground and they became serpents.³⁸ And the serpent of Aaron's rod lifted up its head and opened its mouth to swallow the rods of the magicians.³⁹ And Balaim the magician answered and said, This thing has been from the days of old, that a serpent should swallow its fellow, and that living things devour each other.⁴⁰ Now therefore restore it to a rod as it was at first, and we will also restore our rods as they were at first, and if your rod shall swallow our rods, then shall we know that the spirit of Alahayam is in you, and if not, you are only an artificer like to ourselves.⁴¹ And Aharan hastened and stretched forth his hand and caught hold of the serpent's tail and it became a rod in his hand, and the sorcerers did the like with their rods, and they got hold, each man of the tail of his serpent, and they became rods as at first.⁴² And when they were restored to rods, the rod of Aharan swallowed up their rods.⁴³ And when the king saw this thing, he ordered the book of records that related to the kings of Matzarayam, to be brought, and they brought the book of records, the chronicles of the kings of Matzarayam, in which all the idols of Matzarayam were inscribed, for they thought of finding therein the name of Yahawah, but they found it not.⁴⁴ And Paraih said to Mashah and Aharan, Behold I have not found the name of your Alahayam written in this book, and his name I know not.⁴⁵ And the counsellors and wise men answered the king, We have heard that the Alahayam of the Hebrews is a son of the wise, the son of ancient kings.⁴⁶ And Paraih turned to Mashah and Aharan and said to them, I know not the Adanay whom you have declared, neither will I send his people.⁴⁷ And they answered and said to the king, The Adanay Alahayam of Gods is his name, and he proclaimed his name over us from the days of our ancestors, and sent us, saying, Go to Paraih and say to him, Send my people that they may serve me.⁴⁸ Now therefore send us, that we may take a journey for three days in the wilderness, and there may sacrifice to him, for from the days of our going down to Matzarayam, he has not taken from our hands either burnt offering, oblation or sacrifice, and if you will not send us, his anger will be kindled against you, and he will smite Matzarayam either with the plague or with the sword.⁴⁹ And Paraih said to them, Tell me now his power and his might; and they said to him, He created the heaven and the earth, the seas and all their fishes, he formed the light, created the darkness, caused rain upon the earth and watered it, and made the herbage and grass to sprout, he created man and beast and the animals of the forest, the birds of the air and the fish of the sea, and by his mouth they live and die.

⁵⁰ Surely he created you in your mother's womb, and put into you the breath of life, and reared you and placed you upon the royal throne of Matzarayam, and he will take your breath and soul from you, and return you to the ground whence you were taken.⁵¹ And the anger of the king was kindled at their words, and he said to them, But who amongst all the Gods of nations can do this? my river is mine own, and I have made it for myself.⁵² And he drove them from him, and he ordered the labor upon Yasharaal to be more severe than it was yesterday and before.⁵³ And Mashah and Aharan went out from the king's presence, and they saw the children of Yasharaal in an evil condition for the task-masters had made their labor exceedingly heavy.⁵⁴ And Mashah returned to the Adanay and said, Why have you ill treated your people? for since I came to speak to Paraih what you did send me for, he has exceedingly ill used the children of Yasharaal.⁵⁵ And the Adanay said to Mashah, Behold you will see that with an outstretched hand and heavy plagues, Paraih will send the children of Yasharaal from his land.⁵⁶ And Mashah and Aharan dwelt amongst their brethren the children of Yasharaal in Matzarayam.⁵⁷ And as for the children of Yasharaal the Matzarayam embittered their lives, with the heavy work which they imposed upon them.

80 And at the end of two years, the Adanay again sent Mashah to Paraih to bring forth the children of Yasharaal, and to send them out of the land of Matzarayam.² And Mashah went and came to the house of Paraih, and he spoke to him the words of the Adanay who had sent him, but Paraih would not hearken to the voice of the Adanay, and Alahayam roused his might in Matzarayam upon Paraih and his subjects, and Alahayam smote Paraih and his people with very great and sore plagues.³ And the Adanay sent by the hand of Aharan and turned all the waters of Matzarayam into blood, with all their streams and rivers.⁴ And when an Matzarayam came to drink and draw water, he looked into his pitcher, and behold all the water was turned into blood; and when he came to drink from his cup the water in the cup became blood.⁵ And when a woman kneaded her dough and cooked her victuals, their appearance was turned to that of blood.⁶ And the Adanay sent again and caused all their waters to bring forth frogs, and all the frogs came into the houses of the Matzarayam.⁷ And when the Matzarayam drank, their bellies were filled with frogs and they danced in their bellies as they dance when in the river.⁸ And all their drinking water and cooking water turned to frogs, also when they lay in their beds their perspiration bred frogs.⁹ Notwithstanding all this the anger of the Adanay did not turn from them, and his hand was stretched out against all the Matzarayam to smite them with every heavy plague.¹⁰ And he sent and smote their dust to lice, and the lice became in Matzarayam to the height of two cubits upon the earth.¹¹ The lice were also very numerous, in the flesh of man and beast, in all the inhabitants of Matzarayam, also upon the king and queen the Adanay sent the lice, and it grieved Matzarayam exceedingly on account of the lice.¹² Notwithstanding this, the anger of the Adanay did not turn away, and his hand was still stretched out over Matzarayam.¹³ And the Adanay sent all kinds of beasts of the field into Matzarayam, and they came and destroyed all Matzarayam, man and beast, and trees, and all things that were in Matzarayam.¹⁴ And the Adanay sent fiery serpents, scorpions, mice, weasels, toads, together with others creeping in dust.¹⁵ Flies, hornets, fleas, bugs and gnats, each swarm according to its kind.¹⁶ And all reptiles and winged animals according to their kind came to Matzarayam and grieved the Matzarayam exceedingly.¹⁷ And the fleas and flies came into the eyes and ears of the Matzarayam.¹⁸ And the hornet came upon them and drove them away, and they removed from it into their inner rooms, and it pursued them.¹⁹ And when the Matzarayam hid themselves on account of the swarm of animals, they locked their doors after them, and Alahayam ordered the Sulanuth which was in the sea, to come up and go into Matzarayam.²⁰ And she had long arms, ten cubits in length of the cubit of a man.²¹ And she went upon the roofs and uncovered the rafters and flooring and cut them, and stretched forth her arm into the house and removed the lock and the bolt, and opened the houses of

Matzarayam.²² Afterward came the swarm of animals into the houses of Matzarayam, and the swarm of animals destroyed the Matzarayam, and it grieved them exceedingly.²³ Notwithstanding this the anger of the Adanay did not turn away from the Matzarayam, and his hand was yet stretched forth against them.²⁴ And Alahayam sent the pestilence, and the pestilence pervaded Matzarayam, in the horses and asses, and in the camels, in herds of oxen and sheep and in man.²⁵ And when the Matzarayam rose up early in the morning to take their cattle to pasture they found all their cattle dead.²⁶ And there remained of the cattle of the Matzarayam only one in ten, and of the cattle belonging to Yasharaal in Gashan not one died.²⁷ And Alahayam sent a burning inflammation in the flesh of the Matzarayam, which burst their skins, and it became a severe itch in all the Matzarayam from the soles of their feet to the crowns of their heads.²⁸ And many boils were in their flesh, that their flesh wasted away until they became rotten and putrid.²⁹ Notwithstanding this the anger of the Adanay did not turn away, and his hand was still stretched out over all Matzarayam.³⁰ And the Adanay sent a very heavy hail, which smote their vines and broke their fruit trees and dried them up that they fell upon them.³¹ Also every green herb became dry and perished, for a mingling fire descended amidst the hail, therefore the hail and the fire consumed all things.³² Also men and beasts that were found abroad perished of the flames of fire and of the hail, and all the young lions were exhausted.³³ And the Adanay sent and brought numerous locusts into Matzarayam, the Chasel, Salom, Chargol, and Chagole, locusts each of its kind, which devoured all that the hail had left remaining.³⁴ Then the Matzarayam rejoiced at the locusts, although they consumed the produce of the field, and they caught them in abundance and salted them for food.³⁵ And the Adanay turned a mighty wind of the sea which took away all the locusts, even those that were salted, and thrust them into the Sawap; not one locust remained within the boundaries of Matzarayam.³⁶ And Alahayam sent darkness upon Matzarayam, that the whole land of Matzarayam and Patharawas became dark for three days, so that a man could not see his hand when he lifted it to his mouth.³⁷ At that time died many of the people of Yasharaal who had rebelled against the Adanay and who would not hearken to Mashah and Aharan, and believed not in them that Alahayam had sent them.³⁸ And who had said, We will not go forth from Matzarayam lest we perish with hunger in a desolate wilderness, and who would not hearken to the voice of Mashah.³⁹ And the Adanay plagued them in the three days of darkness, and the Israelites buried them in those days, without the Matzarayam knowing of them or rejoicing over them.⁴⁰ And the darkness was very great in Matzarayam for three days, and any person who was standing when the darkness came, remained standing in his place, and he that was sitting remained sitting, and he that was lying continued lying in the same state, and he that was walking remained sitting upon the ground in the same spot; and this thing happened to all the Matzarayam, until the darkness had passed away.⁴¹ And the days of darkness passed away, and the Adanay sent Mashah and Aharan to the children of Yasharaal, saying, Celebrate your feast and make your Passover, for behold I come in the midst of the night amongst all the Matzarayam, and I will smite all their first born, from the first born of a man to the first born of a beast, and when I see your Passover, I will pass over you.⁴² And the children of Yasharaal did according to all that the Adanay had commanded Mashah and Aharan, thus did they in that night.⁴³ And it came to pass in the middle of the night, that the Adanay went forth in the midst of Matzarayam, and smote all the first born of the Matzarayam, from the first born of man to the first born of beast.⁴⁴ And Paraih rose up in the night, he and all his servants and all the Matzarayam, and there was a great cry throughout Matzarayam in that night, for there was not a house in which there was not a corpse.⁴⁵ Also the likenesses of the first born of Matzarayam, which were carved in the walls at their houses, were destroyed and fell to the ground.⁴⁶ Even the bones of their first born who had died before this and whom they had buried in their houses, were raked up by the dogs of Matzarayam on that night and dragged before the Matzarayam and cast before them.⁴⁷ And all the Matzarayam saw this evil which had suddenly come upon them, and all the Matzarayam cried out with a loud voice.⁴⁸ And all the families of Matzarayam wept upon that night, each man for his son and each man for his daughter, being the first born, and the tumult of Matzarayam was heard at a distance on that night.⁴⁹ And Bathia the daughter of Paraih went forth with the king on that night to seek Mashah and Aharan in their houses, and they found them in their houses, eating and drinking and rejoicing with all Yasharaal.⁵⁰ And Bathia said to Mashah, Is this the reward for the good which I have done to you, who have reared you and stretched you out, and you have brought this evil upon me and my father's house?⁵¹ And Mashah said to her, Surely ten plagues did the Adanay bring upon Matzarayam; did any evil accrue to you from any of them? did one of them affect you? and she said, No.⁵² And Mashah said to her, Although you are the first born to your mother, you shall not die, and no evil shall reach you in the midst of Matzarayam.⁵³ And she said, What advantage is it to me, when I see the king, my brother, and all his household and subjects in this evil, whose first born perish with all the first born of Matzarayam?⁵⁴ And Mashah said to her, Surely your brother and his household, and subjects, the families of Matzarayam, would not hearken to the words of the Adanay, therefore did this evil come upon them.⁵⁵ And Paraih king of Matzarayam approached Mashah and Aharan, and some of the children of Yasharaal who were with them in that place, and he prayed to them, saying,⁵⁶ Rise up and take your brethren, all the children of Yasharaal who are in the land, with their sheep and oxen, and all belonging to them, they shall leave nothing remaining, only pray for me to the Adanay your Alahayam.⁵⁷ And Mashah said to Paraih, Behold though you are your mother's first born, yet fear not, for you will not die, for the Adanay has commanded that you shall live, in order to show you his great might and strong stretched out arm.⁵⁸ And Paraih ordered the children of Yasharaal to be sent away, and all the Matzarayam strengthened themselves to send them, for they said, We are all perishing.⁵⁹ And all the Matzarayam sent the Israelites forth, with great riches, sheep and oxen and precious things, according to the oath of the Adanay between him and our Father Abaraham.⁶⁰ And the children of Yasharaal delayed going forth at night, and when the Matzarayam came to them to bring them out, they said to them, Are we thieves, that we should go forth at night?⁶¹ And the children of Yasharaal asked of the Matzarayam, vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and garments, and the children of Yasharaal stripped the Matzarayam.⁶² And Mashah hastened and rose up and went to the river of Matzarayam, and brought up from thence the coffin of Yawasap and took it with him.⁶³ The children of Yasharaal also brought up, each man his father's coffin with him, and each man the coffins of his tribe.

81 And the children of Yasharaal journeyed from Raimasas to Sakawath, about six hundred thousand men on foot, besides the little ones and their wives.² Also a mixed multitude went up with them, and flocks and herds, even much cattle.³ And the sojourning of the children of Yasharaal, who dwelt in the land of Matzarayam in hard labor, was two hundred and ten years.⁴ And at the end of two hundred and ten years, the Adanay brought forth the children of Yasharaal from Matzarayam with a strong hand.⁵ And the children of Yasharaal traveled from Matzarayam and from Gashan and from Raimasas, and encamped in Sakawath on the fifteenth day of the first month.⁶ And the Matzarayam buried all their first born whom the Adanay had smitten, and all the Matzarayam buried their slain for three days.⁷ And the children of Yasharaal traveled from Sakawath and encamped in Ethom, at the end of the wilderness.⁸ And on the third day after the Matzarayam had buried their first born, many men rose up from Matzarayam and went after Yasharaal to make them return to Matzarayam, for they repented that they had sent the Israelites away from their servitude.⁹ And one man said to his neighbor, Surely Mashah and Aharan spoke to Paraih, saying, We will go a three days' journey in the wilderness and sacrifice to the Adanay our Alahayam.¹⁰ Now therefore let us rise up early in the morning and cause them to return, and it shall be that if they return with us to Matzarayam to their masters, then shall we know that there is faith in them, but if they will not return, then will we fight with them, and make them come back with great power and a strong hand.¹¹ And all the nobles of Paraih rose up in the morning, and with them about seven hundred thousand men, and they went forth from Matzarayam on that day, and came to the place where the children of Yasharaal were.¹² And all the Matzarayam saw and behold Mashah and Aharan and all the children of Yasharaal were sitting before Hachayarath, eating and drinking and celebrating the feast of the Adanay.¹³ And all the Matzarayam said to the children of Yasharaal, Surely you said, We will go a journey for three days in the wilderness and sacrifice to our Alahayam and return.¹⁴ Now therefore this day makes five days since you went, why do you not return to your masters?¹⁵ And Mashah and Aharan answered them, saying, Because the Adanay our Alahayam has testified in us, saying, You shall no more return to Matzarayam, but we will betake ourselves to a land flowing with milk and honey, as the Adanay our Alahayam had sworn to our ancestors to give to us.¹⁶ And when the nobles of Matzarayam saw that the children of Yasharaal did not hearken to them, to return to Matzarayam, they girded themselves to fight with Yasharaal.¹⁷ And the Adanay strengthened the hearts of the children of Yasharaal over the Matzarayam, that they gave them a severe beating, and the battle was sore upon the Matzarayam, and all the Matzarayam fled from before the children of Yasharaal, for many of them perished by the hand of Yasharaal.¹⁸ And the nobles of Paraih went to Matzarayam and told Paraih, saying, The children of Yasharaal have fled, and will no more return to Matzarayam, and in this manner did Mashah and Aharan speak to us.¹⁹ And Paraih heard this thing, and his heart and the hearts of all his subjects were turned against Yasharaal, and they repented that they had sent Yasharaal; and all the Matzarayam advised Paraih to pursue the children of Yasharaal to make them come back to their burdens.²⁰ And they said each man to his brother, What is this which we have done, that we have sent Yasharaal from our servitude?²¹ And the Adanay strengthened the hearts of all the Matzarayam to pursue the Israelites, for the Adanay desired to overthrow the Matzarayam in the Sawap.²² And Paraih rose up and harnessed his chariot, and he ordered all the Matzarayam to assemble, not one man was left excepting the little ones and the women.²³ And all the Matzarayam went forth with Paraih to pursue the children of Yasharaal, and the camp of Matzarayam was an exceedingly large and heavy camp, about ten hundred thousand men.²⁴ And the whole of this camp went and pursued the children of Yasharaal to bring them back to Matzarayam, and they reached them encamping by the Sawap.²⁵ And the children of Yasharaal lifted up their eyes, and beheld all the Matzarayam pursuing them, and the children of Yasharaal were greatly terrified at them, and the children of Yasharaal cried to the Adanay.²⁶ And on account of the Matzarayam, the children of Yasharaal divided themselves into four divisions, and they were divided in their opinions, for they were afraid of the Matzarayam, and Mashah spoke to each of them.²⁷ The first division was of the children of Raawaban, Shamaiwan, and Yashashakar, and they resolved to cast themselves into the sea, for they were exceedingly afraid of the Matzarayam.²⁸ And Mashah said to them, Fear not, stand still and see the salvation of the Adanay which He will effect this day for you.²⁹ The second division was of the children of Zabawalan, Banayaman and Napathalay, and they resolved to go back to Matzarayam with the Matzarayam.³⁰ And Mashah said to them, Fear not, for as you have seen the Matzarayam this day, so shall you see them no more for ever.³¹ The third division was of the children of Yahawadah and Yawasap, and they resolved to go to meet the Matzarayam to fight with them.³² And Mashah said to them, Stand in your places, for the Adanay will fight for you, and you shall remain silent.³³ And the fourth division was of the children of Laway, Gad, and Ashar, and they resolved to go into the midst of the Matzarayam to confound them, and Mashah said to them, Remain in your stations and fear not, only call to the Adanay that he may save you out of their hands.³⁴ After this Mashah rose up from amidst the people, and he prayed to the Adanay and said,³⁵ O Adanay Alahayam of the whole earth, save now your people whom you did bring forth from Matzarayam, and let not the Matzarayam boast that power and might are theirs.³⁶ So the Adanay said to Mashah, Why do you cry to me? speak to the children of Yasharaal that they shall proceed, and do you stretch out your rod upon the sea and divide it, and the children of Yasharaal shall pass through it.³⁷ And Mashah did so, and he lifted up his rod upon the sea and divided it.³⁸ And the waters of the sea were divided into twelve parts, and the children of Yasharaal passed through on foot, with shoes, as a man would pass through a prepared road.³⁹ And the Adanay manifested to the children of Yasharaal his wonders in Matzarayam and in the sea by the hand of Mashah and Aharan.⁴⁰ And when the children of Yasharaal had entered the sea, the Matzarayam came after them, and the waters of the sea resumed upon them, and they all sank in the water, and not one man was left excepting Paraih, who gave thanks to the Adanay and believed in him, therefore the Adanay did not cause him to perish at that time with the Matzarayam.⁴¹ And the Adanay ordered an angel to take him from amongst the Matzarayam, who cast him upon the land of Ninevah and he reigned over it for a long time.⁴² And on that day the Adanay saved Yasharaal from the hand of Matzarayam, and all the children of Yasharaal saw that the Matzarayam had perished, and they beheld the great hand of the Adanay, in what he had performed in Matzarayam and in the sea.⁴³ Then sang Mashah and the children of Yasharaal this song to the Adanay, on the day when the Adanay caused the Matzarayam to fall before them.⁴⁴ And all Yasharaal sang in concert, saying, I will sing to the Adanay for He is greatly exalted, the horse and his rider has he cast into the sea; behold it is written in the book of the law of Alahayam.⁴⁵ After this the children of Yasharaal proceeded on their journey, and encamped in Marah, and the Adanay gave to the children of Yasharaal statutes and judgments in that place in Marah, and the Adanay commanded the children of Yasharaal to walk in all his ways and to serve him.⁴⁶ And they journeyed from Marah and came to Ayalam, and in Ayalam were twelve springs of water and seventy date trees, and the children encamped there by the waters.⁴⁷ And they journeyed from Ayalam and came to the wilderness of Sayan, on the fifteenth day of the second month after their departure from Matzarayam.⁴⁸ At that time the Adanay gave the manna to the children of Yasharaal to eat, and the Adanay caused food to rain from heaven for the children of Yasharaal day by day.⁴⁹ And the children of Yasharaal ate the manna for forty years, all the days that they were in the wilderness, until they came to the land of Kanain to possess it.⁵⁰ And they proceeded from the wilderness of Sayan and encamped in Alawash.⁵¹ And they proceeded from Alawash and encamped in Rapayadam.⁵² And when the children of Yasharaal were in Rapayadam, Imalaq the son of Alayapaz, the son of Ishaw, the brother of Tzapaw, came to fight with Yasharaal.⁵³ And he brought with him eight hundred and one thousand men, magicians and conjurers, and he prepared for battle with Yasharaal in Rapayadam.⁵⁴ And they carried on a great and severe battle against Yasharaal, and the Adanay delivered Imalaq and his people into the hands of Mashah and the children of Yasharaal, and into the hand of Yahawashai, the son of Nawan, the Ephrathite, the servant of Mashah.⁵⁵ And the children of Yasharaal smote Imalaq and his people at the edge of the sword, but the battle was very sore upon the children of Yasharaal.⁵⁶ And the Adanay said to Mashah, Write this thing as a memorial for you in a book, and place it in the hand of Yahawashai, the son of Nawan, your servant, and you shall command the children of Yasharaal, saying, When you shall come to the land of Kanain, you shall utterly efface the remembrance of Imalaq from under heaven.⁵⁷ And Mashah did so, and he took the book and wrote upon it these words, saying,⁵⁸ Remember what Imalaq has done to you in the road when you went forth from Matzarayam.⁵⁹ Who met you in the road and smote your rear, even those that were feeble behind you when you were faint and weary.⁶⁰ Therefore it shall be when the Adanay your Alahayam shall have given you rest from all your enemies round about in the land which the Adanay your Alahayam gives you for an inheritance, to possess it, that you shall blot out the remembrance of Imalaq from under heaven, you shall not forget it.⁶¹ And the king who shall have pity on Imalaq, or upon his memory or upon his seed, behold I will require it of him, and I will cut him off from amongst his people.⁶² And Mashah wrote all these things in a book, and he enjoined the children of Yasharaal respecting all these matters.

82 And the children of Yasharaal proceeded from Rapayadam and they encamped in the wilderness of Sayanay, in the third month from their going forth from Matzarayam.² At that time came Raiwaal the Madayan, the father-in-law of Mashah, with Tzaparah his daughter and her two sons, for he had heard of the wonders of the Adanay which he had done to Yasharaal, that he had delivered them from the hand of Matzarayam.³ And Raiwaal came to Mashah to the wilderness where he was encamped, where was the mountain of Alahayam.⁴ And Mashah went forth to meet his father-in-law with great honor, and all Yasharaal was with him.⁵ And Raiwaal and his children remained amongst the Israelites for many days, and Raiwaal knew the Adanay from that day forward.⁶ And in the third month from the children of Israel's departure from Matzarayam, on the sixth day thereof, the Adanay gave to Yasharaal the ten commandments on Mount Sayanay.⁷ And all Yasharaal heard all these commandments, and all Yasharaal rejoiced exceedingly in the Adanay on that day.⁸ And the glory of the Adanay rested upon Mount Sayanay, and he called to Mashah, and Mashah came in the midst of a cloud and ascended the mountain.⁹ And Mashah was upon the mount forty days and forty nights; he ate no bread and drank no water, and the Adanay instructed him in the statutes and judgments in order to teach the children of Yasharaal.¹⁰ And the Adanay wrote the ten commandments which he had commanded the children of Yasharaal upon two tablets of stone, which he gave to Mashah to command the children of Yasharaal.¹¹ And at the end of forty days and forty nights, when the Adanay had finished speaking to Mashah on Mount Sayanay, then the Adanay gave to Mashah the tablets of stone, written with the finger of Alahayam.¹² And when the children of Yasharaal saw that Mashah tarried to come down from the mount, they gathered round Aharan, and said, As for this man Mashah we know not what has become of him.¹³ Now therefore rise up, make to us a god who shall go before us, so that you shall not die.¹⁴ And Aharan was greatly afraid of the people, and he ordered them to bring him gold and he made it into a molten calf for the people.¹⁵ And the Adanay said to Mashah, before he had come down from the mount, Get you down, for your people whom you did bring forth from Matzarayam have corrupted themselves.¹⁶ They have made to themselves a molten calf, and have bowed down to it, now therefore leave me, that I may consume them from off the earth, for they are a stiffnecked people.¹⁷ And Mashah besought the countenance of the Adanay, and he prayed to the Adanay for the people on account of the calf which they had made, and he afterward descended from the mount and in his hands were the two tablets of stone, which Alahayam had given him to command the Israelites.¹⁸ And when Mashah approached the camp and saw the calf which the people had made, the anger of Mashah was kindled and he broke the tablets under the mount.¹⁹ And Mashah came to the camp and he took the calf and burned it with fire, and ground it till it became fine dust, and strewed it upon the water and gave it to the Israelites to drink.²⁰ And there died of the people by the swords of each other about three thousand men who had made the calf.²¹ And on the morrow Mashah said to the people, I will go up to the Adanay, peradventure I may make atonement for your sins which you have sinned to the Adanay.²² And Mashah again went up to the Adanay, and he remained with the Adanay forty days and forty nights.²³ And during the forty days did Mashah entreat the Adanay in behalf of the children of Yasharaal, and the Adanay hearkened to the prayer of Mashah, and the Adanay was entreated of him in behalf of Yasharaal.²⁴ Then spoke the Adanay to Mashah to hew two stone tablets and to bring them up to the Adanay, who would write upon them the ten commandments.²⁵ Now Mashah did so, and he came down and hewed the two tablets and went up to Mount Sayanay to the Adanay, and the Adanay wrote the ten commandments upon the tablets.²⁶ And Mashah remained yet with the Adanay forty days and forty nights, and the Adanay instructed him in statutes and judgments to impart to Yasharaal.²⁷ And the Adanay commanded him respecting the children of Yasharaal that they should make a sanctuary for the Adanay, that his name might rest therein, and the Adanay showed him the likeness of the sanctuary and the likeness of all its vessels.²⁸ And at the end of the forty days, Mashah came down from the mount and the two tablets were in his hand.²⁹ And Mashah came to the children of Yasharaal and spoke to them all the words of the Adanay, and he taught them laws, statutes and judgments which the Adanay had taught him.³⁰ And Mashah told the children of Yasharaal the word of the Adanay, that a sanctuary should be made for him, to dwell amongst the children of Yasharaal.³¹ And the people rejoiced greatly at all the good which the Adanay had spoken to them, through Mashah, and they said, We will do all that the Adanay has spoken to you.³² And the people rose up like one man and they made generous offerings to the sanctuary of the Adanay, and each man brought the offering of the Adanay for the work of the sanctuary, and for all its service.³³ And all the children of Yasharaal brought each man of all that was found in his possession for the work of the sanctuary of the Adanay, gold, silver and brass, and every thing that was serviceable for the sanctuary.³⁴ And all the wise men who were practiced in work came and made the sanctuary of the Adanay, according to all that the Adanay had commanded, every man in the work in which he had been practiced; and all the wise men in heart made the sanctuary, and its furniture and all the vessels for the holy service, as the Adanay had commanded Mashah.³⁵ And the work of the sanctuary of the tabernacle was completed at the end of five months, and the children of Yasharaal did all that the Adanay had commanded Mashah.³⁶ And they brought the sanctuary and all its furniture to Mashah; like to the representation which the Adanay had shown to Mashah, so did the children of Yasharaal.³⁷ And Mashah saw the work, and behold they did it as the Adanay had commanded him, so Mashah blessed them.

83 And in the twelfth month, in the twenty-third day of the month, Mashah took Aharan and his sons, and he dressed them in their garments, and anointed them and did to them as the Adanay had commanded him, and Mashah brought up all the offerings which the Adanay had on that day commanded him.² Mashah afterward took Aharan and his sons and said to them, For seven days shall you remain at the door of the tabernacle, for thus am I commanded.³ And Aharan and his sons did all that the Adanay had commanded them through Mashah, and they remained for seven days at the door of the tabernacle.⁴ And on the eighth day, being the first day of the first month, in the second year from the Israelites' departure from Matzarayam, Mashah erected the sanctuary, and Mashah put up all the furniture of the tabernacle and all the furniture of the sanctuary, and he did all that the Adanay had commanded him.⁵ And Mashah called to Aharan and his sons, and they brought the burnt offering and the sin offering for themselves and the children of Yasharaal, as the Adanay had commanded Mashah.⁶ On that day the two sons of Aharan, Nadab and Abayahawaa, took strange fire and brought it before the Adanay who had not commanded them, and a fire went forth from before the Adanay, and consumed them, and they died before the Adanay on that day.⁷ Then on the day when Mashah had completed to erect the sanctuary, the princes of the children of Yasharaal began to bring their offerings before the Adanay for the dedication of the altar.⁸ And they brought up their offerings each prince for one day, a prince each day for twelve days.⁹ And all the offerings which they brought, each man in his day, one silver charger weighing one hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels after the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour, mingled with oil for a meat offering.¹⁰ One spoon, weighing ten shekels of gold, full of incense.¹¹ One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the first year for a burnt offering.¹² And one kid of the goats for a sin offering.¹³ And for a sacrifice of peace offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of a year old.¹⁴ Thus did the twelve princes of Yasharaal day by day, each man in his day.¹⁵ And it was after this, in the thirteenth day of the month, that Mashah commanded the children of Yasharaal to observe the Passover.¹⁶ And the children of Yasharaal kept the Passover in its season in the fourteenth day of the month, as the Adanay had commanded Mashah, so did the children of Yasharaal.¹⁷ And in the second month, on the first day thereof, the Adanay spoke to Mashah, saying,¹⁸ Number the heads of all the males of the children of Yasharaal from twenty years old and upward, you and your brother Aharan and the twelve princes of Yasharaal.¹⁹ And Mashah did so, and Aharan came with the twelve princes of Yasharaal, and they numbered the children of Yasharaal in the wilderness of Sayanay.²⁰ And the numbers of the children of Yasharaal by the houses of their fathers, from twenty years old and upward, were six hundred and three thousand, five hundred and fifty.²¹ But the children of Laway were not numbered amongst their brethren the children of Yasharaal.²² And the number of all the males of the children of Yasharaal from one month old and upward, was twenty-two thousand, two hundred and seventy-three.²³ And the number of the children of Laway from one month old and above, was twenty-two thousand.²⁴ And Mashah placed the priests and the Levites each man to his service and to his burden to serve the sanctuary of the tabernacle, as the Adanay had commanded Mashah.²⁵ And on the twentieth day of the month, the cloud was taken away from the tabernacle of testimony.²⁶ At that time the children of Yasharaal continued their journey from the wilderness of Sayanay, and they took a journey of three days, and the cloud rested upon the wilderness of Paaran; there the anger of the Adanay was kindled against Yasharaal, for they had provoked the Adanay in asking him for meat, that they might eat.²⁷ And the Adanay hearkened to their voice, and gave them meat which they ate for one month.²⁸ But after this the anger of the Adanay was kindled against them, and he smote them with a great slaughter, and they were buried there in that place.²⁹ And the children of Yasharaal called that place Kebroth Hattaavah, because there they buried the people that lusted flesh.³⁰ And they departed from Kebroth Hattaavah and pitched in Chatzarawath, which is in the wilderness of Paaran.³¹ And whilst the children of Yasharaal were in Chatzarawath, the anger of the Adanay was kindled against Marayam on account of Mashah, and she became leprous, white as snow.³² And she was confined without the camp for seven days, until she had been received again after her leprosy.³³ The children of Yasharaal afterward departed from Chatzarawath, and pitched in the end of the wilderness of Paaran.³⁴ At that time, the Adanay spoke to Mashah to send twelve men from the children of Yasharaal, one man to a tribe, to go and explore the land of Kanain.³⁵ And Mashah sent the twelve men, and they came to the land of Kanain to search and examine it, and they explored the whole land from the wilderness of Sayan to Rachab as you come to Chamoth.³⁶ And at the end of forty days they came to Mashah and Aharan, and they brought him word as it was in their hearts, and ten of the men brought up an evil report to the children of Yasharaal, of the land which they had explored, saying, It is better for us to return to Matzarayam than to go to this land, a land that consumes its inhabitants.³⁷ But Yahawashai the son of Nawan, and Kalab the son of Jephuneh, who were of those that explored the land, said, The land is exceedingly good.³⁸ If the Adanay delight in us, then he will bring us to this land and give it to us, for it is a land flowing with milk and honey.³⁹ But the children of Yasharaal would not hearken to them, and they hearkened to the words of the ten men who had brought up an evil report of the land.⁴⁰ And the Adanay heard the murmurings of the children of Yasharaal and he was angry and swore, saying,⁴¹ Surely not one man of this wicked generation shall see the land from twenty years old and upward excepting Kalab the son of Jephuneh and

Yahawashai the son of Nawan.⁴² But surely this wicked generation shall perish in this wilderness, and their children shall come to the land and they shall possess it; so the anger of the Adanay was kindled against Yasharaal, and he made them wander in the wilderness for forty years until the end of that wicked generation, because they did not follow the Adanay.⁴³ And the people dwelt in the wilderness of Paaran a long time, and they afterward proceeded to the wilderness by the way of the Sawap.

84 At that time Qarach the son of Jetzer the son of Kehath the son of Laway, took many men of the children of Yasharaal, and they rose up and quarreled with Mashah and Aharan and the whole congregation.² And the Adanay was angry with them, and the earth opened its mouth, and swallowed them up, with their houses and all belonging to them, and all the men belonging to Qarach.³ And after this Alahayam made the people go round by the way of Mount Shaiyar for a long time.⁴ At that time the Adanay said to Mashah, Provoke not a war against the children of Ishaw, for I will not give to you of any thing belonging to them, as much as the sole of the foot could tread upon, for I have given Mount Shaiyar for an inheritance to Ishaw.⁵ Therefore did the children of Ishaw fight against the children of Shaiyar in former times, and the Adanay had delivered the children of Shaiyar into the hands of the children of Ishaw, and destroyed them from before them, and the children of Ishaw dwelt in their stead to this day.⁶ Therefore the Adanay said to the children of Yasharaal, Fight not against the children of Ishaw your brethren, for nothing in their land belongs to you, but you may buy food of them for money and eat it, and you may buy water of them for money and drink it.⁷ And the children of Yasharaal did according to the word of the Adanay.⁸ And the children of Yasharaal went about the wilderness, going round by the way of Mount Sayanay for a long time, and touched not the children of Ishaw, and they continued in that district for nineteen years.⁹ At that time died Latinus king of the children of Kathayam, in the forty-fifth year of his reign, which is the fourteenth year of the children of Israel's departure from Matzarayam.¹⁰ And they buried him in his place which he had built for himself in the land of Kathayam, and Abimnas reigned in his place for thirty-eight years.¹¹ And the children of Yasharaal passed the boundary of the children of Ishaw in those days, at the end of nineteen years, and they came and passed the road of the wilderness of Mawaab.¹² And the Adanay said to Mashah, besiege not Mawaab, and do not fight against them, for I will give you nothing of their land.¹³ And the children of Yasharaal passed the road of the wilderness of Mawaab for nineteen years, and they did not fight against them.¹⁴ And in the thirty-sixth year of the children of Israel's departing from Matzarayam the Adanay smote the heart of Sayachawan, king of the Amorites, and he waged war, and went forth to fight against the children of Mawaab.¹⁵ And Sayachawan sent messengers to Baiwar the son of Janeas, the son of Balaim, counsellor to the king of Matzarayam, and to Balaim his son, to curse Mawaab, in order that it might be delivered into the hand of Sayachawan.¹⁶ And the messengers went and brought Baiwar the son of Janeas, and Balaim his son, from Pathawar in Aram, so Baiwar and Balaim his son came to the city of Sayachawan and they cursed Mawaab and their king in the presence of Sayachawan king of the Amorites.¹⁷ So Sayachawan went out with his whole army, and he went to Mawaab and fought against them, and he subdued them, and the Adanay delivered them into his hands, and Sayachawan slew the king of Mawaab.¹⁸ And Sayachawan took all the cities of Mawaab in the battle; he also took Chashabawan from them, for Chashabawan was one of the cities of Mawaab, and Sayachawan placed his princes and his nobles in Chashabawan, and Chashabawan belonged to Sayachawan in those days.¹⁹ Therefore the parable speakers Baiwar and Balaim his son uttered these words, saying, Come to Chashabawan, the city of Sayachawan will be built and established.²⁰ Woe to you Mawaab! you are lost, O people of Kamawash! behold it is written upon the book of the law of Alahayam.²¹ And when Sayachawan had conquered Mawaab, he placed guards in the cities which he had taken from Mawaab, and a considerable number of the children of Mawaab fell in battle into the hand of Sayachawan, and he made a great capture of them, sons and daughters, and he slew their king; so Sayachawan turned back to his own land.²² And Sayachawan gave numerous presents of silver and gold to Baiwar and Balaim his son, and he dismissed them, and they went to Aram to their home and country.²³ At that time all the children of Yasharaal passed from the road of the wilderness of Mawaab, and returned and surrounded the wilderness of Adawam.²⁴ So the whole congregation came to the wilderness of Sayan in the first month of the fortieth year from their departure from Matzarayam, and the children of Yasharaal dwelt there in Qadash, of the wilderness of Sayan, and Marayam died there and she was buried there.²⁵ At that time Mashah sent messengers to Hadad king of Adawam, saying, Thus says your brother Yasharaal, Let me pass I pray you through your land, we will not pass through field or vineyard, we will not drink the water of the well; we will walk in the king's road.²⁶ And Adawam said to him, You shall not pass through my country, and Adawam went forth to meet the children of Yasharaal with a mighty people.²⁷ And the children of Ishaw refused to let the children of Yasharaal pass through their land, so the Israelites removed from them and fought not against them.²⁸ For before this the Adanay had commanded the children of Yasharaal, saying, You shall not fight against the children of Ishaw, therefore the Israelites removed from them and did not fight against them.²⁹ So the children of Yasharaal departed from Qadash, and all the people came to Mount Har.³⁰ At that time the Adanay said to Mashah, Tell your brother Aharan that he shall die there, for he shall not come to the land which I have given to the children of Yasharaal.³¹ And Aharan went up, at the command of the Adanay, to Mount Har, in the fortieth year, in the fifth month, in the first day of the month.³² And Aharan was one hundred and twenty-three years old when he died in Mount Har

85 And king Iyarad the Canaanite, who dwelt in the south, heard that the Israelites had come by the way of the spies, and he arranged his forces to fight against the Israelites.² And the children of Yasharaal were greatly afraid of him, for he had a great and heavy army, so the children of Yasharaal resolved to return to Matzarayam.³ And the children of Yasharaal turned back about the distance of three days' journey to Maserath Beni Jaakon, for they were greatly afraid on account of the king Iyarad.⁴ And the children of Yasharaal would not get back to their places, so they remained in Beni Jaakon for thirty days.⁵ And when the children of Laway saw that the children of Yasharaal would not turn back, they were jealous for the sake of the Adanay, and they rose up and fought against the Israelites their brethren, and slew of them a great body, and forced them to turn back to their place, Mount Har.⁶ And when they returned, king Iyarad was still arranging his host for battle against the Israelites.⁷ And Yasharaal vowed a vow, saying, If you will deliver this people into my hand, then I will utterly destroy their cities.⁸ And the Adanay hearkened to the voice of Yasharaal, and he delivered the Canaanites into their hand, and he utterly destroyed them and their cities, and he called the name of the place Charamah.⁹ And the children of Yasharaal journeyed from Mount Har and pitched in Abath, and they journeyed from Abath and they pitched at Haibarayam, in the border of Mawaab.¹⁰ And the children of Yasharaal sent to Mawaab, saying, Let us pass now through your land into our place, but the children of Mawaab would not suffer the children of Yasharaal to pass through their land, for the children of Mawaab were greatly afraid lest the children of Yasharaal should do to them as Sayachawan king of the Amorites had done to them, who had taken their land and had slain many of them.¹¹ Therefore Mawaab would not suffer the Israelites to pass through his land, and the Adanay commanded the children of Yasharaal, saying, That they should not fight against Mawaab, so the Israelites removed from Mawaab.¹² And the children of Yasharaal journeyed from the border of Mawaab, and they came to the other side of Aranawan, the border of Mawaab, between Mawaab and the Amorites, and they pitched in the border of Sayachawan, king of the Amorites, in the wilderness of

Qadamawath.¹³ And the children of Yasharaal sent messengers to Sayachawan, king of the Amorites, saying,¹⁴ Let us pass through your land, we will not turn into the fields or into the vineyards, we will go along by the king's highway until we shall have passed your border, but Sayachawan would not suffer the Israelites to pass.¹⁵ So Sayachawan collected all the people of the Amorites and went forth into the wilderness to meet the children of Yasharaal, and he fought against Yasharaal in Yahatz.¹⁶ And the Adanay delivered Sayachawan king of the Amorites into the hand of the children of Yasharaal, and Yasharaal smote all the people of Sayachawan with the edge of the sword and avenged the cause of Mawaab.¹⁷ And the children of Yasharaal took possession of the land of Sayachawan from Aram to Jabuk, to the children of Imawan, and they took all the spoil of the cities.¹⁸ And Yasharaal took all these cities, and Yasharaal dwelt in all the cities of the Amorites.¹⁹ And all the children of Yasharaal resolved to fight against the children of Imawan, to take their land also.²⁰ So the Adanay said to the children of Yasharaal, Do not besiege the children of Imawan, neither stir up battle against them, for I will give nothing to you of their land, and the children of Yasharaal hearkened to the word of the Adanay, and did not fight against the children of Imawan.²¹ And the children of Yasharaal turned and went up by the way of Bashan to the land of Og, king of Bashan, and Og the king of Bashan went out to meet the Israelites in battle, and he had with him many valiant men, and a very strong force from the people of the Amorites.²² And Og king of Bashan was a very powerful man, but Naaron his son was exceedingly powerful, even stronger than he was.²³ And Og said in his heart, Behold now the whole camp of Yasharaal takes up a space of three parsa, now will I smite them at once without sword or spear.²⁴ And Og went up Mount Yahatz, and took therefrom one large stone, the length of which was three parsa, and he placed it on his head, and resolved to throw it upon the camp of the children of Yasharaal, to smite all the Israelites with that stone.²⁵ And the angel of the Adanay came and pierced the stone upon the head of Og, and the stone fell upon the neck of Og that Og fell to the earth on account of the weight of the stone upon his neck.²⁶ At that time the Adanay said to the children of Yasharaal, Be not afraid of him, for I have given him and all his people and all his land into your hand, and you shall do to him as you did to Sayachawan.²⁷ And Mashah went down to him with a small number of the children of Yasharaal, and Mashah smote Og with a stick at the ankles of his feet and slew him.²⁸ The children of Yasharaal afterward pursued the children of Og and all his people, and they beat and destroyed them till there was no remnant left of them.²⁹ Mashah afterward sent some of the children of Yasharaal to spy out Yaizar, for Yaizar was a very famous city.³⁰ And the spies went to Yaizar and explored it, and the spies trusted in the Adanay, and they fought against the men of Yaizar.³¹ And these men took Yaizar and its villages, and the Adanay delivered them into their hand, and they drove out the Amorites who had been there.³² And the children of Yasharaal took the land of the two kings of the Amorites, sixty cities which were on the other side of Yaradan, from the brook of Aranawan to Mount Herman.³³ And the children of Yasharaal journeyed and came into the plain of Mawaab which is on this side of Yaradan, by Yarayachaw.³⁴ And the children of Mawaab heard all the evil which the children of Yasharaal had done to the two kings of the Amorites, to Sayachawan and Og, so all the men of Mawaab were greatly afraid of the Israelites.³⁵ And the elders of Mawaab said, Behold the two kings of the Amorites, Sayachawan and Og, who were more powerful than all the kings of the earth, could not stand against the children of Yasharaal, how then can we stand before them?³⁶ Surely they sent us a message before now to pass through our land on their way, and we would not suffer them, now they will turn upon us with their heavy swords and destroy us; and Mawaab was distressed on account of the children of Yasharaal, and they were greatly afraid of them, and they counselled together what was to be done to the children of Yasharaal.³⁷ And the elders of Mawaab resolved and took one of their men, Balaq the son of Tzapawar the Moabite, and made him

king over them at that time, and Balaq was a very wise man.³⁸ And the elders of Mawaab rose up and sent to the children of Madayan to make peace with them, for a great battle and enmity had been in those days between Mawaab and Madayan, from the days of Hadad the son of Badad king of Adawam, who smote Madayan in the field of Mawaab, to these days.³⁹ And the children of Mawaab sent to the children of Madayan, and they made peace with them, and the elders of Madayan came to the land of Mawaab to make peace in behalf of the children of Madayan.⁴⁰ And the elders of Mawaab counselled with the elders of Madayan what to do in order to save their lives from Yasharaal.⁴¹ And all the children of Mawaab said to the elders of Madayan, Now therefore the children of Yasharaal lick up all that are round about us, as the ox licks up the grass of the field, for thus did they do to the two kings of the Amorites who are stronger than we are.⁴² And the elders of Madayan said to Mawaab, We have heard that at the time when Sayachawan king of the Amorites fought against you, when he prevailed over you and took your land, he had sent to Baiwar the son of Janeas and to Balaim his son from Aram, and they came and cursed you; therefore did the hand of Sayachawan prevail over you, that he took your land.⁴³

Now therefore send you also to Balaim his son, for he still remains in his land, and give him his hire, that he may come and curse all the people of whom you are afraid; so the elders of Mawaab heard this thing, and it pleased them to send to Balaim the son of Baiwar.⁴⁴ So Balaq the son of Tzapawar king of Mawaab sent messengers to Balaim, saying,⁴⁵ Behold there is a people come out from Matzarayam, behold they cover the face of the earth, and they abide over against me.⁴⁶ Now therefore come and curse this people for me, for they are too mighty for me, peradventure I shall prevail to fight against them, and drive them out, for I heard that he whom you bless is blessed, and whom you curse is cursed.⁴⁷ So the messengers of Balaq went to Balaim and brought Balaim to curse the people to fight against Mawaab.⁴⁸ And Balaim came to Balaq to curse Yasharaal, and the Adanay said to Balaim, Curse not this people for it is blessed.⁴⁹ And Balaq urged Balaim day by day to curse Yasharaal, but Balaim hearkened not to Balaq on account of the word of the Adanay which he had spoken to Balaim.⁵⁰ And when Balaq saw that Balaim would not accede to his wish, he rose up and went home, and Balaim also returned to his land and he went from there to Madayan.⁵¹ And the children of Yasharaal journeyed from the plain of Mawaab, and pitched by Yaradan from Bayath-jesimoth even to Habal-Shatayam, at the end of the plains of Mawaab.⁵² And when the children of Yasharaal abode in the plain of Shatayam, they began to commit whoredom with the daughters of Mawaab.⁵³ And the children of Yasharaal approached Mawaab, and the children of Mawaab pitched their tents opposite to the camp of the children of Yasharaal.⁵⁴ And the children of Mawaab were afraid of the children of Yasharaal, and the children of Mawaab took all their daughters and their wives of beautiful aspect and comely appearance, and dressed them in gold and silver and costly garments.⁵⁵ And the children of Mawaab seated those women at the door of their tents, in order that the children of Yasharaal might see them and turn to them, and not fight against Mawaab.⁵⁶ And all the children of Mawaab did this thing to the children of Yasharaal, and every man placed his wife and daughter at the door of his tent, and all the children of Yasharaal saw the act of the children of Mawaab, and the children of Yasharaal turned to the daughters of Mawaab and coveted them, and they went to them.⁵⁷

And it came to pass that when a Hebrew came to the door of the tent of Mawaab, and saw a daughter of Mawaab and desired her in his heart, and spoke with her at the door of the tent that which he desired, whilst they were speaking together the men of the tent would come out and speak to the Hebrew like to these words:

⁵⁸ Surely you know that we are brethren, we are all the descendants of Lawat and the descendants of Abaraham his brother, therefore then will you not remain with us, and therefore will you not eat our bread and our sacrifice?⁵⁹ And when the children of Mawaab had thus overwhelmed him with their speeches, and enticed him by their flattering words, they seated him in the tent and cooked and sacrificed for him, and he ate of their sacrifice and of their bread.

⁶⁰ They then gave him wine and he drank and became intoxicated, and they placed before him a beautiful damsel, and he did with her as he liked, for he knew not what he was doing, as he had drunk plentifully of wine.⁶¹ Thus did the children of Mawaab to Yasharaal in that place, in the plain of Shatayam, and the anger of the Adanay was kindled against Yasharaal on account of this matter, and he sent a pestilence amongst them, and there died of the Israelites twenty-four thousand men.⁶² Now there was a man of the children of Shamaiwan whose name was Zamaray, the son of Salawaa, who connected himself with the Madayan Cosbi, the daughter of Tzawar, king of Madayan, in the sight of all the children of Yasharaal.⁶³ And Phineas the son of Elazer, the son of Aharan the priest, saw this wicked thing which Zamaray had done, and he took a spear and rose up and went after them, and pierced them both and slew them, and the pestilence ceased from the children of Yasharaal.

86 At that time after the pestilence, the Adanay said to Mashah, and to Elazer the son of Aharan the priest, saying,² Number the heads of the whole community of the children of Yasharaal, from twenty years old and upward, all that went forth in the army.³ And Mashah and Elazer numbered the children of Yasharaal after their families, and the number of all Yasharaal was seven hundred thousand, seven hundred and thirty.⁴ And the number of the children of Laway, from one month old and upward, was twenty-three thousand, and amongst these there was not a man of those numbered by Mashah and Aharan in the wilderness of Sayanay.⁵ For the Adanay had told them that they would die in the wilderness, so they all died, and not one had been left of them excepting Kalab the son of Jephuneh, and Yahawashai the son of Nawan.⁶ And it was after this that the Adanay said to Mashah, Say to the children of Yasharaal to avenge upon Madayan the cause of their brethren the children of Yasharaal.⁷ And Mashah did so, and the children of Yasharaal chose from amongst them twelve thousand men, being one thousand to a tribe, and they went to Madayan.⁸ And the children of Yasharaal warred against Madayan, and they slew every male, also the five princes of Madayan, and Balaim the son of Baiwar did they slay with the sword.⁹ And the children of Yasharaal took the wives of Madayan captive, with their little ones and their cattle, and all belonging to them.¹⁰ And they took all the spoil and all the prey, and they brought it to Mashah and to Elazer to the plains of Mawaab.¹¹ And Mashah and Elazer and all the princes of the congregation went forth to meet them with joy.¹² And they divided all the spoil of Madayan, and the children of Yasharaal had been revenged upon Madayan for the cause of their brethren the children of Yasharaal.

87 At that time the Adanay said to Mashah, Behold your days are approaching to an end, take now Yahawashai the son of Nawan your servant and place him in the tabernacle, and I will command him, and Mashah did so.² And the Adanay appeared in the tabernacle in a pillar of cloud, and the pillar of cloud stood at the entrance of the tabernacle.³ And the Adanay commanded Yahawashai the son of Nawan and said to him, Be strong and courageous, for you shall bring the children of Yasharaal to the land which I swore to give them, and I will be with you.⁴ And Mashah said to Yahawashai, Be strong and courageous, for you will make the children of Yasharaal inherit the land, and the Adanay will be with you, he will not leave you nor forsake you, be not afraid nor disheartened.⁵ And Mashah called to all the children of Yasharaal and said to them, You have seen all the good which the Adanay your Alahayam has done for you in the wilderness.⁶ Now therefore observe all the words of this law, and walk in the way of the Adanay your Alahayam, turn not from the way which the Adanay has commanded you, either to the right or to the left.⁷ And Mashah taught the children of Yasharaal statutes and judgments and laws to do in the land as the Adanay had commanded him.⁸ And he taught them the way of the Adanay and his laws; behold they are written upon the book of the law of Alahayam which he gave to the children of Yasharaal by the hand of Mashah.⁹ And Mashah finished commanding the children of Yasharaal, and the Adanay said to him, saying, Go up to the Mount Ibarayam and die there, and be gathered to your people as Aharan your brother was gathered.¹⁰ And Mashah went up as the Adanay had commanded him, and he died there in the land of Mawaab by the order of the Adanay, in the fortieth year from the Israelites going forth from the land of Matzarayam.¹¹ And the children of Yasharaal wept for Mashah in the plains of Mawaab for thirty days, and the days of weeping and mourning for Mashah were completed.

88 And it was after the death of Mashah that the Adanay said to Yahawashai the son of Nawan, saying,² Rise up and pass the Yaradan to the land which I have given to the children of Yasharaal, and you shall make the children of Yasharaal inherit the land.³ Every place upon which the sole of your feet shall tread shall belong to you, from the wilderness of Labanawan to the great river the river of Parath shall be your boundary.⁴ No man shall stand up against you all the days of your life; as I was with Mashah, so will I be with you, only be strong and of good courage to observe all the law which Mashah commanded you, turn not from the way either to the right or to the left, in order that you may prosper in all that you do.⁵ And Yahawashai commanded the officers of Yasharaal, saying, Pass through the camp and command the people, saying, Prepare for yourselves provisions, for in three days more you will pass the Yaradan to possess the land.⁶ And the officers of the children of Yasharaal did so, and they commanded the people and they did all that Yahawashai had commanded.⁷ And Yahawashai sent two men to spy out the land of Yarayachaw, and the men went and spied out Yarayachaw.⁸ And at the end of seven days they came to Yahawashai in the camp and said to him, The Adanay has delivered the whole land into our hand, and the inhabitants thereof are melted with fear because of us.⁹ And it came to pass after that, that Yahawashai rose up in the morning and all Yasharaal with him, and they journeyed from Shatayam, and Yahawashai and all Yasharaal with him passed the Yaradan; and Yahawashai was eighty-two years old when he passed the Yaradan with Yasharaal.¹⁰ And the people went up from Yaradan on the tenth day of the first month, and they encamped in Galagal at the eastern corner of Yarayachaw.¹¹ And the children of Yasharaal kept the Passover in Galagal, in the plains of Yarayachaw, on the fourteenth day at the month, as it is written in the law of Mashah.¹² And the manna ceased at that time on the morrow of the Passover, and there was no more manna for the children of Yasharaal, and they ate of the produce of the land of Kanain.¹³ And Yarayachaw was entirely closed against the children of Yasharaal, no one came out or went in.¹⁴ And it was in the second month, on the first day of the month, that the Adanay said to Yahawashai, Rise up, behold I have given Yarayachaw into your hand with all the people thereof; and all your fighting men shall go round the city, once each day, thus shall you do for six days.¹⁵ And the priests shall blow upon trumpets, and when you shall hear the sound of the trumpet, all the people shall give a great shouting, that the walls of the city shall fall down; all the people shall go up every man against his opponent.¹⁶ And Yahawashai did so according to all that the Adanay had commanded him.¹⁷ And on the seventh day they went round the city seven times, and the priests blew upon trumpets.¹⁸ And at the seventh round, Yahawashai said to the people, Shout, for the Adanay has delivered the whole city into our hands.¹⁹ Only the city and all that it contains shall be accursed to the Adanay, and keep yourselves from the accursed thing, lest you make the camp of Yasharaal accursed and trouble it.²⁰ But all the silver and gold and brass and iron shall be consecrated to the Adanay, they shall come into the treasury of the Adanay.²¹ And the people blew upon trumpets and made a great shouting, and the walls of Yarayachaw fell down, and all the people went up, every man straight before him, and they took the city and utterly destroyed all that was in it, both man and woman, young and old, ox and sheep and ass, with the edge of the sword.²² And they burned the whole city with fire; only the vessels of silver and gold, and brass and iron, they put into the treasury of the Adanay.²³ And Yahawashai swore at that time, saying, Cursed be the man who builds Yarayachaw; he shall lay the foundation thereof in his first-born, and in his youngest son shall he set up the gates thereof.²⁴ And Ikan the son of Karamay, the son of Zabaday, the son of Zarach, son of Yahawadah, dealt treacherously in the accursed thing, and he took of the accursed thing and hid it in the tent, and the anger of the Adanay was kindled against Yasharaal.²⁵ And it was after this when the children of Yasharaal had returned from burning Yarayachaw, Yahawashai sent men to spy out also Ai, and to fight against it.²⁶ And the men went up and spied out Ai, and they returned and said, Let not all the people go up with you to Ai, only let about three thousand men go up and smite the city, for the men thereof are but few.²⁷ And Yahawashai did so, and there went up with him of the children of Yasharaal about three thousand men, and they fought against the men of Ai.²⁸ And the battle was severe against Yasharaal, and the men of Ai smote thirty-six men of Yasharaal, and the children of Yasharaal fled from before the men of Ai.²⁹ And when Yahawashai saw this thing, he tore his garments and fell upon his face to the ground before the Adanay, he, with the elders of Yasharaal, and they put dust upon their heads.³⁰ And Yahawashai said, Why O Adanay did you bring this people over the Yaradan? what shall I say after the Israelites have turned their backs against their enemies? ³¹ Now therefore all the Canaanites, inhabitants of the land, will hear this thing, and surround us and cut off our name.³² And the Adanay said to Yahawashai, Why do you fall upon your face? rise, get you off, for the Israelites have sinned, and taken of the accursed thing; I will no more be with them unless they destroy the accursed thing from amongst them.³³ And Yahawashai rose up and assembled the people, and brought the Urim by the order of the Adanay, and the tribe of Yahawadah was taken, and Ikan the son of Karamay was taken.³⁴ And Yahawashai said to Ikan, Tell me my son, what have you done, and Ikan said, I saw amongst the spoil a goodly garment of Shanair and two hundred shekels of silver, and a wedge of gold of fifty shekels weight; I coveted them and took them, and behold they are all hid in the earth in the midst of the tent.³⁵ And Yahawashai sent men who went and took them from the tent of Ikan, and they brought them to Yahawashai.³⁶ And Yahawashai took Ikan and these utensils, and his sons and daughters and all belonging to him, and they brought them into the valley of Ikawar.³⁷ And Yahawashai burned them there with fire, and all the Israelites stoned Ikan with stones, and they raised over him a heap of stones, therefore did he call that place the valley of Ikawar, so the Adanay's anger was appeased, and Yahawashai afterward came to the city and fought against it.³⁸ And the Adanay said to Yahawashai, Fear not, neither be you dismayed, behold I have given into your hand Ai, her king and her people, and you shall do to them as you did to Yarayachaw and her king, only the spoil thereof and the cattle thereof shall you take for a prey for yourselves; lay an ambush for the city behind it.³⁹ So Yahawashai did according to the word of the Adanay, and he chose from amongst the sons of war thirty thousand valiant men, and he sent them, and they lay in ambush for the city.⁴⁰ And he commanded them, saying, When you shall see us we will flee before them with cunning, and they will pursue us, you shall then rise out of the ambush and take the city, and they did so.⁴¹ And Yahawashai fought, and the men of the city went out toward Yasharaal, not knowing that they were lying in ambush for them behind the city.⁴² And Yahawashai and all the Israelites feigned themselves wearied out before them, and they fled by the way of the wilderness with cunning.⁴³ And the men of Ai gathered all the people who were in the city to pursue the Israelites, and they went out and were drawn away from the city, not one remained, and they left the city open and pursued the Israelites.⁴⁴ And those who were lying in ambush rose up out of their places, and hastened to come to the city and took it and set it on fire, and the men of Ai turned back, and behold the smoke of the city ascended to the skies, and they had no means of retreating either one way or the other.⁴⁵ And all the men of Ai were in the midst of Yasharaal, some on this side and some on that side, and they smote them so that not one of them remained.

⁴⁶ And the children of Yasharaal took Melosh king of Ai alive, and they brought him to Yahawashai, and Yahawashai hanged him on a tree and he died. ⁴⁷ And the children of Yasharaal returned to the city after having burned it, and they smote all those that were in it with the edge of the sword. ⁴⁸ And the number of those that had fallen of the men of Ai, both man and woman, was twelve thousand; only the cattle and the spoil of the city they took to themselves, according to the word of the Adanay to Yahawashai. ⁴⁹ And all the kings on this side Yaradan, all the kings of Kanain, heard of the evil which the children of Yasharaal had done to Yarayachaw and to Ai, and they gathered themselves together to fight against Yasharaal. ⁵⁰ Only the inhabitants of Gabaiwan were greatly afraid of fighting against the Israelites lest they should perish, so they acted cunningly, and they came to Yahawashai and to all Yasharaal, and said to them, We have come from a distant land, now therefore make a covenant with us. ⁵¹ And the inhabitants of Gabaiwan over-reached the children of Yasharaal, and the children of Yasharaal made a covenant with them, and they made peace with them, and the princes of the congregation swore to them, but afterward the children of Yasharaal knew that they were neighbors to them and were dwelling amongst them. ⁵² But the children of Yasharaal slew them not; for they had sworn to them by the Adanay, and they became hewers of wood and drawers of water. ⁵³ And Yahawashai said to them, Why did you deceive me, to do this thing to us? and they answered him, saying, Because it was told to your servants all that you had done to all the kings of the Amorites, and we were greatly afraid of our lives, and we did this thing. ⁵⁴ And Yahawashai appointed them on that day to hew wood and to draw water, and he divided them for slaves to all the tribes of Yasharaal. ⁵⁵ And when Adonizedek king of Yarawashalam heard all that the children of Yasharaal had done to Yarayachaw and to Ai, he sent to Hawaham king of Chabarawan and to Paraam king at Yaramawath, and to Yapayai king of Lakayash and to Deber king of Igalawan, saying, ⁵⁶ Come up to me and help me, that we may smite the children of Yasharaal and the inhabitants of Gabaiwan who have made peace with the children of Yasharaal. ⁵⁷ And they gathered themselves together and the five kings of the Amorites went up with all their camps, a mighty people numerous as the sand of the sea shore. ⁵⁸ And all these kings came and encamped before Gabaiwan, and they began to fight against the inhabitants of Gabaiwan, and all the men of Gabaiwan sent to Yahawashai, saying, Come up quickly to us and help us, for all the kings of the Amorites have gathered together to fight against us. ⁵⁹ And Yahawashai and all the fighting people went up from Galagal, and Yahawashai came suddenly to them, and smote these five kings with a great slaughter. ⁶⁰ And the Adanay confounded them before the children at Yasharaal, who smote them with a terrible slaughter in Gabaiwan, and pursued them along the way that goes up to Bayath Horon to Maqadah, and they fled from before the children of Yasharaal. ⁶¹ And whilst they were fleeing, the Adanay sent upon them hailstones from heaven, and more of them died by the hailstones, than by the slaughter of the children of Yasharaal. ⁶² And the children of Yasharaal pursued them, and they still smote them in the road, going on and smiting them. ⁶³ And when they were smiting, the day was declining toward evening, and Yahawashai said in the sight of all the people, Sun, stand you still upon Gabaiwan, and you moon in the valley of Ayalawan, until the nation shall have revenged itself upon its enemies. ⁶⁴ And the Adanay hearkened to the voice of Yahawashai, and the sun stood still in the midst of the heavens, and it stood still six and thirty moments, and the moon also stood still and hastened not to go down a whole day. ⁶⁵ And there was no day like that, before it or after it, that the Adanay hearkened to the voice of a man, for the Adanay fought for Yasharaal.

89 Then spoke Yahawashai this song, on the day that the Adanay had given the Amorites into the hand of Yahawashai and the children of Yasharaal, and he said in the sight of all Yasharaal, ² You have done mighty things, O Adanay, you have performed great deeds; who is like to you? my lips shall sing to your name.

³ My goodness and my fortress, my high tower, I will sing a new song to you, with thanksgiving will I sing to you, you are the strength of my salvation. ⁴ All the kings of the earth shall praise you, the princes of the world shall sing to you, the children of Yasharaal shall rejoice in your salvation, they shall sing and praise your power. ⁵ To you, O Adanay, did we confide; we said you are our Alahayam, for you were our shelter and strong tower against our enemies. ⁶ To you we cried and were not ashamed, in you we trusted and were delivered; when we cried to you, you did hear our voice, you did deliver our souls from the sword, you did show to us your grace, you did give to us your salvation, you did rejoice our hearts with your strength. ⁷ You did go forth for our salvation, with your arm you did redeem your people; you did answer us from the heavens of your holiness, you did save us from ten thousands of people. ⁸ The sun and moon stood still in heaven, and you did stand in your wrath against our oppressors and did command your judgments over them. ⁹ All the princes of the earth stood up, the kings of the nations had gathered themselves together, they were not moved at your presence, they desired your battles. ¹⁰ You did rise against them in your anger, and did bring down your wrath upon them; you did destroy them in your anger, and cut them off in your heart. ¹¹ Nations have been consumed with your fury, kingdoms have declined because of your wrath, you did wound kings in the day of your anger. ¹² You did pour out your fury upon them, your wrathful anger took hold of them; you did turn their iniquity upon them, and did cut them off in their wickedness. ¹³ They did spread a trap, they fell therein, in the net they hid, their foot was caught. ¹⁴ Your hand was ready for all your enemies who said, Through their sword they possessed the land, through their arm they dwelt in the city; you did fill their faces with shame, you did bring their horns down to the ground, you did terrify them in your wrath, and did destroy them in your anger. ¹⁵ The earth trembled and shook at the sound of your storm over them, you did not withhold their souls from death, and did bring down their lives to the grave. ¹⁶ You did pursue them in your storm, you did consume them in your whirlwind, you did turn their rain into hail, they fell in deep pits so that they could not rise. ¹⁷ Their carcasses were like rubbish cast out in the middle of the streets. ¹⁸ They were consumed and destroyed in your anger, you did save your people with your might. ¹⁹ Therefore our hearts rejoice in you, our souls exalt in your salvation. ²⁰ Our tongues shall relate your might, we will sing and praise your wondrous works. ²¹ For you did save us from our enemies, you did deliver us from those who rose up against us, you did destroy them from before us and depress them beneath our feet. ²² Thus shall all your enemies perish O Adanay, and the wicked shall be like chaff driven by the wind, and your beloved shall be like trees planted by the waters. ²³ So Yahawashai and all Yasharaal with him returned to the camp in Galagal, after having smitten all the kings, so that not a remnant was left of them. ²⁴ And the five kings fled alone on foot from battle, and hid themselves in a cave, and Yahawashai sought for them in the field of battle, and did not find them. ²⁵ And it was afterward told to Yahawashai, saying, The kings are found and behold they are hidden in a cave. ²⁶ And Yahawashai said, Appoint men to be at the mouth of the cave, to guard them, lest they take themselves away; and the children of Yasharaal did so. ²⁷ And Yahawashai called to all Yasharaal and said to the officers of battle, Place your feet upon the necks of these kings, and Yahawashai said, So shall the Adanay do to all your enemies. ²⁸ And Yahawashai commanded afterward that they should slay the kings and cast them into the cave, and to put great stones at the mouth of the cave. ²⁹ And Yahawashai went afterward with all the people that were with him on that day to Maqadah, and he smote it with the edge of the sword. ³⁰ And he utterly destroyed the souls and all belonging to the city, and he did to the king and people thereof as he had done to Yarayachaw. ³¹ And he passed from there to Labanah and he fought against it, and the Adanay delivered it into his hand, and Yahawashai smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the souls thereof, and he did to it and to the king thereof as he had done to Yarayachaw. ³² And from there he passed on to Lakayash to fight against it, and Haram king of Izah went up to assist the men of Lakayash, and Yahawashai smote him and his people until there was none left to him.³³ And Yahawashai took Lakayash and all the people thereof, and he did to it as he had done to Labanah.³⁴ And Yahawashai passed from there to Igalawan, and he took that also, and he smote it and all the people thereof with the edge of the sword.³⁵ And from there he passed to Chabarawan and fought against it and took it and utterly destroyed it, and he returned from there with all Yasharaal to Dabar and fought against it and smote it with the edge of the sword.³⁶ And he destroyed every soul in it, he left none remaining, and he did to it and the king thereof as he had done to Yarayachaw.³⁷ And Yahawashai smote all the kings of the Amorites from Qadash-Baranai to Azah, and he took their country at once, for the Adanay had fought for Yasharaal.³⁸ And Yahawashai with all Yasharaal came to the camp to Galagal.³⁹ When at that time Yabayan king of Chazor heard all that Yahawashai had done to the kings of the Amorites, Yabayan sent to Jobat king of Madayan, and to Laban king of Shamarawan, to Jephah king of Akashap, and to all the kings of the Amorites, saying,⁴⁰ Come quickly to us and help us, that we may smite the children of Yasharaal, before they come upon us and do to us as they have done to the other kings of the Amorites.⁴¹ And all these kings hearkened to the words of Yabayan, king of Chazor, and they went forth with all their camps, seventeen kings, and their people were as numerous as the sand on the sea shore, together with horses and chariots innumerable, and they came and pitched together at the waters of Marawam, and they were met together to fight against Yasharaal.⁴² And the Adanay said to Yahawashai, Fear them not, for tomorrow about this time I will deliver them up all slain before you, you shall hough their horses and burn their chariots with fire.⁴³ And Yahawashai with all the men of war came suddenly upon them and smote them, and they fell into their hands, for the Adanay had delivered them into the hands of the children of Yasharaal.⁴⁴ So the children of Yasharaal pursued all these kings with their camps, and smote them until there was none left of them, and Yahawashai did to them as the Adanay had spoken to him.⁴⁵ And Yahawashai returned at that time to Chazor and smote it with the sword and destroyed every soul in it and burned it with fire, and from Chazor, Yahawashai passed to Shamarawan and smote it and utterly destroyed it.⁴⁶ From there he passed to Akashap and he did to it as he had done to Shamarawan.⁴⁷ From there he passed to Adulam and he smote all the people in it, and he did to Adulam as he had done to Akashap and to Shamarawan.⁴⁸ And he passed from them to all the cities of the kings which he had smitten, and he smote all the people that were left of them and he utterly destroyed them.⁴⁹ Only their booty and cattle the Israelites took to themselves as a prey, but every human being they smote, they suffered not a soul to live.⁵⁰ As the Adanay had commanded Mashah so did Yahawashai and all Yasharaal, they failed not in anything.⁵¹ So Yahawashai and all the children of Yasharaal smote the whole land of Kanain as the Adanay had commanded them, and smote all their kings, being thirty and one kings, and the children of Yasharaal took their whole country.⁵² Besides the kingdoms of Sayachawan and Og which are on the other side Yaradan, of which Mashah had smitten many cities, and Mashah gave them to the Reubenites and the Gadites and to half the tribe of Manashah.⁵³ And Yahawashai smote all the kings that were on this side Yaradan to the west, and gave them for an inheritance to the nine tribes and to the half tribe of Yasharaal.⁵⁴ For five years did Yahawashai carry on the war with these kings, and he gave their cities to the Israelites, and the land became tranquil from battle throughout the cities of the Amorites and the Canaanites.

90 At that time in the fifth year after the children of Yasharaal had passed over Yaradan, after the children of Yasharaal had rested from their war with the Canaanites, at that time great and severe battles arose between Adawam and the children of Kathayam, and the children of Kathayam fought against Adawam.² And Abianus king of Kathayam went forth in that year, that is in the thirty-first year of his reign, and a great force with him of the mighty men of the children of Kathayam, and he went to Shaiyar to fight against the children of Ishaw.³ And Hadad the king of Adawam heard of his report, and he went forth to meet him with a heavy people and strong force, and engaged in battle with him in the field of Adawam.⁴ And the hand of Kathayam prevailed over the children of Ishaw, and the children of Kathayam slew of the children of Ishaw, two and twenty thousand men, and all the children of Ishaw fled from before them.⁵ And the children of Kathayam pursued them and they reached Hadad king of Adawam, who was running before them and they caught him alive, and brought him to Abianus king of Kathayam.⁶ And Abianus ordered him to be slain, and Hadad king of Adawam died in the forty-eighth year of his reign.⁷ And the children of Kathayam continued their pursuit of Adawam, and they smote them with a great slaughter and Adawam became subject to the children of Kathayam.⁸ And the children of Kathayam ruled over Adawam, and Adawam became under the hand of the children of Kathayam and became one kingdom from that day.⁹ And from that time they could no more lift up their heads, and their kingdom became one with the children of Kathayam.¹⁰ And Abianus placed officers in Adawam and all the children of Adawam became subject and tributary to Abianus, and Abianus turned back to his own land, Kathayam.¹¹ And when he returned he renewed his government and built for himself a spacious and fortified palace for a royal residence, and reigned securely over the children of Kathayam and over Adawam.¹² In those days, after the children of Yasharaal had driven away all the Canaanites and the Amorites, Yahawashai was old and advanced in years.¹³ And the Adanay said to Yahawashai, You are old, advanced in life, and a great part of the land remains to be possessed.¹⁴ Now therefore divide this land for an inheritance to the nine tribes and to the half tribe of Manashah, and Yahawashai rose up and did as the Adanay had spoken to him.¹⁵ And he divided the whole land to the tribes of Yasharaal as an inheritance according to their divisions.¹⁶ But to the tribe at Laway he gave no inheritance, the offerings of the Adanay are their inheritance as the Adanay had spoken of them by the hand of Mashah.¹⁷ And Yahawashai gave Mount Chabarawan to Kalab the son of Jephuneh, one portion above his brethren, as the Adanay had spoken through Mashah.¹⁸ Therefore Chabarawan became an inheritance to Kalab and his children to this day.¹⁹ And Yahawashai divided the whole land by lots to all Yasharaal for an inheritance, as the Adanay had commanded him.²⁰ And the children of Yasharaal gave cities to the Levites from their own inheritance, and suburbs for their cattle, and property, as the Adanay had commanded Mashah so did the children of Yasharaal, and they divided the land by lot whether great or small.²¹ And they went to inherit the land according to their boundaries, and the children of Yasharaal gave to Yahawashai the son of Nawan an inheritance amongst them.²² By the word of the Adanay did they give to him the city which he required, Thamanath-Sharach in Mount Aparayam, and he built the city and dwelt therein.²³ These are the inheritances which Elazer the priest and Yahawashai the son of Nawan and the heads of the fathers of the tribes portioned out to the children of Yasharaal by lot in Shalah, before the Adanay, at the door of the tabernacle, and they left off dividing the land.²⁴ And the Adanay gave the land to the Israelites, and they possessed it as the Adanay had spoken to them, and as the Adanay had sworn to their ancestors.²⁵ And the Adanay gave to the Israelites rest from all their enemies around them, and no man stood up against them, and the Adanay delivered all their enemies into their hands, and not one thing failed of all the good which the Adanay had spoken to the children of Yasharaal, yea the Adanay performed every thing.²⁶ And Yahawashai called to all the children of Yasharaal and he blessed them, and commanded them to serve the Adanay, and he afterward sent them away, and they went each man to his city, and each man to his inheritance.²⁷ And the children of Yasharaal served the Adanay all the days of Yahawashai, and the Adanay gave them rest from all around them, and they dwelt securely in their cities.²⁸ And it came to pass in those days, that Abianus king of

Kathayam died, in the thirty-eighth year of his reign, that is the seventh year of his reign over Adawam, and they buried him in his place which he had built for himself, and Latinus reigned in his stead fifty years.²⁹ And during his reign he brought forth an army, and he went and fought against the inhabitants of Britannia and Kernania, the children of Alayashai son of Yawan, and he prevailed over them and made them tributary.³⁰ He then heard that Adawam had revolted from under the hand of Kathayam, and Latinus went to them and smote them and subdued them, and placed them under the hand of the children of Kathayam, and Adawam became one kingdom with the children of Kathayam all the days.³¹ And for many years there was no king in Adawam, and their government was with the children of Kathayam and their king.³² And it was in the twenty-sixth year after the children of Yasharaal had passed the Yaran, that is the sixty-sixth year after the children of Yasharaal had departed from Matzarayam, that Yahawashai was old, advanced in years, being one hundred and eight years old in those days.³³ And Yahawashai called to all Yasharaal, to their elders, their judges and officers, after the Adanay had given to all the Israelites rest from all their enemies round about, and Yahawashai said to the elders of Yasharaal, and to their judges, Behold I am old, advanced in years, and you have seen what the Adanay has done to all the nations whom he has driven away from before you, for it is the Adanay who has fought for you.³⁴ Now therefore strengthen yourselves to keep and to do all the words of the law of Mashah, not to deviate from it to the right or to the left, and not to come amongst those nations who are left in the land; neither shall you make mention of the name of their gods, but you shall cleave to the Adanay your Alahayam, as you have done to this day.³⁵ And Yahawashai greatly exhorted the children of Yasharaal to serve the Adanay all their days.³⁶ And all the Israelites said, We will serve the Adanay our Alahayam all our days, we and our children, and our children's children, and our seed for ever.³⁷ And Yahawashai made a covenant with the people on that day, and he sent away the children of Yasharaal, and they went each man to his inheritance and to his city.³⁸ And it was in those days, when the children of Yasharaal were dwelling securely in their cities, that they buried the coffins of the tribes of their ancestors, which they had brought up from Matzarayam, each man in the inheritance of his children, the twelve sons of Yaiqab did the children of Yasharaal bury, each man in the possession of his children.³⁹ And these are the names of the cities wherein they buried the twelve sons of Yaiqab, whom the children of Yasharaal had brought up from Matzarayam.⁴⁰ And they buried Raawaban and Gad on this side Yaran, in Romia, which Mashah had given to their children.⁴¹ And Shamaian and Laway they buried in the city Mauda, which he had given to the children of Shamaian, and the suburb of the city was for the children of Laway.⁴² And Yahawadah they buried in the city of Banayaman opposite Bayathalacham.⁴³ And the bones of Yashashakar and Zabawalan they buried in Tzayadawan, in the portion which fell to their children.⁴⁴ And Wadan was buried in the city of his children in Eshtael, and Napathalay and Ashar they buried in Qadash-Napathalay, each man in his place which he had given to his children.⁴⁵ And the bones of Yawasap they buried in Shakam, in the part of the field which Yaiqab had purchased from Chamawar, and which became to Yawasap for an inheritance.⁴⁶ And they buried Banayaman in Yarawashalam opposite the Jebusite, which was given to the children of Banayaman; the children of Yasharaal buried their fathers each man in the city of his children.⁴⁷ And at the end of two years, Yahawashai the son of Nawan died, one hundred and ten years old, and the time which Yahawashai judged Yasharaal was twenty-eight years, and Yasharaal served the Adanay all the days of his life.⁴⁸ And the other affairs of Yahawashai and his battles and his reproofs with which he reprov'd Yasharaal, and all which he had commanded them, and the names of the cities which the children of Yasharaal possessed in his days, behold they are written in the book of the words of Yahawashai to the children of Yasharaal, and in the book of the wars of the Adanay, which Mashah and Yahawashai and the children of Yasharaal had written.⁴⁹ And the children of Yasharaal buried Yahawashai in the border of his inheritance, in Thamanath-Sharach, which was given to him in Mount Aparayam.⁵⁰ And Elazer the son of Aharan died in those days, and they buried him in a hill belonging to Phineas his son, which was given him in Mount Aparayam.

91 At that time, after the death of Yahawashai, the children of the Canaanites were still in the land, and the Israelites resolved to drive them out.² And the children of Yasharaal asked of the Adanay, saying, Who shall first go up for us to the Canaanites to fight against them? and the Adanay said, Yahawadah shall go up.³ And the children of Yahawadah said to Shamaian, Go up with us into our lot, and we will fight against the Canaanites and we likewise will go up with you, in your lot, so the children of Shamaian went with the children of Yahawadah.⁴ And the children of Yahawadah went up and fought against the Canaanites, so the Adanay delivered the Canaanites into the hands of the children of Yahawadah, and they smote them in Bazaq, ten thousand men.⁵ And they fought with Adanay in Bazaq, and he fled from before them, and they pursued him and caught him, and they took hold of him and cut off his thumbs and great toes.⁶ And Adanay said, Three score and ten kings having their thumbs and great toes cut off, gathered their meat under my table, as I have done, so Alahayam has requited me, and they brought him to Yarawashalam and he died there.⁷ And the children of Shamaian went with the children of Yahawadah, and they smote the Canaanites with the edge of the sword.⁸ And the Adanay was with the children of Yahawadah, and they possessed the mountain, and the children of Yawasap went up to Bethel, the same is Lawaz, and the Adanay was with them.⁹ And the children of Yawasap spied out Bethel, and the watchmen saw a man going forth from the city, and they caught him and said to him, Show us now the entrance of the city and we will show kindness to you.¹⁰ And that man showed them the entrance of the city, and the children of Yawasap came and smote the City with the edge of the sword.¹¹ And the man with his family they sent away, and he went to the Hittites and he built a city, and he called the name thereof Lawaz, so all the Israelites dwelt in their cities, and the children at Yasharaal dwelt in their cities, and the children of Yasharaal served the Adanay all the days of Yahawashai, and all the days of the elders, who had lengthened their days after Yahawashai, and saw the great work of the Adanay, which he had performed for Yasharaal.¹² And the elders judged Yasharaal after the death of Yahawashai for seventeen years.¹³ And all the elders also fought the battles of Yasharaal against the Canaanites and the Adanay drove the Canaanites from before the children of Yasharaal, in order to place the Israelites in their land.¹⁴ And he accomplished all the words which he had spoken to Abaraham, Yatzachaq, and Yaiqab, and the oath which he had sworn, to give to them and to their children, the land of the Canaanites.¹⁵ And the Adanay gave to the children of Yasharaal the whole land of Kanain, as he had sworn to their ancestors, and the Adanay gave them rest from those around them, and the children of Yasharaal dwelt securely in their cities.¹⁶ Blessed be the Adanay for ever, amen, and amen.¹⁷ Strengthen yourselves, and let the hearts of all you that trust in the Adanay be of good courage.

1 Adam and Eve

1 On the third day, Alahayam planted the garden in the east of the earth, on the border of the world eastward, beyond which, towards the sun-rising, one finds nothing but water, that encompasses the whole world, and reaches to the borders of heaven. ² And to the north of the garden there is a sea of water, clear and pure to the taste, unlike anything else; so that, through the clearness thereof, one may look into the depths of the earth. ³ And when a man washes himself in it, he becomes clean of the cleanness thereof, and white of its whiteness--even if he were dark. ⁴ And Alahayam created that sea of his own good pleasure, for He knew what would come of the man He would make; so that after he had left the garden, on account of his transgression, men should be born in the earth. Among them are righteous ones who will die, whose souls Alahayam would raise at the last day; when all of them will return to their flesh, bathe in the water of that sea, and repent of their sins. ⁵ But when Alahayam made Adam go out of the garden, He did not place him on the border of it northward. This was so that he and Chawah would not be able to go near to the sea of water where they could wash themselves in it, be cleansed from their sins, erase the transgression they had committed, and be no longer reminded of it in the thought of their punishment. ⁶ As to the southern side of the garden, Alahayam did not want Adam to live there either; because, when the wind blew from the north, it would bring him, on that southern side, the delicious smell of the trees of the garden. ⁷ Therefore Alahayam did not put Adam there. This was so that he would not be able to smell the sweet smell of those trees, forget his transgression, and find consolation for what he had done by taking delight in the smell of the trees and yet not be cleansed from his transgression. ⁸ Again, also, because Alahayam is merciful and of great pity, and governs all things in a way that He alone knows--He made our father Adam live in the western border of the garden, because on that side the earth is very broad. ⁹ And Alahayam commanded him to live there in a cave in a rock--the Cave of Treasures below the garden.

2 But when our father Adam, and Chawah, went out of the garden, they walked the ground on their feet, not knowing they were walking. ² And when they came to the opening of the gate of the garden, and saw the broad earth spread before them, covered with stones large and small, and with sand, they feared and trembled, and fell on their faces, from the fear that came over them; and they were as dead. ³ Because--whereas until this time they had been in the garden land, beautifully planted with all manner of trees--they now saw themselves, in a strange land, which they knew not, and had never seen. ⁴ And because, when they were in the garden they were filled with the grace of a bright nature, and they had not hearts turned toward earthly things. ⁵ Therefore Alahayam had pity on them; and when He saw them fallen before the gate of the garden, He sent His Word to our father, Adam and Chawah, and raised them from their fallen state.

3 Alahayam said to Adam, "I have ordained on this earth days and years, and you and your descendants shall live and walk in them, until the days and years are fulfilled; when I shall send the Word that created you, and against which you have transgressed, the Word that made you come out of the garden, and that raised you when you were fallen. ² Yes, the Word that will again save you when the five and a half days are fulfilled." ³ But when Adam heard these words from Alahayam, and of the great five and a half days, he did not understand the meaning of them. ⁴ For Adam was thinking there would be only five and a half days for him until the end of the world. ⁵ And Adam cried, and prayed to Alahayam to explain it to him. ⁶ Then Alahayam in his mercy for Adam who was made after His own image and likeness, explained to him, that these were 5,000 and 500 years; and how One would then come and save him and his descendants. ⁷ But before that, Alahayam had made this covenant with our father, Adam, in the same terms, before he came out of the garden, when he was by the tree where Chawah took of the fruit and gave it to him to eat. ⁸ Because, when our father Adam came out of the garden, he passed by that tree, and saw how Alahayam had changed the appearance of it into another form, and how it shriveled. ⁹ And as Adam went to it he feared, trembled and fell down; but Alahayam in His mercy lifted him up, and then made this covenant with him. ¹⁰ And again, when Adam was by the gate of the garden, and saw the cherub with a sword of flashing fire in his hand, and the cherub grew angry and frowned at him, both Adam and Chawah became afraid of him, and thought he meant to put them to death. So they fell on their faces, trembled with fear.

¹¹ But he had pity on them, and showed them mercy; and turning from them went up to heaven, and prayed to the Adanay, and said;-- ¹² "Adanay, You sent me to watch at the gate of the garden, with a sword of fire. ¹³ But when Your servants, Adam and Chawah, saw me, they fell on their faces, and were as dead. O my Adanay, what shall we do to Your servants?" ¹⁴ Then Alahayam had pity on them, and showed them mercy, and sent His Angel to keep the garden. ¹⁵ And the Word of the Adanay came to Adam and Chawah, and raised them up. ¹⁶ And the Adanay said to Adam, "I told you that at the end of the five and a half days, I will send my Word and save you. ¹⁷ Strengthen your heart, therefore, and stay in the Cave of Treasures, of which I have before spoken to you." ¹⁸ And when Adam heard this Word from Alahayam, he was comforted with that which Alahayam had told him. For He had told him how He would save him.

4 But Adam and Chawah cried for having come out of the garden, their first home. ² And indeed, when Adam looked at his flesh, that was altered, he cried bitterly, he and Chawah, over what they had done. And they walked and went gently down into the Cave of Treasures. ³ And as they came to it, Adam cried over himself and said to Chawah, "Look at this cave that is to be our prison in this world, and a place of punishment! ⁴ What is it compared with the garden? What is its narrowness compared with the space of the other? ⁵ What is this rock, by the side of those groves? What is the gloom of this cavern, compared with the light of the garden? ⁶ What is this overhanging ledge of rock to shelter us, compared with the mercy of the Adanay that overshadowed us? ⁷ What is the soil of this cave compared with the garden land? This earth, strewn with stones; and that, planted with delicious fruit trees?" ⁸ And Adam said to Chawah, "Look at your eyes, and at mine, which before beheld angels praising in heaven; and they too, without ceasing. ⁹ But now we do not see as we did; our eyes have become of flesh; they cannot see like they used to see before." ¹⁰ Adam said again to Chawah, "What is our body today, compared to what it was in former days, when we lived in the garden?" ¹¹ After this, Adam did not want to enter the cave, under the overhanging rock; nor would he ever want to enter it. ¹² But he bowed to Alahayam's orders; and said to himself, "Unless I enter the cave, I shall again be a transgressor."

5 Then Adam and Chawah entered the cave, and stood praying, in their own tongue, unknown to us, but which they knew well. ² And as they prayed, Adam raised his eyes and saw the rock and the roof of the cave that covered him overhead. This prevented him from seeing either heaven or Alahayam's creatures. So he cried and beat his chest hard, until he dropped, and was as dead. ³ And Chawah sat crying; for she believed he was dead. ⁴ Then she got up, spread her hands toward Alahayam, appealing to Him for mercy and pity, and said, "O Alahayam, forgive me my sin, the sin which I committed, and don't remember it against me." ⁵ For I alone caused Your servant to fall from the garden into this condemned land; from light into this darkness; and from the house of joy into this prison. ⁶ O Alahayam, look at this Your servant fallen in this manner, and bring him back to life, that he may cry and repent of his transgression which he committed through me. ⁷ Don't take away his soul right now; but let him live that he may stand after the measure of his repentance, and do Your will, as before his death. ⁸ But if You do not bring him back to life, then, O Alahayam, take away my own soul, that I be like him, and leave me not in this dungeon, one and alone; for I could not stand alone in this world, but with him only. ⁹ For You, O Alahayam, caused him to fall asleep, and took a bone from his side, and restored the flesh in the place of it, by Your divine power. ¹⁰ And You took me, the bone, and made me a woman, bright like him, with heart, reason, and speech; and in flesh, like to his own; and You made me after the likeness of his looks, by Your mercy and power. ¹¹ O Adanay, I and he are one, and You, O Alahayam, are our Creator, You are He who made us both in one day. ¹² Therefore, O Alahayam, give him life, that he may be with me in this strange land, while we live in it on account of our transgression. ¹³ But if You will not give him life, then take me, even me, like him; that we both may die the same day." ¹⁴ And Chawah cried bitterly, and fell on our father Adam; from her great sorrow.

6 But Alahayam looked at them; for they had killed themselves through greatgrief. ² But He decided to raise them and comfort them. ³ He, therefore, sent His Word to them; that they should stand and be raised immediately. ⁴ And the Adanay said to Adam and Chawah, "You transgressed of your own free will, until you came out of the garden in which I had placed you. ⁵ Of your own free will have you transgressed through your desire for divinity, greatness, and an exalted state, such as I have; so that I deprived you of the bright nature in which you then were, and I made you come out of the garden to this land, rough and full of trouble. ⁶ If only you had not transgressed My commandment and had kept My law, and had not eaten of the fruit of the tree which I told you not to come near! And there were fruit trees in the garden better than that one. ⁷ But the wicked Satan did not keep his faith and had no good intent towards Me, that although I had created him, he considered Me to be useless, and sought the Godhead for himself; for this I hurled him down from heaven so that he could not remain in his first estate--it was he who made the tree appear pleasant in your eyes, until you ate of it, by believing his words. ⁸ Thus have you transgressed My commandment, and therefore I have brought on you all these sorrows. ⁹ For I am Alahayam the Creator, who, when I created My creatures, did not intend to destroy them. But after they had sorely roused My anger, I punished them with grievous plagues, until they repent. ¹⁰ But, if on the contrary, they still continue hardened in their transgression, they shall be under a curse forever."

7 When Adam and Chawah heard these words from Alahayam, they cried and sobbed yet more; but they strengthened their hearts in Alahayam, because they now felt that the Adanay was to them like a father and a mother; and for this very reason, they cried before Him, and sought mercy from Him. ² Then Alahayam had pity on them, and said: "O Adam, I have made My covenant with you, and I will not turn from it; neither will I let you return to the garden, until My covenant of the great five and a half days is fulfilled." ³ Then Adam said to Alahayam, "O Adanay, You created us, and made us fit to be in the garden; and before I transgressed, You made all beasts come to me, that I should name them. ⁴ Your grace was then on me; and I named every one according to Your mind; and you made them all subject to me. ⁵ But now, O Adanay Alahayam, that I have transgressed Your commandment, all beasts will rise against me and will devour me, and Chawah Your handmaid; and will cut off our life from the face of the earth. ⁶ I therefore beg you, O Alahayam, that since You have made us come out of the garden, and have made us be in a strange land, You will not let the beasts hurt us." ⁷ When the Adanay heard these words from Adam, He had pity on him, and felt that he had truly said that the beasts of the field would rise and devour him and Chawah, because He, the Adanay, was angry with the two of them on account of their transgressions. ⁸ Then Alahayam commanded the beasts, and the birds, and all that moves on the earth, to come to Adam and to be familiar with him, and not to trouble him and Chawah; nor yet any of the good and righteous among their offspring. ⁹ Then all the beasts paid homage to Adam, according to the commandment of Alahayam; except the serpent, against which Alahayam was angry. It did not come to Adam, with the beasts.

8 Then Adam cried and said, "O Alahayam, when we lived in the garden, and our hearts were lifted up, we saw the angels that sang praises in heaven, but now we can't see like we used to; no, when we entered the cave, all creation became hidden from us." ² Then Alahayam the Adanay said to Adam, "When you were under subjection to Me, you had a bright nature within you, and for that reason could you see things far away. But after your transgression your bright nature was withdrawn from you; and it was not left to you to see things far away, but only near at hand; after the ability of the flesh; for it is brutish." ³ When Adam and Chawah had heard these words from Alahayam, they went their way; praising and worshipping Him with a sorrowful heart. ⁴ And Alahayam ceased to commune with them.

9 Then Adam and Chawah came out of the Cave of Treasures, and went near to the garden gate, and there they stood to look at it, and cried for having come away from it. ² And Adam and Chawah went from before the gate of the garden to the southern side of it, and found there the water that watered the garden, from the root of the Tree of Life, and that split itself from there into four rivers over the earth. ³ Then they came and went near to that water, and looked at it; and saw that it was the water that came forth from under the root of the Tree of Life in the garden. ⁴ And Adam cried and wailed, and beat his chest, for being severed from the garden; and said to Chawah:-- ⁵ "Why have you brought on me, on yourself, and on our descendants, so many of these plagues and punishments?" ⁶ And Chawah said to him, "What is it you have seen that has caused you to cry and to speak to me in this manner?" ⁷ And he said to Chawah, "Do you not see this water that was with us in the garden, that watered the trees of the garden, and flowed out from there?" ⁸ And we, when we were in the garden, did not care about it; but since we came to this strange land, we love it, and turn it to use for our body." ⁹ But when Chawah heard these words from him, she cried; and from the soreness of their crying, they fell into that water; and would have put an end to themselves in it, so as never again to return and behold the creation; for when they looked at the work of creation, they felt they must put an end to themselves.

10 Then Alahayam, merciful and gracious, looked at them thus lying in the water, and close to death, and sent an angel, who brought them out of the water, and laid them on the seashore as dead. ² Then the angel went up to Alahayam, was welcome, and said, "O Alahayam, Your creatures have breathed their last." ³ Then Alahayam sent His Word to Adam and Chawah, who raised them from their death. ⁴ And Adam said, after he was raised, "O Alahayam, while we were in the garden we did not require, or care for this water; but since we came to this land we cannot do without it." ⁵ Then Alahayam said to Adam, "While you were under My command and were a bright angel, you knew not this water. ⁶ But now that you have transgressed My commandment, you can not do without water, wherein to wash your body and make it grow; for it is now like that of beasts, and is in want of water." ⁷ When Adam and Chawah heard these words from Alahayam, they cried a bitter cry; and Adam entreated Alahayam to let him return into the garden, and look at it a second time. ⁸ But Alahayam said to Adam, "I have made you a promise; when that promise is fulfilled, I will bring you back into the garden, you and your righteous descendants." ⁹ And Alahayam ceased to commune with Adam.

11 Then Adam and Chawah felt themselves burning with thirst, and heat, and sorrow. ² And Adam said to Chawah, "We shall not drink of this water, even if we were to die. O Chawah, when this water comes into our inner parts, it will increase our punishments and that of our descendants." ³ Both Adam and Chawah then went away from the water, and drank none of it at all; but came and entered the Cave of Treasures. ⁴ But when in it Adam could not see Chawah; he only heard the noise she made. Neither could she see Adam, but heard the noise he made. ⁵ Then Adam cried, in deep affliction, and beat his chest; and he got up and said to Chawah, "Where are you?" ⁶ And she said to him, "Look, I am standing in this darkness." ⁷ He then said to her, "Remember the bright nature in which we lived, when we lived in the garden!" ⁸ O Chawah! Remember the glory that rested on us in the garden. O Chawah! Remember the trees that overshadowed us in the garden while we moved among them. ⁹ O Chawah! Remember that while we were in the garden, we knew neither night nor day. Think of the Tree of Life, from below which flowed the water, and that shed lustre over us! Remember, O Chawah, the garden land, and the brightness thereof! ¹⁰ Think, oh think of that garden in which was no darkness, while we lived in it. ¹¹ Whereas no sooner did we come into this Cave of Treasures than darkness surrounded us all around; until we can no longer see each other; and all the pleasure of this life has come to an end."

12 Then Adam beat his chest, he and Chawah, and they mourned the whole night until the crack of dawn, and they sighed over the length of the night in Miyazia. ² And Adam beat himself, and threw himself on the ground in the cave, from bitter grief, and because of the darkness, and lay there as dead. ³ But Chawah heard the noise he made in falling on the ground. And she felt about for him with her hands, and found him like a corpse. ⁴ Then she was afraid, speechless, and remained by him. ⁵ But the merciful Adanay looked on the death of Adam, and on Eve's silence from fear of the darkness. ⁶ And the Word of Alahayam came to Adam and raised him from his death, and opened Eve's mouth that she might speak. ⁷ Then Adam stood up in the cave and said, "O Alahayam, why has light departed from us, and darkness covered us? Why did you leave us in this long darkness? Why do you plague us like this?" ⁸ And this darkness, O Adanay, where was it before it covered us? It is because of this that we cannot see each other. ⁹ For so long as we were in the garden, we neither saw nor even knew what darkness is. I was not hidden from Chawah, neither was she hidden from me, until now that she cannot see me; and no darkness came over us to separate us from each other. ¹⁰ But she and I were both in one bright light. I saw her and she saw me. Yet now since we came into this cave, darkness has covered us, and separated us from each other, so that I do not see her, and she does not see me. ¹¹ O Adanay, will You then plague us with this darkness?"

13 Then when Alahayam, who is merciful and full of pity, heard Adam's voice, He said to him:-- ² "O Adam, so long as the good angel was obedient to Me, a bright light rested on him and on his hosts. ³ But when he transgressed My commandment, I deprived him of that bright nature, and he became dark. ⁴ And when he was in the heavens, in the realms of light, he knew nothing of darkness. ⁵ But he transgressed, and I made him fall from the heaven onto the earth; and it was this darkness that came over him. ⁶ And on you, O Adam, while in My garden and obedient to Me, did that bright light rest also. ⁷ But when I heard of your transgression, I deprived you of that bright light. Yet, of My mercy, I did not turn you into darkness, but I made you your body of flesh, over which I spread this skin, in order that it may bear cold and heat. ⁸ If I had let My wrath fall heavily on you, I should have destroyed you; and had I turned you into darkness, it would have been as if I had killed you. ⁹ But in My mercy, I have made you as you are; when you transgressed My commandment, O Adam, I drove you from the garden, and made you come forth into this land; and commanded you to live in this cave; and darkness covered you, as it did over him who transgressed My commandment. ¹⁰ Thus, O Adam, has this night deceived you. It is not to last forever; but is only of twelve hours; when it is over, daylight will return. ¹¹ Sigh not, therefore, neither be moved; and say not in your heart that this darkness is long and drags on wearily; and say not in your heart that I plague you with it. ¹² Strengthen your heart, and be not afraid. This darkness is not a punishment. But, O Adam, I have made the day, and have placed the sun in it to give light; in order that you and your children should do your work. ¹³ For I knew you would sin and transgress, and come out into this land. Yet I wouldn't force you, nor be heard over you, nor shut up; nor doom you through your fall; nor through your coming out from light into darkness; nor yet through your coming from the garden into this land. ¹⁴ For I made you of the light; and I willed to bring out children of light from you and like to you. ¹⁵ But you did not keep My commandment one day; until I had finished the creation and blessed everything in it. ¹⁶ Then, concerning the tree, I commanded you not to eat of it. Yet I knew that Satan, who deceived himself, would also deceive you. ¹⁷ So I made known to you by means of the tree, not to come near him. And I told you not to eat of the fruit thereof, nor to taste of it, nor yet to sit under it, nor to yield to it. ¹⁸ Had I not been and spoken to you, O Adam, concerning the tree, and had I left you without a commandment, and you had sinned--it would have been an offence on My part, for not having given you any order; you would turn around and blame Me for it. ¹⁹ But I commanded you, and warned you, and you fell. So that My creatures cannot blame Me; but the blame rests on them alone. ²⁰ And, O Adam, I have made the day so that you and your descendants can work and toil in it. And I have made the night for them to rest in it from their work; and for the beasts of the field to go forth by night and look for their food. ²¹ But little of darkness now remains, O Adam, and daylight will soon appear."

14 Then Adam said to Alahayam: "O Adanay, take You my soul, and let me not see this gloom any more; or remove me to some place where there is no darkness." ² But Alahayam the Adanay said to Adam, "Indeed I say to you, this darkness will pass from you, every day I have determined for you, until the fulfillment of My covenant; when I will save you and bring you back again into the garden, into the house of light you long for, in which there is no darkness. I will bring you to it--in the kingdom of heaven." ³ Again said Alahayam to Adam, "All this misery that you have been made to take on yourself because of your transgression, will not free you from the hand of Satan, and will not save you. ⁴ But I will. When I shall come down from heaven, and shall become flesh of your descendants, and take on Myself the infirmity from which you suffer, then the darkness that covered you in this cave shall cover Me in the grave, when I am in the flesh of your descendants. ⁵ And I, who am without years, shall be subject to the reckoning of years, of times, of months, and of days, and I shall be reckoned as one of the sons of men, in order to save you." ⁶ And Alahayam ceased to commune with Adam.

15 Then Adam and Chawah cried and sorrowed by reason of Alahayam's word to them, that they should not return to the garden until the fulfillment of the days decreed on them; but mostly because Alahayam had told them that He should suffer for their salvation.

16 After this, Adam and Chawah continued to stand in the cave, praying and crying, until the morning dawned on them. ² And when they saw the light returned to them, they retrained from fear, and strengthened their hearts. ³ Then Adam began to come out of the cave. And when he came to the mouth of it, and stood and turned his face towards the east, and saw the sunrise in glowing rays, and felt the heat thereof on his body, he was afraid of it, and thought in his heart that this flame came forth to plague him. ⁴ He then cried and beat his chest, then he fell on the ground on his face and made his request, saying:-- ⁵ "O Adanay, plague me not, neither consume me, nor yet take away my life from the earth." ⁶ For he thought the sun was Alahayam. ⁷ Because while he was in the garden and heard the voice of Alahayam and the sound He made in the garden, and feared Him, Adam never saw the brilliant light of the sun, neither did its flaming heat touch his body.⁸ Therefore he was afraid of the sun when flaming rays of it reached him. He thought Alahayam meant to plague him therewith all the days He had decreed for him.⁹ For Adam also said in his thoughts, as Alahayam did not plague us with darkness, behold, He has caused this sun to rise and to plague us with burning heat.¹⁰ But while he was thinking like this in his heart, the Word of Alahayam came to him and said:--¹¹ "O Adam, get up on your feet. This sun is not Alahayam; but it has been created to give light by day, of which I spoke to you in the cave saying, 'that the dawn would come, and there would be light by day.'¹² But I am Alahayam who comforted you in the night."¹³ And Alahayam ceased to commune with Adam.

17 The Adam and Chawah came out at the mouth of the cave, and went towards the garden.² But as they went near it, before the western gate, from which Satan came when he deceived Adam and Chawah, they found the serpent that became Satan coming at the gate, and sorrowfully licking the dust, and wiggling on its breast on the ground, by reason of the curse that fell on it from Alahayam.³ And whereas before the serpent was the most exalted of all beasts, now it was changed and become slippery, and the mean of them all, and it crept on its breast and went on its belly.⁴ And whereas it was the fairest of all beasts, it had been changed, and was become the ugliest of them all. Instead of feeding on the best food, now it turned to eat the dust. Instead of living, as before, in the best places, now it lived in the dust.⁵ And, whereas it had been the most beautiful of all beasts, all of which stood dumb at its beauty, it was now abhorred of them.⁶ And, again, whereas it lived in one beautiful home, to which all other animals came from elsewhere; and where it drank, they drank also of the same; now, after it had become venomous, by reason of Alahayam's curse, all beasts fled from its home, and would not drink of the water it drank; but fled from it.

18 When the accursed serpent saw Adam and Chawah, it swelled its head, stood on its tail, and with eyes blood-red, acted like it would kill them.² It made straight for Chawah, and ran after her; while Adam standing by, cried because he had no stick in his hand with which to hit the serpent, and did not know how to put it to death.³ But with a heart burning for Chawah, Adam approached the serpent, and held it by the tail; when it turned towards him and said to him:--⁴ "O Adam, because of you and of Chawah, I am slippery, and go on my belly." Then with its great strength, it threw down Adam and Chawah and squeezed them, and tried to kill them.⁵ But Alahayam sent an angel who threw the serpent away from them, and raised them up.⁶ Then the Word of Alahayam came to the serpent, and said to it, "The first time I made you slick, and made you to go on your belly; but I did not deprive you of speech.⁷ This time, however, you will be mute, and you and your race will speak no more; because, the first time My creatures were ruined because of you, and this time you tried to kill them."⁸ Then the serpent was struck mute, and was no longer able to speak.⁹ And a wind blew down from heaven by the command of Alahayam and carried away the serpent from Adam and Chawah, and threw it on the seashore where it landed in Hadaw.

19 But Adam and Chawah cried before Alahayam. And Adam said to Him:--² "O Adanay, when I was in the cave, I said this to you, my Adanay, the beasts of the field would rise and devour me, and cut off my life from the earth."³ Then Adam, because of what had happened to him, beat his chest and fell on the ground like a corpse. Then the Word of Alahayam came to him, who raised him, and said to him,⁴ "O Adam, not one of these beasts will be able to hurt you; because I have made the beasts and other moving things come to you in the cave. I did not let the serpent come with them because it might have risen against you and made you tremble; and the fear of it should fall into your hearts."⁵ For I knew that the accursed one is wicked; therefore I would not let it come near you with the other beasts.⁶ But now strengthen your heart and fear not. I am with you to the end of the days I have determined on you."

20 Then Adam cried and said, "O Alahayam, take us away to some other place, where the serpent can not come near us again, and rise against us. For fear that it might find Your handmaid Chawah alone and kill her; for its eyes are hideous and evil."² But Alahayam said to Adam and Chawah, "From now on, don't be afraid, I will not let it come near you; I have driven it away from you, from this mountain; neither will I leave in it the ability to hurt you."³ Then Adam and Chawah worshipped before Alahayam and gave Him thanks, and praised Him for having delivered them from death.

21 Then Adam and Chawah went in search of the garden.² And the heat beat like a flame on their faces; and they sweated from the heat, and cried before the Adanay.³ But the place where they cried was close to a high mountain, facing the western gate of the garden.⁴ Then Adam threw himself down from the top of that mountain; his face was torn and his flesh was ripped; he lost a lot of blood and was close to death.⁵ Meanwhile Chawah remained standing on the mountain crying over him, thus lying.⁶ And she said, "I don't wish to live after him; for all that he did to himself was through me."⁷ Then she threw herself after him; and was torn and ripped by stones; and remained lying as dead.⁸ But the merciful Alahayam, who looks over His creatures, looked at Adam and Chawah as they lay dead, and He sent His Word to them, and raised them.⁹ And said to Adam, "O Adam, all this misery which you have brought on yourself, will have no affect against My rule, neither will it alter the covenant of the 5,500 years."

22 Then Adam said to Alahayam, "I dry up in the heat, I am faint from walking, and I don't want to be in this world. And I don't know when You will take me out of it to rest."² Then the Adanay Alahayam said to him, "O Adam, it cannot be now, not until you have ended your days. Then shall I bring you out of this miserable land."³ And Adam said to Alahayam, "While I was in the garden I knew neither heat, nor languor, neither moving about, nor trembling, nor fear; but now since I came to this land, all this affliction has come over me."⁴ Then Alahayam said to Adam, "So long as you were keeping My commandment, My light and My grace rested on you. But when you transgressed My commandment, sorrow and misery came to you in this land."⁵ And Adam cried and said, "O Adanay, do not cut me off for this, neither punish me with heavy plagues, nor yet repay me according to my sin; for we, of our own will, transgressed Your commandment, and ignored Your law, and tried to become gods like you, when Satan the enemy deceived us."⁶ Then Alahayam said again to Adam, "Because you have endured fear and trembling in this land, languor and suffering, treading and walking about, going on this mountain, and dying from it, I will take all this on Myself in order to save you."

23 Then Adam cried more and said, "O Alahayam, have mercy on me, so far as to take on yourself, that which I will do."² But Alahayam withdrew His Word from Adam and Chawah.³ Then Adam and Chawah stood on their feet; and Adam said to Chawah, "Strengthen yourself, and I also will strengthen myself." And she strengthened herself, as Adam told her.⁴ Then Adam and Chawah took stones and placed them in the shape of an altar; and they took leaves from the trees outside the garden, with which they wiped, from the face of the rock, the blood they had spilled.⁵ But that which had dropped on the sand, they took together with the dust with which it was mingled and offered it on the altar as an offering to Alahayam.⁶ Then Adam and Chawah stood under the Altar and cried, thus praying to Alahayam, "Forgive us our trespass and our sin, and look at us with Your eye of mercy. For when we were in the garden our praises and our hymns went up before you without ceasing.⁷ But when we came into this strange land, pure praise was not longer ours, nor righteous prayer, nor understanding hearts, nor sweet thoughts, nor just counsels, nor long discernment, nor upright feelings, neither is our bright nature left us. But our body is changed from the likeness in which it was at first, when we were created.⁸ Yet now look at our blood which is offered on these stones, and accept it at our hands, like the praise we used to sing to you at first, when in the garden." ⁹ And Adam began to make more requests of Alahayam.

24 Then the merciful Alahayam, good and lover of men, looked at Adam and Chawah, and at their blood, which they had held up as an offering to Him; without an order from Him for so doing. But He wondered at them; and accepted their offerings. ² And Alahayam sent from His presence a bright fire, that consumed their offering. ³ He smelled the sweet savor of their offering, and showed them mercy. ⁴ Then came the Word of Alahayam to Adam, and said to him, "O Adam, as you have shed your blood, so will I shed My own blood when I become flesh of your descendants; and as you died, O Adam, so also will I die. And as you built an altar, so also will I make for you an altar of the earth; and as you offered your blood on it, so also will I offer My blood on an altar on the earth." ⁵ And as you sued for forgiveness through that blood, so also will I make My blood forgiveness of sins, and erase transgressions in it. ⁶ And now, behold, I have accepted your offering, O Adam, but the days of the covenant in which I have bound you are not fulfilled. When they are fulfilled, then will I bring you back into the garden. ⁷ Now, therefore, strengthen your heart; and when sorrow comes over you, make Me an offering, and I will be favorable to you."

25 But Alahayam knew that Adam believed he should frequently kill himself and make an offering to Him of his blood. ² Therefore He said to him, "O Adam, don't ever kill yourself like this again, by throwing yourself down from that mountain." ³ But Adam said to Alahayam, "I was thinking to put an end to myself at once, for having transgressed Your commandments, and for my having come out of the beautiful garden; and for the bright light of which You have deprived me; and for the praises which poured forth from my mouth without ceasing, and for the light that covered me." ⁴ Yet of Your goodness, O Alahayam, do not get rid of me altogether; but be favorable to me every time I die, and bring me to life. ⁵ And thereby it will be made known that You are a merciful Alahayam, who does not want anyone to perish; who loves not that one should fall; and who does not condemn any one cruelly, badly, and by whole destruction." ⁶ Then Adam remained silent. ⁷ And the Word of Alahayam came to him, and blessed him, and comforted him, and covenanted with him, that He would save him at the end of the days determined for him. ⁸ This, then, was the first offering Adam made to Alahayam; and so it became his custom to do.

26 Then Adam took Chawah, and they began to return to the Cave of Treasures where they lived. But when they got closer to it and saw it from a distance, heavy sorrow fell on Adam and Chawah when they looked at it. ² Then Adam said to Chawah, "When we were on the mountain we were comforted by the Word of Alahayam that conversed with us; and the light that came from the east shown over us." ³ But now the Word of Alahayam is hidden from us; and the light that shown over us is so changed as to disappear, and let darkness and sorrow come over us. ⁴ And we are forced to enter this cave which is like a prison, in which darkness covers us, so that we are separated from each other; and you can not see me, neither can I see you." ⁵ When Adam had said these words, they cried and spread their hands before Alahayam; for they were full of sorrow. ⁶ And they prayed to Alahayam to bring the sun to them, to shine on them, so that darkness would not return to them, and that they wouldn't have to go under this covering of rock. And they wished to die rather than see the darkness. ⁷ Then Alahayam looked at Adam and Chawah and at their great sorrow, and at all they had done with a fervent heart, on account of all the trouble they were in, instead of their former well-being, and on account of all the misery that came over them in a strange land. ⁸ Therefore Alahayam was not angry with them; nor impatient with them; but he was patient and forbearing towards them, as towards the children He had created. ⁹ Then came the Word of Alahayam to Adam, and said to him, "Adam, as for the sun, if I were to take it and bring it to you, days, hours, years and months would all stop, and the covenant I have made with you, would never be fulfilled." ¹⁰ But then you would be deserted and stuck in a perpetual plague, and you would never be saved. ¹¹ Yes, rather, bear long and calm your soul while you live night and day; until the fulfillment of the days, and the time of My covenant is come. ¹² Then shall I come and save you, O Adam, for I do not wish that you be afflicted. ¹³ And when I look at all the good things in which you lived, and why you came out of them, then would I willingly show you mercy. ¹⁴ But I cannot alter the covenant that has gone out of My mouth; otherwise I would have brought you back into the garden. ¹⁵ When, however, the covenant is fulfilled, then shall I show you and your descendants mercy, and bring you into a land of gladness, where there is neither sorrow nor suffering; but abiding joy and gladness, and light that never fails, and praises that never cease; and a beautiful garden that shall never pass away." ¹⁶ And Alahayam said again to Adam, "Be patient and enter the cave, for the darkness, of which you were afraid, shall only be twelve hours long; and when ended, light shall come up." ¹⁷ Then when Adam heard these words from Alahayam, he and Chawah worshipped before Him, and their hearts were comforted. They returned into the cave after their custom, while tears flowed from their eyes, sorrow and wailing came from their hearts, and they wished their soul would leave their body. ¹⁸ And Adam and Chawah stood praying until the darkness of night came over them, and Adam was hid from Chawah, and she from him. ¹⁹ And they remained standing in prayer.

27 When Satan, the hater of all good, saw how they continued in prayer, and how Alahayam communed with them, and comforted them, and how He had accepted their offering--Satan made an apparition. ² He began with transforming his hosts; in his hands was a flashing fire, and they were in a great light. ³ He then placed his throne near the mouth of the cave because he could not enter into it by reason of their prayers. And he shed light into the cave, until the cave glistened over Adam and Chawah; while his hosts began to sing praises. ⁴ And Satan did this, in order that when Adam saw the light, he should think within himself that it was a heavenly light, and that Satan's hosts were angels; and that Alahayam had sent them to watch at the cave, and to give him light in the darkness. ⁵ So that when Adam came out of the cave and saw them, and Adam and Chawah bowed to Satan, then he would overcome Adam thereby, and a second time humble him before Alahayam. ⁶ When, therefore, Adam and Chawah saw the light, fancying it was real, they strengthened their hearts; yet, as they were trembling, Adam said to Chawah:-- ⁷ "Look at that great light, and at those many songs of praise, and at that host standing outside who won't come into our cave. Why don't they tell us what they want, where they are from, what the meaning of this light is, what those praises are, why they have been sent to this place, and why they won't come in?" ⁸ If they were from Alahayam, they would come into the cave with us, and would tell us why they were sent." ⁹ Then Adam stood up and prayed to Alahayam with a burning heart, and said:-- ¹⁰ "O Adanay, is there in the world another god besides You, who created angels and filled them with light, and sent them to keep us, who would come with them?" ¹¹ But, look, we see these hosts that stand at the mouth of the cave; they are in a great light; they sing loud praises. If they are of some other god than You, tell me; and if they are sent by you, inform me of the reason for which You have sent them." ¹² No sooner had Adam said this, than an angel from Alahayam appeared to him in the cave, who said to him, "O Adam, fear not. This is Satan and his hosts; he wishes to deceive you as he deceived you at first. For the first time, he was hidden in the serpent; but this time he is come to you in the likeness of an angel of light; in order that, when you worshipped him, he might enslave you, in the very presence of Alahayam." ¹³ Then the angel went from Adam and seized Satan at the opening of the cave, and stripped him of the pretense he had assumed, and brought him in his own hideous form to Adam and Chawah; who were afraid of him when they saw him. ¹⁴ And the angel said to Adam, "This hideous form has been his ever since Alahayam made him fall from heaven. He could not have come near you in it; he therefore transformed himself into an angel of light." ¹⁵ Then the angel drove away Satan and his hosts from Adam and Chawah, and said to them, "Fear not; Alahayam who created you, will strengthen you." ¹⁶ And the angel left them. ¹⁷ But Adam and Chawah remained standing in the cave; no consolation came to them; they divided in their thoughts. ¹⁸ And when it was morning they prayed; and then went out to seek the garden. For their hearts were towards it, and they could get no consolation for having left it.

28 But when the crafty Satan saw them, that they were going to the garden, he gathered together his host, and came in appearance on a cloud, intent on deceiving them. ² But when Adam and Chawah saw him thus in a vision, they thought they were angels of Alahayam come to comfort them about having left the garden, or to bring them back again into it. ³ And Adam spread his hands before Alahayam, beseeching Him to make him understand what they were. ⁴ Then Satan, the hater of all good, said to Adam, "O Adam, I am an angel of the great Alahayam; and, behold the hosts that surround me. ⁵ Alahayam has sent us to take you and bring you to the border of the garden northwards; to the shore of the clear sea, and bathe you and Chawah in it, and raise you to your former gladness, that you return again to the garden." ⁶ These words sank into the heart of Adam and Chawah. ⁷ Yet Alahayam withheld His Word from Adam, and did not make him understand at once, but waited to see his strength; whether he would be overcome as Chawah was when in the garden, or whether he would prevail. ⁸ Then Satan called to Adam and Chawah, and said, "Behold, we go to the sea of water," and they began to go. ⁹ And Adam and Chawah followed them at some little distance. ¹⁰ But when they came to the mountain to the north of the garden, a very high mountain, without any steps to the top of it, the Devil drew near to Adam and Chawah, and made them go up to the top in reality, and not in a vision; wishing, as he did, to throw them down and kill them, and to wipe off their name from the earth; so that this earth should remain to him and his hosts alone.

29 But when the merciful Alahayam saw that Satan wished to kill Adam with his many tricks, and saw that Adam was meek and without guile, Alahayam spoke to Satan in a loud voice, and cursed him. ² Then he and his hosts fled, and Adam and Chawah remained standing on the top of the mountain, from there they saw below them the wide world, high above which they were. But they saw none of the host which time after time were by them. ³ They cried, both Adam and Chawah, before Alahayam, and begged for forgiveness of Him. ⁴ Then came the Word from Alahayam to Adam, and said to him, "Know you and understand concerning this Satan, that he seeks to deceive you and your descendants after you." ⁵ And Adam cried before the Adanay Alahayam, and begged and prayed to Him to give him something from the garden, as a token to him, wherein to be comforted. ⁶ And Alahayam considered Adam's thought, and sent the angel Mayakaal as far as the sea that reaches Hadaw, to take from there golden rods and bring them to Adam. ⁷ This did Alahayam in His wisdom in order that these golden rods, being with Adam in the cave, should shine forth with light in the night around him, and put an end to his fear of the darkness. ⁸ Then the angel Mayakaal went down by Alahayam's order, took golden rods, as Alahayam had commanded him, and brought them to Alahayam.

30 After these things, Alahayam commanded the angel Gabarayaal to go down to the garden, and say to the cherub who kept it, "Behold, Alahayam has commanded me to come into the garden, and to take from it sweet smelling incense, and give it to Adam." ² Then the angel Gabarayaal went down by Alahayam's order to the garden, and told the cherub as Alahayam had commanded him. ³ The cherub then said, "Well." And Gabarayaal went in and took the incense. ⁴ Then Alahayam commanded his angel Raphael to go down to the garden, and speak to the cherub about some myrrh, to give to Adam. ⁵ And the angel Raphael went down and told the cherub as Alahayam had commanded him, and the cherub said, "Well." Then Raphael went in and took the myrrh. ⁶ The golden rods were from the Indian sea, where there are precious stones. The incense was from the eastern border of the garden; and the myrrh from the western border, from where bitterness came over Adam. ⁷ And the angels brought these things to Alahayam, by the Tree of Life, in the garden. ⁸ Then Alahayam said to the angels, "Dip them in the spring of water; then take them and sprinkle their water over Adam and Chawah, that they be a little comforted in their sorrow, and give them to Adam and Chawah. ⁹ And the angels did as Alahayam had commanded them, and they gave all those things to Adam and Chawah on the top of the mountain on which Satan had placed them, when he sought to make an end of them. ¹⁰ And when Adam saw the golden rods, the incense and the myrrh, he was rejoiced and cried because he thought that the gold was a token of the kingdom from where he had come, that the incense was a token of the bright light which had been taken from him, and that the myrrh was a token of the sorrow in which he was.

31 After these things Alahayam said to Adam, "You asked Me for something from the garden, to be comforted therewith, and I have given you these three tokens as a consolation to you; that you trust in Me and in My covenant with you. ² For I will come and save you; and kings shall bring me when in the flesh, gold, incense and myrrh; gold as a token of My kingdom; incense as a token of My divinity; and myrrh as a token of My suffering and of My death. ³ But, O Adam, put these by you in the cave; the gold that it may shed light over you by night; the incense, that you smell its sweet savor; and the myrrh, to comfort you in your sorrow." ⁴ When Adam heard these words from Alahayam, he worshipped before Him. He and Chawah worshipped Him and gave Him thanks, because He had dealt mercifully with them. ⁵ Then Alahayam commanded the three angels, Mayakaal, Gabarayaal and Raphael, each to bring what he had brought, and give it to Adam. And they did so, one by one. ⁶ And Alahayam commanded Suriyel and Salathiel to bear up Adam and Chawah, and bring them down from the top of the high mountain, and to take them to the Cave of Treasures. ⁷ There they laid the gold on the south side of the cave, the incense on the eastern side, and the myrrh on the western side. For the mouth of the cave was on the north side. ⁸ The angels then comforted Adam and Chawah, and departed. ⁹ The gold was seventy rods; the incense, twelve pounds; and the myrrh, three pounds. ¹⁰ These remained by Adam in the Cave of Treasures. ¹¹ Alahayam gave these three things to Adam on the third day after he had come out of the garden, in token of the three days the Adanay should remain in the heart of the earth. ¹² And these three things, as they continued with Adam in the cave, gave him light by night; and by day they gave him a little relief from his sorrow.

32 And Adam and Chawah remained in the Cave of Treasures until the seventh day; they neither ate of the fruit the earth, nor drank water. ² And when it dawned on the eighth day, Adam said to Chawah, "O Chawah, we prayed Alahayam to give us something from the garden, and He sent his angels who brought us what we had desired. ³ But now, get up, let us go to the sea of water we saw at first, and let us stand in it, praying that Alahayam will again be favorable to us and take us back to the garden; or give us something; or that He will give us comfort in some other land than this in which we are." ⁴ Then Adam and Chawah came out of the cave, went and stood on the border of the sea in which they had before thrown themselves, and Adam said to Chawah:-- ⁵ Come, go down into this place, and come not out of it until the end of thirty days, when I shall come to you. And pray to Alahayam with burning heart and a sweet voice, to forgive us. ⁶ And I will go to another place, and go down into it, and do like you." ⁷ Then Chawah went down into the water, as Adam had commanded her. Adam also went down into the water; and they stood praying; and besought the Adanay to forgive them their offense, and to restore them to their former state. ⁸ And they stood like that praying, until the end of the thirty-five days.

33 But Satan, the hater of all good, sought them in the cave, but found them not, although he searched diligently for them. ² But he found them standing in the water praying and thought within himself, "Adam and Chawah are standing like that in that water praying to Alahayam to forgive them their transgression, and to restore them to their former state, and to take them from under my hand.³ But I will deceive them so that they shall come out of the water, and not fulfil their vow."⁴ Then the hater of all good, went not to Adam, but he went to Chawah, and took the form of an angel of Alahayam, praising and rejoicing, and said to her:--⁵ "Peace be to you! Be glad and rejoice! Alahayam is favorable to you, and He sent me to Adam. I have brought him the glad tidings of salvation, and of his being filled with bright light as he was at first.⁶ And Adam, in his joy for his restoration, has sent me to you, that you come to me, in order that I crown you with light like him.⁷ And he said to me, 'Speak to Chawah; if she does not come with you, tell her of the sign when we were on the top of the mountain; how Alahayam sent his angels who took us and brought us to the Cave of Treasures; and laid the gold on the southern side; incense, on the eastern side; and myrrh on the western side.' Now come to him."⁸ When Chawah hear these words from him, she rejoiced greatly. And thinking Satan's appearance was real, she came out of the sea.⁹ He went before, and she followed him until they came to Adam. Then Satan hid himself from her, and she saw him no more.¹⁰ She then came and stood before Adam, who was standing by the water and rejoicing in Alahayam's forgiveness.¹¹ And as she called to him, he turned around, found her there and cried when he saw her, and beat his chest; and from the bitterness of his grief, he sank into the water.¹² But Alahayam looked at him and at his misery, and at his being about to breathe his last. And the Word of Alahayam came from heaven, raised him out of the water, and said to him, "Go up the high bank to Chawah." And when he came up to Chawah he said to her, "Who told you to come here?"¹³ Then she told him the discourse of the angel who had appeared to her and had given her a sign.¹⁴ But Adam grieved, and gave her to know it was Satan. He then took her and they both returned to the cave.¹⁵ These things happened to them the second time they went down to the water, seven days after their coming out of the garden.¹⁶ They fasted in the water thirty-five days; altogether forty-two days since they had left the garden.

34 And on the morning of the forty-third day, they came out of the cave, sorrowful and crying. Their bodies were lean, and they were parched from hunger and thirst, from fasting and praying, and from their heavy sorrow on account of their transgression.² And when they had come out of the cave they went up the mountain to the west of the garden.³ There they stood and prayed and besought Alahayam to grant them forgiveness of their sins.⁴ And after their prayers Adam began to beg Alahayam, saying, "O my Adanay, my Alahayam, and my Creator, You commanded the four elements to be gathered together, and they were gathered together by Your order.⁵ Then You spread Your hand and created me out of one element, that of dust of the earth; and You brought me into the garden at the third hour, on a Friday, and informed me of it in the cave.⁶ Then, at first, I knew neither night nor day, for I had a bright nature; neither did the light in which I lived ever leave me to know night or day.⁷ Then, again, O Adanay, in that third hour in which You created me, You brought to me all beasts, and lions, and ostriches, and fowls of the air, and all things that move in the earth, which You had created at the first hour before me of the Friday.⁸ And Your will was that I should name them all, one by one, with a suitable name. But You gave me understanding and knowledge, and a pure heart and a right mind from you, that I should name them after Your own mind regarding the naming of them.⁹ O Alahayam, You made them obedient to me, and ordered that not one of them break from my sway, according to Your commandment, and to the dominion which You had given me over them. But now they are all estranged from me.¹⁰ Then it was in that third hour of Friday, in which You created me, and commanded me concerning the tree, to which I was neither to go near, nor to eat thereof; for You said to me in the garden, 'When you eat of it, of death you shall die.'¹¹ And if You had punished me as You said, with death, I should have died that very moment.¹² Moreover, when You commanded me regarding the tree, I was neither to approach nor to eat thereof, Chawah was not with me; You had not yet created her, neither had You yet taken her out of my side; nor had she yet heard this order from you.¹³ Then, at the end of the third hour of that Friday, O Adanay, You caused a slumber and a sleep to come over me, and I slept, and was overwhelmed in sleep.¹⁴ Then You drew a rib out of my side, and created it after my own likeness and image. Then I awoke; and when I saw her and knew who she was, I said, 'This is bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh; from now on she shall be called woman.'¹⁵ It was of Your good will, O Alahayam, that You brought a slumber in a sleep over me, and that You immediately brought Chawah out of my side, until she was out, so that I did not see how she was made; neither could I witness, O my Adanay, how awful and great are Your goodness and glory.¹⁶ And of Your goodwill, O Adanay, You made us both with bodies of a bright nature, and You made us two, one; and You gave us Your grace, and filled us with praises of the Holy Spirit; that we should be neither hungry nor thirsty, nor know what sorrow is, nor yet faintness of heart; neither suffering, fasting nor weariness.¹⁷ But now, O Alahayam, since we transgressed Your commandment and broke Your law, You have brought us out into a strange land, and have caused suffering, and faintness, hunger and thirst to come over us.¹⁸ Now, therefore, O Alahayam, we pray you, give us something to eat from the garden, to satisfy our hunger with it; and something wherewith to quench our thirst.¹⁹ For, behold, many days, O Alahayam, we have tasted nothing and drunk nothing, and our flesh is dried up, and our strength is wasted, and sleep is gone from our eyes from faintness and crying.²⁰ Then, O Alahayam, we dare not gather anything from the fruit of trees, from fear of you. For when we transgress at first You spared us and did not make us die.²¹ But now, we thought in our hearts, if we eat of the fruit of the trees, without Alahayam's order, He will destroy us this time, and will wipe us off from the face of the earth.²² And if we drink of this water, without Alahayam's order, He will make an end of us and root us up at once.²³ Now, therefore, O Alahayam, that I am come to this place with Chawah, we beg You to give us some fruit from the garden, that we may be satisfied with it.²⁴ For we desire the fruit that is on the earth, and all else that we lack in it."

35 Then Alahayam looked again at Adam and his crying and groaning, and the Word of Alahayam came to him, and said to him:--² "O Adam, when you were in My garden, you knew neither eating nor drinking; neither faintness nor suffering; neither leanness of flesh, nor change; neither did sleep depart from your eyes. But since you transgressed, and came into this strange land, all these trials are come over you."

36 Then Alahayam commanded the cherub, who kept the gate of the garden with a sword of fire in his hand, to take some of the fruit of the fig-tree, and to give it to Adam.² The cherub obeyed the command of the Adanay Alahayam, and went into the garden and brought two figs on two twigs, each fig hanging to its leaf; they were from two of the trees among which Adam and Chawah hid themselves when Alahayam went to walk in the garden, and the Word of Alahayam came to Adam and Chawah and said to them, "Adam, Adam, where are you?"³ And Adam answered, "O Alahayam, here I am. When I heard the sound of You and Your voice, I hid myself, because I am naked."⁴ Then the cherub took two figs and brought them to Adam and Chawah. But he threw them to them from a distance; for they might not come near the cherub by reason of their flesh, that could not come near the fire.⁵ At first, angels trembled at the presence of Adam and were afraid of him. But now Adam trembled before the angels and was afraid of them.⁶ Then Adam came closer and took one fig, and Chawah also came in turn and took the other.⁷ And as they took them up in their hands, they looked at them, and knew they were from the trees among which they had hidden themselves.

37 Then Adam said to Chawah, "Do you not see these figs and their leaves, with which we covered ourselves when we were stripped of our bright nature? But now, we do not know what misery and suffering may come over us from eating them.² Now, therefore, O Chawah, let us restrain ourselves and not eat of them, you and I; and let us ask Alahayam to give us of the fruit of the Tree of Life."³ Thus did Adam and Chawah restrain themselves, and did not eat of these figs.⁴ But Adam began to pray to Alahayam and to beseech Him to give him of the fruit of the Tree of Life, saying thus: "O Alahayam, when we transgressed Your commandment at the sixth hour of Friday, we were stripped of the bright nature we had, and did not continue in the garden after our transgression, more than three hours.⁵ But in the evening You made us come out of it. O Alahayam, we transgressed against You one hour, and all these trials and sorrows have come over us until this day.⁶ And those days together with this the forty-third day, do not redeem that one hour in which we transgressed!"⁷ O Alahayam, look at us with an eye of pity, and do not avenge us according to our transgression of Your commandment, in Your presence.⁸ O Alahayam, give us of the fruit of the Tree of Life, that we may eat of it, and live, and turn not to see sufferings and other trouble, in this earth; for You are Alahayam.⁹ When we transgressed Your commandment, You made us come out of the garden, and sent a cherub to keep the Tree of Life, lest we should eat thereof, and live; and know nothing of faintness after we transgressed.¹⁰ But now, O Adanay, behold, we have endured all these days, and have borne sufferings. Make these forty-three days an equivalent for the one hour in which we transgressed."

38 After these things the Word of Alahayam came to Adam, and said to him:--² "O Adam, as to the fruit on the Tree of Life that you have asked for, I will not give it to you now, but only when the 5500 years are fulfilled. At that time I will give you fruit from the Tree of Life, and you will eat, and live forever, you, and Chawah, and your righteous descendants.³ But these forty-three days cannot make amends for the hour in which you transgressed My commandment.⁴ O Adam, I gave you the fruit of the fig-tree to eat in which you hid yourself. Go and eat of it, you and Chawah.⁵ I will not deny your request, neither will I disappoint your hope; therefore, endure until the fulfillment of the covenant I made with you."⁶ And Alahayam withdrew His Word from Adam.

39 Then Adam returned to Chawah, and said to her, "Get up, and take a fig for yourself, and I will take another; and let us go to our cave."² Then Adam and Chawah took each a fig and went towards the cave; the time was about the setting of the sun; and their thoughts made them long to eat of the fruit.³ But Adam said to Chawah, "I am afraid to eat of this fig. I know not what may come over me from it."⁴ So Adam cried, and stood praying before Alahayam, saying, "Satisfy my hunger, without my having to eat this fig; for after I have eaten it, what will it profit me? And what shall I desire and ask of you, O Alahayam, when it is gone?"⁵ And he said again, "I am afraid to eat of it; for I know not what will befall me through it."

40 Then the Word of Alahayam came to Adam, and said to him, "O Adam, why didn't you have this dread, or this fasting, or this care before now? And why didn't you have this fear before you transgressed?"² But when you came to live in this strange land, your animal body could not survive on earth without earthly food, to strengthen it and to restore its powers."³ And Alahayam withdrew His Word for Adam.

41 Then Adam took the fig, and laid it on the golden rods. Chawah also took her fig, and put it on the incense.² And the weight of each fig was that of a water-melon; for the fruit of the garden was much larger than the fruit of this land.³ But Adam and Chawah remained standing and fasting the whole of that night, until the morning dawned.⁴ When the sun rose they were still praying, but after they had finished praying, Adam said to Chawah:--⁵ "O Chawah, come, let us go to the border of the garden looking south; to the place from where the river flows, and is parted into four heads. There we will pray to Alahayam, and ask Him to give us some of the Water of Life to drink.⁶ For Alahayam has not fed us with the Tree of Life, in order that we may not live. Therefore, we will ask him to give us some of the Water of Life, and to quench our thirst with it, rather than with a drink of water of this land."

⁸ And they stood and prayed before the Adanay, and asked Him to look at them this once, to forgive them, and to grant them their request.⁹ After this prayer from both of them, Adam began to pray with his voice before Alahayam, and said;--¹⁰ "O Adanay, when I was in the garden and saw the water that flowed from under the Tree of Life, my heart did not desire, neither did my body require to drink of it; neither did I know thirst, for I was living; and above that which I am now.¹¹ So that in order to live I did not require any Food of Life, neither did I drink of the Water of Life."¹² But now, O Alahayam, I am dead; my flesh is parched with thirst. Give me of the Water of Life that I may drink of it and live.¹³ Of Your mercy, O Alahayam, save me from these plagues and trials, and bring me into another land different from this, if You will not let me live in Your garden."

42 Then came the Word of Alahayam to Adam, and said to him:--² "O Adam, as to what you said, 'Bring me into a land where there is rest,' it is not another land than this, but it is the kingdom of heaven where alone there is rest."³ But you can not make your entrance into it at present; but only after your judgment is past and fulfilled.⁴ Then will I make you go up into the kingdom of heaven, you and your righteous descendants; and I will give you and them the rest you ask for at present.⁵ And if you said, 'Give me of the Water of Life that I may drink and live'--it cannot be this day, but on the day that I shall descend into hell, and break the gates of brass, and bruise in pieces the kingdoms of iron.⁶ Then will I in mercy save your soul and the souls of the righteous, to give them rest in My garden. And that shall be when the end of the world is come.⁷ And, again, in regards to the Water of Life you seek, it will not be granted you this day; but on the day that I shall shed My blood on your head in the land of Golgotha.⁸ For My blood shall be the Water of Life to you at that time, and not to just you alone, but to all your descendants who shall believe in Me; that it be to them for rest forever."⁹ The Adanay said again to Adam, "O Adam, when you were in the garden, these trials did not come to you."

¹⁰ But since you transgressed My commandment, all these sufferings have come over you.¹¹ Now, also, does your flesh require food and drink; drink then of that water that flows by you on the face of the earth.¹² Then Alahayam withdrew His Word from Adam.¹³ And Adam and Chawah worshipped the Adanay, and returned from the river of water to the cave. It was noon-day; and when they drew near to the cave, they saw a large fire by it.

43 Then Adam and Chawah were afraid, and stood still. And Adam said to Chawah, "What is that fire by our cave? We have done nothing in it to cause this fire."² We neither have bread to bake therein, nor broth to cook there. As to this fire, we have never known anything like it, neither do we know what to call it.³ But ever since Alahayam sent the cherub with a sword of fire that flashed and lightened in his hand, from fear of which we fell down and were like corpses, have we not seen the like.⁴ But now, O Chawah, behold, this is the same fire that was in the cherub's hand, which Alahayam has sent to keep the cave in which we live.⁵ O Chawah, it is because Alahayam is angry with us, and will drive us from it.⁶ O Chawah, we have again transgressed His commandment in that cave, so that He had sent this fire to burn around it, and to prevent us from going into it.⁷ If this be really so, O Chawah, where shall we live? And where shall we flee from before the face of the Adanay? Since, in regards to the garden, He will not let us live in it, and He has deprived us of the good things thereof; but He has placed us in this cave, in which we have borne darkness, trials and hardships, until at last we have found comfort therein.⁸ But now that He has brought us out into another land, who knows what may happen in it? And who knows but that the darkness of that land may be far greater than the darkness of this land?⁹ Who knows what may happen in that land by day or by night? And who knows whether it will be far or near, O Chawah? Where it will please Alahayam to put us, may be far from the garden, O Chawah? Or where Alahayam will prevent us from beholding Him, because we have transgressed His commandment, and because we have made requests of Him at all times? ¹⁰ O Chawah, if Alahayam will bring us into a strange land other than this, in which we find consolation, it must be to put our souls to death, and blot out our name from the face of the earth. ¹¹ O Chawah, if we are further alienated from the garden and from Alahayam, where shall we find Him again, and ask Him to give us gold, incense, myrrh, and some fruit of the fig-tree? ¹² Where shall we find Him, to comfort us a second time? Where shall we find Him, that He may think of us, as regards the covenant He has made on our behalf? ¹³ Then Adam said no more. And they kept looking, He and Chawah, towards the cave, and at the fire that flared up around it. ¹⁴ But that fire was from Satan. For he had gathered trees and dry grasses, and had carried and brought them to the cave, and had set fire to them, in order to consume the cave and what was in it. ¹⁵ So that Adam and Chawah should be left in sorrow, and he should cut off their trust in Alahayam, and make them deny Him. ¹⁶ But by the mercy of Alahayam he could not burn the cave, for Alahayam sent His angel around the cave to guard it from such a fire, until it went out. ¹⁷ And this fire lasted from noon-day until the break of day. That was the forty-fifth day.

44 Yet Adam and Chawah were standing and looking at the fire, and unable to come near the cave from their dread of the fire. ² And Satan kept on bringing trees and throwing them into the fire, until the flames of the fire rose up on high, and covered the whole cave, thinking, as he did in his own mind, to consume the cave with much fire. But the angel of the Adanay was guarding it. ³ And yet he could not curse Satan, nor injure him by word, because he had no authority over him, neither did he take to doing so with words from his mouth. ⁴ Therefore the angel tolerated him, without saying one bad word, until the Word of Alahayam came who said to Satan, "Go away from here; once before you deceived My servants, and this time you seek to destroy them. ⁵ Were it not for My mercy I would have destroyed you and your hosts from off the earth. But I have had patience with you, until the end of the world." ⁶ Then Satan fled from before the Adanay. But the fire went on burning around the cave like a coal-fire the whole day; which was the forty-sixth day Adam and Chawah had spent since they came out of the garden. ⁷ And when Adam and Chawah saw that the heat of the fire had somewhat cooled down, they began to walk towards the cave to get into it as they usually did; but they could not, by reason of the heat of the fire. ⁸ Then they both began crying because of the fire that separated them from the cave, and that came towards them, burning. And they were afraid. ⁹ Then Adam said to Chawah, "See this fire of which we have a portion in us: which formerly yielded to us, but no longer does so, now that we have transgressed the limit of creation, and changed our condition, and our nature is altered. But the fire is not changed in its nature, nor altered from its creation. Therefore it now has power over us; and when we come near it, it scorches our flesh."

45 Then Adam rose and prayed to Alahayam, saying, "See, this fire has separated us from the cave in which You have commanded us to live; but now, behold, we cannot go into it." ² Then Alahayam heard Adam, and sent him His Word, that said:-- ³ "O Adam, see this fire! How different the flame and heat thereof are from the garden of delights and the good things in it! ⁴ When you were under My control, all creatures yielded to you; but after you have transgressed My commandment, they all rise over you." ⁵ Alahayam said again to him, "See, O Adam, how Satan has exalted you! He has deprived you of the Godhead, and of an exalted state like Me, and has not kept his word to you; but has, after all, become your enemy. He is the one who made this fire in which he meant to burn you and Chawah. ⁶ Why, O Adam, has he not kept his agreement with you, not even one day; but has deprived you of the glory that was on you--when you yielded to his command? ⁷ Do you think, Adam, that he loved you when he made this agreement with you? Or that he loved you and wished to raise you on high?

⁸ But no, Adam, he did not do all that out of love to you; but he wished to make you come out of light into darkness; and from an exalted state to degradation; from glory to abasement; from joy to sorrow; and from rest to fasting and fainting." ⁹ Alahayam also said to Adam, "See this fire kindled by Satan around your cave; see this wonder that surrounds you; and know that it will encompass about both you and your descendants, when you obey his command; that he will plague you with fire; and that you will go down into hell after you are dead. ¹⁰ Then you will see the burning of his fire, that will be burning around you and likewise your descendants. You will not be delivered from it until My coming; just like you cannot go into your cave right now because of the great fire around it; not until My Word comes and makes a way for you on the day My covenant is fulfilled. ¹¹ There is no way for you at present to come from this life to rest, not until My Word comes, who is My Word. Then He will make a way for you, and you shall have rest." Then Alahayam called with His Word to the fire that burned around the cave, that it split itself in half, until Adam had gone through it. Then the fire parted itself by Alahayam's order, and a way was made for Adam. ¹² And Alahayam withdrew His Word from Adam.

46 Then Adam and Chawah began again to come into the cave. And when they came to the way between the fire, Satan blew into the fire like a whirlwind, and caused the burning coal-fire to cover Adam and Chawah; so that their bodies were singed; and the coal-fire scorched them. ² And from the burning of the fire Adam and Chawah screamed, and said, "O Adanay, save us! Leave us not to be consumed and plagued by this burning fire; neither require us for having transgressed Your commandment." ³ Then Alahayam looked at their bodies, on which Satan had caused fire to burn, and Alahayam sent His angel that stayed the burning fire. But the wounds remained on their bodies. ⁴ And Alahayam said to Adam, "See Satan's love for you, who pretended to give you the Godhead and greatness; and, behold, he burns you with fire, and seeks to destroy you from off the earth. ⁵ Then look at Me, O Adam; I created you, and how many times have I delivered you out of his hand? If not, wouldn't he have destroyed you?" ⁶ Alahayam said again to Chawah, "What is that he promised you in the garden, saying, 'As soon as you eat from the tree, your eyes will be opened, and you shall become like gods, knowing good and evil.' But look! He has burnt your bodies with fire, and has made you taste the taste of fire, for the taste of the garden; and has made you see the burning of fire, and the evil of it, and the power it has over you. ⁷ Your eyes have seen the good he has taken from you, and in truth he has opened your eyes; and you have seen the garden in which you were with Me, and you have also seen the evil that has come over you from Satan. But as to the Godhead he cannot give it to you, neither fulfil his speech to you. No, he was bitter against you and your descendants, that will come after you." ⁸ And Alahayam withdrew His Word from them.

47 Then Adam and Chawah came into the cave, yet trembling at the fire that had scorched their bodies. So Adam said to Chawah:-- ² "Look, the fire has burnt our flesh in this world; but how will it be when we are dead, and Satan shall punish our souls? Is not our deliverance long and far off, unless Alahayam come, and in mercy to us fulfil His promise?" ³ Then Adam and Chawah passed into the cave, blessing themselves for coming into it once more. For it was in their thoughts, that they never should enter it, when they saw the fire around it. ⁴ But as the sun was setting the fire was still burning and nearing Adam and Chawah in the cave, so that they could not sleep in it. After the sun had set, they went out of it. This was the forty-seventh day after they came out of the garden. ⁵ Adam and Chawah then came under the top of hill by the garden to sleep, as they were accustomed. ⁶ And they stood and prayed Alahayam to forgive them their sins, and then fell asleep under the summit of the mountain. ⁷ But Satan, the hater of all good, thought within himself: "Whereas Alahayam has promised salvation to Adam by covenant, and that He would deliver him out of all the hardships that have befallen him--but has not promised me by covenant, and will not deliver me out of my hardships; no, since He has promised him that He should make him and his descendants live in the kingdom in which I once was--I will kill Adam.⁸ The earth shall be rid of him; and shall be left to me alone; so that when he is dead he may not have any descendants left to inherit the kingdom that shall remain my own realm; Alahayam will then be wanting me, and He will restore it to me and my hosts."

48 After this Satan called to his hosts, all of which came to him, and said to him:--² "O, our lord, what will you do?"³ He then said to them, "You know that this Adam, whom Alahayam created out of the dust, is the one who has taken our kingdom, come, let us gather together and kill him; or hurl a rock at him and at Chawah, and crush them under it."⁴ When Satan's hosts heard these words, they came to the part of the mountain where Adam and Chawah were asleep.⁵ Then Satan and his host took a huge rock, broad and even, and without blemish, thinking within himself, "If there should be a hole in the rock, when it fell on them, the hole in the rock might come over them, and so they would escape and not die."⁶ He then said to his hosts, "Take up this stone, and throw it flat on them, so that it doesn't roll off them to somewhere else. And when you have hurled it, get away from there quickly."⁷ And they did as he told them. But as the rock fell down from the mountain toward Adam and Chawah, Alahayam commanded the rock to become a dome over them, that did them no harm. And so it was by Alahayam's order.⁸ But when the rock fell, the whole earth quaked with it, and was shaken from the size of the rock.⁹ And as it quaked and shook, Adam and Chawah awoke from sleep, and found themselves under a dome of rock. But they didn't know what had happened; because when the fell asleep they were under the sky, and not under a dome; and when they saw it, they were afraid.¹⁰ Then Adam said to Chawah, "Therefore has the mountain bent itself, and the earth quaked and shaken on our account? And why has this rock spread itself over us like a tent?"¹¹ Does Alahayam intend to plague us and to shut us up in this prison? Or will He close the earth over us?¹² He is angry with us for our having come out of the cave, without His order; and for our having done so of our own accord, without consulting Him, when we left the cave and came to this place."¹³ Then Chawah said, "If, indeed, the earth quaked for our sake, and this rock forms a tent over us because of our transgression, then we will be sorry, O Adam, because our punishment will be long."¹⁴ But get up and pray to Alahayam to let us know concerning this, and what this rock is that is spread over us like a tent."¹⁵ Then Adam stood up and prayed before the Adanay, to let him know what had brought about this difficult time. And Adam stood praying like that until the morning.

49 Then the Word of Alahayam came and said:--² "O Adam, who counselled you, when you came out of the cave, to come to this place?"³ And Adam said to Alahayam, "O Adanay, we came to this place because of the heat of the fire, that came over us inside the cave."⁴ Then the Adanay Alahayam said to Adam, "O Adam, you dread the heat of fire for one night, but how will it be when you live in hell?"⁵ Yet, O Adam, don't be afraid, and don't believe that I have placed this dome of rock over you to plague you with it.⁶ It came from Satan, who had promised you the Godhead and majesty. It is he who threw down this rock to kill you under it, and Chawah with you, and thus to prevent you from living on the earth.⁷ But, in mercy for you, just as that rock was falling down on you, I commanded it to form an dome over you; and the rock under you to lower itself.⁸ And this sign, O Adam, will happen to Me at My coming on earth: Satan will raise the people of the Jews to put Me to death; and they will lay Me in a rock, and seal a large stone over Me, and I shall remain within that rock three days and three nights.⁹ But on the third day I shall rise again, and it shall be salvation to you, O Adam, and to your descendants, to believe in Me. But, O Adam, I will not bring you from under this rock until three days and three nights have passed."¹⁰ And Alahayam withdrew His Word from Adam.¹¹ But Adam and Chawah lived under the rock three days and three nights, as Alahayam had told them.¹² And Alahayam did so to them because they had left their cave and had come to this same place without Alahayam's order.¹³ But, after three days and three nights, Alahayam created an opening in the dome of rock and allowed them to get out from under it. Their flesh was dried up, and their eyes and hearts were troubled from crying and sorrow.

50 Then Adam and Chawah went forth and came into the Cave of Treasures, and they stood praying in it the whole of that day, until the evening.² And this took place at the end of the fifty days after they had left the garden.³ But Adam and Chawah rose again and prayed to Alahayam in the cave the whole of that night, and begged for mercy from Him.⁴ And when the day dawned, Adam said to Chawah, "Come! Let us go and do some work for our bodies."⁵ So they went out of the cave, and came to the northern border of the garden, and they looked for something to cover their bodies with. But they found nothing, and knew not how to do the work. Yet their bodies were stained, and they were speechless from cold and heat.⁶ Then Adam stood and asked Alahayam to show him something with which to cover their bodies.⁷ Then came the Word of Alahayam and said to him, "O Adam, take Chawah and come to the seashore where you fasted before. There you will find skins of sheep that were left after lions ate the carcasses. Take them and make garments for yourselves, and clothe yourselves with them.

51 When Adam heard these words from Alahayam, he took Chawah and went from the northern end of the garden to the south of it, by the river of water where they once fasted.² But as they were going on their way, and before they got there, Satan, the wicked one, had heard the Word of Alahayam communing with Adam respecting his covering.³ It grieved him, and he hastened to the place where the sheep-skins were, with the intention of taking them and throwing them into the sea, or of burning them with fire, so that Adam and Chawah would not find them.⁴ But as he was about to take them, the Word of Alahayam came from heaven, and bound him by the side of those skins until Adam and Chawah came near him. But as they got closer to him they were afraid of him, and of his hideous look.⁵ Then came the Word of Alahayam to Adam and Chawah, and said to them, "This is he who was hidden in the serpent, and who deceived you, and stripped you of the garment of light and glory in which you were."⁶ This is he who promised you majesty and divinity. Where, then, is the beauty that was on him? Where is his divinity? Where is his light? Where is the glory that rested on him?⁷ Now his figure is hideous; he is become abominable among angels; and he has come to be called Satan.⁸ O Adam, he wished to take from you this earthly garment of sheep-skins, and to destroy it, and not let you be covered with it.⁹ What, then, is his beauty that you should have followed him? And what have you gained by obeying him? See his evil works and then look at Me; at Me, your Creator, and at the good deeds I do you.¹⁰ See, I bound him until you came and saw him and beheld his weakness, that no power is left with him."¹¹ And Alahayam released him from his bonds.

52 After this Adam and Chawah said no more, but cried before Alahayam on account of their creation, and of their bodies that required an earthly covering.² Then Adam said to Chawah, "O Chawah, this is the skin of beasts with which we shall be covered, but when we put it on, behold, we shall be wearing a token of death on our bodies. Just as the owners of these skins have died and have wasted away, so also shall we die and pass away."³ Then Adam and Chawah took the skins, and went back to the Cave of Treasures; and when in it, they stood and prayed as they were accustomed.⁴ And they thought how they could make garments of those skins; for they had no skill for it.⁵ Then Alahayam sent to them His angel to show them how to work it out. And the angel said to Adam, "Go forth, and bring some palm-thorns." Then Adam went out, and brought some, as the angel had commanded him.⁶ Then the angel began before them to work out the skins, after the manner of one who prepares a shirt. And he took the thorns and stuck them into the skins, before their eyes.⁷ Then the angel again stood up and prayed Alahayam that the thorns in those skins should be hidden, so as to be, as it were, sewn with one thread.⁸ And so it was, by Alahayam's order; they became garments for Adam and Chawah, and He clothed them therewith.⁹ From that time the nakedness of their bodies was covered from the sight of each other's eyes.¹⁰ And this happened at the end of the fifty-first day.¹¹ Then when Adam's and Eve's bodies were covered, they stood and prayed, and sought mercy of the Adanay, and forgiveness, and gave Him thanks for that He had had mercy on them, and had covered their nakedness. And they ceased not from prayer the whole of that night.¹² Then when the morning dawned at the rising of the sun, they said their prayers after their custom; and then went out of the cave.¹³ And Adam said to Chawah, "Since we don't know what there is to the west of this cave, let us go out and see it today." Then they came forth and went toward the western border.

53 They were not very far from the cave, when Satan came towards them, and hid himself between them and the cave, under the form of two ravenous lions three days without food, that came towards Adam and Chawah, as if to break them in pieces and devour them.² Then Adam and Chawah cried, and prayed Alahayam to deliver them from their paws.³ Then the Word of Alahayam came to them, and drove away the lions from them.⁴ And Alahayam said to Adam, "O Adam, what do you seek on the western border? And why have you left of your own accord the eastern border, in which was your living place?"⁵ Now then, turn back to your cave, and remain in it, so that Satan won't deceive you or work his purpose over you.⁶ For in this western border, O Adam, there will go from you a descendant, that shall replenish it; and that will defile themselves with their sins, and with their yielding to the commands of Satan, and by following his works.⁷ Therefore will I bring over them the waters of a flood, and overwhelm them all. But I will deliver what is left of the righteous among them; and I will bring them to a distant land, and the land in which you live now shall remain desolate and without one inhabitant in it.⁸ After Alahayam had thus spoken to them, they went back to the Cave of Treasures. But their flesh was dried up, and they were weak from fasting and praying, and from the sorrow they felt at having trespassed against Alahayam.

54 Then Adam and Chawah stood up in the cave and prayed the whole of that night until the morning dawned. And when the sun was risen they both went out of the cave; their heads were wandering from heaviness of sorrow and they didn't know where they were going.² And they walked in that condition to the southern border of the garden. And they began to go up that border until they came to the eastern border beyond which there was no more land.³ And the cherub who guarded the garden was standing at the western gate, and guarding it against Adam and Chawah, lest they should suddenly come into the garden. And the cherub turned around, as if to put them to death; according to the commandment Alahayam had given him.⁴ When Adam and Chawah came to the eastern border of the garden--thinking in their hearts that the cherub was not watching--as they were standing by the gate as if wishing to go in, suddenly came the cherub with a flashing sword of fire in his hand; and when he saw them, he went forth to kill them. For he was afraid that Alahayam would destroy him if they went into the garden without His order.⁵ And the sword of the cherub seemed to shoot flames a distance away from it. But when he raised it over Adam and Chawah, the flame of the sword did not flash forth.⁶ Therefore the cherub thought that Alahayam was favorable to them, and was bringing them back into the garden. And the cherub stood wondering.⁷ He could not go up to Heaven to determine Alahayam's order regarding their getting into the garden; he therefore continued to stand by them, unable as he was to part from them; for he was afraid that if they should enter the garden without permission, Alahayam would destroy him.⁸ When Adam and Chawah saw the cherub coming towards them with a flaming sword of fire in his hand, they fell on their faces from fear, and were as dead.⁹ At that time the heavens and the earth shook; and another cherubim came down from heaven to the cherub who guarded the garden, and saw him amazed and silent.¹⁰ Then, again, other angels came down close to the place where Adam and Chawah were. They were divided between joy and sorrow.¹¹ They were glad, because they thought that Alahayam was favorable to Adam, and wished him to return to the garden; and wished to restore him to the gladness he once enjoyed.¹² But they sorrowed over Adam, because he was fallen like a dead man, he and Chawah; and they said in their thoughts, "Adam has not died in this place; but Alahayam has put him to death, for his having come to this place, and wishing to get into the garden without His permission."

55 Then came the Word of Alahayam to Adam and Chawah, and raised them from their dead state, saying to them, "Why did you come up here? Do you intend to go into the garden, from which I brought you out? It cannot be today; but only when the covenant I have made with you is fulfilled."² Then Adam, when he heard the Word of Alahayam, and the fluttering of the angels whom he did not see, but only heard the sound of them with his ears, he and Chawah cried, and said to the angels:--³ "O Spirits, who wait on Alahayam, look at me, and at my being unable to see you! For when I was in my former bright nature, then I could see you. I sang praises as you do; and my heart was far above you."⁴ But now, that I have transgressed, that bright nature is gone from me, and I am come to this miserable state. And now I have come to this, that I cannot see you, and you do not serve me like you used to do. For I have become animal flesh.⁵ Yet now, O angels of Alahayam, ask Alahayam with me, to restore me to that wherein I was formerly; to rescue me from this misery, and to remove from me the sentence of death He passed on me, for having trespassed against Him."⁶ Then, when the angels heard these words, they all grieved over him; and cursed Satan who had misled Adam, until he came from the garden to misery; from life to death; from peace to trouble; and from gladness to a strange land.⁷ Then the angels said to Adam, "You obeyed Satan, and ignored the Word of Alahayam who created you; and you believed that Satan would fulfil all he had promised you."⁸ But now, O Adam, we will make known to you, what came over us though him, before his fall from heaven.⁹ He gathered together his hosts, and deceived them, promising to give them a great kingdom, a divine nature; and other promises he made them.¹⁰ His hosts believed that his word was true, so they yielded to him, and renounced the glory of Alahayam.¹¹ He then sent for us--according to the orders in which we were--to come under his command, and to accept his vain promise. But we would not, and we did not take his advice.¹² Then after he had fought with Alahayam, and had dealt forwardly with Him, he gathered together his hosts, and made war with us. And if it had not been for Alahayam's strength that was with us, we could not have prevailed against him to hurl him from heaven.¹³ But when he fell from among us, there was great joy in heaven, because of his going down from us. For if he had remained in heaven, nothing, not even one angel would have remained in it.¹⁴ But Alahayam in His mercy, drove him from among us to this dark earth; for he had become darkness itself and a worker of unrighteousness.¹⁵ And he has continued, O Adam, to make war against you, until he tricked you and made you come out of the garden, to this strange land, where all these trials have come to you. And death, which Alahayam brought to him, he has also brought to you, O Adam, because you obeyed him, and trespassed against Alahayam."¹⁶ Then all the angels rejoiced and praised Alahayam, and asked Him not to destroy Adam this time, for his having sought to enter the garden; but to bear with him until the fulfillment of the promise; and to help him in this world until he was free from Satan's hand.

56 Then came the Word of Alahayam to Adam, and said to him:--² "O Adam, look at that garden of joy and at this earth of toil, and behold the garden is full of angels, but look at yourself alone on this earth with Satan whom you obeyed."³ Yet, if you had submitted, and been obedient to Me, and had kept My Word, you would be with My angels in My garden.⁴ But when you transgressed and obeyed Satan, you became his guests among his angels, that are full of wickedness; and you came to this earth, that brings forth to you thorns and thistles.⁵ O Adam, ask him who deceived you, to give you the divine nature he promised you, or to make you a garden as I had made for you; or to fill you with that same bright nature with which I had filled you.⁶ Ask him to make you a body like the one I made you, or to give you a day of rest as I gave you; or to create within you a reasonable soul, as I created for you; or to take you from here to some other earth than this one which I gave you. But, O Adam, he will not fulfil even one of the things he told you.⁷ Acknowledge, then, My favor towards you, and My mercy on you, My creature; that I have not avenged you for your transgression against Me, but in My pity for you I have promised you that at the end of the great five and a half days I will come and save you."⁸ Then Alahayam said again to Adam and Chawah, "Get up, go down from here, before the cherub with a sword of fire in his hand destroys you."⁹ But Adam's heart was comforted by Alahayam's words to him, and he worshipped before Him.¹⁰ And Alahayam commanded His angels to escort Adam and Chawah to the cave with joy, instead of the fear that had come over them.¹¹ Then the angels took up Adam and Chawah, and brought them down from the mountain by the garden, with songs and psalms, until they arrived at the cave. There the angels began to comfort and to strengthen them, and then departed from them towards heaven, to their Creator, who had sent them.¹² But after the angels had departed from Adam and Chawah, Satan came with shamefacedness, and stood at the entrance of the cave in which were Adam and Chawah. He then called to Adam, and said, "O Adam, come, let me speak to you."¹³ Then Adam came out of the cave, thinking he was one of Alahayam's angels that was come to give him some good counsel.

57 But when Adam came out and saw his hideous figure, he was afraid of him, and said to him, "Who are you?"² Then Satan answered and said to him, "It is I, who hid myself within the serpent, and who spoke to Chawah, and who enticed her until she obeyed my command. I am he who sent her, using my deceitful speech, to deceive you, until you both ate of the fruit of the tree and abandoned the command of Alahayam."³ But when Adam heard these words from him, he said to him, "Can you make me a garden as Alahayam made for me? Or can you clothe me in the same bright nature in which Alahayam had clothed me?"⁴ Where is the divine nature you promised to give me? Where is that slick speech of yours that you had with us at first, when we were in the garden?"⁵ Then Satan said to Adam, "Do you think that when I have promised one something that I would actually deliver it to him or fulfil my word? Of course not. For I myself have never even thought of obtaining what I promised.⁶ Therefore I fell, and I made you fall by that for which I myself fell; and with you also, whosoever accepts my counsel, falls thereby.⁷ But now, O Adam, because you fell you are under my rule, and I am king over you; because you have obeyed me and have transgressed against your Alahayam. Neither will there be any deliverance from my hands until the day promised you by your Alahayam."⁸ Again he said, "Because we do not know the day agreed on with you by your Alahayam, nor the hour in which you shall be delivered, for that reason we will multiply war and murder on you and your descendants after you.⁹ This is our will and our good pleasure, that we may not leave one of the sons of men to inherit our orders in heaven.¹⁰ For as to our home, O Adam, it is in burning fire; and we will not stop our evil doing, no, not one day nor one hour. And I, O Adam, shall set you on fire when you come into the cave to live there."¹¹ When Adam heard these words he cried and mourned, and said to Chawah, "Hear what he said; that he won't fulfil any of what he told you in the garden. Did he really then become king over us?"¹² But we will ask Alahayam, who created us, to deliver us out of his hands."

58 Then Adam and Chawah spread their hands before Alahayam, praying and begging Him to drive Satan away from them so that he can't harm them or force them to deny Alahayam.² Then Alahayam sent to them at once, His angel, who drove away Satan from them. This happened about sunset, on the fifty-third day after they had come out of the garden.³ Then Adam and Chawah went into the cave, and stood up and turned their faces to the ground, to pray to Alahayam.⁴ But before they prayed Adam said to Chawah, "Look, you have seen what temptations have befallen us in this land. Come, let us get up, and ask Alahayam to forgive us the sins we have committed; and we will not come out until the end of the day next to the fortieth. And if we die in here, He will save us."⁵ Then Adam and Chawah got up, and joined together in entreating Alahayam.⁶ They continued praying like this in the cave; neither did they come out of it, by night or by day, until their prayers went up out of their mouths, like a flame of fire.

59 But Satan, the hater of all good, did not allow them to finish their prayers. For he called to his hosts, and they came, all of them. Then he said to them, "Since Adam and Chawah, whom we deceived, have agreed together to pray to Alahayam night and day, and to beg Him to deliver them, and since they will not come out of the cave until the end of the fortieth day.² And since they will continue their prayers as they have both agreed to do, that He will deliver them out of our hands, and restore them to their former state, see what we shall do to them." And his hosts said to him, "Power is your, O our lord, to do what you list."³ Then Satan, great in wickedness, took his hosts and came into the cave, in the thirtieth night of the forty days and one; and he beat Adam and Chawah, until he left them dead.⁴ Then came the Word of Alahayam to Adam and Chawah, who raised them from their suffering, and Alahayam said to Adam, "Be strong, and be not afraid of him who has just come to you."⁵ But Adam cried and said, "Where were you, O my Alahayam, that they should punish me with such blows, and that this suffering should come over us; over me and over Chawah, Your handmaiden?"⁶ Then Alahayam said to him, "O Adam, see, he is lord and master of all you have, he who said, he would give you divinity. Where is this love for you? And where is the gift he promised?"⁷ Did it please him just once, O Adam, to come to you, comfort you, strengthen you, rejoice with you, or send his hosts to protect you; because you have obeyed him, and have yielded to his counsel; and have followed his commandment and transgressed Mine?"⁸ Then Adam cried before the Adanay, and said, "O Adanay because I transgressed a little, You have severely punished me in return for it, I ask You to deliver me out of his hands; or else have pity on me, and take my soul out of my body now in this strange land."⁹ Then Alahayam said to Adam, "If only there had been this sighing and praying before, before you transgressed! Then would you have rest from the trouble in which you are now."¹⁰ But Alahayam had patience with Adam, and let him and Chawah remain in the cave until they had fulfilled the forty days.¹¹ But as to Adam and Chawah, their strength and flesh withered from fasting and praying, from hunger and thirst; for they had not tasted either food or drink since they left the garden; nor were the functions of their bodies yet settled; and they had no strength left to continue in prayer from hunger, until the end of the next day to the fortieth. They were fallen down in the cave; yet what speech escaped from their mouths, was only in praises.

60 Then on the eighty-ninth day, Satan came to the cave, clad in a garment of light, and girt about with a bright girdle.² In his hands was a staff of light, and he looked most awful; but his face was pleasant and his speech was sweet.³ He thus transformed himself in order to deceive Adam and Chawah, and to make them come out of the cave, before they had fulfilled the forty days.⁴ For he said within himself, "Now that when they had fulfilled the forty days' fasting and praying, Alahayam would restore them to their former state; but if He did not do so, He would still be favorable to them; and even if He had not mercy on them, would He yet give them something from the garden to comfort them; as already twice before."⁵ Then Satan drew near the cave in this fair appearance, and said:--⁶ "O Adam, get up, stand up, you and Chawah, and come along with me, to a good land; and don't be afraid. I am flesh and bones like you; and at first I was a creature that Alahayam created.⁷ And it was so, that when He had created me, He placed me in a garden in the north, on the border of the world."⁸ And He said to me, 'Stay here!' And I remained there according to His Word, neither did I transgress His commandment."⁹ Then He made a slumber to come over me, and He brought you, O Adam, out of my side, but did not make you stay with me.¹⁰ But Alahayam took you in His divine hand, and placed you in a garden to the eastward.¹¹ Then I worried about you, for that while Alahayam had taken you out of my side, He had not let you stay with me.¹² But Alahayam said to me: 'Do not worry about Adam, whom I brought out of your side; no harm will come to him.¹³ For now I have brought out of his side a help-meet for him; and I have given him joy by so doing.'¹⁴ Then Satan said again, "I did not know how it is you are in this cave, nor anything about this trial that has come over you--until Alahayam said to me, 'Behold, Adam has transgressed, he whom I had taken out of your side, and Chawah also, whom I took out of his side; and I have driven them out of the garden; I have made them live in a land of sorrow and misery, because they transgressed against Me, and have obeyed Satan. And look, they are in suffering until this day, the eighth.'"¹⁵ Then Alahayam said to me, 'Get up, go to them, and make them come to your place, and suffer not that Satan come near them, and afflict them. For they are now in great misery; and lie helpless from hunger.'¹⁶ He further said to me, 'When you have taken them to yourself, give them to eat of the fruit of the Tree of Life, and give them to drink of the water of peace; and clothe them in a garment of light, and restore them to their former state of grace, and leave them not in misery, for they came from you. But grieve not over them, nor repent of that which has come over them.'¹⁷ But when I heard this, I was sorry; and my heart could not patiently bear it for your sake, O my child.¹⁸ But, O Adam, when I heard the name of Satan, I was afraid, and I said within myself, I will not come out because he might trap me as he did my children, Adam and Chawah.¹⁹ And I said, 'O Alahayam, when I go to my children, Satan will meet me in the way, and war against me, as he did against them.'²⁰ Then Alahayam said to me, 'Fear not; when you find him, hit him with the staff that is in your hand, and don't be afraid of him, for you are of old standing, and he shall not prevail against you.'²¹ Then I said, 'O my Adanay, I am old, and cannot go. Send Your angels to bring them.'²² But Alahayam said to me, 'Angels, truly, are not like them; and they will not consent to come with them. But I have chosen you, because they are your offspring and are like you, and they will listen to what you say.'²³ Alahayam said further to me, 'If you don't have enough strength to walk, I will send a cloud to carry you and set you down at the entrance of their cave; then the cloud will return and leave you there.'²⁴ And if they will come with you, I will send a cloud to carry you and them.'²⁵ Then He commanded a cloud, and it bear me up and brought me to you; and then went back.²⁶ And now, O my children, Adam and Chawah, look at my old gray hair and at my feeble state, and at my coming from that distant place. Come, come with me, to a place of rest."²⁷ Then he began to cry and to sob before Adam and Chawah, and his tears poured on the ground like water.²⁸ And when Adam and Chawah raised their eyes and saw his beard, and heard his sweet talk, their hearts softened towards him; they obeyed him, for they believed he was true.²⁹ And it seemed to them that they were really his offspring, when they saw that his face was like their own; and they trusted him.

61 Then he took Adam and Chawah by the hand, and began to bring them out of the cave.² But when they had come a little ways out of it, Alahayam knew that Satan had overcome them, and had brought them out before the forty days were ended, to take them to some distant place, and to destroy them.³ Then the Word of the Adanay Alahayam again came and cursed Satan, and drove him away from them.⁴ And Alahayam began to speak to Adam and Chawah, saying to them, "What made you come out of the cave, to this place?"⁵ Then Adam said to Alahayam, "Did you create a man before us? For when we were in the cave there suddenly came to us a friendly old man who said to us, 'I am a messenger from Alahayam to you, to bring you back to some place of rest.'⁶ And we believed, O Alahayam, that he was a messenger from you; and we came out with him; and knew not where we should go with him."⁷ Then Alahayam said to Adam, "See, that is the father of evil arts, who brought you and Chawah out of the Garden of Delights. And now, indeed, when he saw that you and Chawah both joined together in fasting and praying, and that you came not out of the cave before the end of the forty days, he wished to make your purpose vain, to break your mutual bond; to cut off all hope from you, and to drive you to some place where he might destroy you.⁸ Because he couldn't do anything to you unless he showed himself in the likeness of you.⁹ Therefore he came to you with a face like your own, and began to give you tokens as if they were all true.¹⁰ But because I am merciful and am favorable to you, I did not allow him to destroy you; instead I drove him away from you.¹¹ Now, therefore, O Adam, take Chawah, and return to your cave, and remain in it until the morning after the fortieth day. And when you come out, go towards the eastern gate of the garden."¹² Then Adam and Chawah worshipped Alahayam, and praised and blessed Him for the deliverance that had come to them from Him. And they returned towards the cave. This happened in the evening of the thirty-ninth day.¹³ Then Adam and Chawah stood up and with a fiery passion, prayed to Alahayam, to give them strength; for they had become weak because of hunger and thirst and prayer. But they watched the whole of that night praying, until morning.¹⁴ Then Adam said to Chawah, "Get up, let us go towards the eastern gate of the garden as Alahayam told us."¹⁵ And they said their prayers as they were accustomed to do every day; and they left the cave to go near to the eastern gate of the garden.¹⁶ Then Adam and Chawah stood up and prayed, and appealed to Alahayam to strengthen them, and to send them something to satisfy their hunger.¹⁷ But after they finished their prayers, they were too weak to move.¹⁸ Then came the Word of Alahayam again, and said to them, "O Adam, get up, go and bring the two figs here."¹⁹ Then Adam and Chawah got up, and went until they came near to the cave.

62 But Satan the wicked was envious, because of the consolation Alahayam had given them.² So he prevented them, and went into the cave and took the two figs, and buried them outside the cave, so that Adam and Chawah should not find them. He also had in his thoughts to destroy them.³ But by Alahayam's mercy, as soon as those two figs were in the ground, Alahayam defeated Satan's counsel regarding them; and made them into two fruit trees, that overshadowed the cave. For Satan had buried them on the eastern side of it.⁴ Then when the two trees were grown, and were covered with fruit, Satan grieved and mourned, and said, "It would have been better to have left those figs where they were; for now, behold, they have become two fruit trees, whereof Adam will eat all the days of his life. Whereas I had in mind, when I buried them, to destroy them entirely, and to hide them forever."⁵ But Alahayam has overturned my counsel; and would not that this sacred fruit should perish; and He has made plain my intention, and has defeated the counsel I had formed against His servants."⁶ Then Satan went away ashamed because he hadn't thought his plans all the way through.

63 But Adam and Chawah, as they got closer to the cave, saw two fig trees, covered with fruit, and overshadowing the cave.² Then Adam said to Chawah, "It seems to me that we have gone the wrong way. When did these two trees grow here? It seems to me that the enemy wishes to lead us the wrong way. Do you suppose that there is another cave besides this one in the earth?"³ Yet, O Chawah, let us go into the cave, and find in it the two figs; for this is our cave, in which we were. But if we should not find the two figs in it, then it cannot be our cave."⁴ They went then into the cave, and looked into the four corners of it, but found not the two figs.⁵ And Adam cried and said to Chawah, "Did we go to the wrong cave, then, O Chawah? It seems to me these two fig trees are the two figs that were in the cave." And Chawah said, "I, for my part, do not know."⁶ Then Adam stood up and prayed and said, "O Alahayam, You commanded us to come back to the cave, to take the two figs, and then to return to you."⁷ But now, we have not found them. O Alahayam, have you taken them, and sown these two trees, or have we gone astray in the earth; or has the enemy deceived us? If it be real, then, O Alahayam, reveal to us the secret of these two trees and of the two figs."⁸ Then came the Word of Alahayam to Adam, and said to him, "O Adam, when I sent you to fetch the figs, Satan went before you to the cave, took the figs, and buried them outside, eastward of the cave, thinking to destroy them; and not sowing them with good intent.⁹ Not for his mere sake, then, have these trees grown up at once; but I had mercy on you and I commanded them to grow. And they grew to be two large trees, that you be overshadowed by their branches, and find rest; and that I made you see My power and My marvelous works.¹⁰ And, also, to show you Satan's meanness, and his evil works, for ever since you came out of the garden, he has not ceased, no, not one day, from doing you some harm. But I have not given him power over you."

¹¹ And Alahayam said, "From now on, O Adam, rejoice on account of the trees, you and Chawah; and rest under them when you feel weary. But do not eat any of their fruit or come near them."¹² Then Adam cried, and said, "O Alahayam, will You again kill us, or will You drive us away from before Your face, and cut our life from off the face of the earth?"¹³ O Alahayam, I beg you, if You know that there be in these trees either death or some other evil, as at the first time, root them up from near our cave, and with them; and leave us to die of the heat, of hunger and of thirst.¹⁴ For we know Your marvelous works, O Alahayam, that they are great, and that by Your power You can bring one thing out of another, without one's wish. For Your power can make rocks to become trees, and trees to become rocks."

64 Then Alahayam looked at Adam and at his strength of mind, at his endurance of hunger and thirst, and of the heat. And He changed the two fig trees into two figs, as they were at first, and then said to Adam and to Chawah, "Each of you may take one fig." And they took them, as the Adanay commanded them.² And He said to them, "You must now go into the cave and eat the figs, and satisfy your hunger, or else you will die."³ So, as Alahayam commanded them, they went into the cave about sunset. And Adam and Chawah stood up and prayed during the setting sun.⁴ Then they sat down to eat the figs; but they knew not how to eat them; for they were not accustomed to eat earthly food. They were afraid that if they ate, their stomach would be burdened and their flesh thickened, and their hearts would take to liking earthly food.⁵ But while they were thus seated, Alahayam, out of pity for them, sent them His angel, so they wouldn't perish of hunger and thirst.⁶ And the angel said to Adam and Chawah, "Alahayam says to you that you do not have the strength that would be required to fast until death; eat, therefore, and strengthen your bodies; for you are now animal flesh and cannot subsist without food and drink."⁷ Then Adam and Chawah took the figs and began to eat of them. But Alahayam had put into them a mixture as of savory bread and blood.⁸ Then the angel went from Adam and Chawah, who ate of the figs until they had satisfied their hunger. Then they put aside what was left; but by the power of Alahayam, the figs became whole again, because Alahayam blessed them.⁹ After this Adam and Chawah got up, and prayed with a joyful heart and renewed strength, and praised and rejoiced abundantly the whole of that night. And this was the end of the eighty-third day.

65 And when it was day, they got up and prayed, after their custom, and then went out of the cave.² But they became sick from the food they had eaten because they were not used to it, so they went about in the cave saying to each other:--³ "What has our eating caused to happen to us, that we should be in such pain? We are in misery, we shall die! It would have been better for us to have died keeping our bodies pure than to have eaten and defiled them with food."⁴ Then Adam said to Chawah, "This pain did not come to us in the garden, neither did we eat such bad food there. Do you think, O Chawah, that Alahayam will plague us through the food that is in us, or that our innards will come out; or that Alahayam means to kill us with this pain before He has fulfilled His promise to us?"⁵ Then Adam besought the Adanay and said, "O Adanay, let us not perish through the food we have eaten. O Adanay, don't punish us; but deal with us according to Your great mercy, and forsake us not until the day of the promise You have made us."

⁶ Then Alahayam looked at them, and then fitted them for eating food at once; as to this day; so that they should not perish.⁷ Then

Adam and Chawah came back into the cave sorrowful and crying because of the alteration of their bodies. And they both knew from that hour that they were altered beings, that all hope of returning to the garden was now lost; and that they could not enter it.⁸ For that now their bodies had strange functions; and all flesh that requires food and drink for its existence, cannot be in the garden.⁹ Then Adam said to Chawah, "Behold, our hope is now lost; and so is our trust to enter the garden. We no longer belong to the inhabitants of the garden; but from now on we are earthy and of the dust, and of the inhabitants of the earth. We shall not return to the garden, until the day in which Alahayam has promised to save us, and to bring us again into the garden, as He promised us."¹⁰ Then they prayed to Alahayam that He would have mercy on them; after which, their mind was quieted, their hearts were broken, and their longing was cooled down; and they were like strangers on earth. That night Adam and Chawah spent in the cave, where they slept heavily by reason of the food they had eaten.

66 When it was morning, the day after they had eaten food, Adam and Chawah prayed in the cave, and Adam said to Chawah, "Look, we asked for food of Alahayam, and He gave it. But now let us also ask Him to give us a drink of water."² Then they got up, and went to the bank of the stream of water, that was on the south border of the garden, in which they had before thrown themselves. And they stood on the bank, and prayed to Alahayam that He would command them to drink of the water.³ Then the Word of Alahayam came to Adam, and said to him, "O Adam, your body has become brutish, and requires water to drink. Take some and drink it, you and Chawah, then give thanks and praise."⁴ Adam and Chawah then went down to the stream and drank from it, until their bodies felt refreshed. After having drunk, they praised Alahayam, and then returned to their cave, after their former custom. This happened at the end of eighty-three days.⁵ Then on the eighty-fourth day, they took the two figs and hung them in the cave, together with the leaves thereof, to be to them a sign and a blessing from Alahayam. And they placed them there so that if their descendants came there, they would see the wonderful things Alahayam had done for them.⁶ Then Adam and Chawah again stood outside the cave, and asked Alahayam to show them some food with which they could nourish their bodies.⁷ Then the Word of Alahayam came and said to him, "O Adam, go down to the westward of the cave until you come to a land of dark soil, and there you shall find food."⁸ And Adam obeyed the Word of Alahayam, took Chawah, and went down to a land of dark soil, and found there wheat growing in the ear and ripe, and figs to eat; and Adam rejoiced over it.⁹ Then the Word of Alahayam came again to Adam, and said to him, "Take some of this wheat and make yourselves some bread with it, to nourish your body therewith." And Alahayam gave Adam's heart wisdom, to work out the corn until it became bread.¹⁰ Adam accomplished all that, until he grew very faint and weary. He then returned to the cave; rejoicing at what he had learned of what is done with wheat, until it is made into bread for one's use.

67 When Adam and Chawah went down to the land of black mud and came near to the wheat Alahayam had showed them and saw that it was ripe and ready for reaping, they did not have a sickle to reap it with. So they readied themselves, and began to pull up the wheat by hand, until it was all done.² Then they heaped it into a pile; and, faint from heat and from thirst, they went under a shady tree, where the breeze fanned them to sleep.³ But Satan saw what Adam and Chawah had done. And he called his hosts, and said to them, "Since Alahayam has shown to Adam and Chawah all about this wheat, wherewith to strengthen their bodies--and, look, they have come and made a big pile of it, and faint from the toil are now asleep--come, let us set fire to this heap of corn, and burn it, and let us take that bottle of water that is by them, and empty it out, so that they may find nothing to drink, and we kill them with hunger and thirst."⁴ Then, when they wake up from their sleep, and seek to return to the cave, we will come to them in the way, and will lead them astray; so that they die of hunger and thirst; when they may, perhaps, deny Alahayam, and He destroy them. So shall we be rid
